21 ¶ [5] In that hour Jesus rejoyced in spirit, and said, I thank thee, O Father, Lord of heaven and earth, that thou hast hid these things from the [h] wise and prudent, and hast revealed them unto babes: even so Father, for so it seemed good in thy sight.

5 The church is contemptible, if we behold the outward face of it, but the wisdom of God is not so marvellous in any thing, as in it.

22 ‡ [6] All things are delivered to me of my Father: and no man knoweth who the Son is, but the Father; and who the Father is, but the Son, and he to whom the Son will reveal him.

‡ Many ancient copies adde these words, And turning to his disciples, he said.

6 whosoever seeketh the Father without the Son, wandreth out of the way.

23 ¶ [7] And he turned him unto his disciples, and said privately, * Blessed are the eyes which see the things that ye see.

7 The difference of the old testament and the new, consisteth in the measure of revelation.

* Mat. 13. 16.

24 For I tell you, that many prophets and kings have desired to see those things which ye see, and have not seen them; and to hear those things which ye hear, and have not heard them.

25 ¶ [8] And behold, [i] a certain lawyer stood up, and tempted him, saying, * Master, what shall I do to inherit eternal life?

8 Faith doth not take away, but establisheth the doctrin of the law.

i One of them, that professed himself to be learned in the rites and laws of Moses.

* Mat. 22. 35.

26 He said unto him, What is written in the law? how readest thou?

27 And he answering said, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbour as thy self.

28 And he said unto him, Thou hast answered right: this do, and thou shalt live.

9 All they are comprehended in the name of our neighbour, by the law, whomsoever we may help.

29 [9] But he willing to [k] justify himself, said unto Jesus, And who is my neighbour?

k That is, To vouch his righteousnesse, or shew that he was just, that is, Vnderstood in this sense.

30 And Jesus answering, said, A certain man went down from Jerusalem to Jericho, and fell among theeves, which stripped him of of all faults: and James 5, useth the word of justification in this sense.

his raiment, and wounded him, and departed, leaving him half-dead.

31 And by chance there came down a certain prieſt that way, and when he ſaw him, he paſſed by on the other ſide.

32 And likewiſe a Levite, when he was at the place, came and looked on him, and paſſed by on the other ſide.

33 But a certain Samaritan, as he journeyed, came where he was: and when he ſaw him, he had compaſſion on him.

34 And went to him, and bound up his wounds, pouring in oyl and wine, and ſet him on his own beaſt, and brought him to an inn, and took care of him.

35 And on the morrow when he departed, he took out two ‡ pence, and gave them to the hoſt, and ſaid unto him, Take care of him, and whatſoever thou ſpendeſt more, when I come again I will repay thee.

‡ See Mat. 20 2.

36 Which now of theſe three, thinkeſt thou, was neighbour unto him that fell among the theeves?

37 And he ſaid, He that ſhewed mercy on him. Then ſaid Jeſus unto him, Go, and do thou likewiſe.

10 Chriſt careth not to be entertained delicately, but to be heard diligently, that is it, which he eſpecially requireth.

38 ¶ [10] Now it came to paſs, as they went, that he entred into a certain village: and a certain woman named Martha, received him into her houſe.

39 And ſhe had a ſiſter called Mary, which alſo ſat at Jeſus feet, and heard his word.

40 But Martha was cumbred about much ſerving, and came to him, and ſaid, Lord, doſt thou not care that my ſiſter hath left me to ſerve alone? bid her therefore that ſhe help me.

41 And Jeſus anſwered, and ſaid unto her, Martha, Martha, thou art carefull, and troubled about many things:

42 But one thing is needfull, and Mary hath choſen that good part, which ſhall not be taken away from her.

Chap. XI.

1 Chriſt teacheth to pray, and that inſtantly: 11 aſſuring that God ſo will give us good things. 14 He caſting out a dumb devil, rebuketh the blaſphemous Phariſees: 28 and ſheweth who are bleſſed: 29 preacheth to the people: 37 and reprehendeth the outward ſhew of holineſs in the Phariſees, Scribes, and lawyers.

AND it came to paſs, that as he was praying in a certain place, when he ceaſed, one of his diſciples ſaid unto him, Lord, teach us to pray, as John alſo taught his diſciples.

2 And he ſaid unto them, When ye pray, ſay, * [1] Our Father which art in heaven, Hallowed be thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done, as in heaven, ſo in earth.

* Mat. 6. 9.
1 A pattern of true prayer.

3 Give us ‡ day by day our [a] daily bread.

‡ Or, For the day.
a That is, As much as is needfull for us this day, whereby we are not debarred to have an honeſt care for the maintenance of our lives, but that carking care, which killeth a number of men, is cut off and reſtained.

4 And forgive us our ſins; for we alſo forgive every one that is indebted to us. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil.

5 [2] And he ſaid unto them, Which of you ſhall have a friend, and ſhall go unto him at midnight, and ſay unto him, Friend, lend me three loavs;

2 we muſt pray with faith.

6 For a friend of mine ‡ in his journy is come to me, and I have nothing to ſet before him:

‡ Or, Out of his way.

7 And he from within ſhall anſwer and ſay, Trouble me not, the door is now ſhut, and my children are with me in bed; I cannot riſe and give thee.

8 I ſay unto you, Though he will not riſe, and give him, becauſe he is his friend: yet becauſe of his [b] importunity, he will riſe and give him as many as he needeth.

b Word for word, Impudency: but that impudency which is ſpoken of here, is not to be found fault withall, but is very commendable before God, for he liketh well of ſuch importunity.

9 * And I ſay unto you. Aſk, and it ſhall be given you: ſeek, and ye ſhall find: knock, and it ſhall be opened unto you.

* Mat. 7. 7.

10 For every one that aſketh, receiveth: and he that ſeeketh, findeth: and to him that knocketh, it ſhall be opened.

11 * If a ſon ſhall aſk bread of any of you that is a father, will he give him a ſtone? or if he aſk a fiſh, will he for a fiſh give him a ſerpent?

* Mat. 7. 9.

12 Or if he ſhall aſk an egg, will he offer him a ſcorpion?

13 If ye then, being evil, know how to give good gifts unto your children: how much more ſhall your heavenly Father give the holy Spirit to them that aſk him?

14 ¶ And he was caſting out a devil, and it was dumb. And it came to paſs, when the devil was gone out, the dumb ſpake: and the people wondered.

15 [3] But ſome of them ſaid, * He caſteth out devils through Beelzebub, the chief of the devils.

3 An example of horrible blindneſs, and ſuch as cannot be healed, when as upon an evil conſcience, and pretended malice, the power of God is blaſphemed.
* Mat. 9. 34. & 12 24.

16 And others tempting him, ſought of him a ſign from heaven.

17 [4] But he knowing their thoughts, ſaid unto them, Every kingdom divided againſt it ſelf, is brought to deſolation: and a houſe divided againſt a houſe, falleth.

4 The true way to know the true Chriſt from the falſe, is this, That the true Chriſt hath no accord or agreement with Satan. And it remaineth, that after we know him, we acknowledge him.

18 If Satan alſo be divided againſt himſelf, how ſhall his kingdom ſtand? becauſe ye ſay that I caſt out devils [c] through Beelzebub.

c By the name and power of Beelzebub.

19 And if I by Beelzebub caſt out devils, by whom do your ſons caſt them out? therefore ſhall they be your judges.

20 But if I with the [d] finger of God caſt out devils, no doubt the kingdom of God is come upon you.

d That is, By the power of God: ſo it is ſaid, Exod. 8. 19.

21 When a ſtrong man armed keepeth his [e] palace, his goods are in peace.

e The word ſignifieth properly an open and void room before an houſe, and ſo by tranſlation is taken for Noble mens houſes.

22 But when a ſtronger then he ſhall come upon him, and overcome him, he taketh from him all his armour wherein he truſted, and divideth his ſpoils.

23 [5] He that is not with me, is againſt me: and he that gathereth not with me, ſcattereth.

5 Againſt indifferent men, and ſuch as love to have a mean, which ſeek means to reconcile Chriſt and Satan together.

24 * [6] When the unclean ſpirit is gone out of a man, he walketh through dry places, ſeeking reſt: and finding none, he ſaith, I will return unto my houſe whence I came out.

* Mat. 12. 43.
6 He that doth not continue, is in worſe caſe, then he that never begun.

25 And when he cometh, he findeth it ſwept and garniſhed.

26 Then goeth he, and taketh to him ſeven other ſpirits more wicked then himſelf, and they enter in, and dwell there, and the laſt ſtate of that man is worſe then the firſt.

27 ¶ [7] And

7 Chriſt ſeeketh not praiſe in himſelf, but in our ſalvation.

27 ¶ [7] And it came to paſs as he ſpake theſe things, a certain woman of the company lift up her voice, and ſaid unto him, Bleſſed is the womb that bare thee, and the paps which thou haſt ſucked.

28 But he ſaid, Yea, rather bleſſed are they that hear the word of God and keep it.

* Mat. 12. 38.

8 They that are fond deſirers of miracles, in ſtead of miracles, ſhall receive puniſhment.

29 ¶ * [8] And when the people were gathered thick together, he began to ſay, This is an evil generation, they ſeek a ſign, and there ſhall no ſign be given it, but the ſign of Jonas the prophet.

30 For as Jonas was a ſign unto the Ninevites, ſo ſhall alſo the Son of man be to this generation.

31 The queen of the ſouth ſhall riſe up in the judgment with the men of this generation, and condemn them: for ſhe came from the utmoſt parts of the earth, to hear the wiſdom of Solomon; and behold, a greater then Solomon is here.

32 The men of Nineve ſhall riſe up in the jugdment with this generation, and ſhall condemn it: for they repented at the preaching of Jonas; & behold, a greater then Jonas is here.

* Mat. 5. 15.

9 Our minds are therefore lightned with the knowledge of God, that we ſhould give light unto others, and therefore our chieſeſt labour ought to be to pray for that light.

‡ See Mat. 5. 15.

* Mat. 6. 22.

33 * [9] No man when he hath lighted a candle, putteth it in a ſecret place, neither under a ‡ buſhel; but on a candleſtick, that they which come in may ſee the light.

34 * The light of the body is the eye: therefore when thine eye is ſingle, thy whole body alſo is full of light: but when thine eye is evil, thy body alſo is full of darkneſs.

35 Take heed therefore, that the light which is in thee be not darkneſs.

36 If thy whole body therefore be full of light, having no part dark, the whole ſhall be full of light, as when the bright ſhining of a candle doth give thee light.

10 The ſervice of God conſiſteth not in outward cleanlineſs, and deviſed rites, or ceremonies, but in the ſpiritual righteouſneſs of the heart and chatity.

* Mat. 23. 25.

37 ¶ [10] And as he ſpake, a certain Phariſee beſought him to dine with him; and he went in and ſat down to meat.

38 And when the Phariſee ſaw it, he marvelled that he had not firſt waſhed before dinner.

39 * And the Lord ſaid unto him, Now do ye Phariſees make clean the out ſide of the cup and the platter: but your inward part is full of ravening and wickedneſs.

40 Ye fools, did not he that made that which is without, make that which is within alſo?

† That is, according to your ability: as who would ſay, in ſtead of your extortions, which hindered you, that you could not eat cleanly, uſe charity, and accordingly as your ability ſhall ſerve you, be good to the poor, and ſo ſhall that, that is, within the platter, be ſanctified, though the platter be unwaſhed.

41 But rather † give alms ‡ of ſuch things as you have: and behold, all things are clean unto you.

42 [11] But wo unto you, Phariſees: for ye g tithe mint and rue and h all manner of herbs, and paſs-over i judgment and the love of God: theſe ought ye to have done, and not to leave the other undone.

43 * [12] Wo unto you Phariſees: for ye love the uppermoſt ſeats in the ſynagogues, and greetings in the markets.

11 It is the property of hypocrites, to ſtand ſtoutly for little trifles, and let paſs greater matters. g You decide by Gods law, that the tenth part is due to be paid h Of all kinds of herbs ſome, as Auguſtine expoundeth it in his Enchiridion to Laurence, cap. 99, where he ſheweth, in like ſort, how that place of Paul, 1 Tim. 2. 4, God will have all men to be ſaved, is to be expounded after the ſame manner. i That is to ſay, That, that is right and reaſon to do: for this word judgment, containeth the commandments of the ſecond table and the other words, the love of God containeth the firſt. * Mat. 2. 36. 12 Hypocriſy and ambition are commonly joyned together.

44 [13] Wo unto you Scribes and Phariſees, hypocrites: for ye are as graves which appear not, and the men that walk over them, are not aware of them.

13 Hypocrites deceive men with an outward ſhew.

45 ¶ [14] Then anſwered one of the lawyers, and ſaid unto him, Maſter, thus ſaying, thou reproacheſt us alſo.

14 Hypocrites are very ſevere againſt other men, but think all things lawfull to themſelves.

46 * And he ſaid, Wo unto you alſo ye lawyers: for ye lade men with burdens grievous to be born, and ye your ſelves touch not the burdens with one of your fingers.

* Mat. 23. 4.

47 * [15] Wo unto you: for ye build the ſepulchres of the prophets, and your fathers killed them.

* Mat. 23. 29.

15 Hypocrites honour thoſe ſaints when they are dead, whom they moſt cruelly perſecute, when they are alive.

28 Truly ye k bear witneſs that ye allow the deeds of your fathers: for they indeed killed them, and ye build their ſepulchres.

k when you perſecute Gods ſervants, like mad men, even as your fathers did, though you colour it with a pretence of godlineſs, yet notwithſtanding, in that you beautify the ſepulchres of the prophets, what do you elſe but glory in your fathers cruelty, and ſet up monuments (as it were) in glory and triumph of it.

49 Therefore alſo ſaid the wiſdom of God, I will ſend them prophets and apoſtles, and ſome of them they ſhall l ſlay and perſecute:

l They ſhall ſo vex them and trouble them, that at length they ſhall banniſh them.

50 That the bloud of all the prophets, which was m ſhed from the foundation of the world, may be required of this generation:

m That you may be called to an account for it, yea, and be punished for the ſhedding of that bloud of the prophets.

51 * From the bloud of Abel unto the bloud of Zacharias, which periſhed between the altar and the temple: verily I ſay unto you, it ſhall be required of this generation.

* Gen. 4. 8.

* Mat. 23. 35.

52 * [16] Wo unto you lawyers: for ye have n taken away the key of knowledge: ye entred not in your ſelves, and them that were entring in, ye ‡ hindred.

16 They have of long time chiefly hindered the people from entring into the knowledge of God, which ought to be the door keepers of the church. n You have hidden and taken away, ſo that it cannot be found any where.

53 [17] And as he ſaid theſe things unto them, the Scribes and the Phariſees began to urge him vehemently, and to o provoke him to ſpeak of many things:

17 The more the world is reprehended, the worſe it is, and yet muſt we not betray the truth.

54 Laying wait for him, and ſeeking to catch ſomething out of his mouth, that they might accuſe him.

o They propoſed many queſtions to him, to draw ſomething out of his mouth, which they might craftily carp at.

Chap. XII.

1 Chriſt preacheth to his diſciples to avoid hypocriſy and fearfulneſs in publiſhing his doctrine: 13 warneth the people to beware of covetouſneſs, by the parable of the richman who ſet up greater barns. 22 We muſt not be over-carefull of earthly things, 31 but ſeek the kingdom of God, 33 give alms. 36 be ready at a knock to open to our Lord whenſoever he cometh. 41 Chriſts miniſters are to ſee to their charge, 49 and look for perſecution. 54 The people muſt take this time of grace, 58 becauſe it is a fearfull thing to die without reconciliation.

* Mat. 16. 6.

IN * [1] the mean time, when there were gathered together an p innumerable multitude of people, inſomuch that they trode one upon another, he began to ſay unto his diſciples firſt of all, Beware ye of the leaven of the Phariſees, which is hypocriſy.

1 The faithful teachers of Gods word, which are appointed by him for his people, muſt both take good heed of them, which corrupt the pure of doctrine with goodly gloſſes, & alſo take pains, through the help of God, to ſet forth ſincere doctrine, openly without fear.

2 * For there is nothing covered, that ſhall not be revealed; neither hid, that ſhall not be known.

p Word for word, Tenthouſands of people, a certain number for an uncertain.

* Mat. 10. 26.

3 Therefore whatſoever ye have ſpoken in darkneſs, ſhall be heard in the light: and that which ye have ſpoken in the eare in cloſets, ſhall be proclaimed upon the houſe tops.

4 * [2] And

4 * [2] And I ſay unto you my friends, Be not afraid of them that kill the body, and after that, have no more that they can do.

5 But I will [b] forwarn you whom you ſhall fear: Fear him, which after he hath killed, hath power to caſt into hell: yea, I ſay unto you, Fear him.

6 Are not five ſparrows ſold for two * farthings, and not one of them is forgotten before God?

7 But even the very hairs of your head are all numbred. Fear not therefore, ye are of more value then many ſparrows.

8 * [3] Alſo I ſay unto you, Whoſoever ſhall confeſs me before men, him ſhall the Son of man alſo confeſs before the angels of God.

9 But he that denieth me before men, ſhall be denied before the angels of God.

10 And whoſoever ſhall ſpeak a word againſt the Son of man, it ſhall be forgiven him: but unto him that blaſphemeth againſt the holy Ghoſt, it ſhall not be forgiven.

11 [4] And when they bring you unto the ſynagogues, and unto magiſtrates, and powers, take ye no thought how or what thing ye ſhall anſwer, or what ye ſhall ſay:

12 For the holy Ghoſt ſhall teach you in the ſame hour what ye ought to ſay.

13 ¶ [5] And one of the company ſaid unto him, Maſter, ſpeak to my brother, that he divide the inheritance with me.

14 And he ſaid unto him, Man, who made me a judge, or a divider over you?

15 And he ſaid unto them, Take heed, and beware of [c] covetouſneſs: for a mans life [d] conſiſteth not in the abundance of the things which he poſſeſſeth.

16 [6] And he ſpake a parable unto them, ſaying, The [e] ground of a certain rich man brought forth plentifully.

17 And he [f] thought within himſelf, ſaying, What ſhall I do, becauſe I have no room where to beſtow my fruits?

18 And he ſaid, This will I do, I will pull down my barns, and build greater, and there will I beſtow all my fruits, and my goods.

19 And I will ſay to my ſoul, Soul, thou haſt much goods laid up for many years, take thine eaſe, eat, drink, and [g] be merry.

20 But God ſaid unto him, Thou fool, this night ‡ thy ſoul ſhall be required of thee: then whoſe ſhall thoſe things be which thou haſt provided?

21 So is he that layeth up treaſure [h] for himſelf, and is not rich towards God.

22 ¶ [7] And he ſaid unto his diſciples, Therefore I ſay unto you, * Take no thought for your life, what ye ſhall eat, neither for the body what ye ſhall put on.

23 The life is more then meat, and the body is more then raiment.

24 Conſider the ravens, for they neither ſow nor reap, which neither have ſtorehouſe nor barn, and God feedeth them. How much more are ye better then the fowls?

25 And which of you with taking thought can adde to his ſtature one cubit?

26 If ye then be not able to do that thing which is leaſt, why take ye thought for the reſt?

27 Conſider the lilies how they grow, they toyl not, they ſpin not: and yet I ſay unto you, that Solomon in all his glory, was not arayed like one of theſe.

28 If then God ſo clothe the graſs, which is to day in the field, and to morrow is caſt into the oven: how much more will he clothe you, O ye of little faith?

29 And ſeek not ye what ye ſhall eat, or what ye ſhall drink, ‡ neither be ye of [i] doubtfull mind.

30 For all theſe things do the nations of the world ſeek after: and your Father knoweth that ye have need of theſe things.

31 ¶ [8] But rather ſeek ye the kingdom of God, and all theſe things ſhall be added unto you.

32 [9] Fear not, little flock; for it is your Fathers good pleaſure to give you the kingdom.

33 [10] Sell that ye have, and [k] give almes * provide your ſelves bags which wax not old, a treaſure in the heavens that faileth not, where no thief approcheth, neither moth corrupteth.

34 For where your treaſure is, there will your heart be alſo.

35 * [11] Let your loyns be girded about, and your lights burning,

36 And ye your ſelves like unto men that wait for their Lord, when he will return from the wedding, that when he cometh & knocketh, they may open unto him immediately.

37 Bleſſed are thoſe ſervants, whom the Lord when he cometh ſhall finde watching: verily, I ſay unto you, that he ſhall gird himſelf, and make them to ſit down to meat, and will come forth and ſerve them.

38 And if he ſhall come in the ſecond watch, or come in the third watch, and find them ſo, bleſſed are thoſe ſervants.

39 * And this know, that if the good man of the houſe had known what hour the thief would come, he would have watched, and not have ſuffered his houſe to be broken through.

40 [12] Be ye therefore ready alſo: for the Son of man cometh at an hour when ye think not.

41 ¶ Then Peter ſaid unto him, Lord, ſpeakeſt thou this parable unto us, or even to all?

42 And the Lord ſaid, Who then is that faithfull and wiſe ſteward, whom his lord ſhall make ruler over his houſhold, to give them their [l] portion of meat in due ſeaſon?

43 Bleſſed is that ſervant whom his lord when he cometh ſhall finde ſo doing.

44 Of a truth I ſay unto you, that he will make him ruler over all that he hath.

45 But and if that ſervant ſay in his heart, My lord delayeth his coming, and ſhall begin

CHAP. XIII.

1 Christ preacheth repentance upon the punishment of the Galileans, and others. 6 The fruitless fig-tree may not stand. 11 He healeth the crooked woman: 18 sheweth the powerfull working of the word in the hearts of his chosen, by the parable of the grain of mustard-seed, and of leaven: 24 exhorteth to enter in at the strait gate: 31 and reproveth Herod and Jerusalem.

1 we must not rejoyce at the just punishment of others, but rather be instructed thereby to repentance.

THere [1] were present at that season, some that told him of the Galileans, whose bloud [a] Pilate had mingled with their sacrifice.

a Pontius Pilatus was governour of Judea almost ten years, and about the fourth year of his government, which might be about the fifteenth year of Tiberius reign, Christ finished the work of our redemption by his death.

2 And Jesus answering, said unto them, Suppose ye that these Galileans were sinners above all the Galileans; because they suffered such things?

3 I tell you, Nay: but except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish.

4 Or those eighteen, upon whom the tower in [b] Siloam fell, and slew them, think ye that they were sinners above all men that dwelt in Jerusalem?

b To wit, in the place, or river, for Siloam was a small river, from whence the conduits of the city came, whereof John 9. 7. & Isa. 8 6. and therefore it was a tower or castle, built upon the conduit side, which fell down suddenly and killed some.

5 I tell you, Nay: but except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish.

6 ¶ [2] He spake also this parable: A certain man had a fig-tree planted in his vineyard, and he came and sought fruit thereon, and found none.

2 Great and long suffering is the patience of God, but yet so that at length he executeth judgment.

7 Then said he unto the dresser of his vineyard, Behold, these three years I come seeking fruit on this fig-tree, and find none: cut it down, why [c] cumbreth it the ground?

c Maketh the ground barren in that part which otherwise were good for vines.

8 And he answering, said unto him, Lord, let it alone this year also, till I shall dig about it, and dung it.

9 And if it bear fruit, well: and if not, then after that thou shalt cut it down.

10 [3] And he was teaching in one of the synagogues on the sabbath.

3 Christ came to deliver us from the bands of Satan.

11 ¶ And behold, there was a woman which had a [d] spirit of infirmity eighteen years, and was bowed together, and could in no wise lift up her self.

d Troubled with a disease which Satan brought.

12 And when Jesus saw her, he called her to him, and said unto her, Woman, thou art [e] loosed from thine infirmity.

e For Satan had the woman bound, as if she had been in chains, in so much that for eighteen years space, she could not hold up her head.

13 And he laid his hands on her, and immediately she was made straight, and glorified God.

14 [4] And the [f] ruler of the synagogue answered with indignation, because that Jesus had healed on the sabbath-day, and said unto the people, There are six days in which men ought to work: in them therefore come and be healed, and not on the sabbath-day.

4 A lively image of hypocrisy, and reward thereof.

f One of the rulers of the synagogue, for it appeareth by Mark 5. 22. & Act. 13. 15. that there were many rulers of the synagogue.

15 The Lord then answered him, and said, Thou hypocrite, doth not each one of you on the sabbath loose his ox or his ass from the stall, and lead him away to watering?

16 And ought not this woman, being a daughter of Abraham, whom Satan hath bound, lo these eighteen years, be loosed from this bond on the sabbath-day?

17 And when he had said these things, all his adversaries were ashamed: and all the people rejoyced for all the glorious things that were done by him.

18 ¶ * Then said he, Unto what is the kingdom of God like? and whereunto shall I resemble it?

* Mat. 13. 31.

19 [5] It is like a grain of mustard-seed, which a man took, and cast into his garden, and it grew, and waxed a great tree: and the fowls of the aire lodged in the branches of it.

5 God beginneth his kingdom with small beginnings, that the unlooked for proceeding of it may better set forth his power.

20 And again he said, Whereunto shall I liken the kingdom of God?

21 It

21 It is like leaven, which a woman took and hid in three * meaſures of meal, till the whole was leavened.

* See Mat. 13.33.

22 * [6] And he went through the cities and villages, teaching and journeying towards Jeruſalem.

* Mat. 9.35.
6 Againſt them which had rather erre with many, then go right with a few, and by that means through their own ſlowneſs, are ſhut out of the kingdom of God.
* Mat. 7.13.

23 Then ſaid one unto him, Lord, are there few that be ſaved? And he ſaid unto them.

24 ¶ * Strive to enter in at the ſtrait gate: for many, I ſay unto you, will ſeek to enter in, and ſhall not be able.

25 When once the maſter of the houſe is riſen up, and hath ſhut to the door, and ye begin to ſtand without, and to knock at the door, ſaying, Lord, Lord, open unto us; and he ſhall anſwer and ſay unto you, I know you not whence you are:

7 He is in vain in the church, which is not of the church, which thing the cleanneſs of life ſheweth.
* Mat. 7.23.

26 [7] Then ſhall ye begin to ſay, We have eaten and drunk in thy preſence, and thou haſt taught in our ſtreets.

27 * But he ſhall ſay, I tell you, I know you not whence you are, depart from me all ye workers of iniquity.

28 [8] There ſhall be weeping and gnaſhing of teeth, when ye ſhall ſee Abraham, and Iſaac, and Jacob, and all the Prophets in the kingdom of God, and you your ſelves thruſt out.

8 The caſting off of the Jews, and the calling of the Gentiles is foretold.

29 And they ſhall come from the [g] eaſt, and from the weſt, and from the north, and from the ſouth, and ſhall ſit down in the kingdom of God.

g From all the quarters of the world, and theſe are four of the chiefeſt.

30 * And behold, there are laſt which ſhall be firſt, and there are firſt which ſhall be laſt.

* Mat. 19.30.

31 ¶ [9] The ſame day there came certain of the Phariſees, ſaying unto him, Get thee out, and depart hence: for Herod will kill thee.

9 we muſt go forward in the caſe of our calling, though the midſt of terrours, whether they be true or feigned.

32 And he ſaid unto them, Go ye and tell that [h] fox, Behold, I caſt out devils, and I do cures to [i] day and to morrow, and the third day I ſhall be [k] perfected.

h That deceitfull and treacherous man.
i That is, A ſmall time, and Theophylact ſaith, it is a proverb: or elſe, by To day, we may underſtand The time that now is, and by To morrow, The time to come; meaning thereby, All the time of his miniſtry and office.
k To wit, when the ſacrifice for ſin is ended.

33 [10] Nevertheleſs I muſt walk to day and to morrow, and the day following: for it cannot be that a prophet periſh out of Jeruſalem.

10 There are no where more cruel enemies of the godly, then they which are within the ſanctuary, and church it ſelf: but God ſeeth it, and will in his time have an account of it.

34 * O Jeruſalem, Jeruſalem, which killeſt the prophets, and ſtoneſt them that are ſent unto thee: how often would I have gathered thy children together, as a hen doth gather her [l] brood under her wings, and ye would not?

* Mat. 23.37.
l Word for word, The neſt: now the brood of chickens is the neſt.

35 Behold, your houſe is left unto you deſolate: And verily I ſay unto you, ye ſhall not ſee me, until the time come when ye ſhall ſay, Bleſſed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord.

3 Againſt them which laviſh out their goods either ambitiouſly, or for hope of recompence, where as Chriſtian charity reſpecteth onely the glory of God, and the profit of our neighbour.

13 But when thou makeſt a feaſt, call * the poor, the maimed, the lame, the blind:

53 The father ſhall be divided againſt the ſon, and the ſon againſt the father: the mother againſt the daughter, and the daughter againſt the mother: the mother in law againſt her daughter in law, and the daughter in law againſt her mother in law.

14 Men which are very quick of ſight in earthly things, are blind in thoſe things which pertain to the heavenly life, and that through their own malice.

54 ¶ [14] And he ſaid alſo to the people, * When ye ſee a cloud riſe out of the [n] weſt, ſtraightway ye ſay, There cometh a ſhower, and ſo it is.

* Mat. 16 2.

n which appeareth, and gathereth it ſelf together in that part of the aire.

55 And when ye ſee the ſouth-wind blow, ye ſay, There will be heat, and it cometh to paſs.

56 Ye hypocrites, ye can diſcern the face of the ſkie, and of the earth: but how is it, that ye do not diſcern this time?

15 Men that are blinded with the love of themſelves, and therefore are deteſtable and ſtubborn, ſhall beat the reward of their folly.

57 [15] Yea, and why even of your ſelves judge ye not what is right?

58 ¶ * When thou goeſt with thine adverſary to the magiſtrate, as thou art in the way, give diligence that thou mayeſt be delivered from him; leſt he hale thee to the judge, and the judge deliver thee to the [o] officer, and the officer caſt thee into priſon.

* Mat. 5 25.

o To him that had to demand and gather the amerciaments, which they were condemned unto, that had wrongfully troubled men: moreover, the magiſtrates officers make them which are condemned, pay, that they owe, yea, and oftentimes if they be obſtinate, they do not onely take the coſts and charges of them, but alſo impriſon them.

59 I tell thee, thou ſhalt not de part thence, till thou haſt payed the very laſt ‡ mite.

CHAP. XIII.

1 Chriſt preacheth repentance upon the puniſhment of the Galileans, and others. 6 The fruitleſs fig-tree may not ſtand. 11 He healeth the crooked woman: 18 ſheweth the powerfull working of the word in the hearts of his choſen, by the parable of the grain of muſtard-ſeed, and of leaven: 24 exhorteth to enter in at the ſtrait gate: 31 and reproveth Herod and Jeruſalem.

1 we muſt not rejoyce at the juſt puniſhment of others, but rather be inſtructed thereby to repentance.

THere [1] were preſent at that ſeaſon, ſome that told him of the Galileans, whoſe bloud [a] Pilate had mingled with their ſacrifice.

a Pontius Filatus was governour of Judea almoſt ten years, and about the fourth year of his government, which might be about the fifteenth year of Tiberius reign, Chriſt finiſhed the work of our redemption by his death.

2 And Jeſus anſwering, ſaid unto them, Suppoſe ye that theſe Galileans were ſinners above all the Galileans; becauſe they ſuffered ſuch things?

3 I tell you, Nay: but except ye repent, ye ſhall all likewiſe periſh.

4 Or thoſe eighteen upon whom the tower in [b] Siloam fell, and ſlew them, think ye that they were ſinners above all men that dwelt in Jeruſalem?

b To wit, in the place, or river, for Siloam was a ſmall river, from whence the conduits of the city came, whereof John 9. 7. & Eſa. 8. 6. and therefore it was a tower or caſtle, built upon the conduit ſide, which fell down ſuddenly and killed ſome.

5 I tell you, Nay: but except ye repent, ye ſhall all likewiſe periſh.

6 ¶ [2] He ſpake alſo this parable: A certain man had a fig-tree planted in his vineyard, and he came and ſought fruit thereon, and found none.

2 Great and long ſuffering is the patience of God, but yet ſo that at length he executeth judgment.

7 Then ſaid he unto the dreſſer of his vineyard, Behold, theſe three years I come ſeeking fruit on this fig-tree, and find none: cut it down, why [c] cumbreth it the ground?

c Maketh the ground barren in that part which otherwiſe were good for vines.

8 And he anſwering, ſaid unto him, Lord, let it alone this year alſo, till I ſhall dig about it, and dung it.

9 And if it bear fruit, well: and if not, then after that thou ſhalt cut it down.

10 [3] And he was teaching in one of the ſynagogues on the ſabbath.

3 Chriſt came to deliver us from the hands of Satan.

11 ¶ And behold, there was a woman which had a [d] ſpirit of infirmity eighteen years, and was bowed together, and could in no wiſe lift up her ſelf.

d Troubled with a diſeaſe which Satan brought.

12 And when Jeſus ſaw her, he called her to him, and ſaid unto her, Woman, thou art [e] looſed from thine infirmity.

e For Satan had the woman bound, as if ſhe had been in chains, in ſo much that for eighteen years ſpace, ſhe could not hold up her head.

13 And he laid his hands on her, and immediately ſhe was made ſtraight, and glorified God.

14 [4] And the [f] ruler of the ſynagogue anſwered with indignation, becauſe that Jeſus had healed on the ſabbath-day, and ſaid unto the people, There are ſix days in which men ought to work: in them therefore come and be healed, and not on the ſabbath-day.

4 A lively image of hypocriſy, a reward thereof.

f One of the rulers of the ſynagogue, for it appeareth by Mark 5. 22. & Act. 13. 15. that there were many rulers of the ſynagogue.

15 The Lord then anſwered him, and ſaid, Thou hypocrite, doth not each one of you on the ſabbath looſe his ox or his aſs from the ſtall, and lead him away to watering?

16 And ought not this woman, being a daughter of Abraham, whom Satan hath bound, lo theſe eighteen years, be looſed from this bond on the ſabbath-day?

17 And when he had ſaid theſe things, all his adverſaries were aſhamed: and all the people rejoyced for all the glorious things that were done by him.

18 ¶ * Then ſaid he, Unto what is the kingdom of God like? and whereunto ſhall I reſemble it?

* Mat. 13. 31.

19 [5] It is like a grain of muſtard-ſeed, which a man took, and caſt into his garden, and it grew, and waxed a great tree: and the fowls of the aire lodged in the branches of it.

5 God beginneth his kingdom with ſmall beginnings, that the unlooked for proceeding of it may better ſet forth his power.

20 And again he ſaid, Whereunto ſhall I liken the kingdom of God?

21 It

21 It is like leaven, which a woman took and hid in three * meaſures of meal, till the whole was leavened.

* See Mat. 13.33.

22 * [6] And he went through the cities and villages, teaching and journeying towards Jeruſalem.

* Mat. 9. 35.
6 Againſt them which had rather erre with many, then go right with a few, and by their means through their own ſlowneſs, are ſhut out of the kingdom of God.

23 Then ſaid one unto him, Lord, are there few that be ſaved? And he ſaid unto them.

24 ¶ * Strive to enter in at the ſtrait gate: for many, I ſay unto you, will ſeek to enter in, and ſhall not be able.

* Mat. 7. 13.

25 When once the maſter of the houſe is riſen up, and hath ſhut to the door, and ye begin to ſtand without, and to knock at the door, ſaying, Lord, Lord, open unto us; and he ſhall anſwer and ſay unto you, I know you not whence you are:

26 [7] Then ſhall ye begin to ſay, We have eaten and drunk in thy preſence, and thou haſt taught in our ſtreets.

7 He is in vain in the outcry, which is not of the church, which thing the cleanneſs of life ſhewed.

27 * But he ſhall ſay, I tell you, I know you not whence you are, depart from me all ye workers of iniquity.

* Mat. 7. 23.

28 [8] There ſhall be weeping and gnaſhing of teeth, when ye ſhall ſee Abraham, and Iſaac, and Jacob, and all the Prophets in the kingdom of God, and you your ſelves thruſt out.

8 The caſting off of the Jews, and the calling of the Gentiles is foretold.

29 And they ſhall come from the [g] eaſt, and from the weſt, and from the north, and from the ſouth, and ſhall ſit down in the kingdom of God.

g From all the quarters of the world, and theſe are four of the chiefeſt.

30 * And behold, there are laſt which ſhall be firſt, and there are firſt which ſhall be laſt.

* Mat. 19. 30.

31 ¶ [9] The ſame day there came certain of the Phariſees, ſaying unto him, Get thee out, and depart hence: for Herod will kill thee.

9 we muſt go forward in the caſe of our calling, though the midſt of terrours, whether they be true or feigned.

32 And he ſaid unto them, Go ye and tell that [h] fox, Behold, I caſt out devils, and I do cures to [i] day and to morrow, and the third day I ſhall be [k] perfected.

h That deceitfull and treacherous man.
i That is, A ſmall time, and Theophylact ſaith, it is a proverb: or elſe, by To day, we may underſtand The time that now is, and by To morrow, The time to come; meaning thereby, All the time of his miniſtry and office.
k To wit, when the ſacrifice for ſin is ended.

33 [10] Nevertheleſs I muſt walk to day and to morrow, and the day following: for it cannot be that a prophet periſh out of Jeruſalem.

10 There are no where more cruel enemies of the godly, then they which are within the ſanctuary, and church it ſelf: but God ſeeth it, and will in his time have an account of it.

34 * O Jeruſalem, Jeruſalem, which killeſt the prophets, and ſtoneſt them that are ſent unto thee: how often would I have gathered thy children together, as a hen doth gather her [l] brood under her wings, and ye would not?

* Mat. 23. 37.
l Word for word, The neſt: now the brood of chickens is the neſt.

35 Behold, your houſe is left unto you deſolate: And verily I ſay unto you, ye ſhall not ſee me, until the time come when ye ſhall ſay, Bleſſed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord.

Chap. XIV.

1 Chriſt healeth the dropſy on the ſabbath: 7 teacheth humility: 12 to feaſt the poor. 15 Under the parable of the great ſupper, ſheweth how worldly-minded men, who contemn the word of God, ſhall be ſhut out of heaven. 25 Thoſe who will be his diſciples, to bear their croſs, muſt make their accounts aforehand, leſt with ſhame they revolt from him afterward, 34 and become altogether unprofitable, like ſalt that hath loſt his ſavour.

AND [1] it came to paſs, as he went into the houſe of [a] one of the chief Phariſees to eat bread on the ſabbath-day, that they watched him.

1 The law of the very ſabbath ought not to hinder the offices of charity.
a Either one of the elders whom they called the Sanhedrin, or one of the chief of the Synagogue: for all the Phariſees were not chief men of the Synagogue, John 7. 48. for this word Phariſee was the name of a ſect, though it appear by the whole hiſtory that the Phariſees were in great credit.

2 And behold, there was a certain man before him which had the dropſy.

3 And Jeſus anſwering, ſpake unto the lawyers and Phariſees, ſaying, Is it lawfull to heal on the ſabbath-day?

4 And they held their peace. And he took him and healed him, and let him go:

5 And anſwered them, ſaying, which of you ſhall have an aſs or an ox fallen into a pit, and will not ſtraightway pull him out on the ſabbath-day?

6 And they could not anſwer him again to theſe things.

7 ¶ [2] And he put forth a parable to thoſe which were bidden, when he marked how they choſe out the chief rooms; ſaying unto them,

2 The reward of pride is ignominy: and the reward of true modeſty is glory.

8 When thou art bidden of any man to a wedding, ſit not down in the higheſt room, leſt a more honourable man then thou be bidden of him:

9 And he that bad thee and him, come and ſay to thee, Give this man place: and thou begin With ſhame to take the loweſt room.

10 * But when thou art bidden, go and ſit down in the loweſt room, that when he that bad thee cometh, he may ſay unto thee, Friend, go up higher: then ſhalt thou have worſhip in the preſence of them that ſit at meat with thee.

* Prov. 25. 6, 7.

11 * For whoſoever exalteth himſelf, ſhall be abaſed; and he that humbleth himſelf, ſhall be exalted.

* Mat. 23. 12.

12 ¶ [3] Then ſaid he alſo to him that bad him, When thou makeſt a dinner or a ſupper, call not thy friends, nor thy brethren, neither thy kinſmen, nor thy rich neighbours; leſt they alſo bid thee again, and a recompenſe be made thee.

3 Againſt them which laviſh out their goods either ambitiouſly, or for hope of recompence, where as Chriſtian charity reſpecteth onely the glory of God, and the profit of our neighbour.

13 But when thou makeſt a feaſt, call * the poor, the maimed, the lame, the blind:

* Tob. 4. 7.

14 And thou ſhalt be bleſſed; for they cannot recompenſe thee: for thou ſhalt be recompenſed at the reſurrection of the juſt.

15 ¶ And when one of them that ſat at meat with him, heard theſe things, he ſaid unto him, * Bleſſed is he that ſhall eat bread in the kingdom of God.

* Rev. 19. 9.

16 * Then ſaid he unto them, A certain man made a great ſupper, and bade many:

* Mat. 22 2.

17 And ſent his ſervant at ſupper time to ſay to them that were bidden, Come, for all things are now ready.

18 [4] And they all with [b] one conſent began to make excuſe: The firſt ſaid unto him, I have bought a piece of ground, and I muſt needs go and ſee it: I pray thee have me excuſed.

21 So that ſervant came, and ſhewed his lord theſe things. Then the maſter of the houſe being angry, ſaid to his ſervant, Go out quickly into the [c] ſtreets & lanes of the city, & bring in hither the poor, and the maimed, and the halt, and the blind.

22 And the ſervant ſaid, Lord, it is done as thou haſt commanded, and yet there is room.

23 And the lord ſaid unto the ſervant, Go out into the high-ways and hedges, and compell them to come in, that my houſe may be filled.

24 For I ſay unto you, that none of thoſe men which were bidden, ſhall taſte of my ſupper.

25 ¶ [5] And there went great multitudes with him: and he turned, and ſaid unto them,

5 Even thoſe affections, which are of themſelves worthy of praiſe and commendation, muſt be ruled and ordered, that godlineſs may have the upper hand and preeminence.

26 * If any man come to me, and [d] hate not his father, and mother, and wife, and children, and brethren, and ſiſters, yea and his own life alſo, he cannot be my diſciple.

* Mat 10. 37.

d If the matter ſtand between God and him, as Theophylact ſaith: and therefore theſe words are not ſpoken ſimply but by compariſon

27 [6] And whoſoever doth not bear his croſs, and come after me, cannot be my diſciple.

6 The true followers of Chriſt, muſt at once build and fight, and therefore be ready and prepared to ſuffer all kind of miſeries.

28 For which of you intending to build a tower, [e] ſitteth not down firſt, & counteth the coſt, whether he have ſufficient to finiſh it?

e At home, and caſteth all his coſt, before he begin the work.

29 Leſt haply after he hath laid the foundation, and is not able to finiſh it, all that behold it, begin to mock him,

30 Saying, This man began to build, and was not able to finiſh.

31 Or what king going to make war againſt another king, ſitteth not down firſt, and conſulteth whether he be able with ten thouſand, to meet him that cometh againſt him with twenty thouſand?

32 Or elſe, while the other is yet a great way off, he ſendeth an ambaſſage, and deſireth conditions of peace.

33 So likewiſe, whoſoever he be of you, that forſaketh not all that he hath, he cannot be my diſciple.

34 ¶ * [7] Salt is good: but if the ſalt have loſt his ſavour, wherewith ſhall it be ſeaſoned?

* Mat 5. 13.

7 The diſciples of Chriſt muſt be wiſe both for themſelves, and for others: otherwiſe they become the fooliſheſt of all.

35 It is neither fit for the land, nor yet for the dunghill, but men caſt it out. He that hath ears to hear, let him hear.

CHAP. XV.

1 The parable of the loſt ſheep: 8 of the piece of ſilver: 11 of the prodigall ſon.

THen drew near unto [1] him [2] all the publicanes and ſinners for to hear him.

1 We muſt not delight in the ſins of them, which have gone out of the way, but according to the example of Chriſt, we muſt take great pains about them.

2 Some Publicanes and ſinners come to Chriſt to be hearers.

2 And the Phariſees and Scribes murmured, ſaying, This man receiveth ſinners, and eateth with them.

3 ¶ And he ſpake this parable unto them, ſaying,

4 * What man of you having an hundred ſheep, if he loſe one of them, doth not leave [illegible] and nine in the wilderneſs, and go [illegible] which is loſt, until he find it?

[illegible] hath found it, he layeth it, [illegible] he calleth together his friends and neighbours, ſaying unto them, Rejoyce with me, for I have found my ſheep which was loſt.

7 I ſay unto you, that likewiſe joy ſhall be in heaven over one ſinner that repenteth, more then over ninety and nine juſt perſons, which need no repentance.

8 ¶ Either what woman having ten * pieces of ſilver, if ſhe loſe one piece doth not light a candle, and ſweep the houſe: and ſeek diligently till ſhe find it?

* Drachma here tranſlated a piece of ſilver, is the eight part of an ounce, which cometh to ſeven pence half-penny, and is equall to the Roman penny, Mat. 18. 28.

9 And when ſhe hath found it, ſhe calleth her friends and her neighbours together, ſaying, Rejoyce with me, for I have found the piece which I had loſt.

10 Likewiſe I ſay unto you, There is joy in the preſence of the angels of God, over one ſinner that repenteth.

11 ¶ [2] And he ſaid, A certain man had two ſons:

2 Men (by their voluntary falling from God, having ſpoiled themſelves of benefits which they ſerved of him, caſt themſelves headlong into intolerable calamities: but God of his ſingular goodneſs, offering himſelf freely to them, whom he called to repentance through the greatneſs of their miſery, wherewith they were tamed, doth not only gently receive them, but alſo enricheth them with far greater gifts, and honoureth them with the chiefeſt title.

12 And the younger of them ſaid to his father, Father, give me the portion of goods that falleth to me. And he divided unto them his living.

13 And not many days after, the younger ſon gathered all together, and took his journy into a far country, and there waſted his ſubſtance with riotous living.

14 And when he had ſpent all, there aroſe a mighty famine in that land, and he began to be in want.

15 And he went and joyned himſelf to a citizen of that country, and he ſent him into his fields to feed ſwine.

16 And he would fain have filled his belly with the huſks that the ſwine did eat: and no man gave unto him.

17 [3] And when he came to himſelf, he ſaid, How many hired ſervants of my fathers have bread enough and to ſpare, and I periſh with hunger!

3 The beginning of repentance is the acknowledging of the mercy of God, which ſtirreth us up to hope well.

18 I will ariſe, and go to my father, and will ſay unto him, Father, I have ſinned againſt [b] heaven, and before thee, b Againſt God, becauſe he is ſaid to dwell in heaven.

19 And am no more worthy to be called thy ſon: make me as one of thy hired ſervants.

20 And he aroſe, and came to his father. But when he was yet a great way off, his father ſaw him, and had compaſſion, and ran, and fell on his neck, and kiſſed him.

21 [4] And the ſon ſaid unto him, Father, I have ſinned againſt heaven, and in thy ſight, and am no more worthy to be called thy ſon.

4 In true repentance there is a feeling of our ſins joyned with ſorrow and ſhame, from whence ſpringeth a confeſſion, after which followeth forgiveneſs.

22 But the father ſaid to his ſervants, Bring forth the beſt robe, and put it on him, and put a ring on his hand, and ſhoes on his feet.

23 And bring hither the fatted calf, and kill it, and let us eat and be merry.

24 For this my ſon was dead, and is alive again; he was loſt, and is found. And they began to be merry.

25 [5] Now his elder ſon was in the field: and as he came and drew nigh to the houſe, he heard muſick and dancing.

5 Such as truely fear God, deſire to have all men to be their fellows.

26 And he called one of the ſervants, and asked what theſe things meant.

27 And he ſaid unto him, Thy brother is come, & they father hath killed the fatted calf, becauſe he hath received him ſafe and ſound.

28 And he was angry, and would not go in: therefore came his father out, and intreated him.

29 And he anſwering, ſaid to his father, Lo, theſe many years do I ſerve thee, neither tranſgreſſed I at any time thy commandment, and yet thou never gaveſt me a kid, that I might make merry with my friends:

30 But aſſoon as this thy ſon was come, which hath devoured thy living with harlots, thou haſt killed for him the fatted calf.

31 And he ſaid unto him, Son, thou art ever with me, and all that I have is thine.

32 It was meet that we ſhould make merry, and be glad: for this thy brother was dead, and is alive again; and was loſt, and is found.

CHAP. XVI.

1 Seeing that men oftentimes purchaſe friendſhip to themſelves, by other mens coſts, it is ſhame for us, if with a free and liberall beſtowing of the goods which the Lord hath given us, to that purpoſe we do not pleaſe him, nor procure the good will of our neighbours, ſeing that by this only means, riches, which are oftentimes occaſions of ſin, are turned to another end and purpoſe.

AND he ſaid alſo unto his diſciples, 1 There was a cerrain rich man which had a ſteward, and the ſame was accuſed unto him that he had waſted his goods.

2 And he called him, and ſaid unto him, How is it that I hear this of thee? give an account of they ſtewardſhip: for thou mayeſt be no longer ſteward.

3 Then the ſteward ſaid within himſelf, What ſhall I do? for my lord taketh away from me the ſtewardſhip: I cannot dig, to beg I am aſhamed.

4 I am reſolved what to do, that when I am put out of the ſtewardſhip, they may receive me into their houſes.

5 So he called every one of his lords debters unto him, and ſaid unto the firſt, How much oweſt thou unto my lord?

6 And he ſaid, An hundred ‡ meaſures of oyl. And he ſaid unto him, Take thy bill, and ſit down quickly, and write fifty.

7 Then ſaid he to another, And how much oweſt thou? And he ſaid, An hundred ‡ meaſures of wheat. And he ſaid unto him, Take thy bill, and write foureſcore.

a This parable doth not approve the ſtewards naughty dealing, for it was very theft: but parables are ſeth forth, to ſhew a thing covenly, and as it were, under a figure to repreſent the thrueth, though it agree not throughly with the matter it ſelf ſo that Chriſt meaneth by this parable, to teach us, that worldly men are more heedy in the affairs of this world, then the children of God are carefull for everlaſting life.

8 And the Lord [a] commended the unjuſt ſteward, becauſe he had done wiſely: for the [b] children of this world are in their generation wiſer then the children of light.

b Men that are given to this preſent life, contrary to whom the children of light are ſet S. Paul calleth theſe ſpirituall, and the other carnall.

9 And I ſay unto you, Make to your ſelves friends of the ‡ Mammon of [c] unrighteouſneſs, that when ye fail, they may receive you into everlaſting [d] habitations.

c This is not ſpoken of goods that are evil gotten, for God will have our bountifulneſs to the poor, proceed and come from a good fountain: but he calleth thoſe riches of iniquity, which men uſe naughtily.

d To wit, the poor Chriſtians: for they are the inheritours of theſe tabernacles, Theoph.

10 [2] He that is faithfull in that which is leaſt, is faithfull alſo in much: and he that is unjuſt in the leaſt, is unjuſt alſo in much.

2 we ought to take heed, that for abuſing our earthly function and duty we be not deprived of heavenly gifts: for how can they uſe ſpirituall gifts aright, who abuſe worldly things?

11 If therefore ye have not been faithfull in the unrighteous ‡ Mammon, who will commit to your truſt the [e] true riches?

e That is, Heavenly and true riches: which are contrary to worldly and flitting ſubſtance.

12 And if ye have not been faithfull in that which is [f] another mans, who ſhall give you that which is your own?

f In worldly goods, which are called other mens, becauſe they are committed to our credit.

13 ¶ [3] * No ſervant can ſerve two maſters: for either he will hate the one and love the other, or elſe he will hold to the one and deſpiſe the other: ye cannot ſerve God and Mammon.

3 No man can love God and riches together.

* Mat. 7. 24.

14 And the Phariſees alſo who were covetous, heard all theſe things: and they derided him.

15 [4] And he ſaid unto them, Ye are they which juſtify your ſelves before men, but God knoweth your hearts: for that which is highly eſteemed amongſt men, is abomination in the ſight of God.

4 Our ſins are not hidden to God, although they be hidden to men, yea although they be hidden to them, whoſe ſins they are.

* Mat. 11. 11.

16 * [5] The law and the prophets were untill John: ſince that time the kingdom of God is preached, and every man preſſeth into it.

5 The Phariſees deſpiſed the excellency of the new covenant, in reſpect of the old, being ignorant of the perfect righteouſneſs of the law, and how falſe expounders they were of the law, Chriſt declareth by the ſeventh commandment.

17 † And it is eaſier for heaven and earth to paſs, then one tittle of the law to fail.

* Mat. 5. 18.

18 * Whoſoever putteth away his wife, and marieth another, committeth adultery: and whoſoever marrieth her that is [g] put away from her husband, committeth adultery.

* Mat. 5. 32.

g They that gather by this place, that a man cannot be maried again after that he hath put away his wife for adultery, while ſhe liveth, reaſon fondly: for Chriſt ſpeaketh of thoſe divorces, which the Jews uſed, of which ſort we cannot take the divorcement for adultery, for adulterers, were put to death by the Law.

19 ¶ [6] There was a certain rich man, which was clothed in [h] purple and fin linnen, and fared ſumptuouſly every day.

6 The end of the poverty and miſery of the godly ſhall be everlaſting joy: as the end of the riotouſneſs and cruel prid of the rich ſhall be everlaſting miſery, without all hope of mercy.

h Very gorgeouſly and ſumptuouſly, for purple garments were coſtly, and this fine linnen, which was a kind of linnen that came out of Achaia, was as deare as gold.

20 And there was a certain begger named Lazarus, which was laid at his gate full of ſores, 21 And deſiring to be fed with the crumbes which fell from the rich mans table: moreover, the dogs came and licked his ſores.

22 And it came to paſs that the begger died, and was carried by the angels into Abrahams boſome: the rich man alſo died and was buried.

23 And in hell he lift up his [i] eyes being in torments, and ſeeth Abraham afarre off, and Lazarus in his boſome:

i Heavenly and ſpirituall things are expreſſed, and ſet fouth under colours and reſemblances fit for our ſenſes.

24 And he cried, and ſaid, Father Abraham, have mercy on me, and ſend Lazarus that he may dip the tip of his finger in water and cool my tongue, for I am tormented in this flame.

25 But Abraham ſaid, Son, remember that thou in they life time receiveſt they good things, and likewiſe Lazarus evil things, but now he is comforted, and thou art tormented.

26 And beſides all this, between us and you there is a great gulf fixed, ſo that they which would paſs from hence to you, cannot, neither can they paſs to us, that would come from thence.

27 [7] Then he ſaid, I pray thee therefore, father, that thou wouldeſt ſend him to my fathers houſe:

7 Seeing that we have a moſt ſure rule to live by, laid fouth unto us in the word of God, raſhly and vainly do men ſeek for other revelations.

28 For I have five brethren; that he may teſtify unto them, leſt they alſo come into this place of torment.

29 Abraham ſaith unto him, they have Moſes and the prophets, let them hear them.

70

30 And he said, Nay, father Abraham: but if one went unto them from the dead, they will repent.

31 And he said unto them, If they hear not Moses and the prophets, neither will they be perswaded, though one rose from the dead.

CHAP. XVII.

1 Christ teacheth to avoid occasions of offence. 3 One to forgive another. 6 The power of faith. 7 How we are bound to God, and not he to us. 11 He healeth ten lepers. 22 Of the kingdom of God, and the coming of the Son of man.

THen said he unto the disciples, * [1] It is impossible but that offences will come, but wo unto him through whom they come.

2 It were better for him that a milstone were hanged about his neck, and he cast into the sea, then that he should offend one of these little ones.

3 ¶ [2] Take heed to your selves: * if thy brother tres-pass against thee, rebuke him, and if he repent, forgive him.

4 And if he tres-pass against thee seven times in a day, and seven times in a day turn again to thee, saying, I repent; thou shalt forgive him.

5 [3] And the apostles said unto the Lord, increase our faith.

6 * And the Lord said, If ye had faith as a [a] grain of mustard-seed, ye might say unto this sycamine-tree, Be thou plucked up by the root, and be thou planted in the sea, and it should obey you.

7 [4] But which of you having a servant plowing, or feeding cattel, will say unto him by and by, when he is come from the field, Go and sit down to meat?

8 And will not rather say unto him, Make ready wherewith I may sup, and gird thy self, and serve me, till I have eaten and drunken: and afterward thou shalt eat and drink.

9 Doth he thank that servant because he did the things that were commanded him? I trow not.

10 [5] So likewise ye, when ye shall have done all those things which are commanded you, say, We are unprofitable servants: we have done that which was our duty to do.

11 ¶ [6] And it came to pass, as he went to Jerusalem, that he passed through the midst of Samaria and Galilee.

12 And as he entred into a certain village, there met him ten men that were lepers, which stood afar off:

13 And they lifted up their voices, and said, Jesus master have mercy on us.

14 And when he saw them, he said unto them, * Go shew your selves unto the priests. And it came to pass that as they went, they were cleansed.

15 And one of them when he saw that he was healed, turned back, and with a loud voice glorified God.

16 And fell down on his face at his feet giving him thanks: and he was a Samaritan.

17 And Jesus answering said, Were there not ten cleansed? but where are the nine?

18 There are not found that returned to give glory to God, save this stranger.

19 And he said unto him, Arise, go thy way, thy faith hath made thee whole.

20 ¶ [7] And when he was demanded of the Pharisees, when the kingdom of God should come; he answered them and said, The kingdom of God cometh not ‡ with [b] observation.

21 Neither shall they say, Lo here, or lo there: for behold, the kingdom of God is ‡ [c] within you.

22 [8] And he said unto the disciples, The days will come when ye shall desire to see [d] one of the days of the Son of man, and ye shall not see it.

23 * [9] And they shall say to you: See here, or see there: go not after them, nor follow them.

24 For as the lightning that lightneth out of the one part under heaven, shineth unto the other part under heaven: so shall also the Son of man be in his day.

25 But first must he suffer many things, and be rejected of this generation.

26 * [10] And as it was in the days of Noe; so shall it be also in the days of the Son of man.

27 They did eat, they drank, they married wives, they were given in marriage, until the day that Noe entred into the ark: and the floud came and destroyed them all.

28 * Likewise also as it was in the days of Lot, they did eat, they drank, they bought, they sold, they planted, they builded:

29 But the same day that Lot went out of Sodom, it rained fire and brimstone from heaven, and destroyed them all:

30 Even thus shall it be in the day when the Son of man is revealed.

31 [11] In that day, he which shall be upon the house top, and his stuff in the house, let him not come down to take it away; and he that is in the field, let him likewise not return back.

32 * Remember Lots wife.

33 * Whosoever shall seek to save his life, shall lose it; and whosoever shall lose his life, shall [e] preserve it.

34 * I tell you, in that night there shall be two men in one bed; the one shall be taken, the other shall be left.

35 Two women shall be grinding together; the one shall be taken, and the other left.

36 * Two men shall be in the field; the one shall be taken, and the other left.

37 [12] And they answered and said unto him, * Where Lord? And he said unto them, Whersoever the body is, thither will the eagles be gathered together.

3 Of the importunate widow. 9 Of the Pharisee and the publicane. 15 Children brought to Christ. 18 A ruler that would follow Christ, but is hindred by his riches. 28 The reward of them, that leave all for his sake. 31 He foresheweth his death, 35 and restoreth a blind man to his sight.

AND [1] he spake a parable unto them, to this end, that men ought * always to pray, and not to [a] faint,

2 Saying, [b] There was in a city a judge, which feared not God, neither regarded man.

3 And there was a widow in that city, and she came unto him, saying, Avenge me of mine adversary.

4 And he would not for a while: buth afterward he said within himself, Though I fear not God, nor regard man,

5 Yet becaufe this widow trobleth me, I will avenge her, leſt by her continuall coming ſhe [c] weary me.

6 And the Lord ſaid, Hear what the unjuſt judge ſaith.

7 And ſhall not God avenge his own elect, which cry day and night unto him, though he [d] bear long with them?

8 I tell you that he will avenge them ſpeedily, Nevertheleſs, when the Son of man cometh, ſhall he find faith on the earth?

9 [2] And he ſpake this parable unto certain which truſted in themſelves ‡ that they were righteous, and deſpiſed others:

10 Two men went up into the temple to pray, the one a Phariſee, and the other a publicane.

11 [3] The Phariſee ſtood and prayed thus with himſelf, God I thank thee, that I am not as other men are, extortioners, unjuſt, adulterers, or even as this publicane.

12 I faſt twice in the week, I give tithes of all that I poſſeſſe.

13 And the publicane ſtanding [e] afarre off, would not lift up ſo much as his eyes unto heaven, but ſmote upon his breaſt, ſaying, God, be mercifull to me a ſinner.

14 I tell you, this man went down to his houſe juſtified rather then the other: * for every one that exalteth himſelf, ſhall be abaſed; and he that humbleth himſelf, ſhall be exalted.

15 [f] And they brought unto him alſo infants, that he would touch them: but when his diſciples ſaw it, [4] they rebuked them.

16 [5] But Jeſus [g] called them unto him, and ſaid, Suffer little children to come nnto me, and forbid them not? for of ſuch is the kingdom of God.

17 [6] Verily I ſay unto you, Whoſoever ſhall not receive the kingdom of God as a little child, ſhall in no wiſe enter therein.

18 * And a certain ruler asked him, ſaying, Good Maſter, what ſhall I do to inherit eternall life?

19 And Jeſus ſaid unto him, Why calleſt thou me good? none is good ſave one that is, God.

20 Thou knoweſt the commandments, Do not commit adultery, Do not kill, * Do not ſteal, Do not bear falſe witneſs, Honour thy father and thy mother.

21 [7] And he ſaid, All theſe have I kept from my youth up.

22 Now when Jeſus heard theſe things, he ſaid unto him, Yet lackeſt thou one thing: ſell all that thou haſt, and diſtribute unto the poor, and thou ſhalt have treaſure in heaven, and come, follow me.

23 And when he heard this, he was very ſorrowfull, for he was very rich.

24 [8] And when Jeſus ſaw that he was very ſorrowfull, he ſaid, How hardly ſhall they that have riches enter into the kingdom of God!

25 For it is eaſier for a camel to go through a needles eye, then for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God.

26 And they that heard it, ſaid, Who then can be ſaved?

27 And he ſaid, The things which are unpoſſible with men, are poſſible with God.

28 * Then Peter ſaid, Lo, we have left all, and followed thee.

29 [9] And he ſaid unto them, Verily I ſay unto you, there is no man that hath left houſe, or parents, or brethren, or wife, or children for the kingdom of Gods ſake,

30 Who ſhall not receive manifold more in this preſent time, and in the world to come life everlaſting.

31 ¶ [10] * Then he took unto him the twelve, and ſaid unto them, Behold, we go up to Jeruſalem, and all things that are written by the prophets concerning the Son of man ſhall be accompliſhed.

32 For he ſhall be delivered unto the Gentiles, and ſhall be mocked, and ſpitefully entreated and ſpitted on:

33 And they ſhall ſcourge him, and put him to death, and the third day he ſhall riſe again.

34 And they underſtood [h] none of theſe things: and this ſaying was hid from them, neither knew they the things which were ſpoken.

35 ¶ * [11] And it came to paſs, that as he was come neigh unto Jericho, a certain blind man ſat by the way ſide begging:

36 And hearing the multitude paſs by, he asked what it meant.

37 And they told him, that Jeſus of Nazareth paſſeth by.

38 And he cried, ſaying, Jeſus, thou ſon of David, have mercy on me.

39 [12] And they which went before, rebuked him, that he ſhould hold his peace: but he cried ſo much the more, Thou Son of David have mercy on me.

40 And Jeſus ſtood and commanded him to be brought unto him: and when he was come neare, he asked him, 41 Saying, What wilt thou that I ſhall do unto thee? And he ſaid, Lord, that I may receive my ſight.

42 And Jeſus ſaid unto him, Receive thy ſight, thy faith hath ſaved thee.

a Yeeld to afflictions and adversities, as they do which are out of heart.

b He doeth not compare things that are equall together, but the like with the greater: If a man get his right at a most unrighteous judges hands, much more shall the prayers of the godly prevail before God.

c Word for word, beat me down with her blows, and it is a metaphor taken of wrestlers, which beat their adversaries with their fists or clubs: so do they that are importunate, beat the judges ears with their crying out, even as it were with blows.

‡ Two things especially make our prayers void and of none effect: confidence of our own righteousness, and the contempt of others: and an humble heart is contrary to both these.

3 Although we confess that whatsoever we have, we have it of God, yet are we despised of God, as proud and arrogant, if we put never so little trust in our own works before God.

f The children were tender and young, in that they were brought which appeareth more evidently in that that they were infants: which is to be marked against them that are enemies to the baptizing of children.

4 To judge or think of Christ after the reason of the flesh, is the cause of infinite corruptions.

5 The children also of the faithfull are comprehended in the free covenant of God.

g Them that carried the children, whom the disciples drove away.

6 Child-like innocency is an ornament of Christians.

* Mat. 19. 16.

7 The intisement of riches carrieth away many from the right way.

CHAP XIX.

1 Of Zaccheus a publicane. 11 The ten pieces of mony. 28 Christ rideth into Jerusalem with triumph: 41 weepeth over it: 45 driveth the buyers and sellers out of the temple: 47 teaching daily in it. The rulers would have destroyed him, but for fear of the people.

1 Christ preventeth them with his grace especially, which seemed to be furthest from it.

AND Jesus entred and passed through Jericho.

2 And behold, there was a man named Zaccheus, which was the [a] chief among the publicanes, and he was rich.

2 The overseer and head of the Publicanes, which were there together: for the Publicanes were divided into companies as we may gather by many places of Cicero his Oration.

3 And he sought to see Jesus who he was, and could not for the preass, because he was little of stature.

4 And he ran before, and climbed up into a sycomore-tree to see him; for he was to pass that way.

5 And when Jesus came to the place, he looked up and saw him, and said unto him, Zaccheus, make haste, and come down; for to day I must abide at thy house.

6 And he made haste and came down, and received him joyfully.

2 The would forfeiteth the grace of God, and yet is unwilling that it should be bestowed upon other

7 [2] And when they saw it, they all murmured, saying, That he was gone to be guest with a man that is a sinner.

3 The example of true repentance, is known by the effect

8 [3] And Zaccheus stood, and said unto the Lord, Behold, Lord, the half of my goods I give to the poor, and if I have taken any thing from any man by [b] false accusation, I restore him fourefold.

b By falsly accusing any man: and this agreeth most fitly to the master of the customers person: for commonly they have this trade among them, when they rob and spoil the common-weal, they have nothing in their mouthes, but the profit of the common-weal, and under that colour they play the theeves, insomuch that if men reprove and go about, to redress their robbery, and spoiling, they cry out, the common-weal is hindred

9 And Jesus said unto him, This day is salvation come to this house, foras much as he also is the [c] son of Abraham.

c Beloved of God, one that walketh in the steps of Abrahams faith: and we gather that salvation came to that house, because they received the blessing as Abraham had, for all of the household were circumcised.

10 * For the Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost.

* Mat. 18. 11.

11 [4] And as they heard these things, he added, and spake a parable, because he was nigh to Jerusalem, and because they thought that the kingdom of God should immediately appear.

4 we must patiently wait for the judgment of God, which shall be revealed in his time.

12 * He said therefore, A certain noble man went into a farre country to receive for himself a kingdom, and to return.

* Mat. 25. 14.

13 [5] And he called his ten servants, and delivered them ten ‡ pounds, and said unto them, Occupy till I come.

5 There are three sorts of men in the church: the one sort fall from Christ, whom they see not: the other, which according to their vocation, bestow the gifts which they have received of God, to his glory with great pains and diligence: the third live idlely, and do no good. As for the first, the Lord, when becometh, will justly punish them in his time: the other he will bless according to the pains which they have taken: and as for the slouthfull and idle persons, he will punis them as the first. ‡ Mina here translated a pound, is 1 ounces and an half: which according to five shillings the ounce, is three pounds two shillings six pence. d This was a piece of mony which the Grecians used, and was in value about an hundred pence, which is about then crowns.

14 But his citizens hated him, and sent a message after him, saying, We will not have this man to reigne over us.

15 And it came to pass, that when he was returned, having received the kingdom, then he commanded these servants to be called unto him, to whom he had given the mony, that he might know how much every man had gained by trading.

16 Then came the first, saying, Lord, thy [d] pound hath gained ten pounds.

17 And he said unto him, Well, thou good servant: because thou hast been faithfull in a very little, have thou authority over ten cities.

18 And the second came, saying, Lord thy pound hath gained five pounds.

19 And he said likewise to him, Be thou also over five cities.

20 [6] And another came, saying, Lord, behold, here is thy pound which I have kept laid up in a napkin:

6 Against them which spend their life idlely in deliberating, and otherwise, in contemplation.

21 For I feared thee, because thou art an austere man: thou takest up that thou layedst not down, and reapest that thou didst not sow.

22 And he saith unto him, Out of thine own mouth will I judge thee, thou wicked servant: thou knewest that I was an austere man, taking up that I laid not down, and reaping that I did not sow.

23 Wherefore then gavest not thou my mony into the [e] bank, that at my coming I might have required mine own with usury?

e To the bunckers and changers.

24 And he said unto them that stood by, Take from him the pound, and give it to him that hath ten pounds.

25 (And they said unto him, Lord, he hath ten pounds)

26 For I say unto you, * That unto every one which hath, shall be given; and from him that hath not, even that he hath shall be taken away from him.

* Mat. 13. 12.

27 But those mine enemies which would not that I should reigne over them, bring hither, and slay them before me.

28 ¶ And when he had thus spoken, he went [f] before, ascending up to Jerusalem.

f The disciples staggered and stayed at the matter, but Christ goeth on boldly, though death were before his eyes.

29 * [7] And it came to pass when he was come nigh to Bethphage and Bethany, at the mount called the mount of Olives, he sent two of his disciples,

* Mat. 21. 1.

7 Christ sheweth in his own person, that his kingdom is not of this world.

30 Saying, Go ye into the village over against you, in the which at your entring ye shall find a colt tied, whereon yet never man sat: loose him, and bring him hither.

31 And if any man ask you, Why do ye loose him? thus shall ye say unto him, Because the Lord hath need of him.

32 And they that were sent, went their way, and found even as he had said unto them.

33 And as they were loosing the colt, the owner thereof said unto them, Why loose ye the colt?

34 And they said, The Lord hath need of him.

35 And they brought him to Jesus: and they cast their garments upon the colt, and they set Jesus thereon.

36 And as he went, they spread their cloathes in the way.

37 And when he was come nigh, even now at the descent of the mout of Olives, the whole multitude of the disciples began to rejoyce and praise God with a loud voice, for all the mighty works that they had seen, 38 Saying, Blessed be the King that cometh in the name of the Lord, peace in heaven, and glory in the highest.

39 [1] And

39 [g] And ſome of the Phariſees from among the multitude, ſaid unto him, Maſter, rebuke thy diſciples.

40 And he anſwered and ſaid unto them, I tell you, that if theſe ſhould hold their peace, the ſtones would immediately cry out.

41 ¶ [g] And when he was come near, he beheld the city, and wept over it,

42 [g] Saying, [h] if thou hadſt known, even thou, [i] at leaſt in this [k] thy day, the things which belong unto thy [l] peace! but now they are hid from thine eyes.

1 Chriſt avoucheth his authority, by a queſtion of Johns baptiſme. 9 The parable of the vineyard. 19 Of giving tribute to Ceſar. 27 He convinceth the Sadduces that denied the reſurrection. 41 How Chriſt is the ſon of David. 45 He warneth his diſciples to beware of the Scribes.

* Mat. 21. 23.

1 The Phariſees being overcome with the trueth of Chriſts doctrine, move a queſtion about his outward calling, and are overcome by the witneſs of their own conſcience.

AND * [1] it came to paſs, that on one of thoſe days, as he taught the people in the temple, and preached the goſpel, the chief prieſts and the Scribes came upon him, with the elders.

2 And ſpake unto him, ſaying, Tell us, By what authotity doeſt thou theſe things? or who is he that gave thee this authority?

3 And he anſwered and ſaid unto them, I will alſo aſk you one thing, and anſwer me.

4 The baptiſme of John, was it from heaven, or of men?

5 And they reaſoned with themſelves, ſaying, If we ſhall ſay, From heaven. he will ſay, Why then beleeved ye him not?

6 But and if we ſay, Of men; all the people will ſtone us: for they be perſwaded that John was a prophet,

7 And they anſwered, that they could not tell whence it was.

8 And Jeſus ſaid unto them, Neither tell I you by what authority I do theſe things.

2 It is no new thing to have them the chiefeſt enemis of Chriſt and his ſervants, which are converſant in the very ſanctuary of Gods holy place, but at length they ſhall not eſcape unpuniſhed.

9 [2] Then began he to ſpeak to the people this parable: * A certain man planted a vineyard, and let it forth to huſbandmen, and went into a far country for a long time. 73 * Mat. 21. 33.

10 And at the ſeaſon, he ſent a ſervant to the huſbandmen, that they ſhould give him of the fruit of te vineyard: but the huſbandmen beat him and ſent him away empty.

11 And again he ſent another ſervant; and they beat him alſo, and entreated him ſhamefully, and ſent him away empty.

12 And again he ſent the third, and they wounded him alſo, and caſt him out.

13 Then ſaid the lord of the vineyard, What ſhall I do? I will ſend my beloved ſon: it may be they will reverence him when they ſee him.

14 But when the huſbandmen ſaw him, they reaſoned among themſelves, ſaying, This is the heir, come, let us kill him, that the inheritance may be ours.

15 So they caſt him out of the vineyard, and killed him. What therefore ſhall the Lord of the vineyard do unto them?

16 He ſhall come and deſtroy theſe huſbandmen, and ſhall give the vineyard to others. And when they heard it, they ſaid, God forbid.

17 And he beheld them, and ſaid, What is this then that is written, * The ſtone which the builders rejected, the ſame is become the head of the corner? * Pſal. 118. 22.

18 Whoſoever ſhall fall upon that ſtone, ſhall be broken: but on whoſoever it ſhall fall, it will grinde him to powder.

19 ¶ And the chief prieſts and the Scribes the ſame hour ſought to lay hands on him, and they feared the people: for they perceived that he had ſpoken this parable againſt them.

20 [3] And they [a] watched him, and ſent forth [b] ſpies, which ſhould feigne themſelves juſt men, that they might take hold of his [c] words, that ſo they might deliver him unto the power and [d] authority of the governour.

21 And they aſked him, ſaying, * Maſter, we know that thou ſayeſt and teacheſt rightly, neither [e] accepteſt thou the perſon of any, but teacheſt the way of God ‡ truly.

22 Is it lawfull for us to give tribute unto Ceſar, or no?

23 But he perceived their [f] craftineſs, and ſaid unto them, Why tempt ye me?

24 Shew me a ‡ penny: whoſe image and ſuperſcription hath it? They anſwered and ſaid, Ceſars.

25 And he ſaid unto them, Render therefore unto Ceſar the things which be Ceſars, and unto God the things which be Gods.

26 And they could not take hold of his words before the people, and they marvelled at his anſwer, and held their peace.

27 ¶ * [4] Then came to him certain of the Sadduces (which deny that there is any reſurrection) and they aſked him.

28 Saying, Maſter, Moſes wrote unto us, If any mans brother die, having a wife, and he die without children, that his brother ſhould take his wife, & raiſe up ſeed unto his brother.

3 The laſt refuge that falſe prophets have to deſtroy the true prophets is to lay ſedition and treaſon to their charge.

a A fit time to take him in b whom they had deceitfully hired.

c That they might take ſome hold in his talk, and thereby forge ſome falſe accuſation againſt him.

d To put him to death.

* Mat. 22. 16.

e Thou art not moved by favour of any man: and by perſon he meaneth outward circumſtances, which if a man have reſpect unto, he will not judge alike of them that are indeed alike.

f Craftineſs is a certain diligence and wittineſs to do evil, gotten by much uſe and great practiſe in matters.

‡ See Mat. 18. 28.

* Mat. 22. 23.

4 The reſurrection of the fleſh is avouched againſt the Sadduces.

74

29 There were therefore seven brethren, and the first took a wife, and died without children.

30 And the second took her to wife, and he died childless.

31 And the third took her, and in like manner the seven also. And they left no children, and died.

32 Last of all the woman died also.

33 Therefore in the resurrection, whose wife of them is she? for seven had her to wife.

34 And Jesus answering, said unto them, The [g] children of this world marry, and are given in marriage:

35 But they which shall be accounted worthy to obtain that world, and the resurrection from the dead, neither marry, nor are given in marriage:

36 Neither can they die any more; for they are equall unto the angels, and are the children of God, being the [h] children of the resurrection.

37 Now that the dead are raised, * even Moses shewed at the bush, when he calleth the Lord the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob.

38 For he is not a God of the dead, but of the living; [i] for all live unto him.

39 ¶ Then certain of the Scribes answering, said, Master, thou hast well said.

40 And after that, they durst not ask him any question at all.

41 [5] And he said unto them, * How say they that Christ is Davids son?

42 And David himself saith in the book of psalms, The LORD said unto my Lord, Sit thou on my right hand, 43 Till I make thine enemies thy footstool.

44 David therefore calleth him Lord, how is he then his son?

45 ¶ Then in the audience of all the people, he said unto his disciples,

46 * [6] Beware of the Scribes, which desire to walk in long robes, and love greetings in the markets, and the highest seats in the synagogues, and the chief rooms at feasts.

47 Which devoure widows [k] houses, and for a shew make long prayers: the same shall receive greater damnation.

g They are called here in this place, The children of this world, which live in this world: and not they, that wholly are given to the world, as before (cap. 16. 8. which are contrary to the children of light.

h That is, Men partakers of the resurrection: for as we say truly, that they shall live indeed, which shall enjoy everlasting blis: so do they rise to life, though if this word resurrection be taken generally, it belongeth also to the wicked, which shall rise, to condemnation, which is not properly life, but death.

* Exod 3. 6.

i That is, Before him: a notable saying, the godly do not die, though they die here on earth

CHAP. XXI.

1 Christ commendeth the poor widow. 5 He foretelleth the destruction of the temple, and of the city of Jerusalem: 25 The signs also which shall be before the last day. 34 He exhorteth them to be watchfull.

1 [1] And he looked up, * and saw the rich men casting their gifts into the treasury.

2 And he saw also a certain poor widow, casting in thither two ‡ mites.

3 And he said, Of a truth I say unto you, that this poor widow hath cast in more then they all.

4 For all these have of their abundance cast in unto the offerings of God, but she of her penury hath cast in all the living that she had.

5 ¶ * [2] And as some spake of the temple, how it [a] was adorned with goodly stones, and gifts, he said.

1 The poor may exceed in bounty, and liberality, even the richest, according to Gods judgment.

* Mark 12. 41.

‡ See Mark 12. 42.

* Mat. 24. 1.

2 The destruction of the temple is foretold that the true spirituall building may be built up whose head builders must, and ought, to be circumspect.

a These were things that were hanged upon walls and pillars.

6 As for these things which ye behold, the days will come in the which there shall not be left one stone upon another, that shall not be thrown down.

7 And they asked him, saying, Master, but when shall these things be? and what sign will there be when these things shall come to pass?

8 And he said, Take heed that ye be not deceived: for many shall come [b] in my name, saying, I am Christ, and the time draweth near: go ye not therefore after them.

b Using my name.

9 [3] But when ye shall hear of warres, and commotions, be not terrified: for these things must first come to pass, but the end is not by and by.

3 The true temple of God is built up even in the midst of incredible tumults, and most sharp miseries, through invincible patience, so that the end thereof cannot be but most happy.

10 * Then said he unto them, Nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom:

* Mat. 24. 7.

11 And great earth quakes shall be in divers places, and famines, and pestilences, and fearfull sights, and great signs shall there be from heaven.

12 But before all these they shall lay their hands on you, and persecute you, delivering you up to the synagogues, and into prisons, being brought before kings and rulers for my names sake.

13 And it shall turn to you for a [c] testimony.

c This shall be the end of your troubles & affliction, they shall be witnesses both before God and man, as well of the treacherous and cruel dealing of your enemies, as also of your constancy: A notable saying, that the afflictions of the godly and holy men pertain to the witnes of the truth.

14 * Settle it therefore in your hearts, not to meditate before, what ye shall answer.

* Mat. 10. 19.

15 For I will give you a mouth and wisdom, which all your adversaries shall not be able to gainsay, nor resist.

16 And ye shall be betrayed both by parents, and brethren, and kinsfolks, and friends; and some of you shall they cause to be put to death.

17 And ye shall be hated of all men for my names sake.

18 * But there shall not an hair of your head perish.

* Mat. 10. 30.

19 In your patience [d] possess ye your souls.

d Though you are compassed about on all sides with many miseries, yet notwithstanding be valiant & courageous, and bear out these things manfully.

20 * [4] And when ye shall see Jerusalem compassed with armies, then know that the desolation thereof is nigh.

* Mat. 24. 15.

4 The finall destruction of the whole city is foretold.

21 Then let them which are in Judea, flee to the mountains, and let them which are in the midst of it, depart out, and let not them that are in the countrys, enter thereinto.

22 For these be the days of vengeance, that all things which are written may be fulfilled.

23 Bnt wo unto them that are with child, and to them that give suck in those days; for there shall be great distress in the land, and [e] wrath upon this people.

e By wrath these things are meant, which God sendeth when he is displeased.

24 And they shall fall by the [f] edge of the sword, and shall be led away captive into all nations, and Jerusalem shall be troden down of the Gentiles, until the times of the Gentiles be fulfilled.

f Word for word, Mouth for the Hebrews call the edge of a sword, The mouth, because the edge biteth.

25 ¶ * And

* Mat. 24. 29. f when the times are expired, appointed for the ſalvation of the Gentiles, and puniſhment of the Jews. And ſo he paſſeth from the deſtruction of Jeruſalem, to the hiſtory of the latter judgement.

25 ¶ * [f] And there ſhall be ſigns in the ſun, and in the moon, and in the ſtars, and upon the earth diſtreſs of nations, with perplexity, the ſea and the waves roaring,

26 [g] Mens hearts failing them for fear, and for looking after thoſe things which are coming on the earth; for the powers of heaven ſhall be ſhaken.

g After divers tempeſts, the Lord will at the length plainly appear to deliver his church.

27 And then ſhall they ſee the Son of man coming in a cloud with power and great glory.

28 And when theſe things begin to come to paſs, then look up, and lift up your heads; for your redemption draweth nigh.

29 [h] And he ſpake to them a parable, Behold the fig-tree, and all the trees, h we muſt be ſober and watchfull both day & night, for the Lords coming, that we be not taken at unawares.

30 When they now ſhoot forth, ye ſee and know of your own ſelvs, that ſummer is now nigh at hand.

31 So likewiſe ye, when ye ſee theſe things come to paſs, know ye that the kingdom of God is nigh at hand.

32 Verily I ſay unto you, This generation ſhall not paſs away, till all be fulfilled.

33 Heaven and earth ſhall paſs away: but my words ſhall not paſs away.

34 ¶ And take heed to your ſelvs, leaſt at any time your hearts be overcharged with ſurfeting, and drunkenneſs, and cares of this life, and ſo that day come upon you unawares.

h On all men wherſoever they be.

35 For as a ſnare ſhall it come on all [h] them that dwell on the face of the whole earth.

36 Watch ye therefore and pray always, that ye may be accounted worthy to eſcape all theſe things that ſhall come to paſs, and to [i] ſtand before the ſon of man.

i You may ſo appear, that you will abide the countenance and ſentence of the Judge without fear.

37 And in the day-time he was teaching in the temple, and at night he went out, and abode in the mount that is called the mount of Olives.

38 And all the people came early in the morning to him in the temple, for to hear him.

CHAP. XXII.

1 The Jews conſpire againſt Chriſt. 3 Satan prepareth Judas to betray him. 7 The apoſtles prepare the paſsover. 19 Chriſt inſtituteth his holy ſupper: 21 covertly foretelleth of the traitor: 24 dehorteth the reſt of his apoſtles from ambition: 32 aſſureth Peter his faith ſhould not fail, 34 and yet he ſhould deny him thrice. 39 He prayeth in the mount, and ſweateth bloud: 47 is betrayed with a kiſs: 50 he healeth Malchus ear. 54 He is thrice denied of Peter, 63 ſhamefully abuſed, 66 and confeſſeth himſelf to be the Son of God.

* Mat. 26. 2. 1 Chriſt is taken upon the day of the paſsover, rather by the providence of his Father, than by the will of men.

NOw * the [1] feaſt of unleavened bread drew nigh, which is called the paſsover.

* Mat. 26. 14. 2 God by his wonderful providence cauſeth him to be the miniſter of our ſalvation, who was the author of our deſtruction.

2 And the chief prieſts and Scribes ſought how they might kill him; for they feared the people.

a They that had the charge of keeping the temple, which were none of the prieſts and biſhops, as appeareth by the 52 verſe of this chapter.

3 ¶ * [2] Then entred Satan into Judas ſirnamed Iſcariot, being of the number of the twelve.

4 And he went his way, and communed with the chief prieſts and [a] captains, how he might betray him unto them.

5 And they were glad, and covenanted to give him money.

6 And he promiſed, and ſought opportunity to betray him unto them in the [b] abſence of the multitude.

b without tumult, unwitting to the people which uſed to follow him: & therefore indeed they watched their time, when they knew he was alone in the garden.

7 ¶ * [3] Then came the day of unleavened bread, when the paſsover [c] muſt be killed.

* Mat. 26. 17. 3 Chriſt teacheth his diſciples by a manifeſt miracle, that although he be going to be crucified, yet nothing is hid from him: and therefore that he goeth willingly to death.

8 And he ſent Peter and John, ſaying, Go and prepare us the [d] paſsover, that we may eat.

c By the order appointed by the law.

9 And they ſaid unto him, Where wilt thou that we prepare?

10 And he ſaid unto them, Behold, when ye are entred into the city, there ſhall a man meet you, bearing a pitcher of water, follow him into the houſe where he entreth in.

d The lamb which was the figure of the paſsover: And this is ſpoken by the figure metonymia, which is very uſuall in the matter of the ſacraments.

11 And ye ſhall ſay unto the good man of the houſe, The Maſter ſaith unto thee, Where is the gueſt-chamber where I ſhall eat the paſsover with my diſciples?

12 And he ſhall ſhew you a large upper room furniſhed, there make ready.

13 And they went and found as he had ſaid unto them: & they made ready the paſsover.

14 * [4] And when the [e] hour was come, he ſat down, and the twelve apoſtles with him.

* Mat. 26. 20. 4 Chriſt having ended the paſsover according to the order of the law, forewarneth them that this ſhall be his laſt banket with them, after the manner and neceſſity of this life

15 And he ſaid unto them, ‡ With deſire I have deſired to eat this paſsover with you before I [f] ſuffer.

e The evening and twilight, at what time this ſupper was to be kept.

‡ Or, I have heartily deſired

f I am put to death.

16 For I ſay unto you, I will not any more eat thereof, until it be fulfilled in the kingdom of God.

17 And he took the cup, and gave thanks, and ſaid, Take this, and divide it among your ſelvs.

18 For I ſay unto you, I will not drink of the fruit of the vine, until the kingdom of God ſhall come.

19 ¶ * [5] And he took bread, and gave thanks, and brake it, and gave unto them, ſaying, This is my body which is given for you, this do in remembrance of me.

* Mat. 26. 26. 5 Chriſt eſtabliſheth his new covenant, and his communicating with us with new ſigns.

20 Likewiſe alſo the cup after ſupper, ſaying, This [g] cup is [h] the new teſtament in my bloud, which is ſhed for you.

g Here is a double metonymie: for firſt, The veſſel is taken for that which is contained in the veſſel, as the cup, for the wine which is within the cup. Then the wine is called the covenant or teſtament, whereas indeed it is but the ſign of the teſtament, or rather of the bloud of Chriſt whereby the teſtament was made: neither is it a vain ſign, although it be not all one with the thing that it repreſenteth.

21 ¶ * [6] But behold, the [i] hand of him that betrayeth me, is with me on the table.

h This word, This, ſheweth the excellency of the teſtament, and anſwereth to the place of Jeremy, Chap. 31. 31. where the new teſtament is promiſed.

22 [7] And truly the Son of man goeth as it was determined: but wo unto that man by whom he is betrayed.

23 And they began to enquire among themſelvs, which of them it was that ſhould do this thing.

24 ¶ [8] And there was alſo a ſtrife among them, which of them ſhould be accounted the greateſt.

25 * And he ſaid unto them, The kings of the Gentiles exerciſe lordſhip over them, and they that exerciſe authority upon them, are called [k] benefactors.

26 But ye ſhall not be ſo; but he that is greateſt among you, let him be as the young-

* Mat. 26. 21. 6 Chriſt ſheweth again that he goeth to death willingly, although he be not ignorant of Judas treaſon. i That is, His practiſe, ſo uſe the Hebrews to ſpeak, as 2 Sam. 14. 19: Is not the hand of Joab in all this? 7 Although the decree of Gods providence come neceſſarily to paſs, yet it excuſeth not the fault of the inſtruments. 8 The paſtors are not called to rule, but to ſerve. * Mat. 20. 25. k Have great titles, for ſo it was the cuſtom to honour princes with ſome great titles.

er; and he that is chief, as he that doth serve.

27 For whether is greater, he that sitteth at meat, or he that serveth? Is not he that sitteth at meat? But I am among you as he that serveth.

9 Such as are partakers of the afflictions of Christ, shall also be partakers of his kingdom.

28 [9] Ye are they which have continued with me in my temptations.

29 And I appoint unto you a kingdom, as my Father hath appointed unto me:

30 That ye may eat and drink at my table in my kingdom, * and sit on thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Israel.

* Mat. 19. 28.

10 we must always think upon the wait that Satan layeth for us.
* 1 Pet. 5. 8.

31 [10] ¶ And the Lord said, Simon, Simon, behold, * Satan hath desired to have you, that he may [t] sift you as wheat:

t To toss you, and scatter you, and also to cast you out.

11 It is through the prayers of Christ, that the elect do never utterly fall away from the faith: and that for this cause, that they should stir up one another.

32 [11] But I have prayed for thee, that thy faith fail not; and when thou art converted, strengthen thy brethren.

12 Christ sheweth that faith differeth much from a vain security, in setting before us the grievous example of Peter.
* Mat. 26. 34.

33 [12] And he said unto him, Lord, I am ready to go with thee both into prison, and to death.

34 * And he said, I tell thee, Peter, the cock shall not crow this day, before that thou shalt thrice deny that thou knowest me.

* Mat. 10. 9.

35 * And he said unto them, When I sent you without purse, and scrip, and shoes, lacked ye any thing? And they said, Nothing.

m All this talk is by way of an allegory, as if he said, O my friends and fellow-soudiers, you have lived hitherto as it were in peace: but now there is a most sharp battel at hand to be fought, and therefore you must lay all other things aside, and think upon furnishing your selvs in armour. And what this armour is, he shewed by his own example, when he prayed afterward in the garden, and reproved Peter for striking with the sword.

36 [m] Then said he unto them, But now he that hath a purse, let him take it, and likewise his scrip: and he that hath no sword, let him sell his garment, and buy one.

37 For I say unto you, that this that is written, must yet be accomplished in me, * And he was reckoned among the transgressors: for the things concerning me have an end.

* Isa 53. 12.

38 And they said, Lord, behold, here are two swords. And he said unto them, It is enough.

39 ¶ * And he came out, and went, as he was wont, to the mount of Olives, and his disciples also followed him.

* Mat. 26. 36.

40 * [13] And when he was at the place, he said unto them, Pray, that ye enter not into temptation.

* Mat. 26. 41.

13 Christ hath made death acceptable unto us, by overcoming, in our name, all the horrours of death which had joyned with them, the curse of God.

41 [14] And he was withdrawn from them about a stones cast, and kneeled down, and prayed, 14 Prayers are a sure succour against the most perillous assaults of our enemies.

42 Saying, Father, if thou be willing, remove this cup from me: nevertheless, not my will, but thine be don.

43 And there appeared an angel unto him from heaven, strengthening him.

n This agony sheweth that Christ strove much, and was in great distress: for Christ strove not onely with the fears of death, as other men use to do: for so many Martyrs might seem more constant than Christ, but with the fearfull judgement of his angry Father, which is the fearfullest thing in 44 And being in an [n] agony, he prayed more earnestly, and his sweat was as it were great [o] drops of bloud falling down to the ground.

45 [15] And when he rose up from prayer, and was come to his disciples, he found them sleeping for sorrow, 46 And said unto them, Why sleep ye? rise and pray, least ye enter into temptation.

47 ¶ [16] And while he yet spake, * behold, a multitude, and he that was called Judas, one of the twelve, went before them, and drew near unto Jesus to kiss him.

the world; and the matter was, for that he took the burden of all our sins upon himself. o These do not onely shew that Christ was true man, but other things also which the godly have to consider of, wherein the secret of the redemption of all mankind is contained in the Son of God his debasing himself to the state of a servant: such things as no man can sufficiently declare. 15 Men are utterly sluggish, even in their greatest dangers, until Christ stir them up. 16 Christ is willingly betrayed and taken, that by his obedience he might deliver us, which were guilty of the betraying of Gods glory. * Mat 26. 47.

48 But Jesus said unto him, Judas, betrayest thou the Son of man with a kiss?

17 That zeal which carrieth us out of the bounds of our vocation, pleaseth not Christ.

49 [17] When they which were about him, saw what would follow, they said unto him, Lord, shall we smite with the sword?

50 ¶ And one of them smote the servant of the high priest, and cut off his right ear.

51 And Jesus answered and said, Suffer ye thus far. And he touched his ear, and healed him.

18 Even the very fear of them which took Christ proveth partly their evil conscience, and partly also that all these things were don by Gods providence.

52 [18] Then Jesus said unto the chief priests, and captains of the temple, and the elders which were come to him, Be ye come out as against a thief, with swords and staves?

53 When I was daily with you in the temple, ye stretched forth no hands against me: but this is your hour, and the [p] power of darkness.

p The power that was given to darkness to oppress the light for a season.

54 ¶ * Then took they him, and led him, and brought him into the high priests house. And [19] Peter followed afar off.

* Mat. 26. 57.

19 we have to behold in Peter an example both of the fragility of mans nature, and of the singular goodness of God towards his elect.

55 * And when they had kindled a fire in the midst of the hall, and were set down together, Peter sat down among them.

* Mat. 26. 69.

56 But a certain maid beheld him as he sat by the fire, and earnestly looked upon him, and said, This man was also with him.

57 And he denyed him, saying, Woman, I know him not.

58 And after a little while another saw him, and said, Thou art also of them. And Peter said, Man, I am not.

59 And about the space of one hour after, another confidently affirmed, saying, Of a truth this fellow also was with him; for he is a Galilean.

60 And Peter said, Man, I know not what thou sayest. And immediately while he yet spake, the cock crew.

61 And the Lord turned, and looked upon Peter; and Peter remembred the word of the Lord, how he had said unto him, Before the cock crow, thou shalt deny me thrice.

62 And Peter went out, and wept bitterly.

20 Christ bare the shame that was due to our sins.

63 ¶ [20] And the men that held Jesus, mocked him, and smote him.

64 And when they had blind-folded him, they struke him on the face, and asked him, saying, Prophesy, who is it that smote thee?

65 And many other things blasphemously spake they against him.

* Mat. 27. 1.

21 Christ is wrongfully condemned of blasphemy before the high Priests judgement-seat, that we might be quit before God from the blasphemy which we deserved.

66 ¶ * [21] And assoon as it was day, the elders of the people, and the chief priests and the Scribes came together, and led him into their council,

67 Saying, Art thou the Christ? tell us. And he said unto them, If I tell you, you will not beleeve:

68 And if I also ask you, you will not answer me, nor let me go.

69 Hereafter shall the Son of man sit on the right hand of the power of God.

70 Then

70 Then said they all, Art thou then the Son of God? And he said unto them, * Ye say that I am.

71 And they said, What need we any further witness? for we our selvs have heard of his own mouth.

* Mat. 14. 62.

CHAP. XXIII.

1 Jesus is accused before Pilate, and sent to Herod. 8 Herod mocketh him. 12 Herod and Pilate are made friends. 18 Barabbas is desired of the people, and is loosed by Pilate, and Jesus is given to be crucified. 27 He telleth the women that lament him, the destruction of Jerusalem: 34 prayeth for his enemies. 39 Two evil doers are crucified with him. 46 His death. 50 His buriall.

AND [1] the whole multitude of them arose, and let him unto Pilate.

1 Christ, who is now ready to suffer for the sedition which we raised in this world, is first of all pronounced guiltless, that it might appear that he suffered not for his own sins (which were none) but for ours.

2 And they began to accuse him, saying, We found this fellow [a] perverting the nation, and forbidding to give tribute to Cesar, saying, that he himself is Christ a king.

2 Corrupting the people, and leading them into errours.

3 * And Pilate asked him, saying, Art thou the king of the Jews? And he answered him and said, Thou sayest it.

* Mat. 27. 11.

4 Then said Pilate to the chief priests and to the people, I find no fault in this man.

5 And they were the more fierce, saying, He stirreth up the people, teaching throughout all Jewry, beginning from Galilee to this place.

6 [2] When Pilate heard of Galilee, he asked whether the man were a Galilean.

2 Christ is a laughing stock to Princes, but to their great smart.

7 And assoon as he knew that he belonged unto [b] Herods jurisdiction, he sent him to Herod, who himself was also at Jerusalem at that time.

b This was Herod Antipas the Tetrarch, in the time of whose government, which was almost the space of 22 years, John the Baptist preached, and was put to death, and Jesus Christ also died, and rose again, and the Apostles began to preach, and divers things were don at Jerusalem, almost seven years after Christs death. This Herod was sent into banishment to Lyons, about the second year of Cajus Cesar.

8 ¶ And when Herod saw Jesus, he was exceeding glad, for he was desirous to see him of a long season, because he had heard many things of him, and he hoped to have seen some miracle don by him.

9 Then he questioned with him in many words, but he answered him nothing.

10 And the chief priests and Scribes stood and vehemently accused him.

11 And Herod with his [c] men of war set him at nought, and mocked him, and arayed him in a gorgeous robe, and sent him again to Pilate.

c Accompanied with his nobles & soldiers which followed him from Galilee

12 ¶ [3] And the same day Pilate and Herod were made friends together; for before they were at enmity between themselvs.

3 The hatred of godliness joyneth the wicked together.

13 ¶ * [4] And Pilate when he had called together the chief priests, and the [d] rulers, and the people,

* Mat. 27. 23.
4 Christ is quit the second time, even of him of whom he is condemned, that it might appear, how he being just, redeemed us which were unjust.

14 Said unto them, Ye have brought this man unto me, as one that perverteth the people, and behold, I having examined him before you, have found no fault in this man touching those things whereof ye accuse him:

d Those whom the Jews called the Sanhedrin.

15 No, nor yet Herod: for I sent you to him, and lo, nothing worthy of death is don unto him.

16 [5] I will therefore chastise him, and release him.

5 The wisdom of the flesh, of two evils, chuseth the less, but God curseth such counsels.

17 For of necessity he must release one unto them at the feast.

18 And they cryed out all at once, saying, Away with this man, & release unto us Barabbas:

19 (Who for a certain sedition made in the city, and for murder was cast in prison)

20 Pilate therefore willing to release Jesus, spake again to them.

21 But they cried, saying, Crucify him, crucify him.

22 [6] And he said unto them the third time, Why, what evil hath he don? I have found no cause of death in him, I will therefore chastise him, and let him go.

6 Christ is quit the third time, before he was condemned once, that it might appear, how that our sins were condemned in him.

23 And they were instant with loud voices, requiring that he might be crucified: and the voices of them, and of the chief priests prevailed.

24 And Pilate, ‡ gave sentence that it should be as they required.

‡ Or, assented

25 And he released unto them, him that for sedition and murder was cast into prison, whom they had desired; but he delivered Jesus to their will.

26 * [7] And as they led him away, they laid hold upon one Simon a Cyrenian, coming out of the countrey, and on him they laid the cross, that he might bear it after Jesus.

* Mat. 27. 32.
7 An example of the outragiousness and disorder of soldiers.

27 [8] ¶ And there followed him a great company of people, and of women, which also bewailed and lamented him.

8 The triumph of the wicked hath a most horrible end.

28 But Jesus turning unto them, said, Daughters of Jerusalem, weep not for me, but weep for your selvs, and for your children.

29 For behold, the days are coming, in the which they shall say, Blessed are the barren, and the wombs that never bare, and the paps which never gave suck.

30 * Then shall they begin to say to the mountains, Fall on us; & to the hills, Cover us.

* Isa. 2. 19. Hos. 10. 8. Revel. 6. 16.

31 For if they do these things in a [e] green tree, what shall be don in the dry?

* 1 Pet. 4. 17.
e As if he said, If they do thus to me that am fruitfull and always flourishing, and who live for ever, by reason of my Godhead, what will they do to you that are unfruitfull, and void of all lively righteousness?

32 * And there were also two other malefactors led with him to be put to death.

* Mat. 27. 38.

33 [9] And when they were come to the place which is called † Calvary, there they crucified him, and the malefactors, one on the right hand, and the other on the left.

9 Christ became accursed for us upon the cross, suffering the punishment which they deserved that would be made Gods children.
† Or, the place of a scull,

34 ¶ [10] Then said Jesus, Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do. And they parted his raiment, and cast lots.

10 Christ in praying for his enemies, sheweth that he is both the Sacrifice and the Priest.

35 And the people stood beholding, and the rulers also with them, derided him, saying, He saved others, let him save himself, if he be Christ the [f] chosen of God.

f whom God loveth more then all other.

36 And the soldiers also mocked him, coming to him, and offering him vineger:

37 And saying, If thou be the king of the Jews, save thy self.

38 [11] And a superscription also was written over him in letters of Greek, and Latin, and Hebrew, THIS IS THE KING OF THE JEWS.

11 Pilate at unawares is made a Preacher of the kingdom of Christ.

39 ¶ [g] And [12] one of the malefactors which

g Therefore either we must take that is spoken by Matthew, which Matthew saith, or that both of them mocked Christ. But one of them at length overcome with the great patience of God, breaketh forth into that confession worthy all memory. 12 Christ in the midst of the humbling himself upon the cross, sheweth indeed, that he hath both power of life to save the beleevers, and of death to revenge the rebellious.

78 were hanged, railed on him, saying, if thou be the Christ, save thy self and us.

40 But the other answering, rebuked him, saying, Dost not thou fear God, seeing thou art in the same condemnation?

41 And we indeed justly; for we receive the due reward of our deeds: but this man hath don nothing [h] amiss.

h More than he ought.

42 And he said unto Jesus, Lord, remember me when thou comest into thy kingdom.

43 And Jesus said unto him, Verily I say unto thee, To day shalt thou be with me in [i] paradise.

i God made the visible paradise in the east part of the world: but that which we behold with the eyes of our mind is the place of everlasting joy & salvation, through the goodness and mercy of God, a most pleasant rest of the souls of the godly, and most quiet and joyfull dwelling.

44 [13] And it was about the sixth hour, and there was a darkness over all the † earth until the ninth hour.

13 Christ being even at the point of death, sheweth himself to be God Almighty, even to the blind.

† Or, land

45 [14] And the sun was darkened, and the vail of the temple was rent in the midst.

14 Christ entreth stoutly into the very darkness of death, for to overcome death even within his most secret places.

46 ¶ And when Jesus had cried with a loud voice, he said, * Father, into thy hands I commend my spirit: and having said thus, he gave up the ghost.

* Psal. 31. 5.

47 [15] Now when the centurion saw what was don, he glorified God, saying, Certainly this was a righteous man.

15 Christ causeth his very enemies to give honourable witness on his side, so oft as it pleaseth him.

48 And all the people that came together to that sight, beholding the things which were don, smote their breasts, and returned.

49 [16] And all his acquaintance, and the women that followed him from Galilee, stood afar off beholding these things.

16 Christ gathereth together, and defendeth his little flock, in the midst of the tormentors.

50 ¶ * [17] And behold, there was a man named Joseph, a counseller, and he was a good man, and a just:

* Mat. 27. 57. Mark 15. 43. John 19. 38.

17 Christ through his famous burial, confirmeth the truth both of his death and resurrection, by the plain and evident witness of Pilate.

51 (The same had not consented to the counsel and deed of them) he was of Arimathea, a city of the Jews (who also himself waited for the kingdom of God)

52 This man went unto Pilate, and begged the body of Jesus.

53 And he took it down, and wrapped it in linen, and laid it in a sepulchre that was hewen in stone, wherein never man before was laid.

54 And that day was the preparation, and the sabbath [k] drew on.

k Word for word, Dawning, as now beginning, for the light of the former day drew toward the going down, and that was the day of preparation for the feast, which was to be kept the day following.

55 [18] And the women also which came with him from Galilee, followed after, and beheld the sepulchre, and how his body was laid.

56 And they returned, and prepared spices and ointments, and rested the sabbath-day, according to the commandment.

18 Christ being set upon by the devil, and all his instruments, and being even in deaths mouth, setteth weak women in his forward, minding straightway to triumph over those terrible enemies, without any great endeavour.

CHAP. XXIV.

1 Christs resurrection is declared by two angels to the women that come to the sepulchre: 9 these report it to others. 13 Christ himself appeareth to the two disciples that went to Emmaus. 36 Afterward he appeareth to the apostles, and reproveth their unbelief, 47 giveth them a charge, 49 promiseth the holy Ghost: 51 and so ascendeth into heaven.

NOw * [1] upon the first day of the week, very [a] early in the morning, they came unto the sepulchre, bringing the spices which they had prepared, and certain others with them.

* Mat. 28. 1.

1 Poor silly women even beside their expectation are chosen to be the first witnesses of the resurrection, that there might be no suspition either of deceit or violence.

a Very early, as Mark saith, or, as John saith, while it was yet dark, that is, when it was yet scarce the dawning of the day.

2 And they found the stone rolled away from the sepulchre.

3 And they entred in, and found not the body of the Lord Jesus.

4 And it came to pass, as they were much perplexed thereabout, behold, two men stood by them in shining garments.

5 And as they were afraid, and bowed down their faces to the earth, they said unto them, Why seek ye † the living among the dead?

† Or, him that liveth

6 He is not here, but is risen: * remember how he spake unto you when he was yet in Galilee:

* Mat. 17. 23.

7 Saying, the Son of man must be delivered into the hands of sinfull men, and be crucified, and the third day rise again.

8 And they remembred his words:

9 [2] And returned from the sepulchre, and told all these things unto the eleven, and to all the rest.

2 The cowardly & dastardly mind of the disciples is upbraided by the stout courage of women (so wrought by Gods great mercies) to shew that the kingdom of God consisteth in an extraordinary power.

10 It was Mary Magdalene, and Joanna, and Mary the mother of James, and other women that were with them, which told these things unto the Apostles.

11 And their words seemed to them as idle tales, and they beleeved them not.

12 * [3] Then arose Peter, and ran unto the sepulchre, and [b] stouping down, he beheld the linen clothes laid by themselvs, and departed, wondering in himself at that which was come to pass.

* John 20. 6.

3 Christ useth the incredulity of his disciples, to the fullest setting forth of the truth of his resurrection, least they should seem to have beleeved that too lightly, which they preached afterward to all the world.

b As it were holding down his head, and bowing his neck, looked diligently in.

13 ¶ * [4] And behold, two of them went that same day to a village called Emmaus, which was from Jerusalem about threescore furlongs.

* Mark 16. 12.

4 The resurrection is proved by two other witnesses, which saw it, and that it was no forged thing framed of purpose in their own brains, all the circumstances do declare.

14 And they talked together of all these things which had happened.

15 And it came to pass, that while they communed together and reasoned, Jesus himself drew near, and went with them.

16 [c] But their eyes were holden, that they should not know him.

c were holden back and stayed, God so appointing it, no doubt: and therefore his body was not invisible, but their eyes were dimmed.

17 And he said unto them, What manner of communications are these that ye have one to another, as ye walk, and are sad?

18 And [d] the one of them, whose name was Cleopas, answering, said unto him, Art thou onely a stranger in Jerusalem, and hast not known the things which are come to pass there in these days?

d Some of the old Fathers think that the other disciple was this our Evangelist, but Epiphanius writing against the Saturnilians, saith, it was Nathanael, but all these are uncertainties.

19 And he said unto them, What things? And they said unto him, concerning Jesus of Nazareth, which was a prophet mighty in deed and word before God, and all the people:

20 [5] And how the chief priests and our rulers delivered him to be condemned to death, and have crucified him.

5 It appeareth by the conferring of the forewarnings of the prophets, that all these things are true and certain which the Evangelists have put down in their writing of Christ.

21 But we trusted that it had been he, which should have redeemed Israel: and beside all this, to day is the third day since these things were don.

22 Yea, and certain women also of our company made us astonished, which were early at the sepulchre:

23 And

23 And when they found not his body, they came, saying, that they had also seen a vision of angels, which said that he was alive.

24 And certain of them which were with us, went to the sepulchre, and found it even so as the women had said, but him they saw not.

25 Then he said unto them, O fools, and slow of heart to beleeve all that the prophets have spoken:

26 Ought not Christ to have suffered these things, and to enter into his glory?

27 And beginning at Moses, and all the prophets, he expounded unto them in all the scriptures, the things concerning himself.

28 And they drew nigh unto the village, whither they went, and he made as though he would have gon further.

29 But they constrained him, saying, Abide with us, for it is towards evening, and the day is far spent: and he went in to tarry with them.

30 And it came to pass, as he sat at meat with them, he took bread, and blessed it, and brake, and gave to them.

31 And their eyes were opened, and they knew him, & he †[e] vanished out of their sight.

e Suddenly taken away, and therefore we may not imagin that he was there in such a body as could not be seen, but beleeve indeed that he changed his place.

32 And they said one to another, Did not our heart burn within us, while he talked with us by the way, and while he opened to us the scriptures?

33 And they rose up the same hour, and returned to Jerusalem, and found the eleven gathered together, and them that were with them, 34 Saying, The Lord is risen indeed, and hath appeared to Simon.

35 And they told what things were don in the way, and how he was known of them in [f] breaking of bread.

f when he brake bread, which that people used, as the Jews use yet at this day at the beginning of their meals, and say a prayer.

36 ¶ * [6] And as they thus spake, Jesus himself stood in the midst of them, and saith unto them, Peace be unto you.

* Mark 16. 14.

6 The Lord himself sheweth by certain and necessary signs, that he was risen again, and that with the same body which he took upon him.

37 But they were terrified and affrighted, and supposed that they had seen a spirit.

38 And he said unto them, Why are ye troubled, and why do [g] thoughts arise in your hearts?

g Divers & doubtfull thoughts which fall oft into mens heads, when any strange thing falleth out, whereof there is no great likelihood.

39 Behold my hands and my feet, that it is I my self: handle me, and see, for a spirit hath not flesh and bones, as ye see me have.

40 And when he had thus spoken, he shewed them his hands and his feet.

41 And while they yet beleeved not for joy, and wondered, he said unto them, Have ye here any meat?

42 And they gave him a piece of a broiled fish, and of an honey-comb.

43 And he took it, and did eat before them.

✚ 44 And he said unto them, These are the words which I spake unto you, while I was yet with you, that all things must be fulfilled which were written in the law of Moses, and in the prophets, and in the psalms concerning me.

45 Then opened he their understanding, that they might understand the scriptures,

46 And said unto them, Thus it is written, and thus it behoved Christ to suffer, and to rise from the dead the third day:

47 [7] And that repentance and remission of sins should be preached in his name, among all nations, [h] beginning at Jerusalem.

7 The preaching of the gospel, which was promised to the Prophets, and performed in his time is committed unto the Apostles: the sum whereof is, Repentance and remission of sins.

h The apostles, who are the preachers of the Gospel, beginning at Jerusalem.

48 And ye are witnesses of these things.

49 ¶ * And behold, I send the promise of my Father upon you: but tarry ye in the city of Jerusalem, [i] until ye be endued with power from on high.

* John 15. 26. Acts 1. 4.

i Until the holy Ghost come down from heaven upon you.

50 ¶ [8] And he led them out as far as to Bethany, and he lift up his hands, and blessed them.

8 Christ ascendeth into heaven, and departing bodily from his disciples, filleth their hearts with the holy Ghost.

51 * And it came to pass, while he blessed them, he was parted from them, and carried up into heaven.

* Mark 16. 19. Acts 1. 9.

52 And they worshipped him, and returned to Jerusalem, with great joy:

53 And were continually in the temple, praising and blessing God. Amen.

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO S. JOHN.

CHAP. I.

1 The divinity, humanity, and office of Jesus Christ. 15 The testimony of John. 39 The calling of Andrew, Peter, &c.

IN 1 the [a] beginning [b] was the [c] Word, and the Word was [d] with God, and the [e] Word was God.

2 * The same was in the beginning with God.

3 * 2 All [f] things were made by him, and [g] without him [h] was not any thing made that was made.

4 [i] In him [k] was life, and the life was the [l] light of men.

5 [3] And the light shineth in darkness, and the [m] darkness comprehended it not.

6 ¶ * [4] There was a man sent from God, whose name was John.

7 The same came for a witness, to bear witness of the light, that all men [n] through him might beleeve.

8 He was not that [o] light, but was sent to bear witness of that light.

9 [5] That was the [p] true light, which lighteth every man that cometh into the world.

10 [q] He was in the world, and * the world was made by him, & the world knew him not.

11 He came unto [r] his own, and his own received him not.

12 [6] But as many as received him, to them gave he † [s] power to become the sons of God, even to them that beleeve on his name:

13 Which were born, not of bloud, nor of the [t] will of the flesh, nor of the will of man, but of God.

14 * [7] And the Word was made [u] flesh, and [x] dwelt among us (and we beheld his glory, the [y] glory [z] as of the onely begotten of the Father, [a] full of grace and truth.

15 ¶ [8] John bare witness of him and cried, saying, This was he of whom I spake, He that cometh [b] after me, is preferred [c] before me, for he was before me.

16 [9] And of his * fulness have all we received, and [d] grace for grace.

17 For the law was given by Moses, but grace and truth came by Jesus Christ.

18 * [10] No man hath seen God at any time; the onely begotten Son, which is in the [e] bosom of the Father, he hath [f] declared him.

19 ¶ [11] And this is the record of John, when the Jews sent priests and Levites from Jerusalem, to ask him, Who art thou?

20 And he [g] confessed, and [h] denyed not; but confessed, I am not the Christ.

21 And they asked him, What then? Art thou Elias? And he saith, [i] I am not. Art thou †[k] that prophet? And he answered, No.

22 Then said they unto him, Who art thou, that we may give an answer to them that sent us? what sayest thou of thy self?

23 * He said, I am the voice of one crying in the wilderness, Make straight the way of the Lord, as said the prophet Esaias.

24 [12] And they which were sent, were of the Pharisees.

25 And they asked him, and said unto him, [l] Why baptizest thou then, if thou be not a From the beginning, as the Evangelist saith, 1. Epistle 1. 1. as though he said, that the word began not then to have his being, when God began to make all that was made: for the word was even then when all things that were made, began to be made, and therefore he was before the beginning of all things.

1 The Son of God is of one, and the self same eternity or everlastingness, and of one and the self same essence or nature with the Father.

b He had his being.

c This word That or the, pointeth out unto us a peculiar and choice thing above all other, and putteth a difference between this word, which is the Son of God, and the laws of God, which otherwise are also called the word of God.

d This word with, pointeth out the distinction of persons unto us.

e This word (word) is the first in order in the sentence, and is that which the learned call (Subjectum) and this word (God) is the latter in order, and the same which the learned call (Predicatum.)

* Gen. 1. 1.

* Col. 1. 16.

2 The Son of God declareth that same his everlasting Godhead, both by the creating of all things, and also by the preserving of them, and especially, by the excellent gifts of reason and understanding, wherewith he hath beautified man above all other creatures. f Paul expoundeth this place Col. 1. 15, & 16. verses. g That is, As the Father did work, so did the Son work with him: for, he was fellow-worker with him. h Of all those things which were made, nothing was made without him. i That is, By him: and it is spoken after the manner of the Hebrews, meaning thereby, that by his force and working power, all life cometh to the world. k To wit, Even then, when all things are made by him: for else he would have said, Life is in him, and not life was. l That force of reason and understanding, which is kindled in our minds to acknowledge him, the authour of so great a benefit. 3 The light of men is turned into darkness, but yet so that there is clearness enough to make them without excuse. m They could not perceive nor reach unto it, to receive any light of it, no, they did not so much as acknowledge him. * Mat. 3. 1. 4 There is another more full manifestation of the Son of God, to the consideration whereof men are in good time stirred up, even by Johns voice, who is, as it were, the herauld of Christ. n Through John. o That light which we spake of, to wit, Christ, who onely can lighten our darkness. 5 when as the Son of God saw, that men did not acknowledge him by his works, although they were endued with understanding (which he had given to them all) he exhibited himself unto his people, to be seen of them with their corporall eyes: yet neither did they so acknowledge him, nor receive him. p who onely and properly deserveth to be called the light, for he shineth of himself, and borroweth light of none. q The person of the word, was made manifest even at that time when the world was made. * Heb 11. 3. r The word shewed himself again, when he came in the flesh. 6 The Son being shut out of the most of his people, and acknowledged but of a few, doth regenerate them by his own vertue and power, and receiveth them into that honour which is common to all the children of God, that is, To be the sons of God. † Or, the right, or, priviledge s He vouchsafed to give them this prerogative to take them to be his children. t Or that grosse and corrupt nature of man, which is, throughout the Scriptures, set as enmity to the spirit.

* Mat. 1. 16.

7 The Son, who is God from everlasting, took upon him mans nature, that one and the self same might be both God and man, which manifestly appeared to many witnesses that saw him, amongst whom he was conversant, and unto whom by sure and undoubted arguments he shewed both his natures

u That is, Man: so that the part is taken for the whole by the figure Synechdoche: for he took upon him all our whole nature, that is to say, A true body and a true soul.

x For a season, and when that was ended, he went up into heaven: for the word which he useth, is taken from tents: and yet notwithstanding, his absence from us in body is not such, but that he is always present with us, though not in flesh, yet by the vertue of his spirit.

y The glory which he speaketh of here, is that manifestation of Christ his majesty which was, as it were, laid open before our eyes when the Son of God appeared in the flesh.

z This word (as) doth not in this place betoken a likeness, but the truth of the matter; for his meaning is this, that we saw such a glory, as beseemed and was meet for the true and onely begotten Son of God, who is Lord and King over all the whole world.

a He was not onely a partaker of grace and truth, but was full of the very substance of grace and truth. 8 John is a faithfull witness of the excellency of Christ. b That is, He before whom I am sent to prepare him the way: so that these words are referred to the time of his calling, and not of his age, for John was six moneths older than he. c This sentence hath in it a turning of the reason, as we call it, as who should say, a setting of that first, which should be last, and that last which should be first: for in plain speech this it is, He that cometh after me, is better then I am, for he was before me. The like kind of turning the reason we find in Luke 7. 47. Many sins are forgiven her, because she loved much: which is thus much to say, She loved much, because many sins are forgiven her. 9 Christ is the most plentifull fountain of all goodness, but then he poured out his gifts most bountifully, when as he exhibited and shewed himself to the world. * Col. 1. 19. d That is grace upon grace, as a man would say, graces heaped one upon another. * 1 Tim. 6. 16. 1 John 4. 12. 10 The true knowledge of God proceedeth onely from Jesus Christ. e who is nearest to his father, not onely in respect of his love towards him, but by the bond of nature. and for that union or oneness that is between them, whereby the Father and the Son are one. f Revealed him and shewed him unto us, whereas before he was hid under the shadows of the law, so that the quickness of the sight of our minds was not able to perceive him: for who soever seeth him, seeth the Father also. 11 John is neither the Messias, nor like to any of the other Prophets, but is the herauld of Christ who is now present. g He did acknowledge him, and spake of him plainly and openly. h This rehearsing of the one and the self same thing, though in divers words, is used much of the Hebrews, and it hath great force, for they use to speak one thing twice, to set it out more certainly and plainly. i The Jews thought that Elias should come again before the days of Messias, and they took the ground of that their opinion out of Malac. 4. 5. which place is to be understood of John, Mat. 11. 14 And yet John denieth that he is Elias, answering them indeed according as they meant. † Or, a prophet k They enquire of some great Prophet, and not of Christ, for John denyed before, that he is Christ, for they thought that some great prophet should be sent like unto Moses, wrestling, to that purpose, that place of Deut. 18. 15. which is to be understood of all the company of the Prophets and ministers, which have been, and shall be to the end, and especially of Christ who is the head of all prophets. * Mat. 3. 3. 12 Christ is the author of baptism, and not John: and therefore the force thereof consisteth not in John, who is the minister, but wholly in Christ the Lord l Hereby we may prove that the Jews knew there should be some change in religion under the Messias.

that Chriſt, nor Elias, neither that prophet?

26 John anſwered them, ſaying, I baptize with water, but there ſtandeth one [m] among you, whom ye know not:

27 * He it is, who coming after me, is preferred before me, whoſe ſhoes latchet I am not worthy to looſe.

28 Theſe things were don in Bethabara beyond Jordan, where John was baptizing.

29 ¶ [13] The next day John ſeeth Jeſus coming unto him, and ſaith, behold [n] the Lamb of God, which ‡ [o] taketh away the [p] ſin of the world.

30 This is he of whom I ſaid, After me cometh a man, which is preferred before me: for he was before me.

31 And [q] I knew him not: but that he ſhould be made manifeſt to Iſrael, therefore am I come baptizing with water.

32 * [14] And John bare record, ſaying, I ſaw the Spirit deſcending from heaven, like a dove, and it abode upon him.

33 And I knew him not: but he that ſent me to baptize with water, the ſame ſaid unto me, Upon whom thou ſhalt ſee the Spirit deſcending and remaining on him, the ſame is he which baptizeth with the holy Ghoſt.

34 And I ſaw, and bare record that this is [r] the Son of God.

35 ¶ [15] Again the next day after, John ſtood, and two of his diſciples:

36 [16] And looking upon Jeſus as he walked, he ſaith, Behold the Lamb of God.

37 [17] And the two diſciples heard him ſpeak, and they followed Jeſus.

38 Then Jeſus turned, and ſaw them following, and ſaith unto them, What ſeek ye? They ſaid unto him, Rabbi (which is to ſay being interpreted, Maſter) [s] where ‡ dwelleſt thou?

39 He ſaith unto them, Come and ſee. They came and ſaw where he dwelt, and abode with him that day: for it was ‡ about the [t] tenth hour.

40 One of the two which heard John ſpeak, and followed him, was Andrew, Simon Peters brother.

41 He firſt findeth his own brother Simon, and ſaid unto him, We have found the Meſſias, which is, being interpreted, ‡ the [u] Chriſt.

42 And he brought him to Jeſus. And when Jeſus beheld him, he ſaid, Thou art Simon the ſon of Jona, thou ſhalt be called Cephas, which is by interpretation, ‡ a ſtone.

43 ¶ The day following, Jeſus would go forth into Galilee, and findeth Philip, and ſaith unto him, Follow me.

44 Now Philip was of Bethſaida, the city of Andrew and Peter.

45 [18] Philip findeth Nathanael, and ſaith unto him, We have found him of whom * Moſes in the law, and the prophets did write, Jeſus of Nazareth, the ſon of Joſeph.

46 [19] And Nathanael ſaid unto him, Can there any good thing come out of Nazareth? Philip ſaith unto him, Come and ſee.

47 [20] Jeſus ſaw Nathanael coming to him, and ſaith of him, Behold an Iſraelite indeed, in whom is no guil.

48 [21] Nathanael ſaith unto him, Whence knoweſt thou me? Jeſus anſwered and ſaid unto him, Before that Philip called thee, when thou waſt under the fig-tree, I ſaw thee.

49 Nathanael anſwered and ſaith unto him, Rabbi, thou art the Son of God, thou art the King of Iſrael.

50 Jeſus anſwered and ſaid unto him, Becauſe I ſaid unto thee, I ſaw thee under the fig-tree, beleeveſt thou? thou ſhalt ſee greater things than theſe.

51 And he ſaith unto him, Verily, verily I ſay unto you, Hereafter you ſhall ſee heaven open, and the angels of God [x] aſcending and deſcending upon the Son of man.

Chap. II.

1 Chriſt turneth water into wine, 12 departeth into Capernaum, and to Jeruſalem, 14 where he purgeth the temple of buyers and ſellers. 19 He foretelleth his death and reſurrection. 23 Many beleeved becauſe of his miracles, but he would not truſt himſelf with them.

AND the [a] third day there was a marriage in Cana of Galilee, and the mother of Jeſus was there.

2 And both Jeſus was called, and his diſciples, to the marriage.

3 [2] And when they wanted wine, the mother of Jeſus ſaith unto him, They have no wine.

4 Jeſus ſaith unto her, Woman, what have I to do with thee? mine [b] hour is not yet come.

5 His mother ſaith unto the ſervants, Whatſoever he ſaith unto you, do it.

6 And there were ſet there [c] ſix water-pots of ſtone, after the manner of the purifying of the Jews, containing two or three [d] firkins a piece.

7 Jeſus ſaith unto them, Fill the water-pots with water. And they filled them up to the brim.

8 And he ſaith unto them, Draw out now, and bear unto the governor of the feaſt. And they bare it.

9 When the ruler of the feaſt had taſted the water that was made wine, and knew not whence it was, (but the ſervants which drew the water knew) the governor of the feaſt called the bridegroom,

10 And ſaith unto him, Every man at the beginning doth ſet forth good wine, and when men have [e] well drunk, then that which is worſe: but thou haſt kept the good wine until now.

11 This beginning of miracles did Jeſus in Cana of Galilee, and manifeſted forth his glory, and his diſciples beleeved on him.

12 ¶ After this, he went down to Capernaum, he, and his mother, and his [f] brethren, and his diſciples, and they continued there not many days.

13 ¶ [3] And

m whom all the world ſeeth, and is even amongſt you.
* Mat. 3. 11. Act. 19. 4.

13 The body and truth of all the ſacrifices of the law to make ſatiſfaction for the ſin of the world is in Chriſt.
n This word (That or the) which is added, hath great force in it, not onely to ſet forth the worthineſs of Chriſt, and ſo to ſeparate him from the Lamb, which was a figure of him, and from all other ſacrifices of the law, but alſo to bring into our minds the prophecies of Iſaiah and others ‡ Or, beareth
o This word of the preſent time, ſignifieth a continuall act, for the Lamb hath this vertue proper unto him, and for ever, to take away the ſins of the world.
p That is, That root of ſins, to wit, Our corruption, and ſo conſequently the fruits of ſin, which are commonly called in the plurall number, Sins.
q I never knew him by face before.
* Mat. 3. 16.
14 Chriſt is proved to be the Son of God, by the coming down of the holy Ghoſt, by the Fathers voice, and by Johns teſtimony.
t This word (That or the) pointeth out unto us ſome excellent thing, and maketh difference between Chriſt and others, whom Moſes and the Prophets commonly call the ſons of God, or the ſons of the moſt High.
15 John gathereth diſciples not to himſelf, but to Chriſt.
16 Chriſt is ſet before us to follow, not as a vain ſhadow, but as our Mediator.
17 In this firſt gathering of the diſciples, we have ſhewed unto us, that the beginning of ſalvation is from God, who calleth us unto his Son by the miniſtery of his ſervants: whom (ſo preventing us) wee muſt alſo hear, and follow him home, that being inſtructed by him, we may alſo inſtruct others.
s where is thy lodging?
‡ Or, Abideſt ‡ That was two hours before night. t The night grew on. ‡ Or, the anointed, u That is, anointed and king, after the manner of the Jewiſh people. ‡ Or, Peter. 18 The good endeavours even of the unlearned, God doth ſo allow, that he maketh them maſters to the learned. * Gen. 49. 10. Deut. 18. 18. * Iſa. 4. 2.

19 We muſt eſpecially take heed of falſe preſumptions, which ſhut up againſt us the entrance to Chriſt.
20 Simple uprightneſs diſcerneth the true Iſraelites from the falſe.
21 The end of miracles, is to ſet before us Chriſt the Almighty, and alſo the onely author of our ſalvation, that we may apprehend him by faith.

x By theſe words, the power of God is ſignified, which ſhould appear in his miniſtery by the angels ſerving him as the head of the Church.

1 Chriſt declaring openly in an aſſembly by a notable miracle that he hath power over the nature of things, to feed mans body, leadeth the minds of all men to his ſpirituall & ſaving vertue and power.
a After the talk which he had with Nathanael, or after that he departed from John, or after that he came into Galilee.
2 Chriſt is carefull enough of our ſalvation, and therefore hath no need of others to put him in mind of it.
b Mine appointed time.
c Theſe were veſſels appointed for water, wherein they waſhed themſelvs.
d Every firkin contained an hundred pound, at twelve ounces the pound: whereby we gather, that Chriſt holp them with a thouſand and eight hundred pounds of wine.

e Word for word, Are drunken: Now this ſpeech, to be drunken, is not always taken in evil part in the Hebrew tongue, but ſignifieth ſomtime, ſuch ſtore, and plentifull uſe of wine, as doth not paſs meaſure, as Gen. 43. 34.
f That is, His couſins.

13 ¶ [3] And the Jews passover was at hand, and Jesus went up to Jerusalem,

14 [4] And found in the temple those that sold oxen, and sheep, and doves, and the changers of money, sitting:

15 And when he had made a scourge of small cords, he drove them all out of the temple, and the sheep and the oxen, and poured out the changers money, & overthrew the tables;

16 And said unto them that sold doves, Take these things hence, make not my Fathers house an house of merchandise.

17 And his disciples remembred that it was written, * The [g] zeal of thine house hath eaten me up.

18 ¶ [5] Then answered the Jews, and said unto him, What [h] sign shewest thou unto us, seeing that thou doest these things?

19 Jesus answered and said unto them, * Destroy this temple, and in three days I will raise it up.

20 Then said the Jews, Forty and six years was this temple in building, and wilt thou rear it up in three days?

21 But he spake of the [i] temple of his body.

22 When therefore he was risen from the dead, his disciples remembred that he had said this unto them: and they beleeved the scripture, and the word which Jesus had said.

23 ¶ Now when he was in Jerusalem at the passover, in the feast day, many beleeved in his name, when they saw the miracles which he did.

24 [6] But Jesus did not commit himself unto them, because he knew all men, 25 [7] And needed not that any should testify of man: for he knew what was in man.

3 Christ being made subject to the law for us, satisfieth the law of the passover.
4 Christ being ordained to purge the church, doth with great zeal begin his office both of priest and prophet.

* Psal 69. 9.
g Zeal in this place is taken for a wrathfull indignation and displeasure of the mind, conceived of some naughty and evil dealing towards them whom we love well.
5 Against them which so bind God to an ordinary calling, which they themselvs most shamefully abuse, that they will not admit an extraordinary, which God confirmeth from heaven (and they, although in vain, would have it extinguished) unless it be sealed with outward and bodily miracles.
h with what miracle dost thou confirm it, that we may see that heavenly power and vertue, which giveth thee authority to speak and do thus?
* Mat. 26. 61.
i That is, Of his body.
6 It is not good crediting them, which stand onely upon miracles.
7 Christ is the searcher of hearts, and therefore true God.

Chap. III.

1 Christ teacheth Nicodemus the necessity of regeneration: 14 of faith in his death. 16 The great love of God towards the world. 18 Condemnation for unbelief. 23 The baptism, witness, and doctrin of John concerning Christ.

THere [1] was a man of the Pharisees, named Nicodemus, a [a] ruler of the Jews:

2 The same came to Jesus by night, and said unto him, Rabbi, we know that thou art a [b] teacher come from God: for no man can do these miracles that thou doest, [c] except God be with him.

3 [2] Jesus answered and said unto him, Verily, verily I say unto thee, Except a man be born † again, he cannot [d] see the [e] kingdom of God.

4 Nicodemus saith unto him, [f] How can a man be born when he is old? can he enter the second time into his mothers womb, and be born?

5 Jesus answered, Verily, verily I say unto thee, Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God.

1 There are none sometimes more unlearned than the learned: but as well the learned as the unlearned must desire wisdom of Christ onely.
a A man of great estimation, and a ruler amongst the Jews:
b we know that thou art sent from God to teach us.
c But he in whom some part of the excellency of God appeareth. And if Nicodemus had known Christ aright, he would not onely have said that God was with him, but in him, as Paul doth, 2 Cor. 5. 15.
2 The beginning of Christianity consisteth in this, That we know our selvs not onely to be corrupt in part, but to be wholly dead in sin: so that our nature hath need to be created a new, as touching the qualities thereof, which can be don by no other vertue, but by the divine and heavenly, whereby we were first created. † Or, from above. d That is, Go in, or enter, as he expoundeth himself afterward, vers. 5. e The church: for Christ sheweth in this place how we come to be citizens, and to have ought to do in the city of God. f How can I that am old be born again? for he answereth as if Christ his words belonged to none but to him.

6 That which is born of the [g] flesh, is flesh: and that which is born of the Spirit, is spirit.

7 Marvell not that I said unto thee, Ye must be born † again.

8 The wind bloweth where it [h] listeth, and thou heares the sound thereof, but canst not tell whence it cometh, and whither it goeth: so is every one that is born of the Spirit.

9 [3] Nicodemus answered and said unto him, How can these things be?

10 Jesus answered and said unto him, Art thou a master of Israel, and knowest not these things?

11 Verily, verily I say unto thee, We speak that we do know, and testify that we have seen; and ye receive not our [i] witness.

12 If I have told you earthly things, and ye beleeve not: how shall ye beleeve if I tell you of heavenly things?

13 And [k] no man hath [l] ascended up to heaven, but he that came down from heaven, even the [m] Son of man which is [n] in heaven.

14 * And as Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness: even so must the Son of man be lifted up:

15 That whosoever beleeveth in him, should not perish, but have eternall life.

16 ¶ * [4] For God so loved the world, that he gave his onely begotten Son: that whosoever beleeveth [o] in him, should not perish, but have everlasting life.

17 * [5] For God sent not his Son into the world to [p] condemn the world: but that the [q] world through him might be saved.

18 ¶ He that beleeveth on him, is not condemned: but he that beleeveth not, is condemned already, because he hath not beleeved in the name of the onely begotten Son of God.

19 [6] And this is the [r] condemnation, * that light is come into the world, and men loved darkness rather than light, because their deeds were evil.

20 For every one that doeth evil, hateth the light, neither cometh to the light, least his deeds should be † reproved.

21 But he that [s] doeth truth, cometh to the light, that his deeds may be made manifest, that they are wrought [t] in God.

22 ¶ After these things came Jesus and his disciples into the land of Judea, and there he tarried with them, * and baptized.

23 ¶ And John also was baptizing in Ænon, near to Salim, because there was much water there: and they came, and were baptized.

24 For John was not yet cast into prison.

25 ¶ [7] Then there arose a question between

g That is, Fleshly, to wit, wholly unclean, and under the wrath of God: and therefore this word (Flesh) signifieth the corrupt nature of man: contrary to which is the (Spirit) that is, the man ingrafted into Christ through the grace of the holy Ghost, whose nature is everlasting & immortall, though the strife of the flesh remaineth.
h with free and wandring blasts as it listeth
3 The secret mystery of our regeneration, which cannot be comprehended by mans capacity, is perceived by faith, and that in Christ onely, because that he is both God on earth, and man in heaven, that is to say, In such sort man, that he is God also, and therefore almighty: and in such sort God, that he is man also, and therefore his power is manifest unto us.
i You handle doubtfull things, and such as you have no certain author for, and yet men beleeve you: but I teach those things that are of a truth and well known, and you beleeve me not.
k Onely Christ can teach us heavenly things, for no man ascendeth, &c. l That is, Hath any spirituall light & understanding, or ever had, but onely that Son of God, which came down to us.
m whereas he is said to have come down from heaven, that must be understood of his Godhead, and of the manner of his conception: for Christ his birth upon the earth was heavenly and not earthly, for he was conceived by the holy Ghost.
n That which is proper to the divinity of Christ, is here spoken of whole Christ, to give us to understand, that he is but one person wherein two natures are united: and this kind of speech men call, the communicating of properties.
* Num. 21. 9.
4 Nothing else but the free love of the Father, is the beginning of our salvation, and Christ is he in whom our righteousness and salvation is resident: and faith is the instrument or mean whereby we apprehend it, and life everlasting is that which is set before us to apprehend. o It is not all one to beleeve in a thing, and to beleeve of a thing, for we may not beleeve (in any thing) save onely in God, but we may beleeve (of a thing) whatsoever, saith Nazianzen in his oration of the spirit. * Chap. 12. 47.
5 Not Christ, but the despising of Christ doth condemn. p That is, To be the cause of condemning of the world; for indeed, sins are the cause of death; but Christ shall judge the quick and the dead. q Not onely the people of the Jews, but whosoever shall beleeve in him. 6 Onely wickednes is the cause, why men refuse the light that is offered them. r That is, The cause of condemnation, which sticketh fast in men, unless through God his great benefit they be delivered from it. * Chap. 1. 4. † Or, discovered. s That is, He that leadeth an honest life, and void of all craft and deceit. t That is, with God, God as it were going before. * Chap 4. 2.
7 Satan inflameth the disciples of John with a fond emulation of their master, to hinder the course of the gospel: but John being mindfull of his office, doth not onely break off their endeavours; but also taketh occasion thereby to give testimony of Christ, how that in him onely, the Father hath set forth life everlasting.

Chap. IV.

1 Christ talketh with a woman of Samaria, and revealeth himself unto her. 27 His disciples marvel. 31 He declareth to them his zeal to Gods glory. 39 Many Samaritanes beleeve on him, 43 He departeth into Galilee, and healeth the rulers son that lay sick at Capernaum.

WHen [1] therefore the Lord knew how the Pharisees had heard that Jesus made and baptized more disciples then John,

1 This measure is to be kept in doing of our duty, that neither by fear we be terrified from going forward, neither by rashness procure or pluck dangers upon our heads.

2 (Though Jesus himself baptized not, but his disciples)

3 He left Judea, and departed again into Galilee.

4 And he must needs go through Samaria.

5 [2] Then cometh he to a city of Samaria, which is called Sychar, near to the parcell of ground * that Jacob gave to his son Joseph.

2 Christ leaving the proud Pharisees, communicateth the treasures of everlasting life with a poor sinfull woman and stranger retelling the grosse errours of the Samaritanes, and defending the true service of God, which was delivered to the Jews, but yet, so that he calleth both of them back to himself, as one, whom onely all the Fathers, and also the ceremonies of the law, did regard, and had a respect unto.
* Gen 33. 19. & 48. 22. Josh 24. 32.

6 Now Jacobs well was there. Jesus therefore being wearied with his journy, sat [a] thus on the well: and it was about the [b] sixth hour.

a Even as he was, or because he was weary.
b It was almost noon.

7 There cometh a woman of Samaria to draw water: Jesus saith unto her, Give me to drink.

8 For his disciples were gone away unto the city to buy meat.

9 Then saith the woman of Samaria unto him, How is it that thou being a Jew, askest drink of me, which am a woman of Samaria? for the Jews have [c] no dealings with the Samaritans.

c There is no familiarity nor friendship between the Jews and the Samaritanes

10 Jesus answered and said unto her, If thou knewest the [d] gift of God, and who it is that saith to thee, Give me to drink; thou wouldest have asked of him, and he would have given thee [e] living water.

d By this word, The, we are given to understand, that Christ speaketh of some excellent gift, that is to say, Even of himself, whom his Father offered to this woman.
e This everlasting water, that is to say, The exceeding love of God, is called Living, or of life, to make a difference between it, and the water that should be drawn out of a well: and these metaphores are very much used of the Jews. Jer. 2. 13. Joel 3. 18 Zach. 13. 11.

11 The woman saith unto him, Sir, thou hast nothing to draw with, and the well is deep: from whence then hast thou that living water?

12 Art thou greater then our father Jacob, which gave us the well, and drank thereof himself, and his children, and his cattel?

13 Jesus answered and said unto her, Whosoever drinketh of this water shall thirst again:

14 But whosoever drinketh of the water that I shall give him, shall never thirst: but the water that I shall give him, shall be in him a well of water springing up into everlasting life.

15 The woman saith unto him, Sir, give me this water, that I thirst not, neither come hither to draw.

16 Jesus saith unto her, Go, call thy husband, and come hither.

17 The woman answered and said, I have no husband. Jesus said unto her, Thou hast well said, I have no husband:

18 For thou hast had five husbands, and he whom thou now hast is not thy husband: in that saidst thou truly.

19 The woman saith unto him, Sir, I perceive that thou art a prophet.

20 [3] Our fathers worshipped in this [f] mountain, and ye say, that in * Jerusalem is the place where men ought to worship.

3 All the religion of superstitious people, timeserving, to the most part, is on two pillars, but very weak, that is to say, upon the examples of the fathers perverted, and a foolish opinion of outward things: against which errours we have to set the word and nature of God.
f The name of this mountain is Garizim, whereupon Samballetta the Cuthite built a temple by Alexander of Macedone his leave, after the victory of Issica: and made there Manasses his son in law, high priest, Joseph, book 11.
* Deut. 12. 5.

21 Jesus saith unto her, Woman, beleeve me, the hour cometh when ye shall neither in this mountain, nor yet at Jerusalem worship the Father.

22 Ye worship ye know not what: we know what we worship: for salvation is of the Jews.

23 But the hour cometh, and now is, when the true worshippers shall worship the Father in [g] spirit and in truth: for the Father seeketh such to worship him.

24 * God is a [h] Spirit, and they that worship him, must worship him in spirit and in truth.

g This word (Spirit) is to be taken here, as it is set against that commandment which is called carnall, Heb 7. 16. as the commandment is considered in it self: and so he speaketh of (Truth) not as we set it against a lye, but as we take it in respect of the outward ceremonies of the law which did onely shadow that which Christ performed. * 2 Cor. 3. 17. h By the word (Spirit) he meaneth the nature of the Godhead, and not the third person in the Trinity.

25 The woman saith unto him, I know that Messias cometh which is called Christ: when he is come, he will tell us all things.

26 Jesus saith unto her, I that speak unto thee, am he.

27 ¶ And upon this came his disciples, and marvelled that he talked with the woman: yet no man said, What seekest thou? or, Why talkest thou with her?

28 The woman then left her water-pot, and went

84 went her way into the city, and ſaith to the men:

29 Come, ſee a man which told me all
2 things that ever I did: is not this the Chriſt?

30 Then they went out of the city, and came unto him.

31 ¶ In the mean while his diſciples prayed him, ſaying, Maſter, eat.

4 we may have care of our bodies, but yet ſo, that we preferre willingly and freely the occaſion which is offered us to enlarge the kingdom of God: before all neceſſities of this life whatſoever.

32 [4] But he ſaid unto them, I have meat to eat that ye know not of.

33 Therefore ſaid the diſciples one to another, Hath any man brought him ought to eat?

34 Jeſus ſaith unto them, My meat is to do the will of him that ſent me, and to finiſh his work.

5 when the ſpirituall corn is ripe, we muſt not linger, for ſo the children of this world would condemn us.

35 [5] Say not ye, There are yet four months, and then cometh harveſt? behold, I ſay unto you, Lift up your eyes, and look on the fields: * for they are white already to harveſt.

* Mat. 9. 37.

6 The doctrin of the prophets was, as it were, a ſowing time: and the doctrin of the goſpel, as the harveſt: and there is an excellent agreement between them both, and the miniſters of them both.

36 [6] And he that reapeth receiveth wages, and gathereth fruit unto life eternall: that both he that ſoweth, and he that reapeth, may rejoyce together.

i That proverb.

37 And herein is that [i] ſaying true. One ſoweth, and another reapeth.

38 I ſent you to reap that whereon ye beſtowed no labour: other men laboured, and ye are entred into their labours.

7 The Samaritanes doe moſt joyfully embrace that, which the Jews moſt ſtubbornly rejected.

39 ¶ [7] And many of the Samaritans of that city beleeved on him, for the ſaying of the woman, which teſtified, He told me all that ever I did.

40 So when the Samaritans were come unto him, they beſought him that he would tarry with them: and he abode there two days.

41 And many more beleeved, becauſe of his own word:

42 And ſaid unto the woman, Now we beleeve, not becauſe of thy ſaying, for we have heard him our ſelves, and know that this is indeed the Chriſt, the Saviour of the world.

* Mat. 12. 57.

8 The deſpiſers of Chriſt deprive themſelves of his benefits: yet Chriſt prepareth a place for himſelf.

43 ¶ * [8], Now after two days he departed thence, and went into [k] Galilee:

k Into the towns and villages of Galilee for he would not make abode in his country of Nazareth becauſe they deſpiſed him and where (as the other Euangeliſts write) the efficacy of his benefits was hindred through their mervelious ſtiffneckedneſs.

44 For Jeſus himſelf teſtified, that a prophet hath no honour in his own country.

45 Then when he was come into Galilee, the Galileans received him, having ſeen all the things that he did at Jeruſalem at the feaſt: for they alſo went unto the feaſt.

9 Although Chriſt be abſent in body, yet he worketh in the beleevers by his word.

46 [9] So Jeſus came again into Cana of Galilee, * where he made the water wine. And there was a certain ‡ [l] noble man, whoſe ſon was ſick at Capernaum.

* Chap. 2. 1.

‡ Or, courtier, or, ruler.

l Some of Herods courtiers, for though Herod was not a King, but a Tetrarch, yet the lofty name onely excepted, he was a King, or at leaſt, the people called him a King.

47 When he heard that Jeſus was come out of Judea into Galilee, he went unto him, and beſought him that he would come down, and heal his ſon: for he was at the point of death.

48 Then ſaid Jeſus unto him, Except ye ſee ſigns and wonders, ye will not beleeve.

49 The noble man ſaith unto him, Sir, come down ere my child die.

50 Jeſus ſaith unto him, Go thy way, thy ſon liveth. And the man beleeved the word that Jeſus had ſpoken unto him, and he went his way.

51 And as he was now going down, his ſervants met him, and told him, ſaying, Thy ſon liveth.

52 Then enquired he of them the hour, when he began to amend: and they ſaid unto him, Yeſterday at the ſeventh hour the fever left him.

53 So the father knew that it was at the ſame hour, in the which Jeſus ſaid unto him, Thy ſon liveth; and himſelf beleeved, and his whole houſe.

54 This is again the ſecond miracle that Jeſus did, when he was come out of Judea into Galilee.

AFter * this there was a feaſt of the Jews, and Jeſus went up to Jeruſalem.

* Lev. 23. 1. Deut. 16.

2 Now [1] there is at Jeruſalem by the ſheep- ‡ market a [a] pool, which is called in the Hebrew tongue, [b] Bethesda, having five porches.

1 There is no diſeaſe ſo old, which Chriſt cannot heal.

‡ Or, gate.

a whereof cattel drank, and uſed to be plunged in, whereof there could not be but great ſtore at Jeruſalem.

3 In theſe lay a great multitude of impotent folk, of blind, halt, withered, waiting for the moving of the water.

b That is to ſay, The houſe of powring out, becauſe great ſtore of water was powred out into that place.

4 For an angel went down at a certain ſeaſon into the pool, and troubled the water: whoſoever then firſt after the troubling of the water ſtepped in, was made whole of whatſoever diſeaſe he had.

5 And a certain man was there, which had an infirmity thirty and eight years.

6 When Jeſus ſaw him ly, and knew that he had been now a long time in that caſe, he ſaith unto him, Wilt thou be made whole?

7 The impotent man anſwered him, Sir, I have no man, when the water is troubled, to put me into the pool: but while I am coming, another ſteppeth down before me.

8 Jeſus ſaith unto him, Riſe, take up thy bed, and walk.

9 And immediately the man was made whole, and took up his bed, and walked: and on the ſame day was the ſabbath.

2 True religion is not more cruelly aſſaulted by any means, then by the pretence of religion it ſelf.

10 ¶ [2] The Jews therefore ſaid unto him that was cured, It is the ſabbath-day, * it is not lawfull for thee to carry thy bed.

* Jer. 17. 22.

11 He anſwered them, He that made me whole, the ſame ſaid unto me, Take up thy bed and walk, 12 Then aſked they him, What man is that which ſaid unto thee, Take up thy bed and walk?

‡ Or, from the multitude that was.

13 And he that was healed, wiſt not who it was: for Jeſus had conveyed himſelf away, ‡ a multitude being in that place.

14 Afterward Jeſus findeth him in the temple, and ſaid unto him, Behold, thou art made whole: ſin no more, leſt a worſe thing come unto thee.

15 The

15 The man departed, and told the Jews that it was Jeſus which had made him whole.

16 And therefore did the Jews perſecute Jeſus, and ſought to ſlay him, becauſe he had don theſe things on the ſabbath-day.

17 ¶ [3] But Jeſus anſwered them, My Father worketh hitherto, and I work.

18 Therefore the Jews ſought the more to kill him, becauſe he not onely had broken the ſabbath, but ſaid alſo, that God was [c] his Father, making himſelf equall with God.

19 Then anſwered Jeſus and ſaid unto them, Verily, verily I ſay unto you, The Son can do nothing [d] of himſelf, but what he [e] ſeeth the Father do: for what things ſoever he doeth, theſe alſo doth the Son [f] likewiſe.

20 For the Father loveth the Son, and ſheweth him all things that himſelf doeth: and he will ſhew him greater works than theſe, that ye may marvel.

21 [4] For as the Father raiſeth up the dead, & quickeneth them: even ſo the Son quickeneth whom he will.

22 For the Father [g] judgeth [h] no man: but hath committed all judgement unto the Son:

23 That all men ſhould honour the Son, even as they honour the Father. He that honoureth not the Son, honoureth not the Father which hath ſent him.

24 [5] Verily, verily I ſay unto you, He that heareth my word, and beleeveth on him that ſent me, hath everlaſting life, and ſhall not come into condemnation: but is paſſed from death unto life.

25 Verily, verily I ſay unto you, The hour is coming, and now is, [6] when the dead ſhall hear the voice of the Son of God: and they that hear ſhall live.

26 For as the Father hath life in himſelf: ſo hath he given to the Son to have life in himſelf:

27 And hath given him [i] authority to execute judgement alſo, becauſe he is [k] the Son of man.

28 [7] Marvel not at this: for the hour is coming, in the which all that are in the graves ſhall hear his voice,

29 [8] And ſhall [l] come forth, * they that have don good, unto the [m] reſurrection of life, and they that have don evil, unto the reſurrection of damnation.

30 [9] I can of mine own ſelf [n] do nothing; [o] as I hear, I judge: and my judgement is juſt, becauſe I ſeek not mine own will, but the will of the Father which hath ſent me.

31 * If I bear witneſs of my ſelf, my witneſs is not [p] true.

32 ¶ * There is another that beareth witneſs of me, and I know that the witneſs which he witneſſeth of me, is true. * Mat. 3. 17.

33 [10] Ye ſent unto John, * and he bare witneſs unto the truth.

34 But I receive not teſtimony from man: but theſe things I ſay, that ye might be ſaved.

35 He was a burning and a ſhining light: and ye were willing for a [q] ſeaſon to rejoyce in his light.

36 ¶ But I have greater witneſs than that of John: for the works which the Father hath given me to finiſh, the ſame works that I do, bear witneſs of me, that the Father hath ſent me.

37 And the Father himſelf which hath ſent me, * hath born witneſs of me. Ye have neither heard his voice at any time, * nor ſeen his ſhape. * Mat. 3. 17. & 17. 5.

38 And ye have not his word abiding in you: for whom he hath ſent, him ye beleeve not. * Deut. 4. 12.

39 ¶ Search the ſcriptures, for in them ye think ye have eternall life, and they are they which teſtifie of me.

40 And ye will not come to me, that ye might have life.

41 I receive not honour from men.

42 But I know you, that ye have not the [r] love of God in you.

43 I am come in my Fathers name, and ye receive me not: if another ſhall come in his own name, him ye will receive.

44 * How can ye beleeve, which receive honour one of another, and ſeek not the honour that cometh from God onely? * Chap. 12. 43.

45 [s] Do not think that I will accuſe you to the Father: there is one that accuſeth you, even Moſes, in whom ye truſt.

46 For had ye beleeved Moſes, ye would have beleeved me: * for he wrote of me.

47 But if ye beleeve not his writings, how ſhall ye beleeve my words?

3 The work of God was never the breach of the Sabbath, but the works of Chriſt are the works of the Father, both becauſe they are one God, and alſo becauſe the Father doth not work but in the Son.

c That is, His onely, and no mans elſe, which they gather by that, that he ſaith, (And I work) applying this word (work) to himſelf, which is proper to God, and therefore maketh himſelf equal to God.

d Not onely without his Fathers authority, but alſo without his mighty working, and power.

e This muſt be underſtood of Chriſt his perſon, which conſiſteth of two natures: and not ſimply of his God-head: ſo then he ſaith, That his Father moveth and governeth him in all things, but yet notwithſtanding, when he ſaith, He worketh with his Father, he voucheth his God-head.

f In like ſort, joyntly and together. Not, for that the Father doth ſomthing, and then the Son worketh after him, and doth the like, but becauſe the might and power of the Father and the Son do work equally and joyntly together

4 The Father maketh no man partaker of everlaſting life, but in Chriſt, in whom onely alſo he is truly worſhipped.

g This word (Judgeth) is taken by the figure Synecdoche, for all government.

h Theſe words are not ſo to be taken, as though they ſimply denied, that God governed the world, but as the Jews imagined it, which ſeparate the Father from the Son, whereas indeed, the Father doth not govern the world, but onely in the perſon of his Son, being made manifeſt in the fleſh, ſo ſaith he afterward, verſe 30.

10 Chriſt is declared, to be the onely Saviour by Johns voice, and infinit miracles, and by the teſtimonies of all the prophets. But the world notwithſtanding being addicted to falſe prophets, and deſirours to ſeem religious, ſeeth none of all theſe things.

1 Chriſt feedeth five thouſand men with five loaves and two fiſhes. 15 Thereupon the people would have made him king. 16 But withdrawing himſelf, he walketh on the ſea to his diſciples: 26 reproveth the people flocking after him, and all the fleſhly hearers of his word: 53 declareth himſelf to be the bread of life to beleevers. 66 Many diſciples depart from him. 68 Peter confeſſeth him. 70 Judas is a devil.

AFter theſe things Jeſus went [a] over the ſea of Galilee, which is the ſea of Tiberias.

2 And a great multitude followed him, becauſe they ſaw his miracles which he did on them that were diſeaſed.

3 And Jeſus went up into a mountain, and there he ſat with his diſciples.

4 * And the paſsover, a feaſt of the Jews, was nigh.

5 ¶ * [1] When Jeſus then lift up his eyes, and ſaw a great company come unto him, he ſaith unto Philip, Whence ſhall we buy bread that theſe may eat?

6 (And this he ſaid to prove him: for he himſelf knew what he would do) a Not that he cut over the lake of Tiberias, but by reaſon of the large creeks, his ſailing made his journey the ſhorter: therefore he is ſaid to have gon over the ſea, when as he paſſed over from one ſide of the creek to the other.

7 Philip answered him, Two hundred peniworth of bread is not sufficient for them, that every one of them may take a little.

8 One of his disciples, Andrew, Simon Peters brother, saith unto him, 9 There is a lad here, which hath five barley loavs, and two small fishes: but what are they among so many?

10 And Jesus said, Make the men sit down. Now there was much grass in the place. So the men sat down, in number about five thousand.

11 And Jesus took the loavs, and when he had given thanks, he distributed to the disciples, and the disciples to them that were set down, and likewise of the fishes, as much as they would.

12 When they were filled, he saith unto his disciples, Gather up the fragments that remain, that nothing be lost.

13 Therefore they gathered them together, and filled twelve baskets with the fragments of the five barley loavs, which remained over and above, unto them that had eaten.

14 Then those men, when they had seen the miracle that Jesus did, said, This is of a truth that prophet that should come into the world.

2 Christ is not onely not delighted, but also greatly offended with a preposterous worship.

15 ¶ [2] When Jesus therefore perceived that they would come and take him by force, to make him a king, he departed again into a mountain himself alone.

* Mat. 14. 23.

16 * [3] And when even was now come, his disciples went down unto the sea,

3 The godly are often in perill and danger, but Christ cometh to them in time, even in the midst of the tempests, and bringeth them to the haven.

17 And entred into a ship, and went over the sea [b] towards Capernaum: and it was now dark, and Jesus was not come to them.

b In Mark 6. 45. they are willed to go before to Bethsaida, for Bethsaida was in the way to Capernaum.

18 And the sea arose, by reason of a great wind that blew.

19 So when they had rowed about five and twenty, or thirty furlongs, they see Jesus walking on the sea, and drawing nigh unto the ship: and they were afraid.

20 But he saith unto them, It is I, be not afraid.

c They were afraid at the first, but when they knew his voice they became new men, and took him willingly into the ship, whom they shunned and fled from before.

21 [c] Then they willingly received him into the ship: and immediately the ship was at the land whither they went.

22 ¶ The day following, when the people which stood on the other side of the sea, saw that there was none other boat there, save that one whereinto his disciples were entred, and that Jesus went not with his disciples into the boat, but that his disciples were gon away alone:

23 (Howbeit there came other boats from Tiberias, nigh unto the place where they did eat bread, after that the Lord had given thanks)

24 When the people therefore saw that Jesus was not there, neither his disciples, they also took shipping, and came to Capernaum seeking for Jesus.

25 And when they had found him on the other side of the sea, they said unto him, Rabbi, when camest thou hither?

26 [4] Jesus answered them and said, Verily, verily I say unto you, Ye seek me, not because ye saw the miracles, but because ye did eat of the loavs, and were filled.

4 They that seek the kingdom of heaven, lack nothing: notwithstanding, the gospel is not the food of the belly, but of the mind.

27 ‡ [d] Labour not for the meat which perisheth, but for that meat which endureth unto everlasting life, which the Son of man shall give unto you: * for him hath God the Father [e] sealed.

‡ Or, work not

d Bestow your labour and pain.

* Mat. 3. 17.

e That is, whom God the Father hath distinguished from all other men by planting his own vertue in him, as though he had sealed him with his seal, that he might be a lively patern and representer of him: and that more is, installed him to this office, to reconcile us men to God, and bring us to everlasting life, which is onely proper to Christ.

28 Then said they unto him, What shall we do, that we might [f] work the works of God?

f which please God: for they think that everlasting life hangeth upon the condition of fulfilling the law: therefore Christ calleth them back to faith.

29 [5] Jesus answered and said unto them, * This is the [g] work of God, that ye beleeve on him whom he hath sent.

5 Men torment themselvs in vain, when they go about to please God without faith.

* John 7. 21.

g That is, This is the work that God requireth, that you beleeve in me, and therefore he calleth them back to faith.

30 [6] They said therefore unto him, What sign shewest thou then, that we may see, and beleeve thee? what dost thou work?

6 The spirituall vertue of Christ is contemned of them that are desirous of earthly miracles.

31 * Our fathers did eat manna in the desart, as it is written, * He gave them bread from heaven to eat.

* Exod. 16. 15. Num. 11. 7.

* Psal. 78. 25.

32 [7] Then Jesus said unto them, Verily, verily I say unto you, Moses gave you not that [h] bread from heaven, but my Father giveth you the true bread from heaven.

7 Christ, who is the true and onely author & giver of eternall life, was signified unto the fathers in manna.

h He denieth that that manna was that true heavenly bread, and saith that he himself is that true bread, because he feedeth unto the true and everlasting life. And as for that, that Paul, 1 Cor. 10. calleth Manna, Spirituall food, it maketh nothing against this place, for he joyneth the thing signified with the sign: but in this whole disputation, Christ dealeth with the Jews after their own opinion and conceit of the matter, and they had no further consideration of the manna, but in that it fed the belly.

33 For the bread of God is he which cometh down from heaven, and giveth life unto the world.

i which have life, and give life.

34 Then said they unto him, Lord, evermore give us this bread.

35 And Jesus said unto them, I am the bread of [i] life: he that cometh to me, shall never hunger; and he that beleeveth on me, shall never thirst.

8 The gift of faith proceedeth from the free election of the Father in Christ, after which followeth necessarily everlasting life: therefore faith in Christ Jesus is a sure witness of our election, and therefore of our glorification, which is to come.

36 But I said unto you, that ye also have seen me, and beleeve not.

37 [8] All that the Father giveth me, shall come to me; and him that cometh to me, I will in no wise cast out.

k Look above Chap. 5. vers. 22.

38 For I came down from heaven, not to do mine [k] own will, but the will of him that sent me.

l Seeing and beleeving are joyned together: for there is another kind of seeing which is proper to the elect.

39 And this is the Fathers will which hath sent me, that of all which he hath given me, I should lose nothing, but should raise it up again at the last day.

9 Flesh cannot perceive spirituall things, and therefore the beginning of our salvation cometh from God, who changeth our nature, so that we being inspired of him, may abide to be instructed and saved by Christ.

40 And this is the will of him that sent me, that every one which [l] seeth the Son, and beleeveth on him, may have everlasting life: and I will raise him up at the last day.

* Mat. 13. 55.

41 [9] The Jews then murmured at him, because he said, I am the bread which came down from heaven.

42 And they said, * Is not this Jesus the son of Joseph, whose father and mother we know? how is it then that he saith, I came down from heaven?

43 Jesus therefore answered and said unto them, Murmure not among your selvs.

44 No man can come to me, except the Father

Father which hath sent me, draw him, and I will raise him up at the last day.

45 *It is written in the [m] prophets, And they shall be all [n] taught of God. Every man therefore that hath heard, and hath learned of the Father, cometh unto me.

46 Not that any man hath seen the Father, *[o] save he which is of God, he hath seen the Father.

47 Verily, verily I say unto you, He that beleeveth on me hath everlasting life.

48 [10] I am that bread of life.

49 Your fathers did eat manna in the wilderness, and are dead.

50 [p] This is the bread which cometh down from heaven, that a man may eat thereof, and not die.

51 [11] I am the [q] living bread, which came down from heaven: if any man [r] eat of this bread, he shall live for ever: and the bread that I will give, is my flesh, which I will give for the life of the world.

52 [12] The Jews therefore strove amongst themselvs, saying, How can this man give us his flesh to eat?

53 Then Jesus said unto them, Verily, verily I say unto you, Except ye eat the flesh of the Son of man, and drink his bloud, ye have [s] no life in you.

54 Whoso eateth my flesh, and drinketh my bloud, hath eternall life, and I will raise him up at the last day.

55 For my flesh is meat indeed, and my bloud is drink indeed.

56 He that eateth my flesh, and drinketh my bloud, dwelleth in me, and I in him.

57 As [t] the living Father hath sent me, and I live by the [u] Father: so, he that eateth me, even he shall live by me.

58 This is that bread which came down from heaven: not as your fathers did eat manna, and are dead: he that eateth of this bread, shall live for ever.

59 These things said he in the synagogue, as he taught in Capernaum.

60 [13] Many therefore of his disciples, when they had heard this, said, This is an hard saying, who can hear it?

61 When Jesus knew in himself, that his disciples murmured at it, he said unto them, Doth this offend you?

62 * What and if ye shall see the Son of man ascend up where he was before?

63 [14] It is the [x] spirit that quickeneth, the flesh profiteth nothing: the words that I speak unto you, they are spirit, and they are life.

64 But there are some of you that beleeve not. For Jesus knew from the beginning, who they were that beleeved not, and who should betray him.

65 And he said, Therefore said I unto you, that no man can come unto me, except it were given unto him of my Father.

66 [15] From that time many of his disciples went back, and walked no more with him.

67 Then said Jesus unto the twelve, Will ye also go away?

68 Then Simon Peter answered him, Lord, to whom shall we go? thou hast the words of eternall life.

69 * And we beleeve, and are sure that thou art that Christ the Son of the living God.

70 [16] Jesus answered them, Have not I chosen you twelve, and one of you is a devil?

71 He spake of Judas Iscariot the son of Simon: for he it was that should betray him, being one of the twelve.

CHAP. VII.

1 Jesus reproveth the ambition and boldness of his kinsmen: 10 goeth up from Galilee to the feast of tabernacles: 14 teacheth in the temple. 40 Divers opinions of him among the people. 45 The Pharisees are angry that their officers took him not, and chide with Nicodemus for taking his part.

AFter these things, Jesus walked in Galilee: for he would not walk in Jewry, because the Jews sought to kill him.

2 *Now the Jews [a] feast of tabernacles was at hand.

3 [1] His brethren therefore said unto him, Depart hence, and go into Judea, that thy disciples also may see the works that thou doest.

4 For there is no man that doeth any thing in secret, and he himself seeketh to be known openly: If thou dost these things, shew thy self to the world.

5 For neither did his [b] brethren beleeve in him.

6 [2] Then Jesus said unto them, My time is not yet come: but your time is alway ready.

7 The world cannot hate you, but me it hateth, because I testifie of it, that the works thereof are evil.

8 Go ye up unto this feast: I go not up yet unto this feast, * for my time is not yet full come.

9 When he had said these words unto them, he abode still in Galilee.

10 ¶ [3] But when his brethren were gon up, then went he also up unto the feast, not openly, but as it were in secret.

11 Then the Jews sought him at the feast, and said, Where is he?

12 And there was much murmuring among the people concerning him: for some said, He is a good man: others said, Nay, but he deceiveth the people.

13 Howbeit, no man spake [c] openly of him, for fear of the Jews.

14 ¶ [4] Now about the [d] midst of the feast, Jesus went up into the temple, and taught.

15 And the Jews marvelled, saying, How

m In the book of the prophets, for the old testament was divided by them into three severall parts, into the law, the prophets, and the holy writ.

n To wit, they shall be children of the church, for so the prophet Esaias expoundeth it, chap. 54. 13. that is to say, ordained to life, Acts 13. 48. and therefore the knowledge of the heavenly truth is the gift and work of God, and standeth not in any power of man.

* Matth. 11. 27.

o If the Son onely hath seen the Father, then it is he onely that can teach and instruct us truly.

10 The true use of Sacraments is to referd from them to the thing itself, that is, To Christ, by the thinking of whom onely, we get everlasting life.

p He pointeth out himself when he spake these words.

11 Christ being sent from the Father, is the self same unto us for the getting and keeping of everlasting life, that bread and flesh, yea, meat and drink, are to the use of this transitorie life.

q Which giveth life to the world.

r That is to say, whosoever is partaker of Christ indeed, who is our food.

12 Flesh cannot put a difference between fleshly eating, which is don by the help of the teeth, and spirituall eating, which consisteth in faith: and therefore it condemneth that which it understandeth not: yet notwithstanding, the truth must be preached and taught.

s If Christ be present, life is present, but when Christ is absent, then is death present.

t In that that Christ is man, he receiveth that power, which quickneth and giveth life to them that are his, of his Father: and addeth this word (That, or the) to make a difference between him and all other fathers.

u Christ his meaning is, that though he be man, yet his flesh can give life, not of the own nature, but because that flesh of his liveth by the Father, that is to say, doth suck and draw out of the Father that power which it hath to give life. 13 The reason of man cannot comprehend the uniting of Christ and his members, therefore let it worship and reverence that which is better than it self. * Chap. 3. 13. 14 The flesh of Christ doth therefore quicken us, because that he that is man, is God: which mystery is onely comprehended by faith, which is the gift of God, proper onely to the elect. x Spirit, that is, That power which floweth from the Godhead, causeth the flesh of Christ, which otherwise were nothing but flesh, both to live in it self, and to give life to us.

15 Such is the malice of men, that they take occasion of their own destruction, even of the very doctrin of salvation, unless it be a few which beleeve through the singular gift of God.

* Matth. 16. 16.

16 The number of the professors of Christ is very small, among them also there be some hypocrites, and worse than all other.

* Lev. 23. 34.

a This feast was so called, because of the booths and tents which they pight of divers kinds of boughs, and sat under them, the seven days together, all which time the feast lasted.

1 The grace of God cometh not by inheritance, but it is a gift that cometh otherways: whereby it cometh to pass, that oftentimes the children of God suffer more affliction by their own kinsfolks, than by strangers. b His kinsfolks for so use the Hebrews to speak.

2 we must not follow the foolish desires of our friends.

* Chap. 8. 20.

3 An example of horrible confusion in the very bosom of the church. The pastors oppress the people with terrour and fear: the people seek Christ, when he appeareth not: when he offereth himself, they neglect him; Some also that know him, condemn him rashly; a very few think well of him, and that in secret.

c Or, boldly and freely: for the chief of the Jews sought nothing so much, as to bury his fame and name. 4 Christ striveth with goodness against the wickedness of the world; in the mean season the most part of men take occasion of offence, even by that same whereby they ought to have been stirred up to embrace Christ. d About the fourth day of the feast.

knoweth this man ‡ letters, having never learned?

16 [5] Jesus answered them, My doctrin is not [e] mine, but his that sent me.

17 If any man will do his will, he shall know of the doctrin, whether it be of God, or whether I speak of my self.

18 [6] He that speaketh of himself, seeketh his own glory: but he that seeketh his glory that sent him, the same is true, and no unrighteousness is in him.

19 * [7] Did not Moses give you the law, and yet none of you keepeth the law? * Why go ye about to kill me?

20 The people answered and said, Thou hast a devil: who goeth about to kill thee?

21 [8] Jesus answered and said unto them, I have don a work, and ye all marvel.

22 * Moses therefore gave unto you circumcision, (not because it is of Moses, *but of the fathers) and ye on the sabbath-day circumcise a man.

23 If a man on the sabbath-day receive circumcision, ‡ that the [f] law of Moses should not be broken; are ye angry at me, because I have made a man every whit whole on the sabbath-day?

24 * [9] Judge not according to the [g] appearance, but judge righteous judgement:

25 [10] Then said some of them of Jerusalem, Is not this he whom they seek to kill?

26 But lo, he speaketh boldly, and they say nothing unto him: do the rulers know indeed that this is the very Christ?

27 [11] Howbeit we know this man whence he is: but when Christ cometh, no man knoweth whence he is.

28 [12] Then cried Jesus in the temple as he taught, saying, Ye both know me, and ye know whence I am, and I am not come of my self, but he that sent me is true, whom ye know not.

29 But I know him, for I am from him, and he hath sent me.

30 [13] Then they sought to take him: but no man laid hands on him, because his hour was not yet come.

31 And many of the people beleeved on him, and said, When Christ cometh, will he do more miracles than these which this man hath don?

32 ¶ [14] The Pharisees heard that the people murmured such things concerning him: and the Pharisees and the chief priests sent officers to take him.

33 Then said Jesus unto them, Yet a little while am I with you, and then I go unto him that sent me.

34 * Ye shall seek me, and shall not find me: and where I am, thither ye cannot come.

35 Then said the Jews among themselvs, Whither will he go, that we shall not find him? will he go unto the [h] dispersed among the ‡ Gentiles, and teach the Gentiles?

36 What manner of saying is this that he said, Ye shall seek me, and shall not find me: and where I am, thither ye cannot come?

37 * [15] In the [i] last day, that great day of the feast, Jesus stood and cried, saying, If any man thirst, let him come unto me, and drink.

38 * He that beleeveth on me, as the [k] scripture hath said, out of his belly shall flow rivers of living water.

39 (* But this spake he of the spirit, which they that beleeve on him, should receive: for the [l] holy Ghost was not yet given, because that Jesus was not yet [m] glorified)

40 ¶ [16] Many of the people therefore, when they heard this saying, said, Of a truth this is the prophet.

41 Others said, This is the Christ. But some said, Shall Christ come out of Galilee?

42 * Hath not the scripture said, That Christ cometh of the seed of David, and out of the town of Bethlehem, where David was?

43 So there was a division among the people because of him.

44 And some of them would have taken him, but no man laid hands on him.

45 ¶ [17] Then came the officers to the chief priests and Pharisees, and they said unto them, Why have ye not brought him?

64 The officers answered, Never man spake like this man.

47 Then answered them the Pharisees, Are ye also deceived?

48 Have any of the [18] rulers, or of the Pharisees beleeved on him?

49 But this people who knoweth not the law are cursed.

50 Nicodemus saith unto them, (* he that came to Jesus by night, being one of them)

51 * Doth our law judge any man before it hear him, [n] and know what he doeth?

52 They answered, and said unto him, Art thou also of Galilee? Search, and look: for out of Galilee ariseth no prophet.

53 [19] And every man went unto his own house.

CHAP. VIII.

1 Christ delivereth the woman taken in adulterie. 12 He preacheth himself the light of the world, and justifieth his doctrin. 33 answereth the Jews that boasted of Abraham, 59 and conveyeth himself from their cruelty.

JEsus went unto the mount of Olives:

2 And early in the morning he came again into the temple, and all the people came unto him, and he sat down, and taught them.

3 [1] And the Scribes and Pharisees brought unto him a woman taken in adultery, and when they had set her in the midst,

4 They say unto him, Master, this woman was taken in adultery, in the very act.

5 * Now Moses in the law commanded us, that such should be stoned: but what sayest thou?

6 This they said, tempting him, that they might might have to accuſe him. But Jeſus ſtouped down, and with his finger wrote on the ground, as though he heard them not.

2 Againſt hypocrites which are very ſevere judges againſt other men, and flatter themſelvs in their own ſins.
* Deut. 17. 7.

7 [2] So when they continued aſking him, he lift up himſelf, and ſaid unto them, * He that is without ſin among you, let him firſt caſt a ſtone at her.

8 And again he ſtouped down, and wrote on the ground.

9 And they which heard it, being convicted by their own conſcience, went out one by one, beginning at the eldeſt, even unto the laſt: and Jeſus was left alone, and the woman ſtanding in the midſt.

3 Chriſt would not take upon him the civil magiſtrates office: he contented himſelf to bring ſinners to faith and repentance.

10 [3] When Jeſus had lift up himſelf, and ſaw none but the woman, he ſaid unto her, Woman, where are thoſe thine accuſers? hath no man condemned thee?

11 She ſaid, No man, Lord. And Jeſus ſaid unto her, Neither do I condemn thee: go, and ſin no more.

4 The world which is blind in it ſelf, cannot come to have any light but in Chriſt onely.
* Chap. 1. 5. & 9. 5.

12 ¶ [4] Then ſpake Jeſus again unto them, ſaying, * I am the light of the world: he that followeth me, ſhall not walk in darkneſs, but ſhall have the light of life.

5 Chriſt is, without all exception, the beſt witneſs of the truth, for he was ſent by his Father for that purpoſe, and was by him approved to the world by infinite miracles.
a Thou beareſt witneſs of thy ſelf, which thing by all mens opinions, is naught, and for a man to commend himſelf is very diſcommendable.
b That which he denied afore, Chap. 5. 31. muſt be taken by a manner of granting, for in that place he framed himſelf ſomwhat to the humour of his hearers, which acknowledged nothing in Chriſt but his humanity, and therefore he was content they ſhould ſet light by his own witneſs, unleſs it were otherwiſe confirmed. But in this place, he ſtandeth for the maintenance of his God-head, and praiſeth his Father, who is his witneſs, and agreeth with him.

13 [5] The Phariſees therefore ſaid unto him, Thou [a] beareſt record of thy ſelf, thy record is not true.

14 Jeſus anſwered and ſaid unto them, [b] Though I bear record of my ſelf, yet my record is true: for I know whence I came, and whither I go; but ye cannot tell whence I come, and whither I go.

15 Ye judge after the fleſh, I [c] judge no man.

16 And yet if I judge, my judgement is true: for I am not alone, but I and the Father that ſent me.

17 * It is alſo written in your law, that the teſtimony of two men is true.

18 [d] I am one that bear witneſs of my ſelf, and the Father that ſent me, beareth witneſs of me.

c I do now onely teach you. I condemn no man: but yet if I luſt to do it, I might lawfully do it, for I am not alone, but my Father is with me.
* Deut. 17 6. Mat. 18. 16.
d The God-head is plainly diſtinguiſhed from the manhood, elſe there were not two witneſſes: for the party accuſed is not taken for a witneſs.

19 [6] Then ſaid they unto him, Where is thy Father? Jeſus anſwered, Ye neither know me, nor my Father: if ye had known me, ye ſhould have known my Father alſo.

20 Theſe words ſpake Jeſus in the [e] treaſury as he taught in the temple: and no man laid hands on him, for [7] his hour was not yet come.

21 [8] Then ſaid Jeſus again unto them, I go my way, and ye ſhall ſeek me, and ſhall die in your ſins: whither I go, ye cannot come.

22 Then ſaid the Jews, Will he kill himſelf? becauſe he ſaith, Whither I go, ye cannot come.

23 And he ſaid unto them, Ye are from beneath, I am from above: ye are of this world, I am not of this world.

24 I ſaid therefore unto you, that ye ſhall die in your ſins: for if ye beleeve not that I am he, ye ſhall die in your ſins.

6 No man can know God, but in Chriſt onely. e This was ſome place appointed for the gathering of the offerings. 7 we live and die at the pleaſure of God, and not of men; therefore this one thing remaineth that we go forward conſtantly in our vocation. 8 Becauſe that men do naturally abhor heavenly things, no man can be a fit diſciple of Chriſt, unleſs the ſpirit of God frame him; in the mean ſeaſon notwithſtanding, the world muſt of neceſſity periſh, becauſe it refuſed the life that is offered unto it.

25 [9] Then ſaid they unto him, Who art thou? And Jeſus ſaith unto them, [f] Even the ſame that I ſaid unto you from the beginning.

9 He ſhall at length know who Chriſt is, which will diligently hear what he ſaith.
f That is, I am Chriſt, and the Saviour, for ſo I told you from the beginning that I was.

26 [10] I have many things to ſay, and to judge of you: but he that ſent me, is true, and I ſpeak to the world thoſe things which I have heard of him.

10 God is the revenger of Chriſts doctrin deſpiſed.

27 [11] They underſtood not that he ſpake to them of the Father.

11 Even the contempt of Chriſt maketh for his glory: which thing his enemies ſhall feel at length to their great ſmart.

28 Then ſaid Jeſus unto them, When ye have lift up the Son of man, then ſhall ye know that I am he, and that I do nothing of my ſelf: but as my Father hath taught me, I ſpeak theſe things.

29 And he that ſent me, is with me: the Father hath not left me alone: for I do always thoſe things that pleaſe him.

30 As he ſpake theſe words, many beleeved on him.

31 [12] Then ſaid Jeſus to thoſe Jews which beleeved on him, If ye continue in my word, then are ye my diſciples indeed.

12 The true diſciples of Chriſt continue in his doctrin, that profiting more and more in the knowledge of the truth, they may be delivered from the moſt grievous burden of ſin, into the true liberty of righteouſneſs and life.

32 And ye ſhall know the truth, and the truth ſhall [g] make you free.

g From the ſlavery of ſin.

33 ¶ [h] They anſwered him, We be [i] Abrahams ſeed, and were never in bondage to any man: how ſayeſt thou, Ye ſhall be made free?

35 And the ſervant abideth not in the houſe for ever: but the Son abideth ever.

36 If the Son therefore ſhall make you free, ye ſhall be free indeed.

13 Our wicked manners declare, that we are plainly born of a deviliſh nature. But we are changed, and made of the houſhold of God, according to the covenant which he made with Abraham by Chriſt onely, apprehended and laid hold on by faith: which faith is known by a godly and honeſt life.

37 [13] I know that ye are Abrahams ſeed, but ye ſeek to kill me, becauſe my word hath no place in you.

38 I ſpeak that which I have ſeen with my Father: and ye do that which ye have ſeen with your Father.

39 They anſwered and ſaid unto him, Abraham is our father. Jeſus ſaith unto them, If ye were Abrahams children, ye would do the works of Abraham.

40 But now ye ſeek to kill me, a man that hath told you the truth, which I have heard of God: this did not Abraham.

41 Ye do the deeds of your father. Then ſaid they to him, We be not born of fornication, we have one father, even God.

42 Jeſus ſaid unto them, If God were your Father, ye would love me, for I proceeded forth, and came from God; neither came I of my ſelf, but he ſent me.

50 And I seek not mine own glory, there is one that [q] seeketh and judgeth.

51 [16] Verily, verily I say unto you, If a man keep my saying, he shall [r] never see death.

52 [17] Then said the Jews unto him, Now we know that thou hast a devil, Abraham is dead, and the prophets, and thou sayest, If a man keep my saying, he shall never taste of death.

53 Art thou greater than our father Abraham, which is dead? and the prophets are dead: whom makest thou thy self?

54 [18] Jesus answered, If I honour my self, my honour is [s] nothing: it is my Father that honoureth me, of whom ye say, that he is your God:

55 [19] Yet ye have not known him, but I know him: and if I should say, I know him not, I shall be a liar like unto you: but I know him, and keep his saying.

56 [20] Your father Abraham [t] rejoyced to see my [u] day: and he [x] saw it, and was glad.

57 Then said the Jews unto him, Thou art not yet fifty years old, and hast thou seen Abraham?

58 Jesus said unto them, Verily, verily I say unto you, Before Abraham was, I [y] am.

CHAP. IX.

1 The man that was born blind restored to sight. 8 He is brought to the Pharisees. 13 They are offended at it, and excommunicate him: 35 but he is received of Jesus, and confesseth him. 39 Who they are whom Christ enlighteneth.

1 [1] AND as Jesus passed by, he saw a man which was blind from his birth.

2 And his disciples asked him, saying, Master, who did sin, this man, or his parents, that he was born blind?

3 Jesus answered, [a] Neither hath this man sinned, nor his parents: but that the works of God should be made manifest in him.

4 [2] I must work the works of him that sent me, while it is [b] day: the night cometh when no man can work.

5 As long as I am in the world, * I am the light of the world.

6 [3] When he had thus spoken, he spat on the ground, and made clay of the spittle, and he ‡ anointed the eyes of the blind man with the clay,

7 And said unto him, Go wash in the pool of Siloam (which is by interpretation, Sent) He went his way therefore, and washed, and came seeing.

8 ¶ [4] The neighbours therefore, and they which before had seen him, that he was blind, said, Is not this he that sat and begged?

9 Some said, This is he: others said, He is like him: but he said, I am he.

10 Therefore said they unto him, How were thine eyes [c] opened?

11 He answered and said, A man that is called Jesus, made clay, and anointed mine eyes, and said unto me, Go to the pool of Siloam, and wash: and I went and washed, and I received sight.

12 Then said they unto him, Where is he? He said, I know not.

13 ¶ They brought to the Pharisees him that aforetime was blind.

14 And it was the sabbath-day when Jesus made the clay, and opened his eyes.

15 Then again the Pharisees also asked him how he had received his sight. He said unto them, He put clay upon mine eyes, and I washed, and do see.

16 [5] Therefore said some of the Pharisees, This man is not of God, because he keepeth not the sabbath-day. Others said, How can a man that is a sinner, do such miracles? and there was a division among them.

17 They say unto the blind man again, What sayest thou of him, that he hath opened thine eyes? He said, He is a prophet.

18 But the Jews did not believe concerning him, that he had been blind, and received his sight, untill they called the parents of him that had received his sight.

19 And they asked them, saying, Is this your son, who ye say was born blind? how then doth he now see?

20 His parents answered them and said, We know that this is our son, and that he was born blind:

21 But by what means he now seeth, we know not, or who hath opened his eyes we know not: he is of age, ask him, he shall speak for himself.

22 These words spake his parents, because they feared the Jews: for the Jews had agreed already, that if any man did confess that he was Christ, he should be put out of the synagogue.

23 Therefore said his parents, He is of age, ask him.

24 Then again called they the man that was blind, and said unto him, [d] Give God

* chap. 1. 9.
3 Christ healing the man born blind, by taking the sign of clay, and afterward the sign of the fountain of Siloam, (which signifieth, Sent) sheweth that as he at the beginning made man, so doth he again restore both his body and soul; and yet so that he himself cometh first of his own accord to heal us.
‡ Or, spread the clay upon the eyes of the blind man.
4 A true image of all men, who as they are of nature blind, do neither themselvs receive the light that is offered unto them, nor suffer it in others, and yet make a great ado amongst themselvs.
c This is an Hebrew kind of speech, for they call a mans eyes shut, when they cannot receive any light: And therefore they are said to have their eyes opened, which of blind men are made to see.
5 Religion is not assaulted by any means more, than by pretence of religion: but the more it is pressed down, the more it riseth up.
d A solemn order, whereby men were constrained in old time to acknowledge their fault before God, as if they should say, Consider, thou art before God, who knoweth the whole matter and therefore see thou reverence his Majestie, & do him this honour, rather to confess the whole matter openly, than to lie before him. Josh. 7. 19. 1 Sam. 6. 5.

1 Sin is the beginning even of all bodily diseases, and yet doth it not follow, that God alway respecteth their sins whom he most sharply punisheth.
a Christ reasoneth here, as his disciples thought, which presuppose that there come no diseases but for sins onely: whereupon he answereth, that there was another cause of this mans blindness, and that was, that Gods work might be seen. 2 The works of Christ are as it were a light, which lighteth in the darkness of the world. b By (day) is meant the light, that is, The lightsom doctrin of the heavenly truth: and by night is meant the darkness which cometh by the obscurity of the same doctrin.

the praise, we know that this man is a [e] sinner.

25 He answered and said, Whether he be a sinner or no, I know not: one thing I know, that whereas I was blind, now I see.

26 Then said they to him again, What did he to thee? how opened he thine eyes?

27 He answered them, I have told you already, and ye did not hear: wherefore would ye hear it again? will ye also be his disciples?

28 [6] Then they reviled him, and said, Thou art his disciple, but we are Moses disciples.

29 We know that God spake unto Moses: as for this fellow, we know not from whence he is.

30 The man answered and said unto them, Why, herein is a marvellous thing, that ye know not from whence he is, and yet he hath opened mine eyes.

31 Now we know that God heareth not sinners: but if any man be a worshipper of God, and doth his will, him he heareth.

32 Since the world began was it not heard that any man opened the eyes of one that was born blind.

33 If this man were not of God, he could do nothing.

34 They answered and said unto him [f] Thou wast altogether born in sins, and dost thou teach us? And they ‡ cast him out.

35 [7] Jesus heard that they had cast him out; and when he had found him, he said unto him, Dost thou beleeve on the Son of God?

36 He answered and said, Who is he, Lord, that I might beleeve on him?

37 And Jesus said unto him, Thou hast both seen him, and it is he that talketh with thee.

38 And he said, Lord, I beleeve: and he worshipped him.

39 ¶ [8] And Jesus said, For [g] judgement I am come into this world, that they [h] which see not, might see, and that they which see, might be made blind.

40 And some of the Pharisees which were with him heard these words, and said unto him, Are we blind also?

41 Jesus said unto them, If ye were blind, ye should have no sin: but now ye say, we see: therefore your sin remaineth.

e He is called a sinner in the Hebrew tongue, which is a wicked man, and maketh, as it were, an art of sinning.

6 Proud wickedness must needs at length break forth, which in vain lieth hid under a zeal of godliness.

f Thou art naught even from thy cradle, and, as we use to say, There is nothing in thee but sin.

7 Most happie is their state which are cast furthest out of the church of the wicked (which proudly boast themselvs of the name of the church) that Christ may come nearer to them.

8 Christ doth lighten all them by the preaching of the gospel, which acknowledge their own darkness, but such as seem to themselvs to see clearly enough, those he altogether blindeth: of which sort are they oftentimes, which have the highest place in the church.

g with great power and authoritie, to do what is righteous, and just: as if he said, These men take upon them to govern the people of God after their own lust, as though they saw all things, and no man but they: but I will rule far otherwise than these men do: for, whom they account for blind men, them will I lighten, and such as take themselvs to be wisest, them will I drown in most gross darkness of ignorance. h In these words (Of seeing, and not seeing) there is a secret taunting and check to the Pharisees: for they thought all men blind but themselvs.

Chap. X.

1 Christ is the door, and the good shepherd. 19 Divers opinions of him. 24 He proveth by his works, that he is Christ the Son of God: 39 he escapeth the Jews, 40 and went again beyond Jordan, where many beleeved on him.

VErily, [1] verily I say unto you, He that entreth not by the door into the sheepfold, but climbeth up some other way, the same is a thief and a robber.

2 But he that entreth in by the door, is the shepherd of the sheep.

3 To him the [a] porter openeth: and the sheep hear his voice, and he calleth his own sheep by name, and leadeth them out.

4 And when he putteth forth his own sheep, he goeth before them, and the sheep follow him: for they know his voice.

5 And a stranger will they not follow, but will flee from him: for they know not the voice of strangers.

6 This [b] parable spake Jesus unto them: but they understood not what things they were which he spake unto them.

7 Then said Jesus unto them again, Verily, verily I say unto you, I am the door of the sheep.

8 [2] All that [c] ever came before me, are theevs and robbers: but the sheep did not hear them.

9 [3] I am the door, by me if any man enter in, he shall be saved, and shall [d] go in and out, and find pasture.

10 The thief cometh not, but for to steal, and to kill, and to destroy: I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly.

11 * I am the good shepherd: the good shepherd giveth his life for the sheep.

12 But he that is an hireling and not the shepherd, whose own the sheep are not, seeth the wolf coming, and leaveth the sheep, and fleeth: and the wolf catcheth them, and scattereth the sheep.

13 The hireling fleeth, because he is an hireling, and careth not for the sheep.

14 I am the good shepherd, and know my sheep, and am known of mine.

15 As the Father [e] knoweth me, even so know I the Father: and I lay down my life for the sheep.

16 [4] And other sheep I have, which are not of this fold: them also I must bring, and they shall hear my voice; * and there shall be [f] one fold, and one shepherd.

17 [5] Therefore doth my Father love me, * because I [g] lay down my life, that I might take it again.

18 No man taketh it from me, but I lay it down of my self: I have power to lay it down, and I have power to take it again. * This commandment have I received of my Father.

19 ¶ [6] There was a division therefore again among the Jews for these sayings.

20 And many of them said, He hath a devil, and is mad, why hear ye him?

21 Others said, These are not the words of him that hath a devil: can a devil open the eyes of the blind?

22 ¶ And it was at Jerusalem the * feast of the [h] dedication, and it was winter.

c These large terms must be applied to the matter he speaketh of. And therefore when he calleth himself the Door, he calleth all them theevs and robbers which take upon them this name of Door, which none of the Prophets can, for they shewed the sheep that Christ was the Door.

3 Onely Christ is the true pastor, and that onely is the true church which acknowledgeth him to be properly their onely Pastor: To him are opposite theevs, which feed not the sheep, but kill them: and hirelings also, which forsake the flock in time of danger, because they feed it onely for their own profit and gain.

h The feast of the dedication was instituted by Judas Maccabeus and his brethren, after the restoring of Gods true religion by the casting out of Antiochus his garison.

1 Seeing that by Christ onely we have access to the Father, there are neither other true shepherds, than those which come to Christ themselvs, and bring others thither also, neither is any to be thought the true sheep-fold but that which is gathered to Christ.

7 The unbeleevers and proud men accuse the gospel of darkness, which darkness indeed is within themselvs.

us to doubt? If thou be the Chriſt tell us plainly.

25 [8] Jeſus anſwered them, I told you, and ye beleeved not: the works that I do in my Fathers name, they bear witneſs of me.

26 [9] But ye beleeve not, [i] becauſe ye are not of my ſheep, as I ſaid unto you.

27 My ſheep hear my voice, and I know them, and they follow me.

28 And I give unto them eternall life, and they ſhall never periſh, neither ſhall any man pluck them out of my hand.

29 My Father which gave them me, is greater than all: and no man is able to pluck them out of my Fathers hand.

30 I and my Father are one.

31 [10] Then the Jews took up ſtones again to ſtone him.

32 Jeſus anſwered them, Many good works have I ſhewed you from my [k] Father; for which of thoſe works do ye ſtone me?

33 The Jews anſwered him, ſaying, For a good work we ſtone thee not, but for blaſphemy, and becauſe that thou, being a man, makeſt thyſelf God.

34 Jeſus anſwered them, * Is it not written in your law, I ſaid, Ye are gods?

35 If he called them gods, unto whom the word of God came, and the ſcripture cannot be [l] broken:

36 Say ye of him, whom the Father hath ſanctified, and ſent into the world, Thou blaſphemeſt, becauſe I ſaid, I am the Son of God?

37 If I do not the works of my Father, beleeve me not.

38 But if I do, though ye beleeve not me, beleeve the works: that ye may know and beleeve that the Father is in me, and I in him.

39 [11] Therefore they ſought again to take him: but he eſcaped out of their hand,

40 And went away again beyond Jordan, into the place where John at firſt baptized, and there he abode.

41 And many reſorted unto him, and ſaid, John did no miracle: but all things that John ſpake of this man, were true.

42 And many beleeved on him there.

NOw [1] a certain man was ſick, named Lazarus of Bethany, the [a] town of Mary and her ſiſter Martha.

2 (* It was that Mary which anointed the Lord with ointment, and wiped his feet with her hair, whoſe brother Lazarus was ſick)

3 Therefore his ſiſters ſent unto him, ſaying, Lord, behold, he whom thou loveſt, is ſick.

4 When Jeſus heard that, he ſaid, This ſickneſs is not unto [b] death, but for the glory of God, that the Son of God might be glorified thereby.

5 Now Jeſus loved Martha, and her ſiſter, and Lazarus.

6 [2] When he had heard therefore that he was ſick, he abode two days ſtill in the ſame place where he was.

7 Then after that ſaith he to his diſciples, Let us go into Judea again.

8 [3] His diſciples ſay unto him, Maſter, the Jews of late ſought to ſtone thee; and goeſt thou thither again?

9 Jeſus anſwered, Are there not [c] twelve hours in the day? If any man walk in the day, he ſtumbleth not, becauſe he ſeeth the light of this world.

10 But if a man walk in the night, he ſtumbleth, becauſe there is no light in him.

11 Theſe things ſaid he, and after that, he ſaith unto them, Our friend Lazarus [d] ſleepeth, but I go that I may awake him out of ſleep.

12 Then ſaid his diſciples, Lord, if he ſleep, he ſhall do well.

13 Howbeit Jeſus ſpake of his death: but they thought that he had ſpoken of taking of reſt in ſleep.

14 Then ſaid Jeſus unto them plainly, Lazarus is dead.

15 And I am glad for your ſakes, that I was not there, (to the intent ye may beleeve) nevertheleſs, let us go unto him.

16 Then ſaid Thomas, which is called Didymus, unto his fellow diſciples, Let us alſo go, that we may die with him.

17 Then when Jeſus came, he found that he had lien in the grave four days already.

18 (Now Bethany was nigh unto Jeruſalem, ‡ about fifteen furlongs off)

19 [4] And many of the Jews came to Martha and Mary, to comfort them concerning their brother.

20 Then Martha, aſſoon as ſhe heard that Jeſus was coming, went and met him: but Mary ſat ſtill in the houſe.

21 Then ſaid Martha unto Jeſus, Lord, if thou hadſt been here, my brother had not died.

22 But I know, that even now whatſoever thou wilt aſk of God, God will give it thee.

23 Jeſus ſaith unto her, Thy brother ſhall [e] riſe again.

24 Martha ſaith unto him, * I know that he ſhall riſe again in the reſurrection at the laſt day.

25 Jeſus ſaid unto her, I am the reſurrection and the * life: he that beleeveth in me, though he were dead, yet ſhall he live;

26 And whoſoever liveth, and beleeveth in me, ſhall never die. Beleeveſt thou this?

27 She ſaith unto him, Yea, Lord, I beleeve that thou art the Chriſt the Son of God which ſhould come into the world.

28 And when ſhe had ſo ſaid, ſhe went her way, & called Mary her ſiſter ſecretly, ſaying, The Maſter is come and calleth for thee.

8 The doctrin of the goſpel is proved from heaven by two witneſſes: both by the puritie of the doctrin, and by miracles.

9 It is no marvell that there do but a few beleeve, ſeeing that all men are by nature untamed beaſts: yet notwithſtanding God hath his, which he turneth into his ſheep, and committeth them unto his Son, and preſerveth them againſt the cruelty of all wild beaſts.

c All things are fitly wrought, and brought to paſs in their ſeaſon.

* Chap. 6. 35.

29 Assoon as she heard that, she arose quickly, and came unto him.

30 Now Jesus was not yet come into the town, but was in that place where Martha met him.

31 The Jews then which were with her in the house, and comforted her, when they saw Mary that she rose up hastily, and went out, followed her, saying, She goeth unto the grave, to weep there.

32 Then when Mary was come where Jesus was, and saw him, she fell down at his feet, saying unto him, Lord, if thou hadst been here, my brother had not died.

33 [s] When Jesus therefore saw her weeping, and the Jews also weeping which came with her, he [f] groaned in the spirit, & † was troubled, 34 And said, Where have ye laid him? They say unto him, Lord, come and see.

35 Jesus wept.

36 Then said the Jews, Behold how he loved him.

37 And some of them said, Could not this man, * which opened the eyes of the blind, have caused that even this man should not have died?

38 Jesus therefore again groaning in himself, cometh to the grave. It was a cave, and a stone laid upon it.

39 Jesus said, Take ye away the stone. Martha, the sister of him that was dead, saith unto him, Lord, by this time he stinketh: for he hath been dead four days.

40 Jesus saith unto her, Said I not unto thee, that if thou wouldest beleeve thou shouldest see the glory of God?

41 Then they took away the stone from the place where the dead was laid. And Jesus lift up his eyes, and said, Father, I thank thee that thou hast heard me.

42 And I knew that thou hearest me always: but because of the people which stand by, I said it, that they may beleeve that thou hast sent me.

43 And when he thus had spoken, he cried with a loud voice, Lazarus come forth.

44 And he that was dead came forth, bound hand and foot with grave-clothes: and his face was bound about with a napkin. Jesus saith unto them, Loose him, and let him go.

45 Then many of the Jews which came to Mary, and had seen the things which Jesus did, beleeved on him.

46 [6] But some of them went their ways to the Pharisees, and told them what things Jesus had don.

47 ¶ Then gathered the chief priests and the Pharisees a [g] council, and said What do we? for this man doeth many miracles.

48 If we let him thus alone, all men will beleeve on him; and the Romans shall come and [h] take away both our place and nation.

49 [7] And one of them named Caiaphas, being the high priest that same year, said unto them, Ye know nothing at all,

50 * Nor consider that it is expedient for us, that one man should die for the people, and that the whole nation perish not.

51 [8] And this spake he not of himself: but being high priest that year, he prophesied that Jesus should die for that nation:

52 And not for that nation onely, but that also he should gather together in one, the children of God that [i] were scattered abroad.

53 Then from that day forth, they took counsel together for to put him to death.

54 [9] Jesus therefore walked no more openly among the Jews: but went thence unto a countrey near to the wilderness, into a city called Ephraim, & there continued with his disciples.

55 ¶ And the Jews passover was nigh at hand, and many went out of the countrey up to Jerusalem before the passover, to purifie themselvs.

56 Then sought they for Jesus, and spake among themselvs, as they stood in the temple, What think ye, that he will not come to the feast?

57 Now both the chief priests and the Pharisees had given a commandment, that if any man knew where he were, he should shew it, that they might take him.

* Chap. 18. 14.

8 Christ doth somtimes so turn the tongues, even of the wicked, that even in cursing, they bless.

i For they were not gathered together in one countrey, as the Jews were, but to be gathered, from all quarters, from the east to the west.

9 we may give place to the rage of the wicked, when it is expedient so to do, but yet in such sort, that we swerve not from Gods vocation.

s Christ took upon him, together with our flesh, all affections of man (sin onely excepted) and amongst them especially mercy, and compassion.

f These are tokens that he was greatly moved, but yet they were without sin: and these affections are proper to mans nature.

† Gr. he troubled himself.

* Chap. 9. 6.

6 The last point of hard and ironlike stubbornness is this, to proclaim open war against God, and yet not to cease to make a pretence both of godliness and of the profit of the commonwealth.

g The Jews called this Council Sanhedrin: and the word that John useth, is Synedrion.

h That is, taken away from us by force: for at that time, though the high Priests authority was greatly lessened and decayed, yet there was some kind of government left among the Jews. 7 The raging and mad company of the false church perswade themselvs that they cannot be in safetie, unless he be taken away, who onely upholdeth the Church. And so likewise judgeth the wisdom of the flesh in worldly affairs, which is governed by the spirit of giddiness, or madness.

Chap. XII.

1 Jesus excuseth Mary anointing his feet. 9 The people flock to see Lazarus. 10 The high priests consult to kill him. 11 Christ rideth into Jerusalem. 20 Greeks desire to see Jesus. 23 He foretelleth his death. 37 The Jews are generally blinded: 42 yet many chief rulers beleeve, but do not confess him: 44 therefore Jesus calleth earnestly for confession of faith.

THen Jesus, six days before the passover, came to Bethany, where Lazarus was, which had been dead, whom he raised from the dead.

2 There they made him a supper, and Martha served: but Lazarus was one of them that sat at the table with him.

3 Then took Mary a pound of ointment, of spikenard, very costly, and anointed the feet of Jesus, and wiped his feet with her hair: and the house was filled with the odour of the ointment.

4 Then saith one of his disciples, Judas Iscariot, Simons son, which should betray him,

5 [1] Why was not this ointment sold for three hundred pence, and given to the poor?

6 This he said, not that he cared for the poor: but because he was a thief, and * had the bag, and bare what was put therein.

7 [2] Then said Jesus, let her alone, against the day of my burying hath she kept this.

8 For the poor always ye have with you: but me ye have not always.

9 [3] Much people of the Jews therefore knew that

1 An horrible example in Judas, of a mind blinded with covetousness, and yet pretending godliness.

* Chap. 13. 29.

2 This extraordinary anointing, which was for a sign, is so allowed of God, that he witnesseth how he will not be worshipped with outward pomp, or costly service, but with alms.

3 when the light of the gospel sheweth it self, some are found to be curious, and others (which lest ought) to be open enemies: others in a rage honour him, whom they will straightway fall from: and very few do so reverently receive him as they ought: notwithstanding, Christ beginneth his spirituall kingdom in the midst of his enemies.

94 that he was there: and they came, not for Jesus sake onely, but that they might see Lazarus also, whom he had raised from the dead.

10 ¶ But the chief priests consulted, that they might put Lazarus also to death.

11 Because that by reason of him many of the Jews went away, and beleeved on Jesus.

* Mat. 21. 8. 12 ¶ * On the next day, much people that were come to the feast, when they heard that Jesus was coming to Jerusalem, 13 Took branches of palm-trees, and went forth to meet him, and cried, Hosanna, blessed is the King of Israel that cometh in the name of the Lord.

14 And Jesus when he had found a young ass, sat thereon, as it is written,

* Zech. 9. 9. 15 * Fear not, daughter of Sion; behold thy King cometh, sitting on an asses colt.

16 These things understood not his disciples at the first: but when Jesus was glorified, then remembred they that these things were written of him, and that they had don these things unto him.

17 The people therefore that was with him, when he called Lazarus out of his grave, and raised him from the dead, bare record.

18 For this cause the people also met him, for that they heard that he had don this miracle.

4 Even they which go about to oppress Christ, are made instruments of his glory.

19 [4] The Pharisees therefore said among themselvs, Perceive ye how ye prevail nothing? behold, the world is gon after him.

20 ¶ And there were certain Greeks among them, that [a] came up to worship at the feast:

21 The same came therefore to Philip, which was of Bethsaida of Galilee, and desired him, saying, Sir, we would see Jesus.

22 Philip cometh and telleth Andrew: and again, Andrew and Philip told Jesus.

23 ¶ And Jesus answered them, saying, The hour is come, that the Son of man should be glorified.

24 [5] Verily, verily I say unto you, Except a corn of wheat fall into the ground, and [b] die, it abideth alone: but if it die, it bringeth forth much fruit.

25 * He that loveth his life, shall lose it: and he that hateth his life in this world, shall keep it unto life eternall.

26 If any man serve me, let him follow me, and where I am, there shall also my servant be: if any man serve me, him will my Father honour.

27 [6] Now is my soul troubled, and what shall I say? Father, save me from this [c] hour: but for this cause came I unto this hour.

28 Father, [d] glorifie thy name. Then came there a voice from heaven, saying, I have both glorified it, and will glorifie it again.

29 The people therefore that stood by, and heard it, said that it thundered: others said, An angel spake to him.

30 [7] Jesus answered, and said, This voice came not because of me, but for your sakes.

31 Now is the judgement of this world: now shall the prince of this world be cast out.

32 And I, if I be [e] lifted up from the earth, will [f] draw all men unto me.

33 (This he said, signifying what death he should die)

34 The people answered him, * We have heard out of the law, that Christ abideth for ever: and how sayest thou, The Son of man must be lift up? who is this Son of man?

35 [8] Then Jesus said unto them, Yet a little while is the light with you, walk while ye have the light, least darkness come upon you: for he that walketh in darkness, knoweth not whither he goeth.

36 While ye have light, beleeve in the light, that ye may be the [g] children of light. These things spake Jesus and departed, and did hide himself from them.

37 ¶ [9] But though he had don so many miracles before them, yet they beleeved not on him:

38 That the saying of Esaias the prophet might be fulfilled, which he spake, * Lord, who hath beleeved our report? and to whom hath the [h] arm of the Lord been revealed?

39 Therefore they could not beleeve, because that Esaias said again, 40 * He hath blinded their eyes, and hardened their heart, that they should not see with their eyes, nor understand with their heart, and be converted, and I should heal them.

41 These things said Esaias, when he saw his glory, and spake of him.

42 ¶ [10] Nevertheless, among the chief rulers also, many beleeved on him; but because of the Pharisees they did not confess him, least they should be put out of the synagogue.

43 * For they loved the praise of men more than the praise of God.

44 ¶ [11] Jesus cried, and said, He that beleeveth on me, beleeveth [i] not on me, but on him that sent me.

45 And he that seeth me, seeth him that sent me.

46 * I am come a light into the world, that whosoever beleeveth on me, should not abide in darkness.

47 * And if any man hear my words and beleeve not, I judge him not; for I came not to judge the world, but to save the world.

48 He that rejecteth me, and receiveth not my words, hath one that judgeth him: * the word that I have spoken, the same shall judge him in the last day.

49 For I have not spoken of my self; but the Father which sent me, he gave me a commandment what I should say, and what I should speak.

50 And I know that his commandment is life everlasting: whatsoever I speak therefore, even as the Father said unto me, so I speak.

6 Whiles Christ went about to suffer all the punishment which is due to our sins, and whilest his divinitie did not yet shew his might and power so far, as this satisfaction might be thoroughly wrought: now when he is stricken with the great heat of the curse of God, he crieth and prayeth, and desireth to be released: yet notwithstanding he preferreth the will and glory of his Father before all things, whose obedience the Father allowe'h even from heaven. c To wit, of death that is now at hand. d So then the Fathers glory is Christ his glory.

7 Christ foretelleth to the deaf, the manner of his death, the overcoming of the devil and the world, and in conclusion, his triumph.

e Christ used a word which hath a double meaning, for it signifieth either To lift up, or To rid out of the way: for his meaning was to put them in mind of his death: but the Jews seem to take it another way.

11 The sum of the gospel, and therefore of salvation, which Christ witnessed in the midst of Jerusalem, by his crying out, is this, To rest upon Christ through faith, as the onely Saviour appointed and given us of the Father.

i This word, Not, doth not take any whit of this from Christ, which is here spoken of, but is in way of correction rather, as if he said, He that beleeveth in me, doth not so much beleeve in me, as in him that sent me. So is it in Mark 9. 37.

NOw * [1] before the feaſt of the paſsover, when Jeſus knew that his hour was come, that he ſhould depart out of this world unto the Father, having loved his [a] own which were in the world, he loved them unto the end.

2 And ſupper being ended, (the devil having now put into the heart of Judas Iſcariot, Simons ſon, to betray him)

3 Jeſus knowing that the Father had given all things into his [b] hands, and that he was come from God, and went to God:

4 He [c] riſeth from ſupper, and laid aſide his garments, & took a towell & girded himſelf.

5 After that, he poureth water into a baſon, and began to waſh the diſciples feet, and to wipe them with the towell wherewith he was girded.

6 Then cometh he to Simon Peter: and Peter ſaith unto him, Lord, doſt thou waſh my feet?

7 Jeſus anſwered and ſaid unto him, What I do thou knoweſt not now: but thou ſhalt know hereafter.

8 Peter ſaith unto him, Thou ſhalt never waſh my feet. Jeſus anſwered him, If I waſh thee not, thou haſt [d] no part with me.

9 Simon Peter ſaith unto him, Lord, not my feet onely, but alſo my hands and my head.

10 Jeſus ſaith to him, He that is waſhed, needeth not, ſave to waſh his feet, but is clean every whit: and ye are clean, but not all.

11 For he knew who ſhould betray him, therefore ſaid he, Ye are not all clean.

12 So after he had waſhed their feet, and had taken his garments, and was ſet down again, he ſaid unto them, Know ye what I have don to you?

13 Ye call me Maſter, and Lord: and ye ſay well; for ſo I am.

14 If I then your Lord and Maſter have waſhed your feet, ye alſo ought to waſh one anothers feet.

18 ¶ [2] I ſpeak not of you all, I know whom I have choſen: but that the ſcripture may be fulfilled, * He that eateth bread with me, hath lift up his heel againſt me.

19 ‡ Now I tell you before it come, that when it is come to paſs, ye may beleeve that I am he.

20 * Verily, verily I ſay unto you, He that receiveth whomſoever I ſend, receiveth me: and he that receiveth me, receiveth him that ſent me.

21 * When Jeſus had thus ſaid, he was troubled in ſpirit, and [e] teſtified, and ſaid, Verily, verily I ſay unto you, that one of you ſhall betray me.

22 Then the diſciples looked one on another, doubting of whom he ſpake.

23 Now there was [f] leaning on Jeſus boſom one of his diſciples whom Jeſus loved.

24 Simon Peter therefore beckned to him, that he ſhould aſk who it ſhould be of whom he ſpake.

25 He then lying on Jeſus breaſt, ſaith unto him, Lord, who is it?

26 Jeſus anſwered, He it is to whom I ſhall give a ‡ ſop when I have dipped it. And when he had dipped the ſop, he gave it to Judas Iſcariot, the ſon of Simon.

27 And after the ſop, Satan entred into him. Then ſaid Jeſus unto him, That thou doeſt, do quickly.

28 Now no man at the table knew for what intent he ſpake this unto him.

29 For ſome of them thought, becauſe Judas had the bag, that Jeſus had ſaid unto him, Buy thoſe things that we have need of againſt the feaſt: or that he ſhould give ſomthing to the poor.

30 He then having received the ſop, went immediately out: and it was night.

31 ¶ [3] Therefore when he was gon out, Jeſus ſaid, [g] Now is the Son of man glorified, and God is glorified in him.

32 If God be glorified in him, God ſhall alſo glorify him in himſelf, and ſhall ſtraightway glorify him.

33 [4] Little children, yet a little while I am with you. Ye ſhall ſeek me, * and as I ſaid unto the Jews, Whither I go, ye cannot come; ſo now I ſay unto you.

34 * A new commandment I give unto you, That ye love one another, as I have loved you, that ye alſo love one another.

35 By this ſhall all men know that ye are my diſciples, if ye have love one to another.

36 ¶ [5] Simon Peter ſaid unto him, Lord, whither goeſt thou? Jeſus anſwered him, Whither I go, thou canſt not follow me now: but thou ſhalt follow me afterwards.

37 Peter ſaid unto him, Lord, why cannot I follow thee now? I will * lay down my life for thy ſake.

38 Jeſus anſwered him, Wilt thou lay down thy life for my ſake? Verily, verily I ſay unto thee, The cock ſhall not crow, till thou haſt denied me thrice.

1 Chriſt no leſs certain of the victory, than of the combat which was at hand, uſing the ſign of waſhing the feet, doth partly thereby give an example of ſingular modeſty, and his great love toward his apoſtles in this notable act, being like, very ſhortly, to depart from them: and partly, witneſſeth unto them, that it is he onely, which waſheth away the filth of his people, and that by little and little in their time and ſeaſon.

c In that he is ſaid to riſe, it argueth that there was a ſpace between the ceremony of the paſsover and this waſhing of feet, at what time it ſeemeth that the ſupper was inſtituted.
d Unleſs thou ſuffer me to waſh thee, thou ſhalt have no part in the kingdom of heaven.

e He affirmed it openly and ſoothed it not.

f John his leaning was ſuch, that ſitting down in his bed, his head was toward Jeſus his head: ſo that it was an eaſy matter for him to touch Jeſus his boſom: for it is certain that in old time men uſed not to ſit at the table, but ly down on the one ſide.

you: I go to [b] prepare a place for you.

3 [2] And if I go and prepare a place for you, I [c] will come again, and receive you unto my self, that where I am, there ye may be also.

4 [3] And whither I go ye know, and the way ye know.

5 Thomas saith unto him, Lord, we know not whither thou goest, and how can we know the way?

6 Jesus saith unto him, [d] I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father but by me.

7 [e] If ye had known me, ye should have known my Father also: and from henceforth ye know him, and have seen him.

8 Philip saith unto him, Lord, shew us the Father, and it sufficeth us.

9 Jesus saith unto him, Have I been so long time with you, and yet hast thou not known me, Philip? he that hath seen me, hath seen the Father, and how sayest thou then, Shew us the Father?

10 [4] Beleevest thou not that I am in the Father, and the Father in me? the words that I speak unto you, I speak not of my self: but the Father that dwelleth in me, he doth the works.

11 Beleeve me that I am in the Father, and the Father in me: or else beleeve me for the very works sake.

12 [5] Verily, verily I say unto you, He that beleeveth on me, the works that I do, shall he do also, and [f] greater works than these shall he do, because I go unto my Father.

13 * And whatsoever ye shall ask in my name, that will I do, that the Father may be glorified in the Son.

14 If ye shall ask any thing in my name, I will do it.

15 ¶ [6] If ye love me, keep my commandments.

16 And I will pray the Father, and he shall give you another Comforter, that he may abide with you for ever:

17 Even the [g] Spirit of truth, whom the [h] world cannot receive, because it seeth him not, neither knoweth him: but ye know him, for he dwelleth with you, and shall be in you.

18 I will not leave you ‡ comfortless, I will come to you.

19 Yet a little while, and the world seeth me no more: but ye see me: because I live, ye shall live also.

20 At that day ye shall know, that I am [i] in my Father, and you in me, and I in you.

21 He that hath my commandments, and keepeth them, he it is that loveth me, and he that loveth me shall be loved of my Father, & I will love him, & will [k] manifest my self to him.

22 [7] Judas saith unto him, not Iscariot, Lord, how is it that thou wilt manifest thy self unto us, and not unto the world?

23 Jesus answered and said unto him, If a man love me, he will keep my words: and my Father will love him, and we will come unto him, and make our abode with him.

24 He that loveth me not, keepeth not my sayings: and the word which you hear, is not mine, but the Fathers which sent me.

25 [8] These things have I spoken unto you, being yet present with you.

26 But the Comforter, which is the holy Ghost, whom the Father will send in my name, he shall teach you all things, and bring all things to your remembrance, whatsoever I have said unto you.

27 [9] Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you, not as the world giveth, give I unto you: let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid.

28 [10] Ye have heard how I said unto you, I go away; & come again unto you. If ye loved me, ye would rejoyce, because I said, I go unto the Father: for my Father is [l] greater than I.

29 And now I have told you before it come to pass, that when it is come to pass, ye might beleeve.

30 [11] Hereafter I will not talk much with you: for the prince of this world cometh, and hath [m] nothing in me.

31 But that the world may know that I love the Father; and as the Father gave me commandment, even so I do: arise, let us go hence.

CHAP. XV.

1 The consolation and mutuall love between Christ and his members, under the parable of the vine. 18 A comfort in the hatred and persecution of the world. 26 The office of the holy Ghost, and of the apostles.

I [1] Am the true vine, and my Father is the husbandman.

2 * Every branch in me that beareth not fruit, he taketh away: and every branch that beareth fruit, he purgeth it, that it may bring forth more fruit.

3 * Now ye are clean through the word which I have spoken unto you.

4 Abide in me, and I in you. As the branch cannot bear fruit of it self, except it abide in the vine: no more can ye, except ye abide in me.

5 I am the vine, ye are the branches: He that abideth in me, and I in him, the same bringeth forth much fruit: for ‡ without me ye can do nothing.

6 If a man abide not in me, he is cast forth as a branch, and is withered, and men gather them, and cast them into the fire, and they are burned.

7 [2] If ye abide in me, and my words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will, and it shall be don unto you.

8 [a] Herein is my Father glorified, that ye bear much fruit, so shall ye be my disciples.

9 [3] As the Father hath loved me, so have I loved you: [b] continue ye in my love.

b All this speech is by the way of an allegory, whereby the Lord comforteth his own, declaring to them his departure into heaven, which is, Not to reign there alone, but to go before and prepare a place for them.

2 Christ went not away from us, to the end to forsake us, but rather that he might at length take us up with him into heaven.

c These words are to be referred to the whole church, and therefore the angel said to the disciples when they were astonished, what stand you gazing up into heaven? This Jesus shall so come as you saw him go up, Act. 1. 11. and in all places of the scripture, the full comfort of the church is referred to that day when God shall be all in all, and is therefore called the day of redemption.

3 Christ onely is the way to true and everlasting life, for he it is in whom the Father hath revealed himself.

d This saying, sheweth unto us both the nature, the will, and office of Christ.

e It is plain by this place, that to know God, and to see God, is all one: Now whereas he said before, that no man saw God at any time, that is to be understood thus, without Christ, or were it not through Christ, no man could ever see, nor know God at any time: for, as Chrysostom saith, The Son is a very short and easy setting forth of the Fathers nature unto us.

4 The majesty of God sheweth it self most evidently, both in Christs doctrin & deeds.

5 The approving of the vertue of Christ is not included within his own person, but it is spread through the body of his whole church.

f That is, Not onely do them, but I can also give other men power to do greater.

* Mat. 7. 7.

6 He loveth Christ aright which obeyeth his commandments: and because the same is accompanied with an infinit sort of miseries, although he be absent in body, yet doth he comfort his, with the present vertue of the holy Ghost, whom the world despiseth, because it knoweth him not. g The holy Ghost is called the Spirit of truth, of the effect which he worketh, because he inspireth the truth into us, whereas otherwise he hath truth in himself. h worldly men. ‡ Or, orphans, i The Son is in the Father after such sort, that he is of one self same substance with the Father, but he is in his disciples in a certain respect, as an aider and helper of them. k I will shew my self to him, and be known of him, as if he saw me with his eyes: but this shewing of himself is not bodily, but spirituall, yet so plain as none can be more. 7 we must not ask why the Gospel is revealed to some rather than to others, but we must rather take heed that we embrace Christ, who is offered unto us, and that we truly love him, that is to say, That we give our selvs wholly to his obedience.

8 It is the office of the holy Ghost to imprint in the elect, in their times and season, that which Christ once spake.

9 All true felicity cometh to us by Christ alone.

10 So far is it that we should be sorry for the departing of Christ from us, according to the flesh, that we should rather rejoyce for it, seeing that all the blessing of the members dependeth upon the glorifying of the head.

l This is spoken, in that that he is Mediator, for so the Father is greater than he, in as much as the person to whom requeſt is made, is greater than he that maketh the requeſt.

11 Christ goeth to death not unwillingly but willingly, not as yeelding to the devil, but obeying his Fathers decree.

m As who would say, Satan will by and by set upon me with all the might he can, but he hath no power over me, neither shall he find any such thing in me, as he thinketh he shall.

1 We are of nature dry and fit for nothing, but the fire: Therefore that we may live & be fruitfull, we must first be grafted into Christ, as it were into a vine, by the Fathers hand: and then be daily pruned with a continuall meditation of the word, and the cross: otherwise, it shall not avail any man at all to have been grafted, unless he cleave fast unto the vine, and to draw juyce out of it.

* Mat 15. 13.

* Chap. 13. 10.

‡ Or, severed from me

2 He abideth in Christ, which resteth in his doctrin, and therefore bringeth forth good fruit: And the Father will deny such as one nothing.

a As who would say, Herein shall my Father be glorified, and herein also shall you be my disciples, if you bring forth much fruit.

3 The love of the Father towards the Son, and of the Son towards us, and ours towards God & our neighbour, are joyned together with an unseparable knot: and there is nothing more sweet and pleasant than it is. Now this love sheweth it self by the effects: a most perfect example whereof Christ himself exhibiteth unto us. b That is, In that love wherewith I do love you: which love is on both parts.

10 If ye keep my commandments, ye ſhall abide in my love: even as I have kept my Fathers commandments, and abide in his love.

11 Theſe things have I ſpoken unto you that my joy might remain in you, and that your joy might be full.

12 * This is my commandment, That ye love one another, as I have loved you.

13 Greater love hath no man then this, that a man lay down his life for his friends.

14 Ye are my friends, if ye do whatſoever I command you.

15 [4] Henceforth I call you not ſervants; for the ſervant knoweth not what his lord doth: but I have called you friends; for all things that I have heard of my Father, I have made known unto you.

16 Ye have [5] not choſen me, but [c] I have choſen you, and * ordained you, that you ſhould go and bring forth fruit, and that your fruit ſhould remain: that whatſoever ye ſhall aſk of the Father in my name, he may give it you.

17 Theſe things I command you, that ye love one another.

18 [6] If the world hate you, ye know that it hated me before it hated you.

19 If ye were of the world, the world would love his own: but becauſe ye are not of the world, but I have choſen you out of the world, therefore the world hateth you.

20 Remember the word that I ſaid unto you, * The ſervant is not greater then the lord. If they have perſecuted me, they will alſo perſecute you: if they have kept my ſaying, they will keep yours alſo.

21 [7] But all theſe things will they do unto you for my names ſake, becauſe they know not him that ſent me.

22 [d] If I had not come, and ſpoken unto them, they had not had ſin: but now they have no ‡ cloke for their ſin.

23 He that hateth me, hateth my Father alſo.

24 If I had not done among them the works which none other man did, they had not had ſin: but now have they both ſeen, and hated both me and my Father.

25 But this cometh to paſs, that the word might be fulfilled that is written in their [e] law, * They hated me without a cauſe.

26 * [8] But when the Comforter is come, whom I will ſend unto you from the Father, even the Spirit of truth, which proceedeth from the Father, he ſhall teſtify of me.

27 And ye alſo ſhall bear witneſs, becauſe ye have been with me from the beginning.

* Chap. 13. 34. 1 Theſ. 4. 9. 1 John. 3. 11.

4 The doctrine of the goſpel (as it is uttered by Chriſts own mouth) is a moſt perfect and abſolute declaration of the counſel of God, which pertaineth to our ſalvation, and is committed unto the apoſtles.

5 Chriſt is the authour and preſerver of the miniſtry of the goſpel, even to the worlds end: but the miniſters have above all things need of prayer and brotherly love.

c This place teacheth us plainly, that our ſalvation cometh from the only favour & gracious goodneſs of the everlaſting God toward us, and of nothing that we do or can deſerve.

* Mat. 28. 19.

6 It ought not onely not to fear, but rather confirm the faithful miniſters of Chriſt, when they ſhall be hated of the world as their maiſter was.

* Mat. 10. 24. Chap. 13. 16.

7 The hatred that the world beareth againſt Chriſt, proceedeth of the blockiſhneſs of the mind, which notwithſtanding is voluntary blind, ſo that the world can pretend no excuſe to cover their fault.

d As who would ſay, If I had not come, theſe men would not have ſtuck to have ſaid ſtill before Gods judgment ſeat, that they are religious and void of ſin: but ſeeing I came to them, and they clean refuſe me, they can have no cloke for their wickedneſs.

e Some time by this word, Law, is meant the five books of Moſes, but in this place, the whole Scripture: for the place alledged is in the Pſalms. * Pſal. 35. 19. * Luk. 24. 49. Chap. 14. 26.

8 Againſt the rage of the wicked, we ſhall ſtand ſurely by the inward teſtimony of the holy Ghoſt: but the holy Ghoſt ſpeaketh no otherwiſe, then he ſpeaketh by the mouth of the apoſtles.

CHAP. XVI.

1 Chriſt comforteth his diſciples againſt tribulation by the promiſe of the holy Ghoſt, and by his reſurrection and aſcenſion, 23 aſſureth their prayers made in his name to be acceptable to his Father. 33 Peace in Chriſt, and in the world affliction.

THeſe [1] things have I ſpoken unto you, that ye ſhould not be offended.

1 The miniſters of the goſpel muſt look for all manner of reproaches, not onely of them which are open enemies, but even of them alſo which ſeem to be of the ſame houſhold, and the very pillars of the church.

2 They ſhall put you out of the ſynagogues: yea, the time cometh, that whoſoever killeth you will think that he doth God ſervice.

3 And theſe things will they do unto you, becauſe they have not known the Father, nor me.

4 But theſe things have I told you, that when the time ſhall come, ye may remember that I told you of them. And theſe things I ſaid not unto you at the beginning, becauſe I was with you.

5 But now I go my way to him that ſent me, and none of you aſketh me, Whither goeſt thou?

6 But becauſe I have ſaid theſe things unto you, ſorrow hath filled your heart.

7 [2] Nevertheleſs, I tell you the truth; it is expedient for you that I go away: for if I go not away, the Comforter will not come unto you; but if I depart, I will ſend him unto you.

8 [3] And when he is come, he will ‡ [a] reprove the [b] world of ſin, and of righteouſneſs, and of judgment:

9 Of ſin, becauſe they believe not on me;

10 [c] Of righteouſneſs, becauſe I go to my Father, and ye ſee me no more;

11 [d] Of judgment, [e] becauſe the prince of this world is judged.

12 [4] I have yet many things to ſay unto you; but ye cannot bear them now.

13 Howbeit, when he the Spirit of truth is come, he will guide you into all truth: for he ſhall not ſpeak of himſelf; but whatſoever he ſhall hear, that ſhall he ſpeak: and he will ſhew you things to come.

14 [5] He ſhall glorify me: for he ſhall receive of mine, and ſhall ſhew it unto you.

15 All things that the Father hath, are mine: therefore ſaid I, that he ſhall take of mine, and ſhall ſhew it unto you.

16 [6] A [f] little while and ye ſhall not ſee me: and again, a little while and ye ſhall ſee me, [g] becauſe I go to the Father.

17 Then ſaid ſome of his diſciples among themſelves, What is this that he ſaith unto us, A little while and ye ſhall not ſee me: and again, a little while and ye ſhall ſee me: and, Becauſe I go to the Father?

18 They ſaid therefore, What is this that he ſaith, A little while? we cannot tell what he ſaith.

19 Now Jeſus knew that they were deſirous to aſk him, and ſaid unto them, Do ye enquire among your ſelves of that I ſaid, A little while and ye ſhall not ſee me: and again, a little while and ye ſhall ſee me?

20 Verily verily I ſay unto you, that ye ſhall weep and lament, but the world ſhall rejoyce: and ye ſhall be ſorrowful, but your ſorrow ſhall be turned into joy.

21 A woman when ſhe is in travail, hath ſorrow,

2 The abſence of Chriſt according to the fleſh, is profitable to the church, that we may wholly depend upon his ſpiritual power.

3 The Spirit of God worketh ſo mightily by the preaching of the word, that he conſtraineth the world, will it, nill it, to confeſs its own unrighteouſneſs, and Chriſts righteouſneſs, and almightineſs.

‡ Or, convince.

a He will ſo reprove the world, that the worldlings ſhall be able to pretend no excuſe.

b He reſpecteth the time that followed his aſcenſion when as all gainſayers were manifeſtly reproved through the pouring out of the holy Ghoſt upon the church: So that the very enemies of Chriſt were reproved of ſin, in that they were conſtrained, to confeſs that they were deceived, in that they believed not, and therefore they ſaid to Peter, Acts 2. Men and brethren, what ſhall we do?

c Of Chriſt himſelf: for when the world ſhall ſee, that I have poured out the holy Ghoſt, they ſhall be conſtrained to confeſs that I was juſt, and was not condemned of my Father, when I went out of this world.

d Of that authority and power which I have both in heaven and earth.

e That is, Becauſe they ſhall then underſtand and know indeed that I have overcome the devil, and do govern the world when all men ſhall ſee that they ſet themſelves againſt you in vain, for I will arm you with that heavenly power, whereby you may deſtroy every high thing which is lifted up againſt the knowledge of God, 2 Cor. 10. 2.

4 The doctrine of the apoſtles proceeded from the holy Ghoſt, and is moſt perfect no new doctrine but teacheth that which was uttered by Chriſts own mouth, and imprinteth it in our minds.

5 The holy Ghoſt bringeth 6 The grace of the holy Ghoſt is a moſt lively glaſs, wherein Chriſt is truely beholden with the moſt ſharp ſighted eyes of faith, and not with the bleared eyes of the fleſh, whereby we feel a continual joy even in the midſt of ſorrows

22 And ye now therefore have ſorrow: but I will ſee you again, and your heart ſhall rejoyce, and your joy no man taketh from you.

23 And in that day ye ſhall aſk me nothing: * Verily verily I ſay unto you, Whatſoever ye ſhall aſk the Father in my name, he will give it you.

* Mat. 7. 7.

26 [8] At that day ye ſhall aſk in my name: and I ſay not unto you, that I will pray the Father for you:

27 For the Father himſelf loveth you, becauſe ye have loved me, and have believed that I came out from God.

28 I came forth from the Father, and am come into the world: again, I leave the world, and go to the Father.

29 [9] His diſciples ſaid unto him, Lo, now ſpeakeſt thou plainly, and ſpeakeſt no ‡ proverb.

30 Now are we ſure that thou knoweſt all things, and needeſt not that any man ſhould aſk thee: by this we believe that thou cameſt forth from God.

31 Jeſus anſwered them, Do ye now believe?

33 [11] Theſe things I have ſpoken unto you, that [h] in me ye might have peace. In the world ye ſhall have tribulation: but be of good cheer, I have overcome the world.

7 The holy Ghoſt, which was poured upon the apoſtles after the aſcenſion of Chriſt, inſtructed both them in all the chiefeſt myſteries and ſecrets of our ſalvation, and alſo by them the church, and will alſo inſtruct it to the end of the world.

a Over all men.

b He calleth the Father the onely very God, to ſet him againſt falſe gods, and not to ſhut out himſelf and the holy Ghoſt, for ſtraightways he joyneth the knowledge of the Father and the knowledge of himſelf together, and according to his accuſtomed manner ſetteth forth the whole Godhead in the perſon of the Father: ſo is the Father alone ſaid to be King, immortal, wiſe, and dwelling in light which no man can attain unto, inviſible, Rom. 16. 27. 1 Tim. 1. 17.

4 I have glorified thee on the earth: I have finiſhed the work which thou gaveſt me to do.

5 And now, O Father, glorify thou me with thine own ſelf, with the glory which I had with thee before the world was.

6 [3] I have manifeſted thy name unto the men which thou gaveſt me out of the world: [c] thine they were, and thou [d] gaveſt them me; and they have kept thy word.

7 Now they have known that all things whatſoever thou haſt given me, are of thee.

8 For I have given unto them the words which thou gaveſt me; and they have received them, * and have known ſurely that I came out from thee, and they have believed that thou didſt ſend me.

9 I pray for them: I pray not for the world, but for them which thou haſt given me, for they are thine.

10 And all mine are thine, and thine are mine, and I am glorified in them.

11 And now I am no more in the world, but theſe are in the world, and I come to thee. Holy Father, keep through thine own name, thoſe whom thou haſt given me, that they may be [e] one, as we are.

12 While I was with them in the world, I kept them in thy name: thoſe that thou gaveſt me I have kept, and none of them is loſt, but the ſon of perdition: * that the ſcripture might be fulfilled.

13 And now come I to thee, and theſe things I ſpeak in the world, that they might have my joy fulfilled in themſelves.

14 I have given them thy word; and the world hath hated them, becauſe they are not of the world, even as I am not of the world.

15 [4] I pray not that thou ſhouldeſt take them out of the world, but that thou ſhouldeſt keep them from the evil.

16 They are not of the world, even as I am not of the world.

17 [f] Sanctify them through thy truth: thy word is truth.

18 [5] As thou haſt ſent me into the world, even ſo have I alſo ſent them into the world.

19 And for their ſakes I ſanctify my ſelf, that they alſo might be ‡ ſanctified through the [g] truth.

20 [6] Neither pray I for theſe alone, but for them alſo which ſhall believe on me through their word:

21 That they all may be one, as thou Father art in me, and I in thee; that they alſo may be one in us: that the world may believe that thou haſt ſent me.

22 And the glory which thou gaveſt me, I have given them: that they may be one, even as we are one.

23 I in them, and thou in me, that they may be made perfect in one, and that the world

3 Firſt of all, He prayeth for thoſe his diſciples by whom he would have the reſt to be gathered together, and commendeth them unto the Father, (having once rejected the whole company of the reprobate) becauſe he received them of him, into his cuſtody, and for that they embraceing his doctrine ſhall have ſo many and ſo mighty enemies, that there is no way for them to be in ſafety, but by his help onely.

c He ſheweth hereby, That everlaſting election and choice, which was hidden in the good will and pleaſure of God, which is the ground work of our ſalvation.

d He ſheweth, How that everlaſting and hidden purpoſe of God is declared in Chriſt, by whom we are juſtified & ſanctified, if we lay hold on him by faith, that at length we may come to the glory of the election.

* Chap. 16 27.

e He prayeth that his people may peaceably agree and be joyned together in one, that as the Godhead is one, ſo they may be of one mind, and one conſent together.

* Pſal. 109. 8.

4 He ſheweth what manner of deliverance he meaneth, not that they ſhould be in no danger, but that they being preſerved from all, might prove by experience that the doctrine of ſalvation is truth, which they received at his mouth to deliver to other.

f That is, Make them holy: and that is ſaid to be holy, which is dedicated and made proper to God only.

5 He addeth moreover, that the apoſtles have a vocation common with them, and therefore that they muſt be holden up by the ſelf-ſame virtue to give up themſelves wholly to God, whereby he being firſt, did conſecrate himſelf to the Father.

g The true and ſubſtantial ſanctification of Chriſt, is ſet againſt the outward purifying.

6 Secondarily, He offereth to God the Father all his, that is, How many ſoever ſhall believe in him by the doctrine of the apoſtles: that as he cleaveth unto the Father, receiving from him all fulneſs, ſo they being joyned with him, may receive life from him, and at length being together beloved in him, may alſo with him enjoy everlaſting glory.

may may know that thou haſt ſent me, and haſt loved them, as thou haſt loved me.

* Chap. 12. 26.

24 * Father, I will that they alſo whom thou haſt given me, be with me where I am; that they may behold my glory which thou haſt given me: for thou lovedſt me before the foundation of the world.

25 O righteous Father, the world hath not known thee; but I have known thee, and theſe have known that thou haſt ſent me.

7 He communicateth with his by little and little, the knowledge of the Father, which is moſt full in Chriſt the mediatour, that they may in him be beloved of the Father, with the ſelf-ſame love wherewith he loveth the Son.

26 7 And I have declared unto them thy name, and will declare it: that the love wherewith thou haſt loved me, may be in them, and I in them.

Chap. XVIII.

1 Judas betrayeth Jeſus. 6 The officers fall to the ground. 10 Peter ſmiteth off Malchus ear. 12 Jeſus is taken and led unto Annas and Caiaphas. 15 Peters denial. 19 Jeſus examined before Caiaphas. 28 His arraignment before Pilate. 36 His kingdom. 40 The Jews aſk Barabbas to be let looſe.

1 Chriſt goeth of his own accord into a garden, which his betrayer knew, to be taken, that by his obedience, he might take away the ſin that entred into the world by one mans rebellion, and that in a garden.

WHen 1 Jeſus had ſpoken theſe words, * he went forth with his diſciples over the brook Cedron, where was a garden, into the which he entred, and his diſciples.

* Mat. 26. 36.

2 And Judas alſo which betrayed him, knew the place: for Jeſus oft-times reſorted thither with his diſciples.

* Mat. 26. 47.

2 Chriſt who was innocent was taken as a wicked perſon, that we which are wicked might be let go as innocent.

3 * 2 Judas then having received a band of men, and officers from the chief prieſts and Phariſees, cometh thither with lanterns, and torches, and weapons.

3 Chriſts perſon (but not his virtue) was bound of the adverſaries, when and how he would.

4 3 Jeſus therefore knowing all things that ſhould come upon him, went forth, and ſaid unto them, Whom ſeek ye?

5 They anſwered him, Jeſus of Nazareth. Jeſus ſaith unto them, I am he. And Judas alſo which betrayed him, ſtood with them.

6 Aſſoon then as he had ſaid unto them, I am he, they went backward and fell to the ground.

7 Then aſked he them again, Whom ſeek ye? and they ſaid, Jeſus of Nazareth.

4 Chriſt doth not neglect the office of a good paſtour, no not in his greateſt danger.

8 4 Jeſus anſwered, I have told you that I am he. If therefore ye ſeek me, let theſe go their way:

9 That the ſaying might be fulfilled which he ſpake, * Of them which thou gaveſt me, have I loſt none.

* Chap. 17. 12.

5 we ought to contain the zeal we bear to God, within the bonds of our vocation.

10 5 Then Simon Peter having a ſword, drew it, and ſmote the high prieſts ſervant, and cut off his right ear. The ſervants name was Malchus.

11 Then ſaid Jeſus unto Peter, Put up thy ſword into the ſheath: the cup which my Father hath given me, ſhall I not drink it?

6 Chriſt is brought before an earthly high prieſt to be condemned for our blaſphemies, that we might be quitted of the everlaſting high prieſt himſelf.

12 Then the band, and the captain, and officers of the Jews took Jeſus, and bound him,

13 6 And led him away to Annas firſt (for he was father in law to Caiaphas, which was the high prieſt that ſame year) ‡

7 And Annas ſent Chriſt bound unto Caiaphas the high prieſt, verſ. 24.

14 * Now Caiaphas was he which gave counſel to the Jews, that it was expedient that one man ſhould die for the people.

15 ¶ * 7 And Simon Peter followed Jeſus, and ſo did another diſciple. That diſciple was known unto the high prieſt, and went in with Jeſus into the palace of the high prieſt.

* Chap. 11. 50. * Mat. 26. 58. 7 A lively example of the fragility of man, even in the beſt, when they be once left to themſelves.

16 But Peter ſtood at the door without. Then went out that other diſciple which was known unto the high prieſt, and ſpake unto her that kept the door, and brought in Peter.

17 Then ſaith the damſel that kept the door unto Peter, Art not thou alſo one of this mans diſciples? He ſaith, I am not.

18 And the ſervants and officers ſtood there, who had made a fire of coals, (for it was cold) and they warmed themſelves: and Peter ſtood with them, and warmed himſelf.

8 Chriſt defendeth his cauſe but ſlenderly, not that he would withdraw himſelf from death, but to ſhew that he was condemned as an innocent.

19 ¶ 8 The high prieſt then aſked Jeſus of his diſciples, and of his doctrine.

20 Jeſus anſwered him, I ſpake openly to the world; I ever taught in the ſynagogue, and in the temple, whither the Jews always reſort, and in ſecret have I ſaid nothing.

21 Why aſkeſt thou me? aſk them which heard me, what I have ſaid unto them: behold, they know what I ſaid.

22 And when he had thus ſpoken, one of the officers which ſtood by, ſtroke Jeſus ‡ with the palm of his hand, ſaying, Anſwereſt thou the high prieſt ſo?

23 Jeſus anſwered him, If I have ſpoken evil, bear witneſs of the evil: but if well, why ſmiteſt thou me?

* Mat. 26. 57.

24 * (Now Annas had ſent him bound unto Caiaphas the high prieſt)

9 After that men have once fallen, they cannot onely, not lift up themſelves by their own ſtrength, but alſo they fall more and more into worſe, until they be raiſed up again, by a new virtue of God.

25 9 And Simon Peter ſtood and warmed himſelf: * They ſaid therefore unto him, Art not thou alſo one of his diſciples? He denied it, and ſaid, I am not.

* Mat. 26. 69.

26 One of the ſervants of the high prieſt (being his kinſman whoſe ear Peter cut off) ſaith, Did not I ſee thee in the garden with him?

27 Peter then denied again, and immediately the cock crew.

* Mat 27. 2.

10 The Son of God is brought before the judgment-ſeat of an earthly and profane man, in whom there is found much leſs wickedneſs then in the princes of the people of God: A lively image of the wrath of God againſt ſin, and therewithal of his great mercy, and laſt of all of his moſt ſevere judgment againſt the ſtubborn contemners of his grace when it is offered unto them.

28 ¶ * 10 Then led they Jeſus a from Caiaphas, unto ‡ the hall of judgment: and it was early, * and they themſelves went not into the judgment-hall, leſt they ſhould be defiled: but that they might eat the paſs-over.

a From Caiaphas houſe.

‡ Or, Pilats houſe.

* Acts 10. 28.

29 Pilate then went out unto them, and ſaid, What accuſation bring you againſt this man?

30 They anſwered and ſaid unto him, If he were not a malefactour, we would not have delivered him up unto thee.

31 Then ſaid Pilate unto them, Take ye him and judge him according to your law. The Jews therefore ſaid unto him, b It is not lawful for us to put any man to death:

b For judgments of life and death were taken from them fourty years before the deſtruction of the temple.

32 * That the ſaying of Jeſus might be fulfilled, which he ſpake, c ſignifying what death he ſhould die.

* Mat. 20. 19.

c For Chriſt had foretold that he ſhould be crucified

33 * Then Pilate entred into the judgment-hall again, and called Jeſus, and ſaid unto him, Art thou the king of the Jews?

* Mat. 27. 11.

34 Jeſus anſwered him, Sayeſt thou this thing of thy ſelf, or did others tell it thee of me?

35 Pilate anſwered, Am I a Jew? Thine own nation, and the chief prieſts have delivered thee unto me: What haſt thou done?

11 Chriſt avoucheth his ſpiritual kingdom, but rejecteth a worldly.

36 [11] Jeſus anſwered, My kingdom is not of this world: if my kingdom were of this world, then would my ſervants fight, that I ſhould not be delivered to the Jews: but now is my kingdom not from hence.

37 Pilate therefore ſaid unto him, Art thou a king then? Jeſus anſwered, Thou ſayeſt that I am a king. To this end was I born, and for this cauſe came I into the world, that I ſhould bear witneſs unto the truth. Every one that is of the truth, heareth my voice.

12 It was requiſite that Chriſt ſhould be pronounced innocent, but notwithſtanding (in that that he took upon him our perſon) was to be condemned as a moſt wicked man.

38 [12] Pilate ſaith unto him, [d] What is truth? And when he had ſaid this, he went out again unto the Jews, and ſaith unto them, I find in him no fault at all.

d He ſpeaketh this diſdainfully and ſcoffingly, and not by way of asking a queſtion.

39 * But ye have a cuſtom, that I ſhould releaſe unto you one at the paſs-over: will ye therefore that I releaſe unto you the king of the Jews?

* Mat. 27. 15.
* Act. 3. 14.

40 * Then [e] cried they all again, ſaying, Not this man, but Barabbas. Now Barabbas was a robber.

e Word for word, Made a great and ſoul voice.

Chap. XIX.

1 Chriſt is ſcourged, crowned with thorns, and beaten. 4 Pilate is deſirous to releaſe him, but being overcome with the outrage of the Jews, he delivered him to be crucified. 23 They caſt lots for his garments. 26 He commendeth his mother to John. 28 He dieth. 31 His ſide is pierced. 38 He is buried by Joſeph and Nicodemus.

* Mat. 27. 26.
1 The wiſdom of the fleſh chuſeth of two evils the leaſt, but God curſeth that ſame wiſdom.

THen * Pilate therefore took Jeſus, and [1] ſcourged him.

2 And the ſouldiers platted a crown of thorns, and put it on his head, and they put on him a purple robe,

3 And ſaid, Hail king of the Jews: and they ſmote him with their hands.

2 Chriſt is again quitted by that ſame mouth wherewith he is afterward condemned.

4 [2] Pilate therefore went forth again, & ſaith unto them, Behold, I bring him forth to you, that ye may know that I find no fault in him.

5 Then came Jeſus forth, wearing the crown of thorns, and the purple robe. And Pilate ſaith unto them, Behold the man.

6 When the chief prieſts therefore and officers ſaw him, they cried out, ſaying, [a] Crucify him, crucify him. Pilate ſaith unto them, Take ye him, and crucify him: for I find no fault in him.

a They will have him crucified whom by an old cuſtom of theirs they ſhould have ſtoned & hanged up as convict of blaſphemy: but they deſire to have him crucified after the manner of the Romans.

7 The Jews anſwered him, We have a law, and by our law he ought to die, becauſe he made himſelf the Son of God.

a Pilates conſcience fighteth for Chriſt, but ſtraightway it yeildeth: becauſe it is not upholden with the ſingular virtue of God.

8 ¶ [3] When Pilate therefore heard that ſaying, he was the more afraid;

9 And went again into the judgment-hall, and ſaith unto Jeſus, Whence art thou? but Jeſus gave him no anſwer.

10 Then ſaith Pilate unto him, Speakeſt thou not unto me? knoweſt thou not, that I have power to crucify thee, and have power to releaſe thee?

11 Jeſus anſwered, Thou couldeſt have no power at all againſt me, except it were given thee from above: therefore he that delivered me unto thee hath the greater ſin.

12 And from thenceforth Pilate ſought to releaſe him: but the Jews cried out, ſaying, if thou let this man go, thou art not Ceſars friend: whoſoever maketh himſelf a king, ſpeaketh againſt Ceſar.

4 Pilate condemneth himſelf firſt, with the ſame mouth, wherewith he afterward condemneth Chriſt.

13 ¶ [4] When Pilate therefore heard that ſaying, he brought Jeſus forth, and ſat down in the judgment-ſeat, in a place that is called the pavement, but in the Hebrew, [b] Gabbatha.

b Gabbatha ſignifieth an high place, as judgment-ſeats are.

14 And it was the preparation of the paſs-over, and about the ſixth hour: and he ſaith unto the Jews, Behold your king.

15 But they cried out, Away with him, away with him, crucify him. Pilate ſaith unto them, Shall I crucify your king? The chief prieſts anſwered, We have no king but Ceſar.

* Mat. 27. 31.
5 Chriſt faſtneth Satan, ſin and death to the croſs.

16 * [5] Then delivered he him therefore unto them to be crucified. And they took Jeſus and led him away.

17 And he bearing his croſs, went forth into a place called the place of a ſcull, which is called in the Hebrew, Golgotha.

18 Where they crucified him, and two other with him, on either ſide one, and Jeſus in the midſt.

6 Chriſt ſitting upon the throne of the croſs, is openly written everlaſting king of all people with his own hand, whoſe mouth condemned him for uſurping a kingdom.

19 ¶ [6] And Pilate wrote a title, and put it on the croſs. And the writing was, JESUS OF NAZARETH THE KING OF THE JEWS.

20 This title then read many of the Jews: for the place where Jeſus was crucified was nigh to the city: and it was written in Hebrew, and Greek, and Latine.

21 Then ſaid the chief prieſts of the Jews to Pilate, Write not, The king of the Jews; but that he ſaid, I am king of the Jews.

22 Pilate anſwered, what I have written, I have written.

* Mat. 27. 35.
7 Chriſt ſignifieth by the diviſion of his garments amongſt the bloudy butchers (his coat except, that had no ſeam) that it ſhall come to paſs, that he will ſhortly divide his benefits, and enrich his very enemies throughout the world: but ſo notwithſtanding that the treaſure of his church ſhall remain whole.
‡ Or, wrought.
* Pſal. 22. 18.

23 ¶ * [7] Then the ſouldiers, when they had crucified Jeſus, took his garments (and made four parts, to every ſouldier a part) and alſo his coat: now the coat was without ſeam, ‡ woven from the top throughout.

8 Chriſt is a perfect example of all righteouſneſs, not onely in the keeping of the firſt, but alſo of the ſecond table.
‡ Or, Clopas.

24 They ſaid therefore among themſelves, Let us not rent it, but caſt lots for it, whoſe it ſhall be: that the ſcripture might be fulfilled, which ſaith, * They parted my raiment among them, and for my veſture they did caſt lots. Theſe things therefore the ſouldiers did.

25 ¶ [8] Now there ſtood by the croſs of Jeſus, his mother, and his mothers ſiſter, Mary the wife of ‡ Cleophas, and Mary Magdalene.

26 When Jeſus therefore ſaw his mother, and the diſciple ſtanding by, whom he loved, he ſaith unto his mother, Woman, behold thy ſon.

27 Then ſaith he to the diſciple, Behold thy mother. And from that hour that diſciple took her unto his own home.

9 Chriſt, when he hath taken the vineger, yeildeth up the ghoſt, drinking up indeed that moſt bitter and ſharp cup of his Fathers wrath in our name.
* Pſal. 69. 21.
c Galatinus writeth out of the book called Sanhedrin, That the Jews were wont to give them that were executed, vineger mixed with frankincenſe to drink, to make their brains ſomewhat troubled: ſo charitably the Jews provided for the poor mens conſcience, which were executed.

28 ¶ [9] After this, Jeſus knowing that all things were now accompliſhed, * that the ſcripture might be fulfilled, ſaith, I thirſt.

29 Now there was ſet a [c] veſſel full of vine-ger:

ger: and they filled a ſpunge with vineger, and put it upon hyſſop, and put it to his mouth.

30 When Jeſus therefore had received the vineger, he ſaid, It is finiſhed: and he bowed his head, and gave up the ghoſt.

31 [10] The Jews therefore becauſe it was the preparation, that the bodies ſhould not remain upon the croſs on the ſabbath-day (for that ſabbath-day was an high day) beſought Pilate that their legs might be broken, and that they might be taken away.

10 The body of Chriſt which was dead for a ſeaſon, (becauſe it ſo pleaſed him) is wounded, but the leaſt bone of it is not broken: and ſuch is the ſtate of his myſtical body.

32 Then came the ſouldiers, and brake the legs of the firſt, and of the other which was crucified with him.

33 But when they came to Jeſus, and ſaw that he was dead already, they brake not his legs.

34 [11] But one of the ſouldiers with a ſpear [d] pierced his ſide, and forthwith came there out, bloud and water.

11 Chriſt being dead upon the croſs witneſſeth by a double ſign, that he only is the true ſatisfaction, and the true waſhing for the believers.
d This wound was a moſt manifeſt witneſs of the death of Chriſt: for the water that iſſued out of this wound gave us plainly to underſtand, that the weapon pierced the very ſkin that compaſſeth the heart, which is the veſſel that containeth that water, and that being once wounded, that creature which is ſo pierced, and ſtricken, cannot chuſe but die.

35 And he that ſaw it, bare record, and his record is true: and he knoweth that he ſaith true, that ye might believe.

36 For theſe things were done, * that the ſcripture ſhould be fulfilled, A bone of him ſhall not be broken.

37 And again another ſcripture ſaith, * They ſhall look on him whom they pierced.

38 ¶ *[12] And after this, Joſeph of Arimathea (being a diſciple of Jeſus, but ſecretly for fear of the Jews) beſought Pilate that he might take away the body of Jeſus: and Pilate gave him leave: He came therefore and took the body of Jeſus.

39 And there came alſo Nicodemus (which at the firſt came to Jeſus by night) and brought a mixture of myrrh and aloes, about an hundred pound weight.

40 Then took they the body of Jeſus, and wound it in linen clothes, with the ſpices, as the manner of the Jews is to bury.

41 Now in the place where he was crucified, there was a garden; and in the garden a new ſepulchre, wherein was [e] never man yet laid.

42 There laid they Jeſus therefore, becauſe of the Jews preparation-day, for the ſepulchre was nigh at hand.

* Exod. 12. 46. Num. 9. 12. Pſal. 34. 20.
* Zech. 12. 10.
* Mat. 27. 57.
12 Chriſt is openly buried, and in a famous place, Pilate writing and ſuffering it, and that by men which did favour Chriſt, in ſuch wiſe, that yet before that day they never openly followed him: ſo that by his burial, no man can juſtly doubt either of his death, or reſurrection.
e That no man might cavill at his reſurrection, as though ſome other that had been buried there, had riſen, Theophil.

Chap. XX.

1 Mary cometh to the ſepulchre: 3 ſo do Peter and John, ignorant of the reſurrection: 11 Jeſus appeareth to Mary Magdalene, 19 and to his diſciples. 24 The incredulity and confeſſion of Thomas. 30 The ſcripture is ſufficient to ſalvation.

THE * [1] firſt day of the week cometh Mary Magdalene early when it was yet dark, unto the ſepulchre, and ſeeth the ſtone taken away from the ſepulchre.

2 Then ſhe runneth, and cometh to Simon Peter, and to the * other diſciple whom Jeſus loved, and ſaith unto them, They have taken away the Lord out of the ſepulchre, and we know not where they have laid him.

3 Peter therefore went forth, and that other diſciple, and came to the ſepulchre.

* Mat. 28. 1. Mark 16. 1.
1 Mary Magdalene, Peter and John, are the firſt witneſſes of the reſurrection: and ſuch as cannot juſtly be ſuſpected, for that they themſelves could ſcarcely be perſwaded of it, ſo far it is off, that they ſhould invent it of ſet purpoſe.
* Chap. 13. 23. & 21. 20.

4 So they ran both together: and the other diſciple did outrun Peter, and came firſt to the ſepulchre. 101

5 And he ſtouping down, and looking in, ſaw the linen clothes lying; yet went he not in.

6 Then cometh Simon Peter following him, and went into the ſepulchre, and ſeeth the linen clothes lie;

7 And the napkin that was about his head, not lying with the linen clothes, but wrapped together in a place by it ſelf.

8 Then went in alſo that other diſciple which came firſt to the ſepulchre, and he ſaw, and believed.

9 For as yet they knew not the ſcripture, that he muſt riſe again from the dead.

10 Then the diſciples went away again unto their own home.

11 ¶ But Mary ſtood [a] without at the ſepulchre, weeping: and as ſhe wept, ſhe ſtouped down, and looked into the ſepulchre, a That is, without the cave, which the ſepulchre was cut out of.

12 [2] And ſeeth two angels [b] in white, ſitting, the one at the head, and the other at the feet, where the body of Jeſus had layn:

2 Two angels are made witneſſes of the Lords reſurrection.
b In white clothing.

13 And they ſay unto her, Woman, why weepeſt thou? She ſaith unto them, Becauſe they have taken away [c] my Lord, and I know not where they have laid him.

c Mary ſpake as the common people uſe to ſpeak: for they ſpeak of a dead carkaſs as they do of a whole man.

14 [3] And when ſhe had thus ſaid, ſhe turned her ſelf back, and ſaw Jeſus ſtanding, and knew not that it was Jeſus.

3 Jeſus witneſſeth by his preſence, that he is truely riſen.

15 Jeſus ſaith unto her, Woman, why weepeſt thou? whom ſeekeſt thou? ſhe ſuppoſing him to be the gardener, ſaith unto him, Sir, if thou haſt born him hence, tell me where thou haſt laid him, and I will take him away.

16 Jeſus ſaith unto her, Mary. She turned her ſelf and ſaith unto him, Rabboni, which is to ſay, Maſter.

17 [4] Jeſus ſaid unto her, Touch me not: for I am not yet aſcended to my Father: but go to my [d] brethren, and ſay unto them, I aſcend unto [e] my Father and your Father, and to my God and your God.

4 Chriſt which is riſen is not to be ſought in this world, according to the fleſh, but in heaven by faith, whither he is gone before us.
d By his brethren, he meaneth his diſciples: for in the next verſe following, it is ſaid, that Mary told his diſciples.
e He calleth God his Father, becauſe he is his Father naturally in the God-head, and he ſaith, Your Father, becauſe he is our Father by grace, through the adoption of the Sons of God: that is, By taking us of his grace to be his ſons, Epiphanius.

18 Mary Magdalene came and told the diſciples, that ſhe had ſeen the Lord, and that he had ſpoken theſe things unto her.

19 ¶ *[5] Then the ſame day at evening, being the firſt day of the week, when the [f] doors were ſhut, where the diſciples were aſſembled for fear of the Jews, came Jeſus and ſtood in the midſt, and ſaith unto them, Peace be unto you.

* Mark 16. 14.
5 Chriſt in that that he preſented himſelf before his diſciples ſuddenly; through his divine power, when the gates were ſhut, doth fully aſſure them both of his reſurrection, and alſo of their apoſtleſhip, inſpiring them with the holy Ghoſt who is the miniſtry of the goſpel.
f Either the doors opened to him of their own accord, or the very wals themſelves were a paſſage to him.

20 And when he had ſo ſaid, he ſhewed unto them his hands and his ſide. Then were the diſciples glad when they ſaw the Lord.

21 Then ſaid Jeſus to them again, Peace be unto you: as my Father hath ſent me, even ſo ſend I you.

22 And when he had ſaid this, he breathed on them, and ſaith unto them, Receive ye the holy Ghoſt.

remitted unto them; and whose soever sins ye retain, they are retained.

7 Christ draweth out of the unbelief of Thomas a certain and sure testimony of his resurrection.

24 ¶ [7] But Thomas, one of the twelve, called Didymus, was not with them when Jesus came.

25 The other disciples therefore said unto him, We have seen the Lord. But he said unto them, Except I shall see in his hands the print of the nails, and put my finger into the print of the nails, and thrust my hand into his side, I will not believe.

26 ¶ And after eight days, again his disciples were within, and Thomas with them: then came Jesus, the doors being shut, and stood in the midst, and said, Peace be unto you.

27 Then saith he to Thomas, Reach hither thy finger, and behold my hands; and reach hither thy hand, and thrust it into my side: and be not faithless, but believing.

28 And Thomas answered and said unto him, My Lord and my God.

8 True faith dependeth upon the mouth of God, and not upon fleshly eyes.

29 [8] Jesus saith unto him, Thomas, because thou hast seen me, thou hast believed: blessed are they that have not seen, and yet have believed.

* Chap. 21. 25.

9 To believe in Christ the Son of God, and our onely Saviour, is the end of the doctrine of the gospel, and especially of the history of the resurrection.

30 ¶ * [9] And many other signs truly did Jesus in the presence of his disciples, which are not written in this book.

31 But these are written, that ye might believe that Jesus is the Christ the Son of God, and that believing ye might have life through his name.

Chap. XXI.

1 Christ appearing again to his disciples, was known of them by the great draught of fishes: 12 He dineth with them; 15 earnestly commandeth Peter to feed his lambs and sheep; 18 foretelleth him of his death; 22 rebuketh his curiosity touching John. 25 The conclusion.

1 In that, that Christ here is not only present but also eateth with his disciples, he giveth a most full assurance of his resurrection.

AFter [1] these things Jesus shewed himself again to the disciples at the sea of Tiberias; and on this wise shewed he himself:

2 There were together Simon Peter, and Thomas called Didymus, and Nathanael of Cana in Galilee, and the sons of Zebedee, and two other of his disciples.

3 Simon Peter saith unto them, I go a fishing. They say unto him, We also go with thee. They went forth, and entred into a ship immediately; and that night they caught nothing.

4 But when the morning was now come, Jesus stood on the shore: but the disciples knew not that it was Jesus.

‡ Or, Sirs.

5 Then Jesus saith unto them, ‡ Children, have ye any meat? They answered him, No.

6 And he said unto them, Cast the net on the right side of the ship, and ye shall find. They cast therefore, and now they were not able to draw it for the multitude of fishes.

7 Therefore that disciple whom Jesus loved, saith unto Peter, It is the Lord. Now when Simon Peter heard that it was the Lord, he girt his fishers [a] coat unto him, (for he was naked) and did cast himself into the sea.

a It was a linen garment, which could not let his swimming.

8 And the other disciples came in a little ship (for they were not far from land, but as it were two hundred cubits) dragging the net with fishes.

9 Assoon then as they were come to land, they saw a fire of coals there, and fish laid thereon, and bread.

10 Jesus saith unto them, Bring of the fish, which ye have now caught.

11 Simon Peter went up, and drew the net to land full of great fishes, an hundred and fifty and three: and for all there were so many, yet was not the net broken.

12 Jesus saith unto them, Come and dine. And none of the disciples durst ask him, Who art thou? knowing that it was the Lord.

13 Jesus then cometh and taketh bread, and giveth them, and fish likewise.

14 This is now the third time that Jesus shewed himself to his disciples, after that he was risen from the dead.

2 Peter by this triple confession is restored into his former degree from whence he fell by his triple denial: and therewithall is advertised, that he is indeed a pastour, which sheweth his love to Christ, in feeding his sheep.

15 ¶ [2] So when they had dined, Jesus saith to Simon Peter, Simon son of Jonas, lovest thou me more then these? He saith unto him, Yea, Lord; thou knowest that I love thee. He saith unto him, Feed my lambs.

16 He saith to him again the second time, Simon son of Jonas, lovest thou me? He saith unto him, Yea, Lord; thou knowest that I love thee. He saith unto him, Feed my sheep.

b It was meet that he that had denied him thrice should confess him thrice, that Peter might neither doubt of the forgiveness of his so grievous a sin, nor of his restoring to the office of the apostleship.

17 He saith unto him the [b] third time, Simon son of Jonas, lovest thou me? Peter was grieved, because he said unto him the third time, Lovest thou me? And he said unto him, Lord, thou knowest all things; thou knowest that I love thee. Jesus saith unto him, Feed my sheep.

3 The violent death of Peter is foretold.

18 [3] Verily verily I say unto thee, When thou wast young, thou [c] girdedst thy self, and walkedst whither thou wouldest: but when thou shalt be old, thou shalt stretch forth thy hands, and another [d] shall gird thee, and carry thee whither thou wouldest [e] not.

c They that took far journys, especially in the east country, and in those places where the people used long garments, had need to be girded and trussed up.

19 This spake he, signifying by [f] what death he should glorify God. And when he had spoken this, he saith unto him, Follow me.

d He meant that kind of girding which is used toward captives, when they are bound fast with cords and chains, as if he would say, Now thou girdest thy self as thou thinkest best, to go whither thou likest, but the time will be when thou shalt not gird thee with a girdle, but another shall bind thee with chains, and carry thee whither thou wouldest not.

20 [4] Then Peter turning about, seeth the disciple * whom Jesus loved, following; which also leaned on his breast at supper, and said, Lord, which is he that betrayeth thee?

21 Peter seeing him, saith to Jesus, Lord, and what shall this man do?

22 Jesus saith unto him, If I will that he tarry till I come, what is that to thee? Follow thou me.

e Not that Peter suffered ought for the truth of God against his will, for we read that he came with joy and gladness, when he returned from the counsel, where he was whipped, but because this will cometh not from the flesh but from that gift of the spirit which is given us from above, therefore he shewed, there should be a certain striving and conflict or repugnance, which is in us, in all our sufferances as touching the flesh. f That is: That Peter should die by a violent death. 4 we must take heed, that whiles we cast our eyes upon other, we neglect not that which is injoyned us. * Chap. 13. 23. & 20. 2.

23 Then went this saying abroad among the brethren, that that disciple should not die: yet Jesus said not unto him, He shall not die: but, If I will that he tarry till I come, what is that to thee?

24 [5] This is the disciple which testifieth of these things, and wrote these things: and we know that his testimony is true.

5 The history of Christ is true and wholly written: not for curiosity of men, but for the salvation of the godly. * Chap. 20. 30.

25 * And there are also many other things which Jesus did, the which if they should be written every one, I suppose that even the world it self could not contain the books that should be written. Amen.

¶ THE ACTS. OF THE APOSTLES.

CHAP. I.

Christ preparing his apostles to the beholding of his ascension, gathered them together into the mount Olivet, commandeth them to expect in Jerusalem the sending down of the Holy Ghost, promiseth after few days to send it: by virtue whereof they shoud be witnesses unto him, even to the utmost parts of the earth. 9 After his ascension they are warned by two angels to depart, and to set their minds upon his second coming. 12 They accordingly return, and giving themselves to prayer, choose Matthias apostle in the place of Judas.

THE [1] former treatise have I made, O Theophilus, of all that Jesus began both to [a] do and teach,

2 Until the day in which he was taken up, after that he through the holy Ghost had given commandments unto the apostles whom he had chosen.

3 [2] To whom also he shewed himself alive after his passion, by many [b] infallible proofs, being seen of them fourty days, and speaking of the things pertaining to the kingdom of God:

4 And ‡ [c] being assembled together with them, commanded them that they should not depart from Jerusalem, but wait for the promise of the Father, * which, saith he, ye have heard of me.

5 * For John truly baptized with water; but ye shall be baptized [d] with the holy Ghost, not many days hence.

6 [3] When they therefore were come together, they asked of him, saying, Lord, wilt thou at this time [e] restore again the kingdom to Israel?

7 And he said unto them, It is not for you to know the times or the [f] seasons, which the Father hath put in his own power.

8 * But ye shall receive ‡ power after that the holy Ghost is come upon you: and ye shall be witnesses unto me, both in Jerusalem, and in all Judea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth.

9 * [4] And when he had spoken these things, while they beheld, he was taken up, and a cloud received him out of their sight.

10 And while they looked stedfastly toward heaven, as he went up, behold, two men stood by them in white apparel;

11 Which also said, Ye men of Galilee, why stand ye gazing up into heaven? this same Jesus which is taken up [g] from you into heaven, shall so come, in like manner as ye have seen him go into heaven.

12 Then returned they unto Jerusalem, from the mount called Olivet, which is from Jerusalem a [h] sabbath-days journy.

13 [5] And when they were [i] come in, they went up into an upper room, where abode both Peter, and James, and John, and Andrew, Philip, and Thomas, Bartholomew, and Matthew, James the son of Alpheus, and Simon Zelotes, & Judas the brother of James.

14 These [k] all continued with [l] one accord in [m] prayer and supplication, with the [n] women, and Mary the mother of Jesus, and [o] with his brethren.

15 ¶ [6] And in those days Peter stood up in the midst of the disciples, and said, (the number of the [p] names together were about an hundred and twenty)

16 [7] Men and brethren, This scripture must needs have been fulfilled, * which the holy Ghost by the mouth of David spake before concerning Judas, which was guide to them that took Jesus.

17 For he was numbred with us, and had obtained part of this ministry.

18 * Now this man [q] purchased a field with the reward of iniquity; and [r] falling headlong, he burst asunder in the midst, and all his bowels gushed out.

19 And it was known unto all the dwellers at Jerusalem; insomuch as that field is called in their proper tongue, Aceldama, that is to say, The field of bloud.

20 For it is written in the book of psalms, * Let his habitation be desolate, and let no man dwell therein: [r] And, * his ‡ bishoprick let another take.

21 [s] Wherefore of these men which have companied with us, all the time that the Lord Jesus [t] went in and out among us,

22 Beginning from the baptism of John, unto that same day that he was taken up [u] from us, must one be ordained to be a witness with us of his resurrection.

23 [9] And they [x] appointed two, Joseph called Barsabas, who was surnamed Justus, & Matthias.

24 And they prayed, and said, Thou Lord,

1 A passing over from the history of the gospel, that is, From the history of the sayings and doings of Christ, unto the acts of the apostles.

2 The acts of Jesus are the miracles and doings which shewed his Godhead and his most perfect holiness & examples of his doctrine.

3 Christ did not straightways ascend into heaven after his resurrection, because he would throughly prove his resurrection, and with his presence confirm his Apostles in the doctrine, which they had heard.

4 He calleth those infallible tokens, which are otherwise termed necessary: now in that, that Christ spake, and walked, and ate, and was felt of many, these are sure signs and tokens that he truely rose again.

c They were dispersed here and there, but he gathereth them together that they might altogether be witnesses of his resurrection.

* Luk. 24. 49.

* Mat. 3. 11.

d Either of the Father, or of me: so that either the Father or Christ, is set here against John, as the holy Ghost is against the water, as things answerable the one to the other.

‡ we must fight before we triumph: and we ought not curiously to search after those things, which God hath not reveiled.

e To the old and ancient state.

f That is, The fit occasions that serve to doing of matters wich the Lord hath appointed to bring things to pass in. * Chap. 2. 1. ‡ Or, the power of the holy Ghost coming upon you. * Luke 24. 51. 4 After that Christ had promised the full virtue of the holy Ghost, wherewith he would govern his church, although he should be absent in body, he took up his body from us into the heavenly tabernacles, there to continue until the latter day of judgment, as the angels witness. g That is, Out of your sight.

h About two mile.

5 Ecclesiastical assemblies to hear the word, and to make common prayer, were first instituted & kept in private houses by the apostles.

i They went into the house, which the church had chosen at that time to be a receit for the whole assembly.

k The Greek word signifieth, an invincible constancy, & steadiness.

l It is to good purpose, that this concord is mentioned: for those prayers are most acceptable to God, which are made with agreeing minds and wils.

m The disciples prayed for the sending of the holy Ghost, and also to be delivered from present dangers, wherewith they were beset.

n For it was behoveable, to have the wives confirmed, who were afterward to be partakers of the dangers with their husbands.

o With his kinsfolks.

6 Peter is made the mouth and interpreter of the whole company of the apostles, either by secret revelation of the holy Ghost, or by expres judgment of the congregation.

p Because men are commonly called and enrolled by their names.

7 Peter preventeth the offence that might be taken of the falling away of Judas the betrayer, shewing, That all things which came unto him, where foretold by God.

* Psal. 41. 9.

* Mat. 27. 7.

q Luke considered not Judas his purpose, but that that followed of it, & so we use to say, that a man hath procured himself harm, not that his will and purpose was so, but in respect of that which followed. r The Greek word signifieth thus much, That Judas fell down flat and was rent in sunder in the mids, with a marvellous huge noise. * Psal. 69. 25. * Psal 109. 8. ‡ His office and ministry: David wrote these words against Doeg the kings herdsman: And these words, Shepherd, Sheep, and Flock, are put over to the church office and ministry, so that the church and the office thereof are called by these names. ‡ Or, office, or, charge. s The apostles deliberate upon nothing but first consult, and take advisement by Gods word: and again they do nothing that concerneth and is behoveable for the whole body of the congregation, without making the congregation privy unto it. t which kind of speech betokeneth as much in the Hebrew tongue, as the exercising of a publique and painful office, when they speak of such as are in any publique office. Deut. 31. 2. 1 Chron. 27. 1. u From our company. 9 The apostles must be chosen immediately frrom God: and therefore after prayer, Matthias is chosen by lot, which is as it were, Gods own voice. x Openly, and by the voices of all the whole company.

which knoweſt the hearts of all men, ſhew whether of theſe two thou haſt choſen.

25 That he may take part of this [y] miniſtry & apoſtleſhip, from which Judas by tranſgreſſion [z] fell, that he might go to his own place.

26 And they gave forth their lots; and the lot fell upon Matthias, and he was numbred with the eleven apoſtles.

CHAP. II.

1 The apoſtles filled with the holy Ghoſt, and ſpeaking diverſe languages, are admired by ſome, and derided by others. 14 Whom Peter diſproving, & ſhewing that the apoſtles ſpake by the power of the holy Ghoſt, that Jeſus was riſen from the dead, aſcended into heaven, had poured down the ſame holy Ghoſt, and was the Meſſias, a man known to them to be approved of God by his miracles, wonders and ſigns, and not crucified without his determinate counſel, and foreknowledge: 37 he baptizeth a great number that were converted, 41 who afterwards devoutly and charitably converſe together: the apoſtles working many miracles, and God daily increaſing his church.

AND [1] when the day of Pentecoſt was [a] fully come, they were [b] all with one accord in one place.

2 And ſuddenly there came a ſound from heaven, as of a ruſhing mighty wind, and it filled all the houſe where they where ſitting.

3 And there appeared unto them cloven tongues, like as of fire, & it ſat upon each of them:

4 And they were all filled with the holy Ghoſt, and began to ſpeak with [c] other tongues, as the [d] Spirit gave them utterance.

5 And there were dwelling at Jeruſalem, Jews, devout men, out of every nation under heaven.

6 Now † when this was noiſed abroad, the multitude came together, and were ‡ confounded, becauſe that every man heard them ſpeak in his own language.

7 And they were all amazed and marvelled, ſaying one to another, behold, are not all theſe which ſpeak, Galileans?

8 [e] And how hear we every man in our own tongue, wherein we were born?

9 Parthians, and Medes, and Elamites, and the dwellers in Meſopotamia, and in Judea, and Cappadocia, in Pontus, and Aſia,

10 Phrygia, and Pamphylia, in Egypt, and in the parts of Libya about Cyrene, and ſtrangers of Rome, [f] Jews and Proſelytes, 11 Cretes and Arabians, we do hear them ſpeak in our tongues the wonderful works of God.

12 [2] And they were all amazed, and were in doubt, ſaying one to another, What meaneth this?

13 Others [g] mocking ſaid, Theſe men are full of new wine.

14 ¶ But Peter ſtanding up with the eleven, [h] lift up his voice, and ſaid unto them, Ye men of Judea, and all ye that dwell at Jeruſalem, be this known unto you, and hearken to my words:

15 For theſe are not drunken, as ye ſuppoſe, ſeeing it is but the third [i] hour of the day.

16 But this is that which was ſpoken by the [k] prophet Joel,

17 [3] *And it ſhall come to paſs in the laſt days, (ſaith God) I will pour out of my ſpirit upon [l] all [m] fleſh: and your ſons and your daughters ſhall propheſy, and your young men ſhall ſee viſions, and your old men ſhall dream dreams:

18 And on my ſervants, and on my handmaidens I will pour out in thoſe days of my ſpirit, and they ſhall propheſy:

19 And I will ſhew wonders in heaven above, and ſigns in the earth beneath; bloud, and fire, and vapour of ſmoke.

20 *The ſun ſhall be turned into darkneſs, and the moon into bloud, before that great and notable day of the Lord come.

21 [4] And it ſhall come to paſs, that *whoſoever ſhall [n] call on the name of the Lord, ſhall be ſaved.

22 [5] Ye men of Iſrael, hear theſe words; Jeſus of Nazareth a man [o] approved of God, among you, by miracles, and wonders and ſigns, which God did by him in the midſt of you, as ye your ſelves alſo know:

23 Him, being delivered by the determinate counſel and [p] foreknowledge of God, ye have taken, and by wicked [q] hands have crucified and [r] ſlain:

24 [6] Whom God hath raiſed up, having looſed the [r] pains of death: becauſe it was not poſſible that he ſhould be holden of it.

25 For David ſpeaketh concerning him, *I foreſaw the Lord always before my face, for he is on my right hand, that I ſhould not be moved.

26 Therefore did my heart rejoyce, and my tongue was glad: moreover alſo, my fleſh ſhall reſt in hope.

27 Becauſe thou wilt not [t] leave my ſoul in hell, neither wilt thou ſuffer thine holy one to ſee corruption.

28 Thou haſt [u] made known to me the ways of life; thou ſhalt make me full of joy with thy countenance.

29 Men and brethren, ‡ let me freely ſpeak unto you * of the patriarch David, that he is both dead and buried, and his ſepulchre is with us unto this day:

30 Therefore being a prophet, * and knowing that God had [x] ſworn with an oath to him, that of the fruit of his loyns, according to the fleſh, he would raiſe up Chriſt, to ſit on his throne:

31 He ſeeing this before, ſpake of the reſurrection of Chriſt, * that his ſoul was not left in hell, neither his fleſh did ſee corruption.

z Departed from, or fallen from: and it is a metaphor taken from the way: for callings are ſignified by the name of ways, with the Hebrews.

1 The apoſtles being gathered together on a moſt ſolemn feaſt-day in one place, that it might evidently appear to all the world, that they had all one office, one ſpirit, one faith, are by a double ſign from heaven authorized, and anointed with all the moſt excellent gifts of the holy Ghoſt, and eſpecially with an extraordinary, and neceſſary gift of tongues.

a Word for word, was fulfilled: that is, was begun, as Luk. 2. 21. For the Hebrews ſay, That a day, or a year is fulfilled or ended, when the former days or years are ended, and the other begun, Jer. 25. 12. And it ſhall come to paſs, that when ſeventy years are fulfilled, I will viſite, &c. For the Lord did not bring home his people, after the ſeventieth year was ended, but in the ſeventieth year: Now the day of Pentecoſt was the fiftieth day after the feaſt of the paſs-over.

b The twelve apoſtles, which were to be the patriarchs as it were of the church.

32 [7] This Jesus hath God raised up, whereof we all are witnesses.

33 Therefore being by the [y] right hand of God exalted, and having received of the Father the promise of the holy Ghost, he hath shed forth this, which ye now see and hear.

34 For David is not ascended into the heavens: but he saith himself, * The LORD said unto my Lord, Sit thou on my right hand, 35 Until I make thy foes thy footstool.

36 Therefore let all the house of Israel know assuredly, that God hath [z] made that same Jesus whom ye have crucified, both Lord and Christ.

37 ¶ Now when they heard this, they were pricked in their heart, and said unto Peter, and to the rest of the apostles, Men and brethren, what shall we do?

38 [8] Then Peter said unto them, Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ, for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the holy Ghost.

39 For the [a] promise is unto you, and to your children, and to all that are afar off, even as many as the Lord our God shall call.

40 [9] And with many other words did he testify and exhort, saying, Save your selves from this untoward generation.

41 ¶ [10] Then they that gladly received his word, were baptized: & the same day there were added unto them about three thousand souls.

42 [11] And they continued stedfastly in the apostles doctrine and [b] fellowship, and in [c] breaking of bread, and in prayers.

43 [12] And fear came upon every soul: and many wonders and signs were done by the apostles.

44 [13] And all that believed were together, and had all things common,

45 And sold their possessions and goods, and parted them to all men, as every man had need.

46 [14] And they continuing daily with one accord in the temple, and breaking bread ‡ from house to house, did eat their meat with gladness and singleness of heart, 47 Praising God, and having favour with all the people. And the Lord added to the church daily such as should be saved.

CHAP. III.

1 Peter preaching to the people that came to see a lame man restored to his feet, 12 professeth the cure not to have been wrought by his or Johns own power, or holiness, but by God and his Son Jesus, and through faith in his name: 13 withall reprehending them for crucifying Jesus, 17 which because they did it through ignorance, and that thereby were fulfilled Gods determinate counsel, and the scriptures, 19 he exhorteth them by repentance and faith to seek remission of their sins, and salvation in the same Jesus.

NOw [1] Peter and John went up together into the temple, at the hour of prayer, being the ninth hour.

2 And a certain man lame from his mothers womb was carried, whom they laid daily at the gate of the temple which is called Beautiful, to ask alms of them that entred into the temple.

3 Who seeing Peter and John about to go into the temple, asked an alms.

4 And Peter fastning his eyes upon him, with John, said, Look on us.

5 And he [a] gave heed unto them, expecting to receive something of them.

6 Then Peter said, Silver and gold have I none; but such as I have give I thee: In the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, rise up and walk.

7 And he took him by the right hand, and lift him up; and immediately his feet and ancle-bones received strength.

8 And he leaping up, stood, and walked, and entred with them into the temple, walking, and leaping, and praising God.

9 And all the people saw him walking and praising God.

10 And they knew that it was he which sat for alms at the Beautiful gate of the temple: and they were filled with wonder and amazement at that which had happened unto him.

11 And as the lame man which was healed, [b] held Peter and John, all the people ran together unto them in the porch that is called Solomons, greatly wondring.

12 ¶ [2] And when Peter saw it, he answered unto the people, Ye men of Israel, why marvel ye at this? or why look ye so earnestly on us, as though by our own power or holiness we had made this man to walk?

13 The God of Abraham, and of Isaac, and of Jacob, the God of our fathers hath glorified his son Jesus; whom ye delivered up, and denied him in the presence of Pilate, when he was determined to let him go.

14 * But ye denied the holy one, and the just, and desired a murderer to be granted unto you,

15 And killed the ‡ Prince of [c] life, whom God hath raised from the dead; whereof we are witnesses.

16 And his name through faith in his name hath made this man strong, whom ye see and know: yea, the [d] faith which is by him, hath given him this perfect soundness in the presence of you all.

17 [3] And now brethren, I wot that through ignorance ye did it, as did also your rulers.

18 But those things which God before had shewed by the [e] mouth of all his prophets, that Christ should suffer, he hath so fulfilled.

19 ¶ Repent ye therefore and be converted, that your sins may be blotted out, when the times of refreshing shall come from the presence of the Lord,

20 And he shall send Jesus Christ, which before was preached unto you:

21 [f] Whom

---

* Peter witnesseth that Jesus Christ is the appointed everlasting King, which he proveth manifestly by the gifts of the holy Ghost and the testimony of David.
y Might and power of God.
* Psal. 110. 1.

z Christ is said to be made, because he was advanced to that dignity, and therefore it is not spoken of his nature, but of his estate and high dignity.
8 Repentance and remission of sins in Christ, are two principles of the gospel, and therefore of our salvation: and they are obtained by the promises apprehended by faith, and are ratified in us by baptism, wherewith is joyned the virtue of the holy Ghost.
a The word that is used here, giveth us to understand that it was a free gift.
9 He is truely joyned to the church, which separateth himself from the wicked.
10 A notable example of the virtue of the holy Ghost: but such as are of age, are not baptized, before they make confession of their faith.
11 The marks of the true church are the doctrine of the apostles, the duties of charity, the pure and simple administration of the sacraments, and true invocations used of all the faithful.
b Communicating of goods, and of all other duties of charity, as is shewed afterward.
c The Jews used thin loavs, and therefore they did rather break them then cut them: so by breaking of bread, they understood that living together, and the banquets which they used to keep: and when they kept their love feasts, they used to celebrate the Lords supper, which even in these days began to be corrupted, and Paul amendeth it, 1 Cor 11. 12. 12. So oft as the Lord thinketh it expedient, he bridleth the rage of strangers, that the church may be planted, and have some refreshing.
13 Charity maketh all things common concerning the use, according as necessity requireth.
14 The faithful come together at the beginning with great fruit, not onely to the hearing of the word, but also to meat. ‡ Or, at home.

1 Christ in healing a man that was born lame, and well known to all men, both in place and time very famous, by the hands of his apostles, doth partly confirm them which believed, and partly also calleth others to believe.

a Both with heart and eyes.

b Either because he loved them, who had healed him: or because he feared that if he once let them go out of his sight, he should be lame again.
2 Miracles are appointed to convince the unbelievers, and therefore they do wickedly abuse them, who standing amazed, either at the miracles themselves, or at the instruments and means which it pleaseth God to use, take an occasion to establish idolatry and superstition, by that which God hath provided for the knowledge of his true worship: that is, Christianity.
* Mat. 27. 20.
‡ Or, Author.
c who hath life in himself, and giveth life to other.
d Because he believed on him being raised from the dead, whose name he heard off by us.
3 It is best of all to receive Christ so soon as he is offered unto us; but such as have neglected so great a benefit, through mans weakness, have yet repentance for a means: As for the ignominy of the cross, we have to set against that, the decree and purpose of God foretold by the prophets, of Christ, how that first of all he should be crucified here upon earth, and then he should appear from heaven the judge and restorer of all things, that all believers might be saved, and all unbelievers utterly perish. e Though there were many prophets, yet he speaketh but of one mouth, to shew to us the consent and agreement of the prophets f Or, be taken up into heaven.

21 f Whom the heaven must receive, until the times of restitution of all things, which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets, since the world began.

4 The Jews that believe are the first begotten in the kingdom of God.

Chap. IV.

1 The rulers of the Jews offended with Peters sermon, 4 (though thousands of the people were converted that heard the word) imprison him and John. 5 After, upon examination, Peter boldly avouching the lame man to be healed by the name of Jesus, and that by the same Jesus onely we must be eternally saved, 13 they command him and John to preach no more in that name, adding also threatning. 23 Whereupon the church fleeth to prayer: 31 and God by moving the place where they were assembled, testified that he heard their prayer, confirming the church with the gift of the holy Ghost, and with mutual love and charity.

1 None are commonly more diligent or bolder enemies of the church, then such as profess themselves to be head builders: but the more they rage, the more constantly the faithful servants of God do continue.
a The Jews had certain garisons for the guard and safety of the temple & holy things, Mat. 26. 65. These garisons had a captain, such as Eleazarus Ananias the high priests son was, in the time of the war that was in Judea, being a very impudent and proud young man, Joseph. lib. 2. of the taking of Judea.

AND 1 as they spake unto the people, the priests and the ‡ a captain of the temple, and the Sadducees came upon them,

2 Being grieved that they taught the people, and preached through Jesus the resurrection from the dead.

3 And they laid hands on them, and put them in hold unto the next day: for it was now even-tide.

4 Howbeit, many of the m which heard the word, believed; and the b number of the men was about five thousand.

b while they thought to diminish the number, they increased them.

5 ¶ And it came to pass on the morrow, that their c rulers, and elders, and scribes, c These were they that made the Sanhedrin, which were all of the tribe of Judah, until Herod used that cruelty against Davids stock.

6 And Annas the high priest, and Caiaphas, and John, and Alexander, and as many as were of the d kindred of the high priest, were gathered together at Jerusalem.

d Of whom the high priests were wont to be chosen and made, the execution of the yearly office being now changed.

7 2 And when they had set them in the midst, they asked, By what power, or by what e name have ye done this?

e By what authority.

8 Then Peter filled with the holy Ghost, said unto them, Ye rulers of the people, and elders of Israel,

9 3 If we this day be examined of the good deed done to the impotent man, by what means he is made whole;

10 4 Be it known unto you all, and to all the people of Israel, that by the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, whom ye crucified, whom God raised from the dead, even by him doth this man stand here before you whole.

2 Against such as brag of a succession of persons, without a succession of doctrine, and by that means beat down the true ministers of the word, so far forth as they are able.
3. The wolves which succeed true pastours, plead their own cause and not Gods, neither the churches.
4 He is indeed a true shepherd, that teacheth his sheep to hang upon Christ onely, as upon one that is not dead, but hath conquered death, and hath all rule in his own hands.

11 * This is the stone which was set at nought of you builders, which is become the head of the corner.

* Psal. 118. 22. Mat. 21. 42.
f There is no other man, or no other power and authority whatsoever: which kind of speech being usual among the Jews, rose upon this, that when we are in dangers, we call upon them at whose hands we look for help.

12 Neither is there salvation in any other: for there is none other f name g under heaven h given among men whereby we must be saved.

g Any where, and this setteth forth unto us the largeness of Christs kingdom.
h Of God.

13 ¶ Now when they saw the boldness of Peter and John, and perceived that they were unlearned and i ignorant men, they marvelled, and they took knowledge of them, that they had been with Jesus.

5 The good liberty and boldness of the servants of God doth yet thus much good, that such as lay hid under a vizard of zeal, do at length bewray themselves to be indeed wicked men.
i The word used here, is Idiot, which being spoken in comparison had to a magistrate, betokeneth a private man: but when we speak of sciences and studies, it signifieth one that is unlearned: and in account of honour and estimation, it importeth one of base degree and no estimation.

14 And beholding the man which was healed standing with them, they could say nothing against it.

15 But when they had commanded them to go aside out of the councel, they k conferred among themselves, k Laid their heads together.

16 6 Saying, what shall we do to these men? for that indeed a notable miracle hath been done by them is manifest to all them that dwell in Jerusalem, and we cannot deny it.

6 He that flattereth himself in ignorance, cometh at length to do open wickedness, and that against his own conscience.

17 But that it spread no further among the people, let us straitly threaten them, that they speak henceforth to no man in this name.

18 And they called them, and commanded them not to speak at all, nor teach in the name of Jesus.

19 7 But Peter and John answered and said unto them, Whether it be right in the sight of God, to hearken unto you more then unto God, judge ye.

7 we must so obey men to whom we are subject, that especially and before all things we obey God.

20 For we cannot but speak the things which we have seen and heard.

21 8 So when they had further threatned them, they let them go, finding nothing how they might punish them, because of the people: for all men glorified God for that which was done.

8 So far off are the wicked from doing what they list that contrariwise God useth even that to the setting forth of his glory, which he giveth them leave to do.

22 For the man was above fourty years old, on whom this miracle of healing was shewed.

23 ¶ 9 And being let go, they went to their own company, and reported all that the chief priests and elders had said unto them.

9 The apostles communicate their troubles with the congregation.

24 10 And when they heard that, they lift up their voice to God with one accord, and said, Lord, thou art God which hast made heaven and earth, and the sea, and all that in them is.

10 we ought neither to be afraid of the threatnings of our enemies neither yet foolishly contemn their rage and madness against us: but we have to set against their force and malice, an earnest thinking upon the power & good will of God (both which we do manifestly behold in Christ) and so flee to the aid and succours of our Father.

25 Who by the mouth of thy servant David hast said, * Why did the heathen rage, and the people imagine vain things?

* Psal. 2. 1.

26 The kings of the earth stood up, and the rulers were gathered together against the Lord, and against his Christ.

27 For of a truth against thy holy child Jesus, whom thou hast anointed, both Herod and Pontius Pilate, with the Gentiles, and the l people of Israel were gathered together, l Although the people of Israel was but one people, yet the plural number is here used, not so much for the twelve tribes, every one of which made a people, as for the great multitude of them, as though many nations had assembled themselves together, as Judges 5. 14.

28 For

28 For to [m] do whatsoever [n] thy hand and thy counsel determined before to be done,

29 And now Lord, behold their threatnings: and grant unto thy servants, that with all boldness they may speak thy word,

30 By stretching forth thine hand to heal: and that signs and wonders may be done by the name of thy holy child Jesus.

31 ¶ [11] And when they had prayed, the place was shaken where they were assembled together; and they were all filled with the holy Ghost, and they spake the word of God with boldness.

32 [12] And the multitude of them that believed, were of [o] one heart, and of one soul: neither said any of them, that ought of the things which he possessed, was his own, but they had all things common.

33 And with great power gave the apostles witness of the resurrection of the Lord Jesus: and great grace was upon them all.

34 [13] Neither was there any among them that lacked: for as many as were possessours of lands or houses, sold them, and brought the prices of the things that were sold,

35 And laid them down at the apostles feet: and distribution was made unto every man according as he had need.

36 And Joses, who by the apostles was surnamed Barnabas (which is, being interpreted, The son of consolation) a Levite, and of the country of Cyprus, 37 Having land, sold it, and brought the mony, and laid it at the apostles feet.

m The wicked execute Gods counsel, though they think nothing of it, but they are not therefore without fault.

n Thou hadst determined of thine absolute authority and power.

11 God witnesseth to his church by a visible sign, it is he that will establish it, by shaking the powers both of heaven and earth.

12 An example of the true church, wherein there is content as well in doctrine as in charity one toward another: and the pastours deliver true doctrine both sincerely, and constantly.

o They agreed both in counsel, will, and purpose.

13 True charity helpeth the necessity of the poor with his own loss: but so that all things be done well and orderly.

Chap. V.

After that Ananias and Sapphira his wife for their hypocricy at Peters rebuke had fallen down dead, 12 and that the rest of the apostles had wrought many miracles, 14 to the increase of the faith: 17 the apostles are again imprisoned, 19 but delivered by an angel, bidding them to preach openly to all: 21 When, after their teaching accordingly in the temple, 29 and before the councel, 33 they are in danger to be killed; through the advice of Gamaliel, a great counseller among the Jews, they be kept alive, 40 and are but beaten: for which they glorify God, and cease no day from preaching.

1 Luke sheweth by contrary examples, how great a sin hypocricy is, especially in them which under a false pretence and cloak of zeal would seem to shine and be chief in the church.

BUt [1] a certain man named Ananias with Sapphira his wife, sold a possession,

2 And [a] kept back part of the price, his wife also being privy to it, and brought a certain part, and laid it at the apostles feet.

3 But Peter said, Ananias, why hath Satan [b] filled thine heart ‡ to [c] lie to the holy Ghost, and to keep back part of the price of the land?

4 Whiles it remained, was it not thine own? and after it was sold, was it not in thine own power? why hast thou [d] conceived this thing in thine heart? thou hast not lied unto men, but unto God.

5 And Ananias hearing these words, fell down and gave up the ghost: and great fear came on all them that heard these things.

6 And the young men arose, wound him up, and carried him out, and buried him.

7 And it was about the space of three hours after, when his wife, not knowing what was done, came in.

8 And Peter answered unto her, Tell me whether ye sold the land for so much. And she said, Yea, for so much.

9 Then Peter said unto her, How is it that ye have agreed together, to [e] tempt the Spirit of the Lord? behold, the feet of them which have buried thy husband are at the [f] door, and shall carry thee out.

10 Then fell she down straightway at his feet, and yeilded up the ghost: and the young men came in and found her dead, and carrying her forth, buried her by her husband.

11 [2] And great fear came upon all the church, and upon as many as heard these things.

12 ¶ And by the hands of the apostles were many signs and wonders wrought among the people; (and they were all with one accord in Solomons porch.

13 And of the rest durst no man joyn himself to them: but the people [g] magnified them.

14 And believers were the more added to the Lord, multitudes both of men and women)

15 Insomuch that they brought forth the sick ‡ into the streets, and laid them on beds and couches, that at the least, the shadow of Peter passing by, might overshadow some of them.

16 There came also a multitude out of the cities round about unto Jerusalem, bringing sick folks, and them which were vexed with unclean spirits: & they were healed every one.

17 ¶ [3] Then the high priest rose up, and all they that were with him, (which is the [h] sect of the Sadducees) and were filled with ‡ indignation,

18 And laid their hands on the apostles, and and put them in the common prison.

19 [4] But the angel of the Lord by night opened the prison-doors, and brought them forth, and said, 20 [5] Go, stand and speak in the temple to the people, all the [i] words of this life.

21 [6] And when they heard that, they entred into the temple early in the morning, and taught. But the high priest came, and they that were with him, and called the councel together, and all the senate of the children of Israel, and sent to the prison to have them brought.

22 But when the officers came, and found them not in the prison, they returned, and told,

23 Saying, The prison truly found we shut with all safety, and the keepers standing without before the doors: but when we had opened, we found no man within.

24 Now when the high priest, and the captain of the temple, and the chief priests heard these things, they doubted of them whereunto this would grow.

25 [7] Then came one and told them, saying, behold, the men whom ye put in prison, are standing in the temple, & teaching the people.

b Fully possessed.

c For when they had appointed that farm or possession for the church, they stuck not at it to keep away part of the price, as though they had to do with men, and not with God, and therefore he saith afterward that they tempted God.

d Hereby is declared an advised and purposed deceit, and the man in admitting the fault in the devils suggestions.

e Look how oft men do things with an evil conscience, so oft they pronounce sentence against themselves, and as much as in them lieth, provoke God to anger, as of set purpose, minding to try whether he be just and almighty or no.

f At the hand.

2 The Lord by his marvellous virtue bridleth some, that they may not hurt the church: otherwhile some he keepeth in his awe and fear: and otherwhile some he alloureth unto him.

g Highly praised them.

3 The more that the church increaseth the more increaseth the rage of Satan, and therefore they proceed from threatnings to prisoning.

h The word which is used here, Is heresie, which signifieth a choice, and so is taken for a right form of learning, or fashion, or study, and course of life, which the Latines call, A sect. At the first this word was indifferently used, but at length it came to be taken onely in evil part, whereupon came the name of Heretick, which is taken for one that goeth astray from sound and wholesome doctrine, after such sort, that he setteth light by the judgment of God and his church, and continueth in his opinion, and breaketh the peace of the church.

i Or, way.

4 Angels are made servants of the servants of God.

5 God doth therefore deliver his, that they may more stoutly provoke his enemies.

i words whereby the way unto life is shewed.

6 God mocketh his enemies attempts from above.

7 The more openly that Christs virtue sheweth it self, the more increaseth the madness of his enemies, which conspire against him.

26 [8] Then

26 [8] Then went the captain with the officers, and brought them without violence: (for they feared the people, lest they should have been stoned)

27 And when they had brought them, they set them before the councel: and the high priest asked them,

28 [9] Saying, * Did not we straitly command you, that you should not teach in this name? and behold, ye have filled Jerusalem with your doctrine, and intend to [k] bring this mans bloud upon us.

29 ¶ [10] Then Peter and the other apostles answered and said, We ought to obey God rather then men.

30 [11] The God of our fathers raised up Jesus, whom ye slew and hanged on a tree.

31 Him hath God exalted with his right hand to be a Prince and a Saviour, for to give repentance to Israel, and forgiveness of sins.

32 [12] And we are his witnesses of these things; and so is also the holy Ghost, Whom God hath given to them that obey him.

33 ¶ When they heard that, they were [l] cut to the heart, and took counsel to slay them.

34 [13] Then stood there up one in the councel, a Pharisee, named Gamaliel, a doctour of law, had in reputation among all the people, and commanded to put the apostles forth a little space,

35 And said unto them, Ye men of Israel, take heed to your selves, what ye intend to do as touching these men.

36 [14] For before these days rose up Theudas [m] boasting himself to be some body, to whom a number of men, about four hundred, joyned themselves: who was slain, and all, as many as ‡ obeyed him, were scattered, and brought to nought.

37 After this man rose up Judas of Galilee, in the days of the taxing, and drew away much people after him: he also perished, and all, even as many as obeyed him, were dispersed.

38 And now I say unto you, [n] Refrain from these men, and let them alone: for if this counsel, or this work [o] be of men, it will come to nought:

39 But if it be of God, ye cannot overthrow it; lest haply ye be found even to fight against God.

40 And to him they agreed: and when they had called the apostles, and beaten them, they commanded that they should not speak in the name of Jesus, and let them go.

41 ¶ [15] And they departed from the presence of the councel, rejoycing that they were counted worthy to suffer shame for his name.

42 And daily in the temple, and in every house, they ceased not to teach and preach Jesus Christ.

8 Tyrants which fear not God, are contained to fear his servants.

9 It is the property of tyrants to set out their own commandments as right and reason, be they never so wicked.

* Chap 4. 18.

k Make us guilty of murderingthat man whom yet they will not vouchsafe to name.

10 we ought to obey no man, but so far forth as obeying him we may obey God.

11 Christ is appointed and indeed declared Prince and Preserver of his church in despight of his enemies.

12 It is not sufficient for us, that there is a right end, but we must also according to our vocation go on forward till we come unto it.

l This betokeneth that they were in a most vehement rage, and marvellously disquieted in mind, for it is a borrowed kind of speech taken from them which are harshly cut in sunder with a saw.

13 Christ findeth defenders of his cause, even in the very root of his enemies, so oft as he thinketh it needful.

14 In matters of religion we must take good heed, that we attempt nothing under a colour of zeal, beside our vocation.

m To be of some fame.

n He dissuadeth his fellows from murdering the apostles, neither doth he think it good to refer the matter to the Roman magistrate: for the Jews could abide nothing worse, then to have the tyranny of the Romans confirmed.

o If it be counterfeit and devised.

15 The apostles accustomed to suffer and bear words, are at length inured to bear stripes, but yet so, that by that means they become stronger.

p Both publikly and privately.

CHAP. VI.

1 The apostles desirous to have the poor regarded for their bodily sustenance, as also careful themselves to dispense the word of God, the food of the soul, 3 appoint the office of deaconship to seven chosen men: 5 of whom, Stephen, a man full of faith, and of the holy Ghost, is one: 12 who is taken of those whom he confounded in disputing, 13 and after falsly accused of blasphemy against the law and the temple.

AND [1] in those days, when the number of the disciples was multiplied, there arose a murmuring of the [a] Grecians against the Hebrews, because their widows were neglected in the [b] daily ministration.

2 [2] Then the twelve called the multitude of the disciples unto them, and said, It is not [c] reason that we should leave the word of God, and serve [d] tables.

3 [3] Wherefore brethren, look ye out among you seven men of honest report, full of the holy Ghost and wisdom, whom ye may appoint over this business.

4 But we will give our selves continually to prayer, and to the ministery of the word.

5 ¶ And the saying pleased the whole multitude: and they chose Stephen, a man full of faith and of the holy Ghost, and Philip, and Prochorus, and Nicanor, and Timon, and Parmenas, and Nicolas a proselyte of Antioch.

6 [4] Whom they set before the apostles: and when they had prayed, they [e] laid their hands on them.

7 [5] And the word of God increased; and the number of the disciples multiplied in Jerusalem greatly; and a great company of the priests were obedient to the [f] faith.

8 [6] And Stephen full of faith and power, did [g] great wonders & miracles among the people.

9 [7] Then there arose certain of the synagogue, which is called [h] the synagogue of the Libertines, and Cyrenians, and Alexandrians, and of them of Cilicia, and of Asia, disputing with Stephen.

10 [8] And they were not able to resist the wisdom and the spirit by which he spake.

11 Then they suborned men which said, We have heard him speak blasphemous words against Moses, and against God.

12 [9] And they stirred up the people, and the elders, and the scribes, and came upon him, and caught him, and brought him to the councel,

13 [10] And set up false witnesses, which said, This man ceaseth not to speak blasphemous words against this holy place, and the law.

14 For we have heard him say, That this Jesus of Nazareth shall destroy this place, and shall change the ‡ customs which Moses delivered us.

1 When Satan hath assailed the church without, and that to small purpose, and in vain, he assaileth it within, with civil dissension and strife betwixt themselves: but the apostles take occasion thereby to set order in the church.

a Of their parts, which of Grecians became religious Jews.

b In the bestowing of alms according to their necessity.

2 The office of preaching the word, and dispensing the goods of the church, are different one from another, and not rashly to be joyned together, as the apostles do here institute: and the apostles do not chuse so much as the deacons without the consent of the church.

c It is such a matter, as we may in no wise accept of it.

d Tanquam: Though by the name of tables, other offices are also meant, which are annexed to it, such as pertain to the care of the poor.

3 In chusing of deacons (much more of ministers) there must be examination both of their learning and manners of life.

4 The ancient church did with laying on of hands, as it were consecrate to the Lord, such as were lawfully elected.

e This ceremony of laying on of hands, came from the Jews, who used this order both in publick affairs, and offering of sacrifices, and also in private prayers and blessings, as appeareth, Gen. 28, and the church observed this ceremony, 1 Tim. 5. 22. Act. 8. 17, but here is no mention made either of cream, or shaving, or tasing, or crossing, &c.

5 An happy end of temptation.

f This is the figure metonymia, meaning by faith, the doctrine of the gospel which ingendreth faith. 6 God exerciseth his church first with evil words and slanders, then with imprisonments, afterward with scourgings, and by these meanes prepareth it in such sort, that at length he causeth it to encounter with Satan and the world, even to bloudshed and death, and that with good success. g Excellent & singular good gifts. 7 Schools & universities were of old time addicted to false pastours, & were the instruments of Satan to blow abroad and defend false doctrines. h Of the company and colledge, as it were. ‡ False teachers, because they will not be overcome, flee from disputations to manifest and open slandering and false accusations. 9 The first bloudy persecution of the church of Christ, began & sprang from a councel of priests, by the suggestion of the university doctours. 10 An example of cavillers, or false accusers, which gather false conclusions of things that are well uttered and spoken. ‡ Or, rites.

15 And all that ſat in the councel, looking ſtedfaſtly on him, [11] ſaw his face as it had been the face of an angel.

11: Hereby it appeareth that Stephen had an excellent and goodly countenance, having a quiet and ſetled mind, a good conſcience and ſure perſwaſion that his cauſe was juſt: for ſeeing he was to ſpeak before the people, God beautified his countenance, to the end that with the very beholding of him, the Jews minds might be pierced and amaſed.

CHAP. VII.

1 Stephen permitted to anſwer to the accuſation of blaſphemy, 2 ſheweth that Abraham worſhipped God rightly, and how God choſe the fathers, 20 before Moſes was born, and before the tabernacle and temple were built: 37 That Moſes himſelf witneſſed of Chriſt: 44 and that all outward ceremonies were ordained according to the heavenly pattern to laſt but for a time: 51 reprehending their rebellion, and murdering of Chriſt, the juſt one, whom the prophets foretold ſhould come into the world: 54 whereupon they ſtone him to death; who commendeth his ſoul to Jeſus, and humbly prayeth for them.

1 Stephen is admitted to plead his cauſe, but to this end and purpoſe, that under a cloke and colour of law, he might be condemned.

THen [1] ſaid the high prieſt, Are theſe things ſo?

2 [2] And he ſaid, Men, brethren, and fathers hearken, The God of [a] glory appeared unto our father Abraham, when he was in [b] Meſopotamia, before he dwelt in Charran,

2 Stephen witneſſeth unto the Jews, that he acknowledgeth the true fathers, and the onely true God: and ſheweth moreover that they are more ancient then the temple: with all that ſervice appointed by the law, and therefore they ought to lay another foundation of true religion, that is to ſay, the free covenant that God made with the fathers.

a That mighty God full of glory and majeſty.

b When he ſaith afterward, verſ. 4, That Abraham came out of Chaldea, it is evident that Meſopotamia contained Chaldea which was neat unto it, and bordering upon it, and ſo writeth Plin. book 6. chap. 27.

3 And ſaid unto him, * Get thee out of thy country, and from thy kindred, and come into the land which I ſhall ſhew thee.

4 Then came he out of the land of the Chaldeans, and dwelt in Charran: and from thence, when his father was dead, he removed him into this land wherein ye now dwell.

5 And he gave him none inheritance in it, no not ſo much as to [c] ſet his foot on: yet he [d] promiſed that he would give it to him for a poſſeſſion, and to his ſeed after him, when as yet he had no child.

6 And God ſpake on this wiſe, that his ſeed ſhould ſojourn in a ſtrange land, and that they ſhould bring them into bondage, and entreat them evil [e] four hundred years.

7 And the nation to whom they ſhall be in bondage, will I judge, ſaid God: and after that ſhall they come forth, and ſerve me in this place.

8 * And he gave him the covenant of circumciſion: * and ſo Abraham begat Iſaac, and circumciſed him the eighth day: * and Iſaac begat Jacob, and * Jacob begat the twelve Patriarchs.

9 * [3] And the Patriarchs moved with envy, ſold Joſeph into Egypt: but God was [f] with him,

10 And delivered him out of all his afflictions, * and gave him [g] favour and wiſdom in the ſight of Pharaoh king of Egypt; & he made him governour over Egypt, and all his houſe.

11 Now there came a dearth over all the land of Egypt and Chanaan, and great affliction; and our fathers found no ſuſtenance.

12 * But when Jacob heard that there was corn in Egypt, he ſent out our fathers firſt.

13 * And at the ſecond time Joſeph was made known to his brethren; and Joſephs kindred was made known unto Pharaoh.

14 Then ſent Joſeph, and called his father Jacob to him, and all his kindred, threeſcore and fifteen ſouls.

15 * So Jacob went down into Egypt, * and died, he and our fathers,

16 And [h] were carried over into Sichem, and laid in the ſepulchre that Abraham bought for a ſum of mony of the ſons of Emmor the father of Sichem.

17 But when the time of the promiſe drew nigh, which God had ſworn to Abraham, the people grew and multiplied in Egypt, 18 Till another king aroſe, which knew not Joſeph.

19 The ſame [i] dealt ſubtilly with our kindred, and evil entreated our fathers, ſo that they caſt out their young children, to the end they might not live.

20 * In which time Moſes was born, and * was ‡ [k] exceeding fair, and nouriſhed up in his fathers houſe three months:

21 And when he was caſt out, Pharaohs daughter took him up, and nouriſhed him for her own ſon.

22 And Moſes was learned in all the wiſdom of the Egyptians, and was mighty in words and in deeds.

23 And when he was full fourty years old, it came into his heart to viſit his brethren the children of Iſrael.

24 * And ſeeing one of them ſuffer wrong, he defended him, and avenged him that was oppreſſed, and ſmote the Egyptian:

25 For he ſuppoſed his brethren would have underſtood, how that God by his hand would deliver them; but they underſtood not.

26 * And the next day he ſhewed himſelf unto them as they ſtrove, and would have ſet them at one again, ſaying, Sirs, ye are brethren; why do ye wrong one to another?

27 But he that did his neighbour wrong, thruſt him away, ſaying, Who made thee a ruler and a judge over us?

28 Wilt thou kill me as thou didſt the Egyptian yeſterday?

29 Then fled Moſes at this ſaying, and was a ſtranger in the land of Madian, where he begat two ſons.

30 * And when fourty years were expired, there appeared to him in the wilderneſs of mount Sina, an [l] Angel of the Lord in a flame of fire in a buſh.

31 When Moſes ſaw it, he wondred at the ſight: and as he drew near to behold it, the voice of the Lord came unto him, 32 Saying, I am the God of thy fathers, the God of Abraham, and the God of Iſaac, and the God of Jacob. Then Moſes trembled, and durſt not behold.

33 Then ſaid the Lord to him, Put off thy ſhoes from thy feet: for the place where thou ſtandeſt is holy ground.

34 I have ſeen, I have ſeen the affliction of my people which is in Egypt, and I have heard their groaning, and am come down to deliver them.

c Not ſo much ground as to ſet his foot upon.

e There are reckoned four hundred years from the beginning of Abrahams progeny, which was at the birth of Iſaac: & four hundred and thirty years which are ſpoken of by Paul, Gal. 3. 17. from the time that Abraham and his father departed together out of Ur of the Chaldeans.

3 Stephen reckoneth up diligently the horrible miſchiefs of ſome of the fathers, to teach the Jews that they ought not raſhly to reſt in the authority or examples of the fathers.

f By this kind of ſpeech, is meant the peculiar favour that God ſheweth men: for he ſeemeth to be away from them, whom he helpeth not: and on the other ſide, he is with them whom he delivereth out of whatſoever great troubles. * Gen. 41. 37.

g Gave him favour in Pharaohs ſight for his wiſdom. * Gen. 42. 1. * Gen. 45. 4.

n This was the ſuperſtition of the Egyptians idolatry: for they worſhipped Apis a ſtrange and marvellous calf, and made goodly images of kine, Herodot. lib. 2.

41 And they made a [n] calf in thoſe days, and offered ſacrifice unto the idol, and rejoyced in the works of their own hands.

o Being deſtitute and void of his ſpirit, he gave them up to Satan, and wicked luſts, to worſhip ſtars.

42 Then God turned, and [o] gave them up to worſhip the [p] hoſt of heaven; as it is written in the book of the prophets,* O ye houſe of Iſrael, have ye offered to me ſlain beaſts, and ſacrifices, by the ſpace of fourty years in the wilderneſs?

7 Stephen moved with the zeal of God, at length judgeth his own judges

51 ¶ [7] Ye ſtiff-necked, and [x] uncircumciſed in heart and ears, ye do always reſiſt the holy Ghoſt: as your fathers did, ſo do ye.

x They are of uncircumciſed hearts, which lie drowned ſtill in the ſins of nature, and ſtick faſt in them: for otherwiſe all the Jews were circumciſed as touching the fleſh, and therefore there were two kinds of circumciſion, Rom. 2. 28.

52 Which of the prophets have not your fathers perſecuted? and they have ſlain them which ſhewed before of the coming of the juſt one, of whom ye have been now the betrayers and murderers:

53 Who have received the law by the [y] diſpoſition of angels, and have not kept it.

y By the miniſtry of angels.

54 ¶ [8] When they heard theſe things, they were cut to the heart, and they gnaſhed on him with their teeth.

8 The more Satan is preſſed, the more he burſteth out into an open rage.

55 [9] But he being full of the holy Ghoſt, looked up ſtedfaſtly into heaven, and ſaw the glory of God, and Jeſus [z] ſtanding on the right hand of God,

9 The neareſt that the Martyrs approach to death, the neater they beholding Chriſt do riſe up even into heaven.

z Ready to confirm him in the confeſſion of the truth, and to receive him to him.

56 And ſaid, Behold, I ſee the heavens opened, and the Son of man ſtanding on the right hand of God.

57 [10] Then they cried out with a loud voice, and ſtopped their ears, and [a] ran upon him with one accord, a This was done in a rage and fury, for at that time the Jews could put no man to death by law, as they confeſſed before Pilate, ſaying, That it was not lawful for them to put any man to death, and therefore it is reported by Joſeph. lib. 20. That Ananus a Saducee ſlew James the brother of the Lord, and for ſo doing, was accuſed before Albinus the preſident of the country.

10 The zeal of hypocrites and ſuperſtitious people breaketh out at length into moſt open madneſs.

58 And caſt him out of the city, and ſtoned him: and the [b] witneſſes laid down their clothes at a young mans feet, whoſe name was Saul.

b It was appointed by the law, that the witneſſes ſhould caſt the firſt ſtones, Deut. 17. 7.

59 And they ſtoned Stephen, calling upon God, and ſaying, Lord Jeſus receive my ſpirit.

60 [11] And he kneeled down, and cried with a loud voice, Lord, [c] lay not this ſin to their charge. And when he had ſaid this, he fell [d] aſleep.

CHAP. VIII.

By occaſion of the perſecution in Jeruſalem, the church being planted in Samaria, 5 by Philip the deacon, who preached, did miracles, and baptized many, among the reſt Simon the ſorcerer, a great ſeducer of the people; 14 Peter and John come to confirm, and enlarge the church: where by prayer, and impoſition of hands, giving the holy Ghoſt, 18 when Simon would have bought the like power of them, 20 Peter ſharply reproving his hypocricy, and covetouſneſs, and exhorting him to repentance, together with John preaching the word of the Lord, return to Jeruſalem. 26 But the angel ſendeth Philip to teach, and baptize the Ethiopian eunuch.

AND [1] Saul was conſenting unto his death. And at that time there was a great perſecution againſt the church which was at Jeruſalem; and they were all ſcattered abroad throughout the regions of Judea and Samaria, except the apoſtles.

1 Chriſt uſeth the rage of his enemies to the ſpreading forth and enlarging of his kingdom.

2 [2] And devout men [a] carried Stephen to his burial, and made great lamentation over him.

2 The godly mourn for Stephen after his death, and bury him, ſhewing therein an example of ſingular faith and charity: but no man prayeth to him.

a Amongſt all the duties of charity which the godly uſe, there is no mention made of ſhrining up of relicks.

3 [3] As for Saul, he made havock of the church, entring into every houſe, and haling men and women, committed them to priſon.

3 The diſperſion or ſcattering abroad of the faithful, is the joyning together of churches.

4 Therefore they that were ſcattered abroad, went every where preaching the word.

5 [4] Then Philip went down to the city of Samaria, and preached Chriſt unto them.

4 Philip who was before deacon in Jeruſalem, is made of God extraordinarily an evangeliſt.

6 And the people with one accord gave heed unto thoſe things which Philip ſpake, hearing, and ſeeing the miracles which he did.

7 For unclean ſpirits, crying with loud voice, came out of many that were poſſeſſed with them: and many taken with palſies, and that were lame, were healed.

8 And there was great joy in that city.

9 [5] But

9 [s] But there was a certain man called Simon, which before-time in the ſame city uſed [b] ſorcery, and [c] bewitched the people of Samaria, giving out that himſelf was ſome great one.

10 To whom they all gave heed from the leaſt to the greateſt, ſaying, This man is the great power of God.

11 And to him they had regard, becauſe that of long time he had bewitched them with ſorceries.

12 But when they believed Philip, preaching the things concerning the kingdom of God, and the name of Jeſus Chriſt, they were baptized both men and women.

13 [6] Then Simon himſelf believed alſo: and when he was baptized, he continued with Philip, and wondred, beholding the miracles and ſigns which were done.

14 [7] Now when the apoſtles which were at Jeruſalem, heard that Samaria had received the word of God, they ſent unto them Peter and John.

15 Who when they were come down, prayed for them that they might receive the [d] holy Ghoſt.

16 (For as yet he was fallen upon none of them: onely they were baptized in the name of the Lord Jeſus)

17 Then laid they their hands on them, and they received the holy Ghoſt.

18 [8] And when Simon ſaw that through laying on of the apoſtles hands, the holy Ghoſt was given, he offered them mony, 19 Saying, Give me alſo this power, that on whomſoever I lay hands, he may receive the holy Ghoſt.

20 [9] But Peter ſaid unto him, Thy mony periſh with thee, becauſe thou haſt thought that the gift of God may be purchaſed with mony.

21 Thou haſt neither part not lot in this [e] matter: for thy heart is not [f] right in the ſight of God.

22 [10] Repent therefore of this thy wickedneſs, and pray God, if perhaps the thought of thine heart may be forgiven thee.

23 For I perceive that thou art in the [g] gall of bitterneſs, and in the [h] bond of iniquity.

24 Then anſwered Simon, and ſaid, Pray ye to the Lord for me, that none of theſe things which ye have ſpoken come upon me.

25 And they when they had teſtified and preached the word of the Lord, returned to Jeruſalem, and preached the goſpel in many villages of the Samaritans.

26 [11] And the angel of the Lord ſpake unto Philip, ſaying, Ariſe and go toward the ſouth, unto the way that goeth down from Jeruſalem unto Gaza, which is deſert.

27 And he aroſe and went: and behold, a man of Ethiopia, an eunuch of [i] great authority under Candace queen of the Ethiopians, who had the charge of all her treaſure, and had come to Jeruſalem for to worſhip, 28 Was returning, and ſitting in his chariot read Eſaias the prophet.

29 Then the Spirit ſaid unto Philip, Go near, and joyn thy ſelf to this chariot.

30 And Philip ran thither to him, and heard him read the prophet Eſaias, and ſaid, Underſtandeſt thou what thou readeſt?

31 And he ſaid, How can I, except ſome man ſhould [k] guide me? and he deſired Philip that he would come up, and ſit with him.

32 [12] The place of the ſcripture which he read, was this, * He was led as a ſheep to the ſlaughter, and like a lamb dumb before his ſhearer, ſo opened he not his mouth:

33 In his [l] humiliation his judgment was taken away: and who ſhall declare his [m] generation? for his life is taken from the earth.

34 And the eunuch anſwered Philip, and ſaid, I pray thee, of whom ſpeaketh the prophet this? of himſelf, or of ſome other man?

35 Then Philip opened his mouth, and began at the ſame ſcripture, and preached unto him Jeſus.

36 And as they went on their way, they came unto a certain water: and the eunuch ſaid, See, here is water; what doth hinder me to be baptized?

37 [13] And Philip ſaid, If thou believeſt with all thine heart, thou mayſt. And he anſwered and ſaid, [n] I believe that Jeſus Chriſt is the Son of God.

38 And he commanded the chariot to ſtand ſtill: and they went down both into the water, both Philip and the eunuch; and he baptized him.

39 And when they were come up out of the water, the Spirit of the Lord caught away Philip, that the eunuch ſaw him no more: and he went on his way rejoycing.

40 But Philip was found at Azotus: and paſſing through, he preached in all the cities, till he came to Ceſarea.

CHAP. IX.

1 Saul going towards Damaſcus, 4 is ſtricken down to the earth, 10 is called to the apoſtleſhip, 18 and is baptized by Ananias. 20 He preacheth Chriſt boldly. 23 The Jews lay wait to kill him; 29 ſo do the Grecians: but he eſcapeth both, 31 The church having reſt, Peter healeth Eneas of the palſy, 36 and reſtoreth Tabitha to life.

AND [1] Saul yet [a] breathing out threatnings and ſlaughter againſt the diſciples of the Lord, went unto the high prieſt,

2 And deſired of him letters to Damaſcus to the ſynagogues, that if he found any of this [b] way, whither they were men or women, he might bring them bound unto Jeruſalem.

3 And as he journyed he came near Damaſcus: and ſuddenly there ſhined round about him a light from heaven.

4 And he fell to the earth, and heard a voice ſaying unto him, Saul, Saul, why perſecuteſt thou me?

5 Chriſt overcometh Satan ſo oft as he liſteth, and carieth him about as it were in a triumph, in the ſight of them whom he deceived and bewitched.

b The word which is uſed in this place was at the firſt taken in good part, and is borrowed out of the Perſians language, who call their wiſe men by that name, but afterward it was taken in evil part.

c He had ſo allured the Samaritans with his witchcrafts, that as blind and mad hatebrains they were wholly addicted to him.

6 The wicked and the very reprobate are conſtrained oftentimes to uſe of the good gift of God, but they caſt it up again forthwith.

7 Peter, not chief, but as an ambaſſadour ſent from the whole company of the apoſtles, and John his companion, according to the authority which was committed unto them, confirm and build up the churches of Samaria, whoſe foundation had been laid afore by Philip.

d Thoſe excellent gifts, which are neceſſary, eſpecially for them that were to be appointed rulers and governours of the church.

8 Ambition and covetouſneſs do at length pluck the hypocrites out of their dens.

9 They are the ſucceſſours of Simon Magus, and not of Simon Peter, which either buy or ſell holy things.

e In this doctrine which I preach.

f Is not upright indeed and without diſſembling.

10 we muſt hope well even of the vileſt ſinners, ſo long and ſo far forth as we may.

g He calleth the inward malice of the heart, and that venimous & deviliſh wickedneſs wherewith the Magician was wholy repleniſhed, the gall of bitterneſs: and he is ſaid, To be in the gall, as though he were wholly overwhelmed with gall, and buried in it.

h Intangled in the bonds of iniquity.

11 Chriſt who calleth freely whom he liſteth, doth now uſe Philip who thought on no ſuch matter, to inſtruct and baptize the eunuch at unawares, and by this means extendeth the limits of his kingdom even into Ethiopia.

i A man of great wealth and authority with Candaces. Now this name Candaces is a common name to all the queens of Ethiopia.

k To ſhew me the way how to underſtand it.

12 Thoſe things which ſeem moſt to come by chance or fortune (as men term it) are governed by the ſecret providence of God.

* Iſa. 53. 7.

l The Hebrew text readeth it thus, Out of a narrow ſtrait, and out of judgment was he taken: whereby the narrow ſtrait he meaneth the grave and the very bands of death, and by judgment, the puniſhment which was laid upon him, and that miſerable ſtate which Chriſt took upon him for our ſakes, in bearing his Fathers wrath.

m How long his age ſhall laſt: for Chriſt having once riſen from the dead dieth no more, Rom. 6. 9.

13 Profeſſion of faith is requiſite in baptizing of them, which are at years, & therefore it is evident that we are not then firſt ingraffed into Chriſt, when we are baptized, but being already ingraffed, are then confirmed.

n The ſum of the confeſſion, which is neceſſary for baptiſm.

1 Saul (who is alſo Paul) perſecuting Chriſt cruelly, who did as it were flee before him, falleth into his hands, and is overcome: and with a ſingular example of the goodneſs of God, in ſtead of puniſhment which he juſtly deſerved for his cruelty, is not onely received to favour, but is alſo even by the mouth of God appointed an apoſtle, and is confirmed by the miniſtry & witneſs of Ananias.

a This is a token that Sauls ſtomack boiled and caſt out great threatnings to murther the diſciples. b Any trade of life which a man taketh himſelf unto, the Jews call a way.

5 And he said, Who art thou, Lord? And the Lord said, I am Jesus whom thou persecutest: It is [c] hard for thee to kick against the pricks.

c This is a proverb which is spoken of them, that through their own stubbornness hurt themselves.

6 And he trembling and astonished, said, Lord, what wilt thou have me to do? And the Lord said unto him, Arise, and go into the city, and it shall be told thee what thou must do.

7 And the men which journyed with him [d] stood speechless, hearing a [e] voice, but seeing no man.

d Stood still and could not go one step forward but abode amazed as if they had been very stones.
e They heard Sauls voice: for afterward it is said in flat terms that they heard not his voice that spake: as beneath Chap. 22. 9, but other go about to set these places at one which seem to be at a jar, after this sort, to wit, That they heard a sound of a voice, but no perfect voice.

8 And Saul arose from the earth; and when his eyes were opened, he saw no man: but they led him by the hand, and brought him into Damascus.

9 And he was three days without sight, and neither did eat nor drink.

10 ¶ And there was a certain disciple at Damascus, named Ananias, and to him said the Lord in a vision, Ananias. And he said, behold, I am here, Lord.

11 And the Lord said unto him, Arise, and go into the street, which is called Straight, and enquire in the house of Judas, for one called Saul of [f] Tarsus, for behold, he prayeth, f Tarsus was a city of Cilicia near unto Anchiala, which two cities Sardanapalus is said to have built in one day.

12 And hath seen in a vision a man named Ananias, coming in, and putting his hand on him, that he might receive his sight.

13 Then Ananias answered, Lord, I have heard by many of this man, how much evil he hath done to thy saints at Jerusalem:

14 And here he hath authority from the chief priests, to bind all that call on thy name.

15 But the Lord said unto him, Go thy way: for he is a [g] chosen vessel unto me, to bear my name before the Gentiles, and kings, and the children of Israel.

g To bear my name in.

16 For I will [h] shew him how great things he must suffer for my names sake.

h I will shew him plainly.

17 And Ananias went his way, and entred into the [i] house; and putting his hands on him, said, Brother Saul, the Lord (even Jesus that appeared unto thee in the way as thou camest) hath sent me, that thou mightest receive thy sight, and be filled with the holy Ghost.

i Into Judas his house.

18 And immediately there fell from his eyes as it had been scales; and he received sight forthwith, and arose, and was baptized.

19 And when he had received meat, he was strengthned. Then was Saul certain days with the disciples which were at Damascus.

20 [2] And straightway he preached Christ in the synagogues, that he is the Son of God.

2 Paul beginneth straightways to execute the office which was enjoyned him, never consulting with flesh and bloud.

21 But all that heard him were amazed, and said, Is not this he that destroyed them which called on this name in Jerusalem, and came hither for that intent, that he might bring them bound unto the chief priests?

22 [3] But Saul increased the more in strength, and confounded the Jews which dwelt at Damascus, [k] proving that this is very Christ.

3 Paul striveth not with his own authority alone, but with the testimony of the prophets.

k By conferring places of the Scripture together, as cunning craftsmen do, when they make up any thing, they use to gather all parts together, to make them agree fitly one with another.

23 ¶ [4] And after that many days were fulfilled, the Jews took counsel to kill him:

4 Paul, who was before a persecuter, hath now persecution laid before himself, but yet a far off. * 2 Cor. 11. 32.

24 * But their laying await was known of Saul: and they watched the gates day and night to kill him.

25 [5] Then the disciples took him by night, and let him down by the wall in a basket.

5 We are not forbidden to avoid and eschew the dangers and conspiracies that the enemies of God lay for us, so that we swarve not from our vocation.

26 [6] And when Saul was come to Jerusalem, he assayed to joyn himself to the disciples: but they were all afraid of him, and believed not that he was a disciple.

6 In ancient time no man was rashly or lightly received into the number of and amongst the sheep of Christ, much less to be a pastour.

27 But Barnabas took him, and brought him to the apostles, and declared unto them how he had seen the Lord in the way, and that he had spoken to him, and how he had preached boldly at Damascus in the name of Jesus.

28 [7] And he was [l] with them coming in, and going out at Jerusalem.

7 The constant servants of God must look for danger after danger: yet God watcheth for them.
l with Peter and James, for he saith, that he saw none of the apostles but them, Gal. 1. 18, 19.

29 And he spake boldly in the name of the Lord Jesus, and disputed against the [m] Grecians: but they went about to slay him.

m Look Chap. 6. 1.

30 [8] Which when the brethren knew, they brought him down to Cesarea, and sent him forth to Tarsus.

8 The ministers of the word may change their place by the advice and counsel of the congregation and church.

31 [9] Then had the churches rest throughout all Judea, and Galilee, and Samaria, and were [n] edified, and walking in the fear of the Lord, and in the comfort of the holy Ghost, were multiplied.

9 The end of persecutions is the building of the church, so that we will patiently wait for the Lord.
n This is a borrowed kind of speech which signifieth establishment & increase.

32 ¶ [10] And it came to pass, as Peter passed throughout all quarters, he came down also to the saints which dwelt at Lydda.

10 Peters apostleship is confirmed by healing of the man that was sick of the palsy.

33 And there he found a certain man named Æneas, which had kept his bed eight years, and was sick of the palsy.

34 And Peter said unto him, Æneas, Jesus Christ maketh thee whole: arise, and make thy bed. And he arose immediately.

35 And all that dwelt at [o] Lydda, and Saron, saw him, and turned to the Lord.

o Lydda, was a city of Palestina, and Saron a champion country, and a place of good pasturages, between Cesarea of Palestina, and the mountain Tabor, and the lake of Genezareth, which extendeth it self in great length beyond Joppa.

36 ¶ [11] Now there was at Joppa a certain disciple named Tabitha, which by interpretation is called Dorcas: this woman was full of good works, and alms-deeds which she did.

11 Peter declareth evidently by raising up a dead body through the name of Christ, that he preached the glad tidings of life.

37 And it came to pass in those days, that she was sick, and died: whom when they had washed, they laid her in an upper chamber.

38 And forasmuch as Lydda was nigh to Joppa, and the disciples had heard that Peter was there, they sent unto him two men, desiring him that he would not ‡ delay to come to them.

39 Then Peter arose, and went with them. When he was come, they brought him into the upper chamber: and all the widows stood by him weeping, and shewing the coats and garments which Dorcas made while she was with them.

40 But Peter put them all forth, and kneeled down and prayed, and turning him to the body, said, Tabitha, arise. And she opened her eyes: and when she saw Peter, she sat up.

41 And he gave her his hand, and lift her up;

up: and when he had called the saints and widows, presented her alive.

42 And it was known throughout all Joppa, and many believed in the Lord.

43 And it came to pass, that he tarried many days in Joppa with one Simon a tanner.

CHAP. X.

1 Cornelius a devout man, 5 being commanded by an angel, sendeth for Peter: 11 who by a vision, 15, 20 is taught not to despise the Gentiles. 34 As he preacheth Christ to Cornelius and his company, 44 the Holy Ghost falleth on them, 48 and they are baptized.

THere [1] was a certain man in Cesarea, called Cornelius, a centurion of the band called the Italian band,

2 A [a] devout man, and one that feared God with all [b] his house, which gave much alms to the people, and prayed to God alway.

3 He saw in a vision evidently, about the ninth hour of the day, an angel of God coming in to him, and saying unto him, Cornelius.

4 And when he looked on him, he was afraid, and said, [c] What is it Lord? And he said unto him, Thy prayers and thine alms are [d] come up for a [e] memorial before God.

5 And now send men to Joppa, and call for one Simon, whose surname is Peter:

6 He lodgeth with one Simon a tanner, whose house is by the sea-side: he shall tell thee what thou oughtest to do.

7 And when the angel which spake unto Cornelius, was departed, he called two of his household-servants, and a devout souldier of them that waited on him continually.

8 And when he had declared all these things unto them, he sent them to Joppa.

9 ¶ On the morrow as they went on their journey, and drew nigh unto the city, Peter went up upon the house top to pray, about the sixth hour.

10 And he became very hungry, and would have eaten: but while they made ready, he fell into [f] a trance,

11 And saw heaven opened, and a certain vessel descending unto him, as it had been a great sheet, knit at the [g] four corners, and let down to the earth:

12 Wherein were [h] all manner of [i] four-footed beasts of the earth, and wild beasts, and [k] creeping things, and fowls of the air.

13 And there came a voice to him, Rise, Peter kill, and eat.

14 [2] But Peter said, Not so Lord; for I have never eaten any thing that is common or unclean.

15 And the voice spake unto him again the second time; What God hath cleansed, that call not thou [l] common.

16 This was done thrice: and the vessel was received up again into heaven.

17 Now while Peter doubted in himself what this vision which he had seen, should mean: behold, the men which were sent from Cornelius, had made enquiry for Simons house, and stood before the gate,

18 And called, and asked whether Simon which was surnamed Peter, were lodged there.

19 ¶ While Peter thought on the vision, the spirit said unto him, Behold, three men seek thee.

20 Arise therefore, and get thee down, and go with them, doubting nothing: for I have sent them.

21 Then Peter went down to the men which were sent unto him from Cornelius; and said, Behold, I am he whom ye seek: what is the cause wherefore ye are come?

22 And they said, Cornelius the centurion, a just man, and one that feareth God, and of good report among all the nation of the Jews, was warned from God by an holy angel, to send for thee unto his house, and to hear words of thee.

23 Then called he them in, and lodged them: and on the morrow Peter went away with them, and certain brethren from Joppa accompanied him.

24 And the morrow after they entred into Cesarea: and Cornelius waited for them, and had called together his kinsmen and near friends.

25 [3] And as Peter was coming in, Cornelius met him, and fell down at his feet, and worshipped him.

26 But Peter took him up, saying, Stand up, I my self also am a man.

27 And as he talked with him, he went in, and found many that were come together.

28 And he said unto them, Ye know how that it is an unlawfull thing for a man that is a Jew, to keep company, or come unto one of another nation: but God had shewed me, that I should not call any man common or unclean.

29 Therefore came I unto you without gainsaying, assoon as I was sent for: I ask therefore for what intent ye have sent for me.

30 And Cornelius said, Four days ago I was fasting untill [m] this hour, and at the ninth hour I prayed in my house, and behold, a man stood before me in bright clothing, 31 [4] And said, Cornelius, thy prayer is heard, and thine alms are had in remembrance in the sight of God.

32 [5] Send therefore to Joppa, and call hither Simon whose surname is Peter; he is lodged in the house of one Simon a tanner, by the sea-side; who when he cometh, shall speak unto thee.

33 Immediately therefore I sent to thee, and thou hast well don that thou art come. Now therefore are we all here present before God, to hear all things that are commanded thee of God.

34 ¶ [6] Then Peter opened his mouth, and said, * Of a truth I perceive that [n] God is no respecter of persons:

35 But in every nation, he that [o] feareth him,

1 Peter consecrateth the first fruits of the Gentils to God by the means of two miracles.

a So that he worshipped one God, and was no idolater, neither could be void of faith in Christ, because he was a devout man: but as yet he knew not that he was come.

b This is a great commendation to this man, that he laboured to have all his household and familiar friends and acquaintance to be religious, and godly.

c what wilt thou with me lord? for he setteth himself to hear.

d This is a borowed kind of speech, which the Hebrews use very much, taken from sacrifices, and applied to prayers: for it is said of whole burnt sacrifices, that the smoke and savour of them goth up into Gods nostrils: so do our prayers as a sweet smelling sacrifice which the lord taketh great pleasure in.

e That is, in so much that they will not suffer God, as it were, to forget thee: for so doth the scriptures use oftentimes to prattle with us as nurses do with little children, when they frame their tongues to speak.

f For though Peter stand not amazed as one that is tongue-tyed, but talketh with God, and is instructed in his mysteries, yet his mind was far otherwise than it was wont to be, but shortly returned to the old bent.

g So that it seemed to be a four square sheet.

h Here is the word (All) which is generall, plainly put for an indefinite and uncertain, that is to say, for some of all sorts, not for all of every sort i That is, such as were meet for mens use.

k what is meant by these creeping things, look Levit. 11.

2 Peter profiteth daily in the knowledge of the benefit of Christ, yea, after that he had received the Holy Ghost.

l Do not thou hold them as unclean.

3 Religious adoration or worship agreeth onely to God: but civill worship is given to the ministers of the word, although not without danger.

m He meaneth not the self same hour, but the like, that is, about nine of the clock the other day, as it was then nine when he spake to Peter.

4 Cornelius faith sheweth forth it self by prayer and charitie.

5 As faith cometh by hearing, so is it nourished and groweth up by the same.

6 Distinction of nations is taken away by the coming of Christ: And it is evidently seen, by faith and righteousness who is agreeable to him, or whom he accepteth.

* Deut 10. 17. Rom. 2. 11. 1 Pet. 1. 17. n That God judgeth not after the outward appearance. o By the fear of God the Hebrews understand the whole service of God, whereby we perceive that Cornelius was not void of faith, no more than they were which lived before Christs time: and therefore they deal foolishly which build preparative works and free-will, upon this place.

and worketh righteousnes, is accepted with him.

36 The word which God sent unto the [p] children of Israel, preaching peace by Jesus Christ (he is Lord of all)

37 [7] That word (I say) you know, which was published throughout all Judea, and began from Galilee, after the baptism which John preached:

38 How God [q] anointed Jesus of Nazareth, with the Holy Ghost, and with power, who went about doing good, and healing all that were oppressed of the devil: for God was with him.

39 And we are witnesses of all things which he did both in the land of the Jews, and in Jerusalem, whom they slew and hanged on a tree:

40 Him God raised up the third day, and shewed him openly,

41 Not to all the people, but unto witnesses, [r] chosen before of God, even to us who did eat and drink with him after he rose from the dead.

42 And he commanded us to preach unto the people, and to testifie that it is he which was ordained of God to be the judge of quick and dead.

43 * To him give all the prophets witness, that through his name whosoever believeth in him, shall receive remission of sins.

44 ¶ [s] While Peter yet spake these words, the Holy Ghost fell on all them which heard the word.

45 And they of the circumcision which believed, were astonished, as many as came with Peter, because that on the Gentiles also was poured out the gift of the Holy Ghost.

46 For they heard them speak with tongues, and magnifie God. Then answered Peter, 47 [9] Can any man forbid water, that these should not be baptized, which have received the Holy Ghost, as well as we?

48 And he commanded them to be baptized in the name of the Lord. Then prayed they him to tarry certain days.

p God gave the Israelites to understand, that whosoever liveth godly, is acceptable to God, of what nation soever he be, for he preached peace to men through Jesus Christ, who is Lord not of one nation onely, that is, Of the Jews, but of all.

q The sum of the gospel (which shall be made manifest at the latter day, when Christ himself shall sit as Judge both of the quick and dead) is this, That Christ promised to the fathers, and exhibited in his time with the mighty power of God, (which was by all means shewed) and at length crucified to reconcile us to God, did rise again the third day, that whosoever believeth in him should be saved through the remission of sins.

r The stile is taken from an old custom of the Jews who used to anoint their kings and priests, whereupon it grew, to call them anointed, upon whom God bestoweth gifts and vertues.

s This chusing of the apostles is properly given to God: for though God be president in the lawfull election of ministers, yet there is in this place a secret opposition and setting of Gods chusing and mens voices the one against the other, for the apostles are immediately appointed of God, and the church ministers by means.

* Jer. 31. 34. Mic. 7. 18.

7 The spirit of God sealeth that in the heart of the hearers which the minister of the word speaketh by the commandment of God, as it appeareth by the effects. 9 Baptism doth not sanctifie or make them holy which receive it, but sealeth up & confirmeth their sanctification.

CHAP. XI.

1 Peter being accused for going in to the Gentiles, 5 maketh his defence, 18 which is accepted. 19 The gospel being spread into Phenice, and Cyprus, and Antioch, Barnabas is sent to confirm them. 26 The disciples there are first called Christians. 27 They send relief to the brethren in Judea in time of famin.

AND [1] the apostles and brethren that were in Judea, heard that the Gentiles had also received the word of God.

2 And when Peter was come up to Jerusalem, they that were of the circumcision contended with him,

3 Saying, Thou wentest in to men uncircumcised, and didst eat with them.

4 But Peter rehearsed the matter from the beginning, and expounded it by order unto them, saying,

1 Peter being without cause reprehended of the unskilfull and ignorant, doth not object that he ought not to be judged of any, but openly giveth an account of his doing.

5 I was in the city of Joppa praying, and in a trance I saw a vision, A certain vessel descend, as it had been a great sheet, let down from heaven by four corners, and it came even to me.

6 Upon the which when I had fastened mine eyes, I considered, and saw four-footed beasts of the earth, and wild beasts, and creeping things, and fowls of the air,

7 And I heard a voice saying unto me, Arise Peter, slay, and eat.

8 But I said, Not so, Lord: for nothing common or unclean hath at any time entred into my mouth.

9 But the voice answered me again from heaven, What God hath cleansed, that call not thou common.

10 And this was don three times: and all were drawn up again into heaven.

11 And behold, immediately there were three men already come unto the house where I was, sent from Cesarea unto me.

12 And the Spirit bad me go with them, nothing doubting. Moreover, these six brethren accompanied me, and we entred into the mans house:

13 And he shewed us how he had seen an angel in his house, which stood and said unto him, Send men to Joppa, and call for Simon, whose sirname is Peter:

14 Who shall tell thee words, whereby thou and all thy house shall be saved.

15 And as I began to speak, the Holy Ghost fell on them, * as on us at the beginning. * Chap. 2. 4.

16 Then remembred I the word of the Lord, how that he said, * John indeed baptized with water: but ye shall be baptized with the Holy Ghost. * Joh. 1. 26.

17 Forasmuch then as God gave them the like gift as he did unto us, who believed on the Lord Jesus Christ, what was I that I could withstand God?

18 [2] When they heard these things, they held their peace, and glorified God, saying, Then hath God also to the Gentiles granted repentance unto life.

19 ¶ * [3] Now they which were scattered abroad upon the persecution that arose about Stephen, travelled as far as Phenice, and Cyprus, and [4] Antioch, preaching the word to none but unto the Jews onely.

20 [4] And some of them were men of Cyprus, and Cyrene, which when they were come to Antioch, spake unto the Grecians, preaching the Lord Jesus.

21 And the hand of the Lord was with them: and a great number believed, and turned unto the Lord.

22 ¶ [5] Then tidings of these things came unto the ears of the church which was in Jerusalem: and they sent forth Barnabas, that he should go as far as Antioch.

23 Who when he came, and had seen the grace of God, was glad, & exhorted them all, that

2 Such as asked a question of the truth which they know not, ought to be quietly heard, and must also quietly yield to the declaration thereof.

* Chap. 8. 1.

3 The scattering abroad of the church of Jerusalem, is the cause of the gathering together of many other churches.

4 He speaketh of Antiochia which was in Syria and bordered upon Cilicia.

4 The church of Antioch, the new Jerusalem of the Gentiles was extraordinarily called.

5 The apostles do not rashly condemn an extraordinary vocation, but yet they judge it by the effects.

that with purpose of heart they would cleave unto the Lord.

24 For he was a good man, and full of the Holy Ghost, and of faith: and much people was added unto the Lord.

6 There was no contention amongst the apostles either of usurping, or of holding places and degrees.

25 [6] Then departed Barnabas to Tarsus, for to seek Saul.

26 And when he had found him, he brought him unto Antioch. And it came to pass, that a whole year they assembled themselvs ‡ with the church, and taught much people, and the disciples were called Christians first in Antioch.

‡ Or, in the church.

- God doth so wrap up his church with the wicked, in his scourges and plagues which he sendeth upon the earth, that notwithstanding he provideth for it conveniently.

27 ¶ [7] And in these days came prophets from Jerusalem unto Antioch.

28 And there stood up one of them named Agabus, and signified by the spirit: that there should be great dearth throughout all the world: which came to pass in the days of Claudius Cesar.

1 All congregations or churches make one body.
b That is, that thereof the deacons might succour the poor: for it behoved to have all these things done orderly and decently, and therefore it is said, That they sent these things to the elders, that is, To the governours of the church.

29 [8] Then the disciples, every man according to his ability, determined to send [b] relief unto the brethren which dwelt in Judea.

30 Which also they did, and sent it to the elders by the hands of Barnabas and Saul.

CHAP. XII.

1 King Herod persecuteth the Christians, killeth James, and imprisoneth Peter, whom an angel delivereth upon the prayers of the church. 20 In his pride, taking to himself the honour due to God, he is stricken by an angel, and dieth miserably. 24 After his death the word of God prospereth.

1 God giveth his church a truce but for a little time.
2 This name Herod was common to all them that come of the stock of Herod Ascalonites, whose surname was Magnus: but he that is spoken of here, was nephew to Herod the great, son to Aristobulus, and father to that Agrippa who is spoken of afterward.
‡ Or, began
b Violently, his cause being not once heard.
2 It is an old fashion of tyrants to procure the favour of the wicked with the bloud of the godly.
3 The tyrants and wicked make a gallows for themselvs, even then, when they do most according to their own will and fantasie.
4 The prayers of the godly overturn the counsel of tyrants, obtain angels of God, break the prison, unloos the chains, put Satan to flight, and preserve the church.
‡ Or, instant and earnest prayer was made.

NOw [1] about that time, [2] Herod the king ‡ stretched forth his hands to vex certain of the church.

2 And he [b] killed James the brother of John with the sword.

3 [2] And because he saw it pleased the Jews, he proceeded further, to take Peter also, (Then were the days of unleavened bread)

4 [3] And when he had apprehended him, he put him in prison, and delivered him to four quaternions of souldiers to keep him, intending after Easter to bring him forth to the people.

5 [4] Peter therefore was kept in prison, but ‡ prayer was made without ceasing of the church unto God for him.

6 And when Herod would have brought him forth, the same night Peter was sleeping between two souldiers, bound with two chains, and the keepers before the door kept the prison.

7 And behold, the angel of the Lord came upon him, and a light shined in the prison: and he smote Peter on the side, and raised him up, saying, Arise up quickly. And his chains fell off from his hands.

8 And the angel said unto him, Gird thy self, and bind on thy sandals: and so he did. And he saith unto him, Cast thy garment about thee, and follow me.

9 And he went out, and followed him, and wist not that it was true which was don by the angel: but thought he saw a vision.

10 When they were past the first and the second ward, they came unto the iron gate that leadeth unto the city, which opened to them of his own accord: and they went out, and passed on through one street; and forthwith the angel departed from him.

11 And when Peter was come to himself, he said, Now I know of a surety, that the Lord hath sent this angel, and hath delivered me out of the hand of Herod, and from all the expectation of the people of the Jews.

16 But Peter continued knocking: and when they had opened the door, and saw him, they were astonished.

Chap. XIII.

1 Paul and Barnabas are chosen to go to the Gentiles. 7 Of Sergius Paulus, and Elymas the sorcerer. 13 Paul preacheth at Antioch, that Jesus is Christ. 42 The Gentiles believe. 45 but the Jews gainsay, and blaspheme: 46 whereupon they turn to the Gentiles. 48 As many as were ordained to life, believed.

NOw [1] there were in the church that was at Antioch, certain prophets and teachers: as Barnabas, and Simeon that was called Niger, and Lucius of Cyrene, and Manaen, ‡ which had been brought up with [a] Herod the tetrach, and Saul.

2 As they [b] ministred to the Lord, and fasted, the holy Ghost said, Separate me Barnabas and Saul, for the work whereunto I have [c] called them.

3 [2] And when they had fasted and prayed, and laid their hands on them, they sent them away.

4 ¶ [3] So they being sent forth by the holy Ghost, departed unto [d] Seleucia, and from thence they sailed to Cyprus.

5 And when they were at Salamis, they preached the word of God in the synagogues of the Jews: and they had also John to their minister.

6 And when they had gon through the isle unto Paphos, they found a certain sorcerer, a fals prophet, a Jew, whose name was Barjesus:

7 Which was with the deputy of the countrey, Sergius Paulus; a prudent man: who called for Barnabas and Saul, and desired to hear the word of God.

8 [4] But Elymas the sorcerer (for so is his name by interpretation) withstood them, seeking to turn away the deputy from the faith.

9 Then Saul (who also is called Paul) filled with the holy Ghost, set his eyes on him,

10 [5] And said, O full of all subtility and all [e] mischief, thou child of the devil, thou enemy of all righteousness, wilt thou not cease to pervert the right ways of the Lord?

11 And now behold, the [f] hand of the Lord is upon thee, and thou shalt be blind, not seeing the sun for a season. And immediately there fell on him a mist and a darkness, and he went about seeking some to lead him by the hand.

12 Then the deputy when he saw what was don, believed being astonished at the doctrin of the Lord.

13 [6] Now when Paul and his company loosed from Paphos, they came to Perga in Pamphylia: and John departing from them, returned to Jerusalem.

14 ¶ But when they departed from Perga, they came to Antioch in [g] Pisidia, and went into the synagogue on the sabbath-day, and sat down.

15 [7] And after the reading of the law and the prophets, the rulers of the synagogue sent unto them, saying, Ye men and brethren if ye [h] have any word of exhortation for the people, say on.

16 [8] Then Paul stood up, and beckning with his hand, said, Men of Israel, and ye that fear God, give audience.

17 The God of this people of Israel chose our fathers, and [i] exalted the people * when they dwelt as strangers in the land of Egypt, * and with an [k] high arm brought he them out of it.

18 And about the time of fourty years † suffered he their manners in the wilderness.

19 And, when he had destroyed seven nations in the land of Canaan, * he divided their land to them by lot.

20 And after that * he gave unto them judges, about the space of [l] four hundred and fifty years, untill Samuel the prophet.

21 * And afterward they desired a king, and God gave unto them Saul the son of Cis, a man of the tribe of Benjamin, by the space of [m] fourty years.

22 And when he had removed him, * he raised up unto them David to be their king, to whom also he gave testimonie, and said, * I have found David the son of Jesse, a man after mine own heart, which shall fulfill all my will.

23 * [9] Of this mans seed hath God according to his promise, raised unto Israel a Saviour Jesus:

25 And as John fulfilled his course, he said, * Whom think ye that I am? I am not he. But behold, there cometh one after me, whose shoes of his feet I am not worthy to loose.

26 [10] Men and brethren, children of the stock of Abraham, and whosoever among you feareth God, to you is the word of this salvation sent.

27 [11] For they that dwell at Jerusalem, and their rulers, because they knew him not, nor yet the voices of the prophets which are read every sabbath-day, they have fulfilled them in condemning him.

28 * And though they found no cause of death in him, yet desired they Pilate that he should be slain.

29 And when they had fulfilled all that was written of him, they took him down from the tree, and laid him in a sepulchre.

30 * [12] But God raised him from the dead.

1 Great diſſenſion ariſeth touching circumciſion. 6 The apoſtles conſult about it, 22 and ſend their determination by letters to the churches. 36 Paul and Barnabas, thinking to viſit the brethren together, fall at ſtrife, and depart aſunder.

1 The church is at length troubled with diſſention within it ſelf, and the trouble riſeth of the proud and ſtubborn wits of certain evil men: The firſt ſtrife was concerning the office of Chriſt, whether we be ſaved by his onely righteouſneſs apprehended by faith, or if we have need alſo to obſerve the law.
a Epiphanius is of opinion, that this was Cerinthus.

AND [1] certain [a] men which came down from Judea, taught the brethren, and ſaid, * Except ye be circumciſed after the manner of Moſes, ye cannot be ſaved.

2 [2] When therefore Paul and Barnabas had no ſmall diſſenſion and diſputation with them, they determined that Paul and Barnabas, and certain other of them, ſhould go up to Jeruſalem unto the apoſtles and elders about this queſtion.

3 [b] And being brought on their way by the church, they paſſed through Phenice, and Samaria, declaring the converſion of the Gentiles: and they cauſed great joy unto all the brethren.

4 And when they were come to Jeruſalem, they were received of the church, and of the apoſtles and elders, and they declared all things that God had done with them.

5 But there roſe up certain of the ſect of the Phariſees which believed, ſaying, That it was needful to circumciſe them, and to command them to keep the law of Moſes.

6 ¶ [3] And the apoſtles and elders came together for to conſider of this matter.

7 And when there had been much diſputing, Peter roſe up and ſaid unto them, * [4] Men and brethren, ye know how that a [c] good while ago, God made choice among us, that the Gentiles by my mouth ſhould hear the word of the goſpel, and believe.

8 And God which knoweth the hearts, bare them witneſs, giving them the holy Ghoſt, even as he did unto us:

9 And put no [d] difference between us and them, * [e] purifying their hearts by faith.

10 [5] Now therefore [f] why tempt ye God, * to put a yoke upon the neck of the diſciples, which neither our fathers nor we were able to bear?

11 But we believe that through the grace of the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, we ſhall be ſaved even as they.

12 ¶ Then all the multitude kept ſilence, and gave audience to Barnabas and Paul, declaring what miracles and wonders God had wrought among the Gentiles by them.

13 ¶ And after they had held their peace, [g] James anſwered, ſaying, Men and brethren, hearken unto me.

e Chriſt pronounceth them to be bleſſed, which are pure of heart: and here we are plainly taught that men are made ſuch by faith.
5 Peter paſſing from the ceremonies to the law it ſelf in general, ſheweth that none could be ſaved, if ſalvation were to be ſought for by the law, and not by grace onely in Jeſus Chriſt: becauſe that no man could ever fulfil the law, neither patriarch nor apoſtle.
f why tempt you God, as though he could not ſave by faith.

h And therefore nothing cometh to paſs by fortune, but by Gods appointment.
8 In matters indifferent, we may ſo far bear with the weakneſs of our brethren, as they may have time to be inſtructed. i From ſacrifices, or from feaſts which were kept in idols temples.

22 Then

22 [9] Then pleased it the apostles and elders, with the whole church, to send chosen men of their own company to Antioch, with Paul and Barnabas; namely, Judas surnamed Barsabas, and Silas, chief men among the brethren:

23 And wrote letters by them after this manner, The apostles, and elders, and brethren send greeting unto the brethren which are of the Gentiles in Antioch, and Syria, and Cilicia.

24 [10] Forasmuch as we have heard, that certain which went out from us have [l] troubled you with words, subverting your souls, saying, Ye must be circumcised, and keep the law; to whom we gave no such commandment:

25 It seemed good unto us, being assembled with one accord, to send chosen men unto you, with our beloved Barnabas and Paul;

26 Men that have [m] hazarded their lives, for the name of our Lord Jesus Christ.

27 We have sent therefore Judas and Silas, who shall also tell you the same things by mouth.

28 [11] For it seemed good to the [n] holy Ghost, and to [o] us, to lay upon you no greater burden then these [p] necessary things;

29 [12] That ye abstain from meats offered to idols, and from bloud, and from things strangled, and from fornication: from which if ye keep your selves, ye shall do well. Fare ye well.

30 [13] So when they were dismissed, they came to Antioch: and when they had gathered the multitude together, they delivered the epistle.

31 Which when they had read, they rejoyced for the ‡ consolation.

32 And Judas and Silas being prophets also themselves, exhorted the brethren with many words, and confirmed them.

33 And after they had tarried there a space, they were let go in [q] peace from the brethren unto the apostles.

34 Notwithstanding it pleased Silas to abide there still.

35 Paul also and Barnabas continued in Antioch, teaching and preaching the word of the Lord, with many others also.

36 ¶ [14] And some days after, Paul said unto Barnabas, Let us go again and visit our brethren, in every city where we have preached the word of the Lord, and see how they do.

37 [15] And Barnabas determined to take with them John, whose surname was Mark.

38 But Paul thought not good to take him with them, who departed from them from Pamphylia, and went not with them to the work.

39 [16] And the contention was so [r] sharp between them, that they departed asunder one from the other: and so Barnabas took Mark, and sailed unto Cyprus;

40 And Paul chose Silas, and departed, being recommended by the brethren unto the grace of God.

41 And he went through Syria and Cilicia, confirming the churches.

CHAP. XVI.

1 Paul having circumcised Timothy, 7 and being called by the spirit from one country to another, 14 converteth Lydia, 16 casteth out a spirit of divination. 19 For which cause he and Silas are whipped and imprisoned. 26 The prison-doors are opened. 31 The jaylour is converted, 37 and they are delivered.

THen [1] came he to Derbe and Lystra: and behold, a certain disciple was there, * named Timotheus, the son of a certain woman, which was a [a] Jewess, and believed; but his father was a Greek:

2 Which was [b] well reported of by the brethren that were at Lystra and Iconium.

3 [2] Him would Paul have to go forth with him; and took and circumcised him, because of the Jews which were in those quarters: for they knew all that his father was a Greek.

4 [3] And as they went through the cities, they delivered them the [c] decrees for to keep, * that were ordained of the apostles and elders which were at Jerusalem.

5 And so were the churches established in the faith, and increased in number daily.

6 [4] Now when they had gone throughout Phrygia, and the region of Galatia, and were [d] forbidden of the holy Ghost to preach the word in Asia,

7 After they were come to Mysia, they assayed to go into Bithynia: but the Spirit suffered them not.

8 And they passing by Mysia, came down to Troas.

9 [5] And a vision appeared to Paul in the night: There stood a man of Macedonia, and prayed him, saying, Come over into Macedonia, and help us.

10 [6] And after he had seen the vision, immediately we endeavoured to go into Macedonia, assuredly gathering, that the Lord had called us for to preach the gospel unto them.

11 Therefore loosing from Troas, we came with a straight course to Samothracia, and the next day to Neapolis;

12 And from thence to Philippi, which is ‡ the chief city of that part of Macedonia, and a colony: and we were in that city abiding certain days.

13 [7] And on the sabbath we went out of the city by a river-side, where [e] prayer was wont to be made; and we sat down, and spake unto the women which resorted thither.

14 ¶ [8] And a certain woman named Lydia, a seller of purple, of the city of Thyatira, which worshipped God, heard us: whose heart the Lord opened, that she attended unto the things which were spoken of Paul.

15 [9] And when she was baptized, and her household, she besought us, saying, If ye have judged

9 In a lawful Synod, neither they which are appointed & chosen judges, appoint and determine any thing tyrannously, or upon a lordliness, neither doth the common multitude set themselves tumultuously against them which sit as judges by the word of God: as the like order also is holden in publishing & ratifying those things which have been so determined and agreed upon.

10 The Council of Jerusalem concludeth, that they trouble mens consciences, which teach us to seek salvation in any other means then in Christ onely apprehended by faith, from whence soever they come, and whomsoever they pretend to be authour of their vocation.

l A borrowed kind of speech then of them which pull down that which was built up: and it is a very usual metaphor in the scriptures, to say the church is built for the church is planted and established.

m For the gospel sake.

11 That is, A lawful council, which the holy Ghost ruleth.

n First they make mention of the holy Ghost, that it may not seem to be any mans work.

o Not that men have any authority of themselves, but to shew the faithfulness that they used in their ministry and labour.

p This was no precise necessity, but in respect of the state of that time, that the Gentiles and the Jews might more peaceably live together with less occasion of quarrel.

12 Charity is requisite even in things indifferent.

13 It is requisite for all people to know certainly what to hold in matters of faith and religion, and not that the church by ignorance and knowing nothing, should depend upon the pleasure of a few.

q This is an Hebrew kind of speech, which is as much to say, as the brethren wished them all prosperous success, and the church dismissed them with good leave. 14 Congregations or churches do easily degenerate, unless they be diligently seen unto, and therefore went these apostles to oversee such as they had planted, and for this cause also Synods were instituted and appointed. 15 A lamentable example of discord between excellent men and very great friends, yet not for profane or their private affairs, neither yet for doctrine. 16 God useth the faults of his servants to the profit and building of the church, yet we have to take heed, even in the best matters, that we pass not measure in our heat: r They were in great heat: But herein we have to consider the force of Gods counsel: for by this meanes it came to pass, that the doctrine of the gospel was exercised in many places.

1 Paul himself doth not receive Timothy into the ministry without sufficient testimony, and allowance of the brethren.

* Rom. 16. 21.

a Paul in his latter epistle to Timothy, commendeth the godliness of Timothies mother and grandmother.

b Both for his godliness and honesty.

2 Timothy is circumcised, not simply for any necessity, but in respect of the time onely to win the Jews.

3 Charity is to be observed in things indifferent, that so regard be had both of the weak, and the quietness of the church.

c Those decrees which he spake of in the former chapter.

* Chap. 15. 28.

4 God appointeth certain and determinate times to open and set forth his truth, that both the election, and the calling may proceed of grace.

d He sheweth not why they were forbidden, but onely that they were forbidden, teaching us to obey, and not to enquire.

5 They are the ministers of the gospel, by whom he helpeth such as are like to perish.

6 The Saints did not easily believe every vision.

‡ Or, the first.

7 God beginneth his kingdom in Macedonia by the conversion of a woman, and so sheweth, that there is no acceptation of person in the gospel.

e where they were wont to assemble themselves.

8 The Lord onely opened the heart to hear the word which is preached.

9 An example of a godly housewife.

120 judged me to be faithful to the Lord, come into my houſe and abide there. And ſhe conſtrained us.

10 Satan transformeth himſelf into an angel of light, and coveteth to enter by undermining, but Paul openly letteth him and caſteth him out.

16 ¶ [10] And it came to paſs, as we went to prayer, a certain damſel, poſſeſſed with a ſpirit ‡ [f] of divination, met us, which brought her maſters much gain by ſoothſaying:

1 Or, of python.

f This is a proper note of Apollo, which was wont to give anſwers to them that asked him.

17 The ſame followed Paul, and us, and cried, ſaying, Theſe men are the ſervants of the moſt high God, which ſhew unto us the way of ſalvation.

18 And this did ſhe [g] many days. But Paul being grieved, turned and ſaid to the ſpirit, I command thee in the name of Jeſus Chriſt to come out of her. And he came out the ſame hour.

g Paul made no haſt to this miracle, for he did all things as he was led by the Spirit.

11 Covetouſneſs of lucre and gain is an occaſion of perſecuting the truth, In the mean ſeaſon, God ſparing Timothy, calleth Paul and Silas as the ſtronger to battel.

19 ¶ [11] And when her maſters ſaw that the hope of their gains was gone, they caught Paul and Silas, and drew them into the ‡ market-place, unto the rulers,

‡ Or, court.

12 Covetouſneſs pretendeth a deſire of common peace and godlineſs.

20 [12] And brought them to the magiſtrates, ſaying, Theſe men being Jews, do exceedingly trouble our city, 13 It is an argument of the devil to urge the authority of anceſtours without any diſtinction.

21 [13] And teach cuſtoms which are not lawful for us to receive, neither to obſerve, being Romans.

14 An example of evil magiſtrates, to obey the fury and rage of the people.

22 [14] And the multitude roſe up together againſt them: and the magiſtrates rent off their clothes, * and commanded to beat them.

* 2 Cor. 11. 25.

23 And when they had laid many ſtripes upon them, they caſt them into priſon, charging the jaylour to keep them ſafely.

1 Theſſ. 2. 2.

24 Who having received ſuch a charge, thruſt them into the inner priſon, and made their feet h faſt in the ſtocks.

h becauſe he would be more ſure of them, he ſet them faſt in the ſtocks.

15 The prayers of the godly do ſhake both heaven and earth.

25 ¶ [15] And at midnight Paul and Silas prayed, and ſang praiſes unto God: and the priſoners heard them.

26 And ſuddenly there was a great earthquake, ſo that the foundations of the priſon were ſhaken: and immediately all the doors were opened, & every ones bands were looſed.

16 The merciful Lord, ſo oft as he liſteth, draweth men to life even through the midſt of death, and whereas juſtly they deſerved great puniſhment, he ſheweth them great mercy.

27 [16] And the keeper of the priſon awaking out of his ſleep, and ſeeing the priſon-doors open, he drew out his ſword, and would have killed himſelf, ſuppoſing that the priſoners had been fled.

17 In means which are eſpecially extraordinary, we ought not to move one foot forward, unleſs that God go before us.

28 [17] But Paul cried with a loud voice, ſaying, Do thy ſelf no harm; for we are all here.

29 Then he called for a light, and ſprang in, and came trembling, and fell down before Paul and Silas;

30 And brought them out, and ſaid, Sirs, what muſt I do to be ſaved?

31 And they ſaid, believe on the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, and thou ſhalt be ſaved, and thy houſe.

32 And they ſpake unto him the word of the Lord, and to all that were in his houſe.

18 God with one ſelf-ſame hand woundeth and healeth when it pleaſeth him.

33 [18] And he took them the ſame hour of the night, And waſhed their ſtripes; and was baptized, he and all his, ſtraightway.

34 And when he had brought them into his houſe, he ſet meat before them, and rejoyced, believing in God with all his h[ouſe].

35 [19] And when it was day, the magiſtrates ſent the ſergeants, ſaying, Let thoſe men go.

19 Shame and confuſion is in proceſs of time the reward of wicked and unjuſt magiſtrates.

36 And the keeper of the priſon told this ſaying to Paul, The magiſtrates have ſent to let you go: now therefore depart, and go in peace.

37 [20] But Paul ſaid unto them, They have beaten us openly uncondemned, being Romans, and have caſt us into priſon; and now do they thruſt us out privily? nay verily; but let them come themſelves and fetch us out.

20 we muſt not render injury for injury, and yet notwithſtanding it is lawful for us to uſe ſuch help as God giveth us, to bridle the outragiouſneſs of the wicked, that they hurt not other in like ſort.

38 [21] And the ſergeants told theſe words unto the magiſtrates: and they feared when they heard that they were Romans.

21 The wicked are not moved with the fear of God, but with the fear of men: and by that means alſo God provideth for his, when it is needful.

39 And they came and beſought them, and brought them out, and deſired them, to depart out of the city.

40 [22] And they went out of the priſon, * and entred into the houſe of Lydia: and when they had ſeen the brethren, they comforted them, and departed.

22 we may eſchew dangers, ſo that we never neglect our duty.

CHAP. XVII.

1 Paul preacheth at Theſſalonica: where ſome believe, and others perſecute him. 10 He is ſent to Berea, and preacheth there. 13 Being perſecuted at Theſſalonica, 15 he cometh to Athens, and diſputeth and preacheth the living God to them unknown, 34 whereby many are converted unto Chriſt.

NOw [1] when they had paſſed through Amphipolis, and Apollonia, they came to Theſſalonica, where was a ſynagogue of the Jews.

1 The caſting out of Silas and Paul was the ſaving of many other.

2 And Paul, as his manner was, went in unto them, and three ſabbath-days reaſoned with them out of the ſcriptures,

2 Chriſt is therefore the Mediatour, becauſe he was crucified and roſe again: much leſs is he to be rejected, becauſe the croſs is ignominious.

3 [2] Opening and alledging, that Chriſt muſt needs have ſuffered, and riſen again from the dead: and that this Jeſus whom I preach unto you, is Chriſt.

3 Although the zeal of the unfaithful ſeem never ſo godly, yet at length it is found to have neither truth nor equity. But yet the wicked cannot do what they liſt, for even among themſelves God ſtirreth up ſome, whoſe help he uſeth to the deliverance of his.

4 And ſome of them believed, and conſorted with Paul and Silas: and of the devout Greeks a great multitude, and of the chief women not a few.

5 ¶ [3] But the Jews which believed not, moved with envy, took unto them certain [a] lewd fellows of the baſer ſort, and gathered a company, and ſet all the city on an uproar, and aſſaulted the houſe of Jaſon, and ſought to bring them out to the people.

a Certain companions which do nothing but walk the ſtreets, wicked men, to be hired for every mans money to do any miſchief, ſuch as we commonly call the raſcals & very ſink and dunghil knaves of all towns and cities.

6 And when they found them not, they drew Jaſon, and certain brethren, unto the rulers of the city, crying, Theſe that have turned the [b] world upſide down, are come hither alſo;

b Into what country and place ſoever they come, they cauſe ſedition and tumult.

7 Whom Jaſon hath received: and theſe all do contrary to the decrees of Ceſar, ſaying, that there is another king, one Jeſus.

8 And they troubled the people, and the rulers of the city, when they heard theſe things.

c when Jaſon had put them in good aſſurance that they ſhould appear.

9 And when they had taken [c] ſecurity of Jaſon, and of the other, they let them go.

10 ¶ [4] And the brethren immediately ſent away Paul and Silas by night unto Berea: who coming thither, went into the ſynagogue of the Jews.

4 That is indeed the wiſedom of the ſpirit, which always ſeeketh the glory of God before it ſelf, as a mark whereunto it directeth it ſelf and never ſwarveth from it.

11 [5] Theſe

5 The Lord ſetteth out in one moment, & in one people, divers examples of his unſearchable wiſdom, to cauſe them to fear him.

d He compareth the Jews with the Jews.

6 Satan hath his, who are zealous for him, and that even ſuch, as leaſt of all ought.

7 There is neither counſel, nor fury, nor madneſs againſt the Lord.

8 The ſheep of Chriſt do alſo watch for, their paſtours health and ſafety, but yet in the Lord

e It is not for nought that the Jews of Berea were ſo commended, for they brought Paul ſafe from Macedonia to Athens: and there is in diſtance betwixt thoſe two, all Theſſalia, and Bœotia, and Attica.

9 In comparing the wiſdom of God with mans wiſdom, men ſcoff and mock at that which they underſtand not: And God uſeth the curioſity of fools to gather together his elect.

f He could not forbear.

‡ Or, full of idols.

g Slaviſhly given to idolatry: Pauſanias writeth, that there were more idols in Athens then in all Grecia, yea, they had altars dedicated to Shame, and Fame, and Luſt, whom they made goddeſſes.

h whomſoever Paul met with that would ſuffer him to talk with him he reaſoned with him: ſo throughly did he burn with the zeal of Gods glory.

10 Two ſects eſpecially of the philoſophers, do ſet themſelves againſt Chriſt: the Epicures, which make a mock and ſcoff at all religion: and the Stoicks, which determine upon matters of religion according to their own brains.

‡ Or, baſe fellow, i word for word, Seed gatherer: a borrowed kind of ſpeech taken of birds which ſpoil corn, and is applied to them, which without all art bluſter out ſuch knowledge as they have gotten by hearing this man, and that man. ‡ Or, Mars-hill. It was the higheſt court in Athens. k This was a place called as you would ſay, Mars-hill, where the Judges ſate, which were called Areopagita, upon weighty affairs, which in old time arreigned Socrates, and after condemned him of impiety. 11 The wiſdom of man is vanity. 12 The idolaters themſelves miniſter moſt ſtrong and forcible arguments againſt their own ſuperſtition. ‡ Or, court of the Areopagites l To ſtand in too peeviſh and ſervile a fear of your gods. ‡ Or, gods that you worship, 2 Theſſ. 2. 4. m whatſoever men worſhip for religions ſake, that we call devotion. n Pauſanias in his Attices maketh mention of the altar which the Athenians had delicated to unknown gods: and Laertius in his Epimenides maketh mention of an altar that had no name intituled. * Chap. 7. 48 13 It is a moſt fooliſh and vain thing to compare the creatour with the creature, to limit him within a place which can be comprehended in no place, and to think to allure him with gifts, of whom all men have received all things whatſoever they have. And theſe are the fountains of idolatry. * Pſal. 50. 8 14 God is wonderfull in all his works, but eſpecially in the work of man: not that we ſhould ſtand amazed at his works, but that we ſhould lift up our eyes to the workman. o Of one ſtock and one beginning.

11 5 Theſe were more d noble then thoſe in Theſſalonica, in that they received the word with all readineſs of mind, and ſearched the ſcriptures daily, whether thoſe things were ſo.

12 Therefore many of them believed: alſo of honourable women which were Greeks, and of men not a few.

13 ¶ 6 But when the Jews of Theſſalonica had knowledge that the word of God was preached of Paul at Berea, they came thither alſo, and ſtirred up the people.

14 7 And then immediately the brethren ſent away Paul, to go as it were to the ſea: but Silas and Timotheus abode there ſtill.

15 ¶ 8 And they that conducted Paul, e brought him unto Athens: and receiving a commandment unto Silas and Timotheus, for to come to him with all ſpeed, they departed.

16 9 Now while Paul waited for them at Athens, his ſpirit was f ſtirred in him, when he ſaw the city ‡ wholly given to g idolatry.

17 Therefore diſputed he in the ſynagogue with the Jews, and with the devout perſons, and in the market daily with them that h met with him.

18 10 Then certain philoſophers of the Epicureans, and of the Stoicks, encountred him: and ſome ſaid, What will this ‡ i babler ſay? other ſome, He ſeemeth to be a ſetter forth of ſtrange gods: becauſe he preached unto them Jeſus, and the reſurrection.

19 And they took him, and brought him unto ‡ k Areopagus, ſaying, May we know what this new doctrine, whereof thou ſpeakeſt, is?

20 For thou bringeſt certain ſtrange things to our ears: we would know therefore what theſe things mean.

21 11 (For all the Athenians and ſtrangers which were there, ſpent their time in nothing els, but either to tell or to hear ſome new thing)

22 12 Then Paul ſtood in the mids of ‡ Mars-hill, and ſaid, Ye men of Athens, I perceive that in all things ye are too l ſuperſtitious.

23 For as I paſſed by, and beheld your ‡ m devotions, I found an altar with this inſcription, To the n unknovvn God. Whom therefore ye ignorantly worſhip, him declare I unto you.

24 * 13 God that made the world, and all things therein, ſeeing that he is Lord of heaven and earth, dwelleth not in temples made with hands:

25 Neither is worſhipped with mens hands, * as though he needed any thing, ſeeing he giveth to all life, and breath, and all things;

26 14 And hath made of o one bloud, all nations of men, for to dwell on all the face of the earth, and hath determined the times before appointed, and the bounds of their habitation:

27 That they ſhould ſeek the Lord, if haply they might p feel after him, and find him, though he be not far from every one of us:

28 For in him we live, and move, and have our being; as certain alſo of your own poets have ſaid, For we are alſo his offs-pring.

29 Foraſmuch then as we are the offs-pring of God, * we ought not to think that the Godhead is like unto gold, or ſilver, or ſtone q graven by art and mans device.

30 15 And the times of this ignorance God winked at; but now commandeth all men every where to repent:

31 Becauſe he hath appointed a day in the which he will judge the world in righteouſneſs, by that man whom he hath ordained; whereof he hath ‡ given r aſſurance unto all men, in that he hath raiſed him from the dead.

32 ¶ 16 And when they heard of the reſurrection of the dead, ſome mocked: and others ſaid, We will hear thee again of this matter.

33 So Paul departed from among them.

34 Howbeit, certain men clave unto him, and believed: among the which was Dionyſius the Areopagite, and a woman named Damaris, and others with them.

Chap. XVIII.

3 Paul laboureth with his hands, and preacheth at Corinth to the Gentiles. 9 The Lord encourageth him in a viſion. 12 He is accuſed before Gallio the deputy, but is diſmiſſed. 18 Afterwards paſſing from city to city, he ſtrengtheneth the diſciples. 24 Apollos being more perfectly inſtructed by Aquila and Priſcilla, 28 preacheth Chriſt with great efficacy.

AFter 1 theſe things, Paul departed from Athens, and came to Corinth;

2 And found a certain Jew named * Aquila, born in Pontus, lately come from Italy, with his wife Priſcilla (becauſe that a Claudius had commanded all Jews to depart from Rome) and came unto them.

3 ¶ And becauſe he was of the ſame craft, he abode with them, and wrought (for by their occupation they were tent-makers)

4 2 And he reaſoned in the ſynagogue every ſabbath, and b perſwaded the Jews, and the Greeks.

5 And when Silas and Timotheus were come from Macedonia, Paul was c preſſed in ſpirit, and teſtified to the Jews, that Jeſus was Chriſt.

6 3 And when they oppoſed themſelves, and blaſphemed, * he ſhook his raiment, and ſaid unto them, Your d bloud be upon your own heads; I am clean: from henceforth I will go unto the Gentiles.

7 And he departed thence, and entred into a certain mans houſe, named Juſtus, one that worſhipped God, whoſe houſe joyned hard to the ſynagogue.

8 * And Criſpus the chief ruler of the ſynagogue, beli:ved on the Lord with all his

4 God doth avouch and maintain the constancy of his servants.

9 [4] Then spake the Lord to Paul in the night by a vision, Be not afraid, but speak, and hold not thy peace:

10 For I am with thee, and no man shall set on thee, to hurt thee: for I have much people in this city.

† Gr. sat there.

11 And he † [e] continued there a year and six moneths, teaching the word of God among them.

e word for word, sat, whereupon they in former time, took the name of their bishops-seat: but Paul sat, that is continued teaching the word of God: and this kind of seat belongeth nothing to them, which never saw their seats with a mind to teach in them.

12 ¶ [5] And when Gallio was the deputy of [f] Achaia, the Jews made insurrection with one accord against Paul, and brought him to the judgment-seat,

5 The wicked are never weary of evil doing, but the Lord mocketh their endevours marvellously.

13 Saying, This fellow perswadeth men to worship God contrary to the law.

14 And when Paul was now about to open his mouth, Gallio said unto the Jews, If it were a matter of wrong, or wicked lewdness, O ye Jews, [g] reason would that I should bear with you.

15 But if it be a [h] question of words and [i] names, and of your law, look ye to it, for I will be no judge of such matters.

f That is, of Grecia, yet the Romans did not call him deputy of Grecia, but of Achaia, because the Romans brought the Grecians into subjection, by the Achaians, which in those days were Princes of Grecia, as Pausanias recordeth.

h As if a man have not spoken well as the case of your religion standeth.

i For this profane man thinketh that the controversy of religion, is but a brawl about words, and for no matter of substance.

16 And he drave them from the judgment-seat.

17 Then all the Greeks took Sosthenes, the chief ruler of the synagogue, and beat him before the judgment-seat; and Gallio cared for none of those things.

18 ¶ [6] And Paul after this, tarried there yet a good while, and then took his leave of the brethren, and sailed thence into Syria, and with him Priscilla and Aquila: having shorn his head in [k] Cenchrea: for [l] he had a vow.

6 Paul is made all to all to win all to Christ.

k Cenchrea was an haven of the Corinthians.

19 And he came to Ephesus, and left them there: but he himself entred into the synagogue, and reasoned with the Jews.

20 [7] When they desired him to tarry longer time with them, he consented not:

l That is, Paul.

7 The apostles were carried about not by the will of man, but by the leading of the holy Ghost.

21 But bad them farewell, saying, I must by all means keep this feast that cometh, in Jeru[sa]'em: but I will return again unto you, * [m] if God And he sailed from Ephesus.

* 1 Cor. 4. 19. James 4. 15.

m So we should promise nothing without this clause; for we know not what the day following will bring forth.

22 A[nd] when he had landed at Cesarea, and gone up and saluted the church, he went down to Antioch.

23 And after he had spent some time there, he departed, and w[ent] over all the country of Galatia and Phrygia in order, strengthening all the disciples.

24 ¶ * [8] And a certain Jew named Apollos, born at Alexandria, an eloquent man, and [n] mighty in the scriptures, came to Ephesus.

* 1 Cor. 1. 12.

8 Apollos, a godly and learned man, refuseth not to profit in the school of a base and abject handicraftsman, and also of a woman: and so becometh an excellent minister of the church.

n Very well instructed in the knowledge of the scriptures.

25 This man was instructed in the way of the Lord; and being fervent in the spirit, he spake and taught diligently the things of the Lord, knowing onely the baptism of John.

26 And he began to speak boldly in the synagogue. Whom when Aquila and Priscilla had heard, they took him unto them, and expounded unto him the [o] way of God more perfectly.

o The way that leadeth to God.

27 And when he was disposed to pass into Achaia, the brethren wrote, exhorting the disciples to receive him: who, when he was come, helped them much which had believed through [p] grace.

p Through Gods gracious favour, or by those excellent gifts which God had bestowed upon him.

28 For he mightily convinced the Jews, and that publickly, shewing by the scriptures, that Jesus was Christ.

CHAP. XIX.

6 The holy Ghost is given by Pauls hands. 9 The Jews blaspheme his doctrine, which is confirmed by miracles. 13 The Jewish exorcists 16 are beaten by the devil. 19 Conjuring books are burnt. 24 Demetrius, for love of gain, raiseth an uprore against Paul, 35 which is appeased by the town-clerk.

AND [1] it came to pass, that while Apollos was at Corinth, Paul having passed through the upper coasts, came to Ephesus: and finding certain disciples,

1 Paul being nothing offended at the rudeness of the Ephesians, planteth a church amongst them.

2 He said unto them, Have ye received the [a] holy Ghost since ye believed? And they said unto him, We have not so much as heard whether there be any holy Ghost.

a Those excellent gifts of the holy Ghost, which were in those days in the church.

3 [2] And he said unto them, [b] Unto what then were ye baptized? And they said, Unto [c] Johns baptism.

2 John did onely begin to instruct the disciples whom Christ would make perfect.

b In what doctrine then are you taught and instructed?

c To be baptized into Johns baptism, is to profess the doctrine which John preached and sealed with his baptism.

4 Then said Paul, * John verily baptized with the baptism of repentance, saying unto the people, That they should believe on him which should come after him, that is, on Christ Jesus.

* Matth. 3. 11.

5 When they heard this, they were baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus.

6 And when Paul had laid his hands upon them, the holy Ghost came on them; and they spake with tongues, and prophesied.

7 And all the men were about twelve.

8 And he went into the synagogue, and spake boldly for the space of three moneths, disputing and perswading the things concerning the kingdom of God.

9 [3] But when divers were hardned, and believed not, but spake evil of that [d] way before the multitude, he departed from them, and separated the disciples, disputing daily in the school of one [e] Tyrannus.

3 For a man to separate himself and others from infidels which are utterly desperate, it is not to divide the church, but rather to unite it, and make it one.

d By, this word, way, the Hebrews understand any kind of life, and here it is taken for Christianity.

e This was a mans proper name.

10 And this continued by the space of two years; so that all they which dwelt in Asia, heard the word of the Lord Jesus, both Jews and Greeks.

11 And God wrought special miracles by the hands of Paul:

12 So that from his body were brought unto the sick, handkerchiefs or aprons, and the diseases departed from them, and the evil spirits went out of them.

13 ¶ [4] Then certain of the vagabond Jews, [f] exorcists, took upon them to call over them which had evil spirits, the name of the Lord Jesus, saying, We adjure you by Jesus whom Paul preacheth.

4 Satan is constrained to give witness against himself.

f So were they called which cast out devils by conjuring them in the name of God: and in the beginning of the church they which had the gift of working miracles, and laid their hands on them that were possessed with devils, were also so called.

14 And there were seven sons of one Sceva a Jew, and chief of the priests, which did so.

15 And the evil spirit answered and said, Jesus I know, and Paul I know, but who are ye?

16 And the man in whom the evil spirit was, leapt on them, and overcame them, and [g] pre-g He prevailed against them, though they ſtrove never ſo much.

g prevailed againſt them, ſo that they fled out of that houſe naked and wounded.

17 And this was known to all the Jews and Greeks alſo dwelling at Epheſus; and fear fell on them all, and the name of the Lord Jeſus was magnified.

5 Conjuring and ſorcery is condemned by open teſtimony, and by the authority of the apoſtle.
h Confeſſed their errours, and deteſted them openly, being terrified with the fear of the judgment of God: and what is this to ear-ſhrift?
i They that make the leaſt value of it, reckon it to be about eight hundred pounds Engliſh.

18 [5] And many that beleeved came, and [h] confeſſed, and ſhewed their deeds.

19 Many alſo of them which uſed curious arts, brought their books together, and burned them before all men: and they counted the price of them, and found it [i] fifty thouſand pieces of ſilver.

20 So mightily grew the word of God, and prevailed. ✣

6 Paul is never weary.
k By the motion of Gods ſpirit: therefore we may not ſay that Paul ran hand over head to death, but as the ſpirit of God led him.

21 ¶ [6] After theſe things were ended, Paul purpoſed in the [k] ſpirit, when he had paſſed through Macedonia, and Achaia, to go to Jeruſalem, ſaying, After I have been there, I muſt alſo ſee Rome.

22 So he ſent into Macedonia two of them that miniſtred unto him, Timotheus and Eraſtus; but he himſelf ſtayed in Aſia for a ſeaſon.

7 Gain cloaked with a ſhew of religion, is the very cauſe wherefore idolatry is ſtoutly and ſtubbornly defended.
l Theſe were certain counterfeit temples with Diana's picture in them, which they bought that worſhipped her.

23 [7] And the ſame time there aroſe no ſmall ſtir about that way.

24 For a certain man named Demetrius, a ſilver-ſmith, which made ſilver [l] ſhrines for Diana, brought no ſmall gain unto the craftſmen.

25 Whom he called together with the workmen of like occupation, and ſaid, Sirs, ye know that by this craft we have our wealth:

26 Moreover, ye ſee and hear, that not alone at Epheſus, but almoſt throughout all Aſia, this Paul hath perſwaded and turned away much people, ſaying, that they be no gods which are made with hands:

m As if he ſaid, if Paul go on thus as he hath begun, to confute the opinion which men have of Diana's image, all this our gain will come to nought.

27 So that not onely this our [m] craft is in danger to be ſet at nought: but alſo that the temple of the great goddeſs Diana ſhould be deſpiſed, and her magnificence ſhould be deſtroyed, whom all Aſia, and the world worſhippeth.

28 And when they heard theſe ſayings, they were full of wrath, and cryed out, ſaying, Great is Diana of the Epheſians.

29 And the whole city was filled with confuſion: and having caught Gaius, and Ariſtarchus, men of Macedonia, Pauls companions in travel, they ruſhed with one accord into the theatre.

30 And when Paul would have entred in unto the people, the diſciples ſuffered him not.

8 There ought to be in all Chriſtians and eſpecially in the miniſters, an invincible conſtancy, which may not by any ſtorms or aſſaults be overcome, which notwithſtanding muſt ſuffer it ſelf modeſtly to be governed by wiſdom.

31 [8] And certain of the chief of Aſia, which were his friends, ſent unto him, deſiring him that he would not adventure himſelf into the theatre.

32 Some therefore cried one thing, and ſome another: for the aſſembly was confuſed, and the more part knew not wherefore they were come together.

33 And they drew Alexander out of the multitude, the Jews putting him forward. And Alexander beckned with the land, and would have made his defence unto the people.

34 [9] But when they knew that he was a Jew, all with one voice about the ſpace of two hours cried out, Great is Diana of the Epheſians.

35 [10] And when the town-clerk had appeaſed the people, he ſaid, Ye men of Epheſus, what man is there that knoweth not how that the city of the Epheſians is † a worſhipper of the great goddeſs Diana, and of the image which fell down from [n] Jupiter?

36 Seeing then that theſe things cannot be ſpoken againſt, ye ought to be quiet, and to do nothing raſhly.

37 For ye have brought hither theſe men, which are neither robbers of churches, nor yet blaſphemers of your goddeſs.

38 Wherefore if Demetrius and the craftſmen which are with him, have a [o] matter againſt any man, ‡ [p] the law is open, and there are [q] deputies, let them implead one another.

39 But if ye enquire any thing concerning other matters, it ſhall be determined in a ‡ [r] lawfull aſſembly.

40 For we are in danger to be called in queſtion for this days uprore, there being no cauſe whereby we may give an account of this concourſe.

41 And when he had thus ſpoken, he diſmiſſed the aſſembly.

9 In ſtead of reaſon, the idolaters are ſufficiently contented with their own madneſs and out cries, and thoſe are the greateſt defences that they have.
10 An example of a politick man who redeemeth peace and quietneſs with lies, which Paul would never have done.
† Gr. the temple-keeper.
n The Epheſians believed ſuperſtitiouſly that the image of Diana came down from heaven to them.
o Have ought to accuſe any man of.
‡ Or, the court-days are kept.
p For there are certain days appointed for civil cauſes and matters of judgment, and the deputies ſit.
q By the deputies are meant alſo the deputies ſubſtitutes, that is, ſuch as did ſit for them.
r He ſpeaketh of a lawfull aſſembly, not onely to except againſt the diſordered hurly burly of the people, but alſo againſt all meeting and coming together, which was not by order: for there were certain days appointed to call the people together.

Chap. XX.

1 Paul goeth to Macedonia. 7 He celebrateth the Lords ſupper, and preacheth. 9 Eutychus having fallen down dead, 10 is raiſed to life. 17 At Miletus he calleth the elders together, telleth them what ſhall befall to himſelf, 28 committeth Gods flock to them, 29 warneth them of falſe teachers, 32 commendeth them to God, 36 prayeth with them, and goeth his way.

1 Paul departeth from Epheſus by the conſent of the church, not to be idle or at reſt, but to take paines in another place.

AND [1] after the uprore was ceaſed, Paul called unto him the diſciples, and embraced them, and departed for to go into Macedonia.

a For after ſo great trouble, there was need of a long exhortation.
2 A froward zeal inſtructeth murderers: and we are not debarred by the wiſdom of God to prevent the endeavours of wicked men.

2 And when he had gone over thoſe parts, and had given them [a] much exhortation, he came into Greece,

3 [2] And there abode three moneths: and when the Jews laid wait for him, as he was about to ſail into Syria, he purpoſed to return through Macedonia.

4 And there accompained him into Aſia, Sopater of Berea; and of the Theſſalonians, Ariſtarchus and Secundus; and Gaius of Derbe, and Timotheus; and of Aſia, Tychicus and Trophimus.

5 Theſe going before, tarried for us at Troas.

6 And we ſailed away from Philippi, after the days of unleavened bread, and came unto them to Troas in five days, where we abode ſeven days.

b word for word, The firſt day of the ſabbath, that is, upon the Lords day: ſo that by this place, and by 1 Cor. 16. 1. is not amiſs gathered, that in thoſe days the Chriſtians were wont to aſſemble themſelves ſolemnly together upon that day. * Chap. 2. 46 3 Aſſemblies in the night time cannot be juſtly condemned, neither ought, when the cauſe is good.
4 The devil minding to trouble the church with a great offence, giveth a ſingular occaſion to confirm the goſpel.

7 [3] And upon the [b] firſt day of the week, when the diſciples came together * to break bread, Paul preached unto them, ready to depart on the morrow, and continued his ſpeech until midnight.

8 [4] And there were many lights in the upper 124 chamber where they were gathered together.

9 And there sat in a window a certain young man named Eutichus, being fallen into a deep sleep: and as Paul was long preaching, he sunk down with sleep, and fell down from the third loft, and was taken up dead.

10 And Paul went down, and fell on him, and embracing him, said, Trouble not your selves; for his life is in him.

11 When he therefore was come up again, and had broken bread, and eaten, and talked a long while, even till break of day, so he departed.

12 And they brought the young man alive, and were not a little comforted.

13 ¶ And we went before to ship, and sailed unto Assos, there intending to take in Paul: for so had he appointed, minding himself to go afoot.

14 And when he met with us at Assos, we took him in, and came to Mitylene.

15 And we sailed thence, and came the next day over against Chios; and the next day we arrived at Samos, and tarried at Trogyllium: and the next day we came to Miletus.

5 Paul an earnest and diligent follower of Christ, making haste to his bonds without any ceasing or stopping in his race; doth first of all as it were make his testament, wherein he giveth an account of his former life, defendeth the doctrin which he taught, and exhorteth the pastours of the church to persevere and go forward with continuance in their office.

16 [5] For Paul had determined to sail by Ephesus, because he would not spend the time in Asia: for he hasted, if it were possible for him, to be at Jerusalem the day of Pentecost.

17 ¶ And from [c] Miletus he sent to Ephesus, and called the elders of the church.

c According as the situation of these places is set forth, that distance between Ephesus and Miletum, was about 400 furlongs, which maketh almost fifty Dutch mi-

18 [6] And when they were come to him, he said unto them, Ye know, from the first day that I came into Asia, after what manner I have been with you at all seasons,

6 A lively image of a true pastour.

19 Serving the Lord with all humility of mind, and with many tears, and temptations which befell me by the lying in wait of the Jews:

20 And how I kept back [d] nothing that was profitable unto you, but have shewed you, and have taught you publickly, and from house to house, d I refrained not to speak, neither dissembled in any respect whatsoever, either for fear or lucres sake.

21 Testifying both to the Jews, and also to the Greeks, repentance toward God, and faith toward our Lord Jesus Christ.

7 He testifieth that he goeth to his bonds by the commandment of God.

22 And now behold, I go [e] bound in the spirit unto Jerusalem, not knowing the things that shall befall me there:

e He calleth that motion of the holy Ghost, which inforced him to take his journy to Jerusalem, the bond of the spirit, whom he followed with all his heart.

23 Save that the holy Ghost witnesseth in every city, saying, that bonds and afflictions ‡ abide me.

24 But none of these things move me, neither count I my life dear unto my self; so that I might finish my course with joy, and the ministry, which I have received of the Lord Jesus, to testify the gospel of the grace of God.

25 And now behold, I know that ye all, among whom I have gone preaching the kingdom of God, shall see my face no more.

26 Wherefore I take you to record this day, that I am [f] pure from the bloud of all men.

f If you do perish, yet there shall be no fault in me, Look, chap. 18. 6.

27 [8] For I have not shunned to declare unto you all the counsel of God.

8 The doctrin of the apostles is most perfect and absolute.

28 ¶ Take heed therefore unto your selves, and to all the flock, over the which the holy Ghost hath made you overseers, to [g] feed the church of God, which he hath [h] purchased with his [i] own bloud.

g To keep it, to feed and govern it.

h A notable sentence for Christs God-head: which sheweth plainly in his person, how that by reason of the joyning together of the two natures in his own person, that which is proper to one is spoken of the other, being taken in the derivative, and not in the primitive: which in old time the godly fathers termed, a communicating or fellowship of proprieties, that is to say, a making common of that to two which belongeth but to one.

i This word, own, sheweth the excellency of this bloud.

29 [9] For I know this, that after my departing shall grievous wolves enter in among you, not sparing the flock.

9 A prophecy of pastours that should straightway degenerate into wolves, against such as boast and brag onely of a succession of persons.

30 Also of your own selves shall men arise, speaking perverse things, to [k] draw away disciples after them.

k This is great misery, to want the presence of such a shepherd, but greater to have wolves enter in.

31 Therefore watch, and remember that by the space of three years, I ceased not to warn every one night and day with tears.

32 [10] And now brethren, I commend you to God, and to the word of his grace, which is able to build you up, and to give you an [l] inheritance among all them which are sanctified.

10 The power of God, and his free promises revealed in his word, are the props and upholders of the ministry of the gospel.

l As children, and therefore of free-love and good

33 [11] I have coveted no mans silver, or gold, or apparel.

34 Yea, you your selves know, * that these hands have ministred unto my necessities, and to them that were with me.

35 I have shewed you all things, how that so labouring, ye ought to [m] support the weak; and to remember the words of the Lord Jesus, how he said, It is more blessed to give then to receive.

36 ¶ And when he had thus spoken, he kneeled down, and prayed with them all.

37 [12] And they all wept sore, and fell on Pauls neck, and kissed him, 38 Sorrowing most of all for the words which he spake, that they should see his face no more. And they accompanied him unto the ship.

CHAP. XXI.

Paul will not by any means be disswaded from going to Jerusalem. 9 Philips daughters, prophetesses. 17 Paul cometh to Jerusalem: 27 where he is apprehended, and in great danger, 31 but by the chief captain is rescued, and permitted to speak to the people.

AND [1] it came to pass, that after we were gotten from them, and had lanched, we came with a straight course unto Coos, and the day following unto Rhodes, and from thence unto Patara.

1 Not onely men simply, but even our friends, and such as are endued with the Spirit of God, do sometimes go about to hinder the course of our vocation: but it is our part to go forward without all stopping or staggering, after that we are sure of our calling from God.

2 And finding a ship sailing over unto Phenicia, we went aboard, and set forth.

3 Now when we had discovered Cyprus, we left it on the left hand, and sailed into Syria, and landed at Tyre: for there the ship was to unlade her burden.

4 And finding disciples, we tarried there seven days: who said to Paul through the [a] Spirit, that he should not go up to Jerusalem.

a They foretold through the Spirit what dangers hanged over Pauls head: and this they did as prophets: but of a fleshly affection they prayed him not to go to Jerusalem.

5 And when we had accomplished those days, we departed, and went our way, and they all brought us on our way, with wives and children, till we were out of the city: and we kneeled down on the shore, and prayed.

6 And when we had taken our leave one of another, we took ship; and they returned home again.

7 And when we had finished our course from Tyre, we came to Ptolomais, and saluted the the brethren, and abode with them one day.

8 And the next day we that were of Pauls company departed, and came unto Ceſarea; and we entred into the houſe of Philip the evangeliſt, (* which was one of the [b] ſeven) and abode with him.

* Chap. 6. 5.
b He ſpeaketh of the ſeven deacons which he mentioned before Chap. 6.

9 And the ſame man had four daughters, virgins, which did [c] propheſy.

c They had a peculiar gift of foretelling things to come.

10 And as we tarried there many days, there came down from Judea a certain prophet, named Agabus.

11 And when he was come unto us, he took Pauls girdle, and bound his own hands and feet, and ſaid, Thus ſaith the holy Ghoſt, So ſhall the Jews at Jeruſalem bind the man that oweth this girdle, and ſhall deliver him into the hands of the Gentiles.

12 And when we heard theſe things, both we and they of that place, beſought him not to go up to Jeruſalem.

13 Then Paul anſwered, What mean ye to weep, and to break mine heart? for I am ready not to be bound onely, but alſo to die at Jeruſalem for the name of the Lord Jeſus.

2 The will of God bridleth all affections in them which earneſtly ſeek the glory of God.

14 [2] And when he would not be perſwaded, we ceaſed, ſaying, The will of the Lord be done.

15 And after thoſe days we took up our carriages, and went up to Jeruſalem.

16 There went with us alſo certain of the diſciples of Ceſarea, and brought with them one Mnaſon of Cyprus, an old diſciple, with whom we ſhould lodge.

17 And when we were come to Jeruſalem, the brethren received us gladly.

18 And the day following Paul went in with us unto James; and all the elders were preſent.

3 God is to be praiſed, who is the author of all good ſayings and deeds.

19 [3] And when he had ſaluted them, he declared particularly what things God had wrought among the Gentiles by his miniſtry.

4 In things indifferent (of which ſort were not the traditions of the Phariſees, but the ceremonies of the law, until ſuch time as Chriſtian liberty was more fully revealed to the Jews) charity willeth us to conform or apply our ſelves willingly, ſo far as we may to our brethren which do not ſtubbornly and maliciouſly reſiſt the truth, but are not throughly inſtructed eſpecially if the queſtion be of a whole multitude.

20 [4] And when they heard it, they glorified the Lord, and ſaid unto him, Thou ſeeſt, brother, how many thouſands of Jews there are which believe, and they are all zealous of the law.

21 And they are informed of thee that thou teacheſt all the Jews which are among the Gentiles to forſake Moſes, ſaying, that they ought not to circumciſe their children, neither to walk after the cuſtoms.

22 What is it therefore? the multitude muſt needs come together: for they will hear that thou art come.

23 Do therefore this that we ſay to thee: we have four men which have a vow on them;

d That is, conſecrate thy ſelf, for he ſpeaketh not here of the unclean, but of ſuch as be ſubject to the vow of the Nazarites.
e That it may be known, that thou waſt not onely preſent at the vow, but alſo a chief man in it: and therefore it is ſaid afterwards, that Paul declared the days of purification: for although the charges for the Nazarites offerings were appointed, yet they might add ſomewhat unto them. * Num. 6. 13. Chap. 18. 18.

24 Them take, and [d] purify thy ſelf with them, and be at [e] charges with them, that they may * ſhave their heads: and all may know that thoſe things whereof they were informed concerning thee, are nothing, but that thou thy ſelf alſo walkeſt orderly, and keepeſt the law.

25 As touching the Gentiles which believe, * we have written and concluded, that they obſerve no ſuch thing, ſave onely that they keep themſelves from things offered to idols, and from bloud, and from ſtrangled, and from fornication.

* Chap. 15. 20.

26 Then Paul took the men, and the next day purifying himſelf with them, entred into the temple, * to [f] ſignify the accompliſhment of the days of purification, until that an offering ſhould be offered for every one of them.

* Num. 6. 13.
f The prieſts were to be advertiſed of the accompliſhment of the days of the purification becauſe there were ſacrifices to be offered the ſame day that their vow was ended.

27 [5] And when the ſeven days were almoſt ended, the Jews which were of Aſia, when they ſaw him in the temple, ſtirred up all the people, and laid hands on him,

5 A prepoſterous zeal is the cauſe of great confuſion and great miſchiefs.

28 Crying out, Men of Iſrael, help: this is the man that teacheth all men every where againſt the people, and the law, and this place: and farther, brought Greeks alſo into the temple, and hath polluted this holy place.

29 (For they had ſeen before with him in the city, Trophimus an Epheſian, whom they ſuppoſed that Paul had brought into the temple)

30 And all the city was moved, and the people ran together: and they took Paul, and drew him out of the temple: and forthwith the doors were ſhut.

31 [6] And as they went about to kill him, tidings came unto the chief captain of the band, that all Jeruſalem was in an uprore.

6 God findeth ſome, even amongſt the wicked, and profane themſelves, to hinder the endeavours of the reſt.

32 Who immediately took ſouldiers, and centurions, and ran down unto them: and when they ſaw the chief captain and the ſouldiers, they left beating of Paul.

33 Then the chief captain came near and took him, and commanded him to be bound with two chains; and demanded who he was, and what he had done.

34 And ſome cried one thing, ſome another, among the multitude; and when he could not know the certainty for the tumult, he commanded him to be carried into the caſtle.

35 And when he came upon the ſtairs, ſo it was that he was born of the ſouldiers, for the violence of the people.

36 For the multitude of the people followed after, crying, A way with him.

37 And as Paul was to be led into the caſtle, he ſaid unto the chief captain, May I ſpeak unto thee? Who ſaid, Canſt thou ſpeak Greek?

38 * Art not thou that [g] Egyptian which before theſe days madeſt an uprore, and leddeſt out into the wilderneſs four thouſand men that were murderers?

* Chap. 5. 36.
g Touching this Egyptian which aſſembled thirty thouſand men, read Joſephus lib. 2 chap. 12.

39 But Paul ſaid, I am a man which am a Jew of Tarſus, a city in Cilicia, a citizen of no mean city: and I beſeech thee, ſuffer me to ſpeak unto the people.

40 And when he had given him licence, Paul ſtood on the ſtairs, and beckned with the hand unto the people; and when there was made a great ſilence, he ſpake unto them in the Hebrew tongue, ſaying,

CHAP. XXII.

1 Paul declareth at large, how he was converted to the faith, 17 and called to his apoſtleſhip. 22 At the very mentioning of the Gentiles, the people exclaim on him. 24 He ſhould have been ſcourged; 25 but claiming the priviledge of a Roman he eſcapeth.

MEn, brethren, and fathers, hear ye my defence, which I make now unto you.

2 (And when they heard that he ſpake in the Hebrew tongue to them, they kept the more ſilence: and he ſaith)

3 * [1] I am verily a man which am a Jew, born in Tarſus a city in Cilicia, yet brought up in this city, at the [a] feet of Gamaliel, and taught according to the perfect manner of the law of the fathers, and was zealous towards God, as ye all are this day.

4 * And I perſecuted this way unto the death, binding and delivering into priſons both men and women.

5 As alſo the high prieſt doth bear me witneſs, and all the eſtate of the elders: from whom alſo I received letters unto the brethren, and went to Damaſcus, to bring them which were there, bound unto Jeruſalem, for to be puniſhed.

6 And it came to paſs, that as I made my journy, and was come nigh unto Damaſcus about noon, ſuddenly there ſhone from heaven a great light round about me.

7 And I fell unto the ground, and heard a voice ſaying unto me, Saul, Saul, why perſecuteſt thou me?

8 And I anſwered, Who art thou Lord? And he ſayd unto me, I am Jeſus of Nazareth whom thou perſecuteſt.

9 And they that were with me, ſaw indeed the light, and were afraid; but they heard not the voice of him that ſpake to me.

10 And I ſaid, What ſhall I do, Lord? And the Lord ſaid unto me, Ariſe, and go into Damaſcus, and there it ſhall be told thee of all things which are appointed for thee to do.

11 And when I could not ſee for the glory of that light, being led by the hand of them that were with me, I came into Damaſcus.

12 And one Ananias, a devout man according to the law, having a good report of all the Jews which dwelt there, 13 Came unto me, and ſtood, and ſaid unto me, Brother Saul, receive thy ſight. And the ſame hour I looked up upon him.

14 And he ſaid, The God of our fathers hath choſen thee, that thou ſhouldeſt know his will, and ſee that Juſt One, and ſhouldeſt hear the voice of his mouth.

15 For thou ſhalt be his witneſs unto all men, of what thou haſt ſeen and heard.

16 And now why tarrieſt thou? ariſe, and be baptized, and waſh away thy ſins, calling on the name of the Lord.

17 And it came to paſs, that when I was come again to Jeruſalem, even while I prayed in the temple, I was in a trance;

18 And ſaw him ſaying unto me, Make haſte, and get thee quickly out of Jeruſalem: for they will not receive thy teſtimony concerning me.

19 And I ſaid, Lord, they know that I impriſoned, and beat in every ſynagogue them that believed on thee.

20 * And when the bloud of thy martyr Stephen was ſhed, I alſo was ſtanding by, and conſenting unto his death, and kept the raiment of them that [b] ſlew him.

21 And he ſaid unto me, Depart: for I will ſend thee far hence unto the Gentiles.

22 [2] And they gave him audience unto this word, and then lift up their voices, and ſaid, Away with ſuch a fellow from the earth: for it is not fit that he ſhould live.

23 And as they [c] cried out, and caſt off their clothes, and threw duſt into the air.

24 [3] The chief captain commanded him to be brought into the caſtle, and bade that he ſhould be examined by ſcourging: that he might know wherefore they cried ſo againſt him.

25 [4] And as they bound him with thongs, Paul ſaid unto the centurion that ſtood by, Is it lawfull for you to ſcourge a man that is a Roman, and uncondemned?

26 When the centurion heard that, he went and told the chief captain, ſaying, Take heed what thou doſt; for this man is a Roman.

27 Then the chief captain came, and ſaid unto him, Tell me, art thou a Roman? He ſaid, Yea.

28 And the chief captain anſwered, With a great ſum obtained I this freedom. And Paul ſaid, But I was free-born.

29 Then ſtraightway they departed from him which ſhould have ‡ examined him: and the chief captain alſo was afraid after he knew that he was a [d] Roman, and becauſe he had bound him.

30 On the morrow, becauſe he would have known the certainty wherefore he was accuſed of the Jews, he looſed him from his bands, and commanded the chief prieſts and all their councel to appear, and brought Paul down, and ſet him before them.

AND [1] Paul earneſtly beholding the councel, ſaid, Men and brethren, I have lived in all good conſcience before God, until this day.

2 [2] And the high prieſt Ananias commanded them that ſtood by him, to ſmite him on the mouth.

3 [3] Then ſaid Paul unto him, God [a] ſhall ſmite thee, [b] thou whited wall: for ſitteſt thou to judge me after the law, and commandeſt me to be ſmitten [c] contrary to the law?

4 And they that ſtood by, ſaid, Revileſt thou Gods high prieſt?

b This is properly ſpoken: for Steven was murdered of a ſort of cut-throats, not by order of juſtice, but by open force: for at that time the Jews could not put any man to death by law.

3 It is lawful for us to complain of injuries, and to ſummon the wicked to the judgment-ſeat of God, ſo that we do it without hatred, and with a quiet and peaceable mind. a It appeareth plainly by the Greek phraſe that Paul did not curſe the high prieſt, but onely pronounce the puniſhment of God againſt him. b This is a vehement and ſharp ſpeech, but yet not reproachful: For the godly may ſpeak roundly and yet be void of the bitter affection of a ſharp and angry mind. c For the law commandeth the judge to hear the perſon that is accuſed patiently, and to pronounce the ſentence advisedly. 4 We muſt willingly and from the heart give honour to magiſtrates, although they be tyrants.

7 [6] And when he had ſo ſaid, there aroſe a diſſenſion between the Phariſees and the Saducees, and the multitude was divided.

6 The concord of the wicked is weak, although they conſpire together to oppreſs the truth.

8 * [7] For the Saducees ſay that there is no reſurrection, neither [d] angel nor ſpirit: but the Phariſees confeſſe both.

8 The Lord when it pleaſeth him, findeth defenders of his cauſe, even among his enemies.

e The Scribes office was a publick office, and the name of the Phariſees, was the name of a ſect.

10 [9] And when there aroſe a great diſſenſion, the chief captain fearing leſt Paul ſhould have been pulled in pieces of them, commanded the ſouldiers to go down, and to take him by force from among them, and to bring him into the caſtle.

9 God will not forſake his to the end.

11 And the night following, the Lord ſtood by him, and ſaid, Be of good cheer, Paul: for as thou haſt teſtified of me in Jeruſalem, ſo muſt thou bear witneſs alſo at Rome.

12 [10] And when it was day, certain of the Jews banded together, and bound themſelves ‡ [f] under a curſe, ſaying, that they would neither eat nor drink till they had killed Paul.

10 Such as are carried away with a fooliſh zeal, think that they may lie, and murder, and do whatſoever miſchief they liſt.

‡ Or, with an oath of execration.

f They curſing and banning themſelves promiſed.

13 And they were more then fourty which had made this conſpiracy,

14 And they came to the chief prieſts and elders, and ſaid, We have bound our ſelves under a great curſe, that we will eat nothing until we have ſlain Paul.

15 Now therefore ye with the [g] councel, ſignify to the chief captain, that he bring him down unto you to morrow, as though ye would enquire ſomething more perfectly concerning him: and we, or ever he come near, are ready to kill him.

g Ye and the Senate requiring the ſame to be done, leſt that the Tribune ſhould think that it was demanded of him at ſome private mans ſuit.

16 And when Pauls ſiſters ſon heard of their lying in wait, he went and entred into the caſtle, and told Paul.

17 [11] Then Paul called one of the centurions unto him, and ſaid, Bring this young man unto the chief captain: for he hath a certain thing to tell him.

11 The wiſdom of the Spirit muſt be joyned with ſimplicity.

18 So he took him, and brought him to the chief captain, and ſaid, Paul the Priſoner called me unto him, and prayed me to bring this young man unto thee, who hath ſomething to ſay unto thee.

19 Then the chief captain took him by the hand, and went with him aſide privately, and asked him, What is that thou haſt to tell me?

20 And he ſaid, The Jews have agreed to deſire thee, that thou wouldeſt bring down Paul to morrow into the councel, as though they would enquire ſomewhat of him more perfectly.

21 But do not thou yeild unto them: for there lie in wait for him of them mo then fourty men, which have bound themſelves with an oath, that they will neither eat nor drink till they have killed him: and now are they ready, looking for a promiſe from thee,

22 [12] So the chief captain then let the young man depart, and charged him, See thou tell no man, that thou haſt ſhewed theſe things to me.

12 There is no councel againſt the Lord and his ſervants.

23 And he called unto him two centurions: ſaying, Make ready two hundred ſouldiers to go to Ceſarea, and horſ-men threeſcore and ten, and ſpear-men two hundred, at the third hour of the night.

24 And provide them beaſts, that they may ſet Paul on, and bring him ſafe unto Felix the governour.

25 And he wrote a letter after this manner:

26 [13] Claudius Lyſias, unto the moſt excellent governour Felix, ſendeth greeting.

13 Lyſias is ſuddenly made by the Lord, Pauls patron.

27 This man was taken of the Jews, and ſhould have been killed of them: then came I with an army, and reſcued him, having underſtood that he was a Roman.

28 And when I would have known the cauſe wherefore they accuſed him, I brought him forth into their councel:

29 Whom I perceived to be accuſed of queſtions of their law, but to have nothing laid to his charge worthy of death or of bonds.

30 And when it was told me, how that the Jews laid wait for the man, I ſent ſtraightway to thee, and gave commandment to his accuſers alſo, to ſay before thee what they had againſt him. Farewell.

31 Then the ſouldiers, as it was commanded them, took Paul and brought him by night to Antipatris.

32 On the morrow they left the horſ-men to go with him, and returned to the caſtle.

33 Who when they came to Ceſarea and delivered the epiſtle to the governour, preſented Paul alſo before him.

34 And when the governour had read the letter, he asked of what province he was. And when he underſtood that he was of Cilicia:

35 I will hear thee, ſaid he, when thine accuſers are alſo come. And he commanded him to be kept in Herods judgment-hall.

CHAP. XXIIII.

1 Paul being accuſed by Tertullus the oratour, 10 anſwereth for his life and doctrine. 24 He preacheth Chriſt to the governour and his wife. 26 The governour hopeth for a bribe, but in vain. 27 At laſt going out of his office, he leaveth Paul in Priſon.

AND [1] after five days, Ananias the high prieſt deſcended with the elders, and with a certain oratour named Tertullus, who enformed the governour againſt Paul.

1 Hypocrites, when they cannot do what they would do by force and deceit, at length they go about to compaſs it by a ſhew of law.

2 And when he was called forth, Tertullus began to accuſe him, ſaying, Seeing that [a] by a Felix ruled that province with, great cruelty and covetouſneſs, and yet Joſephus recordeth that he did many worthy things, as that he took Eleazar the captain of certain cut-throats, and put that deceiving wretch the Egyptian to flight, which cauſed great troubles in Judea.

128

thee we enjoy great quietness, and that very [b] worthy deeds are done unto this nation by thy providence,

3 Wee accept it always, and in all places, most noble Felix, with all thankfulness.

4 Notwithstanding, that I be not further tedious unto thee, I pray thee, that thou wouldest hear us of thy clemency a few words.

5 For we have found this man a [c] pestilent fellow, and a mover of sedition among all the Jews throughout the world, and a [d] ringleader of the sect of the [e] Nazarenes,

6 Who also hath gone about to profane the temple: whom we took, and would have judged according to our law.

7 But the chief captain Lysias came upon us, and with great violence took him away out of our hands.

8 Commanding his accusers to come unto thee: by examining of whom, thy self mayest take knowledge of all these things, whereof we accuse him.

9 And the Jews also [f] assented, saying, that these things were so.

10 [z] Then Paul, after that the governour had beckned unto him to speak, answered, Forasmuch as I know that thou hast been of [g] many years a judge unto this nation, I do the more cheerfully answer for my self:

11 Because that thou mayest understand, that there are yet but twelve days since I went up to Jerusalem for to worship,

12 And they neither found me in the temple disputing with any man, neither raising up the people, neither in the synagogues, nor in the city:

13 Neither can they [h] prove the things whereof they now accuse me.

14 [3] But this I confess unto thee, that after the way which they call [i] heresy, so worship I the God of my fathers, believing all things which are written in the law and the prophets:

15 And have hope towards God, which they themselves also allow, that there shall be a resurrection of the dead, both of the just and unjust.

16 And herein do I exercise my self to have always a conscience void of offence toward God, and toward men.

17 [4] Now after many years, I came to bring alms to my nation, and offerings.

18 * [k] Whereupon certain Jews from [l] Asia found me purified in the temple, neither with multitude, nor with tumult.

19 Who ought to have been here before thee, and object, if they had ought against me.

20 Or else let these same here say, if they have found any evil-doing in me, while I stood before the [m] councel, 21 Except it be for this one voice, that I cried standing among them, * Touching the resurrection of the dead, I am called in question by you this day.

22 [5] And when Felix heard these things, having more perfect knowledge of that way, he deferred them, and said, when Lysias the chief captain shall come down, I will know the [n] uttermost of your matter.

23 [6] And he commanded a centurion to keep Paul, and to let him have liberty, and that he should forbid none of his acquaintance to minister, or come unto him.

24 And after certain days, when Felix came with his wife [o] Drusilla, which was a Jewess, he sent for Paul, and heard him concerning the faith in Christ.

25 And as he reasoned of righteousness, temperance, and judgment to come, Felix trembled, and answered, Go thy way for this time; when I have a convenient season, I will call for thee.

26 He hoped also that money should have been given him of Paul, that he might loose him: wherefore he sent for him the oftner, and communed with him.

27 [7] But after two years, Porcius Festus came into Felix room: and Felix willing to shew the Jews a [p] pleasure, left Paul bound.

this Felix the brother of one Pallas, who was sometime Nero's bondman. 7 Ia naughty mind, that is, guilty to it self, although sometime there be some shew of equity, yet by and by it will be extinguished: but in the mean season we have need of patience, and that continually. p For whereas he had behaved himself very wickedly in the province, had it not beene for favour of his brother Pallas, he should have died for it: so that we may gather hereby, why he would have pleasured the Iews.

CHAP. XXV.

1 The Iews accuse Paul before Festus. 8 He answereth for himself, 11 and appealeth unto Cesar. 14 Afterward Festus openeth his matter to king Agrippa, 23 and he is brought forth. 25 Festus cleareth him to have done nothing worthy of death.

NOw [1] when Festus was come into the province, after three days he ascended from Cesarea to Jerusalem.

2 Then the high priest, and the chief of the Jews enformed him against Paul, and besought him,

3 And desired favour against him, that he would send for him to Jerusalem, laying wait in the way to kill him.

4 But Festus answered, that Paul should be kept at Cesarea, and that he himself would depart shortly thither.

5 Let them therefore, said he, which among you are able, go down with me, and accuse this man, if there be any wickedness in him.

6 [2] And when he had tarried among them ‡ more then ten days, he went down unto Cesarea, and the next day sitting in the judgment-seat, commanded Paul to be brought.

7 And when he was come, the Jews which came down from Jerusalem, stood round about, and laid many and grievous complaints against Paul, which they could [a] not prove;

8 ¶ While he answered for himself, Neither against the law of the Jews, neither against the temple, nor yet against Cesar, have I offended any thing at all.

9 [3] But Festus willing to do the Jews a pleasure, answered Paul, and said, Wilt thou go up to Jerusalem, and there be judged of these things before me?

10 Then

f Confirmed Tertullus's saying

z Tertullus by the devils rhetorick beginning with flattery, maketh an end with lyes, but Paul using heavenly eloquence, and but a simple beginning, casteth off from himself the crime of sedition, wherewith he was burdned, with a simple denial.

3 Paul goeth in the case of religion, from a state of conjecture to a state of quality, not onely not denying that religion which was objected against him, but also proving it to be true, to be heavenly and from God, and to be the oldest of all religions.
i Here this word Heresy, or Sect, is taken in good part.
4 Paul in conclusion telleth the thing which was done truly, which Tertullus had before divers ways corrupted.

* Chap. 23. 6.

5 The judge suspendeth his sentence, because the matter is doubtful.
n Felix could not judge whether he had done wickedly in the matters of his religion or no, until he had better understanding of that way which Paul professed: and as for other matters, touching the sedition, he thinketh good to defer it till he hear Lysias, and therefore he gave Paul somewhat more liberty.
6 God is a most faithfull keeper of his servants, and the force of the truth is wonderfull, even amongst men which are otherwise profane.
o This Drusilla was Agrippa's sister of whom Luke speaketh afterward, a very harlot and licentious woman, and being the wife of Azizus King of the Emesens, who was circumcised, departed from him, and went to a They could not prove them certainly, and with undoubted reasons.

6 God doth not onely turn away the counsel of the wicked, but also turneth it upon their own heads.

10 Then said Paul, I stand at Cesars judgment-seat, where I ought to be judged: to the Jews have I done no wrong, as thou very well knowest.

11 For if I be an offender, or have committed any thing worthy of death, I refuse not to die: but if there be none of these things whereof these accuse me, no man may deliver me unto them. I appeal unto Cesar.

12 Then Festus when he had conferred with the counsel, answered, Hast thou appealed unto Cesar? unto Cesar shalt thou go.

13 [4] And after certain days, king [b] Agrippa and Bernice came unto Cesarea to salute Festus.

14 And when they had been there many days, Festus declared Pauls cause unto the king, saying, There is a certain man left in bonds by Felix:

15 About whom, when I was at Jerusalem, the chief priests and the elders of the Jews informed me, desiring to have judgment against him.

16 To whom I answered, It is not the manner of the Romans to [c] deliver any man to die, before that he which is accused, have the accusers face to face, and have licence to answer for himself concerning the crime laid against him.

17 Therefore when they were come hither, without any delay on the morrow I sat on the judgment-seat, and I commanded the man to be brought forth.

18 Against whom when the accusers stood up, they brought none accusation of such things as I supposed:

19 [5] But had certain questions against him of their own [d] superstition, and of one Jesus, which was dead, whom Paul affirmed to be alive.

20 And because ‡ I doubted of such manner of questions, I asked him whether he would go to Jerusalem, and there be judged of these matters.

21 But when Paul had appealed to be reserved unto the ‡ hearing of Augustus, I commanded him to be kept till I might send him to Cesar.

22 [6] Then Agrippa said unto Festus, I would also hear the man my self. To morrow, said he, thou shalt hear him.

23 And on the morrow when Agrippa was come, and Bernice, with great [e] pomp, and was entred into the place of hearing, with the chief captains, and principal men of the city, at Festus commandment Paul was brought forth.

24 And Festus said, King Agrippa, and all men which are here present with us, ye see this man, about whom all the multitude of the Jews have dealt with me, both at Jerusalem, and also here, crying that he ought not to live any longer.

25 But when I found that he had committed nothing worthy of death, and that he himself hath appealed to Augustus, I have determined to send him.

26 Of whom I have no certain thing to write unto my [f] lord. Wherefore I have brought him forth before you, and specially before thee, O king Agrippa, that after examination had, I might have somewhat to write.

27 For it seemeth to me unreasonable to send a prisoner, and not withal to signify the crimes laid against him.

Chap. XXVI.

1 Paul in the presence of Agrippa, declareth his life from his childhood, 12 and how miraculously he was converted, and called to his apostleship. 24 Festus chargeth him to be mad, whereunto he answereth modestly. 28 Agrippa is almost perswaded to be a Christian. 31 The whole company pronounce him innocent.

THen Agrippa said unto Paul, Thou art permitted to speak for thy self. Then Paul stretched forth the hand, and answered for himself,

2 [1] I think my self happy, king Agrippa, because I shall answer for my self this day before thee, touching all the things whereof I am accused of the Jews:

3 Especially, because I know thee to be expert in all customs and questions which are among the Jews: wherefore I beseech thee to hear me patiently.

4 [2] My manner of life from my youth, which was at the first among mine own nation at Jerusalem, know all the Jews.

5 Which [a] knew me from the [b] beginning, (if they would testify) that after the [c] most straitest sect of our religion, I lived a Pharisee.

6 [3] And now I stand, and am judged for the hope of the promise made of God unto our fathers;

7 Unto which promise our twelve tribes instantly serving God day and night, hope to come: for which hopes sake, king Agrippa, I am accused of the Jews.

8 [4] Why should it be thought a thing incredible with you, that God should raise the dead?

9 I verily thought with my self, that I ought to do many things contrary to the name of Jesus of Nazareth.

10 * Which thing I also did in Jerusalem, and many of the saints did I shut up in prison, having received authority from the chief priests, and when they were put to death I gave my [d] voice against them.

17 Delivering thee from the people, and from the Gentiles, unto whom now I ſend thee, nd of the gospel is to ſave them which are brought to the knowledge of Chriſt, and are juſtified and ſanctified in him, being laid hold on by faith.

18 [5] To open their eyes, and to turn them from darkneſs to light, and from the power of Satan unto God, that they may receive forgiveneſs of ſins, and inheritance among them which are ſanctified by faith that is in me.

6 Paul alledgeth God to be authour of the office of his apoſtleſhip, and his grace, as a witneſs.

19 [6] Whereupon, O king Agrippa, I was not diſobedient unto the heavenly viſion:

20 But ſhewed firſt unto them of Damaſcus, and at Jeruſalem, and throughout all the coaſts of Judea, and then to the Gentiles, that they ſhould repent and turn to God, and do works meet for repentance.

21 For theſe cauſes the Jews caught me in the temple, and went about to kill me.

7 Chriſt is the end of the law and the prophets.

22 [7] Having therefore obtained help of God, I continue unto this day, witneſſing both to [f] ſmal and great, ſaying none other things then thoſe which the prophets and Moſes did ſay ſhould come:

f To every one.

g That Chriſt ſhould not be ſuch a king as the Jews dreamed of, but one appointed to bear our miſeries, and the puniſhment of our ſins.

23 That Chriſt ſhould [g] ſuffer, and that he ſhould be the [h] firſt that ſhould riſe from the dead, and ſhould ſhew [i] light unto the people, and to the Gentiles.

h The firſt of them, which are raiſed from the dead.

i Life, yea and that a moſt bleſſed life, which ſhall be endleſs: and this is ſet againſt darkneſs, which almoſt in all tongues ſignifieth, ſometimes death, and ſometimes miſery and calamity.

24 [k] And as he thus ſpake for himſelf, Feſtus ſaith with a loud voice, Paul thou art beſide thy ſelf: much learning doth make thee mad.

k 1 The wiſedom of God is madneſs to fools, yet notwithſtanding we muſt boldly avouch the truth.

25 But he ſaid, [l] I am not mad, moſt noble Feſtus; but ſpeak forth the words of truth and ſoberneſs.

m Secretly and ſtrivily.

26 For the king knoweth of theſe things, before whom alſo I ſpeak freely: for I am perſwaded that none of theſe things are hidden from him: for this thing was not done in a [m] corner.

9 Paul as it were forgetting himſelf that he ſtood a priſoner to defend his cauſe, forgetteth not the office of his apoſtleſhip.

27 [9] King Agrippa, believeſt thou the prophets? I know that thou believeſt.

28 Then Agrippa ſaid unto Paul, Almoſt thou perſwadeſt me to be a Chriſtian.

n I would to God that not onely almoſt, but throughly and altogether both thou and all that hear me this day, might be made as I am, my bonds onely excepted.

29 And Paul ſaid, I [n] would to God, that not onely thou, but alſo all that hear me this day, were both almoſt, and altogether ſuch as I am, except theſe bonds.

10 Paul is ſolemnly quit, and yet not diſmiſſed.

30 [10] And when he had thus ſpoken, the king roſe up, and the governour, and Bernice, and they that ſat with them.

31 And when they were gone aſide, they talked between themſelves, ſaying, This man doth nothing worthy of death, or of bonds.

32 Then ſaid Agrippa unto Feſtus, This man might have been ſet at liberty, if he had not appealed unto Ceſar.

CHAP. XXVII.

1 Paul ſhipping toward Rome. 10 forſeeth of the danger of the voyage, 11 but is not believed. 14 They are toſſed to and fro with tempeſt, 41 and ſuffer ſhipwrack; 22, 34, 44 yet all come ſafe to land.

1 Paul with many other priſoners, and through the midſt of many deaths, is brought to Rome, but yet by Gods own hand as it were, and ſet forth and commended unto the world with many ſingular teſtimonies.

AND [1] when it was determined that we ſhould ſail into Italy, they delivered Paul and certain other priſoners, unto one named Julius, a centurion of Auguſtus band.

2 And entring into a ſhip of Adramyttium, we lanched, meaning to ſail by the coaſts of Aſia, one Ariſtarchus a Macedonian, of Theſſalonica, being with us.

3 And the next day we touched at Sidon. And Julius courteouſly entreated Paul, and gave him liberty to go unto his friends to refreſh himſelf.

4 And when we had lanched from thence, we ſailed under Cyprus, becauſe the winds were contrary.

5 And when we had ſailed over the ſea of Cilicia and Pamphylia, we came to Myra a city of Lycia.

6 And there the centurion found a ſhip of Alexandria ſailing into Italy: and he put us therein.

7 And when we had ſailed ſlowly many days, and ſcarce were come over againſt Cnidus, the wind not ſuffering us, we ſailed under ‡ Crete, over againſt [a] Salmone:

‡ Or, Candy.

a which was an high hill of Crete.

8 And hardly paſſing it, came unto a place which is called, The fair havens, nigh whereunto was the city of Laſea.

2 Gods providence taketh not away the cauſes which God uſeth as meanes, but rather ordereth and diſpoſeth their right uſe, even then when he openeth an extraordinary iſſue.

9 [2] Now when much time was ſpent, and when ſailing was now dangerous, becauſe the [b] faſt was now already paſt, Paul admoniſhed them,

b This is meant of the Iewes faſt which they kept in the feaſt of expiation, as we read, Levit. 23. 27. which fell in the ſeventh moneth, which we call October, and is not good for navigation or ſailing.

10 And ſaid unto them, Sirs, I perceive that this voyage will be with ‡ hurt and much damage, not onely of the lading and ſhip, but alſo of our lives.

‡ Or, injury.

11 [3] Nevertheleſs, the centurion believed the maſter and the owner of the ſhip more then thoſe things which were ſpoken by Paul.

3 Men caſt themſelves willingly into an infinite ſort of dangers, when they chuſe to follow their own wiſedom rather then God, ſpeaking by the mouth of his ſervants.

12 And becauſe the haven was not commodious to winter in, the more part adviſed to depart thence alſo, if by any means they might attain to Phenice, and there to winter; which is an haven of Crete, and lieth toward the ſouth-weſt, and north-weſt.

13 And when the ſouth-wind blew ſoftly, ſuppoſing that they had obtained their purpoſe, loſing thence they ſailed cloſe by Crete.

‡ Or, beat.

14 But not long after there ‡ aroſe againſt [c] it a tempeſtuous wind, called [d] Euroclydon.

c By Crete, from whoſe ſhore our ſhip was driven by that meanes.

d North-eaſt.

15 And when the ſhip was caught, and could not bear up into the wind, we let her drive

16 And running under a certain iſland which is called Clauda, we had much work to come by the boat:

17 Which when they had taken up, they uſed used helps, undergirding the ship; and fearing lest they should fall into the quicksands, strake sail, and so were driven.

4 The end proveth that none provide worse for themselves, then they which commit themselves to be governed onely by their own wisedom.

18 [4] And we being excedingly tossed with a tempest, the next day they lightned the ship;

19 And the third day we cast out with our own hands the tackling of the ship.

20 And when neither sun nor stars in many days appeared, and no small tempest lay on us, all hope that we should be saved was then taken away.

5 God spareth the wicked for a time, for his elect and chosens sake.

21 [5] But after long abstinence, Paul stood forth in the midst of them, and said, Sirs, ye should have hearkned unto me, and not have loosed from Crete, and to have gained this harm and loss.

22 And now I exhort you to be of good cheer: for there shall be no loss of any mans life among you, but of the ship.

23 For there stood by me this night the angel of God whose I am, and whom I serve,

24 Saying, Fear not Paul; thou must be brought before Cesar: and lo, God hath given thee all them that sail with thee.

6 The promise is made effectual through faith.

25 [6] Wherefore sirs, be of good cheer: for I believe God, that it shall be even as it was told me.

26 Howbeit we must be cast upon a certain island.

7 We attain and come to the promised and sure salvation through the midst of tempests, and death it self.

27 [7] But when the fourteenth night was come, as we were driven up and down in [c] Adria about midnight, the shipmen deemed that they [f] drew near to some country:

c For Ptolemy writeth, that the Adriatical sea beateth upon the east shoar of Cicilia.

f That some countrey approched unto them.

28 And sounded, and found it twenty fathoms: and when they had gone a little further, they sounded again, and found it fifteen fathoms.

29 Then fearing lest they should have fallen upon rocks, they cast four anchors out of the stern, and wished for the day.

8 There is not so foul an act, whereunto distrust and an evil conscience, do not enforce men.

30 [8] And as the shipmen were about to flee out of the ship, when they had let down the boat into the sea, under colour as though they would have cast an hors out of the foreship,

9 Although the performing of Gods promises doth not simply depend upon second causes, yet they make themselves unworthy of Gods bountifulness, which do not embrace those meanes which God offereth them, either upon rashnesse or distrust.

31 [9] Paul said to the centurion, and to the souldiers, Except these abide in the ship, ye cannot be saved.

32 Then the souldiers cut off the ropes of the boat, and let her fall off.

10 when the world trembleth, the faithful alone be not only quiet, but confirm others by their example.

33 [10] And while the day was coming on, Paul besought them all to take meat, saying, This day is the fourteenth day that ye have tarried, and continued fasting, having taken nothing.

34 Wherefore I pray you to take some meat; for this is for your health: for there shall not an [g] hair fall from the head of any of you.

g This is a proverb which the Hebrews use, whereby is meant, that they shall be safe, and not one of them perish.

35 And when he had thus spoken, he took bread, and gave thanks to God in presence of them all, and when he had broken it, he began to eat.

36 Then were they all of good cheer, and they also took some meat.

37 And we were in all in the ship, two hundred threescore and sixteen souls.

38 And when they had eaten enough, they lightned the ship, and cast out the wheat into the sea.

11 Then are tempests most of all to be feared and looked for, when the port or haven is neareſt.

39 [11] And when it was day, they knew not the land: but they discovered a certain [h] creek with a shore, into the which they were minded, if it were possible, to thrust in the ship.

h A creek is a sea within land, as the Adriatical sea, and the Persian sea.

40 And when they had † taken up the anchors, they committed themselves unto the sea, and loosed the rudder-bands, and hoised up the main sail to the wind, and made toward shore.

i So is Isthmus called, because the sea toucheth it on both sides.

41 And falling into a place where [i] two seas met, they ran the ship aground; and the forepart stuck fast, and remained unmoveable, but the hinder part was broken with the violence of the waves.

12 There is no where more unfaithfulness, and unthankfulness then in unbelievers.

42 [12] And the souldiers counsel was to kill the prisoners, lest any of them should swim out, and escape.

13 God findeth, even amongst his enemies, them whose help he useth to preserve his.

43 [13] But the centurion, willing to save Paul, kept them from their purpose, and commanded that they which could swim, should cast themselves first into the sea, and get to land:

14 The goodness of God overcometh mans malice.

44 [14] And the rest, some on boards, and some on broken pieces of the ship: And so it came to pass they escaped all safe to land.

Chap. XXVIII.

1 Paul after his shipwrack is kindly entertained of the barbarians. 5 The viper on his hand hurteth him not. 8 He healeth many diseases in the island. 11 They depart towards Rome. 17 He declareth to the Iews the cause of his coming. 24 After his preaching some were perswaded, and some believed not. 30 Yet he preacheth there two years.

AND when they were escaped, then they knew that the island was called [a] Melita.

a That is it, which at this day we call Malta.

1 The godly are sure to have danger upon danger, but they have always a glorious issue.

2 And the barbarous people shewed us no little kindness: for they kindled a fire, and received us every one because of the present rain, and because of the cold.

2 Although adversity be the punishment of sin, yet seeing that God in punishing of men doth not always respect sin, they judge rashly, which either do not wait for the end, or do judge and esteem of men, according, to prosperity or adversity.

3 [1] And when Paul had gathered a bundle of sticks, and laid them on the fire, there came a viper out of the heat, and fastened on his hand.

b Right and reason.

4 [2] And when the barbarians saw the venemous beast hang on his hand, they said among themselves, No doubt this man is a murderer, whom though he hath escaped the sea, yet [b] vengeance suffereth not to live.

5 And he shook off the beast into the fire, and felt no harm.

c The Greek word signifieth, To be inflamed, or, To swell: moreover, Dioscorides in his 6 book, chap. 38. witnesseth that the biting of a viper, causeth a swelling of the body: and so saith Nicander, in his remedies against poysons.

6 Howbeit they looked when he should have [c] swollen, or fallen down dead suddenly: [3] but after they had looked a great while, and saw no harm come to him, they changed their minds, and said that he was a God.

3 There is nothing more unconstant every way, then they which are ignorant of true religion.

7 [4] In the same quarters were possessions of the chief man of the island, whose name was Publius, who received us and lodged us three days courteously.

4 It never yet repented any man, that received the servant of God, were he never so miserable and poor.

8 And it came to pass that the father of Publius lay sick of a fever, and of a bloudy flix: to whom Paul entred in, and prayed, and laid his hands on him, and healed him.

9 [5] So

132

5 Although Paul were a captive, yet the virtue of God was not captive.
6 God doth well to ſtrangers for his childrens ſake.

9 [5] So when this was done, others alſo which had diſeaſes in the iſland, came, and were healed:

10 [6] Who alſo honoured us with many honours, and when we departed, they laded us with ſuch things as were neceſſary.

7 Idols do not defile the ſaints, which do in no wiſe conſent unto them.
d So they uſed to deck the fore part of their ſhips, whereupon their ſhips were called by ſuch names.

11 [7] And after three moneths we departed in a ſhip of Alexandria, which had wintred in the iſle, whoſe [d] ſign was Caſtor and Pollux.

12 And landing at Syracuſe, we tarried there three days.

13 And from thence we fet a compaſs, and came to Rhegium: and after one day the ſouth-wind blew, and we came the next day to Puteoli:

8 God boweth and bendeth the hearts even of prophane men, as it pleaſeth him to favour his.

14 [8] Where we found brethren, and were deſired to tarry with them ſeven days: and ſo we went toward Rome.

9 God never ſuffereth his to be afflicted above their ſtrength.
e Appius's way, was a pavement made by Appius the blind, with the help of his ſouldiers, long and broad, and runneth out toward the ſea, and there were three taverns in it.
f Not in a common priſon, but in a houſe which he hired for himſelf.
10 Paul in every place remembreth himſelf to be an apoſtle.

15 [9] And from thence, when the brethren heard of us, they came to meet us as far as [e] Appii-forum, and the Three taverns: whom when Paul ſaw, he thanked God, and took courage.

16 And when we came to Rome, the centurion delivered the priſoners to the captain of the guard: but Paul was ſuffered to dwell by [f] himſelf, with a ſouldier that kept him.

17 [10] And it came to paſs, that after three days, Paul called the chief of the Jews together. And when they were come together, he ſaid unto them, Men and brethren, though I have committed nothing againſt the people or cuſtoms of our fathers, yet was I delivered priſoner from Jeruſalem into the hands of the Romans.

18 Who when they had examined me, would have let me go, becauſe there was no cauſe of death in me.

11 we may uſe the meanes which God giveth us, but ſo, that we ſeek the Glory of God and not our ſelves.

19 [11] But when the Jews ſpake againſt it, I was conſtrained to appeal unto Ceſar; not that I had ought to accuſe my nation of.

20 For this cauſe therefore have I called for you, to ſee you, and to ſpeak with you: becauſe that for the hope of Iſrael I am bound with this chain.

21 And they ſaid unto him, we neither received letters out of Judea concerning thee, neither any of the brethren that came, ſhewed or ſpake any harm of thee.

22 But we deſire to hear of thee what thou thinkeſt: for as concerning this ſect, we know that every where it is ſpoken againſt.

12 The law and the goſpel agree well together.
g By good reaſons, and proved, that the kingdom of God, foretold them by the prophets, was come.

23 [12] And when they had appointed him a day, there came many to him into his lodging; to whom he expounded and [g] teſtified the kingdom of God, perſwading them concerning Jeſus, both out of the law of Moſes, and out of the prophets, from morning till evening.

13 The goſpel is a ſavour of life to them that believe, and a ſavour of death to them that be diſobedient.

24 [13] And ſome believed the things which were ſpoken, and ſome believed not.

25 And when they agreed not among themſelves, they departed, after that Paul had ſpoken one word, Well ſpake the holy Ghoſt by Eſaias the prophet, unto our fathers, 14 The unbelievers do willingly reſiſt the truth, and yet not by chance.

* Iſa. 6. 9. Matth. 13. 14. Mark, 4. 12. Luke 8. 10. Joh. 12. 40. Rom. 11. 8.

26 [14] Saying, *Go unto this people, and ſay, Hearing ye ſhall hear, and ſhall not underſtand; and ſeeing ye ſhall ſee, and not perceive.

27 For the heart of this people is waxed groſs, and their ears are dull of hearing, and their eyes have they [h] cloſed; leſt they ſhould ſee with their eyes, and hear with their ears, and underſtand with their heart, and ſhould be converted, and I ſhould heal them.

h They made as though they ſaw not that which they ſaw againſt their wills; yea they did ſee, but they would not ſee.

28 [15] Be it known therefore unto you, that the ſalvation of God is ſent unto the Gentiles, and that they will hear it.

15 The unbelief of the reprobate and caſtaways, cannot cauſe the truth of God to be of none effect.

29 [16] And when he had ſaid theſe words, the Jews departed, and had great reaſoning among themſelves.

16 Not the goſpel, but the contempt of the goſpel is the cauſe of ſtrife and debate.

30 [17] And Paul dwelt two whole years in his own hired houſe, and received all that came in unto him,

17 The word of God cannot be bound.

31 Preaching the kingdom of God, and teaching thoſe things which concern the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, with all confidence, no man forbidding him.

THE

The Epiſtle of PAUL the Apoſtle, TO THE ROMANS.

CHAP. I.

1 Paul commendeth his calling, to the Romans, 9 and his deſire to come to them. 16 What his goſpel is, and the righteouſneſs which it ſheweth. 18 God is angry with all manner of ſin. 21 What were the ſins of the Gentiles.

1 The firſt part of the epiſtle containing a moſt profitable preface, unto verſ. 16.

PAUL [1] a [2] [a] ſervant of Jeſus Chriſt, called to be an [b] apoſtle, * [c] ſeparated unto the goſpel of God,

2 (Which he had promiſed afore by his prophets in the holy ſcriptures)

3 [3] Concerning his [d] Son Jeſus Chriſt our Lord, which was [e] made of the ſeed of David [f] according to the fleſh,

4 And † [g] declared to be the Son of God [h] with power, according to the ſpirit of holineſs, by the reſurrection from the dead:

5 [i] By whom we have received [k] grace and apoſtleſhip ‡ [l] for obedience to the faith [m] among all nations for his name:

6 Among whom are ye alſo the [n] called of Jeſus Chriſt.

7 To all that be in Rome, beloved of God, called to be ſaints: [o] Grace to you, and peace from God our Father, and the Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

8 [4] Firſt, I thank my God through Jeſus Chriſt for you all, that your faith is [p] ſpoken of throughout the [q] whole world.

9 For God is my witneſs, whom I ſerve ‡ with my [r] ſpirit in the [s] goſpel of his Son, that without ceaſing I make mention of you always in my prayers,

10 Making requeſt (if by any means now at length I might have a proſperous journy by the will of God) to come unto you.

11 For I long to ſee you, that I may impart unto you ſome ſpiritual gift, to the end you may be eſtabliſhed;

12 That is, that I may be [t] comforted together ‡ with you, by the mutual faith both of you and me.

13 Now I would not have you ignorant, brethren, that oftentimes I purpoſed to come unto you (but was let hitherto) that I might have ſome fruit ‡ among you alſo, even as among other Gentiles.

‡ Or, in you.

14 I am debter both to the Greeks, & to the barbarians, both to the wiſe, & to the unwiſe.

15 So, as much as in me is, I am ready to preach the goſpel to you that are at [u] Rome alſo.

16 For I am not aſhamed of the goſpel of Chriſt: [5] for it is the [x] power of God unto ſalvation, to every one that believeth, to the Jew firſt, and alſo to the [y] Greek.

17 [6] For therein is the righteouſneſs of God reveiled from faith to [z] faith: [7] as it is written, * The juſt ſhall live by faith.

18 [8] For the wrath of God is reveiled from heaven againſt [a] all ungodlineſs, and unrighteouſneſs of men, who hold the [b] truth in unrighteouſneſs.

19 [9] Becauſe that which may be known of God, is manifeſt ‡ in [c] them; for God hath ſhewed it unto them.

20 For the inviſible things of him from the creation of the world are clearly ſeen, being [d] underſtood by the things that are made, even his eternal power and Godhead; ‡ ſo that they are without excuſe:

21 Becauſe that when they knew God, they [e] glorified him not as God, neither were thankful, but became [f] vain in their imaginations, and their fooliſh heart was * darkned.

22 [g] Profeſſing themſelves to be wiſe, they became fools:

23 And changed the glory of the [h] uncorruptible * God, into an image made like to corruptible man, and to birds, and four-footed beaſts, and creeping things.

24 [10] Wherefore [i] God alſo [k] gave them up to uncleanneſs, through the luſts of their own hearts, to diſhonour their own bodies between themſelves:

25 Who changed the truth of God into a lie, and worſhipped and ſerved the creature more then the Creatour, who is bleſſed for ever. Amen.

2 He moving the Romans to give diligent ear unto him, in that he ſheweth that he cometh not in his own name, but as Gods meſſenger unto the Gentiles, entreateth with them of the weightieſt matter that is promiſed long ſince of God, by many fit witneſſes, and now at the length performed indeed.

a Miniſter, for this word ſervant is not taken in this place as ſet againſt this word freeman, but declareth his miniſtry and office.

b whereas he ſaid before in a general term, that he was a miniſter, now he commeth to a more ſpecial name, and ſaith, That he took not upon him this offiee of his own head, but being called of God, and therefore in this his writing to the Romans, doth nothing but his duty.

* Acts 13. 2.

c Appointed of God to preach the goſpel.

3 By declaring the ſum of the doctrine of the Goſpel, he ſtirreth up the Romans to good conſideration of the matter whereof he treateth: ſo then he ſheweth that Chriſt (who is the very ſubſtance, and ſum of the goſpel) is the oncly Son of God the Father, who as touching his humanity, is made of the ſeed of David, but touching his divine & ſpiritual nature, whereby he ſanctified himſelf, is begotten of the Father from everlaſting, as by his mighty reſurrection manifeſtly appeareth. d This is a plain teſtimony of the perſon of Chriſt, that he is but one, and of his two natures, and their properties. e which took fleſh of the Virgin, David his daughter. f As he is man: for this word, Fleſh, by the figure Synecdoche, is taken for man. † Gr. determined. g Shewed and made manifeſt. h The divine mighty power is ſet againſt the weakneſs of the fleſh, for that overcame death. i Of whom. k This marvelious, liberal and gracious gift, which is given me, the leaſt of all the ſaints, to preach, &c. Epheſ. 3. 8. ‡ Or, to the obedience of faith. l That men through faith might obey God. m For his names ſake. n which through Gods goodneſs are Chriſts. o Gods free good will: by peace, the Hebrews mean a proſperous ſucceſs in all things. 4 He procureth their favourable patience, in that he reckoneth up their true commendation, and his true apoſtolick good will toward them, confirmed by taking God himſelf to witneſs. p Becauſe your faith is ſuch, that it is commended in all churches. q In all churches. ‡ Or, in my ſpirit. t Very willingly and with all my heart. ſ In preaching his Son. t Though Paul were never ſo excellent, yet by teaching the church, he might be inſtructed by it. ‡ Or, in you.

u Hemianth, All them that dwell at Rome, though ſome of them were not Romans, Look the end of the epiſtle.

5 The ſecond part of the epiſtle unto the beginning of the 9 chapter. Now the whole end and purpoſe of the diſputation is this: that is to ſay, To ſhew that there is but one way to attain unto ſalvation (which is ſet forth unto us of God in the goſpel, without any difference of nations) and that is Jeſus Chriſt apprehended by faith.

x God his mighty and effectual inſtrument to ſave men by.

y when this word Grecian, is ſet againſt this word Jew, then doth it ſignify a gentile.

6 The confirmation of the former propoſition: we are taught in the goſpel, that we are juſtified before God by faith, which increaſeth daily: and therefore alſo ſaved.

z From faith which increaſeth daily.

7 The proof as well of the firſt as of the ſecond propoſition, out of Habakkuk, who attributeth and giveth unto faith both juſtice and life before God.

* Hab. 2. 4. Gal. 3. 11. Heb. 10. 38.

8 Another confirmation of that principal queſtion: All men being conſidered within themſelves, or without Chriſt, are guilty both of ungodlineſs and alſo unrighteouſneſs, and therefore are ſubject to condemnation: Therefore muſt they needs ſeek righteouſneſs in ſome other. a Againſt all kinds of ungodlineſs. b By truth, Paul meaneth all the light that is left in man ſince his fall, not as though they being led thereby were able to come into favour with God, but that their own reaſon might condemn them of wickedneſs both againſt God and man. 9 Their ungodlineſs he proveth hereby, that although all men have a moſt clear and evident glaſs wherein to behold the everlaſting and almighty nature of God, even in his creatures, yet have they fallen away from thoſe principles, to moſt fooliſh and fond devices of their own brains, in conſtituting and appointing the ſervice of God. ‡ Or, to them. c In their hearts. d Thou ſeeſt not God, and yet thou acknowledgeſt him as God by his works, &c. ‡ Or, that they may be. e They did not honour him with that honour and ſervice which was meet for his everlaſting power and Godhead. f As if he ſaid, became ſo mad of themſelves. * Eph. 4. 18. g Or, Thought themſelves. h For the true God they took another. * Pſal. 106. 20. 10 The unrighteouſneſs of men he ſetteth forth, firſt, in this, that even againſt nature following their luſts, they defiled themſelves one with another by the juſt judgment of God. i The contempt of religion is the fountain of all miſchief. k As a juſt judge.

26 For this cauſe God gave them up unto vile affections: For even their women did change the natural uſe into that which is againſt nature:

27 And likewiſe alſo the men, leaving the natural uſe of the woman, burned in their luſt one toward another, men with men working that which is unſeemly, and receiving in themſelves that [l] recompenſe of their errour which was meet.

28 [11] And even as they did not like ‡ to retain God in their knowledge, God gave them over to ‡ a [m] reprobate mind, to do thoſe things which are not convenient:

7 God deferreth many judgments, which notwithſtanding he will execute at their convenient time by Jeſus Chriſt, with a moſt ſtrait examination, not onely of words and deeds, but of thoughts alſo, be they never ſo hidden or ſecret. m As this my doctrine witneſſeth which I am appointed to preach. 8 He proveth by the teſtimony of David, and the other prophets, that God beſtowed greateſt benefits upon the Jews, in giving them alſo the law, but that they are moſt unthankful and unkinde of all men. ‡ Or, trieſt the things that differ, n Canſt try and diſcern what things ſwerve from Gods will. o The way to teach and frame others in the knowledge of the truth. p As though he ſaid, that the Jews under a colour of an outward ſerving of God, challenged all to themſelves, when as indeed, they did nothing leſs then obſerve the law. * Iſa. 52. 5. Ezek. 36. 20, 23.

9 He preciſely preventeth their objection, which ſet an holineſs in circumciſion, and the outward obſervation of the law: So that he ſheweth that the outward circumciſion, if it be ſeparated from the inward, doth not only not juſtify, but alſo condemn them that are indeed circumciſed, of whom it requireth that, which it ſignifieth, that is to ſay cleanneſs of the heart, and the whole life according to the commandment of the law, ſo that if there be a man uncircumciſed according to the fleſh, who is circumciſed in heart, he is far better and more to be counted of, then any Jew that is circumciſed according to the fleſh onely. q This is the figure Antonymia, for if the uncircumciſed.

Chap. III.

1 The Jews prerogative: 3 which they have not lost. 9 Howbeit, the law convinceth them also of sin. 20 Therefore no flesh is justified by the law, 28 but all without difference, by faith onely: 31 and yet the law is not abolished.

WHat [1] advantage then hath the Jew? or what profit is there of circumcision?

2 Much every way: [a] chiefly, because that unto them were committed the [b] oracles of God.

3 For what if some did not [c] believe? shall their unbelief make the [d] faith of God without effect?

4 God forbid: yea, let God be true, but *every man a liar; as it is written, * That thou mightest be [e] justified in thy sayings, and mightest overcome [f] when thou art judged.

5 [2] But if our [g] unrighteousness commend the righteousness of God, what shall we say? Is God unrighteous who taketh vengeance? (I speak as a [h] man)

6 God forbid: for then how shall God judge the world?

7 [3] For if the [i] truth of God hath more abounded through my lie unto his glory; why yet am I also judged as a sinner?

8 And not rather, as we be slanderously reported, and as some affirm that we say, Let us do evil, that good may come? whose damnation is just.

9 [4] What then? are we better then they? No in no wise: for we have before † proved both Jews and Gentiles, that they are all [k] under sin;

10 As it is written, * There is none righteous, no not one:

11 There is none that understandeth, there is none that seeketh after God.

12 They are all gone out of the way, they are together become unprofitable, there is none that doth good, no not one.

1 The first meeting with, or preventing an objection of the Jews: what then have the Jews no more preferment then the Gentiles? yes, that have they, saith the apostle on Gods behalf, for he committed the tables of the covenant to them, so that the unbelief of a few, cannot cause the whole nation without exception to be cast away of God, who is true, & who also useth their unworthiness to commend and set forth his goodness.

g Treachery, and all the fruits thereof.
h Therefore I speak not these words in mine own person, as though I thought so, but this is the talk of mans wisdom, which is not subject to the will of God. 3 A third objection, which addeth some what to the former: If sins do turn to the glory of God, they are not only not to be punished, but we ought rather to give our selves to them: which blasphemy Paul contenting himself to curse and detest, pronouncing just punishment against such blasphemers. i The truth and constancy. 4 Another answer to the first objection: that the Jews, if they he considered in themselves, are no better then other men are: as it hath been long since pronounced by the mouth of the prophets.

16 Destruction and misery are in their ways:

17 And the [l] way of peace have they not known.

18 * There is no fear of God before their eyes.

19 [5] Now we know that what things soever the [m] law saith, it saith [6] to them who are under the law: that every mouth may be stopped, and all the world may become ‡ [n] guilty before God.

20 Therefore * by the deeds [o] of the law, there shall no [p] flesh be [q] justified in his [r] sight: for by the law is the knowledge of sin.

21 [7] But now the righteousness of God without the law is manifested, being witnessed by the law and the prophets;

22 [8] Even the righteousness of God, which is by faith of [r] Jesus Christ unto all, & upon all them that believe; for there is no difference:

23 For all have sinned, and come short of the [t] glory of God;

24 [9] Being justified [u] freely by his grace, through the redemption that is in Jesus Christ:

25 [10] Whom God hath ‡ set forth to be a propitiation, through faith in his [x] bloud, to declare his righteousness for the ‡ remission of sins that are [y] past, through the [z] forbearance of God;

26 To declare, I say, [a] at this time his righteousness: that he might be [b] just, and the [c] justifier of him which [d] believeth in Jesus.

27 [11] Where is boasting then? it is excluded: By what [e] law? of works? Nay: but by the law of faith.

28 Therefore we conclude, that a man is justified by faith without the deeds of the law.

29 [12] Is he the God of the [f] Jews onely? is he not also of the Gentiles? Yes, of the Gentiles also:

30 Seeing it is one God, which shall justify the [g] circumcision by faith, and uncircumcision through faith.

6 A conclusion of all the former disputation, from the 18 vers. of the first chapter. Therefore saith the Apostle, No man can hope to be justified by any law, whether it be that general law, or the particular law of Moses, and therefore to be saved, seeing it appeareth (as we have already provee) by comparing the law and mans life together that all men are sinners, and therefore worthy of condemnation in the sight of God ‡ Or, subject to the judgment of God.
n Be found guilty before God.
* Gal. 2. 16.
o By that, that the law can by us be performed.
p Flesh is here taken for man, as in many other places, & furthermore hath greater force: for it is put to shew the contrariety betwixt God and man: as if you would say, Man who is nothing else but a piece of flesh defiled with sin, and God who is most pure and most perfect in himself.
q Absolved before the judgment-seat of God.
r A secret setting of the righteousness which is before men, be they never so just, against the justice which can stand before God, but the righteousness of Christ onely 7 Therefore saith the apostle, Lest that men should perish, God doth now exhibit that which he promised of old, that is to say, A way whereby we may be justified and saved before him without the law. 8 The matter, as it were, of this righteousness is Christ Jesus, apprehended by faith, and for this end offered to all people, as without him all people are shut out from the kingdom of God. s which we give to Jesus Christ, or which resteth upon him. t By the glory of God, is meant that mark which we all shoot at, that is, Everlasting life, which standeth in that we are made partakers of the glory of God. 9 Therefore this righteousness touching us, is altogether freely given, for it standeth upon those things which we have not done our selves, but such as Christ hath suffered for our sakes, to deliver us from sin. u Of his free gift, and meer liberality. 10 God then is the authour of that free justification, because it pleased him: and Christ is he which suffered punishment for our sins, and in whom we have remission of them: and mean whereby we apprehend Christ, is faith. To be short, the end is the setting forth of the goodness of God, that by this means it may appear, that he is merciful indeed, and constant in his promises, as he that freely, and of meer grace, justifieth the believers. ‡ Or, fore-ordained. x This name of bloud, calleth us back to the figure of the old sacrifices, the truth and substance of which sacrifice is in Christ. ‡ Or, passing over. y Of those sins which we have committed, when we were his enemies. z Through his patience, and suffering nature. a To wit, when Paul wrote this. b That he might be found exceeding true and faithful. c Making him just, and without blame, by imputing Christs righteousness unto him. d Of the number of them which by faith lay hold upon Christ: contrary to whom are they, which look to be saved by circumcision, that is, By the law. 11 An argument to prove this conclusion, that we are justified by faith, without works, taken from the end of justification. The end of justification is the glory of God alone: therefore we are justified by faith without works: for if we were alone justified, either by our own works only, or partly, by faith, and partly by works the glory of this justification should not be wholly given to God. e By what doctrine? now the doctrine of works hath this condition joyned with it, if thou dost: and the doctrine of faith, hath this condition, if thou believest. 12 Another argument of an absurdity: if justification depended upon the law of Moses, then should God be a Saviour to the Jews onely. Again, if he should save the Jews after one sort, and the Gentiles after another, he should not be one, and like himself; Therefore he will justify both of them, after one self-same manner, that is to say, By faith. Moreover, this argument must be joyned to that which followeth next, that this conclusion may be firm and evident. f God is said to be their God, after the manner of the scripture, whom he loveth and tendreth. g The circumcised. 13 The taking away of an objection: yet is not the law taken away therefore, but is rather established, as it shall be declared in his proper place.
h Vain, void, to no purpose, and no force.
i we make it effectual and strong.

CHAP. IV.

1 Abrahams faith was imputed to him for righteousness, 10 before he was circumcised. 13 By faith onely he and his seed received the promise. 16 Abraham is the father of all that believe. 24 Our faith also shall be imputed to us for righteousness.

WHat [1] shall we say then that Abraham our father, as pertaining to the [a] flesh, hath found?

2 [2] For if Abraham were justified by works, he hath whereof to glory, but not before God.

3 [3] For what saith the scripture? * Abraham believed God, and it was counted unto him for righteousness.

4 [4] Now to him that [b] worketh, is the reward not [c] reckoned of grace, but of debt.

5 But to him that worketh not, but believeth on him that [d] justifieth the ungodly, his faith is counted for righteousness.

6 [5] Even as David also describeth the blessedness of the man unto whom God imputeth righteousness without works,

7 Saying, * Blessed are they whose iniquities are forgiven, and whose sins are covered.

8 Blessed is the man to whom the Lord will not impute sin.

9 [6] Cometh this [e] blessedness then upon the circumcision onely, or upon the uncircumcision also? For we say that faith was reckoned to Abraham for righteousness.

10 [7] How was it then reckoned? when he was in circumcision, or in uncircumcision? not in circumcision, but in uncircumcision.

11 [8] And he received the [f] sign of circumcision, a [g] seal of the righteousness of the faith, which he had yet being uncircumcised: [9] that he might be the father of all them that believe, though they be not circumcised; that righteousness might be imputed unto them also:

12 [10] And the father of circumcision to them who are not of the circumcision onely, but also walk in the steps of that faith of our father Abraham, which he had being yet uncircumcised.

13 [11] For the promise that he should be the [h] heir of the world, was not to Abraham, or to his seed through the [i] law, but through the righteousness of faith.

14 [12] For if they which are of the [k] law be heirs, faith is made void, and the promise made of none effect.

15 [13] Because the law worketh wrath: for where no law is, there is no transgression.

16 [14] Therefore it is of faith, that it might be by grace; to the end the promise might be sure to all the [l] seed, [15] not to that onely which is of the law, but to that also which is of the faith of Abraham, who is the father of us all,

17 (As it is written, * I have made thee a [16] father of many nations) ‡ before him whom he believed, even [m] God who [n] quickneth the dead, and [o] calleth those things which be not as though they were:

18 [17] Who against hope believed in hope, that he might become the father of many nations; according to that which was spoken, * So shall thy seed be.

19 [p] And being not weak in faith, he considered not his own body now [q] dead, when he was about an hundred year old, neither yet the deadness of Sara's womb.

20 He staggered not at the promise of God through unbelief; but was strong in faith, giving [r] glory to God:

21 And being [s] fully perswaded, that what he had promised, he was able also to perform.

22 And therefore it was imputed to him for righteousness.

23 [18] Now it was not written for his sake alone, that it was imputed to him;

24 But for us also, to whom it shall be imputed, if we believe on him that raised up Jesus our Lord from the dead,

25 Who was delivered for our [t] offences, and was raised again for our justification.

1 A new argument of great weight taken from the example of Abraham, the father of all believers: And this is the proposition, If Abraham be considered in himself, by his works he hath deserved nothing wherein to rejoyce with God.

a By works, as appeareth in the next verse.

2 A preventing of an objection, Abraham may well rejoyce, and extol himself amongst men, but not with God.

3 A confirmation of the proposition, Abraham was justified by imputation of faith: therefore freely without any respect of his works.

4 The first proof of the confirmation, taken of contraries: to him that deserveth any thing by his labour, the wages is not counted by favour, but by debt: but to him that hath done nothing but believeth in him which promiseth freely, faith is imputed.

* Gen. 15 6. Gal. 3. 6. Jam. 2. 23.

b To him that hath deserved any thing by his work.

c Is not reckoned nor given him.

d That maketh him, which is wicked in himself, just in Christ.

5 Another proof of the same confirmation: David putteth blessedness in free pardon of sins: therefore justification also.

* Psal. 32. 1.

6 A new proposition: that this manner of justification belongeth both to the uncircumcised and also to the circumcised: as is declared in the person of Abraham.

e This saying of David, wherein he pronounceth them blessed.

7 He proveth that it belongeth to the uncircumcised (for there was no doubt of the circumcised) in this sort: Abraham was justified in uncircumcision, therefore this justification belongeth also to uncircumcised. Nay, it doth not appear in to the circumcised, in respect of their circumcision, much less are the uncircumcised shut out for their uncircumcision. 8 A preventing of an objection, why then was Abraham circumcised, if he were already justified? That the gift of the righteousness (saith he) might be confirmed in him.

f Circumcision, which is as sign as we say, The sacrament of baptism, for baptism which is a sacrament. g Circumcision was called before, A sign, in respect of the outward ceremony: now Paul sheweth the force and substance of that sign, that is, To what end it is used, to wit, Not only to signify, but also to seal up the righteousness of faith, whereby we come to possess Christ himself: for the holy Ghost worketh that inwardly indeed, which the sacrament being joyned with the word, do represent. 9 An applying of the example of Abraham to the uncircumcised believers, whose father also he maketh Abraham. 10 An applying of the same example, to the circumcised believers, whose father Abraham is, but yet by faith. 11 A reason why the seed of Abraham is to be esteemed by faith, because that Abraham himself through faith was made partaker of that promise, whereby he was made the father of all nations. h That all the nations of the world should be his children: or, by the world may be understood the land of Canaan. i For works that he had done, or upon this condition that he should fulfil the law. 12 A double confirmation of that reason: the one is that the promise cannot be apprehended by the law, and therefore it should be frustrate: the other, that the condition of faith should be joyned in vain to that promise which should be apprehended by works. k If they be heirs which have fulfilled the law. 13 A reason of the first confirmation, why the promise cannot be apprehended by the law: because that the law doth not reconcile God and us, but rather denounceth his anger against us, for so much as no man can observe it.

14 The conclusion of this argument: The salvation and justification of the posterity of Abraham (that is, Of the church which is gathered together of all people) proceedeth of faith, which layeth hold on the promise made unto Abraham, and which promise Abraham himself first of all laid hold on.

15 That is to say, Not onely of them which believe and are also circumcised according to the law, but of them also which without circumcision, and in respect of faith onely, are counted amongst the children of Abraham.

* Gen. 17. 5.

1 Another argument taken of the effects: we are justified with that which truely appeaseth our conscience before God: but faith, in Christ doth appease our conscience and not the law, as it was before said, therefore by faith we are justified and not by the law.

* Eph. 2. 18.

2 whereas quietness of conscience is attributed to faith, it is to be referred to Christ, who is the giver of faith it self, and in whom faith it self is effectual. a He sheweth that our acceptance with the Authour is by the Son. b By which grace, that is, By which gracious love and good will, or that state whereinto we are graciously taken. c we stand stedfast. 3 A preventing of an objection against them, which beholding the daily miseries and calamities of the church, think that the Christians dream, when they brag of their felicity: to whom the apostle answereth, That their felicity is laid up under hope in another place: which hope is so certain and sure, that they do no less rejoyce for that happiness, then if they did presently enjoy it. d Our minds are not only quiet and setled, but also we are marvellously glad: and conceive great joy for that heavenly inheritance, which waiteth for us. 4 Tribulation it self giveth us divers, and sundry ways occasion to rejoyce, much less doth it make us miserable.

* Jam. 1. 3. 5 Afflictions accustom us to patience, and patience assureth us of the goodness of God, and this experience confirmeth and fostereth our hope, which never deceiveth us. 6 The ground of hope is an assured testimony of the conscience, by the gift of the holy Ghost, that we are beloved of God, and this is nothing else but that which we call faith, whereof it followeth, that through faith our consciences are quieted.

7 A ſure comfort in adverſity, that our peace and quietneſs of conſcience be not troubled: for he that ſo loved them that were of no ſtrength & while they were yet ſinners, that he died for them, how can he neglect them being now ſanctified and living in him?
‡ Or, according to the time.
f In time fit and convenient which the Father had appointed.
g An amplifying of the love of God toward us, ſo that we cannot doubt of it, who delivered Chriſt to death for the unjuſt, and for them of whom he could receive no commodity, and (that more is, for his very enemies) How can it be then that Chriſt being now alive, ſhould not ſave them from deſtruction, whom by his death he juſtifieth, and reconcileth?
g in the ſtead of ſome juſt man.
h He ſetteth out his love unto us, that in the midſt of our afflictions, we may know aſſuredly, he will be preſent with us.
i while ſin reigned in us.
k From affliction and deſtruction.
9 He now paſſeth over to the other part of juſtification, which conſiſteth in the free imputation of the obedience of Chriſt, ſo that to the remiſſion of ſins, there is added moreover and beſides, the gift of Chriſts righteouſneſs imputed, or put upon us by faith, which ſwalloweth up that unrighteouſneſs which flowed from Adam into us, and all the fruits thereof: ſo that in Chriſt we do no not onely ceaſe to be unjuſt, but we begin alſo to be juſt.

the [e] love of God is ſhed abroad in our hearts, by the holy Ghoſt which is given unto us.

6 [7] For when we were yet without ſtrength, ‡ in due [f] time Chriſt died for the ungodly.

7 [8] For ſcarcely [g] for a righteous man will one die: yet peradventure for a good man ſome would even dare to die.

8 But God [h] commendeth his love towards us, in that while we were yet [i] ſinners, Chriſt died for us.

9 Much more then being now juſtified by his bloud; we ſhall be ſaved from [k] wrath through him.

10 For if when we were enemies, we were reconciled to God by the death of his Son: much more being reconciled, we ſhall be ſaved by his life.

11 [9] And not onely ſo, but we alſo joy in God, through our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, by whom we have now received the atonement.

12 [10] Wherefore, as by [l] one man [m] ſin entred into the world, and death by ſin; and ſo death paſſed upon all men, ‡ for [n] that all have ſinned.

13 [11] For until [o] the law ſin was in the world: but ſin is not [p] imputed when there is no law.

14 [12] Nevertheleſs, death reigned from Adam to Moſes, even [q] over them that had not ſinned after the [r] ſimilitude of Adams tranſgreſſion, [13] who is the figure of him that was to come:

15 [14] But not as the offence, ſo alſo is the free gift. For if through the offence of [r] one, many be dead; much more the grace of God, and the gift by grace, which is by one man, Jeſus Chriſt, hath abounded unto many.

16 [15] And not as it was by one that ſinned, ſo is the gift: for the judgment was by one to condemnation; but the free giſt is of many offences unto [t] juſtification.

17 [16] For if ‡ by one mans offence, death reigned by one; much more they which receive abundance of grace, & of the gift of righteouſneſs, ſhall [u] reign in life by one, Jeſus Chriſt.

18 [17] Therefore as ‡ by the offence of one judgment came upon all men to condemnation: even ſo ‡ by the righteouſneſs of one, the free gift came upon all men unto [x] juſtification of life.

19 [18] For as by one mans [y] diſobedience [z] many were made ſinners: ſo by the obedience of one, ſhall many be made righteous.

20 [19] Moreover, the law [a] entred, that the offence might abound: But where ſin abounded, grace did much [b] more abound:

21 That as ſin hath reigned unto death, even ſo might grace reign through righteouſneſs unto eternal life, by Jeſus Chriſt our Lord.

x Not onely becauſe our ſins are forgiven us, but alſo becauſe the righteouſneſs of Chriſt is imputed unto us.
18 The ground of this whole compariſon is this, that theſe two men are ſet as two ſtocks, or roots, ſo that out of the one ſin by nature, out of the other, righteouſneſs by grace, doth ſpring forth upon others.
y So then, ſin entred not into us onely by following the ſteps of our foreſather, but we take corruption of him by inheritance.
z This word, Many, is ſet againſt this word, A few.
19 A preventing of an objection: why then did the law of Moſes enter thereupon? that men might be ſo much the more guilty, & the benefit of God in Chriſt Jeſus be ſo much the more glorious.
a Beſides that diſeaſe, which all men were infected withall by being defiled with one mans ſins, the law entred.
b Grace was poured ſo plentiful from heaven, that it did not onely countervail ſin, but above meaſure paſſed it.

CHAP. VI.

1 We may not live in ſin, 2 for we are dead unto it, 3 as appeareth by our baptiſm. 12 Let not ſin reign any more, 18 becauſe we have yeilded our ſelves to the ſervice of righteouſneſs, 23 and for that death is the wages of ſin.

1 He paſſeth now to another benefit of Chriſt, which is called ſanctification or regeneration.

WHat [1] ſhall we ſay then? ſhall we continue in [a] ſin, that grace may abound?

2 [2] God forbid: how ſhall we that are [b] dead to ſin, live any longer therein?

3 [3] Know ye not, that * ſo many of us as ‡ were baptized into [c] Jeſus Chriſt, were baptized into his death?

4 Therefore we are * buried with him by baptiſm into death: that like as Chriſt was raiſed up from the dead by [d] the glory of the Father, even ſo [e] we alſo ſhould walk in newneſs of life.

5 [4] For if we have been planted together in the [f] likeneſs of his death: we ſhall be alſo in [g] the likeneſs of his reſurrection:

6 Knowing this, that our [h] old man is crucified with [i] him, that the [k] body of ſin might be deſtroyed, that henceforth we ſhould not [l] ſerve ſin.

7 [5] For he that is dead, is † freed from ſin.

8 Now if we be dead with Chriſt, we believe that we ſhall alſo live with him:

9 Knowing that Chriſt being raiſed from the dead, dieth no more; death hath no more dominion over him.

10 For in that he died, he died unto ſin [m] once: but in that he liveth, he liveth unto [n] God.

11 Likewiſe reckon ye alſo your ſelves to be dead indeed unto ſin; but alive unto God through Jeſus Chriſt our Lord.

12 [6] Let not [o] ſin therefore reign in your mortal body, that ye ſhould obey it in the luſts thereof.

1 He paſſeth now to another benefit of Chriſt, which is called ſanctification or regeneration.
a In that corruption, for though the guiltineſs of ſin be not imputed to us, yet the corruption remaineth ſtill in us: the which ſanctification, that followeth juſtification killeth by little and little.
2 The benefits of juſtification and ſanctification are always joyned together inſeparably, and both of them proceed from Chriſt by the grace of God: Now ſanctification is the abolliſhing of ſin, that is of our natural corruption, into whoſe place ſucceedeth the cleanneſs and pureneſs of nature reformed b They are ſaid of Paul to be dead to ſin, which are in ſuch ſort made partakers of the virtue of Chriſt, that that natural corruption is dead in them, that is, the force of it is put out, and it bringeth not forth his bitter fruits: And on the other ſide they are ſaid to live to ſin which are in the fleſh, that is, whom the Spirit of God hath not delivered from the ſlavery of the corruption of nature.
3 There are three parts of this ſanctification: to wit, the death of the old man, or ſin, his burial, and the reſurrection of the new man deſcending into us from the virtue of the death, burial & reſurrection of Chriſt, of which benefit our baptiſm is a ſign & pledge. * Gal. 3.27. ‡ Or, are.
c To the end that growing up in one with him, we ſhould receive his ſtrength, to quench ſin in us, and to make us new men. * Col. 2. 12.
d That Chriſt himſelf being diſcharged of his infirmity and weakeneſs, might live in glory with God for ever.
e And we which are his members riſe for this end, that being made partakers of the ſelf ſame virtue, we ſhould begin to lead a new life, as though we were already in heaven.
4 The death of ſin and the life of righteouſneſs or our ingraffing into Chriſt, and growing up into one with him, cannot be ſeparated by any means, neither in death nor life: whereby it followeth, that no man is ſanctified, which liveth ſtill to ſin, and therefore is no man made partaker of Chriſt by faith, which repenteth not and turneth not from his wickedneſs: for as he ſaid before, the law is not ſubverted but eſtabliſhed by faith.
f In ſo much as by means of the ſtrength which cometh from him to us we ſo die to ſin, as he is dead.
g For we become every day more perfect then other: for we ſhall never be perfectly ſanctified, as long as we live here.
h All our whole nature, as we are conceived & born into this world with ſin, which is called old, partly by comparing that old Adam with Chriſt, & partly alſo in reſpect of the deformation of our corrupt nature, which we change with a new.
i Our corrupt nature is attributed to Chriſt, not indeed, but by imputation.
k That naughtineſs which ſticketh faſt in us.

13 Neither [p] yeild ye your [q] members as † [r] instruments of unrighteousnes unto sin: but yeild your selves unto God, as those that are alive from the dead; and your members as instruments of righteousnes unto God.

14 [7] For sin shall not have dominion over you: for ye are not under the law, but under grace.

15 [8] What then? shall we sin, because we are not under the law, but under grace? God forbid.

16 Know ye not, that * to whom ye yeild your selves servants to obey, his servants ye are to whom ye obey; whether of sin unto death, or of obedience unto righteousnes?

17 [9] But God be thanked, that ye were the servants of sin; but ye have obeyed from the heart that [l] form of doctrine † which was delivered you.

18 Being then made free from sin, ye became the servants of righteousnes.

19 I speak after the manner of men, because of the infirmity of your flesh: for as ye have yeilded your members servants to uncleanness and to iniquity, unto iniquity; even so now yeild your members servants to righteousnes, unto holiness.

20 For when ye were the servants of sin, ye were [t] free † from righteousnes.

21 [10] What fruit had ye then in those things, whereof ye are now ashamed? for the [u] end of those things is death.

22 But now being made free from sin, and become servants to God, ye have your fruit unto holiness, and the end everlasting life.

23 [11] For the wages of sin is death: but the gift of God is eternal life, through Jesus Christ our Lord.

7 He granteth, that sin is not yet so dead in us that it is utterly extinct: but he promiseth victory to to them that contend manfully, because we have the grace of God given us, which worketh so that the law is not now in us the power & instrument of sin.
8 To be under the Law and under sin, signify all one, in respect of them which are not sanctified, as on the contrary side, to be under grace and righteousnes, agree to them that are regenerate. Now these are contraries, so that one cannot agree with the other: therefore let righteousnes expel sin

9 By nature we are slaves to sin and free from righteousnes, but by the grace of God we are made servants to righteousnes, and therefore free from sin.

Chap. VII.

1 No law hath power over a man longer then he liveth. 4 But we are dead to the law. 7 Yet is not the law sin, 12 but holy, just, good, 16 as I acknowledge who am grieved because I cannot keep it.

KNow[1] ye not, brethren, (for I speak to them that know the law) how that the law hath dominion over a man, as long as he liveth?

2 For * the woman which hath an husband, is bound by the law to her husband so long as he liveth: but if the husband be dead, she is loosed from the law of her husband.

3 So then if while her husband liveth, she be married to another man, she shall be [a] called an adulteress: but if her husband be dead, she is free from that law; so that she is no adulteress, though she be married to another man.

4 [2] Wherefore my brethren, ye also are become dead to the law by the [b] body of Christ; that ye should be married to another, even to him who is raised from the dead, that we should bring forth [c] fruit unto [d] God.

1 By propounding the similitude of marriage, he compareth the state of man, both before and after regeneration together. The law of matrimony, saith he, is this, that so long as the husband liveth, the marriage abideth in force, but if he be dead, the woman may marry again.
* 1 Cor. 7. 39.
a That is, Shee shall be an adulteress, by the consent and judgment of all men.
2 An application of the similitude thus. So, saith he, doth it fare with us: for now we are joyned to the Spirit, as it were to the second husband, by whom we must bring forth new children: we are dead in respect of the first husband, but in respect of the latter, we are as it were raised from the dead. b That is, In the body of Christ, to give us to understand, how strait and near the fellowship is betwixt Christ and his members. c He calleth the children, which the wife hath by her husband, fruit. d which are acceptable to God.

5 [3] For when we [e] were in the flesh, the † [f] motions of sins which were by the [g] law, did [h] work in our members to bring forth fruit unto death.

6 But now we are delivered from the law, ‡ that [i] being dead [k] wherein we were [l] held; that we should serve in [m] newness of spirit, and not in the oldness of the [n] letter.

7 [4] What shall we say then? Is the law sin? God forbid. Nay, I had not known sin, but by the law: for I had not known ‡ [o] lust, except the law had said, * Thou shalt not covet.

8 But sin taking occasion by the commandment, wrought in me all manner of concupiscence. For without the law sin was [p] dead.

9 [5] For I was alive without the [q] law once: but when the commandment [r] came, sin revived, and I [s] died.

10 And the commandment which was ordained to life, I found to be unto death.

11 For sin taking occasion by the commandment, deceived me, and by it slew me.

12 [6] Wherefore the law is holy; and the [t] commandment holy, and just, and good.

13 [7] Was then that which is good, [u] made death unto me? God forbid. But sin that it might [x] appear sin, working death in me by that which is good; that sin by the commandment might become [y] exceeding sinful.

14 [8] For we know that the law is spiritual: but I am carnal, sold under sin.

15 [9] For that which I do, I † [10] allow not: for what I [11] would, that do I not; but what I hate, that do I.

16 If then I do that which I would not, I consent unto the law, that it is good.

3 A declaration of the former saying: for the concupiscences (saith he) which the law stirred up in us, were in us, as it were an husband, of whom we brought forth very deadly and cursed children. But now since that husband is dead, and so consequently being delivered from the force of that killing law, we have passed into the governance of the Spirit, so that we bring forth now, not those rotten and dead, but lively children.
e when we were in the state of the first marriage, which he calleth in the next verse following, the oldness of the letter.
† Gr. passions.

h wrought their strength.
‡ Or, being dead to that.
i As if he said, The bond which bound us, is dead, & vanished away, in so much that sin which held us, hath not now wherewith to hold us.
k For this husband is within us. l Satan is an unjust possessour, for he brought us into bondage of sin and himself, deceitfully: and yet notwithstanding so long as we are sinners, we sin willingly. m As becometh them which after the death of their old husband, are joyned to the Spirit: as whom the Spirit of God hath made new men. n By the letter, he meaneth the law, in respect of that old condition: for before that our will be framed by the holy Ghost, the law speaketh but to deaf men, and therefore it is dumb and dead to us, as touching the fulfilling of it. 4 An objection, what then? are the law and sin all one, and do they agree together? nay, saith he: Sin is reproved and condemned by the law. But because sin cannot abide to be reproved, and was not in a manner felt, until it was provoked and stirred up by the law, it taketh occasion thereby to be more outragious, & yet by no fault of the law. ‡ Or, concupiscence. o By the word, Lust, in this place he meaneth not evil lusts themselves, but the fountain from whence they spring, for the very heathen philosophers themselves condemned wicked lust, though somewhat darkly. But as for this fountain of them, they could not so much as suspect it, and yet it is the very seat of that natural and unclean spot and filth. * Exod. 20. 17. Deut 5 21. p Though sin be in us, yet it is not known for sin, neither doth it so rage, as it rageth after that the law is known. 5 He setteth himself before us for an example, in whom all men may behold, first, what they are by nature before they earnestly think upon the law of God: to wit, Blockish, and heady to sin and wickedness, without all true sense and feeling of sin: then what manner of persons they become, when their conscience is reproved by the testimony of the law, to wit, Stubborn and more inflamed with the desire of sin, then ever they were before. q when I knew not the law, then me thought I lived indeed: for my conscience never troubled me, because I knew not my disease. r when I began to understand the commandment. s In sin, or by sin. 6 The conclusion, That the law of it self is holy, but all the fault is in us which abuse the law. t Touching not coveting. 7 The proposition, That the law is not the cause of death, but our corrupt nature being therewith not onely discovered, but also stirred up: and took occasion thereby to rebel, as when the more that things are forbidden us: the more we desire them, and from hence cometh the guiltiness, and occasion of death u Beareth it the blame of my death. x That sin might shew it self to be sin, and bewray it self to be that, which it is indeed. y As evil as it could, shewing all the venim it could. 8 The cause of this matter, is this, because that the law requireth a heavenly pureness, but men such as they be born, are bondslaves of corruption, which they willingly serve. 9 He setteth himself being regenerate, before us, for an example, in whom may easily appear the strife of the Spirit, and the flesh, and therefore of the law of God, and our wickedness: for since that the law in a man not regenerate bringeth forth death onely, therefore in him, it may easily be accused: but seeing that in a man which is regenerate, it bringeth forth good fruit, it doth better appear that evil actions proceed not from the law but from sin, that is, From our corrupt nature: And therefore the apostle teacheth also what the true use of the law is, in reproving sin in the regenerate, unto the end of the chapter: as a little before (to wit, From the seventh verse unto this fifteenth) he declareth the use of it in them which are not regenerate. † Gr. know. 10 The deeds of my life, saith he, answer not, nay, they are contrary to my will: therefore by the consent of my will with the law, and repugnance with the deeds of my life it appeareth evidently, that the law and a right ruled will, do perswade one thing, but corruption which hath her seat also in the regenerate, another thing. 11 It is to be noted that one self-same man is said to will and not to will, in divers respects: to wit, He is said to will, in that, that he is regenerate by grace: and not to will, in that, that he is regenerate at length or in that, that he is such an one as he was born; but because the part which is regenerate at length becometh conqueiour, therefore Paul sustaining the part of the regenerate, speaketh in such sort as if the corruption which sinneth willingly, were something without a man: although afterward he granteth that this evil is in his flesh, or in his members.

2 That natural corruption, which cleaveth fast even to them that are regenerate, & not clean conquered.
12 This vice, or sin, or law of sin, doth wholly possess those men which are not regenerate, and hindreth them or holdeth them back that are regenerate.
a This doth indeed agree to that man, whom the grace of God hath made a new man: for where the spirit is not, how can there be any strife there?
13 The conclusion: As the law of God exhorteth to goodness, so doth the law of sin (that is, The corruption wherein we are born) force us to wickedness, but the spirit, that is, Our mind, in that that it is the regenerate, consenteth with the law of God: but the flesh, that is, The whole natural man, is bondslave to the law of sin: therefore to be short, wickedness and death are not of the law, but of sin, which reigneth in them that are not regenerate: for they neither will, nor do good: but will, and do evil: but in them that are regenerate, it striveth against the spirit or law of the mind, so that they cannot neither live so well as they would, or be so void of sin as they would. b The inward man, and the new man are all one, and are answerable and set as contrary to the old man, neither doth this word, Inward man, signify mans mind and reason, and the old man, the powers that are under them, as the philosophers imagine, but by the outward man is meant whatsoever is either without or within a man from top to toe, so long as that man is not born anew by the grace of God. c That law of the mind in this place, is not to be understood of the mind as it is naturally, and as our mind is from our birth, but of the mind which is renewed by the spirit of God. 14 It is a miserable thing to be yet in part subject to sin, which of its own nature maketh us guilty of death: but we must cry to the Lord, who will by death it self at length make us conquerours, as we are already conquerours in Christ. d wearied with miserable and continual conflicts. ‡ Or, this body of death. e He recovereth himself and sheweth us that he resteth onely in Christ. f This is the true confession of them that are born anew, to confess that they are imperfect.

17 Now then, it is no more I that do it, but [z] sin that dwelleth in me.

18 [12] For I know, that in me (that is, in my flesh) dwelleth no good thing: for to will is present with me, but how to perform that which is good, [a] I find not.

19 For the good that I would, I do not: but the evil which I would not, that I do.

20 Now if I do that I would not, it is no more I that do it, but sin that dwelleth in me.

21 [13] I find then a law, that when I would do good, evil is present with me.

22 For I delight in the law of God, after the [b] inward man.

23 But I see another law in my members, warring against the law of my [c] mind, and bringing me into captivity to the law of sin, which is in my members.

24 [14] O [d] wretched man that I am, who shall deliver me from ‡ the body of this death!

25 I [e] thank God, through Jesus Christ our Lord. So then, with the mind I [f] my self serve the law of God; but with the flesh, the law of sin.

Chap. VIII.

1 They that are in Christ, and live according to the Spirit, are free from condemnation. 5, 13 What harm cometh of the flesh, 6, 14 and what good of the Spirit, 17 and what of being Gods children: 19 whose glorious deliverance all things long for. 29 It was beforehand decreed from God. 38 What can sever us from his love.

1 A conclusion of all the former disputation, from chap. 1. verse 16. even to this place: Seeing that we being justified by faith in Christ, do obtain remission of sins, and imputation of righteousness, and are also sanctified, it followeth thereof, that they that are grafted into Christ by faith, are out of all fear of condemnation. 2 The fruits of the Spirit, or effects of sanctification which is begun in us, do not ingraff us into Christ, but do declare that we are grafted into him. a Follow not the flesh for their guide: for he is not said to live after the flesh, that hath the holy Ghost for his guide, though sometimes he step away. 3 A preventing of an objection: Seeing that the virtue of the Spirit which is in us, is so weak, how may we gather thereby, that there is no condemnation to them that have that virtue? Because saith he, that virtue of the quickning spirit which is so weak in us, is most perfect and most mighty in Christ and being imputed unto us which believe, causeth us to be so accompted of, as though there were no reliques of corruption and death in us; therefore hitherto, Paul disputed of remission of sins, and imputation of fulfilling the law, and also of sanctification which is begun in us: but now he speaketh of the perfect imputation of Christs manhood, which part was necessarily required to the full appeasing of our consciences: for our sins are defaced by the bloud of Christ, and the guiltiness of our corruption is covered with the imputation of Christs obedience, and the corruption it self (which the apostle calleth sinful sin) is healed in us by little and little by the gift of sanctification: but yet lacketh beside that another remedy, to wit, The perfect sanctification of Christs own flesh, which also is to us imputed. b The power and authority of the Spirit, against which is set the tyranny of sin. c which mortifieth the old man, and quickneth the new men. d To wit, Absolutely and perfectly. e For Christs sanctification being imputed to us, perfecteth our sanctification which is begun in us. 4 He useth no argument here, but expoundeth the mystery of sanctification which is impured unto us: for because, saith he, that the virtue of the law was not such (and that by reason of the corruption of our nature) that it could make man pure and perfect, and for that it rather kindled the disease of sin, then did put it out to extinguish it, therefore God clothed his Son with flesh like unto our sinful flesh, wherein he utterly abolished our corruption, that being accompted throughly pure & without fault in him, apprehended & laid hold on by faith, we might be found to have fully that singular perfection which the law requireth, and therefore that there might be no condemnation in us. f which is not proper to the law, but cometh by our fault. g In man not born anew, whose disease the law could point out, but it could not heal it.

THere is [1] therefore now no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus, who [2] walk not after the [a] flesh, but after the Spirit.

2 [3] For the [b] law of the spirit of [c] life, in [d] Christ Jesus, hath made me [e] free from the law of sin and death.

3 [4] For what the law could [i] not do, in that it was weak through the [5] flesh, God sending his own Son, in the likeness of [h] sinful flesh, and ‡ for [i] sin [k] condemned sin in the flesh:

4 That the [l] righteousness of the law might be fulfilled [5] in us, who walk not after the flesh, but after the spirit.

5 [6] For they that are after the [m] flesh, do mind the things of the flesh: but they that are after the Spirit, the things of the Spirit.

6 [7] For † to be carnally minded, is death; [8] but † to be spiritually minded, is life and peace:

7 [9] Because † the carnal mind is enmity against God: for it is not subject to the law of God, neither indeed can be.

8 [10] So then they that are in the flesh, cannot please God.

9 [11] But ye are not in the flesh, but in the Spirit, if so be that the Spirit of God dwell in you. Now if any man have not the Spirit of Christ, he is none of his.

10 [12] And if Christ be in you, the [n] body is dead because of sin; but the Spirit is life, because of righteousness.

11 [13] But if the Spirit of him that raised up Jesus from the dead, dwell in you; he that raised up Christ from the dead, shall also quicken your mortal bodies, ‡ by his Spirit that ° dwelleth in you.

12 [14] Therefore brethren, we are debters, not to the flesh, to live after the flesh.

13 [15] For if ye live after the flesh, ye shall die: but if ye through the Spirit do mortify the deeds of the body, ye shall live.

14 [16] For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the Sons of God.

15 [17] For ye have not received the [p] spirit of bondage [q] again to fear; but ye have received the * Spirit of [r] adoption, whereby we cry, Abba, father.

16 The Spirit it self beareth witness with our spirit, that we are the children of God.

17 [18] And if children, then heirs; [s] heirs of God, and joynt-heirs with Christ: [19] if so be h Of mans nature which is corrupt through sin, until he sanctified it.

i Or, by a sacrifice for sin.
l To abolish sin in our flesh.
k Sheweth that sin hath no right in us.
l The very substance of the law of God might be fulfilled, or that same which the law requireth, that we may be found just before God: for if with our justification there be joyned that sanctification which is imputed to us, we are just, according to that perfect form which the law requireth.
5 He returneth to that which he said: that the sanctification which is begun in us, is a sure testimony of our ingratting into Christ, which is a most plentiful fruit of a godly and honest life.
6 A reason why to walk after the flesh, agreeth not to them which are grafted in Christ, but to walk after the spirit, agreeth and is meet for them: because saith he, that they which are after the flesh savour the things of the flesh, but they that are after the Spirit, the things of the spirit.
m They that live as the flesh leadeth them.
7 He proveth the consequent because that whatsoever the flesh savoureth, that engendereth death: and whatsoever the spirit savoureth that tendeth to joy and life everlasting.
† Gr. the minding of the flesh.
8 A reason and proof why the wisdom of the flesh is death; because saith he, it is the enemy of God. † Gr. the minding of the Spirit 9 A reason why the flesh is enemy to God, because it neither will, neither can, be subject to him, and by flesh he meaneth a man not regenerate. † Gr. the minding of the flesh. 10 The conclusion, Therefore they that walk after the flesh, cannot please God: whereby it followeth, that they are not grafted into Christ. 11 He cometh to the others, to wit, To them which walk after the spirit, of whom we have to understand contrary things to the former: and first of all, he declareth what it is to be in the Spirit, or to be sanctified: to wit, To have the spirit of God dwelling in us. Then he declareth that sanctification is so joyned and knit to our grafting in Christ, that it can by no means be separated. 12 He confirmeth the faithful against the reliques of flesh and sin granting that they are yet (as appeareth by the corruption which is in them) touching one of their parts (which he calleth the body, that is to say, a lump) which is not yet purged from this earthly filthiness in death: but therewithal willing them to doubt nothing of the happy success of this combate, because that even this little spark of the spirit, (that is, Of the grace of regeneration) which appeareth to be in them by the fruits of righteousness, is the seed of life. n The flesh, or all that, which as yet sticketh fast in the clefts of sin and death. 13 A confirmation of the former sentence, You have the self-same Spirit which Christ hath: therefore at length it shall do the same in you, that it did in Christ, to wit, when all infirmities being utterly laid aside, and death overcome, it shall clothe you with heavenly glory. ‡ Or, because of his Spirit. o By the virtue and power of it which sheweth the same might, first in our head, and daily worketh in his members. 14 An exhortation to oppress the flesh daily more and more by the virtue of the spirit of the regeneration, because (saith he) you are debters unto God, forsomuch as you have received so many benefits of him. 15 Another reason of the profit that ensueth: for such as strive and fight valiantly, shall have everlasting life. 16 A confirmation of this reason: for they be the children of God, which are governed by his Spirit, therefore shall they have life everlasting. 17 He declareth and expoundeth by the way in these two verses, by what right this name to be called the children of God, is given to the believer, because saith he, they have received the grace of the gospel, wherein Gods sheweth himself, not (as before in the publishing of the law) terrible and fearful but a most benign and loving Father in Christ, so that with great boldness we call him Father, the holy Ghost sealing this adoption in our hearts by faith. p By the Spirit, is meant the holy Ghost whom we are said to receive, when he worketh in our minds. q which fear is stirred up in our minds by the preaching of the law. * Gal. 4. 6. r which sealeth our adoption in our minds, and therefore openeth our mouths. 18 A proof of the consequent of the confirmation: because that he which is the Son of God, doth enjoy God with Christ. s Partakers of our fathers goods, and that freely, because we are children by adoption 19 Now Paul teacheth by what way the sons of God do come to that felicity, to wit, By the cross, as Christ himself did: and therewithall openeth unto them fountains of comfort: as first, That we have Christ a companion and fellow of our afflictions. Secondly, That we shall be also his fellows in that everlasting glory.

that we ſuffer with him, that we may be alſo glorified together.

18 [20] For I [r] reckon, that the ſufferings of this preſent time, are not worthy to be compared with the glory which ſhall be reveiled in us.

19 [21] For the earneſt expectation of the [u] creature waiteth for the manifeſtation of the ſons of God.

20 For the creature was made ſubject to [x] vanity, [y] not willingly, but by reaſon of [z] him who hath ſubjected the ſame in [a] hope:

21 Becauſe the creature it ſelf alſo ſhall be delivered from the [b] bondage of corruption, into the glorious liberty of the children of God.

22 For we know that ‡ the whole creation groaneth, and [c] travelleth in pain together until now:

23 [22] And not onely they, but our [d] ſelves alſo, which have the firſt-fruits of the ſpirit, even we our ſelves groan within our ſelves, waiting for the adoption, to wit, the * [e] redemption of our body.

24 [23] For we are ſaved by hope: But hope that is ſeen, is not [f] hope: for what a man ſeeth, why doth he yet hope for?

25 But if we hope for that we ſee not, then do we with patience wait for it.

26 [24] Likewiſe the Spirit alſo [g] helpeth our infirmities: for we know not what we ſhould pray for as we ought: but the Spirit it ſelf maketh [h] interceſſion for us with groanings which cannot be uttered.

27 And he that ſearcheth the hearts, knoweth what is the [i] mind of the Spirit, ‡ becauſe he maketh interceſſion for the ſaints [k] according to the will of God.

28 [25] And we know that [l] all things work together for good, to them that love God, to them who are the called according to his [m] purpoſe.

29 For whom he did foreknow, he alſo did predeſtinate to be conformed to the image of his Son, that he might be the firſt-born among many brethren.

30 Moreover, whom he did [n] predeſtinate, them he alſo called: and whom he called, them he alſo juſtified: and whom he juſtified, them he alſo glorified.

31 [26] What ſhall we then ſay to theſe things? If God be for us, who can be againſt us?

20 Thirdly, That this glory which we look for, doth a thouſand parts ſurmount the miſery of our afflictions.

r All being well conſidered, I gather.

21 Fourthly, He plainly teacheth us, that we ſhall certainly be renewed from that confuſion and horrible deformation of the whole world, which cannot be continual, as it was not at the beginning: But as it had a beginning by the ſin of man for whom it was made by the ordinance of God, ſo ſhall it at length be reſtored with the elect.

u All this world.

x Is ſubject to a vaniſhing and flitting ſtate.

y Not by their natural inclination.

z That they ſhould obey the creatours commandment whom it pleaſeth to ſhew by their fickle ſtate, how greatly he was diſpleaſed with man.

a God would not make the world ſubject to an everlaſting curſe, for the ſin of man, but gave it in hope that it ſhould be reſtored.

b From the corruption which they are now ſubject to, they ſhall be delivered and changed into that bleſſed ſtate of incorruption, which ſhall be reveiled, when the ſons of God ſhall be advanced to glory.

c By this word is meant, not onely exceeding ſorrow, but alſo the fruit that followeth of it.

22 Fifthly, If the reſt of the world look for a reſtoring, groaning as it were for it, and that not in vain, let it not grieve us alſo to ſigh, yea, let us be more certainly perſwaded of our redemption to come, foraſmuch as we have the firſt-fruits of the ſpirit. d Even from the bottom of our hearts. * Luk. 21. 28. e That laſt reſtoring, which ſhall be the accompliſhment of our adoption. 23 Sixtly, hope is neceſſarily joyned with faith: ſeeing then that we believe thoſe things which we are not yet in poſſeſſion of, and hope reſpecteth not the thing that is preſent, we muſt therefore hope and patiently wait for that which we believe ſhall come to paſs f This is ſpoken by the figure metonomy: Hope, for that which is hoped for. 24 Seventhly, There is no cauſe why we ſhould faint under the burthen of afflictions, ſeeing that prayers miniſter unto us a moſt ſure help which cannot be fruſtrate, ſeeing they proceed from the Spirit of God which dwelleth in us. g Beareth our burden, as it were, that we faint not under it. h Provoketh us to prayers, and telleth us, as it were, within, what we ſhall ſay, and how we ſhall groan. i what ſobs and ſighs proceed from the inſtinct of his ſpirit. ‡ Or, that. k Becauſe he teacheth the godly to pray according to Gods will. 25. Eightly, we are not afflicted either by chance, or to our harm, but by Gods providence, for our great profit: who as he choſe us from the beginning, ſo hath he predeſtinate us to be made like to the image of his Son: and therefore will bring us in his time, being called and juſtified to glory, by the croſs. l Not onely afflictions, but whatſoever elſe. m He calleth that, purpoſe, which God hath from everlaſting appointed with himſelf according to his good will and pleaſure. n He uſeth the time paſt for the time preſent, as the Hebrews uſe, who ſometime ſet down the thing that is to come, by the time that is paſt, to ſignify the certainty of it: and he hath alſo a regard to gods continual working. 26 Ninthly, we have no cauſe to fear that the Lord will not give us whatſoever is profitable for us ſeeing that he hath not ſpared his own Son to ſave us.

32 He that ſpared not his own Son, but delivered him up for us all, how ſhall he not with him alſo freely [o] give us all things?

33 [27] Who ſhall lay any thing to the charge of Gods elect? It is [p] God that juſtifieth:

34 Who is he that condemneth? It is Chriſt that died, yea rather that is riſen again, who is even at the right hand of God, who alſo maketh interceſſion for us.

35 Who ſhall ſeparate us from the love of Chriſt? ſhall tribulation, or diſtreſs, or perſecution, or famin, or nakedneſs, or peril, or ſword?

36 (As it is written, * For thy ſake we are killed all the day long; we are accounted as ſheep for the ſlaughter)

37 [r] Nay in all theſe things we are more then conquerers, through him that loved us.

38 For I am perſwaded, that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things preſent, nor things to come,

39 Nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, ſhall be able to ſeparate us from the love of God which is in Chriſt Jeſus our Lord.

o Give us freely.

27 A moſt glorious and comfortable concluſion of the whole ſecond part of this epiſtle, that is of the treatiſe of juſtification. There are no accuſers that we have need to be afraid of before God, ſeeing that God himſelf abſolveth us as juſt: and therefore much leſs need we to fear damnation, ſeeing that we reſt upon the death and reſurrection of the almighty power & defence of Jeſus Chriſt; Therefore what can there be ſo weighty in this life, or of ſo great force and power, that might feat us, as though we might fall from the love of God, wherewith he loveth us in Chriſt? Surely nothing, ſeeing that it is in it ſelf moſt conſtant and ſure, and alſo in us being confirmed by ſtedfaſt faith.

p who pronounceth us not onely guiltleſs but alſo perfely juſt in his Son. q wherein Chriſt loveth us. * Pſal. 44. 22. r we are not overcome with ſo great and many miſeries and calamities, but alſo more then conquerours in all of them.

Chap. IX.

1 Paul is ſory for the Jews. 7 All the ſeed of Abraham were not the children of the promiſe. 18 God hath mercy upon whom he will. 21 The potter may do with his clay what he liſt. 25 The calling of the Gentiles, and rejecting of the Jews were foretold. 32 The cauſe why ſo few Jews embraced the righteouſneſs of faith.

I Say [1] the truth in Chriſt, I lie not, my conſcience alſo bearing me witneſs in the holy Ghoſt.

2 That I have great heavineſs and continual ſorrow in my heart.

3 For I could wiſh that my ſelf were ‡ [a] accurſed from Chriſt, for my brethren my kinſmen according to the [b] fleſh:

4 Who are Iſraelites; to whom pertaineth the adoption, and the [c] glory, and the ‡ [d] covenants, and the giving of the [e] law, and the [f] ſervice of God, and the [g] promiſes;

5 Whoſe are the fathers, and of whom as concerning the fleſh Chriſt came, who is over all, [2] God bleſſed for ever. Amen.

6 [3] Not as though the word of God hath taken none effect. For they are not all [h] Iſrael, which are of Iſrael:

7 Neither becauſe they are the ſeed of Abraham, are they all children: [4] but in * [i] Iſaac ſhall thy ſeed be called.

1 The third part of this epiſtle, even to the twelfth chapter, wherein Paul aſcendeth to the higher cauſes of faith: and firſt of all, becauſe he purpoſed to ſpeak much of the caſting off of the Jews, he uſeth an inſinuation, declaring by a double or triple oath, and by witneſſing of his great deſire towards their ſalvation, his ſingular love towards them, and therewithal granting unto them all their prerogatives.

a The apoſtle loved his brethren ſo entirely, that if it had been poſſible, he would have been ready to have redeemed the caſting away of the Iſraelites with the loſs of his own ſoul for ever: for this word, Accurſed, Betokeneth as much in this place. b Being brethren by fleſh, as of one nation and country. c The ark of the covenant, which was a token of Gods preſence. ‡ Or, teſtaments. d The tables of the covenant, and this is ſpoken by the figure metonomy. e Of the judicial law. f The ceremonial law. g which were made to Abraham and to his poſterity. 2 A moſt manifeſt teſtimony of the Godhead and divinity of Chriſt. 3 He entereth into the handling of predeſtination, by a kind of preventing an objection: How may it be, that Iſrael is caſt off, but that therewithal we muſt alſo make the covenant which God made with Abraham and his ſeed, fruſtrate and void? He anſwereth therefore, that Gods word is true, although that Iſrael be caſt off, for the election of the people of Iſrael is ſo general and common, that notwithſtanding the ſame God chuſeth by his ſecret counſel, ſuch as it pleaſeth him. So then, this is the propoſition and ſtate of this treatiſe: The grace of ſalvation is offered generally in ſuch ſort that notwithſtanding it, the efficacy thereof pertaineth onely to the elect. h Iſrael in the firſt place is taken for Jacob, and in the ſecond, for the Iſraelites. 4 The firſt proof taken from the example of Abrahams own houſe, wherein Iſaac only was accounted the ſon, and that by Gods ordinance: although that Iſmael alſo was born of Abraham, and circumciſed before Iſaac. * Gen. 21. 12. i Iſaac ſhall be thy true and natural ſon, and therefore heir of thy bleſſing.

c A general application of the former proof or example.
k which are born of Abraham by the course of nature.
a Gal. 4. 28.
l which are born by virtue of the promise.
6 A reason of that application: Because that Isaac was born by the virtue of the promise and therefore he was not chosen, nay, he was not at all, but by the free will of God: whereby it followeth, that the promise is the fountain of predestination, and not the flesh, from which promise the particular election proceedeth, that is, That the elect be born elect, and not that they be first born, and then after elected in respect of God who doth predestinate.
* Gen. 18. 10.
7 Another forcible proof taken from the example of Esau and Jacob, which were both born of the same Isaac; which was the son of the promise, of one mother, and at one birth, and not at divers, as Ismael and Isaac were: and yet notwithstanding, Esau being cast off, onely Jacob was chosen: and that before their birth, that neither any goodness of Jacobs, might be thought to be the cause of his election, neither any wickedness of Esaus, of his casting away. m Gods decree which proceedeth of his meer good will, whereby it pleaseth him to chuse one, and refuse the other. 8 Paul saith not, Might be made, but, Being made might remain; therefore they are deceived which make foreseen faith the cause of election, and foreknown infidelity the cause of reprobation. 9 He proveth the casting away of Esau, by that, that he was made servant to his brother: and proveth the chusing of Jacob, by that, that he was made lord of his brother, although his brother was the first begotten; and lest any man might take this saying of God, and refer it to external things, the apostle sheweth out of Malachi, who is a good interpreter of Moses, that the servitude of Esau was joyned with the hatred God, and the lordship of Jacob, with the love of God. * Gen. 25. 23. ‡ Or, greater. ‡ Or, lesser. * Mal. 1. 2, 3. 10 The first objection, If God doth love or hate upon no consideration of worthiness, or unworthiness, then is he unjust, because he may love them which are unworthy, and hate them that are worthy. The apostle detesteth this blasphemy, and afterward answereth it severally, point by point. n Mans wit knoweth no other causes of love or hatred, but those that are in the persons, and thereupon this objection riseth. 11 He answereth first, touching them which are chosen to salvation: in the chusing of whom he denieth that God may seem unjust, although he chuse and predestinate to salvation them that are not yet born, without any respect of worthiness: because he bringeth not the chosen to the appointed end, but by the meanes of his mercy, which is a cause next under predestination. Now mercy presupposeth misery, and again, misery presupposeth sin or voluntary corruption of mankind, and corruption presupposeth a pure and perfect creation. Moreover, mercy is shewed by her degrees: to wit, By calling, by faith, by justification and sanctification, so that at length we come to glorification, as the apostle will shew afterward. Now all these things orderly following the purpose of God, do clearly prove that he can by no means seem unjust in loving and saving his. * Exod. 33. 19. o I will be merciful and favourable to whom I list to be favourable. p I will have compassion on whomsoever I list to have compassion. 12 The conclusion of the answer; therefore God is not unjust in chusing and saving of his free goodness, such as it pleaseth him: as he also answered Moses when he prayed for all the people. q By will, he meaneth the thought and endeavour of heart, and by running, good works, to neither of which he giveth the praise, but onely to the mercy of God. 13 Now he answereth concerning the reprobate, or them whom God hateth, being not yet born, and hath appointed to destruction without any respect of unworthiness. And first of all he proveth this to be true, by alledging the testimony of God himself touching Pharaoh, whom he stirred up to this purpose, that he might be glorified in his hardning and just punishing. r God so speaketh unto Pharaoh in the scripture, or, the scripture bringeth in God, so speaking to Pharaoh. * Exod. 9. 16. s Brought thee into this world. 14 Secondly, He bringeth the end of Gods counsel, to shew that there is no unrighteousness in him. Now this chiefest end is, not properly and simply the destruction of the wicked, but Gods glory which appeareth in their rightful punishment. 15 A conclusion of the full answer to the first objection: therefore seeing God doth not save them whom he freely chose according to his good will and pleasure, but by justifying and sanctifying them by his grace, his counsel in saving them cannot seem unjust. And again there is no unjustice in the everlasting counsel of God, touching the destruction of them whom he listeth to destroy, for that he hardneth before he destroyeth: Therefore the third answer for the maintenance of Gods justice in the everlasting counsel of reprobation, consisteth in this word, Hardning: which notwithstanding he conceiled in the former verse, because the history of Pharaoh was well known. But the force of the word is great, for hardning which is set against mercy, presupposeth the same things that mercy did, to wit, A voluntary corruption, wherein the reprobates are hardned: and again, corruption presupposeth a perfect state of creation. Moreover, this hardning also is voluntary, for God so hardneth, being offended with corruption, that he useth their own will whom he hardneth, to the executing of that judgment. Then follow the fruits of hardning, to wit, unbelief and sin, which are the true and proper causes of the condemnation of the reprobate, why doth he then appoint to destruction? Because he will: why doth he harden? Because they are corrupt: why doth he condemn? Because they are sinners. where is then unrighteousness? Nay, if he should destroy all after this sort, to whom should he do injure? t whom it pleased him to appoint to shew his favour upon.

8 [5] That is, They which are the children of the [k] flesh, these are not the children of God: * but the children of the [l] promise are counted for the seed.

9 [6] For this is the word of promise, * At this time will I come, and Sara shall have a son.

10 [7] And not onely this, but when Rebecca also had conceived by one, even by our father Isaac,

11 (For the children being not yet born, neither having done any good or evil, that the [m] purpose of God according to election [8] might stand, not of works, but of him that calleth)

12 [9] It was said unto her, The * ‡ elder shall serve the ‡ younger.

13 As it written, * Jacob have I loved, but Esau have I hated.

14 [10] What shall we say then? is there [n] unrighteousness with God? God forbid.

15 [11] For he saith to Moses, * I will have [o] mercy on whom I will have mercy, and I will have [p] compassion on whom I will gave compassion.

16 [12] So then it is not of him that [q] willeth, nor of him that runneth, but of God that sheweth mercy.

17 [13] For the [r] scripture saith unto Pharaoh, * Even for this same purpose have I [s] raised thee up, that I might [14] shew my power in thee, and that my name might be declared throughout all the earth.

18 [15] Therefore hath he mercy on whom [t] he will have mercy, and whom he will, he hardeneth.

19 [16] Thou wilt say then unto me, Why doth he yet find fault? For who hath resisted his will?

20 [17] Nay, but O man, who art thou that ‡ repliest against God? * [18] shall the thing formed say to him that [u] formed it, Why hast thou made me thus?

21 [16] Hath not the * potter power over the clay, of the same lump to make one [20] vessel unto [x] honour, and another unto [21] dishonour?

22 [22] What if God, willing to shew his wrath, and to make his power known, endured with much long-suffering the [y] vessels of wrath ‡ fitted to [23] destruction:

23 And that he might make known the [z] riches of his glory on the vessels of mercy, which he had afore prepared unto glory?

24 [24] Even us whom he hath called, not of the [q] Jews onely, but also of the Gentiles.

25 [25] As he saith also in Osee, * I will call them my people, which were not my people; and her, beloved, which was not beloved.

26 * And it shall come to pass, that in the place where it was said unto them, Ye are not my people; there shall they be called, The children of the living God.

27 [26] Esaias also crieth concerning Israel, * Though the number of the children of Israel be as the sand of the sea, a remnant shall be saved.

28 For he will finish ‡ the work, and cut it short in righteousness: because a [b] short work will the Lord make upon the earth.

29 And as Esaias said before, * Except the Lord of [c] sabaoth had left us a [d] seed, we had been as Sodoma, and been made like unto Gomorrha.

30 [27] What shall we say then? That the Gen-

16 Another objection, but onely for the reprobate, rising upon the former answer. If God do appoint to everlasting destruction, such as he listeth, and if that cannot be hindred notwithstanding, that he hath once decreed, how doth he justly condemn them, which perish by his will?
17 The apostle doth not answer that it is not Gods will, for that God doth not either reject or elect according to his pleasure, which thing the wicked call blasphemy, but he rather granteth his adversary both the antecedents, to wit, That it is Gods will, and that it must of necessity so fall out, yet he denieth that God is therefore to be thought an unjust revenger of the wicked: for seeing it appeareth by manifest proof, that this is the will of God, and his doing, what impudency is it for man, which is but dust and ashes, to dispute with God, and as it were to call him into judgment? Now if any man say that the doubt is not so dissolved and answered, I answer, that there is no farther demonstration in any matter, because it is grounded upon this principal, That the will of God is the rule of righteousness.
‡ Or, answerest again, or, disputest with God. * Isa. 45. 9. 18 An amplification of the former answer, taken from a comparison, whereby also it appeareth that Gods determinate counsel is set of Paul the highest of all causes: so that it dependeth not upon any respect of the second causes, but doth rather frame and direct them. u This similitude agreeth very fitly to the first creation of mankind. 19 Alluding to the creation of Adam, he compareth mankind not yet made, (but in the creatours mind) to a lump of clay: whereof afterward God made and doth daily make according as he purposed from everlasting, both such as should be elect, and such as should be reprobate, as also this word, Making, declareth. * Jer. 18. 6. 20 whereas in the objection propounded, mention was onely made of vessels to dishonour, yet he speaketh of the other also in this answer, for that he proveth the Creatour to be just in either of them, as the rule of contraries, requireth. x To honest uses. 21 Seeing then, that in the name of dishonour, the ignominy of everlasting death is signified, they speak with Paul, which say, that some are made of God to most just destruction, and they that are offended with this kind of speech bewray their own folly. 22 The second answer is this, That God, moreover and besides that he doth justly decree whatsoever he doth decree, useth that moderation in executing of his decrees as declareth his singular lenity even in the reprobate, in that, that he suffereth them a long time, and permitteth them to enjoy many and singular benefits, until at length he justly condemn them: and that to good end and purpose, to wit to shew himself to be an enemy and revenger of wickedness, that it may appear what power he is of by these severe judgments, and finally by comparison of contraries to set forth indeed, how great his mercy is towards the elect. y By vessels, the Hebrews understand all kinds of instruments. ‡ Or, made up. 23 Therefore again, we may say with Paul, That some men are made of God the creatour to destruction. z The unmeasurable and marvellous greatness. 24 Having established the doctrine of the eternal predestination of God on both parts, that is, as well of the reprobate, as of the elect, he cometh now to shew the use of it, teaching us that we ought not to seek the testimony of it in the secret counsel of God, but by the vocation which is made manifest, and set forth in the church, propounding unto us the example of the Jews and Gentiles, that the doctrine, may be better perceived. a He sayeth not that all and every one of the Jews are called, but some of the Jews, and some of the Gentiles. 25 Our vocation or calling is free, and of grace, even as our predestination is: and therefore there is no cause, why either our own unworthiness, or the unworthiness of our ancestors should cause us to think that we are not the elect and chosen of God, if we be called of him, and so embrace through faith the salvation that is offered us. * Hos. 2. 23. 1 Pet. 2. 10. * Hos. 1. 10. 26 Contrariwise, Neither any outward general calling, neither any worthiness of our ancestors, is a sufficient witness of election, unless by faith and belief we answer Gods calling: which thing came to pass in the Jews, as the Lord had forewarned * Isa. 10. 22, 23. ‡ Or, the account. b God purposeth to bring the unkind and unthankful people to an extream fewness. * Isa. 1. 9. c Armies, by which word, the chiefest power that is, given to God. d Even a very few. 27 The declaration and manifestation of our election, is our calling, apprehended by faith, as it came to pass in the Gentiles.

tiles which followed not after [e] righteouſneſs, have attained to righteouſneſs, even the righteouſneſs which is of faith:

31 [28] But Iſrael, which followed after the law of righteouſneſs, hath not attained to the law of righteouſneſs.

32 Wherefore? Becauſe they ſought it, not by faith, but as it where by the [f] works of the law: for they ſtumbled at that ſtumbling-ſtone;

33 As it is written, * Behold, I lay in Sion a ſtumbling-ſtone, and rock of offence: and whoſoever believeth on him, ſhall not be ‡ aſhamed.

e So then the Gentiles had no works to prepare and procure Gods mercy beforehand: and as for that the Gentiles attained to that which they ſought not for, the mercy of God is to be thanked for it: and in that the Jews attained not to that which they ſought after, they can thank none for it but themſelves, becauſe they ſought it not aright.

28 The pride of men is the cauſe that they contemn vocation, ſo that the cauſe of their damnation need not to be ſought for any other where but in themſelves. f Seeking to come by righteouſneſs, they followed the law of righteouſneſs. * Iſa. 8. 14. & 28, 16. 1 Pet. 2. 6. ‡ Or, confounded.

Chap. X.

5 The ſcripture ſheweth the difference betwixt the righteouſneſs of the law, and this of faith, 11 and that all, both Jew and Gentile, that believe, ſhall not be confounded, 18 and that the Gentiles ſhall receive the word, and believe. 19 Iſrael was not ignorant of theſe things.

BRethren, [1] my hearts deſire and prayer to God for Iſrael is, that they might be ſaved.

2 For I bear them record, that they have a zeal of God, but not according to knowledge.

3 [2] For they [a] being ignorant of Gods righteouſneſs, and going about to [b] eſtabliſh their own righteouſneſs, have not ſubmitted themſelves unto the righteouſneſs of God.

4 [3] For Chriſt is the [c] end of the law for righteouſneſs to [d] every one that believeth.

5 [4] For Moſes deſcribeth the righteouſneſs which is of the law, *That the man which doth thoſe things, ſhall live by them.

6 But the righteouſneſs which is of faith, ſpeaketh on this wiſe, * [e] Say not in thine heart, Who ſhall aſcend into heaven? (that is to bring Chriſt down from above)

7 Or who ſhall deſcend into the deep? (that is to bring up Chriſt again from the dead)

8 [5] But what ſaith it? *[f] The word is nigh thee, even in thy mouth, and in thy heart: that is the word of faith which we preach,

9 [6] That if thou ſhalt [g] confeſs with thy mouth the Lord Jeſus, and ſhalt believe in thine heart, that [h] God hath raiſed him from the dead, thou ſhalt be ſaved.

10 For with the heart man [i] believeth unto righteouſneſs, and with the mouth confeſſion is made unto ſalvation.

11 [7] For the ſcripture ſaith, * Whoſoever [k] believeth on him, ſhall not be aſhamed.

12 For there is no difference between the Jew and the Greek: for the ſame Lord over all, is rich unto all that call upon him.

13 * [8] For whoſoever ſhall call upon the name of the Lord, ſhall be ſaved.

14 How then ſhall they call on him in whom they have not believed? [9] and how ſhall they believe in him of whom they have not heard? and how ſhall they hear without a preacher?

15 And how ſhall they preach, except they be ſent? as it written, * How beautiful are the feet of them that preach the goſpel of peace, and bring glad tidings of good things!

16 [10] But they have not [l] all obeyed the goſpel. For Eſaias ſaith, * Lord, who hath believed † our ‡ report?

17 [11] So then, faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by [m] the word of God.

18 [12] But I ſay, Have they not heard? Yes verily, * their ſound went into all the earth, and their words unto the ends of the world.

19 [13] But I ſay, Did not Iſrael know? Firſt, Moſes ſaith, * I will provoke you to jealouſy, by them that are [n] no people, and by a fooliſh nation I will anger you.

20 But Eſaias is very [o] bold, and ſaith, * I was found of them that ſought me not; I was made manifeſt unto them that asked not after me.

21 But to Iſrael he ſaith, * All day long I have ſtretched forth my hands unto a diſobedient and gainſaying people.

1 Purpoſing to ſet forth in the Jews an example of marvellous obſtinacy, he uſeth an inſinuation.

2 The firſt entrance into the vocation unto ſalvation, is to renounce our own righteouſneſs: the next is to embrace that righteouſneſs by faith, which God freely offereth us in the goſpel.

a The ignorance of the law which we ought to know, excuſeth none before God, eſpecially it excuſeth not them that are of his houſhold.

b Ignorance hath alway pride joyned with it.

3 The proof: the law it ſelf hath reſpect unto Chriſt, that ſuch as believe in him ſhould be ſaved. Therefore the calling to ſalvation by the works of the law, is vain and fooliſh: but Chriſt is offered for ſalvation to every believer.

c The end of the law is, to juſtify them that keep the law: but ſeeing we do not obſerve the law through the fault of our fleſh, we attain not to this end: but Chriſt ſalveth this diſeaſe, for he fulfiled the law for us. d Not onely to the Jews, but alſo to the Gentiles. 4 That the law regardeth and tendeth to Chriſt, this is a manifeſt proof, for that it propundeth ſuch a condition as can be, and is fulfilled of none but of Chriſt onely: which being imputed unto us by faith, our conſcience is quieted, ſo that now no man can ask, who can aſcend up into heaven, or bring us from hell, ſeeing the goſpel teacheth that both of theſe is done by Chriſt, and that for their ſakes, which with true faith embrace him which calleth them. * Levit. 18. 5. Ezek. 20. 11. Gal. 3. 12. * Deut. 30. 12. e Think not with thy ſelf, as men that are ſtaggering uſe to do. 5 Vocation cometh by the word preached. * Deut. 30. 14. f By the word, Moſes underſtood the law which the Lord publiſhed with his own voice: and Paul applieth it to the preaching of the goſpel, which was the perfection of the law. 6 That is, Indeed true faith which is ſetled not onely in the head, but alſo in the heart of man, whereof alſo we give teſtimony by outward life, and which tendeth to Chriſt as to our alone and onely Saviour, even as he ſetteth forth himſelf in his word. g If thou profeſs plainly, ſincerely, and openly, that thou takeſt Jeſus onely to be thy Lord and Saviour. h The Father who is ſaid to have raiſed the Son from the dead: and this is not ſpoken to ſhut out the divinity of the Son: but to ſet forth the Fathers counſel touching our redemption in the reſurrection of the Son. i Faith is ſaid to juſtify, and furthermore ſeeing the confeſſion of the mouth, is an effect of faith, and confeſſion is the way to come to ſalvation, it followeth that faith is alſo ſaid to ſave. 7 Now he proveth the other part which he propounded afore in the fourth verſe, to wit, That Chriſt calleth whomſoever he liſteth without any difference, and this he confirmeth by a double teſtimony. * Iſai. 28. 16.

k To believe in God, is to yeild and conſent to Gods promiſe of our ſalvation by Chriſt, and that not onely in general, but when we know that the promiſes pertain to us, whereupon riſeth a ſure truſt.

* Joel 2. 32. Acts 2. 21.

8 True calling upon the name of God is the teſtimony of true faith, and true faith of true vocation or calling, and true calling of true election.

9 That is, True faith, which ſeeketh God in his word, and that preached: according as God hath appointed in the church.

* Iſa. 52. 7. Nah. 1. 15.

10 whereſoever faith is, there is alſo the word, but not contrariwiſe, whereſoever the word is, there is faith alſo: for many refuſe and reject the word.

l He ſpeaketh this becauſe of the Jews.

* Iſa. 53. 1. John 12. 38.

Gr. the hearing of us.

‡ Or, preaching.

11 A concluſion of the former gradation: we muſt aſcend from faith to our vocation, as by our vocation we came to the teſtimony of our election.

m By Gods commandment.

12 An objection: If calling be a teſtimony of election, were not the Jews called? why ſhould I not grant that, ſaith the apoſtle, ſeeing that there is no nation which hath not been called? much leſs can I ſay, that the Jews were not called. * Pſal. 19. 4. 13 The defender and maintainer of the Jews cauſe, goeth on ſtill to ask, whether the Jews alſo knew not God which called them, Eſai (ſaith the apoſtle) denieth it: and witneſſeth that the goſpel was tranſlated from them to the gentiles, becauſe the Jews neglected it. And there withal the apoſtle teacheth, that that outward and univerſal calling, which is ſet forth by the creation of the world, ſufficeth not to the knowledge of God: yea, and that the particular alſo which is by the word of God, is of it ſelf of ſmall or no efficacy, unleſs it be apprehended or laid hold on by faith, by the gift of God, otherwiſe by unbelief it is made unprofitable, and that by the onely fault of man, who can pretend no ignorance. * Deut. 32. 21. n He calleth all prophane people, becauſe not being the Lords people, they are as no people. o Speaketh without fear. * Iſa. 65. 1. * Iſa. 65. 2.

Chap XI.

1 God hath not caſt off all Iſrael. 7 Some were elected though the reſt were hardned. 16 There is hope of their converſion. 18 The Gentiles may not inſult upon them. 26 For there is a promiſe of their ſalvation. 33 Gods judgments are unſearchable.

ISay then, [1] Hath God caſt away his people? God forbid. For [2] I alſo am an Iſraelite of the ſeed of Abraham, of the tribe of Benjamin.

2 [3] God hath not caſt away his people which he [a] foreknew. [4] Wot ye not what the ſcripture ſaith of Elias? how he maketh interceſſion to God againſt Iſrael, ſaying,

3 * Lord, they have killed thy prophets, and digged

1 Now the apoſtle ſheweth how this doctrine is to be applied to others, abiding ſtill in his propounded cauſe; Therefore he teacheth us, that all the Jews in particular, are not caſt away, and therefore we ought not to pronounce raſhly of private perſons, whether they be of the number of the elect, or not. 2 The firſt proof: I am a Jew and yet elected, therefore we may, and ought fully to reſolve upon our election as hath been before ſaid: but of another mans we cannot be ſo certainly reſolved, and yet ours may cauſe us to hope well of others. 3 The ſecond proof: Becauſe that God is faithful in his league or covenant, although men be unfaithful: ſo then, ſeeing that God hath ſaid, that he will be the God of his unto a thouſand generations, we muſt take heed, that we think not that the whole race and offſpring is caſt off, by reaſon of the unbelief of a few, but rather that we hope well of every member of the church, becauſe of Gods league and covenant. a which he loved and choſe from everlaſting. 4 The third proof taken from the anſwer that was made to Elias: even then alſo, when there appeared openly to the face of the world no elect, yet God knew his elect and choſen, and of them alſo great ſtore and number. whereupon this alſo is concluded, that we ought not raſhly to pronounce of any man as of a reprobate, ſeeing that the church is oftentimes brought to that ſtate, that even the moſt watchful and ſharp ſighted paſtours, think it to be clean extinct and put out.

* 1 King. 19. 14.

digged down thine altars; and I am left alone, and they seek my life.

4 But what saith the answer of God unto him? * I have [b] reserved to my self seven thousand men, who have not bowed the knee to the image of [c] Baal.

5 Even so then at this present time also there is a remnant according to the [d] election of grace.

6 [5] And if by grace, then it is [e] no more of works: otherwise grace is no more grace. But if it be of works, then is it no more grace: otherwise work is no more work.

7 What then? Israel hath not obtained that which he seeketh for; but the election hath obtained it, and the rest were ‡ [f] blinded:

8 [6] According as it is written, * God hath given them the spirit of ‡ [g] slumber,* eyes that they [h] should not see, and ears that they should not hear, unto this day.

9 And David saith, * [i] Let their table be made a snare, and a trap, and a stumbling-block, and a recompense unto them.

10 * Let their eyes be darkned, that they may not see, and bowe down their back alway.

11 [7] I say then, Have they stumbled that they should fall? God forbid: but rather through their fall salvation is come unto the Gentiles, for to provoke them to jealousy.

12 Now if the fall of them be the riches of the world, and the ‡ diminishing of them the [k] riches of the Gentiles: how much more their [l] fulness?

13 [8] For I speak to you Gentiles, in as much as I am the apostle of the Gentiles, [m] I magnify mine office:

14 If by any means I may provoke to emulation them which are my flesh, and might save some of them.

15 For if the casting away of them be the reconciling of the world; what shall the receiving of them be, [n] but life from the dead?

16 [9] For if the [o] first-fruit be holy, the lump is also holy: and if the root [p] be holy, so are the branches.

17 [10] And if some of the branches be broken off, and thou being a wild olive-tree, wert grafted in ‡ [q] amongst them, and with them [r] partakest of the root and fatness of the olive-tree;

18 [f] Boast not against the branches: but if thou boast, thou beares not the root, but the root thee.

19 Thou wilt say then, The branches were broken off, that I might be grafted in.

20 Well; because of unbelief they were broken off, and thou standest by faith. Be not high-minded, but [t] fear.

21 For if God spared not the [u] natural branches, take heed lest he also spare not thee.

22 [11] Behold therefore the [x] goodness, and severity of God: on them which fell, severity; but towards thee, [y] goodness, if thou continue in his goodness: otherwise thou also shalt be cut off.

23 [12] And they also, if they bide not still in unbelief, shall be grafted in: for God is able to graff them in again.

24 For if thou wert cut out of the olive-tree which is wild by [z] nature, and wert grafted contrary to nature into a [a] good olive-tree; how much more shall these which be the natural branches, be grafted into their own olive-tree?

25 [13] For I would not, brethren, that ye should be ignorant of this mystery (lest ye should be wise in your own [b] conceits) that ‡ blindness in part is happened to Israel, untill the fulness of the Gentiles be [c] come in.

26 And so all Israel shall be saved: as it is written, * There shall come out of Sion the deliverer, and shall turn away ungodliness from Jacob.

27 For this is my covenant unto them, when I shall take away their sins.

28 [14] As concerning the [d] gospel, they are enemies for your sake: but as touching the [e] election, they are beloved for the fathers sakes.

29 [15] For the gifts and calling of God are without repentance.

30 [16] For as ye in times past have not ‡ believed God, yet have now obtained mercy through their unbelief:

31 Even so have these also now not ‡ believed, that through your mercy they also may obtain mercy.

143

q In place of these boughs which are broken off.

r It is against the common course of husbandry, that the barren juyce of the imp is changed with the juyce of the good tree.

s we may rejoyce in the Lord, but so that we despise not the Jews, whom we ought rather to provoke to that good striving with us.

t See that thou stand in awe of God modestly and carefully.

u He calleth them natural, not because they had any holiness of nature, but because they were born of them whom the Lord set apart for himself from other nations, by his league and covenant, which he freely made with them.

11 Seeing the matter it self declareth that election cometh not by inheritance (although the fault be in men, and not in God, why the blessing of God is not perpetual) we must take good heed that that be not found in our selves, which we think blameworthy in others, for the election is sure, but they that are truely elect and ingrafted, are not proud in themselves with contempt of other, but with due reverence to God, and love towards their neighbour, run to the mark which is set before them.

x The tender and loving heart.

y In that state which God his bountifulness hath advanced thee unto, and we must mark here, that he speaketh not of the election of every private man, which remaineth stedfast for ever but of the election of the whole nation.

12 Many are now for a season cut off, that is, Are without the root, which in their time shall be grafted in: and again there are a great sort, which after a sort, and touching the outward shew, seem to be ingrafted, which notwithstanding through their own fault afterward are cut off, and clean cast away.

z Understand nature, not as it was first made, but as it was corrupted in Adam, and so derived from him to his posterity. a Into the people of the Jews, which God had sanctified of his meer grace: and he speaketh of the whole nation, not of every one apart. 13 The blindness of the Jews is neither so universal, that the Lord hath no elect in that nation, neither shall it be continual: for there shall be a time wherein they also (as the prophets have fore-warned) shall effectualy embrace that, which they do now so stubbornly, for the most part, reject and refuse. b That ye be not proud within your selves. ‡ Or, hardness. c Into the church.

* Isa. 59. 20. 14 Again, that he may joyn the Jews and Gentiles together as it were in one body, and especially may teach what duty the Gentiles owe to the Jews, he beateth this into their heads, that the nation of the Jews is not utterly cast off without hope of recovery. d Forasmuch as they receive it not. e In that that God respecteth not what they deserve, but what he promised to Abraham. 15 The reason or proof, because the covenant made with that nation of life everlasting, cannot be frustrate and vain. 16 Another reason: Because that although they which are hardned, are worthily punished, yet hath not this stubbornes of the Jews so come to pass properly for an hatred to that nation, but that an entry might be, as it were, opened to bring in the Gentiles, and afterward the Jews, being inflamed with emulation of that mercy which is shewed to the Gentiles, might themselves also be partakers of the same benefit, and so it might appear that both Jews and Gentiles are saved only by the free mercy and grace of God, which could not have been so manifest, if at the beginning God had brought all together into the church, or if he had saved the nation of the Jews without this interruption.

* 1 King. 19. 18. b He speaketh of remnants and reserved people which were chosen from everlasting, and not of remnants that should be chosen afterward, for they are not chosen, because they were not idolaters: but therefore they were not idolaters, because they were chosen and elect.

c Baal signifieth as much as Masters or Patron, or one in whose power another is, which name the idolaters at this day give their idols, naming them Patrons, and Patronesses, or Ladies.

d The election of grace is not whereby men chose grace, but whereby God chose us of his grace and goodness.

5 Although that all be not elect and chosen, yet let them that are elected, remember that they are freely chosen: and let them that stubbornly refuse the grace and free mercy of God, impute it unto themselves.

e This saying, beateth down flat to the ground all the doctrine of all kinds and manner of works, whereby our justifiers of themselves do teach, that works are either wholy, or partly the cause of our justification.

f Look Mark 3. 5. 6 And yet this hardness of heart cometh not but by Gods just decree and judgment: and yet without fault, whereas he so punisheth the unthankful by taking from them all sense and perseverance, and by doubling their darkness, that the benefits of God which are offered unto them, do redound to their just destruction.

* Isa. 29. 10. ‡ Or, remorse. g A very dead sleep, which taketh away all sense.

* Isa. 6. 9. h That is, Eyes unfit to see. * Psal. 69. 22. i As unhappy birds are inticed to death by that which is their sustenance, so did that only thing turn to the Jews destruction, out of which they sought life, to wit, The law of God, for the preposterous veil whereof they refused the gospel. * Psal. 69. 23. 7 God appointed this casting off the Jews, that it might be an occasion to call the Gentiles: and again, might turn this calling of the Gentiles, to be an occasion to restore the Jews, to wit, That they being inflamed and provoked by emulation of the Gentiles, might themselves at length embrace the gospel. And hereby we may learn, that the severity of God serveth as well to the setting forth of his glory, as his mercy doth, and also that God prepareth himself a way to mercy, by his severity: so that we ought not rashly to despair of any man, nor proudly triumph over other men, but rather provoke them to an holy emulation, that God may be glorified in them also. ‡ Or, decay, or, loss. k By riches, He meaneth the knowledge of the gospel, to everlasting life: And by the world, all nations dispersed throughout the whole world. l Of the Jews, when the whole nation, without exception shall come to Christ. 8 He witnesseth by his own example, that he goeth before all other in this behalf. m I make noble and famous. n It shall come to pass that when the Jews come to the gospel, the world shall, as it were, quicken again, and rise up from death to life. 9 The nation of the Jews being considered in their stock, and root, that is, in Abraham, is holy, although that many of the branches be cut off. Therefore in judging of our brethren, we must not stick in their unworthiness, to think that they are at once all cast off, but we ought to consider the root of the covenant, and rather go back to their ancestors when were faithful that we may know that the blessing of the covenant resteth in some of their posterity, as we also find proof hereof in our selves. o He alludeth to the first fruits of those loaves, by the offering whereof all the whole crop of corn was sanctified, and they might use the rest of the year following with good conscience. p Abraham. 10 There is no cause why the Gentiles which have obtained mercy, should triumph over the Jews which contemn the grace of God, seeing they are grafted into the Jews ancestours; but let them rather take heed, that that also be not found in them which is worthily condemned in the Jews. And hereof also this general doctrine may be gathered and taken, that we ought to be studious of Gods glory, even in repect of our neighbours: so far ought we to be from bragging and glorying, for that, that we are preferred before others by a singular grace.

32 For God hath ‡ concluded them [f] all in unbelief, that he might have mercy upon all.

33 [17] O the depth of the riches both of the wisdom and knowledge of God! how unsearcheable are his [g] judgments, and his [h] ways past finding out!

34 * [18] For who hath known the mind of the Lord, or who hath been his counseller?

35 Or who hath [i] first given to him, and it shall be recompensed unto him again?

36 For of him, and through him, and [k] to him are all things: to whom be glory for ever. Amen.

‡ Or, joint them all up together.
f Both Jews and Gentiles.
17 The apostle cryeth out as astonished with this wonderful wisdom of God, which he teacheth us, ought to be religiously reverenced, and not curiously, and profanely to be searched beyond the compass of that, that God hath revealed unto us.
g The course that he holdeth in governing all things both generally and particularly. h The orders of his counsels and doings. * Isa. 40. 13. 1 Cor. 2. 16. 18 He bridleth three manner of ways, the wicked boldness of man: First, because that God is above all most wise, and therefore it is very absurd, and plainly godless to measure him by our folly. Moreover, because he is debtour to no man, and therefore no man can complain of injury done unto him. Thirdly, because all things are made for his glory, and therefore we must refer all things to his glory, much less may we contend and debate the matter with him. i This saying overthroweth the doctrine of foreseen works and merits. k To wit, For God, to whose glory all things are referred, not onely things that were made, but especially his new works which he worketh in his elect.

CHAP. XII.

1 Gods mercies must move us to please God. 3 No man must think too well of himself, 6 but attend every one on that calling, wherein he is placed. 9 Love, and many other duties are required of us. 19 Revenge is specially forbidden.

1 The fourth part of this epistle, which after finishing of the chief points of christian doctrine, consisteth in declaring of precepts of Christian life. And first of all he giveth general precepts and grounds, the chiefest whereof is this, that every man consecrate himself wholly to the spiritual service of God, and so as it were sacrifice himself, trusting to the grace of God.

I Beseech [1] you therefore, brethren, [a] by the mercies of God, that ye [b] present your [c] bodies [d] a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your [e] reasonable service.

2 [2] And be not conformed to this world: but * be ye transformed by the renewing of your [f] mind, that ye may * prove what is that good, and acceptable and perfect will of God.

3 [3] For [g] I say, through the grace given unto me, to every man that is among you, not to think of himself [h] more highly then he ought to think; but to think † [i] soberly according as God hath dealt * to every man the measure of [k] faith.

4 [4] * For as we have many members in one body, and all members have not the same office:

5 So we being many are one body in Christ, and every one members one of another.

6 [5] * Having then gifts, differing according to the grace that is given to us, whether prophesy, let us prophesy according to the [i] proportion of faith:

7 Or ministry, let us wait on our ministring; or he that [m] teacheth, on teaching;

a By this preface he sheweth that Gods glory is the utmost end of all our doings.
b In times past the sacrifices were presented before the altar: but now the altar is every where.
c Your selves: in times past, other bodies then our own now our own must be offered.
d In time past, dead sacrifices were offered, but now we must offer such as have the spirit of life in them. e Spiritual. 2 The second precept is this, That we take not other mens opinions or manners for a rule of life, but that we wholly renouncing this world, set before us as a mark, the will of God as it is manifest and opened unto us in his word. * Eph. 4. 23. f Why then there is no place left for reason, which the heathen philosophers place as a queen in a castel, nor for mans free will, which the popish schoolmen dream on, if the mind must be renewed, Look Ephs. 1. 18. & 2. 3. & 4. 17. Col. 1. 21. * Eph. 5. 17. 3 Thirdly, he admonisheth us very earnestly, that every man keep himself within the bounds of his vocation, and that every man be wise according to the measure of grace that God hath given him. g charge. h That he please not himself too much, as they do, which persuade themselvs heyt know more then indeed they do. † Gr. to sobriety. i we shall be sober, if if we take that upon us, which we have not, and if we brag not of that we have. * Eph. 4. 7. k By faith he meaneth the knowledge of God in Christ, and the gifts which the holy Ghost poureth upon the faithful. 4 There is a double reason of the precept going afore: the one is, because God hath not commited every thing to be done of every man: and therefore he oth backwardly, and not only unprofitably, but also to the great disprofit of others wearieth himself and others, which passeth the bounds of his vocation: the other is, for that this diversity and inequality of vocations and gifts redoundeth to our commodity: seeing that the same is therefore instituted and appointed, that we should be bound one to another, whereup n it followeth, that no man ought to be grieved thereat, seeing that the use of every private gift is common. * 1 Cor. 12. 12. 5 That which he spake before in general, he applieth particularly to the holy functions, wherein men offend with great danger. And he divideth them into two sorts: to wit, Into prophets and deacons: and again, he divideth the prophets into doctours and pastours. And of deacons he maketh three sorts, to wit, The one to be such as are (as it were) treasurers of the church coffers, whom he calleth properly Deacons: the other to be the governours of the discipline, who are called Seniours, or Elders: the third, to be such as properly served in the help of the poor, of which sort the company of widows were. * 1 Tit. 4. 10, 11. l That every man observe the measure of that which is revealed unto him. m whose office is only to expound the scriptures.

8 Or he that [n] exhorteth, on exhortation; he that [o] ‡ giveth, let him do it ‡ with simplicity; he that [p] ruleth, with diligence; he that [q] sheweth mercy, with cheerfulness.

9 [6] Let love be without dissimulation. Abhor that which is evil, cleave to that which is good.

10 * Be kindly affectioned one to another; ‡ with brothery love, in honour preferring one another:

11 Not slothful in business: [r] fervent in spirit; serving the Lord:

12 [7] Rejoycing in hope; patient in tribulation; continuing instant in prayer;

13 [s] Distributing to the [t] necessity of saints; given to hospitality.

14 * Bless them which persecute you: bless and curse not.

15 Rejoyce with them that do rejoyce, and weep with them that weep.

16 Be of the same mind one towards another. Mind not high things, but ‡ condescend to men of [u] low estate. * Be [x] not wise in your own conceits.

17 * Recompense to no man evil for evil. Provide things honest in the sight of all men.

18 If it be possible, as much as lieth in you, * live peaceably with all men.

19 Dearly beloved, avenge not your selves, but rather give place unto wrath: for it is written, * Vengeance is mine; I will repay, saith the Lord.

20 * Therefore if thine enemy hunger, feed him; if he thirst, give him drink: for in so doing thou shalt heap [y] coals of fire on his head.

21 Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good.

n who in other places is called the pastour.
o To wit, The alms, that he distribute them without respect of persons.
‡ Or, impartibly.
‡ Or, liberally.
p The elders of the church.
q They that are busied about tending on the poor, must do it with cheerfulness, lest they add sorrow to sorrow.
6 Now he cometh to the duties of the second table, which he deriveth from charity, which is, as it were, the fountain of them all. And he defineth Christian charity, by sincerity, hatred of evil, earnest study of good things, good affection to help our neighbour, and whose final end is the glory of God.
* Heb. 13. 1.
‡ Or, in the love of the brethren.
r This piece is well put in for it maketh difference between Christian duties and philosophical duties.
7 He reckoneth up divers other virtues together with their effects, to wit, Hope, patience in tribulation, equanimity, continuance in prayer, liberality toward the saints, hospitality, moderation of mind, even in helping our enemies, a self same feeling with others, as well in adversity as prosperity, modesty, endeavour to maintain honest concord, so nigh as we may with all men, which cannot be extinguished by any mans injuries. ſ A true rule of charity, when we are no less touched with other mens wants, then with our own, and having that feeling, help them as much as we can. t Not upon pleasures and needless duties, but upon necessary uses. * Mat. 5. 44. ‡ Or, be contented with mean things. u There is nothing that doth so much break concord as ambition, when as every man loatheth a base estate, and seeketh ambitiously to be aloft. * Prov. 3. 7. Isa. 5. 21. x Be not puffed up with opinion of your own wisdom. * Prov. 20. 22. 1 Thes. 5. 15 1. Pet. 3. 9. * Heb. 12. 14. * Deut. 32. 35. Heb. 10. 30. * Prov. 25. 21. y After this sort doth Solomon point out the wrath of God that hangeth over a man.

CHAP. XIII.

1 Subjection, and many other duties we owe to the magistrates. 8 Love is the fulfilling of the law. 11 Gluttony and drunkenness, and the works of darkness, are out of season in the time of the gospel.

1 Now he sheweth severally what subjects owe to their magistrates, to wit, Obedience: from which he sheweth that no man is free: and in such sort, that it is not only due to the highest magistrate himself, but also even to the basest, which hath any office under him.

Let [1] every [a] soul be * subject unto the higher [2] powers. 3 For there is no power but of God: the powers that be, are ‡ [b] ordained of God.

2 Whosoever therefore resisteth the power, resisteth the ordinance of God: and they that resist, shall receive to themselves damnation.

3 [4] For rulers are not a terrour to good works, but to the evil. [5] Wilt thou then not be afraid of the power? do that which is good, and thou shalt have praise of the same:

4 For he is the minister of God to thee for good. [6] But if thou do that which is evil, be a Yea though an apostle, though an evangelist, though a prophet: Chrysostom. Therefore the tyranny of the pope over all kingdoms, must down to the ground.

* Tit. 3. 1. 1 Pet. 2. 13. 2 A reason taken of the nature of the thing it self: For to what purpose are they placed in higher degree, but that the inferiours should be subject unto them?
3 Another argument of great force: because God is authour of this order: so that such as are rebels, ought to know, that they make war with God himself: wherefore they cannot but purchase to themselves great misery and calamity. ‡ Or, ordered. b Be distributed: for some are greater, some smaller. 4 The third argument, taken from the end wherefore they were made, which is most profitable: for that God by this means preserveth the good, and bridleth the wicked: by which words, the magistrates themselves are put in mind of that duty which they owe to their subjects. 5 An excellent way to bear this yoke, not only without grief but also with a great profit. 6 God hath armed the magistrate even with a revenging sword.

afraid;

afraid: for he beareth not the ſword in vain: for he is the miniſter of God, [c] a revenger to execute wrath upon him that doth evil.

5 [7] Wherefore ye muſt needs be ſubject, not onely for wrath, but [d] alſo for conſcience ſake.

6 [8] For, for this cauſe pay you tribute alſo: for they are Gods miniſters, attending continually upon this very thing.

7 Render therefore to all their dues, tribute to whom tribute is due, cuſtom to whom cuſtom, [e] fear to whom fear, honour to whom [f] honour.

8 [9] Ow no man any thing, but to love one another: [10] for he that loveth another, hath fulfilled the [g] law.

9 For this, Thou ſhalt not commit adultery, Thou ſhalt not kill, Thou ſhalt not ſteal, Thou ſhalt not bear falſe witneſs, Thou ſhalt not covet: and if there be any other commandment, it is [h] briefly comprehended in this ſaying, namely, Thou ſhalt love thy neighbour as thy ſelf.

10 Love worketh no ill to his neighbour: therefore love is the fulfilling of the law.

11 [11] And that, knowing the time, that now it is high time for us to awake out of ſleep: for now is our ſalvation nearer than when we beleeved.

12 The night is far ſpent, the day is [i] at hand: let us therefore caſt off the works of [k] darkneſs, & let us put on the armour of light.

13 Let us walk ‡ honeſtly as in the day, not in rioting and drunkenneſs, not in chambering and wantonneſs, not in ſtrife and envying.

14 But [l] put ye on the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, and make not proviſion for the fleſh, to fulfill the luſts thereof.

c By whom God revengeth the wicked.
7 The concluſion: we muſt obey the magiſtrate, not onely for fear of puniſhment, but much more becauſe that (although the magiſtrate hath no power over the conſcience of man, yet ſeeing he is Gods miniſter) he cannot be reſiſted by any good conſcience.
d So far as lawfully we may: for if unlawfull things be commanded us, we muſt anſwer, as Peter teacheth us, It is better to obey God than men.
8 He reckoneth up the chiefeſt things wherein conſiſteth the obedience of ſubjects.
e Obedience, and that from the heart.
f Reverence, which (as reaſon is) we muſt give to the magiſtrate.
9 He ſheweth how very few judgements need to be executed, to wit, if we ſo order our life as no man may juſtly require any thing of us, beſides that onely, that we ow one to another, by the perpetuall law of charitie.
10 He commendeth charitie, as an abridgement of the whole law.
g Hath not onely don one commandment, but performed generally that which the law commandeth.
h For the whole law commandeth nothing els, but that we love God, and our neighbour. But ſeeing Paul ſpeaketh here of the duties we ow one to another, we muſt reſtrain this word, law, to the ſecond table. 11 An amplification taken of the circumſtance of the time: which alſo it ſelf putteth us in mind of our dutie, ſeeing that this remaineth, after that the darkneſs of ignorance and wicked affections by the knowledge of Gods truth be driven out of us, that we order our life according to that certain and ſure rule of all righteouſneſs and honeſtie, being fully grounded upon the vertue of the Spirit of Chriſt. i In other places we are ſaid to be in the light, but yet ſo, that it appeareth not as yet what we are, for as yet we ſee, but as it were, in the twilight. k That kind of life which they lead, that flee the light. ‡ Or, decently. l To put on Chriſt, is to poſſeſs Chriſt, to have him in us, & us in him.

Chap. XIV.

3 Men may not contemn nor condemn one another for things indifferent: 13 but take heed that they give no offence in them: 15 For that the apoſtle proveth unlawfull by many reaſons.

1 Him [1] that is weak in the faith [a] receive you, but ‡ not to [b] doubtfull diſputations.

2 [2] For one [c] beleeveth that he may eat all things: another who is weak, eateth herbs.

3 [3] Let not him that eateth, deſpiſe him that eateth not: and let not him which eateth not, judge him that eateth. For [4] God hath received him.

1 Now he ſheweth how we ought to behave our ſelvs toward our brethren in matters and things indifferent, offending in the uſe of them, not of malice, or damnable ſuperſtition, but for lack of knowledge of the benefit of Chriſt. And thus he teacheth that they are to be inſtructed gently, and patiently, and ſo that we apply our ſelvs to their ignorance in ſuch matters, according to the rule of charitie. a Do not for a matter or thing that is indifferent, and ſuch as you may do or not do, ſhun his company, but take him to you. ‡ Or, not to judge his doubtfull thoughts. b To make him by your doubtfull and uncertain diſputations, go away more in doubt than he came, or ſtart back with a troubled conſcience. 2 He propoundeth, for an example, the difference of meats, which ſome thought was neceſſarily to be obſerved, as a thing preſcribed by the law (not knowing that it was taken away) whereas on the contrary ſide, ſuch as had profited in the knowledge of the goſpel, knew well that this ſchoolmaſterſhip of the law was aboliſhed. c Knoweth by faith. 3 In ſuch a matter, ſaith the apoſtle, let neither them which knowtheir libertie, proudly deſpiſe their weak brother, neither let the unlearned crabbedly or forwardly condemn that, that they underſtand not. 4 The firſt reaſon: Becauſe that ſeeing both he that eateth, and he that eateth not, is notwithſtanding the member of Chriſt, neither he which eateth not, can juſtly be contemned, neither he which eateth, be juſtly condemned: Now the firſt propoſition is declared in the ſixth vers following.

4 [5] Who art thou that judgeſt another mans ſervant? to his own maſter he ſtandeth or falleth. Ye, he ſhall be holden up: for God is able to make him ſtand.

5 [6] One man eſteemeth one day above another: another eſteemeth every day alike. [7] Let [d] every man be ‡ fully perſwaded in his own mind.

6 [8] He that [e] regardeth the day, regardeth it unto the Lord; and he that regardeth not the day, to the [f] Lord he doth not regard it. He that [g] eateth, eateth to the Lord, [9] for he giveth God thanks; and he that eateth [h] not, to the Lord he eateth not, and giveth God thanks.

7 [10] For none of us liveth to [i] himſelf, and no man dieth to himſelf.

8 For whether we live, we live unto the Lord: and whether we die, we die unto the Lord: whether we live therefore or die, we are the Lords.

9 For to this end Chriſt both died, and roſe, and revived, that he might be Lord both of the dead and living.

10 [11] But why doſt thou judge thy brother? or why doſt thou ſet at nought thy brother? * we ſhall all ſtand before the judgement-ſeat of Chriſt.

11 For it is written, * [k] As I live, ſaith the Lord, every knee ſhall bow to me, and every tongue ſhall [l] confeſs to God.

12 So then every one of us ſhall give account of himſelf to God.

13 [12] Let us not therefore judge one another any more: but judge [m] this rather, that no man put a ſtumblingblock, or an occaſion to fall in his brothers way.

14 [13] I know, and am perſwaded by the [n] Lord Jeſus, that there is nothing †unclean of [o] it ſelf:

5 Another reaſon which hangeth upon the former: why the ruder and more unlearned ought not to be condemned of the more skilfull, as men without hope of ſalvation: becauſe, ſaith the apoſtle, he that is ignorant to day, may be indued to morrow with further knowledge, or that he may alſo ſtand ſure: Therefore it belongeth to God and not unto man, to pronounce that ſentence of condemnation.
6 Another example of the difference of days according to the law.
7 He ſetteth againſt this contempt, and haſtie or raſh judgement, a continuall deſire to profit, that the ſtrong may be certainly perſwaded of their libertie, of what manner and ſort it is: and how they ought to uſe it: and again, the weak may daily profit, leaſt either they abuſe the gift of God, or theſe pleaſe themſelvs in their infirmitie.
d That he may ſay in his conſcience, that he knoweth and is perſwaded by Jeſus Chriſt, that nothing is unclean of it ſelf; and this perſwaſion muſt be grounded upon the word of God. ‡ Or, fully aſſured.
8 A reaſon taken from the nature of indifferent things, which a man may with a good conſcience do, and omit: for ſeeing that the difference of days and meats was appointed by God, how could they which as yet underſtood not the abrogating of the law, and yet otherwiſe acknowledged Chriſt as their Saviour, with good conſcience neglect that which they knew was commanded of God? And, on the contrarie ſide, they that knew the benefit of Chriſt in this behalf, did with good conſcience neither obſerve days nor meats: Therefore, ſaith the apoſtle, verſ. 10. Let not the ſtrong condemn the weak for theſe things, ſeeing that the weak brethren are brethren notwithſtanding. Now if any man would draw this doctrin to theſe our times and ages, let him know that the apoſtle ſpeaketh of ſuch things indifferent, as they which thought them not to be indifferent, had a ground in the law, and were deceived by ſimple ignorance, and not of malice, (for to ſuch the apoſtle yeelded not, no not for a moment) nor ſuperſtition, but of a religious fear of God. e Obſerveth preciſely. f God ſhall judge whether he do well or no: And therefore you ſhould rather ſtrive about this, how everie one of you may be allowed of God, than to think upon other mens doings. g He that maketh no difference of meats. 9 So the apoſtle ſheweth, that he ſpeaketh of the faithfull, both ſtrong and weak: But what if we have to do with infidels? Then muſt we here take heed of two things, as alſo is declared in the epiſtle to the Corinthians. The one is, that we count not their ſuperſtition among things indifferent, as they did which ſat down to meat in idols temples: the other is, that then alſo when the matter is indifferent (as to buy a thing offered to idols, in the butchers ſtambles, and to eat it at home, or in a private banquet) we wound not the conſcience of our weak brother. h He that toucheth not meats which he taketh to be unclean by the law. 10 we muſt not ſtick, ſaith he, in the meat it ſelf, but in the uſe of the meat, ſo that he is juſtly to be reprehended that liveth ſo, that he caſteth not his eyes upon God, for both our life, and our death is dedicated to him: and for this cauſe Chriſt hath properly died, and not ſimply, that we might eat this meat or that. i Hath reſpect to himſelf onely, which the Hebrews utter after this ſort. Doth well to his own ſoul. 11 The concluſion: we muſt leave to God his right, and therefore in matters, which according as the conſcience is affected, are either good or evil, the ſtrong muſt not deſpiſe their weak brethren, much leſs condemn them. But this conſequent cannot be taken of equall force in the contrary, to wit, that the weak ſhould not judge the ſtrong, becauſe the weak do not know, that they which do not obſerve a day and eat, do ſerve it not to the Lord, and eat not to the Lord, as the ſtrong men know that the weak which obſerve a day and eat not, obſerve the day to the Lord, and eat not to the Lord. * 2 Cor. 5. 10. * Iſa. 45. 23. k This is a form of an oath, proper to God onely, for he and none but he liveth, and hath his being of himſelf. l Shall acknowledge me for God. 12 After that he hath concluded what is not to be don, he ſheweth what is to be don: to wit, we muſt take heed that we do not utterly caſt down, with abuſing our liberty, our brother which is not yet ſtrong. m He rebuketh by the way theſe malicious judgers of others, which occupie their heads about nothing, but to find fault with their brethens life, whereas they ſhould rather beſtow their wits upon this, that they do not with their diſdainfulneſs either caſt their brethren clean down, or give them ſome offence. 13 The preventing of an objection. It is true that the ſchoolmaſterſhip of the law is taken away by the benefit of Chriſt, to ſuch as know it, but yet notwithſtanding we have to conſider in the uſe of this libertie, what is expedient, that we may have regard of our weak brother, ſeeing that our libertie is not loſt thereby. n By the ſpirit of the Lord Jeſus, or by the Lord Jeſus, who I am ſure brake down the wall at his coming. Or common. o By nature.

but to him that esteemeth any thing to be † unclean, to him it is unclean.

15 But if thy brother be grieved with thy meat; now walkest thou not † charitably. * 14 Destroy not him with thy meat, for whom 25 Christ died.

16 16 Let not then your good be evil spoken of.

17 17 For the kingdom of God is not meat and drink, but righteousness and peace, and joy in the Holy Ghost.

18 For he that p in these things serveth Christ, is acceptable to God, and approved of men.

19 18 Let us therefore follow after the things which make for peace, and things wherewith one may edifie another.

20 For meat destroy not the work of God. * All things indeed are pure; but it is evil for that man who eateth with offence.

21 It is good neither to eat * flesh, nor to drink wine, nor any thing whereby thy brother stumbleth, or is offended, or is made weak.

22 19 Hast thou q faith? have it to thy self before God. Happy is he that condemneth not himself in that thing which he r alloweth.

23 And he that ‡ r doubteth, is damned if he eat, because he eateth not of faith: for whatsoever is not of faith, is sin.

† Gr. common, ‡ Gr. according to charitie.
* 1 Cor. 8. 11.
14 It is the part of a cruell mind to make more account of meat, than of our brothers salvation: which thing they do, that presume to eat with the offence of any brother, and so give him occasion to go back from the gospel.
15 Another argument: we must follow Christs example: who was so far from destroying the weak with meat, that he gave his life for them
16 Another argument: For that by this means the libertie of the gospel is evil spoken of, as though it opened the way to attempt any thing whatsoever, and boldeneth us to all things.
17 A generall reason, and the ground of all the other arguments: The kingdom of heaven consisteth not in these outward things, but in the study of righteousness & peace, and comfort of the Holy Ghost. p He that liveth peaceably, and dieth righteously, through the Holy Ghost. 18 A generall conclusion: The use of this libertie, yea, and our whole life ought to be referred to the edifying one of another, in so much that we esteem that thing unlawfull by reason of the offence of our brother, which is of it self pure and lawfull. * Tit. 1. 15. * 1 Cor. 8. 13. 19 He giveth a double warning in these matters: one, which pertaineth to the strong, that he which hath obtained a sure knowledge of this libertie, keep that treasure, to the end he may use it wisely and profitably, as hath been said: the other which respecteth the weak, that they do nothing rashly by other mens example with a wavering conscience, for that cannot be don without sin, whereof we are not perswaded by the word of God, that he liketh and approveth it. q He shewed before, vers. 14. what he meaneth by faith, to wit, for a man to be certain and out of doubt in matters and things indifferent. r embraceth. ‡ Or, discerneth and putteth a difference between meats. s Reasoneth with himself.

Chap. XV.

1 The strong must bear with the weak. 2 We may not please our selvs, 3 for Christ did not so; 7 but receive one the other, as Christ did us all, 8 both Jews, 9 and Gentils. 15 Paul excuseth his writing, 28 and promiseth to see them, 30 and requesteth their prayers.

1 WE 1 then that are strong, ought to bear the infirmities of the weak, and not 2 to please our selvs.

2 Let every one of us please his neighbour for his b good to edification.

3 2 For even Christ pleased not himself, but as it is written, * The reproaches of them that reproached thee fell on me.

4 3 For whatsoever things were written c aforetime, were written for our learning, that we through patience and comfort of the d scriptures might have hope.

5 4 * Now the God of patience and consolation grant you to be like minded one towards another, ‡ according to Christ Jesus:

6 That ye may with one mind and one mouth glorifie God, even the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ.

7 Wherefore receive ye one another, as Christ also e received us, to the glory of God.

8 5 Now I say, that Jesus Christ was a minister of the f circumcision for the g truth of God, to confirm the promises made unto the fathers:

9 6 And that the Gentiles might glorifie God for his mercy, as it is written, * For this cause I will h confess to thee among the Gentiles, and sing unto thy name.

10 And again he saith, * Rejoyce ye Gentiles, with his people.

11 And again, * Praise the Lord all ye Gentiles, and laud him all ye people.

12 And again, Esaias saith, * There shall be a root of Jesse, and he that shall rise to reign over the Gentiles, in him shall the Gentiles trust.

13 7 Now the God of i hope fill you with k all joy & peace in beleeving, that ye may abound in hope through the power of the holy Ghost!

14 8 And I my self also am perswaded of you, my brethren, that l ye also are full of goodness, filled with all knowledge, able also to admonish one another.

15 Nevertheless, brethren, I have written the more boldly unto you, in some sort, as putting you in mind, because of the grace that is given to me of God,

16 That I should be the minister of Jesus Christ to the Gentiles, ministring the gospel of God, that the ‡ m offering up of the Gentiles might be acceptable, being sanctified by the Holy Ghost.

17 9 I have therefore whereof I may glory through Jesus Christ, in those things which pertain to God.

18 For I will not dare to speak of any of those things which n Christ hath not wrought by me, to make the Gentiles obedient, by word and deed,

19 Through o mighty signs and wonders, by the power of the Spirit of God, so that from Jerusalem and round about unto Illyricum, I have fully preached the gospel of Christ.

20 Yea, so have I strived to preach the gospel, not where Christ was named, least I should build upon another mans foundation:

21 But as it is written, * To whom he was not spoken of, they shall see: and they that have not heard, shall understand.

22 10 For which cause also I have been ‡ much hindred from coming to you.

23 But now having no more place in these parts, and having a great desire these many years to come unto you:

24 Whensoever I take my journey into Spain, I will come to you: for I trust to see you in my journey, and to be brought on my way thitherward by you, if first I be somwhat filled ‡ with your company.

25 But now I go unto Jerusalem, to p minister unto the saints.

26 For it hath pleased them of Macedonia

1 Now the apostle reasoneth generally of tolerating or bearing with the weak by all means, so far forth as may be for their profit.

b For his profit and edification.

* Psal. 69. 9.
3 The preventing of an objection: Such things as are cited out of the examples of the ancients, are propounded unto us to this end and purpose, that according to the example of our Fathers, we should in patience and hope bear one with another. c By Moses and the prophets. d The scriptures are said to teach and comfort, because God useth them to teach and comfort his people withall. 4 we must take an example of patience of God: that both the weak and the strong, serving God with a mutuall consent, may bring one another to God, as Christ also received us unto himself although we were never so unworthy. * 1 Cor. 1. 10. ‡ Or, after the example of e He did not disdain us, but received us of his own accord, to make us partakers of Gods glory. 5 An applying of the example of Christ to the Jews, whom he vouchsafed this honour for the promises which he made unto their Fathers, although they were never so unworthy, that he executed the office of a minister among them with marvellous patience: therefore much less ought the Gentils to despise them for certain faults, whom the Son of God so much esteemed.

f Of the circumcised Jews, for as long as he lived, he never went out of their quarters.
g That God might be seen to be true.
6 An applying of the same to the Gentils, whom also the Lord of his incomprehensible goodness had regard of, so that they are not to be contemned of the Jews, as strangers.

8 The conclusion of the epistle, wherein he first excuseth himself, that he hath written somwhat at large unto them, rather to warn them, than to teach them, and that of necessity, by reason of his vocation, which bindeth him peculiarly to the gentils.
l Of your own accord, and of yourselves.
‡ Or, sanctifying
m By the offering up of the gentils, he meaneth, the Gentils themselvs, whom he offered to God as a sacrifice.
9 He commendeth his apostleship highly by the effects, but yet so, that moreover and besides that, he speaketh all things truly, he giveth all the glory to God as the onely author: and doth not properly respect himself, but this rather, that man might less doubt of the doctrin which he propounded unto them.
n Christ was so with me in all things, and by all means, that if I would never so fain, yet I cannot say, what he hath don by me to bring the Gentils to obey the gospel.
o In the first place, this word, Signs, signifieth the force and working of the wonders in piercing mens minds: and in the latter, it signifieth Gods mighty power which was the worker of these wonders.
* Isa. 52. 15.
10 He writeth at large to the Romans, and that familiarly, his singular good will towards them, and the state of his affairs, but so, that he swarveth not a jot from the end of apostolicall doctrin: for he declareth nothing but that which appertaineth to his office, and is godly: and commending, by a little digression as it were, the liberalitie of the churches of Macedonia, he provoketh them modestly to follow their godly deed. ‡ Or, many ways, or oftentimes and Achaia, to make a certain contribution for the poor saints which are at Jerusalem.

11 Alms are voluntary, but yet such as we ow by the law of chatitie.

27 [11] It hath pleased them verily, and their debters they are. For if the Gentiles have been made partakers of their spirituall things, their duty is also to [q] minister unto them in carnall things.

q To serve their turns.

28 When therefore I have performed this, and have [r] sealed to them this [s] fruit, I will come by you into Spain.

r Performed it faithfully, and sealed it as it were with my ring.

s This money which was gathered for the use of the poor: which alms is very fitly called fruit.

29 [12] And I am sure that when I come unto you, I shall come in the fulness of the blessing of the gospel of Christ.

12 He promiseth them, through the blessing of God, not to come emptie unto them: and requiring of them the duty of prayers, he sheweth what thing we ought chiefly to rest upon in all difficulties and adversities.

30 Now I beseech you, brethren, for the Lord Jesus Christs sake, and for the [t] love of the Spirit, that ye strive together with me, in your prayers to God for me; t For that mutuall conjunction, wherewith the holy Ghost hath tied our hearts and minds together.

31 That I may be delivered from them that ‡ do not beleeve in Judea, and that my service which I have for Jerusalem, may be accepted of the saints:

‡ Or, are disobedient.

32 That I may come unto you with joy by the will of God, and may with you be refreshed.

33 Now the God of peace be with you all. Amen.

Chap. XVI.

3 Paul willeth the brethren to greet many, 17 and adviseth them to take heed of those which cause dissension and offences, 21 and after sundry salutations, endeth with praise and thanks to God.

1 Having made an end of the whole disputation, he cometh now to familiar commendations and salutations, and that to good consideration and purpose, to wit, That the Romans might know who are most to be honoured and made accompt of amongst them: and also, whom they ought to set before them to follow: and therefore he attributeth unto every one of them peculiar and singular testimonies.

I [1] Commend unto you Phœbe our sister, which is a servant of the church which is at Cenchrea:

a For Christs sake, which is proper to the Christian, for the heathen philosophers have resemblances of the same vertues.

2 That ye receive her in the [a] Lord, as becometh saints, and that ye assist her in whatsoever business she hath need of you: for she hath been a succourer of many, and of my self also.

b The companie of the faithfull, for in so great a citie as that was, there were divers companies.

3 Greet Priscilla and Aquila my helpers in Christ Jesus:

4 (Who have for my life laid down their own necks: unto whom not onely I give thanks, but also all the churches of the Gentiles)

5 Likewise greet [b] the church that is in their house. Salute my welbeloved Epenetus, who is the [c] first-fruits of Achaia unto Christ.

c For he was the first of Achaia that beleeved in Christ: and this kind of speech is an allusion to the ceremonies of the law.

6 Greet Mary, who bestowed much labour on us.

d Ingraffed by faith

7 Salute Andronicus and Junias my kinsmen and my fellow-prisoners, who are of note among the apostles, who also were in [d] Christ before me.

8 Greet Amplias my beloved in the Lord.

9 Salute Urban our helper in Christ, and Stachys my beloved.

10 Salute Apelles approved in Christ. Salute them which are of Aristobulus ‡ household.

‡ Or, friends.

11 Salute Herodion my kinsman. Greet them that be of the ‡ household of Narcissus, which are in the Lord.

12 Salute Tryphena and Tryphosa, who labour in the Lord. Salute the beloved Persis, which laboured much in the Lord.

13 Salute Rufus chosen in the Lord, and his mother, and mine.

14 Salute Asyncritus, Phlegon, Hermas, Patrobas, Hermes, and the brethren which are with them.

15 Salute Philologus and Julia, Nereus, and his sister, and Olympas, and all the saints which are with them.

16 Salute one another with an [e] holy kiss. The churches of Christ salute you.

e He calleth that an holy kiss, which proceedeth from an heart that is full of that holy love: now this is to be referred to the manner used in those days.

17 [2] Now I beseech you, brethren, [f] mark them which cause divisions and offences, contrary to the doctrin which ye have learned, and avoid them.

2 As by, namely, describing them which were worthy of commendation, he sufficiently declared whom they ought to hear and follow, so doth he now paint out unto them whom they ought to take heed of, yet he nameth them not, for that it was not needfull.

f Warily and diligently, as though you should scout out for your enemies in a watch-tower.

18 For they that are such, serve not our Lord Jesus Christ, but their own belly, and by good words and [g] fair speeches deceive the hearts of the simple.

g The word which he useth, signifieth a promising which performeth nothing: and if thou hearest any such, thou must assure thy self that he that promiseth thee, is more carefull of thy matters than of his own.

19 [3] For your obedience is come abroad unto all men. I am glad therefore on your behalf: but yet I would have you [h] wise unto that which is good, and [i] simple concerning evil.

3 Simplicitie must be joyned with wisdom.

h Furnished with the knowledge of the truth and wisdom, that you may embrace good things, and eschew evil, beware of the deceits and snares of false prophets, and resist them openly: and this place doth plainly destroy the papists faith of credit, whereas they maintain it to be sufficient for one man to beleeve as another man beleeveth, without further knowledge, or examination what the matter is, or what ground it hath: using these daily speeches, We beleeve as our fathers beleeved, and we beleeve as the church beleeveth.

20 [4] And the God of peace shall ‡ bruise Satan under your feet shortly. The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you. Amen.

i As men that know no way to deceive, much less do deceive indeed. 4 we must fight with a certain hope of victorie. ‡ Or, treat

21 [5] Timotheus my work-fellow, and Lucius and Jason and Sosipater my kinsmen salute you.

5 He annexeth salutations, partly to renew mutuall friendship, and partly to the end that this epistle might be of some weight with the Romans, having the confirmation of so many that subscribed unto it.

22 I Tertius, who [k] wrote this epistle, salute you in the Lord.

k wrote it as Paul uttered it.

23 Gaius mine host, and of the whole church saluteth you. Erastus the chamberlain of the city saluteth you, and Quartus a brother.

24 [6] The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all. Amen.

6 Now taking his leave of them this third time, he wisheth that unto them, whereupon dependeth all the force of the former doctrin.

25 [7] Now to him that is of power to stablish you according to my gospel, and the preaching of Jesus Christ, (according to the revelation of the [l] mystery, which was kept secret since the world began:

7 He setteth forth the power and wisdom of God with great thanksgiving, which especially appear in the gospel, and maketh mention also of the calling of the gentiles, to confirm the Romans in the hope of this salvation.

l That is secret, and hidden thing, that is to say, The calling of the gentiles.

26 But now is made [m] manifest, and by the scriptures of the prophets according to the commandment of the everlasting God, made known to all nations for the obedience of faith)

m Offered and exhibited to all nations to be known.

27 To God onely wise, be glory through Jesus Christ for ever. Amen.

¶ Written to the Romans from Corinthus, and sent by Phœbe servant of the church at Cenchrea.

The first epistle of PAUL the apostle TO THE CORINTHIANS.

CHAP. I.

After his salutation and thanksgiving, 10 he exhorteth them to unitie, 12 and reproveth their dissensions. 18 God destroyeth the wisdom of the wise 21 by the foolishnes of preaching, and 26 calleth not the wise, mighty, and noble; but 27,28 the foolish, weak, and men of no account.

PAul [1] called to be an [2] apostle of Jesus Christ, through the will of God, and [3] Sosthenes our brother,

2 [4] Unto the church of God which is at Corinth, to them that * are [5] sanctified in [a] Christ Jesus, * [b] called to be saints, with all that in every place [c] call upon the name of Jesus Christ our Lord, both theirs and ours.

3 [6] Grace be unto you, and peace from God our Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ.

4 [7] I thank my God always on your behalf, for the grace of God which is given you by Jesus Christ,

5 That in every thing ye are enriched by him [8] in [d] all utterance, and in all knowledge:

6 [9] Even as the testimony of Christ was [e] confirmed in you.

7 So that ye come behind in no gift; [10] waiting for the † [f] coming of our Lord Jesus Christ:

8 [11] Who shall also confirm you unto the end, that ye may be [g] blameless in the day of our Lord Jesus Christ.

9 * God is [h] faithfull, by whom ye were called unto the fellowship of his Son Jesus Christ our Lord.

10 [12] Now I beseech you, brethren, by the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that ye all [13] speak the same thing, and that there be no † divisions among you: but that ye be perfectly [i] joyned together in the same mind, and in the same judgement.

11 [14] For it hath been declared unto me of you, my brethren, by them which are of the house of Chloe, that there are contentions among you.

12 Now [k] this I say, that every one of you saith, I am of Paul, and I of * Apollo, and I of Cephas, and I of Christ.

13 [15] Is Christ divided? was [16] Paul crucified for you? or were ye [17] baptized in the name of Paul?

14 [18] I thank God, that I baptized none of you, but * Crispus and Gaius.

15 Least any should say, that I had baptized in mine own name.

16 And I baptized also the houshold of Stephanus: besides, I know not whether I baptized any other.

17 [19] For Christ sent me not to baptize, but to preach the gospel: * [20] not with [l] wisdom of ‡ words, least the [21] cross of Christ should be made of none effect.

18 For the [m] preaching of the cross is to them that perish, foolishness: but unto us which are saved it is the * [n] power of God.

19 [22] For it is written, * I will destroy the wisdom of the wise, and will bring to nothing the understanding of the prudent.

2 The inscription of the epistle, wherein he chiefly goeth about to procure the good will of the Corinthians towards him, yet notwithstanding, so, that always he letteth them to wit, that he is the servant of God, and not of men.

2 If he be an apostle, then he must be heard, although he sometime reprehend them sharply, seeing he hath not his own cause in hand, but is a messenger that bringeth the commandments of Christ.

3 He joyneth Sosthenes with himself, that this doctrin might be confirmed by two witnesses.

4 Is is a church of God, although it hath great faults in it, to that it obey them which admonish it.

* Act. 15. 9.

5 A true definition of the Catholique church which is one.

a That father reconcileth us, that is to say, separateth us from the wicked, in giving us to his Son, that he may be in us, and we in him.

* Tom. 1. 7.

b whom God of his gracious goodnes and meer love hath separated for himself: or, whom God hath called to holines: the first of these two expositions, sheweth from whence our sanctification cometh: and the second sheweth to what end it tendeth. c He is said properly to call on God, who cryeth unto the Lord when he is in danger, and craveth help at his hands, and by the figure synecdoche it is taken for all the service of God: and therefore to call upon Christs name, is to acknowledge, and take him for very God. 6 The foundation and the life of the church, is Christ Jesus, given of the Father. 7 Going about to condemn many vices, he beginneth with a true commendation of their vertues, least he might seem after to descend to chiding, being moved with malice or envie: yet so, that he referreth all to God, as the author of them, and that in Christ, that the Corinthians might be more ashamed to prophane and abuse the holy gifts of God. 8 He toucheth that by name, which they most abused. d Seeing that whiles we live here, we know but in part, and prophecie in part, this word (All) must be restrained to the present state of the faithfull: but by (utterance) he meaneth not a vain kind of babling, but the gift of holy eloquence, which the Corinthians abused. 9 He sheweth, that the true use of these gifts consisteth herein, that the mighty power of Christ might thereby be set forth in them, that hereafter it might evidently appear, how wickedly they abused them to glory and ambition. e By their excellent gifts of the holy Ghost. 10 He saith, by the way, that there is no cause why they should please themselves so much in those gifts which they had received, seeing that those were nothing in comparison of them which are to be looked for.

† Or, revelation

f He speaketh of the last coming of Christ. 11 He testifieth that he hopeth well of them hereafter, that they may more patiently abide his reprehension afterward. And yet together therewithall, sheweth that as well the beginning as the accomplishing of our salvation, is only the work of God. g He calleth them blameless, not whom man never found fault with, but with whom no man can justly find fault, that is to say, Them which are in Christ Jesus, to whom there is no condemnation. See Luke 1. 6. * 1 Thess. 5. 24. h True and constant, who doth not only call us, but giveth us the gift of perseverance also. 12 Having made an end of the preface, he cometh to the matter it self, beginning with a most grave obtestation, as though they should hear Christ himself speaking, and not Paul. 13 The first part of this epistle, wherein his purpose is, to call back the Corinthians to brotherly concord, and to take away all occasion of discord. So then this first part concerneth the taking away of schisms. Now a schism is when men which otherwise agree and consent together in doctrin, do yet separate themselves one from another.

i Knit together, as a body that consisteth of all his parts fitly knit together.

14 He beginneth his reprehension and chiding by taking away of an objection: for that he understood by good witnesses, that there were many factions among them. And therewithall he openeth the cause of dissentions, because that some did hang on one doctor, some on another, and some were so addicted to themselves, that they neglected all doctors and teachers, calling themselves the disciples of Christ onely, flurting forth their teachers.

k The matter I would say to you, is this.

* Acts 18. 24.

15 The first reason why schisms ought to be eschewed: because Christ seemeth by that means, to be divided and torn in pieces, who cannot be the head of two divers and disagreeing bodies, being himself one.

16 Another reason: because they cannot without great injurie to God, so hang on men as on Christ: which thing no doubt they do, which allow whatsoever some man speaketh, even for his persons sake: as these men allowed one self same gospel being uttered of one man, and did loath it being uttered of another man. So that these factions were called by the names of their teachers. Now Paul setteth down his own name, not onely to grieve no man, but also to shew that he pleadeth not his own cause. 17 The third reason taken of the form and end of baptism, wherein we make a promise to Christ, calling also on the name of the Father, and the holy Ghost. Therefore although a man do not fall from the doctrin of Christ, yet if he hang upon some certain teachers, and despise others, he forsaketh Christ: for if he hold Christ his onely master, he would hear him, teaching by whomsoever. 18 He protesteth that he speaketh so much the more boldly of these things, because that, through Gods providence, he is void of all suspicion of challenging disciples unto himself, and taking them from others. whereby we may understand, that not the schollars onely, but the teachers also are here reprehended, which gather themselves flocks apart. * Acts 18. 8. 19 The taking away of an objection: that he gave not himself to baptize many amongst them: not for the contempt of baptism, but because he was chiefly occupied in delivering the doctrin, and committed them that received his doctrin to others to be baptized, whereof he had store. And so he declared sufficiently how far he was from all ambition: whereas, on the other side, they whom he reprehendeth, as though they gathered disciples unto themselves and not unto Christ, bragged most ambitiously of numbers, which they had baptized. 2 Petr. 1. 16. 20 Now he turneth himself to the doctors themselves, which pleased themselves in brave and ambitious eloquence, to the end that they might draw more disciples after them. He confesseth plainly that he was unlike unto them, opposing gravely, as it became an apostle, his example against their perverse judgements: So that this is another place of this epistle, touching the observing of a godly simplicity both in words and sentences, in teaching of the gospel. l with eloquence which Paul casteth off from him, not onely, as not necessarie, but also as that contrarie to the office of his apostleship: and yet had Paul his kind of eloquence, but it was heavenly, not of man, and void of painted words. ‡ Or, speech, 21 The reason why he useth not the pomp of words and painted speech: because it was Gods will to bring the world to his obedience by that way, whereby the most idiots amongst men might understand that this work was don of God himself, without the art of man. Therefore as salvation is set forth unto us in the gospel by the cross of Christ, than which nothing is more contemptible, and more far from life, so God would have the manner of the preaching of the cross, most different from those means, by which men do use to draw & entice others, either to hear or beleeve: therefore it pleased him by a certain kind of most wise folly, to triumph over the most foolish wisdom of the world, as he hath said before by Esay, that he would. And hereby we may gather, that both these doctors which were puffed up with ambitious eloquence, and also their hearers, strayed far away from the end and mark of their vocation. m The preaching of Christ crucified, or the kind of speech which we use. * Rom. 1. 16. n It is that wherein he declareth his marvellous power in saving his elect, which would not so evidently appear, if it hanged upon any help of man, for so man might attribute that to himself, which is proper onely to the cross of Christ. 22 The apostle proveth, that this ought not onely not to seem strange, seeing that it was foretold so long before, but declareth further, that God is wont to punish the pride of the world in such sort, which so pleaseth it self in its own wisdom: and therefore that that is vain, yea a thing of nothing, and such as God rejecteth as unprofitable, which they so carefully laboured for, and made so great account of. Isa. 29. 14.

20 * Where is the wise? where is the [o] scribe? where is the [p] disputer of this world? hath not God made foolish the wisdom of this world?

21 * [23] For after that in the wisdom of God, the [q] world by [r] wisdom knew not God, [24] it pleased God by the [f] foolishness of preaching to save them that beleeve.

22 [25] For the Jews require a sign, and the Greeks seek after wisdom.

23 But we preach Christ crucified, unto the Jews a stumbling block, and unto the Greeks, foolishness:

24 But unto them which are called, both Jews and Greeks, Christ the power of God, and the wisdom of God.

25 Because the foolishness of God is wiser than men: and the weakness of God is stronger than men.

26 [26] For ye see your [t] calling, brethren, how that not many wise men [u] after the flesh, not many mighty, not many noble are called.

27 But God hath chosen the foolish things of the world, to confound the wise: and God hath chosen the weak things of the world, to confound the things which are mighty:

28 And base things of the world, and things which are despised, hath God chosen, yea, and things which [x] are not, to bring to [y] nought things that are:

29 That [z] no flesh should glory in his presence.

30 But of him [a] are ye in Christ Jesus, [27] who of God is made unto us wisdom, and righteousness, and sanctification, and redemption:

31 That, according as it is written, * [b] He that glorieth, let him glory in the Lord.

[a] Ier. 33. 18.
[o] where art thou, O thou learned fellow? and thou that spendest thy days in turning thy books?
[p] Thou that spendest all thy time in seeking out the secret things of this world, and in expounding all hard questions: and thus triumpheth he against all the men of this world, for there was not one of them that could so much as dream upon this secret and hidden mysterie.
* Rom. 1. 21.
[23] He sheweth that the pride of men was worthily punished of God, because they would not behold God, as meet was they should, in the most clear glass of the wisdom of the world, which is the workmanship of the world.
[q] By the world he meaneth all men which are not born a new, but remain as they were, when they were first born.
[r] In the workmanship of this world, which hath the marvellous wisdom of God engraved in it, so that every man may behold it.
[24] The goodness of God is wonderfull, for while he goeth about to punish the pride of this world, he is very provident and carefull for the salvation of it, and teacheth men to become fools, that they may be wise to God.
[f] So he calleth the preaching of the Gospel, as the enemies supposed it: but in the mean season he taunteth them very sharply, who had rather charge God with folly, than acknowledge their own, and crave pardon for it.
[25] A declaration of that which he said: that the preaching of the gospel, is foolish, It is foolish, saith he, to them whom God hath not endued with new light, that is to say, To all men being considered in themselves: for the Jews require miracles, and the Grecians arguments, which they may comprehend by their wits and wisdom: and therefore they do not onely not beleeve the gospel, but also they mock at it. Notwithstanding in this foolish preaching, there is the great vertue and wisdom of God, but such as those onely which are called do perceive: God shewing most plainly, that even then when mad men think him most foolish, he is far wiser than they are: and that he surmounteth all their might and power, when he useth most vile & abject things, as it hath appeared in the fruit of the preaching of the gospel. 26 A confirmation taken of those things which came to pass at Corinth, where the church especially consisted of the basest and common people, insomuch that the Philosophers of Greece were driven to shame when they saw that they could do nothing with their wisdom and eloquence, in comparison of the apostles, whom notwithstanding they called idiots and unlearned. And herewithall doth he beat down their pride: for God did not prefer them before those noble and wise men because they should be proud, but that they might be constrained, even whether they would or not, to rejoyce in the Lord, by whose mercy, although they were the most abjects of all, they had obtained in Christ, both this wisdom, and all things necessarie to salvation.
[t] what way the Lord hath taken in calling you.
[u] After that kind of wisdom which men make accompt of, as though there were none els: who because they are carnall, know not spirituall wisdom.
[x] which in mans judgement are almost nothing.
[y] To shew that they are vain and unprofitable, and nothing worth: See Rom. 3. 31.
[z] Flesh is oft, as we see, taken for the whole man: and he useth this word, Flesh, very fitly, to set the weak and miserable condition of man, and the majestie of God, one against the other.
[a] whom he cast down before, now he lifteth up, yea, higher than all men: yet so, that he sheweth them, that all their worthiness is without themselves, that is, standeth in Christ, and that of God. 27 He teacheth, that especially and above all things, the gospel ought not to be contemned, seeing it containeth the chiefest things that are to be desired, to wit, true wisdom, the true way to obtain righteousness, the true way to live honestly and godly, the true deliverance from all miseries and calamities.
* Ier. 9. 23, 24.
[b] Let him yeeld all to God, and give him thanks: and so, by this place, is mans free will beaten down, which the Papists so dream of.

Chap. II.

He declareth that his preaching, 1 though it bring not excellency of speech, or of 4 human wisdom: yet consisteth in the 4, 5 power of God: and so far excelleth 6 the wisdom of this world, and 9 human sense, as that 14 the naturall man cannot understand it.

1 He returneth to the 17 vers of the former chapter, that is to say, to his own example: confessing that he used not among them either excellencie of words, or inticing speech of mans wisdom, but with great simplicitie of speech both knew and preached Jesus Christ crucified, humble, and abject as touching the flesh.

1 And [1] I, brethren, when I came to you, came not with excellency of speech, or of wisdom, declaring unto you the [a] testimony of God.

2 For I [b] determined not to know any thing among you, save Jesus Christ, and him crucified.

3 And I was with you in [c] weakness, and in fear, and in much trembling.

4 And my speech, & my preaching * was not with ‡ enticing words of mans wisdom, [2] but in [d] demonstration of the Spirit, and of power:

5 [3] That your faith should not † stand in the wisdom of men, but in the power of God.

6 [4] Howbeit we speak wisdom among them that are [e] perfect: yet not the wisdom of this world, nor of the [f] princes of this world, that come to nought:

7 [5] But we speak the wisdom of God in a [g] mystery, even the hidden wisdom [6] which God ordained before the world unto our glory.

8 [7] Which none of the princes of this world knew: for had they known it, they would not have crucified the [h] Lord of glory.

9 [8] But as it is written, * Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entred into the [i] heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love him.

10 [9] But God hath revealed them unto us by his Spirit: for the Spirit [k] searcheth all things, yea, the deep things of God.

11 [10] For what man knoweth the things of a man, save the [l] spirit of man which is in him? even so the things of God knoweth no man, but the Spirit of God.

12 Now we have received, not the [m] spirit of the world, but the Spirit which is of God, [11] that we might [n] know the things that are freely given to us of God.

13 * [12] Which things also we speak, not in the words which mans wisdom teacheth, but which the Holy Ghost teacheth; [o] comparing spirituall things with spirituall.

[a] The gospel.
[b] I purposed not to profess any knowledge but the knowledge of Christ and him crucified.
[c] He setteth weakness against excellence of words, and therefore joyneth with it fear and trembling, which are companions of true modestie, not such fear and trembling as terrifie the conscience, but such as are contrarie to vanitie and pride.
* 2 Pet. 1. 16.
‡ Or persuasive.
[2] He meaneth that now, to the commendation of his ministery, which he had granted to his adversaries: for it's vertue and power, which true knew well enough, was so much the more excellent, because it had no worldly help joyned with it.
[d] By plain evidence he meaneth such a proof, as is made by certain and necessarie reasons.
[3] And he telleth the Corinthians that he did it for their great profit, because they might thereby know manifestly that the gospel was from heaven. Therefore he privily rebuketh them, because that in seeking vain ostentation, they willingly deprived themselves of the greatest help or their faith.
† Or, be
[4] Another argument taken of the nature of the thing, that is, of the gospel, which is true wisdom: but known to them onely which are desirous of perfection: and is unsavorie to them which otherwise excell in the world, but yet vainly and frailly.
[e] Those are called perfect here, not which had gotten perfection already, but such as tend to it, as Phil. 3. 15. So that perfect, is set against weak.
[f] They that are wise, richer, or mightier than other men are.
[5] He sheweth the cause why this wisdom cannot be perceived of those excellent worldly wits, to wit, because indeed it is so deep, that they cannot attain unto it.
[g] which men could not so much as dream of.
[6] He taketh away an objection: It it be so hard, when, and how is it known? God, saith he, determined with himself from the beginning, that which his purpose was to bring forth at this time out of his secrets, for the salvation of men.
[7] He taketh away another objection: why then, how cometh it to pass, that this wisdom was so rejected of men of highest authoritie, that they crucified Christ himself? Paul answereth: because they knew not Christ such as he was.
[h] That mightie God, full of true majestie and glory: Now this place hath in it a most evident proof of the divinitie of Christ, and of his joyning of the two natures in one, which hath this in it, that that which is proper to the manhood alone, is vouched of the Godhead joyned with the manhood: which kind of speech, is called of the old fathers, A making common of things belonging to some one, with others to whom they do not belong.
[8] Another objection: But how could it be that those wittie men could not perceive this wisdom? Paul answereth: Because we preach those things which pass all mens understanding. Isa. 64. 4.
[i] Man cannot so much as think on them, much less conceive of them with his senses.
[9] A question: If it surmount the capacitie of men, how can it be understood of any man, or how can you declare and preach it? by a peculiar lightning by Gods Spirit, wherewith whosoever is inspired, he can enter even into the very secrets of God.
[k] There is nothing so secret and hidden in God, but the Spirit of God pierceth into it.
[10] He setteth that forth by a similitude, which he spake of the inspiration of the Spirit. As the force of mans wit searcheth out things pertaining to man, so doth our mind by that power of the Holy Ghost understand heavenly things.
[l] The mind of man which is endued with the ableness to understand and judge.
[m] The Spirit which we have received, doth not teach us things of this world, but lifteth us up to God, and this place teacheth us, against the Papists, what faith is, from whence it cometh, and what force it is of.
[11] That which he spake generally he restraineth now to those things which God hath opened unto us of our salvation in Christ: least that any man should separate the Spirit from the preaching of the word and Christ: or should think that those fantasticall men are governed by the Spirit of God.
[n] This word (know) is taken here in his proper sense for true knowledge, which the Spirit of God worketh in us.
[12] Now he returneth to his purpose, and concludeth the argument which he began verse 6. and it is thus: The words must be applyed to the matter, and the matter must be set forth with words which are meet and convenient for it: now this wisdom is spirituall, and not of man, and therefore it must be delivered by a spirituall kind of teaching, and not by enticing words of mans eloquence, that the simple, and yet wonderfull majestie of the Holy Ghost may therein appear.
* 2 Pet. 1. 16.
[o] Applying the words unto the matter, to wit, that as we teach spirituall things, so must our kind of teaching be spirituall.

150

14 13 But the [p] naturall man receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God, for they are foolishnes unto him: neither can he know them, because they are [q] spiritually discerned.

15 14 But he that is spirituall, ‡ [r] judgeth all things, yet 15 he himself is judged of [t] no man.

16 * 16 For who hath known the mind of the Lord, that he † may [t] instruct him? But we have the [u] mind of Christ.

11 Again he preventeth an offence or stumbling block: How cometh it to pass, that so few allow these things? This is not to be marvelled at, saith the apostle, seeing that men in their naturall powers (as they term them) are not endued with that faculty whereby spirituall things are discerned (which faculty cometh another way) and therefore they account spirituall wisdom as folly: and it is, as if he should say, It is no marvell that blind men cannot judge of colours, seeing that they lack the sight of their eyes, and therefore light is to them as darknes. p The man that hath no further light of understanding, than that which he brought with him, even from his mothers wombe, as Jude defineth it, Jude 19. q By the vertue of the holy Ghost, Prov. 27. 19. 14 He amplifieth the matter by contraries. ‡ Or, discerneth r Understandeth and discerneth. 15 The wisdom of the flesh, saith Paul, determineth nothing certainly, no not in its own affairs, much les can it discern strange, That is, Spirituall things. But the Spirit of God, wherewith spirituall men are endued, can be deceived by no means, and therefore be reproved of no man. t Of no man: for when the Prophets are judged of the Prophets, it is the Spirit that judgeth, and not the man * Isa. 40. 12. Rom. 11. 34 16 A reason of the former saying: for he is called spirituall, which hath learned that by the vertue of the spirit, which Christ hath taught us, Now if that which we have learned of that Master, could be reproved of any man, he must needs be wiser than God: whereupon it followeth, that they are not onely foolish, but also wicked, which think that they can devise something that is either more perfect, or that they can teach the wisdom of God a better way than they knew or taught, which undoubtedly were indued with Gods Spirit. † Gr. shall t Lay his head to his, and teach him what he should do u We are endued with the Spirit of Christ, who openeth unto us those secrets, which by all other means are unsearchable, and also all truth whatsoever.

Chap. III.

2 Milk is fit for children. 3 Strife and division, arguments of a fleshly mind. 7 He that planteth, and he that watereth, is nothing. 9 The minisers are Gods fellow-workmen. 11 Christ the onely foundation. 16 Men the temples of God, 17 which must be kept holy. 19 The wisdom of this world is foolishnes with God.

1 Having declared the worthinesse of heavenly wisdom and of the gospel, and having generally condemned the blindnes of mans mind, now at length he applieth it particularly to the Corinthians, calling them carnall, that is, such in whom as yet the flesh prevaileth against the Spirit. And he bringeth a double testimonie of it: first for that he had proved them to be such, in so much that he dealt with them no otherwise than with ignorant men, and such as are almost babes in the doctrin of godlines; and secondly, because they shewed in deed by these dissentions, which sprang up by reason of the vertue of the Spirit, and heavenly wisdom, that they had profited very little or nothing.

AND [1] I, brethren, could not speak unto you as unto spirituall, but as unto [a] carnall, even as unto babes in Christ.

2 I have fed you with milk, and not with [b] meat: for hitherto ye were not [c] able to bear it, neither yet now are ye able.

3 For ye are yet carnall: for whereas there is among you envying, and strife, and ‡ divisions, are ye not carnall, and walk † as [d] men?

4 For while one saith, I am of Paul, and another, I am of Apollos, are ye not carnall?

5 [2] Who then is Paul, and who is Apollos, but ministers by whom ye beleeved, even as the Lord gave to every man?

6 [3] I have planted, Apollos watered: but God gave the increase.

7 So then, neither is he that planteth any thing, neither he that watereth: but God that giveth the increase.

8 Now he that planteth, and he that watereth, are one: * and every man shall receive his own reward, according to his own labour.

a He calleth them carnall, which are as yet ignorant, and therefore to express it the better, he termeth them babes. b Substantiall meat, or strong meat. c To be fed by me with substantiall meat: therefore as the Corinthians grew up in age, so the apostle nourisheth them by teaching, first with milk, then with strong meat, which difference was onely but in the manner of teaching ‡ Or, factions, ‡ Gr. according to man? d By the square and compass of mans wit and judgement. 2 After that he hath sufficiently reprehended ambitious teachers, and their foolish esteemers, now he sheweth how the true ministers are to be esteemed, that we attribute not unto them more or les than we ought to do. Therefore he teacheth us, that they are they by whom we are brought to faith and salvation, but yet as the ministers of God, and such as do nothing of themselvs, but God so working by them as it pleaseth him to furnish them with his gifts. Therefore we have not to mark or consider what minister it is that speaketh, but what is spoken: and we must depend onely upon him which speaketh by his servants. 3 He beautifieth the former sentence with two similitudes: first, comparing the company of the faithfull to a field which God maketh fruitfull; when it is sowed and watered through the labour of his servants: next, by comparing it to an house, which indeed the Lord buildeth, but by the hands of his workmen, some of whom he useth in laying the foundation, others in building of it up. Now, both these similitudes tend to this purpose, to shew that all things are wholly accomplished by gods onely authoritie and might, so that we must onely have an eye to him. Moreover, although that God useth some in the better part of the work, we must not therefore contemn others, in respect of them, and much les may we divide or set them apart, (as these factious men did) seeing that all of them labour in Gods business, and in such sort, that they serve to finish one self same work, although by a divers manner of working, insomuch that they need one anothers help. * Psal. 62. 12. Gal. 6. 5.

9 For we are [e] labourers together with God, ye are Gods ‡ husbandrie, ye are Gods building.

10 According to the grace of God which is given unto me, as a wise master-builder I have laid the foundation, and another buildeth thereon. 4 But let every man take heed how he buildeth thereupon.

11 5 For other foundation can no man lay, than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ.

12 6 Now if any man build upon this foundation, gold, silver, precious stones, wood, hay, stubble:

13 7 Every mans work shall be made manifest. For the day shall declare it, because it † shall be revealed by fire, and the fire shall trie every mans work, of what sort it is.

14 If any mans work abide which he hath built thereupon, he shall receive a reward.

15 If any mans work shall be burnt, [8] he shall suffer loss: but he himself shall be saved: yet so, as by fire.

16 * [9] Know ye not that ye are the temple of God: and that the Spirit of God dwelleth in you?

17 If any man ‡ [f] defile the temple of God, him shall God destroy: for the temple of God is holy, which temple ye are.

18 10 Let no man deceive himself: if any man among you seemeth to be wise in this world, let him become a fool, that he may be wise.

19 For the wisdom of this world is foolishnes with God: for it is written,* He [g] taketh the wise in their own craftines.

20 And again, * The Lord knoweth the thoughts of the wise, that they are vain.

21 11 Therefore let no man [h] glory in men, for all things are [i] yours.

22 Whether Paul, or Apollos, or Cephas, or the [12] world, or life, or death, or things present, or things to come, all are yours:

23 And ye are Christs, and Christ is Gods.

e Serving under him: now they which serve under another, do nothing of their own strength, but as it is given them by grace, which grace maketh them fit to that service. Look Chap. 15. 10 and 2 Cor. 3. 6. and all the increase that cometh by their labour, doth so proceed from God, that no part of the praise of it may be given to the underservant. 6 Or, tillage, 4 Now he speaketh to the teachers themselvs, which succeeded him in the church of Corinth, and in their persons to all that were after, or shall be pastors of congregations, seeing that they succeeded into the labour of the apostles, which were planters & chief builders. Therefore he warneth them first, that they perswade not themselvs that they may build after their own fantasie, that is, that they may propound and set forth any thing in the church, either in matter, or in kind of teaching, different from the apostles which were the chief builders. 5 Moreover, he sheweth what this foundation is, to wit, Christ Jesus, from whence they may not turn away one jot in the building up of this building. 6 Thirdly, he sheweth, that they must take heed that the upper part of the building be answerable to the foundation, that is, that admonitions, exhortations, and whatsoever pertaineth to the edifying of the flock, be answerable to the doctrin of Christ, as well in matter, as in form: which doctrin is compared to gold, silver, and precious stones: of which matter, Esaias also and John in the Revelation build the heavenly citie. And to these are opposite, wood, hay, stubble, that is to say, curious and vain questions or decrees: and besides, to be short, all that kind of teaching which serveth to estimation; for false doctrins, whereof he speaketh not here, are not said properly to be built upon this foundation, unles peradventure in shew onely. 7 He testifieth, as indeed the truth is, that all are not good builders, no not some of them which stand upon this one and onely foundation: but howsoever this work of evil builders, saith he, stand for a season; yet still it not always deceive, because that the light of the truth appearing at length as day, shall dissolve this darknes, and shew what it is. And as that stuff is tryed by the fire, whether it be good or not, so will God in his time, by the touch of his Spirit and word, trie all buildings, and so shall it come to pass, that such as be found pure and sound, shall still continue so, to the praise of the workman: but they that are otherwise, shall be consumed and vanish away, and so shall the workman be frustrate of the hope of his labour, which pleased himself in a thing of nought. † Gr. is revealed 8 He taketh not away hope of salvation from the unskilfull and foolish builders, which hold fast the foundation, of which sort were those Rhetoricians rather than pastors of Corinth, but he addeth an exception, that they must notwithstanding suffer this tryall of their work, and also abide the los of their vain labours. * Chap. 6. 19. 9 Continuing still in the metaphor of a building, he teacheth us that this ambition is not onely vain, but also sacrilegious: for, he saith, that the church is, as it were, the temple of God, which God hath, as it were, consecrated unto himself by his Spirit. Then turning himself to these ambitious men, he sheweth, that they profane the temple of God, because those vain arts wherein they please themselvs so much, are, as he teacheth, so many pollutions of the holy doctrin of God, and the puritie of the church: which wickednes shall not be suffered unpunished. ‡ Or, destroy f Defileth it and maketh it unclean, being holy: and surely they do defile it, by Paul his judgement, which by fleshly eloquence defile the puritie of the gospel. 10 He concludeth by the contrary, that they profess pure wisedom in the church of God, which refuse and cast away all those vanities of men: and if they be mocked of the world, it is sufficient for them that they be wise according to the wisdom of God, and as he will have them to be wise. * Job 5. 13. g Be they never so craftie, yet the Lord will take them when he shall discover their treacherie. * Psal. 94. 11. 11 He returneth to the proposition of the 2 vers. first warning the hearers, that henceforward they esteem not as lords, those whom God hath appointed to be ministers, and not lords of their salvation: which they do, that depend upon men, and not upon God that speaketh by them. h Please himself. i Helps appointed for your benefit. 12 He passeth from the persons to the things themselvs, that his argument may be more forcible: yea, he ascendeth from Christ to the Father, to shew that we rest ourselvs, no not in Christ himself, in that that he is man, but because he carrieth us up even to the Father, as Christ witnesseth of himself every where, that he was sent of his Father, that by this band we may be all knit with God himself.

Chap.

Chap. IV.

1 In what account the ministers ought to be had. 7 We have nothing which we have not received. 9 The apostles spectacles to the world, angels & men, 13 the filth and off-scouring of the world: 15 yet our fathers in Christ, 16 whom we ought to follow.

1 He concludeth the duty of the hearers towards their ministers: that they esteem them not as lords: and yet, notwithstanding, that they give ear unto them, as to them that are sent from Christ, sent, I say, to this end and purpose, that they may receive, as it were, at their hand, the treasure of salvation which is drawn out of the secrets of God.

LEt [1] a [a] man so account of us, as of the ministers of Christ, and stewards of the mysteries of God.

2 [2] Moreover it is required in stewards, that a man be found faithfull.

2 Every man

2 Last of all, he warneth the ministers, that they also behave themselves not as lords, but as faithfull servants, because they must render an accompt of their stewardship unto God.

3 [3] But with me it is a very small thing that I should be judged of you, or [4] of mans [b] judgement: yea, [5] I judge not mine own self.

3 Because in reprehending others, he sets himself for an example, he useth a preoccupation or preventing of an objection, and using the gravitie of an apostle, he sheweth that he careth not for the contrary judgements that they have of him, in that they esteemed him as a vile person, because he did not set forth himself as they did. And he bringeth good reasons why he was nothing moved with the judgements which they had of him.

4 For I know nothing by my self, yet am I not hereby justified: but he that judgeth me is the [c] Lord.

5 * [6] Therefore judge nothing before the time, untill the Lord come, who both will bring to light the hidden things of darkness, and will make manifest the counsels of the hearts: and then shall every man have [d] praise of God.

4 First, because that that which men judge in these causes of their own brains, is no more to be accompted of, than when the unlearned do judge of wisdom.

b word for word, Day: after the speech of the Gentiles.

6 [7] And these things, brethren, I have in a figure transferred to my self, and to Appollos, for your sakes: that ye might learn [e] in us not to think of men, above that which is written, that no one of you be puffed up for one against another.

5 Secondly, saith he, How can ye judge how much or how little I am to be accompted of, seeing that I my self which know my self, better than you do, and which dare profess that I have walked in my vocation with a good conscience, dare not yet, notwithstanding, challenge any thing to my self: for I know that I am not unblamable, all this notwithstanding: much less therefore should I please my self as you do. c I remit my self to the Lords judgement. * Matt. 7. 1. Rom. 2. 1. 6 A third reason proceeding of a conclusion, as it were, out of the former reasons. It is Gods office to esteem every man according to his value, because he knoweth the secrets of the heart, which men, for the most part, are ignorant of. Therefore this judgement pertaineth not to you. d One could not be praised above the rest, but the other should be blamed: and he mentioneth praise rather than dispraise, for that the beginning of this sore was this, that they gave more to some men, than meet was. 7 Having rejected their judgement, he setteth forth himself again as a singular example of modestie, as one which concealing in this epistle those factious teachers names, doubted not to put down his own name and Appollos in their place, and took upon him as it were their shame: so far was he from preferring himself to any. e By our example, which chose rather to take other mens faults upon us, than to carp any by name.

7 [8] For who † maketh thee to differ from another? And what hast thou that thou didst not receive? now if thou didst receive it, why dost thou glory as [f] if thou hadst not received it?

8 He sheweth a good means to bridle pride: first, if thou considerest how rightly thou exemptest thy self out of the number of others, seeing thou art a man thy self: again, if thou considerest that although thou hast somthing more than other men have, yet thou hast it not but by Gods bountifulnes. And what wise man is he that will brag of anothers goodnes, and that against God? † Gr. distinguisheth thee? f There is nothing then in us of nature, that is worthy of commendation: but all that we have, we have it of grace, which the Pelagians and half-Pelagians will not confess.

8 [9] Now ye are full, now ye are rich, ye have reigned as kings without us, and I would to God ye did reign, that we also might reign with you.

9 He descendeth to a most grave mock, to cause those ambitious men to blush, even against their wills. † Gr. theatre g He that will take a right view how like Paul and the Pope are, who lyingly boasteth that he is his successor, let him compare the delicates of the Popish court, with Saint Pauls state, as we see it here. * Act. 20. 34. 1 Thess. 2. 9. 2 Thess. 3. 8. * Matt. 5. 44.

9 For I think that God hath set forth us the apostles last, as it were appointed to death. For we are made a † [g] spectacle unto the world, and to angels, and to men.

10 We are fools for Christs sake, but ye are wise in Christ: we are weak, but ye are strong: ye are honourable, but we are despised.

11 Even unto this present hour, we both hunger and thirst, and are naked, and are buffeted, and have no certain dwelling place:

12 * And labour, working with our own hands: being reviled, we bless: being persecuted, we suffer it:

13 * Being defamed, we intreat: we are made as the filth of the world, and are the [h] off-scouring of all things unto this day.

h Such as by sweeping is gathered together.

14 [10] I write not these things to shame you, but as my beloved sons I warn you.

10 Moderating the sharpnes of his mock, he putteth them in mind to remember of whom they were begotten in Christ, and that they should not doubt to follow him for an example, although he seem vile, according to the outward shew in respect of others, yet mighty by the efficacie of Gods Spirit, as they had triall thereof in themselvs.

15 For though you have ten thousand instructors in Christ, yet have ye not many fathers: for in Christ Jesus I have begotten you through the gospel.

16 Wherefore I beseech you, be ye followers of me.

17 For this cause have I sent unto you Timotheus, who is my beloved son, and faithfull in the Lord, who shall bring you into remembrance of [i] my ways which be in Christ, as I teach every where in every church.

i what way and rule I follow every where in teaching the churches.

18 [11] Now some are puffed up, as though I would not come to you.

11 Last of all, he descendeth also to apostolick threatnings, but yet chiding them as a father, least by their disorder he be constrained to come to punish some amongst them.

19 * But I will come to you shortly, * if the Lord will, and will know, not the [k] speech of them which are puffed up, but the power.

20 For the kingdom of God is not in word, but in power.

21 [12] What will ye? shall I come unto you with a rod, or in love, and in the [l] spirit of meekness?

6 [7] Your glorying is not [d] good: * know ye not that a little leaven leaveneth the whole lump?

7 [8] Purge out therefore the old leaven, that ye may be a new [e] lump, as ye are unleavened. For even Christ our [f] passover ‡ is sacrificed for us.

c what it is to be delivered to Satan, the Lord himself declareth, when he saith, Let him be unto thee as an Heathen and Publican, Matt. 18. 17. That is to say, to be disfranchised and put out of the right and libertie of the citie of Christ, which is the church, without which Satan is lord and master. 6 The end of excommunication is not to cast away the excommunicate, that he should utterly perish, but that he may be saved, to wit, that by this means his flesh may be tamed, that he may learn to live to the Spirit. 7 Another end of excommunication is, that others be not infected, and therefore it must of necessitie be retained in the church, that the one be not infected by the other. d Is naught, and not grounded upon good reason, ‡ though you were excellent, and yet there is such wickednes found amongst you. * Gal 5 9. 8 By alluding to the ceremonie of the passover, he exhorteth them to cast out that unclean person from among them. In times past, saith he, it was not lawfull for them which did celebrate the passover to eat leavened bread: Insomuch that he was holden as unclean and unworthy to eat the passover, whosoever had but tasted of leaven. Now all our whole life must be, as it were, the feast of unleavened bread, wherein all they that are partakers of that immaculate Lamb which is slain, must cast out both of themselvs, and also out of their houses and congregations, all impuritie. e By lump, he meaneth the whole body of the church, every member whereof must be unleavened bread, that is, Be renewed in Spirit, by plucking away the old corruption. f The Lamb of our passover. ‡ Or, is slain ‡ Or, holy day, g Let us lead our whole life; as it were a continuall feast, honestly, and uprightly.

malice and wickedneſs: but with the unleavened bread of ſinceritie and truth.

9 ¶ [9] I wrote unto you in an epiſtle, not to company with fornicators.

10 Yet not [h] altogether with the fornicators of this world, or with the covetous, or extortioners, or with idolaters; for then muſt ye needs go out of the world.

11 But now I have written unto you, not to keep company, if any man that is called a brother be a fornicator, or covetous, or an idolater, or a railer, or a drunkard, or an extortioner, with ſuch an one, no not to eat.

12 [10] For what have I to do to judge them alſo that are without? do not ye judge them that are within?

13 But them that are without God judgeth. Therefore put away from among your ſelvs that wicked perſon.

9 Now he ſpeaketh more generally: and that which he ſpake before of the inceſtuous perſon, he ſheweth that it pertaineth to others, which are known to be wicked, and ſuch as through their naughty life are a ſlander to the church, which ought alſo by lawfull order to be caſt out of the communitie of the church. And making mention of eating of meat, either he meaneth thoſe feaſts of love wherein the Supper of the Lord was received, or els their common uſage and manner of life: which is highly to be taken, leaſt any man ſhould think that either matrimonie were broken by excommunication, or ſuch duties ſhunned and cut off thereby, as we ow one to another: children to their parents, ſubjects to their rulers, ſervants to their maſters, and neighbour to neighbour, to win one another unto God. h If you ſhould utterly abſtain from ſuch mens company, you ſhould go out of the world: therefore I ſpeak of them which are in the very boſom of the church, which muſt be called home by diſcipline, and not of them which are without, with whom you muſt labour by all means poſſible in bringing them to Chriſt. 10 Such as are falſe brethren ought to be caſt out of the congregation: as for them which are without, they muſt be left to the judgement of God.

Chap. VI.

1 The Corinthians muſt not vex their brethren in going to law with them: 7 eſpecially under infidels. 9 The unrighteous ſhall not inherit the kingdom of God. 15 Our bodies are the members of Chriſt, 19 and temples of the holy Ghoſt: 16, 17 they muſt not therefore be defiled.

DAre [1] any of [a] you, having a matter againſt another, go to law before the [b] unjuſt, and not before the [2] ſaints?

2 [3] Do ye not know that the ſaints ſhall judge the world? and if the world ſhall be judged by you, are ye unworthy to judge the ſmalleſt matters?

3 Know ye not that we ſhall judge angels? how much more things that pertain to this life?

4 [4] If then ye have [c] judgements of things pertaining to this life, ſet them to judge who are [d] leſt eſteemed in the church.

5 [5] I ſpeak to your ſhame. Is it ſo, that there is not a wiſe man amongſt you? no not one that ſhall be able to judge between his brethren?

6 But brother goeth to law with brother, and that before the unbeleevers.

7 [6] Now therefore there is utterly a [e] fault among you, becauſe ye go to law one with another: [7] why do ye not rather take wrong? why do ye not rather ſuffer your ſelvs to be defrauded?

8 Nay, you do wrong and defraud, and that your brethren.

9 Know ye not that the unrighteous ſhall not inherit the kingdom of God? [8] Be not deceived: neither fornicators, nor idolaters, nor adulterers, nor effeminate, nor abuſers of themſelvs with mankind,

10 Nor theevs, nor covetous, nor drunkards, nor revilers, nor extortioners, ſhall inherit the kingdom of God.

11 And ſuch were ſome of you: but ye are waſhed, but ye are ſanctified, but ye are juſtified in the [f] name of the Lord Jeſus, and by the Spirit of our God.

12 [9] [g] All things are lawfull unto me, but all things are not ‡ expedient: all things are lawfull for me, but I will not be brought under the [h] power of any.

13 [10] Meats for the bellie, and the bellie for meats: but God ſhall deſtroy both it and them. Now the bodie is not for fornication, but for the Lord: and the Lord for the bodie.

14 And God hath both raiſed up the Lord, and will alſo raiſe up us by his own power.

15 [11] Know ye not, that your bodies are the members of Chriſt? ſhall I then take the members of Chriſt, and make them the members of an harlot? God forbid.

16 [12] What, know ye not that he which is joyned to an harlot, is one bodie? for [i] two (ſaith he) ſhall be one fleſh.

17 But he that is joyned unto the Lord, is one ſpirit.

18 [13] Flee fornication. Every ſin that a man doeth, is without the bodie: but he that committeth fornication, ſinneth againſt his own bodie.

19 [14] What, know ye not that your bodie is the temple of the holy Ghoſt which is in you, which ye have of God? [15] and ye are not your own?

20 For ye are bought with a price: therefore glorifie God in your bodie, and in your ſpirit, which are Gods.

1 The third queſtion is of civill judgement: whether it be lawfull for one faithfull to draw another before the judgement-ſeat of an infidell? He anſweteth, that it is not lawfull, for offence ſake, for it is not evil of it ſelf.
a As if he ſaid, Are you become ſo impudent, that you are not aſhamed to make the goſpel a laughing ſtock to profane men?
b To wit, judges.
2 He addeth, that he doth not forbid that one neighbour may go to law with another, if need ſo require, but yet under holy judges.
3 He gathereth by a compariſon, that the faithfull cannot ſeek to infidels to be judged, without great injury don to the Saints, ſeeing that God himſelf will make the Saints judges of the world, and of the devils, with his Son Chriſt: much more ought they to judge theſe light and ſmall cauſes which may be by equitie, and good conſcience determined. 4 The concluſion, wherein he preſcribeth a remedie for this miſchief: To wit, If they end their private affairs betweene themſelvs by choſen arbitrators out of the church: for which matter and purpoſe, the leſt of you, ſaith he, is ſufficient. Therefore he condemneth not judgement-ſeats, but ſheweth what is expedient for the circumſtance of the time, and that without any diminiſhing of the right of the magiſtrate: for he ſpeaketh not of judgements, which are practiſed betwixt the faithfull and the infidels, neither of publick judgements, but of controverſies which may be ended by private arbitrators.
c Courts and places of judgement. d Even the moſt abject among you. 5 He applieth the generall propoſition to a particular, always calling them back to this, to take away from them that falſe opinion of their own excellencie, from whence all theſe miſchiefs ſprang. 6 Now he goeth further alſo, and although by granting them privat arbitrators out of the congregation of the faithfull, he doth noth ſimply condemn, but rather eſtabliſh private judgements, ſo that they be exerciſed without offence, yet he ſheweth, that if they were ſuch as they ought to be, and as it were to be wiſhed, they ſhould not need to uſe that remedie neither. e A weakneſs of mind which is ſaid to be in them, that ſuffer them to be overcome of their luſts, and it is a fault that ſquareth greatly from temperance and moderation: ſo that he nippeth them which could not put up an injurie don unto them. 7 This pertaineth chiefly to the other part of the reprehenſion, To wit, That they went to law even under infidels, whereas they ſhould rather have ſuffred any loſs, than to have given that offence. But yet this is generally true, that we ought rather to depart from our right, than trie the uttermoſt of the law haſtily, and upon an affection to revenge an injurie. But the Corinthians cared for neither, and therefore, he ſaith that they muſt repent, unleſs they will be ſhut out from the inheritance of God.

8 Now he prepareth himſelf to paſs over to the fourth treatiſe of this epiſtle, which concerneth matters indifferent, debating this matter firſt, how men may well uſe women or not; which queſtion hath three branches, fornication, matrimonie, & a ſingle life. As for fornication, he utterly condemneth it. And marriage he commendeth to ſome, as a good and neceſſary remedie for them, to others he leaveth it free: And others ſome he diſſuadeth from it, not as unlawfull, but as diſcommodious, and that not without exception. As for the ſingleneſs of life (under which alſo I comprehend virginitie) he enjoyneth it to no man: yea he perſwadeth men unto it, not for it ſelf, but for another reſpect, neither all men, nor without exception. And being about to ſpeak againſt fornication, he beginneth with a generall repehenſion of thoſe vices, wherewith that rich and riotous citie moſt abounded: warning and teaching them earneſtly, that repentance is unſeperably joyned with forgiveneſs of ſins, and ſanctification with juſtification.
f In Jeſus.
9 Secondly, he ſheweth that the Corinthians do ſimply offend in matters indifferent. Firſt, becauſe they abuſed them: next, becauſe they uſed indifferent things without any diſcretion, ſeeing the uſe of them ought to be brought to the rule of charitie: and that he doth not uſe them aright, which immoderately abuſeth them, and ſo becometh a ſlave unto them. g whatſoever, but this generall word muſt be reſtrained to things that are indifferent. ‡ Or, profitable: h He is in ſubjection to things that are indifferent, whatſoever he be that thinketh he may not be without them: which is a flattering kind of ſlavery under a colour of liberty, which ſeizeth upon ſuch men. 10 Secondarily; becauſe they counted many things for indifferent, which were of themſelvs unlawfull, as fornication, which they numbred amongſt meer naturall and lawfull deſires, aſwell as meat and drink: Therefore the apoſtle ſheweth, that they are utterly unlike: for meats, ſaith he, were made for the neceſſary uſe of mans life, which is not perpetuall: For both meats, and all this manner of nouriſhing, are quickly aboliſhed. But we muſt not ſo think of the uncleanneſs of fornication, for which the bodie is not made, but on the contrary ſide, is ordained to puteneſs, as appeareth by this, that it is conſecrated to Chriſt, even as Chriſt alſo is given us of his Father, to quicken our bodies with that vertue, wherewith he alſo roſe again. 11 A declaration of the former argument by contraries, and the applying of it. 12 A proof of the ſame argument: A harlot and Chriſt are clean contrarie, ſo are the fleſh and the Spirit: therefore he that is one with an harlot, (which is don by carnall copulation of their bodies) cannot be one with Chriſt, which unitie is pure and ſpirituall. Moſes doth not ſpeak theſe words of fornication, but of marriage: but ſeeing that fornication is the corruption of marriage, and both of them is a carnall and fleſhly copulation, we cannot ſay that the apoſtle abuſeth his teſtimonie. Again, Moſes hath not this word (Two) but it is very well expreſſed both here and in Matt. 19. 5. becauſe he ſpeaketh onely but of man and wife: whereupon the opinion of them that vouch it to be lawfull to have many wives, is beaten down: for he that companieth with many, is ſundred as it were into many parts. 13 Another argument why fornication is to be eſchewed, becauſe it defileth the body with a peculiar kind of filthineſs. 14 The third argument: Becauſe a fornicator is ſacrilegious, for our bodies are conſecrated to God. 15 The fourth argument: Becauſe we are not our own men, to give our ſelvs to any other, much leſs to Satan and the fleſh, ſeeing that God himſelf hath bought us, and that with a great price, to the end that both in body and ſoul, we ſhould ſerve to his glorie.

Chap.

Chap VII.

2 He treateth of marriage, 4 shewing it to be a remedie against fornication: 10 and that the bond thereof ought not lightly to be dissolved. 18, 20 Every man must be content with his vocation. 25 Virginitie wherefore to be embraced. 35 And for what respects we may either marry, or abstain from marrying.

1 Now [1] concerning the things [a] whereof ye wrote unto me: It is [b] good for a man not to touch a woman.

2 Nevertheless, to avoid fornication, let every man have his own wife, and let every woman have her own husband.

3 [2] Let the husband render unto the wife [c] due benevolence: and likewise also the wife unto the husband.

4 [3] The wife hath not power of her own body, but the husband: and likewise also the husband hath not power of his own bodie, but the wife.

5 Defraud you not one the other, [4] except it be with consent for a time, that ye may [d] give your selvs to fasting and prayer, and come together again, that Satan tempt you not for your incontinencie.

6 [5] But I speak this by permission, and not of commandment.

7 For [e] I would that all men were even as I my self: but every man hath his proper gift of God, one after this manner, and another after that.

8 [6] I say therefore to the [f] unmarried and widows, It is good for them if they abide even as I.

9 But if they cannot contain, let them marrie: for it is better to marry than to [g] burn.

10 [7] And unto the married I command, yet not I, but the Lord, Let not the wife depart from her husband:

11 But and if she depart, let her remain unmarried, or be reconciled to her husband: and let not the husband put away his wife.

12 [8] But to the rest speak I, not the Lord, If any brother hath a wife that beleeveth not, and she be pleased to dwell with him, let him not put her away.

13 And the woman which hath an husband that beleeveth not, and if he be pleased to dwell with her, let her not leave him.

14 [9] For the unbeleeving husband is [h] sanctified by the [i] wife, and the unbeleeving wife is sanctified by the [k] husband; els were your children unclean, but now are they [l] holy.

15 [10] But if the unbeleeving depart, let him depart; A brother or a sister is not under bondage in [m] such cases: [11] but God hath called us † to peace.

16 For what knowest thou, O wife, whether thou shalt save thy husband? or how knowest thou, O man, whether thou shalt save thy wife?

17 [12] But as God hath distributed to every man, as the Lord hath [n] called every one, so let him walk: and so ordain I in all churches.

18 [13] Is any man called being circumcised? let him not [o] become uncircumcised: is any called in uncircumcision? let him not become circumcised.

19 Circumcision is nothing, and uncircumcision is nothing, but the keeping of the commandments of God.

20 Let every man abide in the same calling wherein he was called.

21 Art thou called being a servant? [p] care not for it; but if thou mayest be made free, use it rather.

22 For he that is called in the [q] Lord, being a servant, is the Lords † freeman: likewise also he that is called being free, is Christs servant.

23 [14] Ye are bought with a price, be not ye the servants of men.

24 [15] Brethren, let every man wherein he is called, therein abide with [r] God.

25 [16] Now concerning virgins, I have no commandment of the Lord: yet I give my [s] judgement as [t] one that hath obtained mercie of the Lord to be faithfull.

26 I suppose therefore that [u] this is good for the [x] present ‡ distress, I say, that it is good for a man so be.

27 Art thou bound unto a wife? seek not to be loosed. Art thou loosed from a wife? seek not a wife.

28 But and if thou marry, thou hast not sinned; and if a virgin marry, she hath not sinned: nevertheless, such shall have trouble in the [y] flesh: [z] but I spare you.

29 But this I say, brethren, the time is [a] short. It remaineth, that both they that have wives, be as though they had none:

30 And they that [b] weep, as though they wept not: & they that rejoyce, as though they

1 He teacheth concerning marriage, that although a single life hath his commodities, which he will declare afterwards, yet that marriage is necessary for the avoiding of fornication: but so that neither one man may have many wives, nor any wife many husbands.

a Touching those matters whereof you wrote unto me.

b Commodious, and (as we say) expedient. For marriage bringeth many griefs with it, and that by reason of the corruption of our first estate.

2 Secondly, he sheweth that the parties married must with singular affection, intirely love one the other.

c This word (due) containeth all kind of benevolence, though he speak more of one sort than of the other, in that that followeth.

3 Thirdly, he warneth them, that they are each in others power, as touching the bodie, so that they may not defraud one another.

4 He addeth an exception, unless the one abstain from the other by mutuall consent, that they may the better give themselvs to prayer; wherein notwithstanding, he warneth them to consider what is expedient, least by this long breaking off, as it were from marriage, they be stirred up to incontinence.

d Do nothing els.

5 Fifthly, he teacheth that marriage is not simply necessary for all men, but for them which have not the gift of continencie: and this gift is by a peculiar grace of God.

e I wish.

6 Sixthly, he giveth the self same admonition touching the second marriage, to wit, that a single life is to be allowed, but for such as have the gift of continence; otherwise they ought to marry again, that their conscience may be at peace.

f This whole place is flat against them which condemn second marriages.

g So to burn with lust, that either the will yeeldeth to the temptation, or els we cannot call upon God with a quiet conscience.

7 Seventhly, he forbiddeth contentions and publishing of divorces, (for he speaketh not here of the fault of whoredom, which was then death even by the law of the Romans also) whereby he affirmeth that the band of marriage it not dissolved, and that from Christ his mouth.

8 Eightly, he affirmeth, that those marriages which are alreadie contracted between a faithfull, and an unfaithfull, or infidel, are firm: so that the faithfull may not forsake the unfaithful.

9 He answereth an objection: But the faithful is defiled by the societie of the unfaithful. The apostle denieth that, and proveth, that the faithfull man with good conscience may use the vessel of his unfaithful wife, by this, that their children which are born of them, are accounted holy (that is, contained within the promise) for it is said to all the faithfull, I will be thy God, and the God of thy seed.

h The godlines of the wife is of more force, to cause their coupling together to be accounted holy, than the infidelitie of the husband is, to prophane the marriage.

i The infidell is not sanctified or made holy in his own person, but in respect of his wife he is sanctified of her.

k To the faithfull husband.

l This place destroyeth the opinion of them, that would not have children to baptized, and their opinion also, that make baptism the very cause of salvation. For the children of the faithfull are holy by vertue of the covenant, even before baptism, and baptism is added as the seal of that holines.

10 He answereth to a question, what if the unfaithfull forsake the faithfull? even is the faithfull free, saith he, because he is forsaken of the unfaithfull.

m when any such thing falleth out.

11 Least any man upon pretence of this libertie should give an occasion to the unfaithfull to depart, he giveth to understand, that marriage contracted with an infidel, ought peaceably to be kept, that, if it be possible, the infidel may be won to the faith.

† Gr. in peace.

12 Taking occasion by that which he said of the bondage and libertie of matrimonie, he digresseth to a generall doctrin concerning the outward state and condition of mans life, as circumcision and uncircumcision, servitude and libertie: warning every man generally to live with a contended mind in the Lord, what state or condition soever he be in, because, that those outward things, as to be circumcised or uncircumcised, to be bond or free, are not of the substance (as they term it) of the kingdom of heaven.

n Hath bound him to a certain kind of life.

13 Notwithstanding he giveth us to understand, that in these examples all are not of like sort: because that circumcision not simply of it self is to be desired, but such as are bound may desire to be free. Therefore herein onely they are equall, that the kingdom of God consisteth not in them, and therefore these are no hinderances to obey God.

o He is said to become uncircumcised, who, by the help of a chirurgian, recovereth an upper skin: which is don by drawing the skin with an instrument, to make it to cover the nut. Celsus in his 7 book, and 25 chapter.

p As though this calling were too unworthy a calling for Christ.

q He that is in state of a servant, and is called to be a Christian.

† Gr. made free: 14 He sheweth the reason of the unlikenes, because that he that desireth to be circumcised, maketh himself subject to mans tradition, and not to God. And this may be much more understood of superstitions, which some do foolishly account for things indifferent.

15 A repetition of the generall doctrin.

r So purely and from the heart, that your doings may be approved before God.

16 He enjoyneth virginitie to no man, yet he perswadeth and praiseth it for another respect, to wit, both for the necessitie of the present time, because the faithfull could scarce abide in any place, and use the commodities of this present life, and therefore such as were not troubled with families, might be the readier; and also for the cares of this life, which marriage draweth with it of necessitie, so that they cannot but have their minds distracted: and this hath place in women especially.

‡ The circumstances considered, this I counsel you.

s It is I that speak this which I am minded to speak: and the truth is, I am a man, but yet worthy credit, for I have obtained of the Lord to be such an one u To remain a virgin.

x For the necessitie which the Saints are dayly subject unto, who are continually tossed up and down, so that their estate may seem most unfit for marriage, were it not that the weaknes of the flesh enforced them to it.

‡ Or, necessitie,

y By the (Flesh) he understandeth what things soever belong to this present life; for marriage bringeth with it many discommodities: so that he bendeth more to a sole life, not because it is a service more agreeable to God than marriage, but for those discommodities, which (if it were possible) he would wish all men to be void of, that they might give themselves to God onely.

z I would your weaknes were provided for.

a For we are now in the latter end of the world.

b By weeping, the Hebrews understand, all adversity, and by joy, all prosperity.

rejoyced

rejoyced not: and they that buy, as though they possessed not:

31 And they that use this [c] world, as not abusing it: for the [d] fashion of this world passeth away.

32 But I would have you without carefulness. He that is unmarried, careth for the things that belong to the Lord, how he may please the Lord:

33 But he that is married, [e] careth for the things that are of the world, how he may please his wife.

34 There is difference also between a wife and a virgin: the unmarried woman careth for the things of the Lord, that she may be holy, both in body and in [f] spirit: but she that is married, careth for the things of the world, how she may please her husband.

35 And this I speak for your [g] own profit, not that I may cast a snare upon you, but for that which is comly, and that you may attend upon the Lord without distraction.

36 [17] But if any man think that he behaveth himself uncomly toward his virgin, if she pass the flower of her age, and need so require, let him do what he will, he [h] sinneth not: let them marry.

37 Nevertheless, he that standeth stedfast in his [i] heart, having [k] no necessity, but hath power over his own will, and hath so decreed in his heart, that he will keep his virgin, doth well.

38 So then he that giveth her in marriage, doth well: but he that giveth her not in marriage, doth [l] better.

39 [18] The wife is bound by the [m] law as long as her husband liveth: but if her husband be dead, she is at liberty to be married to whom she will, onely in the [n] Lord.

40 But she is happier if she so abide, after my judgement: and I think also that I have the spirit of God.

c Those things which God giveth us here.
d The guise, and shape, and fashion: whereby he sheweth us, that there is nothing in this world that continueth.
e Those that are married, have their wits drawn either and thither, and therefore if any man have the gift of continencie, it is more commodious for him to live alone: but they that are married may care for the things of the Lord also, Chrys. Otrom. 3.
f Mind.
g He meaneth that he will enforce no man, either to marrie or not to marry, but to shew them barely what kind of life is most commodious.
17 Now he turneth himself to the parents, in whose power and authoritie their children are, warning them, that according to the former doctrin, they consider what is meet and convenient for their children, that they neither deprive them of the necessary remedie against incontinencie, nor constrain them to marriage, whereas neither their will doth lead them, nor any necessitie urgeth them. And again he praiseth virginitie, but of it self, and not in all.
h He doth well: for so he expoundeth it, vers. 38.
i Resolveth himself. k That the weakness of his daughter intreateth him no, or any other matter, but that he may safely keep her a virgin still.
l Provideth more commodiously for his children, and that not simply, but by reason of such conditions as be before mentioned. 18 How which he spake of a widower, he speaketh now of a widow, to wit, That she may marry again, so that she do it in the fear of God: and yet he dissembleth not, but saith, that if she remain still a widow she shall be void of many cares.
m By the law of marriage. n Religiously, and in the fear of God.

Chap. VIII.

1 To abstain from meats offered to idols. 8,9 We must not abuse our Christian libertie, to the offence of our brethren: 11 but must bridle our knowledge with charity.

NOw [1] as touching things offered unto idols, we know that we [a] all have knowledge. Knowledge [b] puffeth up, but charity [c] edifieth.

2 And if any man think that he knoweth any thing, he knoweth nothing yet as he ought to know.

3 But if any man love God, the same is known of him.

4 [2] As concerning therefore the eating of

1 He entreth to intreat of another kind of things indifferent, to wit, of things offered to idols, or the use of flesh so offered and sacrificed. And first of all, he removeth all those things which the Corinthians pretended in using things offered to idols without any respect. First of all they affirmed, that this difference of meats was for the unskilfull men, but, as for them, they knew well enough the benefit of Christ, which causeth all these things to be clean to them that are clean, Be it so, saith Paul: be it that we are all sufficiently instructed in the knowledge of Christ, I say, notwithstanding that, we must not simply rest in this knowledge. The reason is, that unless our knowledge be tempered with charity, it doth not onely not avail, but also doth much hurt, because it is the mistress of pride: nay, it doth not so much as deserve the name of godly knowledge, if it be separate from the love of God, and therefore from the love of our neighbour. a This generall word is to be abridged, as appeareth vers. 7. for there is a kind of taunt in it, as we may perceive by the next vers. b Ministreth occasion of vanity and pride: because it is void of charitie. c Instructeth our neighbour. 2 The application of that answer to things offered to idols: I grant, saith he, that an idol is indeed a vain imagination, and that there is but one God and Lord, and therefore that meat cannot be made either holy or profane by the idol: but it followeth not therefore that a man may without respect use those meats as any other.

those things that are offered in sacrifice unto [d] idols, we know that an idol is [e] nothing in the world, and that there is none other God but one.

5 For though there be that are called gods, whether in heaven or in earth, (as there be gods many, and lords many)

6 But to us there is but one God, the Father, [f] of whom are all things, and we ‡ [g] in him, and [h] one Lord Jesus Christ, [i] by whom are all things, and we by him.

7 [3] Howbeit there is not in every man that knowledge: for [4] some with [k] conscience of the idol unto this hour, eat it as a thing offered unto an idol; and their conscience being weak, is defiled.

8 [5] But meat commendeth us not to God: for neither if we eat, ‡ are we the better: neither if we eat not, ‡ are we the worse.

9 But take heed least by any means this ‡ libertie of yours become a stumbling block to them that are weak.

10 [6] For if any man see thee which hast knowledge sit at meat in the idols temple, shall not the conscience of him wich is weak be † emboldened to eat those things which are offered to idols?

11 [7] And through thy knowledge shall the weak brother perish, for whom Christ died?

12 [8] But when ye sin so against the brethren, and wound their weak conscience, ye sin against Christ.

13 [9] Wherefore if meat make my brother to offend, I will eat no flesh while the world standeth, least I make my brother to offend.

d This word (Idol) in this place is taken for an image which is made to represent some godhead, that worship might be given unto it: whereupon came the word (Idolatry) that is to say, Image-service.
e Is a vain dream.
f When the Father is distinguished from the Son, he is named the beginning of all things.
‡ Or, for him, Rom. 11. 36.
g We have our being in him.
h But as the Father is called Lord, so is the Son, God: therefore this word (One) doth not respect the persons, but the nature.
i This word (By) doth not signifie the instrumentall cause, but the efficient: for the Father and the Son work together, which is not so to be taken, that we make two causes, seeing they have both but one nature, though they be distinct persons.
3 The reason why that followeth not, is this: because there are many men which do not know that which you know. Now the judgement of outward things depends not onely upon your conscience, but upon the conscience of them that behold you; and therefore your actions must be applyed not onely to your knowledge, but also to the ignorance of your brethren. 4 An applying of the reason: There are many which cannot eat of things offered to idols, but with a wavering conscience, because they think them to be unclean: therefore if by thy example they enterprise to do that which inwardly they think displeaseth God, their conscience is defiled with their eating, and thou hast been the occasion of this mischief. k By conscience of the idol, he meaneth the secret judgement that they had within themselvs, whereby they thought all things unclean, that were offered to idols, and therefore they could not use them with a good conscience. For this force hath conscience, that if it be good, it maketh things indifferent, good, and if it be evil, it maketh them evil. 5 A preventing of an objection: why then, shall we therefore be deprived of our liberty? Nay, saith the apostle, you shall lose no part of Christianitie, although you abstain for your brethrens sake; as also if ye receive the meat, it maketh you no whit the more holy: for our commendation before God consisteth not in meats: but to use our liberty with offence of our brethren, is an abuse of liberty, the true use thereof is clean contrary, to wit, so to use it, as in using of it we have consideration of our weak brethren. † Or, have we the more: ‡ Or, have we the less. † Or, power
6 Another plain explication of the same reason, propounding the example of the sitting down at the table in the idols temple, which thing the Corinthians did evil account of among things indifferent, because it is simply forbidden for the circumstance of the place, although offence do cease, as it shall be declared in his place. Gr. edified 7 An amplification of the argument taken both of comparison and contraries: Thou wretched man, saith he, pleasing thy self with thy knowledge, which indeed is none, (for if thou hadst true knowledge, thou wouldest not sit down to meat in an idols temple) wilt thou destroy thy brother, hardening his weak conscience by thine example to do evil, for whose salvation Christ himself hath died? 8 Another amplication: Such offending of our weak brethren, redoundeth unto Christ, and therefore let not these men think that they have to do onely with their brethren. 9 The conclusion: which Paul conceiveth in his own person, that he might not seem to exact that of others, which he will not be first subject to himself; I had rather (saith he) abstain for ever from all kind of flesh, than give occasion of sin to any of my brethren, much less would I refuse in any certain place or time for my brothers sake not to eat flesh offered to idols.

Chap. IX.

1 He sheweth his liberty, 7 and that the minister ought to live by the gospel: 15 yet that himself hath of his own accord abstained 18 to be either chargeable unto them, 22 or offensive unto any, in matters indifferent. 24 Our life is like unto a race.

AM [1] I not an apostle? am I not free? [2] have I not seen Jesus Christ our Lord? are not you my [a] work in the Lord?

1 Before he proceedeth any further in his proposed matter of things offered to idols, he would shew the cause of all this miscief, and also take it away: to wit, that the Corinthians thought themselves not bound to depart from a jot of their liberty for any mans pleasure. Therefore he propoundeth himself for an example, and that in a matter most necessary. And yet he speaketh severally of both, but first of his own person. If (saith he) you alledge for your selvs, that you are free, and therefore will use your liberty, am not I also free, seeing I am an apostle? 2 He proveth his apostleship by the effects, in that he was appointed of Christ himself, & the authority of his function was sufficiently confirmed to him amongst them by their conversion. And all these things he setteth before their eyes, to make them ashamed, for that they would not in the least wise that might be, debase themselvs for the weaks sake; whereas the apostle himself did all that he could to win them to God, when they were utterly reprobate and without God. a By the Lord.

2 If

2 If I be not an apostle unto others, yet doubtless I am to you: for the [b] seal of mine apostleship are ye in the Lord.

3 [3] Mine answer to them that do [c] examin me, is this,

4 [4] Have we not power to [d] eat and to drink?

5 Have we not power to lead about [e] a sister a ‡ wife, as well as other apostles, and as the brethren of the Lord, and Cephas?

6 Or I onely and Barnabas, have not we [f] power to forbear working?

7 [5] Who goeth a [g] warfare anytime at his own charges? who planteth a vineyard, and eateth not of the fruit thereof? or who feedeth a flock, and eateth not of the milk of the flock?

8 [6] Say I these things [h] as a man? or saith not the law the same also?

9 For it is written in the law of Moses, *Thou shalt not muzzle the mouth of the ox that treadeth out the corn. Doth God take care for [i] oxen?

10 Or saith he it altogether for our sakes? for our sakes, no doubt, this is written: that he that ploweth should plow in hope: and that he that thresheth in hope, should be partaker of his hope.

11 * [7] If we have sown unto you spirituall things, is it a great thing if we shall reap your carnall things?

12 [8] If others be partakers of this power over you, are not we rather? Nevertheless, we have not used this [k] power: but suffer all things, least we should hinder the gospel of Christ.

13 * [9] Do ye not know that they which minister about holy things, ‡ live of the [l] things of the temple? and they which wait at the altar, are [m] partakers with the altar?

14 Even so hath the Lord ordained, that they which preach the gospel, should live of [n] the gospel.

15 But I have used none of these things. [10] Neither have I written these things, that it should be so don unto me: for it were better for me to die, than that any man should make my glorying void.

16 For though I preach the gospel, I have nothing to glory of: for necessity is laid upon me, yea, wo is unto me if I preach not the gospel.

17 For if I do this thing willingly, I have a reward: but if against my will, a dispensation of the gospel is committed unto me:

18 What is my reward then? verily that when I preach the gospel, I may make the gospel of Christ [o] without charge, that I abuse not my power in the gospel.

19 For though I be free from all men, yet have I made my self servant unto all, that I might gain the more.

20 And unto the Jews, I became as a Jew, that I might gain the Jews; to them that are under the [p] law, as under the law, that I might gain them that are under the law:

21 To them that are without law, as without law, (being not without law to God, but under the law to Christ) that I might gain them that are without law.

22 To the weak became I as weak, that I might gain the weak: I am made [q] all things to all men, that I might by all means save some.

23 And this I do for the gospels sake, that I might be partaker thereof with [r] you.

24 [11] Know ye not that they which run in a race, run all, but one receiveth the prize? So run that ye may obtain.

25 And every man that striveth for the masterie, is [s] temperate in all things: Now, they do it to obtain a corruptible crown, but we an incorruptible.

26 I therefore so run, not as uncertainly: so fight I, not as one that beateth the air.

27 But I keep under my [t] body, and bring it into subjection: least that by any means when I have preached to others, I my self should be [u] a cast-away.

b As a seal, whereby it appeareth sufficiently that God is the author of mine apostleship.
3 He addeth this by the way, as if he would say, So far it is off, that you may doubt of my apostleship, that I use to refute them which call it into controversie, by opposing those things which the Lord hath don by me amongst you.
c which like judges examin me, and my doings.
4 Now touching the matter it self, he saith, Seeing that I am free, and truly an apostle, why may not I (I say not, eat of all things offered to idols, but) be maintained by my labours, yea, and keep my wife also, as the residue of the apostles lawfully do, as by name, John and James, the Lords cousins, and Peter himself?
d Upon the expence of the church.
e One that is a Christian and a true beleever?
‡ Or, woman, f Not live by the works of our hands.
5 That he may not seem to burden the apostles, he sheweth that it is just that they do, by an argument of comparison, seeing that soldiers live by their wages, and husbandmen by the fruits of their labours, and shepherds by that that cometh of their flocks.
g Useth to go a warfare.
6 Secondly, he bringeth forth the authority of Gods institution by an argument of comparison.
h Have I no better ground than the common custom of man?
* Deut. 25. 4.
i was it Gods proper drift to provide for oxen when he made this law? for otherwise there is not the smallest thing in the world, but God hath a care of it. Rom.* 15. 27. 7 An assumption of the arguments with an amplification, for neither in so doing do we require a reward meet for our deserts.
8 Another argument of great force: Others are nourished amongst you, therefore it was lawfull for me, yea, rather for me than any other: and yet I refused it, and had rather still suffer any discommoditie, than the gospel of Christ should be hindered. k The word signifieth, a right and interest; whereby he giveth us to understand, that the ministers of the word, must of right and duty be found of the church. * Deut. 18. 1. 9 Last of all, he bringeth forth the expres law concerning the nourishing of the Levites: which priviledge notwithstanding he will not use. ‡ Or, feed l This is spoken by the figure Metonymia, or of those things that are offered in the temple. m Are partakers with the altar in dividing the sacrifice. n Because they preach the gospel. It followeth by this place, that Paul gat no living, neither would have any other man get by any commodities of masses, or any other such superstitious trumperies. 10 He taketh away occasion of superstition by the way, that it might not be thought that he wrote this as though he challenged his wages that was not paid him. Nay, saith he, I had rather die, than not to continue in this purpose to preach the gospel freely. For I am bound to preach the gospel, seeing that the Lord hath enjoyned me this office: but unless I do it willingly, and for the love of God, nothing is to be allowed that I do. If I had rather that the gospel should be evil spoken of, than that I should not require my wages, then would it appear that I took these pains not so much for the gospels sake, as for my gains and advantages. But I say, this were not to use, but abuse my right, and libertie: Therefore not onely in this thing, but also in all others (as much as I could) I am made all things to all men, that I might win them to Christ, and might together with them be won to Christ.
o By taking nothing of them to whom I preach it.
p The word (law) in this place, must be restrained to the ceremoniall law.
q In matters that are indifferent, which may be don or not don with a good consience: as if he said, I changed my self into all fashions, that by all means I might save some.
r That both I and they to whom I preach the gospel, may receive fruit by the gospel.
11 He bringeth in another cause of this mischief, to wit, that they were given to gluttony, for there were solemn banquets of sacrifices, and the riot of the priests was always too much celebrated and kept. Therefore it was hard for them which were accustomed to riotousness, especially when they pretended the liberty of the gospel, to be restrained from these banquets: but contrariwise, the apostle calleth them by a pleasant similitude, and also by his own example, to sobriety and mortification of the flesh, shewing that they cannot be fit to run or wrestle (as then the games of Isthmies were) which pamper up their bodies: and therefore affirming that they can have no reward, unless they take another course and trade of life. s Useth a most exquisit diet. t The old man, which striveth against the spirit. u This word (Cast away) is not set as contrary to the word (Elect) but as contrary to the word (Approved) when we see one by experience not to be such an one as he ought to be.

Chap X.

1 The sacraments of the Jews 6 are types of ours, 7 and their punishments 11 examples for us. 14 We must flee from idolatrie. 21 We must not make the Lords table the table of devils: 24 and in things indifferent we must have regard of our brethren.

MOreover, [1] brethren, I would not that ye should be ignorant, how that all [a] our fathers were under the cloud, and all passed through the sea:

2 [2] And were all [b] baptized unto [c] Moses in the cloud, and in the sea:

3 And did all eat the [d] same spirituall [e] meat:

4 And did all drink the same spirituall drink: (for they drank of that spirituall Rock that ‡ [f] followed them: & that Rock was [g] Christ)

5 But with many of them God was not well pleased: for they were overthrown in the wilderness.

1 He setteth out that which he said, laying before them an example of the horrible judgement of God against them which had in effect the self same pledges of the same adoption and salvation that we have: and yet notwithstanding when they gave themselvs to idols feasts, perished in the wilderness, being horribly and manifoldly punished. Now, moreover and besides, that these things are fitly spoken against them which frequented idols feasts, the same also seem to be alledged to this end and purpose, because many men are thus minded, that those things are not of such great weight that God will be angry with them if they use them, so that they frequent Christian assemblies and be baptized, and receive the communion, and confess Christ. a Paul speaketh this in respect of the covenant, and not in respect of the persons, saying in generall. 2 In effect, the Sacraments of the old fathers were all one with ours, for they respected Christ onely, who offered himself unto them in divers shadows. b All of them were baptized with the outward sign, but not in deed, wherewith God cannot be charged but they themselvs being their guid. d The same that we do. e Manna which was a spirituall meat to the beleevers, which in faith lay hold upon Christ, who is the true meat. ‡ Or, went with them: f Of the river and running Rock, which followed the people. g Did sacramentally signifie Christ, so that together with the sign, there was the thing signified, and the truth it self: for God doth not offer a bare sign, but the thing signified by the sign, together with it, which is to be received with faith.

3 An amplifying of the example against them which are carried away with their lusts beyond the bounds which God hath measured out. For this is the beginning of all evill, as of idolatry, (which hath gluttony a companion unto it) fornication, rebelling against Christ, murmuring, and such like, which God punished most sharply in that old people, to the end that we, which succeed them, and have a more full declaration of the will of God, might by that means take better heed.

* Num. 21. 6.
* Num. 14. 37.

‡ Or, types:

k This our age is called the end, for it is the shutting up of all ages.

4 In conclusion, he descendeth to the Corinthians themselvs, warning them that they please not themselvs, but rather that they prevent the subtilties of Satan. Yet he useth an intimation, and comforteth them, that he may not seem to make them altogether like to those wicked idolaters and contemners of Christ, which perished in the wildernes.

‡ Or, moderate

l which cometh of weakness.

m He that would have you tempted for your profits sake, will give you an issue to escape out of the temptation.

6 [3] Now these things were † our [h] examples, to the intent we should not lust after evil things, as * they also lusted.

7 Neither be ye idolaters, as were some of them, as it is written, * The people sat down to eat and drink, and rose up to play.

8 Neither let us commit fornication, as some of them committed, and * fell in one day three and twenty thousand.

9 Neither let us tempt [i] Christ, as some of them also tempted, * and were destroyed of serpents.

10 Neither murmure ye, as some of them also murmured, and were * destroyed of the destroyer.

11 Now all these things happened unto them for ‡ ensamples: and they are written for our admonition, upon whom the [k] ends of the world are come.

12 [4] Wherefore let him that thinketh he standeth, take heed least he fall.

13 There hath no temptation taken you, but ‡ such as is common to [l] man: but God is faithfull, who will not suffer you to be tempted above that ye are able; but will with the temptation also [m] make a way to escape, that ye may be able to bear it.

14 Wherefore, my dearly beloved, flee from idolatry.

15 [5] I speak as to wise men: judge ye what I say.

16 The cup of [n] blessing which we bless, is it not the [o] communion of the bloud of Christ? The bread which we break, is it not the communion of the body of Christ?

17 For we being many are one bread, and one body: for we are all partakers of that one bread.

18 Behold Israel after the [p] flesh: are not they which eat of the sacrifices, [q] partakers of the altar?

19 What say I then? that the idol is any thing? or that which is offered in sacrifice to idols is any thing?

20 But I say, that the things which the Gentiles * sacrifice, they sacrifice to devils, and not to God: and I would not that ye should have [r] fellowship with devils.

21 Ye cannot drink the cup of the Lord, and the [s] cup of devils: ye cannot be partakers of the Lords table, and of the table of devils.

22 Do we provoke the Lord to jealousie? are we stronger than he?

23 [6 t] All things are lawfull for me, but all things are not expedient: all things are lawfull for me, but all things edifie not.

24 Let no man seek his own: but every man anothers wealth.

25 [7] Whatsoever is sold in the [u] shambles, that eat, asking no question for conscience sake.

26 For * the earth is the Lords and the [x] fulnes thereof.

27 If any of them that beleeve not, bid you to a feast, and ye be disposed to go; whatsoever is set before you, eat, asking no question for conscience sake.

28 But if any man say unto you, This is offered in sacrifice unto idols, eat not, for his sake that shewed it, and for conscience sake: * The earth is the Lords and the fulnes thereof.

29 Conscience I say, not thine own, but of the others: [8] for why is my libertie judged of another mans conscience?

30 For, if I by ‡ [y] grace be a partaker, why am I evil spoken of for that, for which I give thanks?

31 [9] Whether therefore ye eat or drink, or whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God.

32 Give none offence, neither to the Jews, nor to the † Gentiles, nor to the church of God.

33 Even as I please all men in all things, not seeking mine own profit, but the profit of many, that they may be saved.

7 An applying of the rule to the present matter: whatsoever is sold in the shambles, you may indifferently buy it, as it were at the Lords hand, and eat it either at home with the faithfull, or being called home to the unfaithfull, to wit, in a private banket: but yet with this exception, unless any man be present which is weak, whose conscience may be offended by setting meats offered to idols before them: for then you ought to have consideration of their weakness.

u The flesh that was sacrificed, was used to be sold in the shambles, and the price returned to the priest.

* Deut. 10. 14. Psal. 24. 1.

x All those things whereof it is full.

* Deut. 10. 14. Psal 24. 1.

8 A reason: For we must take heed that our liberty be not evil spoken of, and that the benefit of God which we ought to use with thanksgiving be not changed into impietie, and that through our fault, if we chuse rather to offend the conscience of the weak, than to yeeld a little of our liberty in a matter of no importance, and so give occasion to the weak to judge in such sort of us, and of Christian liberty. And the apostle taketh these things upon his own person, that the Corinthians may have so much the less occasion to oppose any thing against him.

‡ Or, thanksgiving

y If I may through Gods benefit eat this meat or that meat, why should I through my fault cause that benefit of God to turn to my blame?

9 The conclusion: we must order our lives in such sort, that we seek not our selvs, but Gods glory, and so the salvation of as many as we may: wherein the apostle sticketh not to propound himself to the Corinthians (even his own flock) as an example; but so that he calleth them back to Christ, unto whom he himself hath regard.

† Gr. Greek.

Chap. XI.

1 He reproveth them because in holy assemblies 4 their men prayed with their heads covered, and 6 women with their heads uncovered, 17 and because generally their meetings were not for the better, but for the wors, as 21 namely, in profaning with their own feasts the Lords supper. 23 Lastly, he calleth them to the first institution thereof.

BE ye followers of me, even as I also am of Christ.

1 The fifth treatise of this epistle concerning the right ordering of publick assemblies, containing three points, to wit, of the comly apparell of men and women, of the order of the Lords supper, and of the right use of spirituall gifts. But going about to reprehend certain things, he beginneth notwithstanding with a generall praise of them, calling those particular laws of comlines and honesty, which belong to the ecclesiasticall policy, tradition: which afterward they called, Canons.

2 [1] Now I praise you, brethren, that you remember me in all things, and keep the † ordinances, as I delivered them to you.

‡ Or, traditions.

2 He setteth down God in Christ our mediator, for the end and mark not onely of the doctrin, but also of ecclesiasticall comlines. Then applying it to the question proposed, touching the comly apparell both of men and women in publick assemblies, he declareth that the woman is one degree beneath the man by the ordinance of God, and that the man is so subject to Christ, that the glory of God ought to appear in him for the preeminence of the sex.

3 [2] But I would have you know, that the head of every man is Christ: and the head of the woman, is the man: and the head of [2] Christ is God.

2 In that Christ is our mediator.

3 Hereof he gathereth, that if men do either pray or preach in publick assemblies, having their heads covered (which was then a sign of subjection) they did, as it were, spoil themselvs of their dignity, against Gods ordinance.

4 [3] Every [b] man praying or prophesying, having his head covered, dishonoureth his head.

b It appeareth, that this was a politique law serving only for the circumstances of the time that Paul lived in, by this reason, because in these our days for a man to speak bare-headed in an assembly is a sign of subjection.

5 [4] But every woman that prayeth or prophesieth with her head uncovered, dishonoureth

4 And in like sort he concludeth, that women which shew themselvs in publick and ecclesiasticall assemblies without the sign and token of their subjection, that is to say, uncovered, shame themselvs.

5 Now returning to those idols feasts, that he may not seem to dally at all, first, he promiseth that he will use no other reasons than such as they knew very well themselvs. And he useth an induction borrowed from the agreement that is in the things themselvs. The holy bankets of Christians are pledges, first of all, of the communitie that they have with Christ: and next, one with another. The Israelites also do ratifie in their sacrifices their mutuall conjunction in one self same religion: therefore so do the idolaters also joyn themselvs with their idols, or devils rather (for idols are nothing) in those solemn banquets: whereupon it followeth, that that table is a table of devils, and therefore you must eschew it: For you cannot be partakers of the Lord and of idols together, much less may such banquets be accounted for things indifferent. will ye then strive with God? and if ye do, think you that you shall get the upper hand?

n Of thanksgiving: whereupon that holy banquet was called Eucharist, that is, A thanksgiving.

o A most effectuall pledge and note of our knitting together with Christ, and ingraffing to him.

p That is, as yet observe their ceremonies,

q Are consenting and guilty both of that worship and sacrifice.

* Deut. 32. 17. Psal. 106. 37.

r Have any thing to do with the devils, or enter into that societie which is begun in the devils name.

s The heathen and prophane people were wont to shut up and make an end of their feasts which they kept to the honour of their gods, in offering meat-offerings and drink-offerings to them, with banquets and feastings.

6 Coming to another kind of things offered to idols, he repeateth that generall rule, that in the use of things indifferent, we ought to have consideration, not of our selvs onely, but of our neighbours; and therefore there are many things which of themselvs are lawfull, which may be evil don of us, because of offence to our neighbour.

‡ Look afore, Chap. 6. 12.

noureth her head: 5 for that is even all one as if ſhe were ſhaven.

6 For if the woman be not covered, let her alſo be ſhorn: but if it be a ſhame for a woman to be ſhorn or ſhaven, let her be covered.

7 6 For a man indeed ought not to cover his head, for as much as he is the image and glory of God: but the woman is the glory of the man.

8 7 For the man is not of the woman: but the woman of the man.

9 8 Neither was the man created for the woman: but the woman for the man.

10 9 For this cauſe ought the woman to have ‡ c power on her head, becauſe of the 10 angels.

11 11 Neverthleſs, neither is the man without the woman, neither the woman without the man d in the Lord.

12 For as the woman is of the man, even ſo is the man alſo by the woman: but all things of God.

13 12 Judge in your ſelvs: is it comly that a woman pray unto God uncovered?

14 Doth not even nature it ſelf teach you, that if a man have long hair, it is a ſhame unto him?

15 But if a woman have long hair, it is a glory to her: for her hair is given her for a ‡ c covering.

16 13 But if any man ſeem to be contentious, we have no ſuch cuſtom, neither the churches of God.

17 14 Now in this that I declare unto you, I praiſe you not, that you come together not for the better, but for the worſe.

18 15 For firſt of all, when ye come together in the church, I hear that there be ‡ diviſions among you, and I partly believe it.

19 16 For there muſt be alſo ‡ hereſies among you, that they which are f approved, may be made manifeſt among you.

20 When ye come together therefore into one place, ‡ g this is not to eat the Lords ſupper.

21 For in eating every one taketh h before other, his own ſupper: and one is hungry, and another is drunken.

22 17 What, have ye not houſes to eat and to drink in? or, deſpiſe ye the church of God, and ſhame ‡ them that have not? what ſhall I ſay to you? ſhall I praiſe you in this? I praiſe you not.

23 18 For I have received of the Lord, that which alſo I delivered unto you, that the Lord Jeſus, the ſame night in which he was betrayed, took bread:

24 * And when he had given thanks, he brake it, and ſaid, Take, eat, this is my body, which is i broken for you: this do ‡ in remembrance of me.

25 After the ſame manner alſo he took the cup, when he had ſupped, ſaying, This cup is the new teſtament in my bloud: this do ye, as oft as ye drink it, in remembrance of me.

26 For as often as ye eat this bread, and drink this cup, ‡ ye do ſhew the Lords death till he come.

27 19 Wherefore, whoſoever ſhall eat this bread, and drink this cup of the Lord k unworthily, ſhall be guilty of the body and bloud of the Lord.

28 20 But let a man examin l himſelf, and ſo let him eat of that bread, & drink of that cup.

29 For he that eateth and drinketh unworthily, eateth and drinketh ‡ damnation to himſelf, not m diſcerning the Lords body.

30 21 For this cauſe many are weak and ſickly among you, and many ſleep.

31 For if we would n judge our ſelvs, we ſhould not be judged.

32 But when we are judged we are chaſtened of the Lord, that we ſhould not be condemned with the world.

33 22 Wherefore, my brethren, when ye come together to eat, tarry one for another.

34 23 And if any man hunger, let him eat at home, that ye come not together unto ‡ condemnation. And the 24 reſt will I ſet in order whem I come.

1 The firſt argument taken from the common ſenſe of man, for ſo much as nature teacheth women, that it is diſhoneſt for them to come abroad bare headed, ſeeing that ſhe hath given them thick and long hair, which they do ſo diligently trim, and deck, that they can in no wiſe abide to have it ſhaven.

6 The taking away of an objection: Have not men alſo hair given them? I grant it, ſaith the apoſtle, but there is another matter in it: For man was made to this end and purpoſe, that the glory of God ſhould appear in his rule and authority: but the woman was made, that by profeſſion of her obedience, ſhe might more honour her husband.

7 He proveth the inequality of the woman, by that, that the man is the matter whereof woman was firſt made.

8 Secondly, by that, that the woman was made for man, and not the man for the womans ſake.

9 The concluſion: women muſt be covered, to ſhew by this externall ſign, their ſubjection.

‡ That is, a covering, in ſign that ſhe is under the power of her husband.

c A covering which is a token of ſubjection

10 what this meaneth, I do not yet underſtand.

11 A digreſſion which the apoſtle uſeth, leaſt that which he ſpake of the ſuperiority of men, and lower degree of women, in conſideration of the policy of the church, ſhould be ſo taken as though there were no meaſure of this inequality. Therefore he teacheth that men have in ſuch ſort the preeminence, that God made them not alone, but women alſo: and woman was ſo made of man, that men alſo are born by the means of women, and this ought to put them in mind to obſerve the degree of every ſex in ſuch ſort, that mutuall conjunction may be cheriſhed. d By the Lord. 12 He urgeth the argument taken from the common ſenſe of nature. ‡ Or, vail. e To be a covering for her, and ſuch a covering, as ſhould procure another. 13 Againſt ſuch as are ſtubbornly contentious, we have to oppoſe this, that the churches of God are not contentious. 14 He paſſeth now to the next treatiſe, concerning the right adminiſtration of the Lords Supper. And the apoſtle uſeth this ſharper preface, that the Corinthians might underſtand, that whereas they obſerved generally the apoſtles commandments, yet they fully neglected them in a matter of greateſt importance. 15 To celebrate the Lords ſupper aright, it is requiſite that there be not onely conſent of doctrin, but alſo of affections, that it be not profaned. ‡ Or, ſchiſms. 16 Although that ſchiſms and hereſies proceed from the devil and are evil, yet they come not by chance, nor without cauſe and they turn unto the profit of the elect. f Or, ſects f whom experience hath taught to be of ſound religion and godlineſs. ‡ Or, ye can not eat g This is an uſuall kind of ſpeech whereby the apoſtle denieth that flatly, which many did not well. h Eateth his meat and tarrieth not till others come. 17 The apoſtle thinketh it good to take away the love-feaſts, for their abuſe, although they had been a long time, and with commendation uſed in churches, and were appointed and inſtituted by the apoſtles. ‡ Or, them that are poor 18 we muſt take a true form of keeping the Lords ſupper, out of the inſtitution of it, the parts whereof are theſe, touching the paſtors, to ſhew forth the Lords death by preaching his word: to bleſs the bread and the wine, by calling upon the name of God, and together with prayers to declare the inſtitution thereof: and finally, to deliver the bread broken to be eaten, and the cup received to be drunken with thankſgiving. And touching the flock, that every man examin himſelf, that is to ſay, to prove both his knowledge, and alſo faith, and repentance: to ſhew forth the Lords death, that is, in true faith to yeeld unto his word and inſtitution: and laſt of all, to take the bread at the miniſters hand, and to eat it, and to drink the wine, and give God thanks: This was Pauls and the apoſtles manner of miniſtring.

‡ Or, for a remembrance

‡ C., ſhew ye

19 Whoſoever contemn the holy Sacraments, that is, uſe them not aright, are guilty not of the bread and wine, but of the thing it ſelf, that is, of Chriſt, and ſhall be grievouſly puniſhed for it.

k Otherwiſe than meet is, ſuch myſteries ſhould be handled.

20 The examination of a mans ſelf, is of neceſſity required in the ſupper, and therefore they ought not to be admitted unto it, which cannot examin themſelvs: as children, furious and mad men, alſo ſuch as either have no knowledge of Chriſt, or not ſufficient, although they profeſs Chriſtian religion, and other ſuch like.

l This place beateth down the faith of credit, or unwrapped faith, which the Papiſts maintain.

m He is ſaid to diſcern the Lords body, that hath conſideration of the worthineſs of it, and therefore cometh to eat of this meat with great reverence. 21 The profaning of the body and bloud of the Lord in his myſteries, is ſharply puniſhed of him, and therefore ſuch a miſchief ought diligently to be prevented by judging and correcting of a mans ſelf. n Try and examin our ſelvs, by faith and repentance, ſeparating our ſelvs from the wicked. 22 The ſupper of the Lord is a common action of the whole church, and therefore there is no place for private ſuppers. 23 The ſupper of the Lord was inſtituted not to feed the belly, but to feed the ſoul with the communion of Chriſt, and therefore it ought to be ſeparated from common bankets. ‡ Or, judgement. 24 Such things as pertain to order, as place, time, form of prayers, and other ſuch like, the apoſtle took order for it in congregations, according to the conſideration of times, places, and perſons.

Chap. XII.

1 Spiritual gifts 4 are divers, 7 yet all to profit withall. 8 And to that end are diverſly beſtowed. 12 That by the like proportion, as the members of a natural body tend all to the 16 mutuall decency, 22 ſervice, and 26 ſuccour of the ſame body; 27 ſo we ſhould do one for another, to make up the myſticall body of Chriſt.

NOw 1 concerning ſpiritual gifts, brethren, I would not have you a ignorant.

2 2 Ye know that ye were b Gentiles, carried away unto theſe dumb idols, even as ye were led.

3 3 Wherefore I give you to underſtand, that no man ſpeaking by the Spirit of God, calleth Jeſus ‡ c accurſed: and that no man can ſay that Jeſus is the Lord, but by the holy Ghoſt.

1 Now he entreth into the third part of this treatiſe touching the right uſe of ſpiritual gifts, where in he giveth the Corinthians plainly to underſtand that they abuſed them: for they that excelled, bragged ambitiouſly, of them and ſo robbed God of the praiſe of his gifts: and having no conſideration of their brethren, abuſed them to a vain oſtentation, and ſo robbed the church of the uſe of thoſe gifts. On the other ſide, the inferiour ſort envied the better, and went about to make departure, ſo that all that body was as it were ſcattered and rent in pieces. So then going about to remedy theſe abuſes, willeth them firſt to conſider diligently, that they have not theſe gifts of themſelvs, but from the free grace and liberality of God, to whoſe glory they ought to beſtow them all. a Ignorant to what purpoſe theſe gifts are given you. 2 He reproveth the ſame, by comparing their former ſtate with that wherein they were at this time indued with thoſe excellent gifts. b As touching Gods ſervice and the covenant, meer ſtrangers. 3 The concluſion: know you therefore that you cannot ſo much as move your lips to honour Chriſt withall, but by the grace of the holy Ghoſt. ‡ Or, anathema: c Doth curſe him, or by any means whatſoever diminiſh his glory.

4 In the second place, he layeth another foundation, to wit, that these gifts are divers, as the functions also are divers, and their offices divers, but that one self same Spirit, Lord and God, is the giver of all these gifts, and that to one end, to wit, for the profit of all.

d The Spirit is plainly distinguished from the gifts.

e So Paul calleth that inward force which cometh from the holy Ghost, and maketh men fit to wonderful things.

f The holy Ghost openeth and sheweth himself freely in giving of these gifts.

g To the use and benefit of the church.

5 He declareth this manifold diversity, and reckoneth up the chiefest gifts, bearing that into their heads, which he said before, to wit, that all these things proceeded from one self-same Spirit.

h wisdom is a most excellent gift, very requisite, not onely for them which teach, but also for them that exhort and comfort, which thing is proper to the pastors office, as the word of knowledge agreeth to the doctors.

i By working, he meaneth those great workings of Gods mighty power, which pass and excell amongst his miracles, as the delivery of his people Israel by the hand of Moses: that which he did by Elias against the priests of Baal, in sending down fire from heaven to consume his sacrifice: and that which he did by Peter, in the matter of Ananias and Saphyra. k Foretelling of things to come. l whereby false prophets are known from true, wherein Peter passed Philip in discovering Simon Magus, Acts 8. 20 6 He addeth moreover somthing els, to wit, that although that these gifts are unequall, yet they are most wisely divided, because the will of the Spirit of God is the rule of this distribution. 7 He setteth forth his former saying by a similitude taken from the body: This, saith he, is manifestly seen in the body, whose members are divers, but yet so knit together, that they make but one body. 8 The applying of the similitude, so must we also think, saith he, of the mysticall body of Christ: for all we that believe, whether we be Jews or Gentiles, are by one self-same baptism, joyned together with our head, that by that means, there may be framed one body, compact of many members: and we have drunk one self-same spirit, that is to say, a spirituall feeling, perceivance, and motion common to us all out of one cup. m Christ joyned together with his church. n To become one body with Christs. † Gr. Greeks, o By one quickening drink of the Lords cloud, we are made partakers of his onely Spirit. 9 He amplifieth that which followed of the similitude, as if he should say, The unity of the body is not onely, nor let by this diversity of members, but also it could not be a body, if it did not consist of many, and those divers members 10 Now he buildeth his doctrin upon the foundation which he hath laid: and first of all he continueth in his purposed similitude, and afterward he goeth to the matter barely and simply And first of all, he speaketh unto them which would have separated themselvs from those whom they envied, because they had not such excellent gifts as they: now this is, saith he, as if the foot should say, it were not of the body, because it is not the hand: or the ear, because it is not the eye. Therefore all parts ought rather to defend the unity of the body, being coupled together to serve one another. 11 Again speaking to them, he sheweth them that if that should come to pass which they desire, to wit, that all should be equal to another, there would follow a destruction of the whole body, yea and of themselvs: for it could not be a body, unless it were made of many members knit together, and divers one from the other And that no man might find fault with this division as unequall, he addeth that God himself hath coupled all these together. Therefore all must remain coupled together, that the body may remain in safety. 12 Now on the other side, he speaketh unto them which were indued with more excellent gifts, willing them not to despise the inferiors as unprofitable, and as though they served to no use: for God, saith he, hath in such sort tempered this inequality, that the more excellent and beautiful members can in no wise lack the more abject, and such as we are ashamed of, and that they should have more care to see unto them and to cover them: that by this means the necessity which is on both parts, might keep the whole body in peace and concord, that although if each part be considered apart, they are of divers degrees and conditions, yet because they are joyned together, they have a community both in commodities and discommodities.

4 [4] Now there are diversities of gifts, but the [d] same spirit.

5 And there are differences of administrations, but the same Lord.

6 And there are diversities of [e] operations, but it is the same God, which worketh all in all.

7 But the manifestation of the spirit, is [f] given to every man to [g] profit withall.

8 [5] For to one is given by the spirit, the word of [h] wisdom, to another the word of knowledge by the same Spirit:

9 To another faith by the same Spirit, to another the gifts of healing by the same Spirit:

10 To another the [i] working of miracles, to another [k] propheſy, to another [l] discerning of spirits, to another divers kinds of tongues, to another the interpretation of tongues.

11 But all these worketh that one and the self-same Spirit, dividing to every man severally [6] as he will.

12 [7] For as the body is one, and hath many members, & all the members of that one body, being many, are one body: [x] so also is [m] Christ.

13 For by one Spirit are we all baptized into one [n] body, whether we be Jews or ‡ Gentiles, whether we be bond or free: and have been all made to [o] drink into one Spirit.

14 [9] For the body is not one member, but many.

15 [10] If the foot shall say, Because I am not the hand, I am not of the body: is it therefore not of the body?

16 And if the ear shall say, Because I am not the eye, I am not of the body: is it therefore not of the body?

17 [11] If the whole body were an eye, where were the hearing? if the whole were hearing, where were the smelling?

18 But now hath God set the members, every one of them in the body, as it hath pleased him.

19 And if they were all one member, where were the body?

20 But now are they many members, yet but one body.

21 [12] And the eye cannot say unto the hand, I have no need of thee: nor again, the head to the feet, I have no need of you.

22 Nay much more those members of the body, which seem to be [p] more feeble, are necessary.

23 And those members of the body, which we think to be less honourable, upon these we ‡ [q] bestow more abundant honour, and our uncomly parts have more abundant comeliness.

24 For our comly parts have no need: but God hath tempered the body together, having given more abundant honour to that part which lacked:

25 That there should be no ‡ schism in the body: but that the members should have the same [r] care one for another.

26 [13] And whether one member suffer, all the members suffer with it: or one member be honoured, all the members rejoyce with it.

27 Now ye are the body of Christ, and members in [t] particular.

28 And God hath set some in the church, first apostles, secondarily prophets, thirdly teachers [s], after that miracles, then gifts of healings, [t] helps, [u] governments, ‡ diversities of tongues.

29 Are all apostles? are all prophets? are all teachers? are all ‡ workers of miracles?

30 Have all the gifts of healing? do all speak with tongues? do all interpret?

31 [14] But covet earnestly the best gifts: And yet shew I unto you a more excellent way.

p Of the smallest and vilest offices, and therefore small accounted of, of the rest.

‡ Or, put on

q we more carefully cover them.

‡ Or, division

r Should bestow their operation and offices to the profit and preservation of the whole body.

13 Now he applieth this same doctrin to the Corinthians, without any allegory, warning them that seeing there are divers functions and divers gifts, it is their duty, not to offend one against another, either by envy or ambition, but rather that they being joyned together in love and charity one with another, every one of them bestow to the profit of all, that which he hath received according as his ministery doth require. f For all churches whersoever they are dispersed through the whole world, are divers members of one body. t The offices of deacons. u He setteth forth the order of elders, which were the maintainers of the churches discipline. ‡ Or, kinds ‡ Or, powers 14 He teacheth them that are ambitious and envious, a certain holy ambition and envy, to wit, if they give themselvs to the best gifts, and such as are most profitable to the church, and so if they contend to excell one another in love, which far passeth all other gifts

Chap. XIII.

1 All gifts, 2, 3 how excellent soever, are nothing worth without charity. 4 The praises thereof, 8 and 13 prelation before hope and faith.

THough [1] I speak with the tongues of men and of [a] angels, and have not charity, I am become as sounding brass, or a [b] tinkling cymbal.

2 And though I have the gift of propheſy, and understand all mysteries, and all knowledge: and though I have all [c] faith, so that I could remove mountains, and have no charity, I am nothing.

3 And though I bestow all my goods to feed the poor, and though I give my body to be burned, and have not charity, it profiteth me nothing.

4 [2] Charity [d] suffereth long, and is kind; charity envieth not: charity ‡ vaunteth not it self, is not puffed up,

5 [e] Doth not behave it self unseemly, seeketh not her own, is not easily provoked, thinketh no evil,

6 Rejoyceth not in iniquity, but [f] rejoyceth ‡ in the truth:

1 He testifieth full of charity the excellency whereof he setteth forth by this, that without it, all other gifts are as nothing before God: which thing he proveth partly by an induction, and partly also by an argument taken of the end, wherefore those gifts are given. For to what purpose are those gifts but to Gods glory, and the profit of the church, as is before proved? so that those gifts without charity, have no right use.

a A very earnest kind of amplifying a matter, as if he said, if there were any tongues of angels, and I had them, and did not use them to the benefit of my neighbour, it were nothing els but a vain and prattling kind of babbling.

b That giveth a rude and uncertain sound. c By faith, he meaneth the gift of doing miracles, and not that faith which inclined which cannot be void of charity as the other may. 2 He describeth the force & nature of charity partly by a comparison of contraries, and partly by the effects of it self: whereby the Corinthians may understand, both how profitable it is in the church, and how necessary: and also how they are from it, and therefore how vainly and without cause they are proud. d word for word, deferreth wrath. ‡ Or, is not rash, e It is not contumelious. f Rejoyceth at it heartily in the righteous. For the Hebrews mean by truth, righteousness. ‡ Or, with the truth

7 Beareth all things, believeth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things.

8 [3] Charity never faileth: but whether there be prophesies, they shall fail; whether there be tongues, they shall cease; whether there be [g] knowledge, it shall vanish away.

9 [4] For we know in [h] part, and we prophesy in part.

10 But when that which is perfect is come, then that which is in part shall be don away.

11 [5] When I was a child, I spake as a child, I understood as a child, I ‡ thought as a child: but when I became a man, I put away childish things.

12 [6] For [i] now wee see through a glass, † darkly; but then face to face: now I know in part, but then shall I know even as also I am known.

13 [7] And now abideth faith, hope, charity, these three, but the greatest of these is charity.

a Again he commendeth the excellency of charity in that, that it shall never be abolished in the saints, whereas the other gifts which are necessary to the building up of the church, so long as we live here, shall have no place in the world to come.
g The way to get knowledge by prophesying.
4 The reason, Because we are now in that state that we have need to learn daily, and therefore we have need of those helps, to wit, of the gift of tongues & knowledge, and also of them that teach them. But to what purpose serve they then, when we have obtained and gotten the full knowledge of God which serveth now but for them, which are imperfect and go by degrees to perfection? h we learn imperfectly. 5 He setteth forth that that he said, by an excellent similitude, comparing this life to our infancy, or childhood, wherein we stagger and stammer, rather than speak, and think and understand childish things, and therefore have need of such things as may form and frame our tongue and mind: but when we become men, to what purpose should we desire that stammering, those childish toys, and such like things, whereby our childhood is framed by little and little. ‡ Or, reasoned 6 The applying of the similitude of our childhood to this present life, wherein we darkly behold heavenly things, according to the small measure of light which is given us, through the understanding of tongues, and hearing the teachers and ministers of the church: of our manage and strength, to that heavenly and eternall life, wherein when we behold God himself present, and are lightened with his full and perfect light, to what purpose should we desire the voice of man, and those worldly things which are most imperfect? But yet then, shall all the saints be knit both with God, and between themselvs with most fervent love, and therefore charity shall not be abolished, but perfected, although it shall not be shewed forth, and entertained by such manner of duties as peculiarly and onely belong to the infirmity of this life. i All this must be understood by comparison. † Gr. in a riddle; 7 The conclusion, As if the apostle should say, Such therefore shall be our condition then: but now we have three things, and they remain sure if we be Christs, as without which true religion cannot consist, to wit, faith, hope, and charity. And among these, charity is the chiefest, because it ceaseth not in the life to come, as the rest do, but is perfect and accomplished. For seeing that faith and hope tend to things which are promised and are to come, when we have presently gotten them, to what purpose should we have faith and hope? but yet there at length shall we truly and perfectly love both God, and one another.

Chap. XIV.

1 Prophesy is commended, 2, 3, 4. and preferred before speaking with tongues, 6 by a comparison drawn from musicall instruments. 12 Both must be referred to edification, 22 as to their true and proper end. 26 The true use of each is taught, 29 and the abuse taxed. 34 Women are forbidden to speak in the church.

FOllow [1] after charity, and desire spirituall gifts, but rather that ye may [a] prophesy.

2 [2] For he that speaketh in an [b] unknown tongue, speaketh not unto men, but unto God: for no man † understandeth him; howbeit in the [c] spirit he speaketh mysteries.

3 But he that prophesieth, speaketh unto men to [d] edification, and exhortation, and comfort.

4 He that speaketh in an unknown tongue, edifieth himself: but he that prophesieth, edifieth the [e] church.

5 I would that ye all spake with tongues, but rather that ye prophesied: for greater is he that prophesieth, than he that speaketh

1 He inferreth now of that he spake before, Therefore seeing charity is the chiefest of all, before all things set it before you as chief and principall: and so esteem those things as most excellent, which profit the greater part of men: (as prophesy, that is to say, the gift of teaching and applying the doctrin: which was contemned in respect of other gifts, although it be the chiefest and most necessary for the church) and not those which for a shew seem to be marvellous, as the gift of tongues, when a man was suddenly indued with the knowledge of many tongues, which make men greatly amazed, and yet of it self was not greatly to any use, unless there were an interpreter. a what prophesy is, he sheweth in the third vers. 2 He reprehendeth their perverse judgement touching the gift of tongues. For why was it given? to wit, to the intent that the mysteries of God might be the better known to a greater sort; Thereby it is evident that prophesy, whereunto the gift of tongues ought to serve, is better than this: and therefore the Corinthians did judge amiss, in that they made more accompt of the gift of tongues than of prophesying: because forsooth the gift of tongues was a thing more to be bragged of. And hereupon followed another abuse of the gift of tongues, in that the Corinthians used tongues in the congregation without an interpreter, which thing although it might be don of some profit of him that spake them, yet he corrupted the right use of that gift, because there came thereby no profit to the hearers: and common assemblies were instituted and appointed not for any private mans commodity, but for the profit of the whole company. b A strange language which no man can understand without an interpreter. † Gr. heareth c By that inspiration which he hath received of the Spirit, which notwithstanding he abuseth, when he speaketh mysteries which none of the company can understand. d which may further men in the study of godliness. e The company.

with tongues, except he interpret, that the church may receive edifying.

6 Now brethren, if I come unto you speaking with tongues, what shall I profit you, except I shall speak to you either by revelation, or by knowledge, or by prophesying, or by doctrin?

7 [3] And even things without life giving sound, whether pipe or harp, except they give a distinction in the ‡ sounds, how shall it be known what is piped or harped?

8 For if the trumpet give an uncertain sound, who shall prepare himself to the batel?

9 So likewise you, except ye utter by the tongue words † [f] easy to be understood, how shall it be known what is spoken? for ye shall speak into the air.

10 [4] There are, it may be, so many kinds of voices in the world, and none of them is without signification.

11 Therefore if I know not the meaning of the voice, I shall be unto him that speaketh, a Barbarian, and he that [g] speaketh shall be a Barbarian unto me.

12 [5] Even so ye, forasmuch as ye are zealous of ‡ spiritual gifts, seek that ye may excell to the edifying of the church.

13 Wherefore let him that speaketh in an unknown tongue, [h] pray that he may interpret.

14 [6] For if [i] I pray in an unknown tongue, my [k] spirit prayeth, but my understanding is [l] unfruitfull.

15 What is it then? I will pray with the spirit, and will pray with the [m] understanding also: I will sing with the spirit, and I will sing with the understanding also.

16 [7] Els when thou shalt bless with the [n] spirit, how shall he that [o] occupieth the room of the unlearned, say [p] Amen, at thy giving of thanks, seeing he understandeth not what thou sayest?

17 For thou verily givest thanks well, but the other is not edified.

18 [8] I thank my God, I speak with tongues more than you all:

19 Yet in the church I had rather speak [q] five words with my understanding, that by my voice I might teach others also, than ten thousand words in an unknown tongue.

20 [9] Brethren, be not children in understanding; howbeit, in malice be ye children, but in understanding be † men.

21 In the [r] law it is * written, With men of other tongues and other lips will I speak unto this people: and yet for all that will they not hear me, saith the Lord.

3 He setteth forth that which he said by a similitude, which he borroweth and taketh from instruments of musick, which although they speak not perfectly, yet they are distinguished by their sounds, that they may be the better used. ‡ Or, tunes, † Gr. significant, f That do fully utter the matter it self.
4 He proveth that interpretation is necessarily to be joyned with the gift of tongues, by the manifold variety of languages, insomuch that if one speak to another without an interpreter, it is as if he spake not. g As the papists in all their sermons, and they that ambitiously pour out some Hebrew or Greek words in the pulpit before the unlearned people, thereby to get them a name of vain learning.
5 The conclusion, if they will excell in those spirituall gifts, as it is meet, they must seek the profit of the church, and therefore they must not use the gift of tongues, unless there be an interpreter to expound the strange and unknown tongue, whether it be himself that speaketh, or another interpreter. ‡ Gr. of spirits, h Pray for the gift of interpretation.
6 A reason, Because it is not sufficient for us to speak so in the congregation, that we our selvs do worship God in spirit, that is according to the gift which we have received, but we must also be understood of the company, least that be unprofitable to others, which we have spoken.
i If I pray, when the church is assembled together, in a strange tongue.
k The gift and inspiration which the spirit giveth me, doth his part, but onely to my self. l No fruit cometh to the church by my prayers. m So that I may be understood of others, and may instruct others. 7 Another reason, seeing that the whole congregation must agree to him that speaketh, and also witness this agreement, How shall they give their assent or agreement which know not what is spoken? n Onely, without all consideration of the hearers. o He that sitteth as a private man. p So then one uttered the prayers, and all the company answered, Amen. 8 He propoundeth himself for an example, both that they may be ashamed of their foolish ambition, and also that he may eschew all suspition of envy. q A very few words. 9 Now he reproveth them freely for their childish folly, which see not how this gift of tongues which was given to the profit of the church, is turned by their ambition into an instrument of cursing, seeing that the same also is contained among the punishments wherewith God punished the stubbornness of his people, that he dispersed them amongst strangers whose language they understood not. † Gr perfect, or of a ripe age. r By the law he understandeth all the whole scripture. * Isa. 28. 11.

10 The concluſion: Therefore the gift of tongues ſerveth to punish the unfaithfull and unbelievers, unleſs it be referred to propheſy (that is to say, to the interpretation of ſcripture) and that, that which is ſpoken be by that means underſtood of the hearers.

11 Another argument: the gift of tongues without prophecy is not onely unprofitable to the faithful, but alſo doth very much hurt, as well to them, as to the unfaithful which ſhould be won in the publick aſſemblies. For by this means it cometh to paſs, that the faithful ſeem to others to be mad, much leſs can the unfaithful be inſtructed thereby.

† Look Acts 4 13.

12 The concluſion: The edifying of the congregation is a rule and ſquare of the right uſe of all ſpirituall gifts.

13 The manner how to uſe the gift of tongues. It may be lawfull for one or two, or at the moſt for three, to uſe the gift of tongues, one after another, in an aſſembly, ſo that there be ſome to expound the ſame: but if there be none to expound, let him that hath that gift ſpeak to himſelf alone.

14 The manner of propheſying: Let two or three propound, and let the other judge of that that is propounded, whether it be agreeable to the word of God or no: If in this examination the Lord give any man ought to ſpeak, let them give him leave to ſpeak. Let every man be admitted to propheſy, ſeverally, and in his order, ſo far forth as it is requiſite for the edifying of the church: Let them be content to be ſubject each to others judgement.

‡ The doctrin which the Prophets bring, which are inſpired with Gods Spirit.

‖ Gr tumult or unquietneſs,

15 Women are commanded to be ſilent in publick aſſemblies, and they are commanded to ask of their husbands at home. * Geneſ. 3. 16.

22 [10] Wherefore tongues are for a ſign, not to them that believe, but to them that believe not: but propheſying ſerveth not for them that believe not, but for them which believe:

23 [11] If therefore the whole church be come together into one place, and all ſpeak with tongues, and there come in thoſe that are [f] unlearned, or unbelievers, will they not ſay that ye are mad?

24 But if all propheſy, and there come in one that believeth not, or one unlearned, he is convinced of all, he is judged of all.

25 And thus are the ſecrets of his heart made manifeſt, and ſo falling down on his face, he will worſhip God, and report that God is in you of a truth.

26 [12] How is it then, brethren? when ye come together, every one of you hath a pſalm, hath a doctrin, hath a tongue, hath a revelation, hath an interpretation. Let all things be don to edifying.

27 [13] If any man ſpeak in an unknown tongue, let it be by two, or at the moſt by three, and that by courſe, and let one interpret.

28 But if there be no interpreter, let him keep ſilence in the church, and let him ſpeak to himſelf, and to God.

29 [14] Let the prophets ſpeak two or three, and let the other judge.

30 If any thing be revealed to another that ſitteth by, let the firſt hold his peace.

31 For ye may all propheſy one by one, that all may learn, and all may be comforted.

32 And the [t] ſpirits of the prophets are ſubject to the prophets.

33 For God is not the author of ‡ confuſion, but of peace, as in all churches of the ſaints.

34 [15] Let your women keep ſilence in the churches, for it is not permitted unto them to ſpeak: but they are commanded to be under obedience, as alſo ſaith the * law.

35 And if they will learn any thing, let them ask their husbands at home: for it is a ſhame for women to ſpeak in the church.

36 [16] What? came the word of God out from you? or came it unto you onely?

37 If any man think himſelf to be a prophet, or [u] ſpirituall, let him acknowledge that the things that I write unto you, are the commandments of the Lord.

38 [17] But if any man be ignorant, let him be ignorant.

39 [18] Wherefore brethren, covet to propheſy, and forbid not to ſpeak with tongues.

40 Let all things be don decently, and in order.

16 A generall concluſion of the treatiſe of the right uſe of ſpirituall gifts in aſſemblies: with a ſharp reprehenſion, leaſt the Corinthians might alone ſeem to themſelvs to be wiſe.

u Skilfull in knowing and judging ſpirituall things.

17 The church ought not to care for ſuch as be ſtubbornly ignorant, and will not abide to be taught, but to go forward notwithſtanding in thoſe things which are right.

18 Propheſy ought ſimply to be retained and kept in congregations, the gift of tongues is not to be forbidden, but all things muſt be don orderly.

3 For I delivered unto you firſt of all, that which I alſo received, how that Chriſt died for our ſins according to the ſcriptures:

4 And that he was buried, and that he roſe again the third day according to the ſcriptures:

5 And that he was ſeen of Cephas, then of the [c] twelve.

6 After that, he was ſeen of above five hundred brethren at [d] once: of whom the greater part remain unto this preſent, but ſome are fallen aſleep.

7 After that, he was ſeen of James, then of all the apoſtles.

8 [2] And laſt of all he was ſeen of me alſo, as of ‡ one born out of due time.

9 For I am the leſt of the apoſtles, that am not meet to be called an apoſtle, becauſe I perſecuted the church of God.

10 But by the grace of God I am what I am: and his grace which was beſtowed upon me, was not in vain: but I laboured more abundantly than they all; yet not I, but the grace of God which was with me:

11 Therefore whether it were I or they, ſo we preach, and ſo ye believed.

12 ¶ [3] Now if Chriſt be preached that he roſe from the dead, how ſay ſome among you, that there is no reſurrection of the dead?

13 [4] But if there be no reſurrection of the dead, then is Chriſt not riſen.

14 [5] And if Chriſt be not riſen, then is our preaching vain, and your faith is alſo vain.

15 Yea, and we are found fals witneſſes of God, becauſe we have teſtified of God, that he raiſed up Chriſt: whom he raiſed not up, if ſo be that the dead riſe not.

16 [6] For if the dead riſe not, then is not Chriſt raiſed:

17 And if Chriſt be not raiſed, your faith is vain, [7] ye are [e] yet in your ſins.

18 [8] Then they alſo which are fallen aſleep in Chriſt, are periſhed.

19 [9] If in this life onely we have hope in Chriſt, we are of all men moſt miſerable.

20 [10] But now is Chriſt riſen from the dead, and become the firſtfruits of them that ſlept.

1 The ſixt treatiſe of this epiſtle, concerning the reſurrection: and he uſeth a tranſition, or paſſing over from one matter to another, ſhewing firſt, that he bringeth no new thing, to the end that the Corinthians might underſtand that they had begun to ſwarve from the right courſe: and next, that he goeth not about to intreat of a trifling matter, but of another chief point of the goſpel, which if it be taken away, their faith muſt needs come to nought. And ſo at the length he beginneth this treatiſe at Chriſts reſurrection, which is the ground and foundation of ours, and confirmeth it, firſt, by the teſtimony of the ſcriptures, and by the witneſs of the apoſtles, and of more than five hundred brethren, and laſt of all by his own.

b which is very abſurd, and cannot be but that they that believe muſt reap the fruit of faith.

c Of thoſe twelve picked and choſen apoſtles, which were commonly called twelve, though Judas was put out of the number.

d Not at ſeverall times, but together and at one inſtant.

2 He maintaineth by the way, the authority of his apoſtleſhip, which was requiſite to be in good credit among the Corinthians, that this epiſtle might be of force and waight amongſt them. In the mean ſeaſon, he compareth himſelf in ſuch ſort after a certain divine art, with certain others, that he maketh himſelf inferiour to them all.

3 The firſt argument, to prove that there is a reſurrection from the dead: Chriſt is riſen again, therefore the dead ſhall riſe again. 4 The ſecond, by an abſurdity, if there be no reſurrection of the dead, then is not Chriſt riſen again. 5 The proof of that abſurdity, by other abſurdities: If Chriſt be not riſen again, the preaching of the goſpel is in vain: and the credit that you gave unto it, is vain, and we are lyars. 6 He repeateth the ſame argument taken of an abſurdity, purpoſing to ſhew how faith is in vain, if the reſurrection of Chriſt be taken away. 7 Firſt, ſeeing death is the puniſhment of ſin, in vain ſhould we believe that our ſins were forgiven us, if they remain: but they do remain, if Chriſt roſe not from death. e They are yet in their ſins, which are not ſanctified, nor have obtained remiſſion of their ſins. 8 Secondly, unleſs that this be certain that Chriſt roſe again, all they which died in Chriſt are periſhed. So then what profit cometh of faith? 9 The third argument, which is alſo taken from an abſurdity: for unleſs there be another life, wherein ſuch as truſt and believe in Chriſt ſhall be bleſſed, they were the moſt miſerable of all creatures, becauſe in this life they are the moſt miſerable. 10 A concluſion of the former argument, Therefore Chriſt is riſen again.

dead

dead, and [11] become the [f] first-fruits of them that slept.

21 [12] For since by man came death, by man came also the resurrection of the dead.

22 For as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be [g] made alive.

23 [13] But every man in his own order, Christ the first-fruits, afterward they that are Christs, at his coming.

24 [14] Then cometh the [h] end, when he shall have delivered up the kingdom to God even to the Father, when he shall have put down [i] all rule, and all authority, and power.

25 For he must reign, till he hath put all enemies [k] under his feet.

26 The [l] last eneny that shall be destroyed, is death.

27 For he hath put all things under his feet; but when he saith all things are put under him, it is manifest that he is excepted which did put all things under him.

28 And when all things shall be subdued unto him, [m] then shall the Son also himself be subject unto him that put all things under him, that [n] God may be all in all.

29 [15] Else what shall they do, which are baptized [o] for the dead, if the dead rise not at all? why are they then baptized for the dead?

30 [16] And why stand we in jeopardy every hour?

31 [p] I protest by ‡ your rejoycing, which I have in Christ Jesus our Lord, I die daily.

32 [17] If ‡ [q] after the manner of men I have fought with beasts at Ephesus, what advantageth it me, if the dead rise not? [18] let us [r] eat and drink, for to morrow we die.

33 [19] Be not deceived: evil communications corrupt good manners.

34 Awake to righteousness, and sin not: for some have not the knowledge of God, I speak this to your shame, 35 [20] But some man will say, How are the dead raised up? and with what body do they come?

36 [21] Thou fool, that which thou sowest is not quickened except it die.

37 And that which thou sowest, thou sowest not that body that shall be, but bare grain, it may chance of wheat, or of some other grain.

38 [22] But God giveth it a body as it hath pleased him, and to every seed his own body.

39 All flesh is not the same flesh, but there is one kind of flesh of men, another flesh of beasts, another of fishes, and another of birds.

40 There are also celestiall bodies, and bodies terrestriall: but the glory of the celestiall is one, and the glory of the terrestriall is another.

41 There is one glory of the sun, and another glory of the moon, and another glory of the stars: for one star differeth from another star in glory.

42 [23] So also is the resurrection of the dead, it is [s] sown in corruption, it is raised in incorruption.

43 It is sown in [t] dishonour, it is raised in glory: it is sown in weakness it is raised in [u] power.

44 [24] It is sown a naturall body, it is raised a spirituall body. [25] There is a naturall body, and there is a spirituall body.

45 And so is it written, [x] The first man Adam was made a living soul, the last Adam was made a [y] quickning spirit.

46 [26] Howbeit that was not first which is spirituall: but that which is naturall, and afterward that which is spirituall.

47 The first man is of the earth [z] earthy: the second man is the Lord from [a] heaven.

48 [27] As is the earthy, such are they also that are earthy, and as is the heavenly, such are they also that are heavenly.

49 And as we have born the [b] image of the earthy, we shall also bear the image of the heavenly.

11 He putteth the last conclusion for the first proposition of the argument that followeth. Christ is risen again: Therefore shall we, the faithfull, (for of them he speaketh) rise again. Then followeth the first person of this consequent: for Christ is set forth unto us to be considered of, not as a private man apart and by himself, but as the first fruits: And he taketh that which was known to all men, to wit, that the whole heap is sanctified in the first fruits. f He alludeth to the first-fruits of corn, the offering whereof sanctified the rest of the fruits.

12 Another confirmation of the same consequent: for Christ is to be considered as opposite to Adam, that as from one man Adam, sin came over all, so from one man Christ, life commeth unto all: that is to say, that all the faithfull, as they die, because by nature they were born of Adam, so because in Christ they are made the children of God by grace, they are quickened and restored to life by him, shall rise by the vertue of Christ.

13 He doth two things together: for he sheweth that the resurrection is in such sort common to Christ with all his members, that notwithstanding he far passeth them, both in time (for he was the first that rose again from the dead) and also in honour, because that from him and in him is all our life and glory. Then by this occasion he passeth to the next argument. 14 The fourth argument, wherewith also he confirmeth the other, hath a most fine ground, to wit, because that God must reign, and this is the manner of his reign, that the Father will be shewed to be king of his Son who was made man, to whom all things are made subject (the promises onely except) to the end that the Father may afterward triumph in his Son the conquerour. And he maketh two parts of this reign and dominion of the Son: wherein the Fathers glory consisteth, to wit, the overcoming of his enemies (whereof some must be deprived of all power, as Satan and all the wicked, be they never so proud and mighty, and others must be utterly abolished, as death) and a plain and full delivery of the godly from all enemies, that by this means God may fully set forth in the body of the church, cleaving fast unto their head Christ, his kingdom and glory, as a king in his subjects. Moreover he putteth the first degree of this kingdom in the resurrection of his Son, who is the head: and the perfection, in the conjunction of the members with the head, which shall be in the latter day. Now all these tend to this purpose, to shew that unless the dead doe rise again, neither the Father can be king above all, neither Christ be the Lord of all: for neither should the power of Satan and death be overcome, nor the glory of God be full in his Son, nor his Sons in his members. h The shutting up and finishing of all things. i All his enemies which shall be spoiled of all the power they have, Psal 110. 1. Act. 2. 34. Heb. 1. 13. & 10. 13. k Christ is considered here, as he appeared in the form of a servant, in which respect he ruleth the church as head, and that because this power was given him of his Father. l The shutting up of the argument, which is taken from the whole to the part: for if all his enemies shall be put under his feet, then must it needs be that death also shall be subdued under him. m Not because the Son was not subject to his Father before, but because this body, that is to say, the church which is here in distress, and not yet wholly partaker of his glory, is not yet fully united, and also because the bodies of the Saints which be in the graves, shall not be glorified untill the resurrection: but Christ as he is God, hath us subject to him as his Father hath, but as he is Priest, he is subject to his Father together with us. August. book 1. chap. 8. of the Trinity. n By this high kind of speech, is set forth an incomprehensible glory which floweth from God, and shall fill all of us, as we are joyned together with our head, but yet so, that our head shall always reserve his preeminence. 15 The fifth argument is taken of the end of baptism, to wit, because that they which are baptized are baptized for dead: that is to say, that they may have a remedy against death, because that baptism is a token of regeneration. o They that are baptized to this end and purpose, that death may be put out in them, or to rise again from the dead, whereof baptism is a seal. 16 The sixt argument: Unless there be a resurrection of the dead, why should the apostles so daily cast themselves into danger of so many deaths? p As though he said, I die daily, as all the miseries I suffer can well witness, which I may truly boast of that I have suffered amongst you. ‡ Some read our 17 The taking away of an objection: But thou Paul didst ambitiously, as commonly men are wont to do, when thou didst fight with beasts at Ephesus: that is very like, saith Paul: for what could that advantage me, were it not for the glory of eternall life which I hope for? ‡ Or, to speak after the manner of men. q Not upon any godly motion, nor casting mine eyes upon God, but carried away with vain glory, or a certain headiness. 18 The seventh argument which dependeth upon the last: if there be no resurrection of the dead, why do we give our selves to any things self, save to eating and drinking? r These are speeches that Epicures use. 19 The conclusion with a sharp exhortation, that they take heed of the naughty company of certain: from whence he sheweth, that this mischief sprang: warning them to be wise with sobriety unto righteousness.

20 Now that he hath proved the resurrection, he discovereth their dotishness, in that they scoffingly demanded, how it could be that the dead could rise again, and if they did rise again, they asked mockingly, what manner of bodies they should have. Therefore he sendeth these fellows which seemed to themselvs to be marvelous wise and witty, to be instructed of poor rude husbandmen.

21 Thou mightest have learned either of these, saith Paul, by daily experience: for seeds are sown, and rot, and yet notwithstanding so far it is off that they perish, that contrariwise they grow up far more beautifull: and whereas they are sown naked and dry, they spring up green from death by the vertue of God: and doth it seem incredible to thee that our bodies should rise from corruption, and that indued with a far more excellent quality? 22 we see a diversity both in one and the self-same thing which hath now one form and then another, and yet keepeth its own kind: as it is evident in a grain which is sown bare, but springeth up far after another sort: and also in divers kinds of one self-same sort, as amongst beasts: and also among things of divers sorts, as the heavenly bodies and the earthly bodies: which also differ very much one from another. Therefore there is no cause why we should reject either the resurrection of bodies, or the changing of them into a better state, as a thing impossible, or strange. 23 He maketh three manner of qualities of the bodies being raised: Incorruption, to wit, because they shall be sound and altogether of a nature that cannot be corrupt: Glory, because they shall be adorned with beauty and honour: Power because they shall continue everlasting, without meat, drink, and all other helps, without which this frail life cannot keep it self from corruption. f Is buried, and man is hid as the seed in the ground. t Void of honour, void of glory and beauty. u Freed from the former weakness, whereas it is subject to such alteration and change, that it cannot maintain it self without meat and drink, and such other like helps. 24 He sheweth perfectly in one word this change of the quality of the body by the resurrection, when he saith, that of a naturall body, it shall become a spirituall body: which two qualities being clean different the one from the other, he straightway expoundeth, and setteth forth diligently. 25 That is called a natural body which is quickned and maintained by a living soul onely, such as Adam was, of whom all we are born naturally: and that is said to be a spirituall, which together with the soul is quickned with a far more excellent vertue, to wit, with the Spirit of God, which descendeth from Christ the second Adam unto us. x Adam is called the first man: because he is the root, as it were, from whence we spring, and Christ is the latter man: because he is the beginning of all them that are spirituall, and in him we are all comprehended. y Christ is called a spirit, by reason of that most excellent nature, that is to say, God who dwelleth in him bodily, as Adam is called a living soul, by reason of the soul which is the best part in him. 26 Secondly, he willeth the order of this double state or quality to be observed, that the natural was first, Adam being created of the clay of the earth: and the spirituall followed and came upon it, to wit, when as the Lord being sent from heaven, indued our flesh, which was prepared and made fit for him, with the fulness of the Godhead. z wallowing in dirt, and wholly given to an earthly nature. a The Lord is said to come down from heaven by that kind of speech, whereby that which is proper to one is vouched of another. 27 He applieth both the earthly naturalness of Adam (if I may so say) to our bodies, so long as they are naturally conversant upon earth, to wit, in this life, and in the grave: and also the Spirituality of Christ to the same our bodies, after they are risen again, and he saith, that that goeth before, and this shall follow. b Not a vain and false image, but such an one as had the truth with it indeed.

50 [28] Now this I say, brethren, that [c] flesh and bloud cannot inherit the kingdom of God: neither doth corruption inherit incorruption.

51 [29] Behold, I shew you a [d] mystery: we shall not all sleep, but we shall all be changed;

52 [e] In a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trump: (for the trumpet shall sound) and the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we shall be changed.

53 For this corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality.

54 So when this corruptible shall have put on incorruption, and this mortal shall have put on immortality, then shall be brought to pass the saying that is written, * Death is swallowed up in victory.

55 O death, where is thy sting? O ‡ grave, where is thy victory?

56 The sting of death is sin, and the strength of sin is the law.

57 But thanks be to God, which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ.

58 ¶ [30] Therefore my beloved brethren, be ye stedfast, unmovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, forasmuch as ye know that your labour is not in vain in the [f] Lord.

28 The conclusion: we cannot be partakers of the glory of God, unless we put off all that gross and filthy nature of our bodies, subject to corruption, that the same body may be adorned with incorruptible glory.
c Flesh and bloud are taken here for a living body, which cannot attain to incorruption, unless it put off corruprion 29 He goeth further, declaring that it shall come to pass, that they which shall be found alive in the latter day, shall not descend into that corruption of the grave, but shall be renewed with a sudden change, which change is very requisite: and that the certain enjoying of the benefit and victory of Christ, is deferred unto that latter time.
d A thing that hath been hid, and never known hitherto, and therefore worthy that you give good ear unto it
e He sheweth us that the time shall be very short. * Hos. 13. 14. ‡ Or, hell, 30 An exhortation taken of the profit that ensueth, that seeing they understand that the glory of the other life is laid up for faithfull workmen, they continue & stand fast in the truth of the doctrin of the resurrection of the dead. f Through the Lords help and goodness working in us.

Chap. XVI.

1 He exhorteth them to relieve the want of the brethren at Jerusalem, 10 commendeth Timothy: 13 and after friendly admonitions, 16 shutteth up his epistle with divers salutations.

NOw concerning the [1] collections for the saints, as I have given order to the churches of Galatia, even so do ye.

2 Upon the [a] first day of the week, let every one of you lay by him in store, as God hath [b] prospered him, that there be no gatherings when I come.

3 And when I come, whomsoever you shall approve by your [c] letters, them will I send to bring your † liberality unto Jerusalem.

4 [2] And if it be meet that I go also, they shall go with me.

5 Now I will come unto you, when I shall pass through Macedonia: (for I do pass through Macedonia)

6 And it may be that I will abide, yea, and winter with you, that ye may bring me on my journey, whithersoever I go.

1 Collections in old time were made by the Apostles appointment the first day of the week, on which day the manner was to assemble themselvs.
a which in times past was called Sunday, but now is called the Lords day.
b That every man bestow according to the ability that God hath blessed him with.
c which you shall give them to carry.
† Gr Gift
2 The residue of the epistle is spent in writing of familiar matters, yet so that all things be referred to his purposed mark, that is to say, to the glory of God, and the edifying of the Corinthians.

7 For I will not see you now by the way, but I trust to tarry a while with you, if the Lord permit.

8 But I will tarry at Ephesus untill Pentecost.

9 For a great door and [d] effectual is opened unto me, and there are many adversaries.

10 Now if Timotheus come, see that he may be with you [e] without fear: for he worketh the work of the Lord, as I also do.

11 Let no man therefore despise him: but conduct him forth [f] in peace, that he may come unto me: for I look for him with the brethren.

12 As touching our brother Apollos, I greatly desired him to come unto you, with the brethren, but his will was not at all to come at this time: but he will come when he shall have convenient time.

13 ¶ Watch ye, stand fast in the faith, quit you like men, be strong.

14 Let all your things be don with charity.

15 ¶ I beseech you brethren, (ye know the house of [g] Stephanas, that it is the first-fruits of Achaia, and that they have [h] addicted themselvs to the ministery of the saints)

16 That ye [i] submit your selvs unto such, and to every one that helpeth with us, and laboureth.

17 I am glad of the coming of Stephanas, and Fortunatus, and Achaicus: for that which was lacking on your part, they have supplied.

18 For they have refreshed my [k] spirit and yours: therefore [l] acknowledge ye them that are such.

19 The churches of Asia salute you: Aquila and Priscilla salute you much in the Lord, with the church that is in their house.

20 All the brethren greet you: greet ye one another with an holy kiss.

21 The salutation of me Paul with mine own hand.

22 If any man love not the Lord Jesus Christ, let him be [m] anathema, Maran-atha.

23 The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you.

24 My love be with you all in Christ Jesus. Amen.

¶ The first epistle to the Corinthians was written from Philippi, by Stephanas and Fortunatus and Achaicus and Timotheus.

d Very fit and convenient to do great things by.
e without any just occasion of fear.
f Safe and sound, and that with all kind of courtesy.
g Stephanas is the name of a man and not of a woman.
h Given themselvs wholly to the ministery.
i That you honour and reverence them, be obedient to them, and be content to be ruled by them, as meet is you should, seeing they have bestowed themselvs and their goods to help you withall.
k Mine heart.
l Take them for such men as they are indeed.
m By these words, is betokened the severest kind of curse and excommunication that was amongst the Jews: and the words are as much to say, as, Our Lord cometh: So that his meaning may be this, Let him be accursed even to the coming of the Lord, that is, to say, To his deaths-day, even for ever.

The

The ſecond epiſtle of PAUL the apoſtle TO THE CORINTHIANS.

CHAP. I.

3 The apoſtle encourageth them againſt troubles, by the comforts and deliverances which God had given him, as in all his afflictions, 8 ſo particularly in his late danger in Aſia: 12 and calling both his own conſcience, and theirs to witneſs of his ſincere manner of preaching the immutable truth of the goſpel, 15 he excuſeth his not coming to them, as proceeding not of lightneſs but of his lenity towards them.

PAul [1] an apoſtle of Jeſus Chriſt by the will of God, and Timothy our brother, unto the church of God which is at Corinth, with all the ſaints which are in all Achaia:

2 Grace be to you and peace, from God our Father, and from the Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

3 [2] Bleſſed be God, even the Father of our Lord [a] Jeſus Chriſt, the Father of [b] mercies, and the God of all comfort,

4 Who comforteth us in all our tribulation, [3] that we may be able to comfort them which are in any trouble, by the comfort wherewith we our ſelvs are comforted of God.

5 For as the [c] ſufferings of Chriſt abound in us, ſo our conſolation alſo aboundeth by Chriſt.

6 [4] And whether we be afflicted, it is for your conſolation and ſalvation, which ‡ is [d] effectual in the enduring of the ſame ſufferings, which we alſo ſuffer: or whether we be comforted, it is for your conſolation and ſalvation.

7 And our hope of you is ſtedfaſt, knowing that as you are partakers of the ſufferings, ſo ſhall ye be alſo of the conſolation.

8 [5] For we would not, brethren, have you ignorant of our trouble which came to us in Aſia, that we were preſſed out of meaſure, above ſtrength, inſomuch that we [e] deſpaired even of life.

9 But we had the ‡ ſentence of death in our ſelvs, that we ſhould not truſt in our ſelvs, but in God which raiſeth the dead:

10 Who delivered us from ſo [g] great a death, and doth deliver: in whom we truſt that he will yet deliver us:

11 [6] Ye alſo helping together by prayer for us, 7 that for the gift beſtowed upon us by the means of many perſons, thanks may be given by many on our behalf.

12 [8] For our rejoycing is this, the teſtimony of our conſcience, that in ſimplicity and [h] godly ſincerity, not with fleſhly wiſdom, but by the [i] grace of God, we have had our converſation in the world, and more abundantly to you-wards.

13 For we write [k] none other things unto you, than what you read or acknowledge, and I truſt you ſhall acknowledge even to the [l] end.

14 As alſo you have acknowledged us in part, that we are your [m] recoycing, even as ye alſo are ours in the [n] day of the Lord Jeſus.

15 And in this confidence I was minded to come unto you before, that you might have a [o] ſecond ‡ benefit:

16 And to paſs by you into Macedonia, and to come again out of Macedonia unto you, and of you to be brought on my way toward Judea.

17 [9] When I therefore was thus minded, did I uſe lightneſs? or the things that I purpoſe, do I purpoſe according to the [p] fleſh, that with me there ſhould be [q] yea, yea, and nay, nay?

18 [10] But as God is [r] true, our ‡ word toward you, was not yea, and nay.

19 [11] For the Son of God Jeſus Chriſt, who was preached among you by us, even by me, and Silvanus, and Timotheus, [f] was not yea, and nay, but in [r] him was yea.

20 [12] For all the promiſes of God in him are yea, and in [u] him Amen, unto the glory of God by [x] us.

21 [13] Now he which ſtabliſheth us with you in Chriſt, and hath anointed us, is God.

22 Who hath alſo ſealed us, and given the [y] earneſt of the Spirit in our hearts.

23 [14] Moreover, I call God for a record upon my [z] ſoul, that to ſpare you I came not as yet unto Corinth.

24 [15] Not for that we have dominion over your faith, but are helpers of your [a] joy: for by faith ye ſtand.

1 See the declaration of ſuch ſalutation in the former epiſtles.

2 He beginneth after his manner with thanksgiving which notwithſtanding (otherwiſe than he was wont) he applieth to himſelf: beginning his epiſtle, with the ſetting forth of the dignity of his apoſtleſhip, conſtrained (as it ſhould ſeem) by their importunity which took an occaſion to deſpiſe him, by reaſon of his miſeries. But he anſwereth, that he is not ſo afflicted, but that his comforts do exceed his afflictions, ſhewing the ground of them, even the mercy of God the Father in Jeſus Chriſt.
a To him be praiſe and glory given.
b Moſt mercifull.
3 The Lord doth comfort us to this end and purpoſe, that we may ſo much the more ſurely comfort others.
c The miſeries which we ſuffer for Chriſt, or which Chriſt ſuffereth in us.
4 He denieth that either his afflictions, or the conſolations which he received of God, may juſtly be deſpiſed, ſeeing that the Corinthians both ought and might take great occaſion to be confirmed by either of them. ‡ Or, is wrought d Although ſalvation be given us freely, yet becauſe there is a way appointed us whereby we muſt come to it, which is, the race of an innocent and upright life, which we muſt run, therefore we are ſaid to work our ſalvation, Phil. 2. 12. And becauſe it is God onely that of his free good will worketh all things in us, therefore is he ſaid to work the ſalvation in us by thoſe ſelf-ſame things by which we muſt paſs to everlaſting life, after that we have once overcome all incumbrances.
5 He witneſſeth, that he is not onely not aſhamed of his afflictions, but that he deſireth alſo to have all men know the greatneſs of them, and alſo his delivery from them, although it be not yet perfect. e I knew not at all what to do, neither did I ſee by mans help which way to ſave my ſelf. ‡ Or, anſwer f I was reſolved within my ſelf to die. g From theſe great dangers.
6 That he may not ſeem to boaſt himſelf, he attributeth all to God, and therewith alſo confeſſeth that he attributeth much to the prayers of the faithful.

7 The end of the afflictions of the Saints, is the glory of God, and therefore they ought to be precious unto us.
8 Secondly he putteth away another ſlander, to wit, that he was a light man, and ſuch a one as was not lightly to be credited, ſeeing that he promiſed to come unto them, and came not. And firſt he ſpeaketh of the ſimplicity of his mind, and ſincerity which they knew both by his voice when he was preſent, and they ought to acknowledge it alſo in his letters being abſent: and moreover he proteſteth that he will never be otherwiſe.
h with clearneſs, and holy and true plainneſs of mind, as God himſelf can witneſs.
i Truſting to that very wiſdom, which God of his free goodneſs hath given me from heaven.
k He ſaith, he writeth barely and ſimply: for he that writeth in coloured ſort, is rightly ſaid to write otherwiſe than we read: and this he ſaith. The Corinthians ſhall truly know and like of very well.
l Perfectly.
m Pauls rejoycing in the Lord was, that he had won the Corinthians: and they themſelvs rejoyced that ſuch an apoſtle was their inſtructer, & taught them ſo purely and ſincerely.
n when he ſhall ſit as judge.
o Another benefit.
‡ Or, grace:
9 He putteth away their ſlander and fals report by denying it, and firſt of all, in that that divers went about to perſwade the Corinthians, that in preaching of the goſpel, Paul agreed not to himſelf: for this was the matter and the caſe. p As men do which will raſhly promiſe any thing, and change their purpoſe at every turning of an hand. q That I ſhould ſay and unſay a thing? 10 He calleth God to witneſs and for Judge, of his conſtancy in preaching and teaching one ſelf-ſame goſpel.
r True, and of whoſe faithful witneſs it were horrible wickedneſs to doubt. t Or, preaching 11 He joyneth alſo with himſelf, his fellows as witneſſes, with whom he fully conſented in teaching one ſelf-ſame thing, to wit, one ſelf-ſame Chriſt. f was not divers and wavering.
r That is, in God. 12 Laſt of all, he declareth the ſum of his doctrin, to wit, that all the promiſes of ſalvation are ſure and ratified in Chriſt. u Chriſt is ſet forth to exhibit and fulfill them alſo moſt aſſuredly, and without all doubt. x Through our miniſtery. 13 He attributeth the praiſe of this conſtancy, onely to the grace of God, through the holy Ghoſt, and therewithall concludeth, that they cannot doubt of his faith and his fellows, without doing injury to the Spirit of God, ſeeing that they themſelvs do know all this to be true. y An earneſt, is whatſoever is given to confirm a promiſe. 14 Now coming to the matter, he ſweareth that he did not onely not lightly alter his purpoſe of coming to them, but rather that he came not unto them for this cauſe, that he might not be conſtrained to deal more ſharply with them being preſent, than he would. z Againſt my ſelf, and to the danger of mine own life. 15 He removeth all ſuſpition of arrogance, declaring that he ſpeaketh not as a Lord unto them, but as a ſervant, appointed of God to comfort them. a He ſetteth the joy and peace of conſcience, which God is authour of, againſt tyrannous fear, and therewithall ſheweth the end of the goſpel.

Chap. II.

1 Having ſhewed the reaſon why he came not to them, 6 he required them to forgive and to comfort that excommunicated perſon, 10 even as himſelf alſo upon his true repentance had forgiven him: 12 declaring withall why he departed from Troas to Macedonia, 14 and the happy ſucceſs which God gave to his preaching in all places.

BUt I determined this with my ſelf, that I would not come again to you in [a] heavineſs.

2 For if I make you ſorry, who is he then that maketh me glad, but the ſame which is made ſorry by me?

3 And I wrote this ſame unto you, leaſt when I came, I ſhould have ſorrow from them of whom I ought to rejoyce, having [b] confidence in you all, that my joy is the joy of you all.

4 For out of much affliction and anguiſh of heart, I wrote unto you with many tears, not that you ſhould be grieved, but that ye might know the love which I have more abundantly unto you.

5 [1] But if any have cauſed grief, he hath not grieved [c] me, but in [d] part: that I may not [e] overcharge you all.

6 Sufficient to ſuch a man is this ‡ puniſhment, which was inflicted of many.

7 So that contrariwiſe, ye ought rather to [f] forgive him, and comfort him, leaſt perhaps ſuch a one ſhould be ſwallowed up with over much ſorrow.

8 Wherefore I beſeech you, that ye would [g] confirm your love towards him.

9 For to this end alſo did I write, that I might know the proof of you, whether ye be obedient in all things.

10 To whom ye forgive any thing, I forgive alſo: for If I forgave any thing, to whom I forgave it, for your ſakes forgave I it, ‡ in the [h] perſon of Chriſt;

11 Leaſt Satan ſhould get an advantage of us: for we are not ignorant of his [i] devices.

12 [2] Furthermore, when I came to Troas to preach Chriſts goſpel, and a door was opened unto me of the Lord.

13 I had no reſt in my ſpirit, becauſe I found not Titus my brother, but taking my leave of them, I went from thence into Macedonia.

14 Now thanks be unto God which always cauſeth us to triumph in Chriſt, and maketh manifeſt the [k] ſavour of his knowledge by us in every place.

15 [3] For we are unto God a ſweet ſavour of Chriſt, in them that are ſaved, and in them that periſh.

16 To the one we are the ſavour of death unto death; and to the other, the ſavour of life unto life: 4 and, who is ſufficient for theſe things?

17 For we are not as many, which ‡ [l] corrupt the word of God: but as of a ſincerity, but as of God, in the ſight of God ſpeak we in Chriſt.

a Cauſing grief amongſt you, which he ſhould have done, if he had come to them before they had repented them.
b For I truſted that you would take that out of the way forthwith which you knew I was diſcontented with, conſidering how you are perſwaded that my joy is your joy.
1 He paſſeth to another part of this epiſtle: which notwithſtanding is put amongſt the firſt, whereunto he returneth afterward: and he handleth the releaſing and unlooſing of the inceſtuous perſon, becauſe he ſeemed to have given ſufficient teſtimony of his repentance: ſhewing the true uſe of excommunication, to wit, that it proceed not of hatred, but of love, and ſo end, leaſt if we keep no meaſure, we ſerve Satan the devill.
c And if he ſaid All that ſorrow is ſo clean wiped away, as though he had never felt it.
d As for me (ſaith Paul) I have no more to do with him.
e Leaſt I ſhould overcharge him, who is burdened enough of himſelf which I would be glad were taken from him.
‡ Or, cenſure,
f That whereas before you puniſhed him ſharply, you would now forgive him.
g That at my entreaty, you would declare by the conſent of the whole church, that you take him again for a brother.
‡ Or, in the ſight
h Truly, and from the heart.
i Of his miſchievous counſels and deviliſh will.
2 He returneth to the confirmation of his apoſtleſhip, & bringeth forth the teſtimonies, both of his labour, and alſo of Gods bleſſing.
k He alludeth to the ointing of the prieſts, and the incenſe of the ſacrifices.
3 He denieth that ought ſhould be taken away from the dignity of his apoſtleſhip, becauſe they ſaw evidently that it was not received with like ſucceſs in every place, nay rather very many rejected and deteſted him, ſeeing that he preached Chriſt not onely as a Saviour of them that believe, but alſo as a judge of them that contemn him. 4 Again, he putteth away all ſuſpition of arrogancy, attributing all things that he did, to the vertue of God, whom he ſerveth ſincerely, and without all diſhoneſt affection: whereof he maketh them witneſſes, even to the 6 verſe of the next chapter. ‡ Or, deal deceitfully with l we do not handle craftily and covetouſly, or leſs ſincerely than we ought: and he uſeth a metaphor, which is taken from huckſters, which uſe to play the fals harlots with whatſoever cometh into their hands.

Chap. III.

1 Leaſt their falſe teachers ſhould charge him with vain-glory, he ſheweth the faith and graces of the Corinthians to be a ſufficient commendation of his miniſtery. 6 Whereupon entring into a compariſon between the miniſters of the law, and of the goſpel, 12 he proveth that his miniſtery is ſo far the more excellent, as the goſpel of life and liberty is more glorious than the law of condemnation.

DO we begin again to commend our ſelvs? or need we, as ſome others, epiſtles of commendation to you, or letters of commendation from you?

2 Ye are our epiſtle written in our hearts, known and read of all men.

3 For as much as ye are [a] manifeſtly declared to be the epiſtle of Chriſt, [b] miniſtred by us, written not with ink, but with the ſpirit of the [c] living God: [1] not in tables of ſtone, but in fleſhly tables of the heart.

4 And ſuch [d] truſt have we through Chriſt to God-ward.

5 Not that we are ſufficient of our ſelvs to think any thing as of our ſelvs: but our [e] ſufficiency is of God.

6 [2] Who alſo hath made us able miniſters of the new teſtament, not of the [f] letter, but of the ſpirit: for the letter killeth, but the ſpirit ‡ giveth life.

7 But if the miniſtration of death written [g] and ingraven in ſtones, was [h] glorious, ſo that the children of Iſrael could not ſtedfaſtly behold the face of Moſes, for the glory of his countenance, which glory was to be don away:

8 How ſhall not the [i] miniſtration of the ſpirit be rather glorious?

9 For if the miniſtration of condemnation be glory, much more doth the miniſtration of [k] righteouſneſs exceed in glory.

10 For even that which was made glorious, had no glory in this reſpect, by reaſon of the glory that excelleth.

11 For if that which is [1] done away was glorious, much more that which remaineth is glorious.

12 [3] Seeing then that we have ſuch hope, we uſe great ‡ plainneſs of ſpeech.

13 [4] And not as Moſes which put a vail over his face, that the children of Iſrael could not ſtedfaſtly look to the [m] end of that which is aboliſhed.

14 But their minds were blinded: for untill this day remaineth the ſame vail untaken away, in the reading of the old teſtament: which vail is don away in Chriſt.

15 But even unto this day, when Moſes is read, the vail is upon their heart.

a The apoſtle frameth his ſpeech wiſely, that by little & little, he may come from the commendation of the perſon, to the matter it ſelf.
b which I took pains to write as it were.
c By the way, he ſetteth the vertue of God againſt the ink wherewith epiſtles are commonly written, to ſhew that it was wrought by God.
1 He alludeth by the way, to the compariſon of the outward miniſtery of the prieſthood of Levi, with the miniſtery of the goſpel, and the apoſtolicall miniſtery, which he handleth afterward more fully.
d This boldneſs we ſhew, and thus gloriouſly may we boaſt of the worthineſs and fruit of our miniſtery.
e In that we are fit and meet to make other men partakers of ſo great a grace.
2 He amplifieth his miniſtery and his fellows: that is to ſay, the miniſtery of the goſpel, comparing it with the miniſtery of the law, which he conſidereth in the perſon of Moſes, by whom the law was given: againſt whom he ſetteth Chriſt the Authour of the goſpel. Now this compariſon is taken from the very ſubſtance of the miniſtery. The law is as it were a writing of it ſelf, dead, and without efficacy: but the goſpel, or new covenant, is as it were the very vertue of God it ſelf in renewing, juſtifying, and ſaving of men. The law propoundeth death, accuſing all men of unrighteouſneſs: The goſpel, offereth and giveth righteouſneſs and life. The goverſnance of the law ſerved for a time to the promiſe: the goſpel remaineth to the end of the world. Therefore what is the glory of that in compariſon of the majeſty of this? f Not of the law, but of the goſpel.

‡ Or, quickneth. g Imprinted and ingraven: ſo that by this place we may plainly perceive, that the apoſtle ſpeaketh not of the ceremonies of the law, but even of the ten commandments.
h This word glory, betokeneth a brightneſs, and a majeſty which was bodily in Moſes, but ſpiritually in Chriſt. i whereby God offereth, yea, and giveth the ſpirit, not as a dead thing, but a quickening ſpirit, working life. k To wit, of Chriſt, which being imputed to us as our own, we are not onely not condemned, but alſo we are crowned as righteous. l The law, yea, and the ten commandments themſelvs, together with Moſes, are aboliſhed, if we conſider the miniſtery of Moſes apart by it ſelf. 3 He ſheweth wherein ſtandeth this glory of the preaching of the goſpel, to wit, in that that it ſetteth forth plainly and evidently, that which the law ſhewed darkly: for it ſent them that heard it to be healed of Chriſt, which was to come after that it had wounded them. ‡ Or, boldneſs 4 He expoundeth by the way the allegory of Moſes his covering, which was a token of the darkneſs and weakneſs that is in men, which were rather dulled by the bright ſhining of the law than lightened: which covering was taken away by the coming of Chriſt, who lighteneth the hearts, and turneth them to the Lord, that we may be brought from the ſlavery of this blindneſs, and ſet in the liberty of the light by the vertue of Chriſts Spirit. m Into the very bottom of Moſes his miniſtery.

16 Nevertheleſs, when it ſhall turn to the Lord, the vail ſhall be taken away.

17 Now the [n] Lord is that Spirit, and where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty.

18 [6] But we all with open face, beholding as in a glaſs the glory of the Lord, are changed into the ſame image, from glory to glory, even as ‡ by the Spirit of the Lord.

n Chriſt is that ſpirit, which taketh away that covering, by working in our hearts, whereunto alſo the law it ſelf called us, though in vain, becauſe it ſpeaketh to dead men, until the ſpirit quickeneth us. 6 Going forwards in the allegory of the covering, he compareth the goſpel to a glaſs, which although it be moſt bright and ſparkling, yet doth it not onely not dazel their eyes which look in it, as the law doth, but alſo transformeth them with its beams, ſo that they alſo be partakers of the glory and ſhining of it, to lighten others: as Chriſt ſaid unto his. You are the light of the world; whereas he himſelf was the onely light. we are alſo commanded in another place, to ſhine as candles before the world, becauſe we are partakers of Gods Spirit. But Paul ſpeaketh here properly of the miniſters of the goſpel, as it appeareth by that that goeth before, and that that cometh after, and that, ſetting them his own example and his fellows. ‡ Or, of the Lord the ſpirit.

Chap. IV.

1 He declareth how he hath uſed all ſincerity and faithful diligence in preaching the goſpel, 7 and how the troubles and perſecutions which he daily endured for the ſame, did redound to the praiſe of Gods power, 12 to the benefit of the church, 16 and to the apoſtles own eternal glory.

THerefore [1] ſeeing we have this miniſtery, as we have received mercy we [a] faint not;

2 But have renounced the [b] hidden things of † diſhoneſty, not walking in craftineſs, nor handling the word of God [c] deceitfully, but by manifeſtation of the truth, commending our ſelvs to every mans conſcience in the ſight of God.

3 [2] But if our goſpel be hid, it is hid to them that are loſt.

4 In whom the god of this world hath blinded the minds of them which believe not, leaſt the [d] light of the glorious goſpel of Chriſt, who is the [e] image of God, ſhould ſhine unto them.

5 [3] For we preach not our ſelvs, but Chriſt Jeſus the Lord, and our ſelvs your ſervants for [f] Jeſus ſake.

6 For God [g] who commanded the light to ſhine out of darkneſs, hath ſhined in our hearts, to give the [h] light of the knowledge of the glory of God, in the face of Jeſus Chriſt.

7 [4] But we have this treaſure in earthen veſſels, [5] that the excellency of the power may be of God, and not of us.

8 We are troubled on every ſide, yet not diſtreſſed; we are perplexed, but ‡ not in deſpair;

9 Perſecuted, but not forſaken; caſt down, but not deſtroyed;

10 [6] Always bearing about in the body the [i] dying of the Lord Jeſus, that the life alſo of Jeſus might be made manifeſt in our body.

11 For we which [k] live, are alway delivered unto death for Jeſus ſake, that the life alſo of Jeſus might be made manifeſt in our [l] mortal fleſh.

12 [7] So then death worketh in us, but life in you.

1 Now he plainly witneſſeth that both he and his fellows (through the mercy of God) do their vocation and duty uprightly and ſincerely, neglecting all dangers.
a Though we are broken in pieces with miſeries and calamities, yet we yeeld not.
b Subtility and all kind of deceit which men hunt after, as it were dens and lurking holes, to cover their ſhameleſs dealings withall.
f Gr. ſhame,
c This is it that in the former chapter he called making merchandiſe of the word of God.
2 An objection: Many hear the goſpel, and yet are no more lightened thereby, than by the preaching of the law. He anſwereth, The fault is in the men themſelvs, whoſe eyes Satan plucketh out, who ruleth in this world. And yet notwithſtanding doth he and his fellows ſet, forth the moſt clear light of the goſpel to be ſeen and beholden, ſeeing that Chriſt whom onely they preach, is he in whom onely God will be known, & as it were, ſeen.
d The light of plain & lightſom preaching, which telleth forth the glory of Chriſt.
e In whom the Father ſetteth forth himſelf to be ſeen and beholden.
3 He removeth according to his accuſtomed manner, all ſuſpition of ambition, avouching that he teacheth faithfully, but as a ſervant, and witneſſing that all this light which he and his fellows give to others, proceedeth from the Lord. f To preach this ſelf-ſame Jeſus to you. g which made it onely with his word.
h That being lightned of God, we ſhould in like ſort give that light to others. 4 He taketh away a ſtumbling block, by which was darkened amongſt ſome the bright ſhining of the miniſtery of the goſpel, to wit, becauſe the apoſtles were the moſt miſerable of all men. Paul anſwereth, that he and his fellows are as it were, eartheu veſſels, but yet there is in them a moſt precious treaſure. 5 He bringeth marvellous reaſons, why the Lord doth ſo afflict his chiefeſt ſervants, to the end, faith he, that all men may perceive that they ſtand not by any mans vertue, but by the ſingular vertue of God, in that they die a thouſand times, but never periſh. ‡ Or, not altogether without help or means; 6 An amplification of the former ſentence, wherein he compareth his afflictions to a daily death, and the vertue of the ſpirit of God in Chriſt, to life which oppreſſeth that death. i So Paul calleth that miſerable eſtate and condition, that the faithful, but eſpecially the miniſters are in. k which live that life, to wit, by the ſpirit of Chriſt, among ſo many and ſo great miſeries. l Subject to that miſerable condition. 7 A very cunning concluſion: as if he would ſay, Therefore to be ſhort, we die that you may live by our death, for that they ventured into all thoſe dangers for the building of the churches ſake, and they ceaſed not to confirm all the faithfull with the examples of their patience.

13 [8] We having the ſame [m] ſpirit of faith, according as it is written, * I believed, and therefore have I ſpoken: we alſo believe, and therefore ſpeak.

14 Knowing, that he which raiſed up the Lord Jeſus, ſhall raiſe up us alſo by Jeſus, and ſhall preſent us with you.

15 [9] For all things are for your ſakes, [n] that the abundant grace might, through the thankſgiving of many, redound to the glory of God.

16 For which cauſe we faint not, [10] but though our outward man periſh, yet the inward man is [o] renewed day by day.

17 For our [p] light affliction, which is but for a moment, worketh for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of [q] glory;

18 While we look not at the things which are ſeen, but at the things which are not ſeen: for the things which are ſeen, are temporal; but the things which are not ſeen, are eternal.

165

8 He declareth the former ſentence, ſhewing that he and his fellows die in a ſort, to purchaſe life to others, but yet notwithſtanding they are partakers of the ſame life with them: becauſe they themſelvs do firſt believe that, which they propounded to others to believe, to wit, that they alſo ſhall be ſaved together with them in Chriſt.
m The ſame faith, by the inſpiration of the ſame ſpirit. * Pſal. 116. 10.
9 He ſheweth how this conſtancy is preſerved in them, to wit, becauſe they reſpect Gods glory, and the ſalvation of the church committed unto them.
n when it ſhall pleaſe God to deliver me, and reſtore me to you, that exceeding benefit which ſhall be poured upon me ſhall in like ſort redound to the glory of God, by the thankſgiving of many. 10 He addeth as it were a triumphant ſong, how that he is outwardly afflicted, but inwardly he profiteth daily: and paſſeth not at all for all the miſeries that may be ſuſtained in this life, in compariſon of that moſt conſtant and eternall glory. o Gathered new ſtrength that the outward man be not overcome with the miſeries which come freſhly, one upon the neck of another, being maintained and upheld with the ſtrength of the inward man. p Afflictions are not called light, as though they were light of themſelvs, but becauſe they paſs away quickly, when as indeed our whole life is of no great long continuance. q which remaineth for ever firm and ſtable, and can never be ſhaken.

Chap. V.

1 That in his aſſured hope of immortall glory, 9 and in expectance of it, and of the generall judgement, he laboureth to keep a good conſcience, 12 not that he may herein boaſt of himſelf, 14 but as one that having received life from Chriſt, endeavoureth to live as a new creature to Chriſt onely, 18 and by his miniſtery of reconciliation to reconcile others alſo in Chriſt to God.

FOr [1] we know, that if our earthly houſe of this tabernacle were diſſolved, we have a building of God, an houſe not made with hands, eternal in the heavens.

2 For in this we grone earneſtly, deſiring to be [a] clothed upon with our houſe which is from [b] heaven.

3 [2] If ſo be that being clothed, we ſhall not be found naked.

4 For we that are in this tabernacle do grone, being burdened: not for that we ſhould be unclothed, but clothed upon, that mortality might be ſwallowed up of life.

5 Now he that hath [c] wrought us for the ſelf-ſame thing, is God, who alſo hath given unto us the earneſt of the Spirit.

6 [3] Therefore we are always [d] confident, knowing that whileſt we are at home in the body, we are abſent from the Lord.

7 (For we walk by [e] faith, not by ſight)

8 We are [f] confident, I ſay, and willing rather to be abſent from the body, and to be preſent with the Lord.

1 Taking occaſion by the former compariſon, he compareth this miſerable body, as it is in this life, to a frail and brittle tabernacle, againſt which he ſetteth the heavenly tabernacle, ſo terming that ſure and everlaſting condition of this ſame body glorified in heaven, inſomuch, ſaith he, that we are not onely, not addicted to this tabernacle, but alſo do with ſobs and ſighs deſire rather that tabernacle. And ſo this place alſo concerning the glory to come, is put within the treatiſe of the dignity of the miniſtery as the other was, whereof we ſpake in the beginning of the ſecond chapter.
a He calleth the glory of immortality, which we ſhall be, as it were, clothed with a garment.
b Heavenly, not that the ſubſtance of it is heavenly, but for the glory of it. 2 An expoſition of the former ſaying, we do not without cauſe deſire to be clad with the heavenly houſe, that is, with that everlaſting and immortall glory, as with a garment: for when we depart hence we ſhall not remain naked having once caſt off this body, but we ſhall take our bodies again, which ſhall put on, as it were, another garment beſides: and therefore we ſigh not for the wearineſs of this life, but for the deſire of a better life: Neither is this deſire in vain, for we are made to that life, the pledge whereof we have, even the Spirit of adoption. c He meaneth that firſt creation, to give us to underſtand, that our bodies were made to this end; that they ſhould be clothed with heavenly immortality. 3 He inferreth upon that ſentence that went next before; thus, Therefore ſeeing that we know by the ſpirit, that we are ſtrangers ſo long as we are here, we patiently ſuffer this variance (for we are now ſo with God, that we behold him but by faith, and are therefore now abſent from him) but ſo that we aſpire and have a longing always to him: therefore alſo we behave our ſelvs ſo, that we may be acceptable to him, both while we live here and when we go from hence to him.
d He calleth them (bold) which are always reſolved with a quiet and ſetled mind to ſuffer what danger ſoever, nothing doubting but their end ſhall be happy e Faith, of thoſe things which we hope for, and not having God preſently in our view. f And yet we are in ſuch ſort bold, and do ſo paſs on our pilgrimage with a valiant and a quiet mind, that yet notwithſtanding we had rather depart hence to the Lord.

9 Where-

166

9 Wherefore we ‡ [g] labour, that whether present or absent we may be accepted of him.

10 [4] For we must all [h] appear before the judgement-seat of Christ, that every one may receive the things don in his body, according to that he hath don, whether it be good or bad.

11 [5] Knowing therefore the [i] terrour of the Lord, we perswade men; but we are made manifest unto God, and I trust also, are made manifest in your consciences.

12 [6] For we commend not our selvs again unto you, but give you occasion to glory on our behalf, that you may have somwhat to answer them which glory † in [k] appearance, and not in heart.

13 [7] For whether we be besides our selvs, it is to God: or whether we be sober, it is for your cause.

14 [8] For the love of Christ [l] constraineth us, because we thus judge, that if [m] one died for all, then were all dead:

15 And that he died for all, that they which live, should not henceforth [n] live unto themselvs, but unto him which died for them, and rose again.

16 [9] Wherefore henceforth know we no man after the flesh: [10] yea, though we have known Christ after the flesh, yet now henceforth know we him no more.

17 [11] Therefore if any man be in Christ, ‡ he is a [o] new creature: *old things are past away, behold, all things are become new.

18 [12] And all things are of God, who hath reconciled us to himself by Jesus Christ, and hath given to us the ministery of reconciliation;

19 To wit, that God was in Christ, reconciling the world unto himself, not imputing their trespasses unto them, and hath † [p] committed unto us the word of reconciliation.

20 Now then we are ambassadours for Christ, as though God did beseech you by us; we pray you in Christs stead, be ye reconciled to God.

21 For he hath made him to be [q] sin for us, who [r] knew no sin; that we might be made the [s] righteousness of God in him.

‡ Or, endeavour, g And seeing it is so, we strive to live so, that both in this our pilgrimage here, we may please him, and that at length we may be received home to him. 4 That no man might think it to pertain to all, which he spake of that heavenly glory, he addeth, that every one shall first render an account of his pilgrimage, after that he is departed from hence. h we must all appear personally, and enquiry shall be made of us, that all may see how we have lived 5 Now he passeth over, and taking occasion of the former sentence, returneth to the former chap. vers. 16. confirming his own sincerity and his fellows. i That terrible judgement. 6 He removeth all suspition of pride, by a new reason, because it is behoveable, not for his part, but for theirs, that his apostleship be counted sincere against the vain ostentation of a few others. † Gr. in the face, k In outward disguisings, and that coloured shew of mans wisdom and eloquence, and not in true godliness, which is sealed in the heart. 7 The Meaning is, Even when I am mad (as some men think of me) whilest I seem as a fool to boast my self, I do it for your profit, no less than when I preach the gospel simply unto you. 8 He goeth forward in putting away all suspition of desire of estimation & bosting: for the love of Christ, saith he, compelleth us hereunto, that seeing he died for us all, which were dead when as we lived to our selvs, that is, while we were yet given to these earthly affections, we in like sort should consecrate our whole life, which we have received of him, to him (to wit) being indued with the holy Ghost, to this end and purpose, that we should meditate upon nothing but that which is heavenly. l Possesseth us wholly. m He speaketh here of sanctification, whereby it cometh to pass that Christ liveth in us. n Look Romans chap. 6. & 7. 9 He sheweth what it is, not to live to our selvs but to Christ, to wit, to know no man according to the flesh, that is to say, to be conversant amongst men as not to care for those worldly and carnall things, as they do which respect a mans stock, his countrey, form, glory, riches and such like, wherein men commonly dote and weary themselvs. 10 An amplification, this is, saith he, so true, that we do not now think carnally of Christ himself, who hath now left the world, and therefore must be considered of us spiritually. 11 An exhortation for every man which is renewed with the Spirit of Christ, to meditate heavenly things and not earthly. ‡ Or, let him be o As a thing made anew of God, for though a man be not newly created when God giveth him the spirit of regeneration, but onely his qualities are changed, yet notwithstanding it pleased the holy Ghost to speak so, to teach us that we must attribute all things to the glory of God: not that we are flocks and flocks, but because God createth in us, both the will to will well, and the power to do well. * Isa. 43. 19. Revel. 21. 5. 12. He commendeth the excellency of the ministery of the gospel, both by the authority of God himself, who is the author of that ministery, and also by the excellency of the doctrin of it: for it avoucheth atonement with God, by free forgiveness of our sins, and justification offered unto us in Christ, and that so lovingly and liberally, that God himself doth after a sort pray men by the mouth of his ministers to have consideration of themselvs, and not to despise so great a benefit. And when he so saith, he plainly reprehendeth them which falsly challenged to themselvs the names of pastors. † Gr. put in us p Used our labour, and travell. q A sinner, not in himself, but by imputation of the guilt of all our sins to him. r who was clean void of sin. s Righteous before God, and that with a righteousness, which is not essentiall to us, but being essentiall in Christ, God imputeth it to us through faith.

CHAP. VI.

1 That he hath approved himself a faithfull minister of Christ, both by his exhortations, 3 and by integrity of life, 4 and by patient enduring all kinds of affliction and disgraces for the gospel. 10 Of which he speaketh the more boldly amongst them, because his heart is open to them: 13 and he expecteth the like affection from them again: 14 exhorting to flee the society and pollution of idolaters, as being themselvs temples of the living God.

WE [1] then as workers together with him, beseech you also, that ye receive not the grace of God in vain.

2 (For he saith, * I have heard thee in a time [a] accepted, & in the day of salvation have I succoured thee: behold, now is the accepted time: behold, now is the day of salvation)

3 [3] Giving no offence in any thing, that the ministery be not blamed:

4 But in all things † approving [b] our selvs as the ministers of God, [4] in much patience, in afflictions, in necessities, in distresses,

5 In stripes, in imprisonments, in [c] tumults, in labours, in watchings, in fastings,

6 [5] By pureness, by knowledge, by long-suffering, by kindness, by the holy Ghost, by love unfeigned,

7 By the [d] word of truth, by the [e] power of God, by the [f] armour of righteousness, on the right hand, and on the left,

8 By honour and dishonour, by evil report and good report: as deceivers: and yet true:

9 As unknown, & yet well known: as dying, and behold, we live: as chastened, & not killed:

10 As sorrowfull, yet alway rejoycing: as poor, yet making many rich: as having nothing, and yet possessing all things.

11 [6] O ye Corinthians, our mouth is [g] open unto you, our heart is enlarged.

12 Ye are not [h] straitned in us, but ye are straitned in your own [i] bowels.

13 Now for a recompence in the same, (I speak as unto my children) be ye also enlarged.

14 [7] Be ye not unequally yoked together with unbelievers: for what fellowship hath righteousness with unrighteousness? and what communion hath light with darkness?

15 And what concord hath Christ with Belial? or what [k] part hath he that believeth, with an infidell?

16 And what agreement hath the temple of God with idols? [l] for ye are the temple of the [m] living God; as God hath said, * I will dwell in them, and walk in them, and I will be their God, and they shall be my people.

17 * Wherefore come out from among them, and be ye separate, saith the Lord, and touch not the unclean thing; and I will receive you,

18 * And will be a Father unto you, & ye shall be my sons & daughters, saith the Lord Almighty.

1 Men do not onely need the ministery of the gospel, before they have received grace that they may be partakers of it, but also after they have received grace that they may continue in it. 2 In that that grace is offered, it is of the grace of God, who hath appointed times and seasons to all things, that we may take occasion when it is offered. * Isa. 49. 8. a which I of my free mercy and love towards thee liked of and appointed: at which time God poured out that his marvellous love upon us. 3 He sheweth the Corinthians a patern of a true minister in his own example, and Timotheus, and Sylvanus, to the end, that (as he purposed from the beginning) he might procure authority to himself, and his like. † Gr. commending b Declare and shew indeed. 4 He first of all reckoneth up those things, which are neither always in the ministers, nor without exception, unless it be according to the affection of the mind, patience onely excepted, which also is one of the vertues which ought to be always in a good minister. c In tossing to and fro, finding no place of rest and quietness. 5 Secondly, he reckoneth up such vertues as are necessary, and ought always to be in them, and whereby, as by good armour, all lets and hinderances may be overcome. d Preaching of the gospel. e Power to work miracles, and to bring under the wicked. f Uprightness. 6 Going about to rebuke them, he saith first, that he dealeth with them sincerely and with an open loving again their and plain heart, and therewithall complaineth that they do not the like in him. g The opening of the mouth, and heart, betokeneth a most earnest affection in him that speaketh, as it fareth commonly with them that are in some great joy. h You are in my heart, as in an house, and that no narrow or strait house, for I have opened my whole heart to you, but you are inwardly straitlaced to meward. i After the manner of the Hebrews, he calleth those tender affections which rest in the heart, and bowels. 7 Now he rebuketh them boldly, for that they became fellows with infidels in outward idolatry, as though it were a thing indifferent. And this is the fourth part of this epistle, the conclusion whereof is, that such as the Lord hath vouchsafed the name of his children, must keep themselvs pure, not onely in mind, but also in body, that they may wholly be holy unto the Lord. k what can there be between them? l He setteth the living God against idols. m God dwelleth with us, because Christ is become God with us. * Levit. 26. 12. * Isa. 52 11. * Jer. 31. 1.

CHAP.

CHAP. VII.

1 He proceedeth in exhorting them to purity of life, 2 and to bear him like affection as he doth to them. 3 whereof least he might seem to doubt, he declareth what comfort he took in his afflictions, by the report which Titus gave of their godly sorrow, which his former epistle had wrought in them, 13 and of their loving kindness and obedience towards Titus, answerable to his former boastings of them.

HAving therefore these promises (dearly beloved) let us cleanse our selvs from all filthiness of the [a] flesh and spirit, perfecting holiness in the fear of God.

2 [1] ¶ [b] Receive us, we have wronged no man, we have corrupted no man, we have defrauded no man.

3 I speak not this to [c] condemn you: for I have said before, that you are in our hearts to die and live with you.

4 Great is my boldness of speech toward you, great is my glorying of you, I am filled with comfort, I am exceeding joyful in all our tribulation.

5 ¶ For when we were come into Macedonia, our flesh had no rest, but we were troubled on every side; without were fightings, within were fears.

6 Nevertheless, God that comforteth those that are [d] cast down, comforted us by the [e] coming of Titus.

7 And not by his coming onely, but by the consolation wherewith he was comforted in you, when he told us your earnest desire, your mourning, your fervent mind toward me, so that I rejoyced the more.

8 [2] For though I made you sorry with a letter, I do not repent, though I did repent: for I perceive that the same epistle made you sorry, though it were but for a season.

9 Now I rejoyce, not that ye were made sorry, but that ye sorrowed to [f] repentance: for ye were made sorry ‡ after a godly manner, that ye might receive damage by us in nothing.

10 For [g] godly sorrow worketh repentance to salvation not to be repented of: but the sorrow of the world worketh death.

11 For behold, this self-same thing that ye sorrowed after a godly sort, what carefulness it wrought in you, yea, what clearing of your selvs, yea, what indignation, yea, what fear, yea, what vehement desire, yea, what zeal, yea, what revenge! in all things ye have approved your selvs to be clear in this matter.

12 Wherefore though I wrote unto you, I did it not for his cause that had don the wrong, nor for his cause that suffered wrong, but that our care for you in the [h] sight of God might appear unto you.

13 Therefore we were comforted in your comfort, yea, and exceedingly the more joyed we for the joy of Titus, because his spirit was refreshed by you all.

14 For if I have boasted any thing to him of you, I am not ashamed; but as we spake all things to you in truth, even so our boasting which I made before Titus is found a truth.

15 And his † inward affection is more abundant toward you, whilest he remembreth the obedience of you all, how with fear and trembling you received him.

16 I rejoyce therefore that I have confidence in you in all things.

CHAP. VIII.

1 He stirreth them up to a liberal contribution for the poor saints at Jerusalem, by the example of the Macedonians, 7 by commendation of their former forwardness, 9 by the example of Christ, 14 and by the spirituall profit that shall redound to themselvs thereby: 16 commending to them the integrity and willingness of Titus, and those other brethren, who upon his request, exhortation, and commendation, were purposly come to them for this business.

MOreover, brethren, we [1] do you to wit of the [a] grace of God bestowed on the churches of Macedonia:

2 How that in a [b] great triall of affliction, the abundance of their joy, and their deep poverty abounded unto the riches of their liberality.

3 For to their power (I bear record) yea and beyond their power they were [c] willing of themselvs.

4 Praying us with much intreaty, that we would receive the [d] gift, and take upon us the fellowship of the ministring to the saints.

5 [2] And this they did, not as we hoped, but first gave their own selvs to the Lord, and unto us by the will of God.

6 Insomuch that we desired Titus, that as he had begun, so he would also finish in you the same grace also.

7 ¶ Therefore as ye abound in every thing, in faith, in utterance, and knowledge, and in all diligence, and in your love to us; see that ye abound in this grace also.

8 [3] I speak not by commandment, but by occasion of the [e] forwardness of others, and to prove the [f] sincerity of your love.

9 [4] For ye know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that though he was rich, yet for your sakes he became poor, that ye through his poverty might be rich.

10 [5] And herein I give my advice, for this is expedient for you, who have begun before, not onely to do, but also to be † [g] forward a year ago.

11 Now therefore perform the doing of it, that as there was a readiness to will, so there may be a performance also out of that which you have.

12 [6] For if there be first a willing mind, it is accepted according to that a man hath, and not according to that he hath not.

13 [7] For I mean not that other men be eased, and you burdened:

14 But by an [h] equality: that now at this time your abundance may be a supply for their want; that their abundance also may be a supply for your want, that there may be equality:

15 As it is written, He * that had gathered much, had nothing over; and he that had gathered little, had no lack.

16 [8] But

1 Both of body and soul, that by this means the sanctification may be perfect, consisting in both the parts thereof.

1 He returneth again from that admonition to his own person, opposing the testimonies both of his faithfulness, and also of his continual good will towards them.

b Let me have some place amongst you that I may teach you.

c To condemn you of unkindness or treachery.

d whose hearts are cast down, and are very far spent.

e with those things which Titus told me of you at his coming, to wit, how fruitfully you read over my letters: moreover, and besides that, I am exceedingly refreshed with his presence.

2 An objection: but thou hast handled us roughly: The Apostle answereth that he used not this roughness without grief. And he addeth moreover, that he is also glad now that he drave them to that sorrow, although it was against his will, since it was so profitable unto them: for there is a sorrow not onely praise worthy, but also necessary, to wit, whereby repentance groweth by certain degrees, for the which repentance he praised them highly. And this is the fifth part of this epistle.

f Insomuch that that sorrow did you much good towards the amending of your lewdness and sins.

‡ Or, according to God,

g Godly sorrow is, when we are not terrified with the fear of punishment, but because we feel we have offended God our most merciful Father: contrary to this, there is another sorrow, that onely feareth punishment, or when a man is vexed for the loss of some wordly goods, the fruit of the first is repentance, the fruit of the second is desperation, unless the Lord help speedily.

h It was not coloured nor counterfeit, but such as I dare stand to before God.

† Gr. bowels

1 The sixt part of this epistle containing divers exhortations to stir up the Corinthians to liberality, wherewith the poverty of the church of Jerusalem might be holden in time convenient. And first of all, he setteth out before them, the example of the churches of Macedonia, which otherwise were brought by great misery to extream poverty, to the end that they should follow them.

a The benefit that God bestowed upon the churches.

b For those manifold afflictions wherewith the Lord tried them, did not onely not quail their joyful readiness, but also made it much more excellent and famous.

c Of their own accord they were liberal.

d He calleth that, Grace, that other men would have called, a burden. And this vers is to be expounded by the sixth vers.

2 He applieth the forwardness of the Macedonians in this, that they also desired Paul to stir up the Corinthians to accomplish the giving of alms, by sending again of Titus unto them.

3 Thirdly, he warneth them that they deceive not their expectation which they have conceived of them.

e At the request of the Macedonians.

f Then appeareth the naturallness of our love, when as indeed, and that frankly and freely, we help brethren even for Christ his sake.

4 The fourth argument, taken from the example of Christ.

5 He taketh good heed that he seem not to wrest it out of them by constraint, for unless it be voluntary, God doth not accept it.

† Gr. willing

g Not onely to do, but also to do willingly: for he noteth out a ready willingness, without any inforcement by any other men, much less come it of ambition and vain glory. 6 Against such as use to excuse themselvs because they are not rich, as though it were onely proper to rich men to help the poor. 7 Christian liberality is mutuall, that proportion may be observed. h That like as now in your abundance you help others, which are poor, with some part of your goods, so should others in like sort relieve some of their poverty upon you. * Exod 16. 18

168

16 [s] But thanks be to God, which put the same carnest care into the heart of Titus for you.

17 For indeed, he accepted the exhortation, but being more forward, of his own accord he went unto you.

18 And we have sent with him the brother, whose praise is [i] in the gospel, throughout all the churches:

19 And not that onely, but who was also chosen of the churches to travell with us with this ‡ [k] grace which is administred by us to the glory of the same Lord, and declaration of your ready mind.

20 Avoiding this, that no man should blame us in this [l] abundance which is administred by us.

21 Providing for honest things, not onely in the sight of the Lord, but also in the sight of men.

22 And we have sent with them our brother, whom we have oftentimes proved diligent in many things, but now much more diligent, upon the great confidence which ‡ I have in you.

23 Whether any do enquire of Titus; he is my partner, and fellow-helper concerning you: or our [m] brethren be enquired of, they are the messengers of the churches, and the [n] glory of Christ.

24 Wherefore shew ye to them, and before the [o] churches, the proof of your love, and of our boasting on your behalf.

s He commendeth Titus and his two companions for many causes, both that their credit might not be suspected, as though he had sent them slily to spoil the churches, and also that they might be so much the readier to contribute.
i In the preaching of the Gospel.
‡ Or, gift
k These alms which are bestowed for the relief of the church of Jerusalem.
l In this plentifull liberality of the churches, which is committed to our trust.
‡ Or, he hath
m Titus his two companions.
n By whom the glory of Christ is set forth
o All churches shall be witnesses of this your godly dealing, in whose presence you are, for so much as you see the messengers whom they have chosen by all their consents, and sent them unto you.

Chap. IX.

1 He yieldeth the reason why, though he knew their forwardness, yet he sent Titus and his brethren beforehand: 6 And he proceedeth in stirring them up to a bountiful alms, as being but a kind of sowing of seed, 10 which shall return a great increase to them, 13 and occasion a great sacrifice of thanksgiving unto God.

FOr [1] as touching the ministring to the saints, it is superflous for me to write to you.

2 For I know the forwardness of your mind, for which I boast of you to them of Macedonia, that Achaia was ready a year ago, and your zeal hath provoked very many.

3 Yet have I sent the brethren, least our boasting of you should be in vain in this behalf, that, as I said, ye may be ready.

4 Least haply if they of Macedonia come with me, and find you unprepared, we (that we say not, you) should be ashamed in this same [a] confident boasting.

5 Therefore I thought it necessary to exhort the brethren, that they would go before unto you, and make up beforehand your † bounty, ‡ whereof ye had notice before, that the same might be ready, as a matter of bounty, not of [b] covetousness.

6 [2] But this, I say, He which soweth sparingly, shall reap also sparingly: and he which soweth bountifully, shall reap also bountifully.

7 Every man according as he [c] purposeth in his heart, so let him give; not [d] grudgingly, or of [e] necessity: for * God loveth a chearfull giver.

8 And God is able to make [f] all grace abound towards you, that ye always having all sufficiency in all things, may abound to every [g] good work.

9 (As it is written, * He hath dispersed abroad: he hath given to the poor: his righteousness remaineth for [h] ever.

10 Now he that * ministreth seed to the sower, both minister bread for your food, and multiply your seed sown, and increase the [i] fruits of your righteousness)

11 Being enriched in every thing to all bountifulness, which causeth through us thanksgiving to God.

12 [3] For the administration of this service, not onely supplieth the want of the saints, but is abundant also by many thanksgivings unto God;

13 (Whiles by the [k] experiment of this ministration they glorify God for your [l] professed subjection unto the gospel of Christ, and for your liberal distribution unto them, and unto all men;)

14 And by their prayer for you, which long after you for the exceeding grace of God in you.

15 [m] Thanks be unto God for his unspeakable gift.

1 He wisely meeteth with the suspicion which the Corinthians might conceive: as though the Apostle in urging them so carefully, should doubt of their good will. Therefore he witnesseth that he doth it not to teach them that they ought to help the Saints, seeing that he had become surety for them to the Macedonians, but onely to stir them up which were running of themselvs, to the end that all things might both be in a better readiness and also be more plentiful.
a The word which he useth, signifieth such a stayedness and setledness of mind as cannot be moved with any terrour or fear.
† Gr. blessing,
‡ Or, which hath been so much spoken of before,
b As from covetous men.
2 Alms must be given neither niggardly, nor with a loathful mind, or hardly; but a frank and free alms is compared to a sowing, which hath a most plentiful harvest of most abundant fruits following it.
c Determineth and appointeth freely with himself.
d with a sparing and niggardly heart.
e Against his will, or loth to be evil reported of. * Prov. 11. 25. Rom. 12. 8. Eccles 35. 9.
f All God's bountiful liberality.
g To help others by all means possible, in doing them good in their necessities.
* Psal. 112. 9.
h Is everlasting: Now David speaketh of a man that feareth God, and loveth his neighbour, who shall never want (saith he) to give to others.
* Isa. 55. 10.
i There is none so good an inheritance to the godly, as bountifulness is.
3 Another excellent and double fruit of liberality towards the Saints, is this, that it giveth occasion to praise God, and that our faith also is thereby made manifest.
k By this proof of your liberality in this helping and succouring of them.
l In shewing with one consent, that you acknowledge that onely gospel, which you have willingly submitted your selves unto, declaring thereby, that you agree with the church of Jerusalem.
m Least by this great commendation and praise, the Corinthians should be puffed up, he shutteth up this exhortation, with this exclamation.

Chap. X.

1 Against the false apostles, who disgraced the weakness of his person and bodily presence, he setteth out the spirituall might and authority, with which he is armed against all adversary powers, 7 assuring them that at his coming he will be found as mighty in word, as he is now in writing being absent: 12 and with all taxing them for reaching out themselves beyond their compass, and vaunting themselvs into other mens labours.

NOw [1] I Paul my self beseech you, by the meekness and [a] gentleness of Christ, who ‡ in presence am base among you, but being absent am bold toward you.

2 But I beseech you, that I may not be bold when I am present, with that confidence wherewith I think to be bold against some which ‡ think of us, as if we walked [b] according to the flesh.

3 [2] For though we walk in the flesh, we do not war after the flesh:

4 (For the weapons of our warfare are not [c] carnal, but mighty ‡ through [d] God to the pulling down of strong holds:)

5 Casting down ‡ imaginations, and every high thing that exalteth it self against the knowledge of God, [3] and bringing into captivity every thought to the obedience of Christ:

6 And having in a readiness to revenge all disobedience, when your obedience is fulfilled.

7 [4] Do ye look on things after the outward

1 He returneth to the defence of his apostleship, but so that he useth his authority therein: for he warneth them earnestly and gravely, using also terrible threatnings, to shew themselvs such as are apt to be instructed. And he reprelleth certain proud men which made no better account of him, than of a bragging Thraso, in that he used to be sharp against them when he was absent, because they saw no great majesty in him after the manner of men; and besides had proved his lenity, notwithstanding that in his absence, he had written to them sharply: Therefore, first of all, he protesteth that he was gentle and moderate, but after the example of Christ: but if they continue still to despise his gentleness, he protesteth unto them that he will shew indeed how far they are deceived, which make that account of the office of an apostle, that they do of worldly offices, that is, according to the outward appearance.
a That nature which is inclined to mercy, rather than to rigour of justice.
‡ Or, in outward apperance
‡ Or, reckon
b As though I had no other aid and help than that which outwardly I seem to have: and therefore Paul setteth his flesh, that is, his weak condition and state against his spiritual and apostolick dignity.
2 Secondly, he witnesseth, that although he be like unto other men, yet he cometh furnished with that strength, which no holds of man can match, whether they resist by craft and deceit, or by force and might, because he warfareth with divine weapons.
c Are not such as men get them authority withall one of another, and do great acts

4 He beateth into their heads that same matter, with great weight of words and sentences.

c Do ſe judge of things according to the outward ſhew?

d Not being told of it by me.

e He noteth out ſome one that was the ſeeds man of this ſpeech.

f Being conſtrained to retell the fooliſh brags of certain ambitious men: he witneſſeth, that they are able to bring nothing, but that they fully perſwade themſelves of themſelves: and as for himſelf, although he brag of excellent things, yet he will not paſs the bounds which God hath meaſured him out, according whereunto he came even unto them in preaching the goſpel of Chriſt, and truſteth that he ſhall go further, when they have ſo profited that he ſhall not need to tarry any longer amongſt them to inſtruct them. And hereunto is added an amplification, in that he never ſucceeded other men in their labours.

g This is ſpoken after a taunting ſort.

h Upon a vain perſwaſion that they have of themſelves, they take upon them they care not what.

i They contemn all other, and meaſure all their doings onely by themſelvs

17 * [6] But he that glorieth, let him glory in the Lord.

18 For not he that commendeth himſelf is approved, but whom the Lord commendeth.

l Or, magnified in you. n In countreys which other men have preputed and husbanded with the preaching of the goſpel. ‡ Or, rule * Jer. 9. 24. 1 Cor. 1. 31.

6 He ſomwhat mitigateth that which he ſpake of himſelf, and therewith alſo prepareth the Corinthians to hear other things, witneſſing that he ſeeketh nothing els, but to approve himſelf unto God, whoſe glory he onely ſeeketh.

Chap. XI.

1 Out of his jealouſie over the Corinthians, who ſeemed to make more account of the falſe apoſtles, than of him, he entreth into a forced commendation of himſelf, 5 of his equality with the chief apoſtles, 7 of his preaching the goſpel to them freely, and without any their charge, 13 ſhewing that he was not inferior to thoſe deceitfull workers, in any legall prerogative; 23 and in the ſervice of Chriſt, and in all kind of ſufferings for his miniſtery, far ſuperior.

1 He granteth that after a ſort he playeth the fool in this vaunting of things, but he addeth that he doth it againſt his will for their profit, becauſe he ſeeth them deceived by certain vain and crafty men, through the craft & ſubtilty of ſatan a He ſpeaketh as a wooer, but yet as one that ſeeketh them not for himſelf, but for God.

b To marry you together.

c This place is to be marked againſt them which loath that plain and pure ſimplicity of the ſcriptures, in compariſon of the colours and paintings of mans eloquence d which is meet for them that are in Chriſt.

2 He ſheweth that they deceive themſelvs, if they look to receive of any other man, either a more excellent goſpel, or more excellent gifts of the holy Ghoſt.

e A more perfect doctrin of Jeſus Chriſt.

WOuld [1] to God you could bear with me a little in my folly, & indeed ‡ bear with me.

2 For I am jealous over you with godly jealouſy, for [a] I have eſpouſed you to one husband, that I may [b] preſent you as a chaſt virgin to Chriſt.

3 But I fear leaſt by any means, as the ſerpent beguiled Eve through his ſubtilty, ſo your minds ſhould be [c] corrupted from the ſimplicity that is in [d] Chriſt.

4 [2] For if he that cometh, preacheth [e] another Jeſus whom we have not preached, or if ye receive another ſpirit, which ye have not received, or another goſpel, which ye have not accepted, ye might well bear with him.

5 For I ſuppoſe I was not a whit behind the very chiefeſt apoſtles.

6 [3] But though I be [f] rude in ſpeech, yet not in knowledge, but we have been throughly made manifeſt among you in all things.

7 [4] Have I committed an offence in abaſing my ſelf that you might be exalted, becauſe I have preached to you the goſpel of God freely?

8 I robbed other curches, taking wages of them to do you ſervice.

9 And when I was preſent with you and wanted, I was chargeable to no man: for that which was lacking to me, the brethren, which came from Macedonia, ſupplied, and in all things I have kept my ſelf from being burdenſom unto you, [5] and ſo will I keep my ſelf.

10 As the [g] truth of Chriſt is in me, ‡ no man ſhall [h] ſtop me of this boaſting in the regions of Achaia.

11 Wherefore? becauſe I love you not? God knoweth.

12 But what I do, that I will do, that I may cut off occaſion from them which deſire occaſion, that wherein they [i] glory, they may be found even as we.

13 [6] For ſuch are falſe apoſtles, deceitfull workers, transforming themſelvs into the apoſtles of Chriſt.

14 And no marvel, for Satan himſelf is transformed into an angel of [k] light.

15 Therefore it is no great thing if his miniſters alſo be transformed as the miniſters of righteouſneſs, whoſe end ſhall be according to their works.

16 [7] I ſay again, Let no man think me a fool; if otherwiſe, yet as a fool ‡ receive me, that I may boaſt my ſelf a little.

17 That which I ſpeak, I ſpeak it not after the Lord, but as it were fooliſhly in this confidence of boaſting.

18 Seeing that many glory after the fleſh, I will glory alſo.

19 For ye ſuffer fools gladly, ſeeing ye your ſelvs are wiſe.

20 [8] For ye ſuffer if a man bring you into bondage, if a man devour you, if a man take of you, if a man exalt himſelf, if a man ſmite you on the face.

21 I ſpeak as concerning [l] reproach, as though we had been [m] weak: howbeit, wherein ſoever

3 He refuteth the ſlanders, of thoſe Thraſoes, I grant, ſaith he, that I am not ſo eloquent an Orator, but yet they cannot take away the knowledge of the goſpel from me, whereof you have had good proof, and that every manner of way.

4 Paul lacked not of that kind of eloquence which is meet for a man, and fit for the goſpel, but he willingly wanted that painted kind of ſpeech, which too many now a days hunt after and follow.

5 Another ſlander, to wit, that he was a raſcall, and lived by the labour of his own hands. But herein, ſaith the apoſtle, what can you lay againſt me, but that I was content to take any pains for your ſakes, and when I lacked, to travail for my living with mine own hands in part, and partly alſo when poverty conſtrained me, I choſe rather otherwiſe to ſeek my ſuſtenance, than to be any burden to you, although I preached the goſpel unto you.

6 An amplification: So far is he from being aſhamed of this act, that he hath alſo reſolved with himſelf to do no otherwiſe hereafter amongſt them, to the intent that it may always be truly ſaid, That he taught in Achaia for nothing: not that he diſtraineth the Corinthians, but that, theſe Thraſos may never find the occaſion which they have already ſought for, and he in the mean ſeaſon, may ſet ſomthing before them to follow, that at length they may truly ſay, that they are like to Paul.

g This is a form of an oath, as if he ſaid, Let me not be thought to have any truth in me.

‡ Or, this boaſting ſhall not be ſtopped in me

h Shall be always open to me.

i Pauls adverſaries ſought all occaſions they could to be equall to him. And therefore ſeeing they had rather eat up the Corinthians, than preach to them for nothing, they ſought another occaſion, to wit, to make Paul to take ſomthing: which thing if he had don, then hoped they by that means to be equall to him: for they made ſuch a ſhew of zeal and knowledge, and ſet it forth with ſuch a glotting kind of eloquence, that ſome of them even deſpiſed Paul: but he ſheweth that all this is nothing but colours and phinting.

6 Now at length he painteth out theſe fellows in their colours, forewarning, that it will come to paſs, that they will at length betray themſelvs, what countenance ſoever they make of the zeal that they have of Gods glory

k By light is meant the heavenly glory whereof the angels are partakers

7 He goeth forward boldly, and uſing a vehement ironie or kind of taunting, deſireth the Corinthians to pardon him, if for a time he contend as a fool before them being wiſe, with thoſe jolly fellows touching thoſe externall things, to wit, touching his ſtock, his anceſtours and valiant Acts.

‡ Or, ſuffer

8 Before he cometh to the matter, he toucheth the Corinthians, who perſwading themſelvs to be very wiſe men, did not mark, in the mean ſeaſon, that thoſe falſe apoſtles abuſed their ſimplicity for avantage.

l As if he ſaid, In reſpect of that reproach which they do unto you (I ſpeak it) which ſurely is as evil, as if they did beat you.

m Paul is called weak, in that he ſeemeth to the Corinthians a vile and abject man, a beggerly artificer, a moſt wretched and miſerable idiot; whereas notwithſtanding, therein Gods mighty power was made manifeſt.

170

any is bold (I speak fooliſhly) I am bold alſo.

22 Are they Hebrews? ſo am I: are they Iſraelites? ſo am I: are they the ſeed of Abraham? ſo am I:

23 Are they miniſters of Chriſt? I ſpeak as a fool, I am [n] more: in labours more abundant: in ſtripes above meaſure: in priſons more frequent: in deaths [o] oft.

24 Of the Jews [p] five times received I forty ſtripes ſave one.

25 Thrice [q] was I beaten with rods, once was I ſtoned, thrice I ſuffered ſhipwrack: a night and a day I have been in the deep.

26 In journeyings often, in perils of waters, in perils of robbers, in perils by mine own countrey men, in perils by the heathen, in perils in the city, in perils in the wilderneſs, in perils in the ſea, in perils among falſe brethren,

27 In wearineſs and [r] painfulneſs, in watchings often, in hunger and thirſt, in faſtings often, in cold and nakedneſs.

28 [9] Beſides thoſe things that are without, that which cometh upon me daily, the care of all the churches.

29 Who is weak, and I am not weak? who is offended, and I burn not?

30 [10] If I muſt needs glory, I will glory of the things which concern mine infirmities.

31 The God and Father of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, which is bleſſed for evermore, knoweth that I lie not.

32 In * Damaſcus the governour under Aretas the king, kept the city of the Damaſcens with a gariſon, deſirous to apprehend me.

33 And through a window in a basket was I let down by the wall, and eſcaped his hands.

CHAP. XII.

1 For commending of his apoſtleſhip, though he might glory of his wonderfull revelations, 9 yet he rather chooſeth to glory of his infirmities, 11 blaming them for forcing him to this vain boaſting. 14 He promiſeth to come to them again: but yet altogether in the affection of a father, 20 although he feareth he ſhall, to his grief, find many offenders, and publick diſorders there.

IT [1] is not expedient for me doubtleſs to glory, I will come to viſions and revelations of the Lord.

2 I knew a man [a] in Chriſt above fourteen years ago (whether in the body, I cannot tell, or whether out of the body, I cannot tell, God knoweth) ſuch an one caught up to the [b] third heaven.

3 And I knew ſuch a man (whether in the body, or out of the body, I cannot tell, God knoweth)

4 How that he was caught up into [c] paradiſe, and heard unſpeakable [d] words, which it is not [e] lawfull for a man to utter.

5 [2] Of ſuch an one will I glory, yet of my ſelf I will not glory, but in mine infirmities.

6 For though I would deſire to glory, I ſhall not be a fool: for I will ſay the truth. But now I forbear, leaſt any man ſhould think of me above that which he ſeeth me to be, or that he heareth of me.

7 [3] And leaſt Iſhould be exalted above meaſure through the abundance of the revelations, there was given to me [f] a * thorn in the fleſh, the meſſenger of [g] Satan to buffet me, leaſt I ſhould be exalted above meaſure.

8 For this thing I beſought the Lord [h] thrice, that it might depart from me.

9 And he ſaid unto me, My grace is ſufficient for thee: for my ſtrength is made perfect in weakneſs. [4] Moſt gladly therefore will I rather glory in my infirmities, that the power of Chriſt may [i] reſt upon me.

10 Therefore I take [k] pleaſure in infirmities, in reproaches, in neceſſities, in perſecutions, in diſtreſſes for Chriſts ſake: for when I am weak, then am I ſtrong.

11 I am become a fool in glorying, ye have compelled me: [5] for I ought to have been commended of you: for in nothing am I behind the very chiefeſt apoſtles, though I be nothing.

12 Truly the [l] ſigns of an apoſtle were wrought among you in all patience, in ſigns, and wonders, and mighty deeds.

13 For what is it wherein ye were inferior to other churches, except it be that I my ſelf was not [m] burdenſom to you? forgive me this wrong.

14 Behold, the third time I am ready to come to you; and I will not be burdenſom to you; for I ſeek not yours, but you: for the children ought not to lay up for the parents, but the parents for the children.

15 And I will very gladly ſpend and be ſpent for † you, though the more abundantly I love you, the leſs I be loved.

16 [6] But be it ſo, I did not burden you: nevertheleſs being crafty, I caught you with guile.

17 Did I make a gain of you by any of them whom I ſent unto you?

18 I deſired Titus, and with him I ſent a brother: did Titus make a gain of you? walked we not in the ſame ſpirit? walked we not in the ſame ſteps?

19 [7] Again, think you that we excuſe our ſelvs unto you? we ſpeak before God in [n] Chriſt: but we do all things, dearly beloved, for your edifying.

20 [8] For I fear leaſt when I come I ſhall not find you ſuch as I would, and that I ſhall be found unto you ſuch as ye would not; leaſt there be debates, envyings, wraths, ſtrifes, back-bitings, whiſperings, ſwellings, tumults;

21 And leaſt when I come again, my God will humble me among you, and that I ſhall bewail many which have ſinned already, and n Paul being honourable indeed, defendeth his miniſtery openly, not for his own ſake, but becauſe he ſaw his doctrin come into hazard.

o In danger of preſent death.
p He alludeth to that that is written, Deut. 25. 3. and moreover this place ſheweth us, that Paul ſuffered many things which Luke paſſed over.
q Of the Roman magiſtrates.
r Painfulneſs is a troubleſom ſickneſs, as when a man is weary and would reſt, he is conſtrained to fall to new labour.
9 He addeth this in concluſion further, that the Corinthians might be aſhamed to deſpiſe him, upon whoſe care, almoſt all churches depended; as it was plainly ſeen by experience.
10 He turneth that againſt the adverſaries, which they objected againſt him: as if he ſhould ſay, They alledged my calamities, to take away my authority from me: but if I would boaſt my ſelf, I would take no better argument: and God himſelf is my witneſs that I deviſe and forge nothing
* Acts 9. 24.

1 He goeth forward in his purpoſe, and becauſe thoſe bragging mates boaſted of revelations, he reckoneth up thoſe things which lift him up above the common capacity of men: but he uſeth a preface, and excuſeth himſelf adviſedly.
a I ſpeak this in Chriſt, that is, be it ſpoken without vain glory, for I ſeek nothing but Chriſt Jeſus onely.
b Into the higheſt heaven: for we need not to diſpute ſubtilly n on the word (Third) but yet this place is to be marked againſt them, which would have heaven to be every where. c So the Grecians name that, which we call a Park, that is to ſay, A place were trees are planted, and wild beaſts kept, by which name they that tranſlated the old Teſtament out of Hebrew into Greek, called the garden Eden, whereunto Adam was put ſtraight after his creation, as a moſt delicate and pleaſant place. And hereupon grew it, that that bleſſed ſeat of the glory of God is called by that name. d which no man is able to utter. † Or, poſſible e which the ſaints themſelvs are not by any means able to expreſs, becauſe it is God himſelf. Thus doth Clemens Alexandrinus expound this place, Strom. 5. 2 To remove all ſuſpicion of ambition, he witneſſeth that he bragged not of thoſe things, as of his own, but as out of himſelf, and yet notwithſtanding faineth nothing, leaſt by this occaſion other men ſhould attribute unto him more than indeed he is: and therefore he had rather glory in his miſeries.

3 An excellent doctrin: why God will even have his beſt ſervants to be vexed of Satan, & by all kind of temptations: to wit, leaſt they ſhould be too much puffed up, and alſo that they may be made perfit by that continuall exerciſe.
f He meaneth concupiſcence, that ſticketh faſt in us, as it were a prick, inſomuch as it conſtrained Paul himſelf being regenerate, to cry out, I do not that good that I would, &c. And he calleth that a prick, by a borrowed kind of ſpeech taken from thorns, or ſtumps, which are very dangerous and hurtfull for the feet, if a man walk through woods that are cut down.
* See Ezek. 28. 24.
g which ſetteth thoſe luſts on fire.
h Oft.
4 He concludeth, that he will onely ſet his miſeries againſt the vain brags of the falſe apoſtles, & therewith alſo excuſeth himſelf, for that by their importunity, he was conſtrained to ſpeak ſo much of thoſe things as he did: to wit, becauſe that if his apoſtleſhip were ſubverted, his doctrin muſt needs fall.
i That I might feel the vertue of Chriſt more and more: For the weaker that our tabernacles are, the more doth Chriſts vertue appear in them.
k I do not onely take them patiently, and with a good heart, but alſo I take great pleaſure in them.
5 Again, he maketh the Corinthians witneſſes of thoſe things wherein by God had ſealed his apoſtleſhip amongſt them, and again he declareth by certain arguments how far he is from all covetouſneſs, and alſo how he is affectioned towards them.
l The arguments whereby it may well appear, that I am indeed an apoſtle of Jeſus Chriſt.
m I was not ſlothfull in getting my living with mine own hands, that I might not be burdenſom to you.
† Gr., your ſoul,
6 He putteth away another moſt grievous ſlander, to wit, that he did ſubtilly, and by others, make his gain and profit of them. 7 He concludeth that he writeth not theſe things unto them, as though he needed to defend himſelf, for he is guilty of nothing; but becauſe it is needfull for them to doubt nothing of his fidelity, who inſtructed them. n As it becometh him to ſpeak truly and ſincerely, that profeſſeth himſelf to be in Chriſt, that is to ſay, to be a Chriſtian.
8 Having confirmed his authority unto them, he rebuketh them ſharply, and threatneth them alſo like an apoſtle, ſhewing that he will not ſpare them hereafter, unleſs they repent, ſeeing that this is the third time that he hath warned them.

have have not repented of the uncleanness, and fornication, and lasciviousness which they have committed.

CHAP. XIII.

1 He threatneth severitie, and the power of his apostleship against obstinate sinners: 5 and advising them to a triall of their faith, 7 and to reformation of their sins before his coming, 11 he concludeth his epistle with a generall exhortation and a prayer.

1 A most sharp reprehension, for that while they despise the apostles admonition, they tempt Christs own patience: and also while they contemn his as wretched and miserable, they lay nothing herein against him, which is not common to him with Christ.
a And will be most mighty to be revenged of you when need shall be.
b As touching that base form of a servant which he took upon him when he abased himself.
‡ Or, with him,
2 He confirmeth that which he spake of the vertue of God appearing in his ministery, and he gathereth by the mutuall relation between the peoples faith, and the ministers preaching, that they must either reverence his apostleship, upon whose doctrin their faith is grounded, or they must condemn themselvs of infidelity, and must confess themselvs not to be of Christs body.

THis is the third time I am coming to you: in the mouth of two or three witnesses shall every word be established.

2 I told you before, and foretell you as if I were present the second time, and being absent, now I write to them which heretofore have sinned, and to all other, that if I come again I will not spare:

3 [1] Since ye seek a proof of Christ speaking in me, which to you-ward is not weak, but is [a] mighty in you.

4 For though he was crucified through [b] weakness, yet he liveth by the power of God: for we also are weak ‡ in him, but we shall live with him by the power of God toward you.

5 [2] Examin your selvs, whether ye be in the faith: prove your own selvs: know ye not your own selvs, how that Jesus Christ is in you, except ye be reprobates?

6 [3] But I trust that ye shall know that we are not reprobates.

3 He mitigateth that sharpness, trusting that they will shew themselvs toward their faithfull apostles, apt and willing to be taught: adding this moreover, that he passeth not for his own fame and estimation: so that he may serve to their salvation, which is the onely mark that he shooteth at.
c In mens judgement.
d That all things may be in good order amongst you, and the members of the church restored into their place, which have been shaken, and out of place.
4 A brief exhortation, but yet such an one as comprehendeth all the parts of a Christian mans life.
5 He saluteth them familiarly, and in conclusion wisheth well unto them.

7 Now I pray to God that ye do no evil, not that we should appear approved, but that ye should do that which is honest, though we be as [c] reprobates.

8 For we can do nothing against the truth, but for the truth.

9 For we are glad when we are weak, and ye are strong: and this also wè wish, even your [d] perfection.

10 Therefore I write these things being absent, least being present, I should use sharpness, according to the power which the Lord hath given me to edification, and not to destruction, 11 [4] Finally, brethren, farewell: Be perfect, be of good comfort, be of one mind, live in peace; and the God of love and peace shall be with you.

12 [5] Greet one another with an holy kiss.

13 All the saints salute you.

14 The grace of the Lord Jesus Christ, and the love of God, and the communion of the Holy Ghost, be with you all. Amen.

¶ The second epistle to the Corinthians, was written from Philippi a citie of Macedonia, by Titus and Lucas.

The Epistle of PAUL the Apostle TO THE GALATIANS.

CHAP. I.

6 He wondereth that they have so soon left him and the gospel, 8 and accurseth those that preach any other gospel than he did. 11 He learned the gospel not of men, but of God: 13 and sheweth what he was before his calling, 17 and what he did presently after it.

1 A salutation comprehending in few words the sum of the apostles doctrin, and also besides, straightway from the beginning, shewing the gravity meet for the authority of an apostle, which he had to maintain against the false apostles.
a He sheweth who is the author of the ministery generally: for herein the whole ministery agreeth, that whether they be apostles or shepherds, or doctors, they are appointed of God.
b He toucheth the instrumentall cause: for this is a peculiar prerogative to the apostles, to be called immediately from Christ. c Christ no doubt is man but he is God also, and head of the church, and in this respect to be exempted out of the number of men. 2 The sum of the true gospel is this, that Christ by his onely offering saveth us being chosen out from the world, by the free decree of God the Father. d Out of the most corrupt state which is without Christ.
3 The first part of the epistle wherein he witnesseth that he is an apostle, nothing inferior to those chief disciples of Christ, and wholly agreeing with them, whose names the false apostles did abuse. And he beginneth with chiding, reproving them of lightness, for that they gave ear so easily unto them which perverted them, and drew them away unto a new gospel. e He useth the passive voice, to cast the fault upon the false apostles, and he useth the time that now is, to give them to understand, that it was not already don, but in doing.

PAul [1] an apostle, not [a] of men, neither [b] by man, but by [c] Jesus Christ, and God the Father, who raised him from the dead,

2 And all the brethren which are with me, unto the churches of Galatia:

3 Grace be to you and peace, from God the Father, and from our Lord Jesus Christ,

4 [2] Who gave himself for our sins, that he might deliver us from this present evil [d] world, according to the will of God, and our Father:

5 To whom be glory for ever and ever, Amen.

6 [3] I marvel, that ye are so soon [e] removed from him that called you into the grace of Christ, unto another gospel:

4 He warneth them in time to remember that there are not many gospels, and therefore whatsoever these false apostles pretend which had the law, Moses, and the Fathers, in their mouths, yet there are indeed so many corruptions of the true gospel, in so much that he himself, yea, and the very angels themselvs (and therefore much more these false apostles) ought to be holden accursed if they go about to change the least jot that may be in the gospel that he delivered to them before.
f For there is nothing more contrary to faith or free justification, than justification by the law, or by our deservings. g Look Rom. 9. 3. 5 A confirmation taken both from the nature of the doctrin it self, and also from the manner which he used in teaching: for neither, saith he, did I teach those things which pleased men, as these men do, which put a part of salvation in externall things, and works of the law, neither went I about to procure any mans favour: And therefore the matter it self sheweth that that doctrin which I delivered unto you, is heavenly. h He toucheth the false apostles, who had nothing but men in their mouths, and he, though he would derogate nothing from the apostles, preacheth God, and not men. 6 A second argument to prove that his doctrin is heavenly, because he had it from heaven, from Jesus Christ himself, without any mans help, wherein he excelleth them whom Christ taught here on earth, after the manner of men.

7 [4] Which is not another: but there be some that trouble you, and would [f] pervert the gospel of Christ.

8 But though we, or an angel from heaven, preach any other gospel unto you, than that which we have preached unto you, let him be [g] accursed.

9 As we said before, so say I now again, If any man preach any another gospel unto you, than that ye have received, let him be accursed.

10 [5] For do I now perswade [h] men, or God? or do I seek to please men? for if I yet pleased men, I should not be the servant of Christ.

11 [6] But I certifie you, brethren, that the gospel which was preached of me, is not after man.

12 For I neither received it of man, neither was I taught it, but by the [i] revelation of Jesus Christ.

13 [7] For ye have heard of my conversation in time past, in the Jews religion, how that beyond measure I persecuted the church of God, and wasted it:

14 And profited in the Jews religion, above many my † equals in mine own nation, being more exceedingly zealous of the [k] traditions of my fathers.

15 But when it pleased God, who [l] separated me from my mothers womb, and called me by his grace,

16 To reveal his Son [m] in me, that I might preach him among the heathen; immediately [8] I conferred not with [n] flesh and bloud:

17 Neither went I up to Jerusalem, to them which were apostles before me, but I went into Arabia, and returned again unto Damascus.

18 Then after three years I ‡ went up to Jerusalem, to see Peter, and abode with him fifteen days.

19 But other of the apostles saw I none, save James the Lords brother.

20 Now the things which I write unto you, behold, [o] before God, I lie not.

21 Afterwards I came into the regions of Syria and Cilicia:

22 And was unknown by face unto the churches of Judea, which were in Christ.

23 But they had heard onely, That he which persecuted us in times past, now preacheth the [p] faith which once he destroyed.

24 And they glorified God in me.

i This place is to be understood of an extraordinary revelation, for otherwise the Son alone revealed his gospel by his Spirit, although by the ministery of men, which Paul shutteth out here.

7 He proveth that he was extraordinarily taught of Christ himself, by the history of his former life, which the Galatians themselvs knew well enough: for, saith he, it is well known in what school I was brought up, even from a child, to wit, amongst the deadly enemies of the gospel. And that no man may cavill & say, That I was a scholar of the pharisees in name onely, and not indeed, no man is ignorant how that I excelled in phariseism, & was suddenly made of a Pharisee an apostle of the Gentiles, so that I had no space to be instructed of men.

l Gr. equals in year,

k He calleth them the traditions of his fathers, because he was not onely a pharisee himself, but also had a pharisee to his father.

l He speaketh of Gods everlasting predestination, whereby he appointed him to be an apostle, whereof he maketh three degrees; the everlasting counsel of God, his appointing from his mothers womb, and his calling: here is no mention at all, we see, of works foreseen. m To me, and this is a kind of speech which the Hebrews use, whereby this is given us to understand, that this gift cometh from God. 8 Because it might be objected, that indeed he was called of Christ in the way, but afterward was instructed of the apostles and others, whose names, (as I said before) the false apostles abused to destroy his apostleship, as though he delivered another gospel than the true apostles did, and as though he were not of their number, which are to be credited without exception: therefore Paul answereth, that he began straightway after his calling to preach the gospel at Damascus and in Arabia, and was not from that time in Jerusalem but onely fifteen days, where he saw onely Peter and James, and afterwards he began to teach in Syria, and Cilicia, with the consent and approbation of the churches of the Jews, which knew him onely by name: so far off was it, that he was there instructed of men. n with any man in the world. ‡ Or, returned o This is a kind of oath. p The doctrin of faith.

Chap. II.

1 He sheweth when he went up again to Jerusalem, and for what purpose: 3 and that Titus was not circumcised: 11 and that he resisted Peter, and told him the reason, 14 why he and others, being Jews, do believe in Christ to be justified by faith, and not by works: 20 and that they live not in sin, who are so justified.

1 Now he sheweth how he agreeth with the apostles, with whom he granteth that he conferred touching his gospel which he taught among the Gentiles fourteen years after his conversion, and they allowed it, in such sort, that they constrained not his fellow Titus to be circumcised, although some tormented themselvs therein, which traiterously laid wait against him, but in vain: neither did they add the least jot that might be to the doctrin which he had preached, but contrariwise they gave to him and Barnabas the right hands of fellowship, and acknowledged them as apostles appointed of the Lord to the Gentiles. ‡ Or, severally a Unfruitfull, for as touching his doctrin, Paul doubteth not of it, but because there were certain reports cast abroad of him, that he was of another opinion than the rest of the apostles were, which thing might have hindered the course of the gospel, therefore he laboureth to remedy this sore. b which by deceit and counterfeit holiness crept in amongst the faithfull.

Then [1] fourteen years after, I went up again to Jerusalem, with Barnabas, and took Titus with me also.

2 And I went up by revelation, and communicated unto them that gospel which I preach among the Gentiles, but ‡ privately to them which were of reputation, least by any means I should run, or had run [a] in vain.

3 But neither Titus, who was with me, being a Greek, was compelled to be circumcised:

4 And that because of [b] false brethren unawars brought in, who came in privily to spie out our liberty, which we have in Christ Jesus; that they might bring us into bondage;

5 To whom we gave place by [c] subjection, no not for an hour, that the [d] truth of the gospel might continue with [e] you.

6 But of these, who seemed to be somwhat (whatsoever they were, it maketh no matter to me, God accepteth no mans person) for they who seemed to be somwhat, in conference added nothing to me.

7 But contrariwise, when they saw that the gospel of the [f] uncircumcision was committed unto me, as the gospel of the circumcision was unto Peter:

8 (For he that wrought effectually in Peter to the apostleship of the circumcision, the same was mighty in me towards the Gentiles)

9 And when James, Cephas, and John, who [g] seemed to be pillars, perceived the grace that was given unto me, they gave to me and Barnabas the right [h] hands of fellowship, that we should go unto the heathen, and they unto the circumcision.

10 Onely they would that we should remember the poor, the same which I also was forward to do.

11 But when Peter was come to Antioch, I withstood him to the [i] face, because he was to be blamed.

12 [2] For before that certain came from James, he did eat with the Gentiles: but when they were come, he withdrew, and separated himself, fearing them which were of the circumcision.

13 And the other Jews dissembled likewise with him, insomuch that Barnabas also was [k] carried away with their dissimulation.

14 But when I saw that they walked [l] not uprightly, according to the [m] truth of the gospel, I said unto Peter before them all, If thou, being a Jew, livest after the manner of the Gentiles, and not as do the Jews, why [n] compellest thou the Gentiles to live as do the Jews?

15 [3] We who are [o] Jews by nature, and [p] not sinners of the Gentiles,

16 Knowing that a man is not justified by the works of the law, but by the faith [q] of Jesus Christ, even we have believed in Jesus Christ, that we might be justified by the faith of Christ and not by the works of the law: for by the works of the law shall [r] no flesh be justified.

17 [4] But if while [f] we seek to be justified by Christ, we our selvs also are found sinners, is therefore Christ the minister of sin? God forbid.

c By submitting our selvs to them & betraying our own liberty

d The true and sincere doctrin of the gospel, which remained safe from being corrupt with any of those mens false doctrins.

e Under the Galatians name, he understandeth all nations.

f Among Gentiles, as Peter had to preach it among the Jews.

g whom alone and onely these men count for pillars of the church, and whose name they abuse to deceive you.

h They gave us their hand in token that we agreed wholly in the doctrin of the gospel.

i Before all men,

2 Another most vehement proof of his apostleship, and also of that doctrin which he had delivered concerning free justification by faith onely, because that for this thing onely he reprehended Peter at Antioch, who offended herein, in that for a few Jews sakes which came from Jerusalem, he playeth the Jew, and offended the Gentiles which had believed.

k By example rather than by judgement.

l word for word, with a right foot, which he setteth against halting and dissembling, which is backward.

m He calleth the truth of the gospel, both the doctrin it self, and also the use of the doctrin, which we call the practice.

n He saith, they were constrained, which played the Jews by Peters example.

3 The second part of this epistle, the state whereof is this: we are justified by faith in Christ Jesus without the works of the law: which thing he propoundeth in such sort, that first of all he meeteth with an objection, (for I also, saith he, am a Jew, that no man may say against me, that I am an enemy to the law) and afterward he confirmeth it by the expres witness of David. o Although we be Jews, yet we preach justification by faith, because we know undoubtedly that no man can be justified by the law. p So the Jews called the Gentiles, because they were strangers from Gods covenant. q In Jesus Christ. r No man, and in this word (flesh) there is a great vehemency, whereby is meant that the nature of man is utterly corrupt. 4 Before he goeth any further, he meeteth with their objection, which abhorred this doctrin of free justification by faith, because they say, men are by this means withdrawn from the study of good works. And in this sort is the objection: If sinners should be justified through Christ by faith without the law, Christ should approve sinners, and should as it were exhort them thereunto by his ministery. Paul answereth, that this consequence is false, because that Christ destroyeth sin in the believers: For so, saith he, do men flee unto Christ through the terrour and fear of the law, that being quit from the curse of the law, and justified they may be saved by him, that together therewithall, he beginneth in them by little and little that strength and power of his, which destroyeth sin: to the end that this old man being abolished by the vertue of Christ crucified; Christ may live in them, and they may consecrate themselvs to God. Therefore if any man give himself to sin after he hath received the gospel, let him not accuse Christ nor the gospel, but himself, for that he destroyeth the work of God in himself. s He goeth from justification to sanctification, which is another benefit we receive by Christ, if we lay hold on him by faith.

18 For

18 For if I build again the things which I destroyed, I make my self a transgressor.

19 For I through the law am dead to the [t] law, that I might live unto God.

20 I am crucified with Christ. Nevertheless I live; yet not [u] I, but Christ liveth in me: and the life which I now live in the [x] flesh, I live by the faith of the Son of God, who loved me, and gave himself for me.

21 [5] I do not frustrate the grace of God: for if righteousness come by the law, then Christ is dead [y] in vain.

t The law that terrified the conscience, briugeth us to Christ, and he onely causeth us to die to the law indeed, because that by making us righteous, he taketh away from us the terrour of conscience, and by sanctifying us, causeth through the mortifying of lust in us, that it cannot take such occasion to sin by the restraint which the law maketh, as it did before, Rom. 7. 10, 11. u The same that I was before. x In this mortall body. 5 The second argument taken of an absurdity: If men may be justified by the law, then was it not necessary for Christ to die. y For there was no cause why he should do so.

Chap. III.

1 He asketh what moved them to leave the faith, and hang upon the law. 6 They that believe are justified, 9 and blessed with Abraham. 10 And this he sheweth by many reasons.

O [1] Foolish Galatians, who hath bewitched you, that you should not obey the truth, before whose eyes Jesus Christ hath been [a] evidently set forth, crucified among you?

2 This onely would I learn of you, Received ye [b] the Spirit by the works of the law, or by the [c] hearing of faith?

3 [2] Are ye so foolish? having begun in the Spirit, are ye now made perfect by the [d] flesh?

4 [3] Have ye suffered ‡ so many things in vain? if it be yet in vain.

5 [4] He therefore that ministreth to you the Spirit, and worketh miracles among you, doth he it by the works of the law, or by the hearing of faith?

6 [5] Even as [e] Abraham believed God, and it was ‡ accounted to him for righteousness.

7 [6] Know ye therefore, that they which are of faith, the same are the children of Abraham.

8 [7] And the scripture foreseeing that God would justify the heathen through faith, preached before the gospel unto Abraham, saying, * [8] In thee shall all nations be [f] blessed.

9 [9] So then they which be of faith, are blessed [g] with faithfull Abraham.

10 [10] For as many as are of the works of the law, are under the curse: [11] for it is written, * Cursed is every one that continueth not in all things which are written in the book of the law to do them.

11 [12] But that no man is justified by the law in the sight of God, it is evident: for, * The just shall live by faith.

12 [13] And the law is not of faith: but, * The man that doth them shall live in them.

13 [14] Christ hath redeemed us from the curse of the law, being made a curse for us: for it is [15] written, [h] Cursed is every one that hangeth on a tree:

14 [16] That the blessing of Abraham might come on the Gentiles through Jesus Christ: that we might receive the promise of the Spirit through faith.

15 ¶ [17] Brethren, I speak after the manner of [i] men: though it be but a mans ‡ covenant, yet if it be [k] confirmed, no man disanulleth, or addeth thereto.

16 Now to Abraham and his seed were the promises made. He saith not, And to seeds, as of many; but as of one, And to thy seed, [18] which is [l] Christ.

17 [19] And this I say, That the covenant that was confirmed before of God [m] in Christ, the [20] law which was four hundred and thirty years after, cannot disanull, that it should make the promise of none effect.

18 [21] For if the [n] inheritance be of the law, it is no more of promise: but God gave it to Abraham by promise.

19 [22] Wherefore then serveth the law? It was added because of [o] transgressions, [p] till the seed should come, to whom the promise was made, [23] and it was [q] ordained by [r] angels in the hand of a mediator.

20 Now a mediator is not a mediator of one, [24] but God is one.

* Hab. 2. 4. Rom. 1, 17.

13 Here is a reason shewed of the former consequence: Because the law promiseth life to all that keep it, and therefore if it be kept, it justifieth and giveth life. But the Scripture attributing righteousness and life to faith, taketh it from the law, seeing that faith justifieth by imputation, and the law by the performing of the work.

* Levit. 18. 5.

14 A preventing of an objection: How then can they be blessed, whom the law pronounceth to be accursed? Because Christ sustained the curse which the law laid upon us, that we might be quit from it.

15 A proof of the answer by the testimony of Moses, Deut. 21. 23.

h Christ was accursed for us, because he bare the curse that was due to us to make us partakers of his righteousness.

16 A conclusion of all that was said before in the handling of the fift and sixt reasons, to wit, that both the Gentils are made partakers of the free blessing of Abraham in Christ, and also that the Jews themselvs, of whose number the apostle counteth himself to be, cannot obtain that promised grace of the gospel, which he calleth the Spirit, but onely by faith. And the apostle doth severally apply the conclusion, both to the one and to the other, preparing himself a way to the next argument, whereby he declareth that that onely seed of Abraham, which is made of all peoples, can no otherwise be joyned and grow up together, but by faith in Christ. 17 He putteth forth two generall rules before the next argument, which is the seventh in order: The one is, that it is not lawfull to break covenants and contracts which are justly made, and according to law, among men, neither may any thing be added unto them: the other is, that God did so make a covenant with Abraham, that he would gather together his children which consist both of Jews and Gentils into one body (as appeareth by that which hath been said before) For he did not say, That he would be the God of Abraham and of his seeds, (which thing notwithstanding should have been said, if he had many and divers seeds, as the Gentils apart, and the Jews apart) but that he would be the God of Abraham, and of his seed, as of one. i I will use an example which is common among you, that you may be ashamed, that you give not so much to Gods covenant as you do to mans. ‡ Or, testament, k Authenticall, as we call it. 18 He putteth forth the sum of the seventh argument, to wit, that both the Jews and the Gentils grow together in one body of the seed of Abraham, in Christ onely, so that all are one in Christ, as it is afterward declared, vers. 28. l Paul speaketh not of Christs person, but of two peoples which grew together in one, in Christ. 19 The eight argument taken of comparison, thus, If a mans covenant (being authenticall) be firm and strong, much more Gods covenant. Therefore the law was not given to abrogate the promise made to Abraham, which had respect to Christ, that is to say, The end whereof did hang on Christ. m which tended to Christ. 20 An inlarging of that argument, thus, Moreover and besides that the promise is of itself firm and strong, it was also confirmed with the prescription of long time, to wit, of 430 years, so that it could in no wise be broken. 21 An objection: we grant that the promise was not abrogated by the covenant of the law, and therefore we joyn the law with the promise; Nay, saith the apostle, these two cannot stand together, to wit, that the inheritance should both be given by the law and also by promise, for the promise is free: whereby it followeth that the law was not given to justify, for by that means the promise should be broken. n By this word (inheritance) is meant the right of the seed, which is, that God should be our God, that is to say, that by vertue of the covenant that was made with faithfull Abraham, we that be faithfull, might by that means be blessed of God as well as he. 22 An objection which riseth from the former answer: If the inheritance be not by the law (at the left in part) then why was the law given after that the promise was made? therefore, saith the apostle, to reprove men of sin, and so to teach them to look unto Christ, in whom at length that promise of saving all people together should be fulfilled, and not that the law was given to justify men. o That men might understand by discovering of their sins, that they are saved by the onely grace of God, which he revealed to Abraham, and that in Christ. p Untill the partition-wall was broken down, and that full seed sprang up, framed of two peoples, both of Jews and Gentiles: for by this word, Seed, we may not understand, Christ alone by himself, but coupled and joyned together with his body. 23 A confirmation of the former answer taken from the manner and form of giving the law: for it was given by angels, striking a great terrour into all, and by Moses, a Mediator, coming between. Now they that are one, need no Mediator, but they that are twain, at the left, and they are at variance one with another. Therefore the law it self, and the Mediator were witnesses of the wrath of God, and not that God would by this means reconcile men to himself, and abolish the promise, or add the law unto the promise. q Commanded and given, or proclaimed. r By the service and ministery. 24 A taking away of an objection, least any man might say, that somtimes by consent of the parties which have made a covenant, somthing is added to the covenant, or the former covenants are broken This, saith the apostle, cometh not to pass in God, who is always, one and the self same, and like himself.

1 The third reason, or argument, taken of those gifts of the Holy Ghost, wherewith they were endued from heaven after they had heard and believed the gospel by Pauls ministery: which seeing they were so evident to all mens eyes, that they were, as it were, lively images, wherein they might behold the truth of the doctrin of the gospel, no less than if they had beheld with their eyes Christ himself crucified, in whose onely death they ought to have their trust, he marvelleth how it could be that they could be so bewitched by the false apostles.

a Christ was laid before you so notably and so plainly, that you had his lively image, as it were, represented before your eyes, as if he had been crucified before you.

b Those spirituall graces and gifts: which were a seal as it were to the Galatians that the gospel which was preached to them was true.

c Of the doctrin of faith.

2 The fourth argument mixed with the former: and it is double. If the law be to be joyned with faith, this were not to go forward, but backward, seeing that those spirituall gifts which were bestowed upon you, are more excellent than any that could proceed from your selvs. And moreover, it should follow, that the law is better than Christ, because it should perfect and bring to end that which Christ began onely. d By the flesh, he meaneth the ceremonies of the law, against which he setteth the Spirit, that is, the spirituall working of the gospel. 3 An exhortation by manner of upbraiding, that they do not in vain suffer so many conflicts. ‡ Or, so great 4 He repeateth the third argument which was taken of the effects, because he had enterlaced certain other arguments by the way. 5 The fift argument which is of great force, and hath three grounds: The first, that Abraham was justified by faith, to wit, by free imputation of righteousness according to the promise apprehended by faith, as Moses doth most plainly witness. e Look Rom. 4. ‡ Or imputed 6 The second; that the sons of Abraham must be esteemed and accounted of by faith. 7 The third, that all people that believe, are without exception comprehended in the promise of the blessing. * Gen. 12. 3. 8 A proof of the first and second ground, out of the words of Moses. f Blessing in this place, signifieth the free promise by faith. 9 The conclusion of the fift argument: Therefore as Abraham is blessed by faith, so are all his children (i as is to say, all the Gentils that believe) blessed, that is to say, freely justified. g with faithfull Abraham, and not by faithfull Abraham, to give us to understand, that the blessing cometh not from Abraham, but from him, by whom Abraham and all his posterity is blessed. 10 The sixt argument, the conclusion whereof is also in the former vers taken of contraries, thus, They are accursed which are of the works of the law, that is to say, which value their righteousness by the performance of the law: Therefore they are blessed which are of faith, that is, they which have righteousness by faith. 11 A proof of the former sentence or proposition, and the proposition of this argument is this: Cursed is he that fulfilleth not the whole law. * Deut. 27 26. 12 The second proposition with the conclusion: But no man fulfilleth the law, therefore no man is justified by the law: or els, All are accursed which seek righteousness by the works of the law. And there is annexed also, this manner of proof of the second proposition, to wit, Righteousness and life are attributed to faith, Therefore no man fulfilleth the law.

21 [25] Is the law then against the promises of God? God forbid: for if there had been a law given which could have given life, verily righteousness should have been by the law.

22 But the [f] scripture hath concluded [t] all under sin, that the [u] promise by faith of Jesus Christ might be given to them that believe.

23 [26] But before faith came, we were kept under the law, shut up unto the [x] faith, which should afterwards be revealed.

24 Wherefore the law was our schoolmaster to bring us unto Christ, that we might be justified by faith.

25 But after that faith is come, we are no longer under a schoolmaster.

26 [27] For ye are all the children of God by faith in Christ Jesus.

27 [28] For as many of you as have been [y] baptized into Christ, have [z] put on Christ.

28 There is neither Jew, nor Greek, there is neither bond nor free, there is neither male nor female: for ye are all [a] one in Christ Jesus.

29 And if ye be Christs, then are ye Abrahams seed, and heirs according to the promise.

25 The conclusion uttered by a manner of asking a question, and it is that same that was uttered before, vers. 17. but proceeding of another rule: so that the argument is new, and is this: God is always like unto himself: Therefore the law was not given to abolish the promises. But it should abolish them if it gave life, for by that means it should justify, and therefore it should abolish that justification which was promised to Abraham, and to his seed by faith. Nay, it was rather given to bring to light the guiltiness of all men, to the end that all believers fleeing to Christ, might be freely justified in him.

f By this word, scripture, he meaneth the law. t whatsoever cometh from man. u In every one of these words, there lieth an argument against the merits of works: for all these words, Promise, faith, Christ, might be given to believers, are against merits, and not one of them can stand with deserving works. 26 Now there followeth another handling of the second part of this epistle: the state whereof was this: Although the law (that is, the whole government of Gods house according to the law) do not justify, is it therefore to be abolished, seeing that Abraham himself was circumcised, and his posterity held still the use of Moses law? Paul affirmeth that it ought to be abolished, because it was instituted for that end and purpose, that it should be, as it were, a schoolmaster and keeper to the people of God, untill the promise appeared indeed, that is to say, Christ, and the gospel manifestly published with great efficacy of the spirit. x The cause why we were kept under the law, is set down here. 27 Because age changeth not the condition of servants, he addeth that we are free by condition, and therefore, seeing we are out of our child-hood, we have no more need of a keeper and schoolmaster. 28 Using a generall particle, least the jews at the last should not think themselvs bound with the band of the law, he pronounceth that baptism is common to all believers, because it is a pledge of our deliverance in Christ, as well to the Jews as to the Grecians, that by this means all may be truly one in Christ, that is to say, that promised seed to Abraham, and inheritours of eternall life. y He setteth baptism secretly against circumcision, which the false apostles so much bragged of. z The church must put on Christ, as it were a garment, and be covered with him, that it may be throughly holy, and without blame. a You are all as one: and so is this great knot and conjunction signified.

Chap. IV.

1 We were under the law till Christ came, as the heir is under his guardian till he be of age. 5 But Christ freed us from the law: 7 therefore we are servants no longer to it. 14 He remembreth their good will to him, and his to them: 22 and sheweth that we are the sons of Abraham by the free-woman.

NOw [1] I say, that the heir, as long as he is a child, differeth nothing from a servant, though he be lord of all:

2 But is under tutors and governours, [a] untill the time appointed of the father.

3 Even so we, when we were children, were in bondage under the [b] elements of the world:

4 [2] But when the [c] fulness of the time was come, God sent forth his Son made of a [d] woman, made under the law:

5 To redeem them that were under the law, that we might receive the [e] adoption of sons.

6 [3] And because ye are sons, God hath [f] sent forth the [g] Spirit of his Son into your hearts, crying, Abba, Father.

7 Wherefore thou art no more a [h] servant, but a son; and if a son, then an [i] heir of God through Christ.

8 [4] Howbeit, then when ye knew not God, ye did service unto them which by nature are no gods.

9 But now after that ye have known God, or rather are known of God, how turn ye ‡ again to the weak and [k] beggerly ‡ elements, whereunto ye desire [l] again to be in bondage?

10 Ye observe days, and moneths, and times, and years.

11 I am afraid of you, least I have bestowed upon you labour in vain.

12 [5] Brethren, I beseech you, be as I am; for I am as ye are; ye have not injured me at all.

13 Ye know how through [m] infirmity of the flesh, I preached the gospel unto you at the first.

14 And my [n] temptation which was in my flesh ye despised not, nor rejected, but received me as an angel of God, even as [o] Christ Jesus.

15 ‡ [p] Where is then the blessedness you spake of? for I bear you record, that if it had been possible, ye would have plucked out your own eyes, and have given them to me.

16 Am I therefore become your enemy, because I tell you the truth?

17 They zealously affect you, but [q] not well: yea, they would exclude ‡ you, [r] that you might affect them.

18 But it is good to be [s] zealously affected always in a good thing, and not onely when I am present with you.

19 My little children of whom I travail in birth again untill Christ be formed in you,

20 I desire to be present with you now, and to [t] change my voice, for ‡ I stand in doubt of you.

21 [6] Tell me, ye that [u] desire to be under the law, do ye not hear the law?

22 For it is written, that Abraham had two sons, the one by a bond-maid, the other by a free-woman.

23 But he who was of the bond-woman,

1 He declareth that by another double similitude, which he said before concerning the keeper & schoolmaster: for he saith, that the law (that is, the whole government of Gods house according to the law) was as it were a tutor or overseer appointed for a time, untill such time as that protection and overseeing which was but for a time, being ended, we should at length come to be at our own liberty, and should live as children, and not as servants. Moreover, he sheweth by the way, that that governance of the law, was as it were an A B C, and as certain principles, in comparison of the doctrin of the gospel. a This is added, because he that is always under a tutor or governour, may hardly be counted a freeman. b The law is called rudiments, because that by the law God instructed his church as it were by rudiments, and afterward poured out his holy Spirit most plentifully in the time of the gospel. 2 He uttereth and declareth many things at once, to wit, that this tutorship was ended at his time: that curious men may leave to ask, why that schoolmastership lasted so long. And moreover, that we are not sons by nature, but by adoption, and that in that Son of God, who therefore took upon him our flesh, that we might be made his brethren. c The time is said to be full, when all parts of it are past and ended, and therefore Christ could not have come either sooner or later. d He calleth Mary a woman, in respect of the sex, and not as the word is used in a contrary sence to a virgin, for she remained a virgin still. e The adoption of the sons of God is from everlasting, but is revealed and shewed in the time appointed for it. 3 He sheweth that we are in such sort free and set at liberty, that in the mean season we must be governed by the Spirit of Christ, which reigning in our hearts, may teach us the true service of the Father. But this is not to serve, but rather to enjoy true liberty, as it becometh sons and heirs.

f By that that follows, he gathereth that that went before: for if we have his spirit, we are his sons, and if we are his sons, then are we free.

g The holy Ghost, who is both of the Father, and of the Son: but there is a peculiar reason why he is called the Spirit of the Son: to wit, because the holy Ghost sealeth up our adoption in Christ, and maketh us a full assurance of it.

h The word, servant, is not taken here for one that liveth in sin, which is proper to the infidels, but for one that is yet under the ceremonies of the law, which is proper to the Jews.

i Partaker of his blessings.

4 He applieth the former doctrin to the Galatians, with a peculiar reprehension: for in comparison of them, the Jews might have pretended some excuse, as men that were born and brought up in that service, of the law: But seeing that the Galatians were taken and called out of idolatry to Christian liberty, what pretence might they have to go back to those impotent and beggerly rudiments?

‡ Or, back

k They are called impotent and beggerly ceremonies, being considered apart by themselvs without Christ: and again, for that by that means they gave good testimony that they were beggers in Christ, when as notwithstanding, for men to fall back from Christ to ceremonies, is nothing els, but to cast away riches, and to follow beggery.

‡ Or, rudiments,

l By going backward. 5 He mitigateth and qualifieth those things, wherein he might have seemed to have spoken somwhat sharply, very artifically, and divinely declaring his good will toward them in such sort, that the Galatians could not but either be utterly desperate when they read these things, or acknowledge their own lightness, with tears and desire pardon. m Many afflictions. n Those daily troubles wherewith the Lord tried me amongst you. o For my ministeries sake. Or, what was then? p what a talk was there abroad in the world amongst men, how happy you were? q For they are jealous over you for their own commodity. Or, us, r That they may convey all your love from me, to themselvs. s He setteth his own true and good love, which was earnestly bent toward them, against the naughty vicious love of the false apostles. t Use other words among you. ‡ Or, I am perplexed for you. 6 Because the false apostles urged this, that unless the Gentils were circumcised, Christ could profit them nothing at all, and this dissention of them which believed of the circumcision, against them which believed of the uncircumcision, was full of offence: the apostle after divers arguments, whereby he hath refuted their errour, bringeth forth an allegory: wherein he saith, the holy Ghost did shadow out unto us, all these mysteries: to wit, that it should come to pass, that two sorts or sons should have Abraham a father common to them both: but not with like success, for as Abraham begat Ismael, by the common course of nature, of Agar his bondmaid, and a stranger, and begat Isaac of Sara a free woman, by the vertue of the promise, and by grace onely, and the first was not onely, not heir, but also persecuted the heir: So there are two covenants, and as it were, two sons born to Abraham of those two covenants, as it were of two mothers, The one was made in Sinai, without the land of promise, according to which covenants Abrahams children according to the flesh were begotten, to wit, the Jews, which seek righteousness by that covenant, that is, by the law: but they are not heirs, nay they shall at length be cast out of the house, as they that persecute the true heirs. The other was made in that high Jerusalem, or in Sion (to wit, by the sacrifice of Christ) which begetteth children of promise, to wit, believers by the vertue of the holy Ghost, which children (as Abraham) do rest themselvs in the free promise, and they onely by the right of children shall be partakers of the fathers inheritance, and those servants shall be shut out. u That desire so greatly.

was born after the [x] fleſh: but he of the free-woman was by [y] promiſe.

24 Which things are an allegory; for [z] theſe are the two ‡ [a] covenants; the one from the mount [b] Sinai, which gendereth to bondage, which is Agar.

25 For this Agar is mount Sinai in Arabia, and ‡ [c] anſwereth to Jeruſalem which now is, and is in [d] bondage with her children.

26 But Jeruſalem which is [e] above, is free, which is the mother of us all.

27 [7] For it is written, * Rejoyce thou barren that beareſt not; break forth and cry, thou that travaileſt not, for the [f] deſolate hath many mo children than ſhe which hath an huſband.

28 Now we, brethren, [g] as Iſaac was, are the children of [h] promiſe.

29 But as then, he that was born after the [i] fleſh perſecuted him that was born after the [k] Spirit, even ſo it is now.

30 Nevertheleſs, what ſaith the ſcripture? * Caſt out the bond-woman and her ſon: for the ſon of the bond-woman ſhall not be heir with the ſon of the free-woman.

31 [8] So then, brethren, we are not children of the bond-woman, but of the free.

x As all men are, and by the common courſe of nature.
y By vertue of the promiſe, which Abraham laid hold on for himſelf and his true ſeed, for otherwiſe Abraham and Sara were paſt begetting & bearing of children z Theſe do repreſent and ſhadow forth.
‡ Or, teſtaments;
a They are called two covenants, the one of the old Teſtament, and the other of the new: which were not two indeed, but in reſpect of the times, and the diverſity of the government
b He meketh mention of Sinai, becauſe that covenant was made in that mountain: of which mountain Agar was a ſhadow.
‡ Or, is in the ſame rank with c Look how the one ſtandeth betwixt Agar and her children, even ſo ſtandeth it betweeu Jeruſalem and hers.
d That is, Sinai.
e which is excellent, and of great account. 7 He ſheweth that in this allegory he hath followed the ſteps of Eſay, who foretold that the church ſhould be made, and conſiſt of the children of barren Sara, that is to ſay, of them which onely ſpiritually ſhould be made Abrahams children by faith, rather than of fruitfull Agar, even then foreſhewing the caſting off of the Jews, and calling of the Gentils. * Iſa. 54. 1. f She that is deſtroyed and waſted. g After the manner of Iſaac, who is the firſt begotten of the heavenly Jeruſalem: as Iſhmael is of the ſlavish Synagogue. h That ſeed unto which the promiſe belongeth. i By the common courſe of nature. k By the vertue of Gods promiſe, and after a ſpirituall manner. * Gen. 21. 10.
8 The concluſion of the former allegory, that we by no means procure and call back again the ſlavery of the law, ſeeing that the children of the bondmaid ſhall not be heirs.

Chap. V.

1 He moveth them to ſtand in their liberty, 3 and not to obſerve circumciſion: 13 but rather love, which is the ſum of the law. 19 He reckoneth up the works of the fleſh, 22 and the fruits of the ſpirit, 25 and exhorteth to walk in the ſpirit.

STand faſt therefore in the liberty wherewith Chriſt hath made us free, and be not intangled again with the yoke of bondage.

1 Another obteſtation, wherein he plainly witneſſeth that juſtification of works, and juſtification of faith cannot ſtand together, becauſe no man can be juſtified by the law, but he that doth fully and perfectly fulfill it. And he taketh the example of circumciſion, becauſe it was the ground of all the ſervice of the law, and was chiefly urged of the falſe apoſtles.

2 [1] Behold, I Paul ſay unto you, that if ye be [a] circumciſed, Chriſt ſhall profit you nothing.

3 For I teſtify again to every man that is circumciſed, that he is a debtor to do the whole law.

4 Chriſt is become of no effect unto [b] you, whoſoever of you are [c] juſtified by the law; ye are fallen from grace.

5 [2] For we through the [d] Spirit wait for the hope of righteouſneſs by faith.

6 [3] For in Jeſus Chriſt, neither circumciſion availeth any thing, nor [4] uncircumciſion, [5] but [e] faith which worketh by love.

a Circumciſion is in other places called the ſeal of righteouſneſs, but here we muſt have conſideration of the circumſtance of the time, for now had baptiſm come in the place of circumciſion. And moreover Paul reaſoneth according to the opinion that his enemies had of it, which made circumciſion a piece of their ſalvation.
b That is, as he himſelf expoundeth it afterward, ye are fallen from grace. c That is, ſeek to be juſtified by the law, for indeed no man is juſtified by the law. 2 He privily compareth the new people with the old: for it is certain that they alſo did ground all their hope of juſtification and life in faith, and not in circumciſion, but ſo, that their faith was wrapped in the externall and ceremoniall worſhip: but our faith is bare, and content with ſpirituall worſhip. d Through the Spirit which ingendreth faith. 3 He addeth a reaſon, for that now circumciſion is abolished, ſeeing that Chriſt is exhibited unto us with full plenty of ſpirituall circumciſion. 4 He maketh mention alſo of uncircumciſion, leaſt the Gentils ſhould pleaſe themſelvs in it, as the Jews do in circumciſion. 5 The taking away of an objection: If all that worſhip of the law be taken away, wherein then ſhall we exerciſe our ſelvs? In charity, ſaith Paul: for faith, whereof we ſpeak, cannot be idle, nay it bringeth forth daily fruits of charity. e So is true faith diſtinguiſhed from counterfeit faith: for charity is not joyned with faith, as a fellow-cauſe, to help forward our juſtification with faith.

7 [6] Ye did run well, ‡ who did hinder you, that ye ſhould not obey the truth?

8 [7] This perſwaſion cometh not of [f] him that calleth you.

9 [8] A little leaven leaveneth the whole lump.

10 [9] I have confidence in you through the Lord, that you will be none otherwiſe minded; but he that troubleth you ſhall bear his judgement, whoſoever he be.

11 [10] And I, brethren, if I yet preach circumciſion, why do I yet ſuffer perſecution? then is the offence of the croſs ceaſed.

12 [11] I would they were even cut off which [g] trouble you.

13 For, brethren, ye have been called unto liberty; [12] onely uſe not liberty for an occaſion to the fleſh, but by love ſerve one another.

14 [13] For [h] all the law is fulfilled in one word, even in this: * Thou ſhalt love thy neighbour as thy ſelf.

15 [14] But if ye bite and devour one another, take heed that ye be not conſumed one of another.

16 [15] This I ſay then, Walk in the Spirit, and ‡ ye ſhall not fulfill the luſt of the fleſh.

17 For the [i] fleſh luſteth againſt the Spirit, and the ſpirit againſt the fleſh, and theſe are contrary the one to the other: ſo that ye cannot do the things that ye would.

18 But if ye be led by the Spirit, ye are not under the law.

19 [16] Now the works of the fleſh are manifeſt, which are theſe, Adultery, fornication, uncleanneſs, laſciviouſneſs,

20 Idolatry, witchcraft, hatred, variance, emulations, wrath, ſtrife, ſeditions, hereſies,

21 Envyings, murders, drunkenneſs, revellings, and ſuch like: of the which I tell you before, as I have alſo told you in time paſt, that they which do ſuch things, ſhall not inherit the kingdom of God.

22 But the [k] fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, long-ſuffering, gentleneſs, goodneſs, faith, 23 Meekneſs, temperance: [17] againſt ſuch there is no law.

24 And they that are Chriſts, have crucified the fleſh, with the ‡ affections and luſts.

25 If we [l] live in the Spirit, let us alſo walk in the Spirit.

26 [18] Let us not be deſirous of vain-glory, provoking one another, envying one another.

6 Again, he chideth the Galatians, but with an admiration, and therewithall a praiſe of their former race, to the end that he may make them more aſhamed.
‡ Or, who did drive you back?
7 He playeth the part of an apoſtle with them, and uſeth his authority, denying that that doctrin can come from God, which is contrary to his.
f Of God.
8 He addeth this, that they may not ſeem to contend upon a trifle, warning them diligently (by a ſimilitude, which he borroweth of leaven, as Chriſt himſelf alſo did) not to ſuffer the purity of the apoſtolicall doctrin to be infected with the leſt corruption that may be.
9 He mitigateth the former reprehenſion, caſting the fault upon the falſe apoſtles, againſt whom he denounceth the horrible judgements of God.
10 He willeth them to conſider how that he ſeeketh not his own profit in this matter ſeeing that he could eſchew the hatred of men, if he would joyn Judaiſm with Chriſtianity.
11 An example of a true paſtor inflamed with the zeal of Gods glory, and love of his flock.
g For they that preach the law, cauſe mens conſciences always to tremble.
12 The third part of this epiſtle, ſhewing that the right uſe of Chriſtian liberty conſiſteth in this, that being delivered, and ſet at liberty from the ſlavery of ſin, and the fleſh, and being obedient to the ſpirit, we ſhould ſerve unto one anothers ſalvation through love.
13 He propoundeth the love of our neighbour, as a mark whereunto all Chriſtians ought to refer all their actions, and thereunto he citeth the teſtimony of the law. h This particle (All) muſt be reſtrained to the ſecond table. * Lev. 19. 18. Matt. 22. 39. 14 An exhortation to the duties of charity, by the profit that enſueth thereof, becauſe that no men provide worſe for themſelvs than they that hate one another. 15 He acknowledgeth the great weakneſs of the godly, for that they are but in part regenerate: but he willeth them to remember that they are endued with the Spirit of God, which hath delivered them from the ſlavery of ſin, and ſo of the law, ſo far forth as it is the vertue of ſin, that they ſhould not give themſelvs to luſts. ‡ Or, fulfill not i For the fleſh dwelleth even in the regenerate man, but the Spirit reigneth, although not without great ſtrife, as is largely ſet forth, Rom 7. 16 He ſetteth out that particularly, which he ſpake generally, reckoning up ſome chief effects of the fleſh, and oppoſing them to the fruits of the ſpirit, that no man may pretend ignorance. k Therefore they are not the fruits of freewill, but ſo far forth as our will is made free by grace. 17 Leaſt that any man ſhould object that Paul playeth the Sophiſter, as one who urging the Spirit, urgeth nothing but that which the law commandeth, he ſheweth that he requireth, not that literall and outward obedience, but ſpirituall, which proceedeth not from the law, but from the Spirit of Chriſt, which doth beget us again, and muſt and ought to be the ruler and guider of our life. ‡ Or, paſſions l If we be indeed endued with the quickening Spirit, which cauſeth us to die to ſin, and live to God, let us ſhew it in our deeds, that is, by holineſs of life. 18 He addeth peculiar exhortations, according as he knew the Galatians ſubject to divers vices: and firſt of all, he warneth them to take heed of ambition, which vice hath two fellows, back-biting, and envie, out of which two it cannot be but many contentions muſt needs ariſe.

CHAP. VI.

1 He moveth them to deal mildly with a brother that hath slipped, 2 and to bear one anothers burden, 6 to be liberall to their teachers, 9 and not weary of well-doing. 12 He sheweth what they intend that preach circumcision. 14 He glorieth in nothing, save in the cross of Christ.

BRethren, ‡ [1] if a man be [a] overtaken in a fault, ye which are [b] spirituall, [c] restore such an one in the [d] spirit of meekness; [2] considering thy self, least thou also be tempted.

2 [3] Bear ye one anothers burdens, and so fulfill the [e] law of Christ.

3 For if a man think himself to be somthing, when he is nothing, he deceiveth himself.

4 But let every man prove his own work, and then shall he have rejoycing in himself alone, and not in another.

5 [4] For every man shall bear his own burden.

6 [5] Let him that is taught in the word, communicate unto him that teacheth, in [f] all good things.

7 [6] Be not deceived, God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap.

8 For he that soweth to his [g] flesh, shall of the flesh reap corruption: but he that soweth to the Spirit, shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting.

9 [7] And let us not be weary in well-doing: for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not.

10 [8] As we have therefore opportunity, let us do good unto all men, especially unto them who are of the houshold of faith.

11 [9] Ye see how large a letter I have written unto you with mine own hand.

12 ¶ As many as desire to make a [h] fair shew in the [i] flesh, they constrain you to be circumcised: onely least they should suffer persecution for the [k] cross of Christ.

13 For neither they themselvs who are circumcised keep the law, but desire to have you circumcised, that they may glory in your [l] flesh.

14 [10] But God forbid that I should [m] glory save in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ, ‡ by whom the world is crucified unto me, and I unto the world!

15 For in Christ Jesus neither circumcision availeth any thing, nor uncircumcision, but a new creature.

16 And as many as walk according to this rule, peace be on them, and mercy, and upon the [n] Israel of God.

17 ¶ [11] From henceforth let no man trouble me; for I bear in my body the [o] marks of the [p] Lord Jesus.

18 [12] Brethren, the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with your [q] spirit. Amen.

¶ Unto the Galatians, written from Rome.

‡ Or, although

1 He condemneth importunate rigour, because that brotherly reprehensions ought to be moderated and tempered by the spirit of meekness.

a Through the malice of the flesh, and the devil.

b which are upholden by the vertue of Gods Spirit.

c Labour to fill up that that is wanting in him.

d This is a kind of speech which the Hebrews use, giving to understand thereby, that all good gifts come from God.

2 He toucheth the sore: for they commonly are most severe judges, which forget their own infirmities.

3 He sheweth that this is the end of reprehentions, to raise up our brother which is fallen, and not proudly to oppress him. Therefore every one must seek to have commendation of his own life by approving of himself, and not by reprehending others. c Christ, in plain and flat words, calleth the commandment of charity his commandment. 4 A reason wherefore men ought to have the greatest eye upon themselvs, because that every man shall be judged before God, according to his own life, and not by comparing himself with other men. 5 It is meet that masters should be found by their scholars, so far forth as they are able. f Of whatsoever he hath, according to his ability. 6 He commendeth liberality towards the poor, and first of all chideth them which were not ashamed to pretend this and that, and all because they would not help their neighbours, as though they could deceive God: and afterward compareth alms to a spirituall sowing which shall have a most plentifull harvest, so that it shall be very profitable: and compareth covetous niggardliness to a carnall sowing, whereof nothing can be gathered but such things as fade away, and perish by and by. g To the commodities of this present life. 7 Against such as are liberall at the beginning, but continue not, because the harvest seemeth to be deferred very long, as though the seed time and the harvest were at one instant.

8 They that are of the houshold of faith, that is, such as are joyned with us in the profession of one self same religion, ought to be preferred before all other, yet so notwithstanding that our liberality extend to all.

9 The fourth and last part of the Epistle, wherein he returneth to his principall end and purpose, to wit, that the Galatians should not suffer themselvs to be led out of the way by the false apostles: and he painteth out those false apostles in their colours, reproving them of ambition, as men that do not that which they do, for any affection or zeal they have to the law, but onely for this purpose, that they may purchase themselvs favour amongst their own sort by the circumcision of the Galatians.

h He setteth a fair shew against the truth.

i In keeping of ceremonies.

k For the preaching of him that was crucified.

l That they have entangled you in Judaism, and yet he harpeth on the form of circumcision.

10 He flicketh not to compare himself with them, shewing, that on the contrary part, he rejoyceth in those afflictions which he suffereth for Christs sake, and as he is despised of the world, so doth he in like sort esteem the world as nought: which is the true circumcision of a true Israelite.

m when Paul useth this word in good sense, or part, it signifieth to rest a mans self wholly in a thing, and to content himself therewith. ‡ Or, whereby n Upon the true Israel, whose praise is of God, and not of man, Rom. 2 29. 11 Continuing still in the same Metaphor, he opposeth his miseries and the marks of those stripes which he bare for Christs sake, against the scar of the outward circumcision, as a true mark of his apostleship. o Marks which are burnt into a mans flesh, as they used in old time, to mark their servants that had run away from them.

p For it importeth much, whose marks we bear: for the cause maketh the Martyr, and not the punishment. 12 Taking his farewell of them, he wisheth them grace, and the spirit, against the deceits of the false apostles, which laboured to bear those outward things into their brains.

The Epistle of PAUL the Apostle TO THE EPHESIANS.

CHAP. I.

1 After the salutation, 3 and thanksgiving for the Ephesians, 4 he treateth of our election, 6 and adoption by grace, 11 which is the true ad proper fountain of mans salvation. 15 And because the height of this mystery cannot easily be attained unto, 16 he prayeth that they may come 18 to the full knowledge and 20 possession thereof in Christ.

1 The inscription and salutation, whereof we have spoken in the former epistles.

a This is the definition of the saints, shewing what they are.

PAul an apostle of Jesus Christ by the will of God, to the saints which are at Ephesus, and to the [a] faithfull in Christ Jesus:

2 Grace be to you, and peace from God our Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ.

2 The first part of the epistle, wherein he handleth all the parts of our salvation, propounding the example of the Ephesians, and using divers exhortations, and beginning after his manner with thanksgiving. 3 The efficient cause of our salvation is God, not considered confusedly and generally, but as the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ.

3 [2] Blessed be the God [3] and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, [4] who hath blessed us with [b] all spirituall blessings in [c] heavenly places in [5] Christ:

4 [6] According as he hath chosen us in [c] him, before the foundation of the world, [7] that we [c] should be [f] holy, and without blame [g] before him in love:

5 [8] Having predestinated us unto the adoption of children by Jesus Christ to [h] himself,

4 The next finall cause, and in respect of us, is our salvation, all things being bestowed upon us which are necessary to our salvation, which kind of blessing is heavenly, & proper to the elect.

b with all kind of gracious and bountifull goodness which is heavenly indeed, and from God onely. c which God our Father gave us from his high throne from above: or, because the saints have those gifts bestowed on them, which belong properly unto the citizens of heaven. 5 The matter of our salvation is Christ, in whom onely we are indued with spirituall blessings and unto salvation. 6 He declareth the efficient cause, or by what means God the Father saveth us in his Son: Because, saith he, he chose us from everlasting in his Son. d To be adopted in him. 7 He expoundeth the next finall cause, which he maketh double, to wit, sanctification, and justification, whereof he will speak hereafter. And hereby also two things are to be noted, to wit, that holiness of life cannot be separated from the grace of election: and again, what pureness soever is in us, is the gift of God, who hath freely of his mercy chosen us. e Then God did not chuse us, because we were, or otherwise should have been holy, but to the end we should be holy. f Being clothed with Christs righteousness. g Truly and sincerely. 8 Another plainer exposition of the efficient cause, and also of eternall election, whereby God is said to have chosen us in Christ, to wit, because it pleased him to appoint us out when we were not yet born, whom he would make to be his children by Jesus Christ: so that there is no reason here of our election to be sought, but in the free mercy of God, neither is faith which God foresaw, the cause of our predestination, but the effect. h God respecteth nothing, either that present is, or that is to come, but himself onely.

accord-

according to the good plaeſure of his will:

6 [9] To the [i] praiſe of the glory of his grace, [10] wherein he hath made us accepted in the beloved.

7 [11] In whom we have redemption through his bloud, the forgiveneſs of ſins; according to the riches of his grace,

8 [12] [k] Wherein he hath abounded toward us in [l] all wiſdom and prudence:

9 Having made known unto us the [m] myſtery of his will, [13] according to his good pleaſure, which he hath purpoſed in himſelf.

10 [14] That in the diſpenſation of the fulneſs of times, he might gather [n] together in one all things in Chriſt, both which are in ‡ heaven, and which are on earth, even in him:

11 [15] In whom alſo we have obtained an inheritance, being predeſtinated according to the purpoſe of him, who worketh [o] all things after the counſel of his own will:

12 That we ſhould be to the praiſe of his glory, who [p] firſt ‡ truſted in Chriſt.

13 [16] In whom ye alſo truſted after that ye heard the [q] word of truth, the goſpel of your ſalvation: in whom alſo after that ye believed, ye were [r] ſealed with that holy [r] Spirit of promiſe, 14 Which is the earneſt of our inheritance, untill the [s] redemption of the purchaſed poſſeſſion, unto the praiſe of his glory.

15 [17] Wherefore I alſo, after I heard of your faith in the Lord Jeſus, & love unto all the ſaints

16 Ceaſe not to give thanks for you, making mention of you in my prayers,

17 [18] That the God of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, the Father of [u] glory, may give unto you the Spirit of wiſdom and revelation, ‡ [x] in the knowledge of him:

18 The eyes of your underſtanding being enlightned: that ye may know what is the [y] hope of his calling, and what the riches of the glory of his inheritance in the ſaints:

19 [19] And what is the exceeding greatneſs of his power to us-ward who believe, according to the working † of his mighty power:

20 [20] Which he wrought in Chriſt, when he raiſed him from the dead, and ſet him at his own [z] right hand in the heavenly places,

21 Far above all principality, and power, and might, and dominion, and every [a] name that is named, not onely in this world, but alſo in that which is to come:

22 [21] And hath put all things under his feet, and gave him to be the [b] head over all things to the church,

23 Which is his body, the [c] fulneſs of him that filleth all in all.

9 The uttermoſt and chiefeſt finall cauſe is the glory of God the Father, who ſaveth us freely in his Son.
i That as his bountifull goodneſs deſerveth all praiſe, ſo alſo it ſhould be ſet forth & publiſhed.
10 Another finall cauſe more near, is our juſtification, while that he freely accounteth us for juſt in his Son.
11 An expounding of the materiall cauſe, how we are made acceptable to God in Chriſt, for it is he onely whoſe ſacrifice by the mercy of God is imputed unto us, for forgiveneſs of ſins.
12 Now he cometh at length to the formall cauſe, that is to ſay, To vocation, or preaching the goſpel, whereby God executeth that eternal counſell of our free reconciliation and ſalvation in Chriſt, & putting in place of the goſpel all wiſdom & underſtanding, he ſheweth how excellent it is.
k By which gracious goodneſs & bountifulneſs.
l In perfect and found wiſdom.
m For unleſs the Lord had opened unto us that myſtery, we could never have ſo much as dreamed of it our ſelvs.
13 Not onely the election, but alſo the vocation proceedeth of meer grace.
14 The Father exhibited and gave Chriſt, who is the head of all the Eleſt unto the world, at that time which was convenient, according as he moſt wiſely diſpoſed all times from everlaſting. And Chriſt is he, in whom all the eleſt from the beginning of the world, (otherwiſe wandering and ſeparated from God) are gathered together: of which ſome were then in heaven, when he came into the eaith, (to wit, ſuch as by faith in him to come, were gathered together) and others being found upon the earth, were gathered together of him, and the reſt are daily gathered together. n The faithfull are ſaid to be gathered together in Chriſt, becauſe they are joyned together with him through faith, and become as it were one man. ‡ Gr. the heavens, 15 He applieth ſeverally the benefit of vocation to the believing Iews, going back to the very fountain, that even they alſo may not attribute their ſalvation, neither to themſelvs, nor to their ſtock, nor any other thing, but to the onely grace and mercy of God, both becauſe they were called, and alſo becauſe they were firſt called. o All things are attributed to the grace of God, without exception, and yet for all that, we are not ſtocks, for he giveth us grace both to will, and to be able to do thoſe things that are good, Phil. 2 13. p He ſpeaketh of the Jews. ‡ Or, hoped 16 Now he maketh the Epheſians (or rather all the Gentiles) equall to the Jews, becauſe that notwithſtanding they came laſt, yet being called by the ſame goſpel, they embraced it by faith, & were ſealed up with the ſame ſpirit, which is the pledge of election, untill the inheritance it ſelf be ſeen, that in them alſo the glory of God might ſhine forth and be manifeſted. q That word which is truth indeed, becauſe it cometh from God. r This is a borrowed kind of ſpeech taken of a ſeal, which being put to any thing, maketh difference between thoſe things that are authenticall, and others that are not. ſ with that ſpirit, which bringeth not the law, but the promiſe of free adoption. t Full and perfect. 17 He returneth to the former gratulation, concluding two things together of thoſe things that went before, the firſt is, that all good things come to us from God, the Father in Chriſt, and by Chriſt, that for them he may be praiſed of us. The ſecond is, that all thoſe things (which he bringeth to two heads, to wit, faith and charity) are increaſed in us by certain degrees, ſo that we muſt deſire increaſe of his grace, from whom we have the beginning, and of whom we hope for the end. 18 The cauſes of faith, are God the Father lightning our minds with his holy Spirit, that we may embrace Chriſt opened unto us in the goſpel, to the obtaining of everlaſting life, and the ſetting forth of Gods glory. u Full of majeſty † Or, for the acknowledgement x For it is not enough for us to have known God once, but we muſt know him every day more & more. y what bleſſings they are which he calleth you to hope for, whom he calleth to Chriſt. 19 The excellency of faith is declared by the effects, becauſe the mighty power of God is ſet forth and ſhewed therein. † Gr. of the might of his power: 20 The apoſtle willeth us to behold in our moſt glorious Chriſt, with the eyes of faith, that moſt excellent power and glory, of God, whereof all the faithfull are partakers, although it be as yet very dark in us, by reaſon of the ignominy of the croſs, and the weakneſs of the fleſh. z To be ſet on Gods right hand is to be partaker of the ſoveraignty which he hath over all creatures.

a Every thing whatſoever it be, or above all things, be they of never ſo much power or excellency.
21 That we ſhould not think that that excellent glory of Chriſt is a thing wherewith we have nought to do, he witneſſeth, that he was appointed of God the Father, head of all the church, & therefore thing without the body muſt be joyned to this head, which otherwiſe would be a maimed members: which notwithſtanding is not of neceſſity (ſeeing that the church is rather quickned and ſuſtained by the onely vertue of Chriſt, ſo far off is it, that he needeth the fulneſs thereof) but of the infinite good will and pleaſure of God, who vouchſafeth to joyn us to his Son. b Inſomuch that there is nothing but is ſubject unto him. c For the love of Chriſt is ſo great toward the church, that though he do fully ſtifly all with all things, yet eſteemeth himſelf but a maimed and unperfect head, unleſs he have the church joyned to him as his body.

Chap. II.

1 By comparing what we were by 3 nature, with what we are 5 by grace, 10 he declareth, that we are made for good works; and 13 being brought near by Chriſt, ſhould not live as 11 Gentiles and 12 forreiners in time paſt, but as 19 citizens with the ſaints, and the family of God.

AND [1] you hath he quickened who were [a] dead in [2] treſpaſſes and ſins,

2 [3] Wherein in time paſt ye walked [4] according to the courſe of this world, [b] according to the prince of the power of the air, the ſpirit that now [5] worketh in the [c] children of diſobedience.

3 [6] Among whom alſo we all had our converſation in times paſt, in the luſts of our [d] fleſh, fulfilling † the deſires of the fleſh, and of the mind, and [7] were by nature the [e] children of wrath, even as [f] others.

4 [8] But God who is rich in mercy, for his great love wherewith he loved us,

5 Even when we were dead in ſins hath quickened us together with Chriſt, (by grace ye are ſaved)

6 And hath raiſed us up [g] together, and made us ſit together in heavenly places in Chriſt Jeſus.

7 That in the ages to come he might ſhew the exceeding riches of his grace, in his kindneſs toward us, through Chriſt Jeſus.

8 For by [h] grace are ye ſaved, through faith, and that not of your ſelvs: it is the gift of God.

9 [9] Not of works, leaſt any man ſhould boaſt:

10 For we are his [i] workmanſhip, created in Chriſt Jeſus unto good works, which God hath before ‡ ordained that we ſhould walk in them.

11 [10] wherefore remember that ye being in

1 He declareth again the greatneſs of Gods good will, by comparing that miſerable ſtate wherein we are born, with that dignity whereunto we are advanced by God the Father in Chriſt. So that he deſcribeth that condition in ſuch ſort, that he ſith that touching ſpirituall motions we are not onely born half dead, but wholly and altogether dead. a Look Rom. 6. 2. So then he calleth them dead, which are not regenerate: for as the immortality of them which are damned is no life: ſo this knitting together of body and ſoul, is properly no life but death in them which are not ruled by the Spirit of God.
2 He ſheweth the cauſe of death, to wit, ſins.
3 He proveth by the effects, that all were ſpiritually dead.
4 He proveth this evil to be univerſall, inſomuch as all are ſlaves of Satan.
b At the pleaſure of the prince.
5 Men are therefore ſlaves to Satan, becauſe they are willingly rebellious againſt God.
c They are called the children of diſobedience, which are given to diſobedience. 6 After that he hath ſeverally condemned the Gentiles, he confeſſeth that the Jews amongſt whom he numbreth himſelf, are not a whit better. d By the name of fleſh, in the firſt place, he meaneth the whole man, which he divideth into two parts: into the fleſh, which is the part that the philoſophers term without reaſon, and into the thought, which they call reaſonable: ſo that he leaveth nothing in man half dead, but concludeth that the whole man is of nature the ſon of wrath ‡ Gr. the wills 7 The concluſion: All men were born ſubject to the wrath and curſe of God. e Men are ſaid to be the children of wrath paſſively, that is to ſay, guilty of everlaſting death, by the judgement of God, who is angry with them. f Profane people which knew not God. 8 Now hereof followeth another member of the compariſon, declaring our excellency, to wit, that by the vertue of Chriſt we are delivered from that death, and made partakers of eternall life, to the end that at length we may reign with him. And by divers and ſundry means he beateth this into their heads, that the efficient cauſe of this benefit is the free mercy of God: and Chriſt himſelf is the materiall cauſe: and faith is the inſtrument, which alſo is the free gift of God: and the end is Gods glory. g To wit, as he addeth afterward, in Chriſt, for as yet this is not fulfilled in us, but onely in our head by whoſe ſpirit we have begun to die to ſin, and live to God, untill that work be fully brought to an end: but yet the hope is certain, for we are as ſure of that we look for, as we are of that we have received already. h So then grace, that is to ſay, the gift of God, and faith, do ſtand one with another, to which two theſe are contrary, to be ſaved by our ſelvs, or by our works. Therefore what mean they which would joyn together things of contrary nature? 9 He taketh away expreſſly, and namely from our works, the praiſe of juſtification, ſeeing that the good works themſelvs are the effects of grace in us. i He ſpeaketh here of grace, and not of nature: therefore be the works never ſo good, look what they are, it is of grace. ‡ Or, prepared 10 Applying the former doctrin to the Gentiles, he ſheweth that they were not onely as the Jews by nature, but alſo after an eſpeciall ſort, ſtrangers and without God: therefore they ought ſo much the rather to remember that ſame ſo great a benefit of God.

k You were called no otherwise than Gentiles, that all the world might witness of your uncleanness.
l Of the Jews which were known from you by the mark of circumcision, the mark of the covenant.
m He beginneth first with Christ, who was the end of all the promises.
n You had no right or title to the commonwealth of Israel.
11 Christ is the onely bond of the Jews and Gentiles, whereby they be reconciled to God.
12 As by the ceremonies and worship appointed by the law, the Jews were divided from the Gentiles, so now Christ, having broken down the partition-wall joyneth them both together, both in himself, and betwixt themselves, and to God. whereby it followeth, that whosoever establisheth the ceremonies of the law, maketh the grace of Christ void, and of none effect.
o He alludeth to the sacrifices of the law, which represented that true and onely sacrifice.
p For he destroyed death by death, and fastened it, as is were, to the cross. ‡ Or, in himself: 13 The preaching of the gospel is an effectuall instrument of this grace, common as well to the Jews, as to the Gentiles. q Christ is the gate, as it were, by whom we come to the Father, and the holy Ghost, is, as it were, our loadsman who leadeth us. 14 The conclusion: The Gentiles are taken into the fellowship of salvation' and he describeth the excellency of the church, calling it the city and house of God. 15 The Lord committed the doctrin of salvation, first to the prophets, and then to the apostles, the end whereof, and matter, as it were, and substance, is Christ. Therefore that is indeed the true and Catholique church, which is builded upon Christ by the prophets and apostles, as a spirituall temple consecrated to God. † That is, the head of the building, for the foundations are, as it were, the heads of the building. § So that God is the workman not onely of the foundation, but also of the whole building.

time passed Gentiles in the flesh, who are [k] called uncircumcision by that which is [l] called the circumcision in the flesh made by hands:

12 That at that time ye were [m] † without Christ, being [n] aliens from the commonwealth of Israel, and strangers from the covenants of promise, having no hope, and without God in the world.

13 [11] But now in Christ Jesus, ye who sometimes were far off, are made nigh by the bloud of Christ.

14 [12] For he is our peace, who hath made both one, and hath broken down the middle wall of partition between us:

15 Having abolished in his flesh the enmity, even the law of commandments, contained in ordinances, for to make in himself, of twain, one new man, so making peace.

16 And that he might reconcile both unto God in [o] one body by the cross, having [p] slain the enmity ‡ thereby:

17 [13] And came, and preached peace to you which were afar off, and to them that were nigh.

18 For [q] through him we both have an access by one Spirit unto the Father.

19 [14] Now therefore ye are no more strangers and forreiners, but fellow-citizens with the saints, and of the houshold of God;

20 [15] And are built upon the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Jesus Christ himself being the [r] chief corner-stone,

21 In whom all the [s] building fitly framed together, groweth unto an holy temple in the Lord:

22 In whom you also are built together for an habitation of God through the Spirit.

Chap. III.

5 The hidden mysterie, 6 that the Gentiles should be saved, 3 was known to Paul by revelation: 8 and to him was that grace given, that 9 he should preach it. 13 He desireth them not to faint for his tribulation, 14 and prayeth 19 that they may perceive the great love of Christ toward them.

1 He maintaineth his apostleship against the offence of the cross, whereon also he taketh an argument to confirm himself, affirming that he was not onely appointed an apostle by the mercy of God, but was also particularly appointed to the Gentiles to call them on every side to salvation, because God had so determined it from the beginning, although he deferred a great while the manifestation of that his counsel a These words the prisoner of Iesus Christ, are taken passively, that is to say, I Paul am cast into prison for maintaining the glory of Christ. ‡ Or, a little before b He meaneth not, that none knew the calling of the Gentiles before, but because very few knew of it, and they that did know it, as the prophets, had it revealed unto them very darkly and under figures.

FOr [1] this cause, I Paul, the [a] prisoner of Jesus Christ for you Gentiles;

2 If ye have heard of the dispensation of the grace of God, which is given me to you-ward:

3 How that by revelation he made known unto me the mystery, (as I wrote ‡ afore in few words,

4 Whereby when ye read ye may understand my knowledge of the mystery of Christ)

5 Which in [b] other ages was not made known unto the sons of men, as it is now revealed unto his holy apostles and prophets by the Spirit;

6 That the Gentiles should be fellow-heirs, and of the same body, and partakers of his promise in Christ, by the gospel:

7 Whereof I was made a minister, according to the gift of the grace of God, given unto me, by the effectuall working of his power.

8 Unto me, who am less than the least of all saints, is this grace given, that I should preach among the Gentiles the unsearchable riches of Christ,

9 And to make all men see, what is the fellowship of the mysterie, which from the beginning of the world, hath been hid in God, who created all things by Jesus Christ:

10 [2] To the intent that now unto the principalities and powers in heavenly places, might be known by the church the [c] manifold wisdom of God,

11 According to the [d] eternall purpose which he purposed in Christ Jesus our Lord:

12 In whom we have boldness and access with confidence by the faith of him.

13 Wherefore I desire that ye faint not at my tribulations for you, which is your glory.

14 [3] For this cause I bow my knees unto the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ,

15 Of whom the whole [e] family in heaven and earth is named,

16 That he would grant you according to the [f] riches of his glory, to be strengthened with might, by his Spirit in the [g] inner man:

17 That Christ may dwell in your hearts by faith, that ye being rooted and grounded in [h] love,

18 May be able to comprehend with all saints, [i] what is the breadth, and length, and depth, and height:

19 And to know the [k] love of Christ, which [l] passeth knowledge, that ye might be filled with all the [m] fulness of God.

20 [4] Now unto him that is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think, according to the power that worketh in us,

21 Unto him be glory in the church by Christ Jesus, throughout all ages, world without end. Amen.

2 The unlooked for calling of the Gentiles, was as it were a glass to the heavenly angels, wherein they might behold the marvellous wisdom of God.
c God never had but one way onely to save men by: but it had divers fashions & forms.
d which was before all beginnings.
3 He teacheth by his own example, that the efficacy of the doctrin dependeth upon the grace of God, and therefore we ought to joyn prayers with the preaching and hearing of the word: which are needfull not onely to them which are young yet in religion, but even to the oldest also; that they growing up more and more by faith in Christ, being confirmed with all spirituall gifts, may be grounded and rooted in the knowledge of that immeasurable love, wherewith God the Father hath loved us in Christ, seeing that the whole family, whereof part is already received into heaven, and part is yet here on earth, dependeth upon that adoption of the heavenly Father, in his onely Son.
e All that whole people, which had but one houshold-Father, and that is the church, which is adopted in Christ. f According to the greatness of his mercy. g Look Rom. 7. 22. h wherewith God loveth us, which is the root of our election. i How perfect that work of Christ is in every part. k which God hath shewed us in Christ. l which passeth all the capacitie of mans wit, to comprehend it fully in his mind: for otherwise who so hath the spirit of God perceiveth so much (according to the measure that God hath given him) as is sufficient to salvation. m So that we have abundantly in us whatsoever things are requisite to make us perfect with God. 4 He breaketh forth into a thanksgiving, whereby the Ephesians also may be confirmed to hope for any thing of God.

Chap. IV.

1 He exhorteth to unity, 7 and declareth that God therefore giveth divers 11 gifts unto men, that his church might be 13 edified and 16 grow up in Christ. 18 He called them from the impurity of the Gentiles, 24 to put on the new man, 25 to cast off lying, and 29 corrupt communication.

1 Another part of the epistle, containing precepts of Christians life, the sum whereof is this, that every man behave himself as it is meet for so excellent grace of God.
1 Or, in the Lord,
a By this is meant the generall calling of the faithfull, which ought to be holy as our God is holy.
2 Secondly, he commendeth meekness of the mind, which is shewed forth by bearing one with another. b Look Matt. 18. 25. &c. 3 Thirdly, he requireth perfect agreement, but yet such as is knit with the band of the holy Ghost. 4 An argument of great waight, for an earnest entertaining of brotherly love and charity one with another, because we are made one body, as it were, of one God and Father, by one Spirit, worshipping one Lord, with one faith, and consecrated to him with one baptism, and hope of one self-same glory, whereunto we are called. Therefore whosoever breaketh charity, breaketh all these things asunder.

I [1] Therefore the prisoner ‡ of the Lord, beseech you that ye walk worthy of the [a] vocation wherewith ye are called,

2 [2] With all lowliness & meekness, with [b] long-suffering, forbearing one another in love:

3 [3] Endeavouring to keep the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace.

4 [4] There is one body, and one Spirit, even as ye are called in one hope of your calling:

5 One Lord, one faith, one baptiſm,
6 One God and Father of all, who is [c] above all, and [d] through all, and [e] in you all.
7 [5] But unto every one of us is given grace according to the meaſure of the [f] gift of Chriſt.
8 Wherefore he ſaith, * When he aſcended up on high, he led [g] captivity captive, and gave gifts unto men.
9 (Now that he aſcended, what is it but that he alſo deſcended firſt into the [h] lower parts of the earth?
10 He that deſcended, is the ſame alſo that aſcended up far above all heavens, that he might ‡ [i] fill [k] all things)
11 * [6] And he gave ſome, [l] apoſtles; and ſome, [m] prophets; and ſome, [n] evangeliſts; and ſome, [o] paſtors and teachers;
12 [7] For the perfecting of the ſaints, for the work of the miniſtery, for the edifying of the [p] body of Chriſt:
13 [8] Till we all come ‡ in the [q] unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God, unto a perfect man, unto the meaſure of the ‡ [r] ſtature of the fulneſs of Chriſt;
14 [9] That we henceforth be no more children, [10] toſſed to and fro, and carried about with every wind of doctrin, by the [t] ſleight of men, and [t] cunning craftineſs, whereby they lie in wait to deceive:
15 [11] But ‡ ſpeaking the truth in love, may grow up into him in all things, which is the head, even Chriſt:
16 * From whom the whole body fitly joyned together, and compacted by that which every joynt ſupplieth, according to the [u] effectuall working in the meaſure of every part, maketh [x] increaſe of the body, unto the edifying of it ſelf in [y] love.
17 ¶ [12] This I ſay therefore and teſtify in the Lord, that ye henceforth walk not as other Gentiles walk in the [z] vanity of their mind,
18 Having the underſtanding darkened, being alienated from the [a] life of God, through the ignorance that is in them, becauſe of the * ‡ blindneſs of their heart:
19 Who being [b] paſt feeling, have given themſelvs over unto laſciviouſneſs, to work all uncleanneſs with [c] greedineſs.
20 [13] But ye have not ſo learned Chriſt:
21 If ſo be that ye have heard him, and have been taught by him [d] as the truth in Jeſus:
22 That ye put off concerning the former converſation, [e] the old man, which is corrupt according to the deceitfull luſts:
23 And be renewed in the [f] ſpirit of your mind:
24 And that ye put on the new man, which [g] after God is [h] created in righteouſneſs, and [i] true holineſs.
25 [14] Wherefore putting away lying, ſpeak every man truth with his neighbour: for we are members one of another.
26 [15] Be ye [k] angry and ſin not, let not the ſun go down [l] upon your wrath:
27 Neither give place to the devil.
28 [16] Let him that ſtole, ſteal no more: but rather let him labour, working with his hands the thing which is [m] good, that he may have ‡ to give to him that needeth.
29 [17] Let no [n] corrupt communication proceed out of your mouth, but that which is good ‡ to the uſe of edifying, that it may miniſter [o] grace unto the hearers.
30 [18] And grieve not the holy Spirit of God, whereby ye are ſealed unto the day of redemption.
31 Let all bitterneſs, and wrath, and anger, and clamour, and evil-ſpeaking be put away from you, with all malice.
32 * And be ye kind one to another, tender-hearted, forgiving one another, even [19] as God for Chriſts ſake hath forgiven you.

c who onely hath the chief authority over the church.
d who onely poureth forth his providence, through all the members of the church.
e who onely is joyned together with us in Chriſt.
5 He teacheth us, that we indeed are all one body; and that all good gifts proceed from Chriſt onely, who reigneth in heaven, having mightily conquered all his enemies (from whence he heapeth all gifts upon his church:) but yet notwithſtanding theſe gifts are diverſly and ſundry ways divided according to his will and pleaſure, and therefore every man ought to be content with that meaſure that God hath given him, and to follow it to the common profit of the whole body.

6 Firſt of all he reckoneth up the eccleſiaſticall functions, which are partly extraordinary and for a ſeaſon, as apoſtles, prophets, evangeliſts, and partly, ordinary and perpetuall, as paſtors and doctors.
l The apoſtles were thoſe twelve, unto whom Paul was afterward added, whoſe office was to plant churches throughout all the world.
m The prophets office was one of the chiefeſt, which were men of marvellous wiſdom, and ſome of them could foretell things to come.
n Theſe the apoſtles uſed as fellows in the execution of their office, being not able to anſwer all places themſelvs.
o Paſtors are they which govern the church, and teachers are they which govern the ſchools.
7 He ſheweth the end of eccleſiaſticall functions, to wit, that by the miniſtery of men all the ſaints may ſo grow up together, that they may make one myſticall body of Chriſt.
p The church.
8 The uſe of this miniſtery is perpetuall, ſo long as we are in this world, that is, untill that time that having put off the fleſh, and throughly and perfectly agreeing betwixt our ſelvs, we ſhall be joyned with Chriſt our head. which thing is don by that knowledge of the Son of God increaſing in us, and he himſelf by little and little growing up in us, untill we come to be a perfect man, which ſhall be in the world to come, when God ſhall be all in all. Or, into the unity
q In that moſt near conjunction which is knit and faſtened together by faith.
‡ Or, age
r Chriſt is ſaid to grow up to full ſtature, not in himſelf, but in us.
9 Betwixt our childhood (that is to ſay, a very weak ſtate, while as yet we do altogether waver) and our perfect age, which we ſhall have at length in another world there is a mean, to wit, our youth, and ſteady going forward to perfection.
10 He compareth them, which reſt not themſelvs upon the word of God, to little boars which are toſſed hither and thither with the doctrins of men, as it were, with contrary winds, and therewithall forewarneth them, that it cometh to paſs not onely by the lightneſs of mans brain, but alſo by the craftineſs of certain, which make as it were an art of it.
s with thoſe uncertain chances which toſs men to and fro.
t By the deceit of thoſe men which are very well practiſed in deceiving of others.
11 By earneſt affection of the truth and love, we grow up into Chriſt: for he (being effectuall by the miniſtery of his word, which as the vitall ſpirit doth ſo quicken the whole body, that it nouriſheth all the limbs thereof according to the meaſure and proportion of each one) quickeneth and cheriſheth his church, which conſiſteth of divers functions, as of divers members, & preſerveth the proportion of every one. And thereof it followeth, that neither this body can live without Chriſt, neither can any man grow up ſpiritually, which ſeparateth himſelf from the other members.

u Of Chriſt, who, in manner of the ſoul, quickeneth all the members.
x Such increaſe as is meet the body ſhould have.
y Charity is the knitting of the limbs together.
12 He deſcendeth to the fruits of Chriſtian doctrin, and reaſoneth firſt upon the principles of manners and actions, ſetting down a moſt grave compariſon between the children of God, and them which are not regenerate: For in theſe men, all the powers of the mind are corrupted, and their mind is given to vanity, and their ſenſes are darkened with moſt groſs miſtineſs, and their affections are ſo accuſtomed by little and little to wickedneſs, that at length they run headlong into all uncleanneſs, being utterly deſtitute of all judgement.

‡ Or, hardneſs.

b Void of all judgement.
c They ſtrove to paſs one another, as through there had been ſome gain to be gotten by it.
13 Here followeth the contrary part, touching men which are regenerate by the true and lively knowledge of Chriſt, which have other principles of their doings far different, to wit, holy and honeſt deſires, and a mind clean changed by the vertue of the Holy Ghoſt, from whence proceed alſo like effects, as a juſt and holy life indeed.
d As they have learned, which acknowledge Chriſt indeed and in good earneſt.

i Not fained nor counterfeit.
14 He commendeth ſeverally certain peculiar Chriſtian vertues and firſt of all, he requireth truth, (that is to ſay, ſincere manners) condemning all deceit and diſſembling, becauſe we are born one for another.
15 He teacheth us how to bridle our anger, in ſuch ſort, that although it be hot, yet that it break not out, and that it be ſtraightways quenched before we ſleep: leaſt Satan taking occaſion to give us evil counſel, and by that means deſtroy us.
k If it ſo fall out, that you be angry, yet ſin not: that is, bridle your anger, and do not wickedly put that in execution, which you have wickedly conceived.
l Let not the night come upon you in your anger, that is, make an atonement quickly for all matters.
16 He deſcendeth from the heart to the hands, condemning theft: and becauſe the men which give themſelvs to this wickedneſs, uſe to pretend poverty, he ſheweth that labour is a good remedy againſt poverty, which God bleſſeth in ſuch ſort, that they which labour have always ſome overplus to help others, ſo far is it from this, that they are conſtrained to ſteal other mens goods.
m By labouring in things that are holy, and profitable to his neighbour.
‡ Or, to diſtribute
17 He bridleth the tongue alſo, teaching us ſo to temper our talk, that our hearers minds be not onely not deſtroyed, but alſo, inſtructed.

o By grace, he meaneth that, whereby men may profit to the going on forward in godlineſs and love.
18 A generall precept againſt all exceſs of affections which dwell in that part of the mind, which they call Angry, and he ſetteth againſt them the contrary means. And uſeth a moſt vehement preface, how we ought to take heed that we grieve not the holy Spirit of God through our immoderateneſs and intemperancy, who dwelleth in us, to this end, to moderate all our affections.
* 2 Cor. 2. 10.

Chap. V.

2 After generall exhortations to love, 3 to flee fornication, 4 and all uncleanneſs, 7 not to converſe with the wicked, 15 to walk warily, and to be 18 filled with the Spirit, 22 he deſcendeth to the particular duties, how wives ought to obey their husbands, 25 and husbands ought to love their wives, 32 even as Chriſt doth his church.

BE ye therefore followers of God, as dear children,
2 And walk in love, as Chriſt alſo hath loved us, and hath given himſelf for us, an offering, & a ſacrifice to God for a ſweet ſmelling ſavour.
3 [1] But fornication, and all uncleanneſs, or covetouſneſs, let it not be once named amongſt you, as becometh ſaints:
4 Neither filthineſs, nor fooliſh talking, nor [a] jeſting, which are not convenient: but rather giving of thanks.
5 For

1 Now he cometh to another kind of affections, which is in that part of the mind, which men call covetous or deſirous: and he reprehendeth fornication, covetouſneſs and jeſting, very ſharply.
a Jeſts which men caſt one at another: that no lightneſs be ſeen, nor evil example given, nor any offence moved by evil words or bickering.

180

2 Because these sins are such, that the most part of men count them not for sins, he exhorteth the godly to the end they should so much the more take heed to themselves from them, as most hurtfull plagues.

b A good caveat to idolatry, for the covetous man thinketh that his life standeth in his goods.

3 For use we are not so ready to any thing, as to follow evil examples, therefore the apostle warneth the godly to remember always, that the elect are but as it were darkness, and that they themselves are as it were light. And therefore the other commit all villanies (as men are wont in the dark) but they ought not onely not to follow their examples, but also (as the property of the light is) reprove their darkness, and so walk (having Christ that true light going before them) as becometh the elect.

c The faithfull are called light, both because they have the true light in them which lighteneth them, and also because they give light to others in so much, that their honest conversation reproveth the vice of wicked men.

d By whose force we are made light in the Lord.

e Make them open to all the world, by your good life.

1 The scriptures, or God in the scripture.

* Isa. 60. 1

g He speaketh of the death of sin.

* Col. 3. 5.

4 The worse and more corrupt that the manners of this world are, the more watchfull ought we to be against all occasions, and respect nothing but the will of God.

h this is a metapher taken from the merchants: who prefer the best profit that may be before all their pleasures.

5 [2] For this ye know: that no whoremonger, nor unclean person, nor covetous man, who is an [b] idolater, hath any inheritance in the kingdom of Christ, and of God.

6 Let no man deceive you with vain words: for because of these things cometh the wrath of God upon the children of ‡ disobedience.

7 [3] Be not ye therefore partakers with them.

8 For ye were sometimes darkness, but now are ye [c] light in the Lord: walk as children of light,

9 (For the fruit of the [d] Spirit is in all goodness, and righteousness, and truth)

10 Proving what is acceptable unto the Lord.

11 And have no fellowship with the unfruitfull works of darkness, but rather [e] reprove them.

12 For it is a shame even to speak of those things which are don of them in secret.

13 But all things that are ‡ reproved, are made manifest by the light: for whatsoever doth make manifest, is light.

14 Wherefore [f] he saith, * Awake thou that sleepest, and arise from the [g] dead, and Christ shall give thee light.

15 * [4] See then that ye walk circumspectly, not as fools, but as wise, 16 [h] Redeeming the time, because the days are evil.

17 Wherefore be ye not unwise, but understanding what the will of the Lord is.

18 [5] And be not drunk with wine, wherein is [k] excess: but be filled with the Spirit:

19 Speaking to your selvs in psalms, and hymns, and spirituall songs, singing and making melody in your [l] heart to the Lord;

20 Giving thanks always for all things unto God and the Father, in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ:

21 [6] Submitting your selvs one to another in the fear of God.

22 ¶ [7] Wives, submit your selvs unto your own husbands, [8] as unto the Lord.

23 [9] For the husband is the head of the wife, even as Christ is the head of the church: and [10] he is the Saviour of the body.

24 [11] Therefore as the church is subject unto Christ, so let the wives be to their own husbands in every thing.

25 [12] Husbands, love your wives, even as Christ also loved the church, and gave himself for it;

26 [13] That he might [m] sanctifie and cleanse it with the washing of water, by the [n] word:

27 That he might present it to himself a glorious church, not [o] having spot or wrinkle, or any such thing: but that it should be holy and without blemish.

28 [14] So ought men to love their wives, as their own bodies: he that loveth his wife, loveth himself.

29 For no man ever yet hated his [p] own flesh: but nourisheth and cherisheth it, even as the Lord the church:

30 For we are members of his body, [q] of his flesh, and of his bones.

31 For this cause shall a man leave his father and mother, and shall be [r] joyned unto his wife, and they two shall be one flesh.

32 [15] This is a great mystery: but I speak concerning Christ and the church.

33 [16] Nevertheless, let every one of you in particular, so love his wife, even as himself, and the wife see that she reverence her husband.

o The church as it is considered in it self, shall not be without wrinkle, before it come to the mark it shooteth at: for while it is in this life, it runneth in a race: but it is be considered in Christ, it is clean and without wrinkle.

14 Another argument, Every man loveth himself, even of nature, therefore he striveth against nature that loveth not his wife: he proveth the consequent first by the mysticall knitting of Christ and the church together, and then by the ordinance of God, who saith that man and wife are as one, that is, not to be divided p His own body.

q He alludeth to the making of the woman, which

1 The times are troublesom and sharp. 5 He setteth the sober and holy assemblies of the faithfull, against the dissolute baskets of the unfaithfull, in which the praises of the onely Lord must ring, be it in prosperity or adversity. k All kind of riot, joyned with all manner of filthiness and shamefulness. l with an earnest affection of the heart, and not with the tongue onely. 6 A short repetition of the end whereunto all things ought to be referred, to serve one another for Gods sake. 7 Now he descendeth to a family, dividing orderly all the parts of a family. And he saith, that the duties of wives consisteth herein, to be obedient to their husbands. 8 The first argument, for they cannot be disobedient to their husbands, but they must resist God also, who is the author of this subjection. 9 A declaration of the former saying: Because God hath made the man head of the woman in matrimony, as Christ is the head of the church. 10 Another argument: Because the good estate of the wife dependeth on the man, so that this submission is not onely just, but also very profitable: as also the salvation of the church is of Christ, although far otherwise. 11 The conclusion of the wives duty towards their husband. 12 The husbands duty toward their wives, is to love them as themselves, of which love the love of Christ towards his church is a lively pattern. 13 Because many men pretend the infirmities of their wives to excuse their own hardness and cruelty, the apostle willeth us to mark what manner of church Christ got, when he joyned it to himself, and how he doeth not onely loath all her filth and uncleanness, but ceaseth not to wipe the same away with his cleanness, untill he have wholly purged it. m Make it holy. n Through the promise of free justification and sanctification in Christ received by faith.

signifieth our coupling together with Christ, which is wrought by faith, but is sealed by the sacrament of the supper. 1 Look Matt. 15. 5. 15 That no man might dream of naturall conjunction, or knitting of Christ and his church together (such as the husbands and the wives is) he sheweth that it is secret, to wit, spirituall, and such as far differeth from the common capacity of man: as which consisteth by the vertue of the Spirit, and not of the flesh, by faith, and by no naturall band. 16 The conclusion both of the husbands duty toward his wife, and of the wifes toward her husband.

Chap. VI.

1 The duty of children toward their parents, 5 of servants toward their masters. 10 Our life is a warfare, 12 not onely against flesh and bloud, but also spirituall enemies. 13 The compleat armour of a Christian, 18 and how it ought to be used. 21 Tychicus is commended.

CHilden, [1] obey your parents [2] in the [a] Lord: [3] for this is right.

2 [4] Honour thy father and mother, ([5] which is the first commandment with [b] promise)

3 That it may be well with thee, and thou mayest live long on the earth.

4 [6] And ye fathers, provoke not your children to wrath: but bring them up in the nurture and [c] admonition of the Lord.

5 ¶ [7] Servants, be obedient to them that are your masters [8] according to the flesh, with [d] fear and trembling, in singleness of your heart, as unto Christ:

6 Not with eye-service, as men-pleasers, but as the servants of Christ, [9] doing the will of God from the heart;

7 With good will doing service, as to the [e] Lord, and not to men:

8 [10] Knowing that whatsoever good thing any man doth, the same shall he receive of the Lord, whether he be bond or free.

9 ¶ [11] And ye masters, do the same things unto them, ‡ forbearing threatning: knowing

1 He cometh to another part of a family, and sheweth that the duty of the children toward their parents, consisteth in obedience unto them

2 The first argument: because God hath so appointed: whereupon it followeth also that children are so far forth bound to obey their parents, as they may not swerve from the true worship of God.

a For the Lord is author of all fatherhood, and therefore we must yield such obedience as he will have of us.

3 The second argument; because this obedience is most just.

4 A proof of the first argument.

5 The third argument taken of the profit that ariseth thereby: Because the Lord vouchsafed this commandment amongst all the rest, of a speciall blessing. b with a speciall promise: for otherwise the second commandment hath a promise of mercy to a thousand generation, but that promise is generall. 6 It is the duty of fathers to use their fatherly authority moderately and to Gods glory. c Such informations and precepts as being taken out of Gods book, are holy and acceptable to him. 7 Now he descendeth to the third part of a family, to wit, to the duty both of the masters, and of the servants. And he sheweth that the duty of servants consisteth in an hearty love and reverence to their masters. 8 He mitigateth the sharpness of service, in that they are spiritually free notwithstanding the same, and yet the spirituall freedom taketh not away corporall service: insomuch that they cannot be Christs, unless they serve their masters willingly and faithfully, so far forth as they may with safe conscience. d with carefull reverence, for slavish fear is not allowable, much less in Christian servants. 9 To cut off occasion of all pretences, he teacheth us that it is Gods will that some are either born or made servants, and therefore they must respect Gods will, although their service be never so hard. e Being moved with a reverence to God-ward, as though ye served God himself. 10 Although they serve unkind and cruel masters, yet the obedience of servants is no less acceptable to God, than the obedience of them that are free. 11 It is the duty of masters, to use the authority that they have over their servants modestly and holily, seeing that they in other respect have a common master which is in heaven, who will judge both the bond and the free. ‡ Or, moderating

that

that ‡ your master also is in heaven, neither is there [f] respect of persons with him.

10 [12] Finally, my brethren, be strong in the Lord, and in the power of his might.

11 Put on the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil.

12 [13] For we wrestle not against flesh and [g] bloud, but against [h] principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against ‡ spirituall wickedness in ‡ high places.

13 [14] Wherefore take unto you the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to withstand in the [i] evil day, and ‡ having don all to stand.

14 Stand therefore, having your loins girt about with truth, and having on the breastplate of righteousness:

15 And your feet shod with the [k] preparation of the gospel of peace.

16 Above all, taking the shield of faith, wherewith ye shall be able to quench all the fiery darts of the wicked.

17 And take the helmet of salvation, and the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God.

18 Praying always with all prayer and supplication in the [l] Spirit, and watching thereunto with all perseverance, and supplication for all saints,

19 And for me, that utterance may be given unto me, that I may open my mouth boldly, to make known the mystery of the gospel:

20 For which I am an ambassadour ‡ in bonds: that ‡ therein I may speak boldly, as I ought to speak.

21 [15] But that ye also may know my affairs, and how I do, Tychicus a beloved brother and faithfull minister in the Lord, shall make known to you all things,

22 Whom I have sent unto you for the same purpose, that ye might know our affairs, and that he might comfort your hearts.

23 Peace be to the brethren, and love with faith from God the Father, and the Lord Jesus Christ.

24 Grace be with all them that love our Lord Jesus Christ ‡ in sincerity. Amen.

¶ Written from Rome unto the Ephesians by Tychicus.

‡ Some read, both your and their master.
f Either of freedom or bondage.
12 He concludeth the other part of this epistle, with a grave exhortation, that all be ready and fight constantly, trusting to spirituall weapons, untill their enemies be clean put to flight. And first of all, he warneth us to take the armour of God, wherewith onely our enemy may be dispatched.
13 Secondly, he declareth that our chiefest & mightiest enemies are invisible, that we may not think that our chiefest conflict is with men.
g Against men which are of a frail and brittle nature, against which are set spirituall subtilities, more mightythan the other by a thousand parts.
h He giveth these names to the evil angels, by reason of the effects which they work: not that they are able to do the same of themselvs, but because God giveth them the bridle. ‡ Or, wicked spirits ‡ Or, heavenly. 14 He sheweth that these enemies are put to fight with the onely armour of God, to wit, with uprightness of conscience, a godly and holy life, knowledge of the gospel, faith, and to be short, with the word of God, and using daily earnest prayer for the health of the church, and especially for the constancy of the true, godly, and valiant ministers of the word. i Look Chap. 5. 16. ‡ Or, having overcome all k That the preparation of the gospel may be as it were shoes to you: and it is very fitly called the gospel of peace, for that seeing we have to go to God through most dangerous ranks of enemies, this may encourage us to go on manfully, in that we know by the doctrin of the gospel, that we may take our journey to God who is at peace with us.

The Epistle of PAUL the Apostle TO THE PHILIPPIANS.

Chap. I.

3 He testifieth his thankfulness to God, and his love toward them, for the fruits of their faith, and fellowship in his sufferings, 9 daily praying to him for their increase in grace. 12 He sheweth what good the faith of Christ had received by his troubles at Rome, 21 and how ready he is to glorify Christ, either by his life or death: 27 exhorting them to unity, 28 and to fortitude in persecution.

PAul and [1] Timotheus the servants of Jesus Christ, to all the saints in Christ Jesus, which are at Philippi, with the [a] bishops and deacons:

2 Grace be unto you, and peace from God our Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ.

3 I thank my God upon every ‡ remembrance of you,

4 (Always in every prayer of mine for you all making request with joy,)

5 For your [b] fellowship in the gospel from the [c] first day untill now:

6 Being confident of this very thing, that he which hath begun a good work in you, ‡ will perform it untill the [d] day of Jesus Christ;

7 Even as it is meet for me to think this of you all, because ‡ I have you in my heart, in as much as both in my [e] bonds, and in the defence and confirmation of the gospel, ye all are ‡ partakers of my [f] grace:

8 [2] For God is my record, how greatly I long after you all, in the bowels of Jesus Christ.

9 [3] And this I pray, that your love may abound yet more and more in knowledge, and in all ‡ judgement:

10 That ye may ‡ approve things that ‡ are excellent, that ye may be sincere, and without offence till the day of Christ:

11 Being filled with the [g] fruits of righteousness, which are by Jesus Christ unto the glory and praise of God.

1 The mark whereat he shooteth in this epistle is to confirm the Philippians by all means possible, not onely not to faint, but also to go forward. And first of all, he commendeth their former doings, to exhort them to go forward: which thing he saith, he hopeth fully they will do, and that by the testimony of their lively charity, but in the mean season he referreth all things to the grace of God.
a By the bishops are meant both the pastours, which have the dispensation of the word, and the elders that govern: and by deacons, are meant those that were stewards of the treasure of the church, and had to look unto the poor. ‡ Or, mention b Because that you also are made partakers of the gospel. c Ever since I knew you.
‡ Or, will finish it
d The spirit of God will not forsake you unto the very latter end, untill your mortal bodies shall appear before the judgement of Christ to be glorified.
‡ Or, ye have me in your heart,
e A true proof of a true knitting together with Christ.
‡ Or, partakers with me of grace:
f He calleth his bonds grace, as though he had received some singular benefit.
2 He declareth his good will towards them, therewithall shewing by what means chiefly they may be confirmed, to wit, by continuall prayer. 3 He sheweth what thing we ought chiefly desire, to wit, first of all that we may increase in the true knowledge of God, (so that we may be able to descern things that differ one from another) and also in charity, that even to the end we may give our selvs to good works in deed, to the glory of God by Jesus Christ. ‡ Or, sense ‡ Or, true ‡ Or, differ, g If righteousness be the tree, and good works the fruits, then must the papists needs be deceived, when they say that works are the cause of righteousness.

182

12 4 But I would ye should understand, brethren, that the things which happened unto me, have fallen out rather unto the furtherance of the gospel.

13 So that my bonds in h Christ are manifest in all the i palace, and ‡ in all other places.

14 And many of the brethren in the Lord waxing confident by my bonds, are much more bold to speak the k word without fear.

15 Some indeed preach Christ even of envy and strife, and some also of good will.

16 The one preach Christ of contention, not sincerely, supposing to add affliction to my bonds:

17 But the other of love, knowing that I am set for the defence of the gospel.

18 5 What then? notwithstanding every way, whether m in pretence, or in truth, Christ is preached, and I therein do rejoyce, yea, and will rejoyce.

19 For I know that this shall turn to my salvation through your prayer, and the supply of the Spirit of Jesus Christ, 20 6 According to my earnest expectation, and my hope, that in nothing I shall be ashamed, but that with all boldness, as always, so now also Christ shall be magnified in my body, whether it be by life or by death.

21 For to me to live is Christ, and to die is gain.

22 7 But if I live in the n flesh, this is the fruit of my labour: yet what I shall choose, I wot not.

23 For I am in a strait betwixt two, having a desire to depart, and to be with Christ, which is far better:

24 Nevertheless, to abide in the flesh, is more needfull for you.

25 And having this confidence, I know that I shall abide and continue with you all, for your furtherance and joy of faith.

26 That your rejoycing may be more abundant in Jesus Christ for me, by my coming to you again.

27 8 Onely let your conversation be as it becometh the gospel of Christ: that whether I come and see you, or else be absent, I may hear of your affairs, that ye ° stand fast in one spirit, with one mind, striving together for the faith of the gospel;

28 9 And in nothing terrified by your adversaries, which is to them an evident token of perdition, but to you of salvation, and that of God.

29 10 For unto you it is given in the behalf of Christ, not onely to believe on him, but also to suffer for his sake.

30 11 Having the same conflict which ye saw in me, and now hear to be in me.

4 He preventeth the offence that might come by his persecution, whereby divers took occasion to disgrace his apostleship. To whom he answereth that God hath blessed his imprisonment in such wise, that he is by that mean become more famous, and the dignity of the gospel, by this occasion is greatly enlarged, although not with like affection in all men, yet in deed.
h For Christs sake.

‡ Or, to all others.
k The gospel is called the word, to set forth the excellency of it.
l Not with a pure mind for otherwise their doctrin was pure 5 He sheweth by setting forth his own example, that the end of our afflictions is true joy, and that through the vertue of the Spirit of Christ, which he giveth to them that ask it.
m under a godly colour and shew: for they made Christ a cloke for their ambition and envie 6 we must continue even to the end, with great confidence, having nothing before our eyes but Christs glory onely, whether we live or die.
7 An example of a true shepherd, who maketh more accompt how he may profit his sheep, than he doth of any commodity of his own whatsoever.
n To live in this mortall body.
8 Having set down those things before in manner of a preface, he descendeth now to exhortations, warning them first of all, to consent both in doctrin and mind, and afterward, that being thus knit together with those common bands, they continue through the strength of faith to bear all adversity in such sort, that they admit nothing unworthy the profession of the gospel.
o The word is a metaphor taken from wrestlers, that stand fast and shrink not a foot.
9 we ought not to be discouraged, but rather encouraged by the persecutions, which the enemies of the gospel imagin and practice against us: seeing that they are certain witnesses, from God himself, both of our salvation, and of the destruction of the wicked. 10 He proveth that his saying, that persecution is a token of our salvation, because it is a gift of God to suffer for Christ, which gift he bestoweth upon his own, as he doth the gift of faith. 11 Now he sheweth for what purpose he made mention of his afflictions.

Chap. II.

1 He exhorteth them to unity, and to all humbleness of mind, by the example of Christs humility and exaltation: 12 to a carefull proceeding in the way of salvation, that they be as lights to the wicked world, 16 and comforts to him their apostle, who is now ready to be offered up to God. 19 He hopeth to send Timothy to them, whom he greatly commendeth, 25 as Epaphroditus also, whom he presently sendeth to them.

IF 1 there be therefore any consolation in a Christ, if any comfort of love, if any fellowship of the Spirit, if any b bowels and mercies;

2 Fulfill ye my joy, that ye be like-minded, having c the same love, being of one accord, of one mind.

3 Let nothing be done through strife, or vain glory, but in lowliness of mind let each esteem other better than themselvs.

4 Look not every man on his own things, but every man also on the things of others.

5 2 Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus:

6 Who being in the d form of God, e thought it not robbery to be f equall with God:

7 But made himself of no g reputation, and took upon him the h form of a servant, and was made in the ‡ likeness of men.

8 And being found in fashion as a man, he humbled himself, and became obedient unto death, even the death of the cross.

9 3 Wherefore God also hath highly exalted him, and given him a i name which is above every name:

10 That at the name of Jesus k every knee should bow, of things in heaven, and things in earth, and things under the earth:

11 And that l every tongue should confess, that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father.

12 4 Wherefore my beloved, as ye have alway obeyed, not as in my presence onely, but now much more in my absence; m work out your own salvation with fear and trembling.

13 5 For it is God which worketh in you, both n to will and to do of his good pleasure.

14 6 Do all things without murmurings, and disputings:

15 7 That ye may be blameless and ‡ harmless, the sons of God, without rebuke, in the midst of a crooked and perverse nation, among whom ‡ ye shine as lights in the world:

2 He setteth before them a most perfit, example of all modesty and sweet conversation, Christ Jesus, whom we ought to follow with all our might: who abased himself so far for our sakes, although he be above all, that he took upon him the form of a servant, to wit, our flesh, willingly subject to all infirmities, even to the death of the cross.
d Such as God himself is, and therefore God, for therefore is none in all parts like to God, but God himself.

3 He sheweth the most glorious event of Christs submission, to teach us that modesty is the true way to true praise and glory. i Dignity and renoun, and the matter with it. k All creatures shall at length be subject to Christ. l Every nation. 4 The conclusion: we must go on to salvation with humility and submission by the way of our vocation. m That is, do such things as concern life and salvation, of which some particulars were above mentioned, vers. 1. 2.
5 A most sure and grounded argument against pride, for that we have nothing in us praise worthy, but it cometh of the free gift of God, and is without us, for we have no ability or power, so much as to will well, (much less to do well) but onely of the free mercy of God.
n why then we are not stocks, but yet we do not will well of nature, but onely because God hath made of our naughty will a good will. 6 He describeth modesty by the contrary effects of pride, teaching us, that it is far both from all malicious and close or inward hatred, and also from open contentions and brawlings. 7 To be short, he requireth a life without fault, and pure, that being lightned with the word of God, they may shine in the darkness of this world.
‡ Or, sincere, ‡ Or, shine ye o The gospel is called the word of life, because of the effects which it worketh. 8 Again he pricketh them forward, setting before them his true apostolik care that he had of them: comforting them moreover, to the end they should not be sorry for the greatness of his afflictions, no not although he should die to make perfit their oblation with his bloud, as it were with a drink offering. † Gr. poured forth p As if he said, I brought you Phillippians to Christ, my desire is that you present your selvs a lively sacrifice to him, and then shall it not grieve me to be offered up as a drink-offering, to accomplish this your spirituall offering.

1 A concluſion of thoſe things which have been before ſaid, to wit, that they go forward chearfully in the Lord.
2 A preface to the next admonition that followeth, to take good heed and beware of falſe apoſtles, which joyn circumciſion with Chriſt, (that is to ſay, juſtification by works, with free juſtification by faith) and treat into mens heads the ceremonies which are aboliſhed, for true exerciſes of godlineſs and charity. And he calleth them dogs, as prophane barkers, and evil workmen, becauſe they neglected true works, and did not teach the true uſe of them. To be ſhort, he calleth them conciſion, becauſe in urging circumciſion, they cut off themſelvs and others from the church. a which you have oftentimes heard of me. b He alludeth to circurmciſion, of the name whereof whiles they boaſted, they cut aſunder the church. 3 He ſheweth that we ought to uſe true circumciſion, to wit, the circumciſion of the heart, that cutting off all wicked affections by the vertue of Chriſt, we may ſerve God in purity of life. c In outward things which pertain nothing to the ſoul. 4 He doubteth not to prefer himſelf even according to the fleſh, before thoſe perverſe hot urgers of the law, that all men may know, that he doth with good judgement of mind, lightly eſteem of all thoſe outward things: for ſomuch as he lacketh nothing, which hath Chriſt, nay, the confidence of our works cannot ſtand with the free juſtification in Chriſt by faith.

1 Finally, [1] my brethren, rejoyce in the Lord. To write the [2] ſame things to you, to me indeed is [a] not grievous, but for you it is ſafe.

2 Beware of dogs, beware of evil workers, beware of the [b] conciſion.

3 [3] For we are the circumciſion, which worſhip God in the ſpirit, & rejoyce in Chriſt Jeſus, and have no confidence [c] in the fleſh.

4 [4] Though I might alſo have confidence in the fleſh. If any other man thinketh that he hath whereof he might truſt in the fleſh, I more.

5 Circumciſed the eighth day, of the ſtock of Iſrael, of the tribe of Benjamin, an Hebrew of the Hebrews: as touching the law, a Phariſee:

6 Concerning zeal, perſecuting the church: touching the righteouſneſs which is in the law, blameleſs.

7 But what things were [d] gain to me, thoſe I counted loſs for Chriſt.

8 Yea doubtleſs, and I count [e] all things but loſs, for the excellency of the knowledge of Chriſt Jeſus my Lord: for whom I have ſuffered the loſs of all things, and do count them but dung that I may [f] win Chriſt,

9 And be found in [g] him, [h] not having mine own righteouſneſs, which is of the law, but that which is through the faith of Chriſt, the righteouſneſs which is of God by faith:

10 [5] That I may [i] know him, and the power of his reſurrection, and the [6] fellowſhip of his ſufferings, being made conformable unto his death:

11 If by any means I might attain unto the reſurrection of the dead.

12 Not as though I had already attained, either were already perfect: but I follow after if that I may [k] apprehend that for which alſo I am [l] apprehended of Chriſt Jeſus.

13 Brethren, I count not my ſelf to have apprehended; but this one thing I do, forgetting thoſe things which are behind, and reaching forth unto thoſe things which are before,

14 I preſs toward the mark, for the prize of the high calling of God in Chriſt Jeſus.

15 [7] Let us therefore, as many as be [m] perfect, be thus minded: and if in any thing ye be otherwiſe minded, God ſhall reveal even this unto you.

16 Nevertheleſs, whereto we have already attained, let us walk by the ſame rule, let us mind the ſame thing.

17 Brethren, be followers together of me, and mark them which walk ſo, as ye have us for an enſample.

18 [8] (For many walk, of whom I have told you often, and now tell you even weeping, that they are the enemies of the croſs of Chriſt:

19 [n] Whoſe end is deſtruction, whoſe God is their belly: and whoſe [o] glory is in their ſhame, who mind earthly things)

20 [9] For our converſation is in heaven, from whence alſo we look for the Saviour, the Lord Jeſus Chriſt:

21 Who ſhall change our vile body, that it may be faſhioned like unto his glorious body, according to the working whereby he is able even to ſubdue all things unto himſelf.

d which I accounted for advantage.
e He ſhutteth out all works, as well thoſe that go before, as thoſe that come after faith.
f That in their place I might get Chriſt, and of a poor man become rich: ſo far off am I from loſing any thing.
g In Chriſt: for they that are found without Chriſt, are ſubject to condemnation.
h That is, To be in Chriſt, to be found not in a mans own righteouſneſs, clothed with the righteouſneſs of Chriſt imputed to him.
5 This is the end of righteouſneſs by faith touching us, that, by the vertue of his reſurrection, we may eſcape from death.
i That I may feel him indeed, and have a triall of him 6 The way to that eternall ſalvation is to follow Chriſt his ſteps, by afflictions and perſecutions, untill we come to Chriſt himſelf, who is our mark whereat we ſhoot, and receive that reward whereunto God calleth us in him. And the apoſtle ſetteth theſe true exerciſes of godlineſs, againſt thoſe vain ceremonies of the law, wherein the falſe apoſtles put the ſum of godlineſs.
k To life everlaſting, which followeth the reſurrection of the ſaints.
l For we run not, but ſo far forth as we are layed hold on of Chriſt, that is, as God giveth us ſtrength, and ſheweth us the way.
7 The concluſion of his exhortation ſtanding upon three members The one is, that ſuch as have profited in the truth of this doctrin, ſhould continue in it. The ſecond is, that if there be any which are yet ignorant, and underſtand not theſe things, and doubt of the aboliſhing of the law, they ſhould cauſe no trouble, & ſhould be gently born withall, untill they alſo be inſtructed of the Lord. The third is, that they eſteem the falſe apoſtles, by their fruits: wherein he doubteth not to ſet forth himſelf for an example. m He ſaid before, that he was not perfect. So that in this place he calleth them perfect, which have ſomewhat profited in the knowledge of Chriſt and the goſpel, whom he ſetteth againſt the rude and ignorant, as he expoundeth himſelf in the next vers following. 8 He painteth out the falſe apoſtles in their colours, not upon malice or ambition, but with ſorrow and tears, to wit, becauſe that being enemies of the goſpel (for that is joyned with affliction) they regard nothing elſe, but the commodities of this life: that is to ſay, that flowing in peace, and quietneſs, and all worldly pleaſures, they may live in great eſtimation amongſt men, whoſe miſerable end he forewarned them of. n Reward. o which they hunt after at mens hands. 9 He ſetteth againſt theſe fellows, true paſtours which neglect earthly things, and aſpire to heaven onely, where they know, that even in their bodies they ſhall be clothed with that eternall glory, by the vertue of God.

CHAP. IV.

1 From particular admonitions, 4 he proceedeth to generall exhortations, 10 ſhewing how he rejoyced at their liberality towards him lying in priſon, not ſo much for the ſupply of his own wants, as for the grace of God in them: 19 and ſo he concludeth with prayer and ſalutations.

1 THerefore, [i] my brethren, dearly beloved and longed for, my joy and [a] crown, ſo ſtand faſt in the [b] Lord, my dearly beloved.

2 [2] I beſeech Euodias, and beſeech Syntyche, that they be of the ſame mind in the Lord.

3 And I intreat thee alſo, true yoke-fellow, help thoſe women which laboured with me in the goſpel, with Clement alſo, and with other my fellow-labourers, whoſe names are in the [c] book of life.

4 [3] Rejoyce in the [d] Lord alway: and again I ſay, Rejoyce.

5 [4] Let your [e] moderation be known unto all men. [5] The Lord is at hand.

6 [6] Be carefull for nothing: but in every thing by prayer & ſupplication with [f] thankſgiving, let your requeſts be made known unto God.

7 And the [g] peace of God which paſſeth all underſtanding, ſhall keep your [h] hearts and minds through Chriſt Jeſus.

8 ¶ [7] Finally, brethren, whatſoever things are true, whatſoever things are ‡ [i] honeſt, whatſoever things are juſt, whatſoever things are pure, whatſoever things are lovely, whatſoever things are of good report: if there be any vertue, and if there be any praiſe, think on theſe things.

9 Thoſe things which ye have both learned and received, and heard and ſeen in me, do: and the God of peace ſhall be with you.

10 [8] ¶ But I rejoyced in the Lord greatly, that now at the laſt your care of me ‡ hath flouriſhed again, wherein ye were alſo careful, but ye lacked opportunity.

11 Not that I ſpeak in reſpect of [k] want: for I have learned in whatſoever ſtate I am, therewith to be content.

12 I know both how to be [l] abaſed, and I know how to abound: every where, and in all things I am [m] inſtructed, both to be full and to be hungry, both to abound and to ſuffer need.

13 I can do all things through Chriſt which ſtrengtheneth me.

14 Notwithſtanding, ye have well don, that ye did communicate with my affliction.

15 [9] Now ye Philippians know alſo, that in the [n] beginning of the goſpel, when I departed from Macedonia, no church communicated with me, as concerning giving and receiving, but ye onely.

16 For even in Theſſalonica ye ſent once and again unto my neceſſity.

17 [10] Not becauſe I deſire a gift; but I deſire fruit that may abound to your account.

18 But ‡ I have all, and abound, I am full, having received of Epaphroditus the things which were ſent from you, an [o] odour of a ſweet ſmell, a ſacrifice acceptable, well pleaſing to God.

19 But my God ſhall ſupply all your need according to his riches in glory, by Chriſt Jeſus.

20 Now unto God and our Father be glory for ever and ever. Amen.

21 ¶ Salute every ſaint in Chriſt Jeſus: the brethren which are with me greet you.

22 All the ſaints ſalute you, chiefly they that are of [p] Ceſars houſhold.

23 The grace of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt be with you all. Amen.

¶ It was written to the Philippians from Rome, by Epaphroditus.

1 A rehearſall of the concluſion: That they manfully continue, untill they have gotten the victory, truſting to the Lords ſtrength.
a Mine honour.
b In that concord, whereof the Lord is the band.
2 He alſo calleth on ſome by name, partly, becauſe they needed private exhortation, and partly alſo, to ſtir up others to be more prompt and ready.
c God is ſaid, after the manner of men, to have a book wherein the names of his elect are written, to whom he will give everlaſting life. Ezekiel calleth it the writing of the houſe of Iſrael, & the ſecret of the Lord. Ezek. 13. 9.
3 He addeth particular exhortations: the firſt is, that the joy of the Philippians be not hindred by any afflictions that the wicked imagin and work againſt them.
d So is the joy of the world diſtinguiſhed from our joy.
4 The ſecond is, that taking all things in good part they behave themſelves moderately with all men. e Your quiet and ſetled mind. 5 The taking away of an objection: we muſt not be diſquieted through impatience, ſeeing that God is at hand to give us remedy in time againſt all our miſeries. 6 The third is, that we be not too carefull for any thing, but with ſure confidence give God thanks, and crave of him whatſoever we have need of, that with a quiet conſcience we may wholly and with all our hearts ſubmit our ſelves to him. f So David began very oft with teares, but ended with thankſgiving. g That great quietneſs of mind, which God onely giveth in Chriſt. h He divideth the mind into the heart, that is, into that part which is the ſeat of the will and affections, and into the higher part whereby we underſtand the reaſon of matters. 7 A generall concluſion, that as they have been taught both in word and example, ſo they frame their lives to the rule of all holineſs and righteouſneſs. ‡ venerable i whatſoever things are ſuch as do beautify and ſet you out with a holy gravity.

8 He witneſſeth that their liberality was acceptable to him, wherewith they did help him in his extreme poverty: but yet ſo moderating his words, that he might declare himſelf void of all ſuſpicion of diſhoneſty, and that he hath a mind contented both with proſperity & adverſity, and to be ſhort, that he repoſeth himſelf in the onely will of God.
‡ Or, is revived
k As though I paſſed for my want.
l He uſeth a generall word, and yet he ſpeaketh but of one kind of croſs, which is poverty, for commonly poverty bringeth all kinds of diſcommodity with it.
m This is a metaphor taken from holy things, or ſacrificers, for our life is like a ſacrifice.
9 He witneſſeth that he remembereth alſo their former benefits, and again, putteth away ſiniſtrous ſuſpition of immoderate deſire, in that that he received nought of any elſe.
n At the beginning, when I preached the goſpel amongſt you.
10 He witneſſeth again, that he alloweth well of their benefit, not ſo much for his own ſake, as for theirs, becauſe they gave it not ſo much to him, as they offered it to God as a ſacrifice, whereof the Lord himſelf will not be forgetful.
‡ Or, I have received all,
o He alludeth to the ſweet ſmelling ſavours that were offered in the old law.

The Epiſtle of PAUL the Apoſtle TO THE COLOSSIANS.

CHAP. I.

1 After ſalutation he thanketh God for their faith, 7 confirmeth the doctrin of Epaphras, 9 prayeth further for their increaſe in grace, 14 deſcribeth the true Chriſt, 21 encourageth them to receive Jeſus Chriſt, and commendeth his own miniſtery.

1 PAul an apoſtle of Jeſus Chriſt, by [a] the will of God, and Timotheus our brother,

2 To the ſaints and faithfull brethren in Chriſt, which are at [b] Coloſſe, grace be unto you, and peace from God our Father, and the Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

3 ¶ [1] We give thanks to God, and the [c] Father of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, praying always for you:

4 Since we heard of your faith in Chriſt Jeſus, and of the love which ye have to all the ſaints;

5 For the [d] hope which is laid up for you in heaven, whereof ye heard before in the word of the truth of the goſpel:

6 Which is come unto you, as it is in all the world, and bringeth forth fruit, as it doth alſo in you, ſince the day ye heard of it, and a By the free bountifulneſs of God.

b Coloſſe is ſituated in Phrygia, not far from Hierapolis and Laodicea, on that ſide that they bend toward Lycea and Pamphylia.

1 He commendeth the doctrin that was delivered them by Epaphras, and their readineſs in receiving it.
c We cannot otherwiſe conſider of God to our ſalvation, but as he is Chriſts Father, in whom we are adopted.
d For the glory that is hoped for.

and knew the grace of God in truth.

7 As ye also learned of Epaphras our dear fellow-servant, who is for you a faithfull minister of Christ:

8 [2] Who also declared unto us your love in the [e] Spirit.

9 For this cause we also, since the day we heard it, do not cease to pray for you, and to desire that ye might be filled with the knowledge of [f] his will, in all wisdom and spirituall understanding.

10 That ye might walk worthy of the Lord unto all pleasing, being fruitfull in every good work, & increasing in the knowledge of God:

11 , Strengthened with all might according to his glorious power, unto all patience and long-suffering with [g] joyfulness:

12 [4] Giving thanks unto the [5] Father, which hath made us meet to be partakers of the inheritance of the saints in [h] light:

13 Who hath delivered us from the power of darkness, and hath translated us into the kingdom of † his dear Son.

14 [6] In whom we have redemption through his bloud, even the forgivness of sins:

15 [7] Who is the image of the invisible God, the [i] first-born of every creature.

16 For by him were all things created that are in heaven, and that are in earth, visible and invisible, whether they be [k] thrones, or dominions, or principalities, or powers: all things were created by him, and for him.

17 * And he is before all things, and by him all things consist.

18 [8] And he is the head of the bodie, the church: who is the beginning, the [l] first-born from the dead, that ‡ in all things he might have the preeminence.

19 For it pleased the Father that in him should [m] all fulness dwell.

20 [9] And (‡ having made peace through the bloud of his cross) by him to reconcile [n] all things unto himself, by him, I say, whether they be things in earth or things in heaven.

21 [10] And you that were somtime alienated, and enemies ‡ in your mind by wicked works, yet now hath [o] he reconciled,

22 In the body of [p] his flesh through death, to present you holy and unblameable, and unreprovable in his sight:

23 [11] If ye continue in the faith grounded and setled, and be not moved away from the hope of the gospel, which ye have heard, and which was preached to every [q] creature which is under heaven, [12] whereof I Paul am made a minister.

24 Who now rejoyce in my sufferings [r] for you, and fill up that which is [s] behind of the afflictions of Christ in my flesh, for his bodies sake, which is the church:

25 [13] Whereof I am made a minister according to the dispensation of God, which is given to me for you, ‡ to fulfill the word of God:

26 Even the mystery which hath been hid from ages, and from generations, but now is made manifest to his [t] saints;

27 To whom God [u] would make known what is the riches of the glory of this mysterie among the Gentiles, which is Christ ‡ in you, the hope of glory:

28 [14] Whom we preach, warning every man, and teaching every man in [x] all wisdom, that we may present every man perfect in Christ Jesus.

29 Whereunto I also labour striving according to his working, which worketh in me mightily.

1 He declareth his good will towards them, telling them that they must not still remain at one stay, but go on further, both in the knowledge of the gospel, and also in the true use of it.
e Your spirituall love, or your love which cometh from the spirit.
f Gods will.
g The gift of continuance is not of us, but it proceedeth from the vertue of God, which he doth freely give us.
g It must not be unwilling, and as it were drawn out of us by force, but proceed from a merry and joyfull mind.
4 Having ended the preface, he goeth to the matter it self, that is to say, to an excellent description (although it be but short) of whole Christianity, which is fitly divided into three treatises: for first of all, he expoundeth the true doctrin according to the order of the causes, beginning from this vers to the 21. And from thence he beginneth to apply the same to the Colossians, with diverse exhortations to the sixt vers of the second chapter. And last of all, in the third place, even to the third chapter, he refuteth the corruptions of true doctrin.
5 The efficient cause of our salvation is the onely mercy of God the Father, who maketh us meet to be partakers of eternall life, delivering us from the darkness wherein we were born, and bringing us to the light of the knowledge of the glory of his Son.
h In that glorious and heavenly kingdom.
i Gr. the Son of his love. 6 The matter it self of our salvation, is Christ the Son of God, who hath obtained remission of sins for us, by the offering up of himself. 7 A lively description of the person of Christ, whereby we understand, that in him onely God sheweth himself to be seen: who was begotten of the Father before any thing was made, that is, From everlasting, by whom also all things that are made, were made without any exception, by whom also they do consist, and whose glory they serve. i Begotten before any thing was made: and therefore the everlasting Son of the everlasting Father. k He setteth forth the angels with glorious names, that by the comparison of most excellent spirits, we may understand how far passing the excellencie of Christ is, in whom onely we have to content our selves, and let go all angels. * 1 Cor. 8. 6. John. 1. 3. 8 Having gloriously declared the excellent dignitie of the person of Christ, he describeth his office and function, to wit, That he is that same to the church, that the head is to the body, That is to say, the prince and governour of it, and the very beginning of true life, as who rising first from death is the author of eternall life, so that he is above all, in whom onely there is most plentifull abundance of all good things, which is poured out upon the church. l who so rose again that he should die no more, and who raiseth others from death to life by his power. ‡ Or, among all m Most plentifull abundance of all things pertaining to God. 9 Now he teacheth how Christ executed that office which his Father enjoyned him, to wit, By suffering the death of the cross (which was joyned with the curse of God) according to his decree, that by this sacrifice he might reconcile to his Father all men, as well them which beleeved in him to come, and were alreadie under this hope gathered into heaven, as them which should upon the earth beleeve in him afterward. And thus is justification described of the apostle, which is one and the chiefest part of the benefit of Christ. ‡ Or, making peace n The whole church. 10 Sanctification is another work of God in us by Christ, in that that he restored us (which hated God extremely, and were wholly and willingly given to sin) to his gracious favour in such sort, that he therewithall purifieth us with his holy Spirit, and conserveth us to righteousnes. ‡ Or, by your mind in wicked works, o The Son. p By that fleshly body, to give us to understand, that his body was not a fantasticall body, but a true body.

11 The second treatise of this part of the epistle, wherein he exhorteth the Colossians not to suffer themselvs by any means to be moved from this doctrin, shewing and declaring that there is no where any other true gospel.
q To all men: whereby we learn that the gospel was not shut up within the corners of Judea alone.
12 He purchaseth authority to this doctrin by his apostleship, and taketh a most sure proof thereof, of his afflictions, which he sustaineth for Christ his name to instruct the churches with the examples of patience.
r For your profit and commoditie.
s The afflictions of the church are said to be Christs afflictions, by reason of that fellowship and knitting together that the body and the head have, the one with the other: not that there is any more need to have the church redeemed, but that Christ sheweth his power in the daily weakness of his, and that for the comfort of the whole body. 13 He bringeth another proof of his apostleship, to wit, that God is the author of it, by whom also he was appointed peculiarly apostle of the gentiles, to the end that by this means that same might be fulfilled by him, which the prophets foretold of the calling of the gentiles ‡ Or, fully to preach the word of God: Rom. 15. 19. t whom he chose to sanctifie unto himself in Christ: moreover he saith, that the mysterie of our redemption was hidden since the world began, except it were revealed unto a few, who also were taught it extraordinarily. u Thus Paul bridleth the curiosity of men. ‡ Or, amongst you, 14 He protesteth that he doth faithfully execute his apostleship in every place, bringing men unto Christ onely through the Lords plentifull blessing of his labours. x Perfect and sound wisdom, which is perfect in it self, and shall in the end make them perfect that follow it.

Chap. II.

1 He still exhorteth them to be constant in Christ, 8 to beware of philosophie, and vain traditions, 18 worshipping of angels, 20 and legal ceremonies, which are ended in Christ.

FOr [1] I would that ye knew what great ‡ conflict I have for you, and for them at Laodicea, and for as many as have not seen [a] my face in the flesh:

2 [2] That [b] their hearts might be comforted, being knit together in love, and unto all riches of the [c] full assurance of understanding, to the acknowledgement of the mysterie of God, and of the Father, and of Christ:

3 ‡ In whom are hid all the treasures of [d] wisdom and knowledge.

4 [3] And this I say, least any man should beguil you with [e] enticing words.

5 For though I be absent in the flesh, yet am I with you in the spirit, joying & beholding your [f] order, and [g] stedfastnes of your faith in Christ:

6 As ye have therefore [h] received Christ Jesus the Lord, so walk ye in him:

7 Rooted and built up in him, and stablished in the faith, as ye have been taught, abounding therein with thanksgiving.

8 [4] Beware least any man [i] spoil you through

1 The taking away of an objection. In that that he visited not the Colossians, nor the Laodiceans, he did it not of any negligence, but is so much the more carefull for them.
‡ Or, fear or care
a Me present in body.
2 He concludeth shortly the sum of the former doctrin, to wit, that the whole sum of true wisdom, and most secret knowledge of God, consisteth in Christ onely, and that this is the use of it touching men, that they being knit together in love, rest themselvs happily in the knowledge of so great a goodness, untill they come fully to enjoy it.
b whom he never saw.

The first is, that which ariseth of vain and curious speculations, and yet beareth a shew of a certain subtill wisdom. i This is a word of war, and it is as much as, to drive or carry away a spoil or booty.

philoſophy and vain deceit, after the [s] tradition of men, [6] after the ‡ [k] rudiments of the world, and [7] not after Chriſt.

9 [z] For in [l] him [m] dwelleth [n] all the fulneſs of the Godhead [o] bodily.

10 And ye are compleat in him, which is the head of all principality and power.

11 [9] In whom alſo ye are circumciſed with the circumciſion made without hands, in putting off the body of the [p] ſins of the fleſh, by the circumciſion of Chriſt:

12 [10] Buried with him in [q] baptiſm, wherein alſo you are riſen with [r] him through the faith of [11] the operation of [ſ] God, who hath raiſed him from the dead.

13 [12] And you being dead in your ſins, [13] and the uncircumciſion of your fleſh, hath he quickened together with him, having forgiven you all treſpaſſes:

14 [14] Blotting out the [t] hand-writing of ordinances, that was againſt us, which was contrary to us, and took it out of the way, nailing it to his croſs:

15 And having ſpoiled [u] principalities and powers, he [x] made a ſhew of them openly, triumphing over them ‡ in [y] it.

16 [15] Let no man therefore judge you ‡ in meat or in drink, or ‡ in reſpect of an holy day, or of the new moon, or of the ſabbath-days:

18 [16] Let no man ‡ beguil you of your reward, † in a voluntary [a] humility, and worſhipping of angels, [17] intruding into thoſe things which he hath not ſeen, [18] [b] vainly puft up by his fleſhly mind:

19 [19] And not holding the head, from which [c] all the body by joynts and bands having nouriſhment miniſtred, and knit together, increaſeth with the increaſe of [d] God.

20 [20] Wherefore if ye be dead with Chriſt from the ‡ rudiments of the world, why, [e] as though living in the world, are ye ſubject to ordinances?

21 [21] (Touch not, taſte not, handle not:

9 Now he dealeth preciſely againſt the third kind, that is to ſay, againſt them which urged the Jews religion:
d with the increaſing which cometh from God.
20 Now laſt of all, he fighteth againſt the ſecond kind of corruptions, that is to ſay, againſt meer ſuperſtitions, invented of men, which partly deceive the ſimplicity of ſome with their craftineſs, and partly with very fooliſh ſuperſtitions, and to be laughed at: as when godlineſs, remiſſion of ſins, or any ſuch like vertue, is put in ſome certain kind of meat, and ſuch like things, which the inventors of ſuch rites themſelvs underſtand not, becauſe indeed it is not. And he uſeth an argument taken of compariſon. If by the death of Chriſt who eſtabliſhed a new covenant with his bloud, you be delivered from thoſe externall rites wherewith it pleaſed the Lord to prepare the world, as it were by certain rudiments, to that full knowledge of true religion, why would ye be burdened with traditions, I wot not what, as though ye were citizens of the world, that is to ſay, as though ye depended upon this life, and earthly things? Now this is the cauſe why before, verſ. 8. he followed another order than he doth in the confutation: becauſe he ſheweth there, by what degrees falſe religions came into the world, to wit, Beginning firſt by curious ſpeculation of the wiſe, after which in proceſs of time ſucceeded groſs ſuperſtition, againſt which miſchiefs, the Lord ſet at length that ſervice of the law, which ſome abuſed in like ſort: but in the confutation he began with the aboliſhing of the law-ſervice, that he might ſhew by compariſon, that thoſe falſe ſervices ought much more to be taken away. ‡ Or, elements
e As though your felicity ſtood in theſe earthly things, and the kingdom of God were not rather ſpirituall. 21 An imitation in the perſon of theſe ſuperſtitious men, rightly expreſſing their nature and uſe of ſpeech. 22 Another argument: The ſpirituall and inward kingdom of God cannot conſiſt in theſe outward things, and ſuch as periſh with the uſing. 23 The third argument: Becauſe God is not the author of theſe traditions, and therefore they did not bind the conſciences. 24 The taking away of an objection. Theſe things have a goodly ſhew, becauſe men by this means, ſeem to worſhip God with a good mind, and humble themſelvs, and neglect the body, which the moſt part of men curiouſly pamper up and cheriſh: but yet notwithſtanding the things themſelvs are of no value, for ſomuch as they pertain not to things that are ſpirituall and everlaſting, but to the nouriſhment of the fleſh. f which ſeem indeed to be ſome exquiſite thing, and ſo wiſe devices, as though they came from heaven. g Hence ſprang the works of ſupererogation, as the papiſts term, that is to ſay, needleſs works, as though men performed more than is commanded them: which was the beginning and the very ground, whereon Monks merits were brought in. † Or, puniſhing, or not ſparing h A lively deſcription of monkery. i Seeing they ſtand in meat and drink, wherein the kingdom of God doth not ſtand.

CHAP. III.

1 He ſheweth where we ſhould ſeek Chriſt. 5 He exhorteth to mortification, 10 to put off the old man, and to put on Chriſt; 12 exhorting to charity, humilty, and other ſeverall duties.

IF [1] ye then [2] be riſen with [a] Chriſt, [3] ſeek thoſe things which are above, where Chriſt ſitteth on the right hand of God:

2 Set your ‡ affection on things above, not on things on the [b] earth.

3 [4] For ye are dead, [5] and your life is hid with Chriſt in God.

4 When Chriſt who is our life, ſhall appear, then ſhall ye alſo appear with him in glory.

5 [6] Mortifie therefore your [c] members which are upon the earth: fornication, uncleanneſs, inordinate affection, evil concupiſcence, and covetouſneſs, which is idolatry:

6 For which things ſake the wrath of God [d] cometh on the children of diſobedience.

7 In the which ye alſo walked ſomtime, when ye lived in them.

8 But now you alſo put off all theſe, Anger,

1 Another part of this epiſtle, wherein he taketh occaſion, by reaſon of thoſe vain exerciſes, to ſhew the duty of a Chriſtian life: which is an ordinary thing with him, after he hath once ſet down the doctrin it ſelf.
2 Our renewing or new birth, which is wrought in us by being partakers of the reſurrection of Chriſt, is the fountain of all holineſs, out of which ſundry arms or rivers do afterwards flow.
a For if we be partakers of Chriſt, we are carried as it were into another life, where we ſhall need neither meat nor dink, for we ſhall be like unto the angels.
3 The end and mark which all the duties of Chriſtian life ſhoot at, is to enter into the kingdom of heaven, and to give our ſelvs to thoſe things which lead us thither, that is, to true godlineſs, and not to thoſe outward and corporall things. ‡ Or, mind b So he calleth that ſhew of religion which he ſpake of in the former chapter. 4 A reaſon taken of the efficient cauſes, and others: you are dead as touching the fleſh, that is, touching the old nature which ſeeketh after all tranſitory things; and on the other ſide, you have begun to live according to the ſpirit, therefore give your ſelvs to ſpirituall and heavenly, and not to carnall and earthly things. 5 The taking away of an objection: whiles we are yet in this world, we are ſubject to many miſeries of this life, ſo that the life that is in us, is as it were hidden: yet notwithſtanding we have the beginnings of life and glory, the accompliſhment whereof which lieth now in Chriſts and in Gods hand, ſhall be aſſuredly and manifeſtly performed in that glorious coming of the Lord. 6 Let not your dead nature be any more effectuall in you, but let your living nature be effectuall. Now the force of nature is known by the motions. Therefore let the affections of the world die in you, and let the contrary motions which are ſpirituall, live. And he reckeneth up a great long ſcroll of vices, and their contrary vertues. c The motions and luſts that are in us, are in this place very properly called members, becauſe that the reaſon and will of man corrupted, doth uſe them as the body doth his members. d Uſeth to come.

z The body, as a thing of ſubſtance and pith, he ſetteth againſt ſhadows. 16 He diſputeth againſt the firſt kind of corruptions, and ſetteth down the worſhipping of angels for an example: which kind of falſe religion he confuteth, firſt, this way: becauſe that they which bring in ſuch a worſhip, attribute that unto themſelvs, which is proper onely to God, to wit, authoritie to bind mens conſciences with religion, although they ſeem to bring in theſe words t'y humbleneſs of mind. † Or, judge againſt you, † Gr. being a voluntary in humility, a By fooliſh humbleneſs of mind: for otherwiſe humbleneſs is a vertue. For theſe angel-worſhippers blamed ſuch of pride as would go ſtraight to God, and uſe no other under-means beſide Chriſt. 17 Secondly, becauſe they raſhly thruſt upon them for oracles thoſe things which they neither ſaw nor heard, but deviſed of themſelvs. 18 Thirdly, becauſe theſe things have no other ground whereupon they are built, but onely the opinion of men, which pleaſe themſelvs without all meaſure in their own devices. b without reaſon. 19 The fourth argument, which is of great weight: becauſe they ſpoil Chriſt of his dignity, who onely is ſufficient both to nouriſh and alſo to increaſe his whole body.
c Chriſt.

wrath, malice, blasphemy, filthy communication out of your mouth.

9 Lie not one to another, [7] seeing that ye have put off the old man with his deeds:

10 And have put on the new man, [8] which is renewed in [e] knowledge, after the image of him that created him.

11 [9] Where there is neither Greek nor Jew, circumcision nor uncircumcision, Barbarian, Scythian, bond nor free: but Christ is all, and in all.

12 [f] Put on therefore (as the elect of God holy and beloved) [g] bowels of mercies, kindness, humbleness of mind, meekness, long-suffering:

13 Forbearing one another, and forgiving one another, if any man have a ‡ quarrell against any; even as Christ forgave you, so also do ye.

14 And above all these things, put on charity, which is the [h] bond of perfectness.

15 And let the peace of God [i] rule in your hearts, to the which also ye are called in [k] one body: and be ye thankfull.

16 Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly in all wisdom, teaching and admonishing one another in [l] psalms and hymns, and spirituall songs, singing with grace in your hearts to the Lord.

17 And whatsoever ye do in word or deed, do all in the [m] name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God and the Father by him.

18 [10] Wives, submit your selvs unto your own husbands, as it is [n] fit in the Lord.

19 [11] Husbands, love your wives, and be not bitter against them.

20 [12] Children, obey your parents in [o] all things, for this is well pleasing unto the Lord.

21 [13] Fathers, provoke not your children to anger, least they be discouraged.

22 [14] Servants, obey in all things your masters according to the flesh: not with eye-service, as men-pleasers, but in singleness of heart, fearing God:

23 And whatsoever ye do, do it heartily, as to the Lord, and not unto men:

24 Knowing that of the Lord ye shall receive the [p] reward of the inheritance: for ye serve the Lord Christ.

25 [15] But he that doth wrong, shall receive for the wrong which he hath don: and there is no respect of persons.

7 A definition of our new birth, taken of the parts thereof, which are the putting off of the old man, that is to say, of the wickednes which is in us by nature, and the restoring, and repairing of the new man, that is to say, of pureness, which is given us by grace: but both of them are but begun in us in this present life, and by certain degrees finished, the one dying in us by little and little, and the other coming to the perfection of another life, by little and little.

8 Newnes of life consisteth in knowledge, which transformeth man to the image of God his maker, that is to say, to the sincerity and pureness of the whole soul

e He speaketh of an effectuall knowledge.

9 He telleth them again that the gospel doth not respect those externall things, but true justification in Christ onely, which hath many fruits, as he reckoneth them up here: But commendeth two things especially, to wit, Godly concord, and continuall studie of Gods word.

k You are joyned together into one body through Gods goodnes, that you might help one another as fellow-members.

l By Psalms he meaneth all godly songs which were written upon divers occasions; and by Hymns, all such as contain the praise of God; and by spirituall songs, other more peculiar and artificious songs, which were also in praises of God, but they were made fuller of musik. m Call upon the name of Christ, when you do it, or do it to Christs praise and glory. 10 He goeth from precepts which concern the whole civill life of man, to precepts pertaining to every mans family, and requireth of wives subjection in the Lord. n For those wives do not well, that do not set God in Christ before them in their love, but this philosophy knoweth not. 11 He requireth of husbands, that they love their wives, and use them gently. 12 He requireth of children, that, according to Gods commandments, they be obedient to their parents. o In the Lord, and so it is expounded, Ephes. 6. 1. 13 Of parents, that they be gentle towards their children. 14 Of servants, that fearing God himself, to whom their obedience is acceptable, they reverently, faithfully, and from the heart obey their masters p For that, that you shall have duly obeyed your masters, the time shall come, that you shall be made sons, of servants, and then shall you know this of a suretie, which shall be when you are made partakers of the heavenly inheritance. 15 He requireth of masters, that being mindfull how that they themselvs also shall render an account before that heavenly Lord and master, which will revenge wrongfull doings without any respect of masters or servants, they shew themselvs just and upright, with equitie, unto their servants.

CHAP. IV.

1 He exhorteth them to be fervent in prayer, 4 to walk wisely toward them that are not yet come to the true knowledge of Christ. 10 He saluteth them, and wisheth them all prosperity.

MAsters, give unto your servants that which is just and equall, knowing that ye also have a Master in heaven.

The firſt epiſtle of PAUL the apoſtle TO THE THESSALONIANS.

CHAP. I.

1 The Theſſalonians are given to underſtand both how mindfull of them Saint Paul was at all times in thanksgiving, and prayer: 5 and alſo how well he was perſwaded of the truth, and ſincerity of their faith, and converſion to God.

PAul and Silvanus, and Timotheus, unto the church of the Theſſalonians, which is in God the Father, and in the Lord Jeſus Chriſt: grace be unto you, and peace from God our Father, and the Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

1 An example of right Chriſtian rejoycing, whereby alſo we learn, that ſuch as have great gifts in them, are in two ſorts bridled, to wit, If they conſider that they have received all from God, and that continuance muſt be deſired at his hands, whereunto alſo the whole epiſtle exhorteth the Theſſalonians.

2 We [1] give thanks to God always for you all, making mention of you in our prayers,

2 He commendeth them for three ſpeciall gifts, effectuall faith, continuall love, and patient hope: to the end they might be aſhamed, being indued with ſuch excellent gifts, not to continue in Gods election.

3 [2] Remembring without ceaſing your work of faith, and labour of love, and patience of hope in our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, in the ſight of God, and our Father:

‡ Or, beloved of God your election.

4 Knowing, brethren ‡ beloved, your [a] election of God.

a The apoſtle here ſheweth, that ſuch are to be judged the elect of God, in whom appeareth the fruits of election.

5 [3] For our goſpel came not unto you in word onely: but alſo in power, and in the holy Ghoſt, and in [b] much aſſurance, as ye know what manner of men we were among you for your ſake.

3 Another reaſon, why they ought in no wiſe to ſtart back, but continue to the end, becauſe they cannot doubt of this doctrin which hath been ſo many ways confirmed unto them even from heaven, as they themſelvs did well know.

6 [4] And ye became followers of us, and of the Lord, having received the word in much affliction, with [c] joy of the holy Ghoſt:

b Paul ſheweth, by two things, that there followed very great fruit of his preaching, to wit, By theſe gifts of the holy Goeſt, and that certain aſſurance which was throughly ſetled in their minds, as appeared by their willing bearing of the croſs.

7 So that ye were enſamples to all that beleeve in Macedonia and Achaia.

8 For from you ſounded out the word of the Lord, not onely in Macedonia and Achaia, but alſo in every place your faith to God-ward is ſpread abroad, ſo that we need not to ſpeak any thing.

4 Another reaſon, becauſe even that day they embraced the goſpel with great cheartulneſs, in ſo much that they were an example to all their neighbours: ſo that it ſhould be more ſhame to them to taint in the mid-race. c with joy which cometh from the holy Ghoſt.

9 For they [d] themſelvs ſhew of us, what manner of entring in we had unto you, and [5] how ye turned to God from idols, to ſerve the living and true God, d All the beleevers.

10 And to wait for his Son from heaven, whom he raiſed from the dead, even Jeſus which delivered [e] us from the wrath to come.

5 It is not true converſion to forſake idols, unleſs a man therewithall worſhip the true and living God in Chriſt the onely Redeemer.

e This word (us) is not put here without cauſe: and by (wrath) is meant that revenge and puniſhment, wherewith the Lord will judge the world at length in his terrible wrath.

CHAP. II.

1 In what manner the goſpel was brought and preached to the Theſſalonians, and in what ſort alſo they received it. 18 A reaſon is rendred both why Saint Paul was ſo long abſent from them, and alſo why he was ſo deſirous to ſee them.

FOr [1] your ſelvs, brethren, know our entrance in unto you, that it was not in vain.

1 That which he touched before ſhortly concerning his apoſtleſhip, he handleth now more at large, and to that end and purpoſe which we ſpake of.

2 [2] But even after that we had ſuffered before, and were ſhamefully entreated, as ye know, at Philippi, we were bold in [a] our God to ſpeak unto you the goſpel of God with much contention.

2 The vertues of a true paſtor are, freely without fear to preach the goſpel, even in the midſt of dangers.

a Through Gods gracious help.

3 [3] For our exhortation was not of deceit, nor of [b] uncleanneſs, nor in guil:

3 To teach pure doctrin faithfully and with a pure heart.

b By any wicked and naughty kind of dealing.

4 [4] But as we were [c] allowed of God to be put in truſt with the goſpel, even ſo we ſpeak, not as pleaſing men, but God, which [d] trieth our hearts.

4 To approve his conſcience to God, being free from all flattery and covetouſneſs.

c Seeing there is this difference between the judgements of God, and the judgements of men, that when men chuſe, they reſpect the qualities of thoſe things which ſtand before them; but God findeth the reaſon of his counſel onely in himſelf: it followeth, that ſeeing we are not able to think a good thought, that whomſoever he firſt chuſeth to thoſe callings, he maketh them able, and doth not find them able: And therefore in that we are allowed of God, it hangeth upon his mercie.

5 For neither at any time uſed we flattering words, as ye know, nor a cloke of covetouſneſs, God is witneſs.

d which liketh and alloweth of them.

6 [5] Nor of men ſought we glory, neither of you, nor yet of others, when we might have ‡ been [e] burdenſom, as the apoſtles of Chriſt.

5 To ſubmit himſelf even to the baſeſt, to win them, and to eſchew all pride.

‡ Or, uſed authority,

7 But we were gentle among you, even as a [f] nurs cheriſheth her children:

e when I might lawfully have lived upon the expences of the church.

8 [6] So being affectionately deſirous of you, we were willing to have imparted unto you, not the goſpel of God onely, but alſo our own ſouls, becauſe ye were dear unto us.

f we were not rough, but eaſie and gentle, as a nurs, that is, Neither ambitious, nor covetous, but taketh all pains as patiently as if ſhe were a mother.

9 [7] For ye remember, brethren, our labour and travell: for labouring night and day, becauſe we would not be chargeable unto any of you, we preached unto you the goſpel of God.

6 To have the flock that is committed unto him in more eſtimation than his own life. 7 To part with his own right, rather than to be chargeable to his ſheep.

10 [8] Ye are witneſſes, and God alſo, how holily, and juſtly, and unblameably we behaved our ſelvs among you that beleeve.

8 To excell others in example of godly life.

11 [9] As you know, how we exhorted and comforted, and charged every one of you (as a father doth his children)

9 To exhort and comfort with a fatherly mind and affection.

12 [10] That ye would walk worthy of God, who hath called you unto his kingdom and glory.

10 To exhort all men diligently and earneſtly to lead a godly life.

13 [11] For this cauſe alſo thank we God without ceaſing, becauſe when ye received the word of God which ye heard of us, ye received it not as the word of men, but (as it is in truth) the word of God, which effectually worketh alſo in you that beleeve.

11 Having approved his miniſtery, he commendeth again (to that end and purpoſe that I ſpake of) the cheartulneſs of the Theſſalonians, which was anſwerable to the diligence in preaching, and their manly patience.

14 [12] For

14 [12] For ye, brethren, became followers of the churches of God, which in Judea are [g] in Chriſt Jeſus: for ye alſo have ſuffered like things of your own [h] countreymen, even as they have of the Jews:

15 [13] Who both killed the Lord Jeſus, and their own prophets, and have ‡ perſecuted us: [14] and they pleaſe not God, and are contrary to [i] all men:

16 Forbidding us to ſpeak to the Gentiles, that they might be ſaved, to [k] fill up their ſins alway: [l] for the wrath is come upon them to the uttermoſt.

17 [15] But we, brethren, being [m] taken from you for a ſhort time, in preſence, not in heart, endeavoured the more abundantly to ſee your face with great deſire.

18 Wherefore we would have come unto you (even I Paul) once and again: but Satan hindered us.

19 For what is our hope, or joy, or crown of ‡ rejoycing? are not even ye in the preſence of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt at his coming?

20 For ye are our glory and joy.

12 He confirmeth them in their afflictions which they ſuffered of their own people, becauſe they were afflicted of their own countreymen: which came as well (ſaith he) to the churches of the Jews, as to them: and therefore they ought to take it in good part.
g which Chriſt hath gathered together.
h Even of them, which are of the ſame countrey, and the ſame town that you are of.
13 He preventeth an offence which might be taken, for that the Jews, eſpecially above all other, perſecuted the goſpel. That is no new thing, ſaith he, ſeeing they ſlew Chriſt himſelf, and his prophets, and have baniſhed me alſo.
‡ Or, chaſed us out:
14 He foretelleth the utter deſtruction of the Jews, leaſt any man ſhold be moved by their rebellion. i For the Jews would neither enter into the kingdom of God themſelvs, nor ſuffer others to enter in. k Untill that wickedneſs of theirs which they have by inheritance as it were, of their fathers, be grown ſo great, that the meaſure of their iniquity being filled, God may come forth to wrath. l The judgement of God being angry, which indeed appeared ſhortly after in the deſtruction of the city of Jeruſalem, whither many reſorted even out of divers provinces, when it was beſieged.
15 He meeteth with an objection, why he came not to them ſtraightways being in ſo great miſery, I deſired oftentimes (ſaith he) and it lay not in me, but Satan hindred my endeavours, and therefore I ſent Timothy my faithfull companion unto you, becauſe you are moſt dear to me. m were kept aſunder from you, and as it were orphans. ‡ Or, glorying?

Chap. III.

1 Saint Paul teſtifieth his great love to the Theſſalonians: partly by ſending Timothy unto them to ſtrengthen and comfort them: partly by rejoycing in their well-doing: 10 and partly by praying for them, and deſiring a ſafe coming unto them.

WHerefore when we could no longer forbear, we thought it good to be left at Athens alone:

2 And ſent Timotheus our brother and miniſter of God, and our fellow-labourer in the goſpel of Chriſt, to eſtabliſh you, and to comfort you concerning your faith:

3 That no man ſhould be moved by theſe afflictions: [1] for your ſelvs know that we are appointed thereunto.

4 For verily when we were with you, we told you before, that we ſhould ſuffer tribulation, even as it came to paſs, and ye know.

5 For this cauſe when I could no longer forbear, I ſent to know your faith, leaſt by ſome means the tempter have tempted you, and our labour be in vain.

6 [2] But now when Timotheus came from you unto us, and brought us good tidings of your faith and charity, and that ye have good remembrance of us always, deſiring greatly to ſee us, as we alſo to ſee you:

7 Therefore, brethren, we were comforted over you in all our affliction and diſtreſs by your faith:

8 For now we *[a] live, if ye ſtand faſt in the Lord.

9 For what thanks can we render to God again for you, for all the joy wherewith we joy for your ſakes before our God,

1 The will of God, who calleth his on this condition, to bring them to glory by affliction, is a moſt ſure remedy againſt all afflictions.

2 Becauſe they have hitherto gon ſo well forward, he exhorteth them again to make an end of the reſt of the journey, ſeeing that therein alſo they ſhall do him, their apoſtle, a great pleaſure.

* Rom. 7. 9.
a For now you cannot otherwiſe think me ſafe and in good caſe, unleſs you go forward in religion and faith.

10 Night and day praying exceedingly that we might ſee your face, and might [b] perfect that which is lacking in your faith.

11 Now God himſelf and our Father, and our Lord Jeſus Chriſt ‡ direct our way unto you.

12 [3] And the Lord make you to increaſe and abound in love one towards another, and towards all men, even as we do towards you:

13 To the end he may eſtabliſh your hearts unblameable in holineſs before God even our Father, at the coming of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt with all his ſaints.

b Paul was conſtrained through the importunate dealing of the enemies, to leave the building which he had ſcarce begun: And for that cauſe he had ſent Silvs and Timotheus in Macedonia, and when Timothy came to Athens to him, he ſent him back again ſtraightway. So that he deſireth to ſee the Theſſalonians, that he may throughly accompliſh their faith and religion, that was as yet imperfect. ‡ Or, guide 3 Another part of the epiſtle, wherein he ſpeaketh of the duties of a Chriſtian life. And he ſheweth that the perfection of a Chriſtian life, conſiſteth in two things, to wit, in charity toward all men, and inward purity of the heart, the accompliſhment whereof notwithſtanding is deferred to the next coming of Chriſt, who will then perfit his work by the ſame grace wherewith he begun it in us.

Chap. IV.

1 He exhorteth them to go on forward in all manner of godlineſs, 6 to live holily, and juſtly, 9 to love one another, 11 and quietly to follow their own buſineſs: 13 and laſt of all to ſorrow moderately for the dead. 17 And unto this laſt exhortation is annexed a brief deſcription of the reſurrection, and ſecond coming of Chriſt to judgement.

FUrthermore [1] then we ‡ beſeech you, brethren, and ‡ exhort you by the Lord Jeſus, that as ye have received of us how you ought to walk, and to pleaſe God, ſo ye would [a] abound more and more.

2 For ye know what commandments we gave you, by the Lord Jeſus.

3 [2] For this is the will of God, even your [b] ſanctification, that ye ſhould abſtain from fornication:

4 [3] That every one of you ſhould know how to poſſeſs his veſſel in ſanctification and and honour:

5 [4] Not in the luſt of concupiſcence, even as the Gentiles which know not God.

6 [5] That no man go beyond and ‡ defraud his brother ‡ in any matter, becauſe that the Lord is the avenger of all ſuch, as we alſo have forewarned you, and teſtified.

7 For God hath not called us unto uncleanneſs, but unto holineſs.

8 He therefore that ‡ [c] deſpiſeth, deſpiſeth not man, but God, who hath alſo given unto us his holy Spirit.

9 [6] But as touching brotherly love, ye need not that I write unto you: for ye your ſelvs are taught of God to love one another.

10 And indeed ye do it towards all the brethren, which are in all Macedonia: but we beſeech you, brethren, that ye increaſe more and more:

11 [7] And that ye ſtudy to be quiet, and to do your own buſineſs, [8] and to work with your own hands, (as we commanded you)

12 That ye may walk honeſtly toward them that are without, and that ye may have lack ‡ of nothing.

13 [9] But I would not have you to be ignorant, brethren, [10] concerning them which [11] are

1 Divers exhortations, the ground whereof is this, to be mindfull of thoſe things which they have heard of the apoſtle.
‡ Or, requeſt
‡ Or, beſeech
a That ye labour to excell more and more, and daily paſs your ſelvs.
2 This is the ſum of thoſe things which he delivered them, to dedicate themſelvs wholly to God. And he condemneth plainly all filthineſs through luſt, becauſe it is altogether contrary to the will of God.
b Look John. 17. 17.
3 Another reaſon, becauſe it defileth the body.
4 The third, becauſe the ſaints are diſcerned from them which know not God by honeſty and purity.
5 Secondly, he reprehendeth all violent oppreſſion, and immoderate deſire, and ſheweth moſt ſeverely, as the prophet of God, that God will revenge ſuch wickedneſs.
‡ Or, oppreſs or overreach
‡ Or, in the matter,
‡ Or, rejecteth,
c The commandments which I gave you.
6 Thirdly, he requireth a ready mind to all manner of loving-kindneſs, and exhorteth them to profit more and more in that vertue.
7 He condemneth unquiet brains, and ſuch as are curious in matters which appertain not unto them.

8 He rebuketh idleneſs and ſlothfulneſs, which vices whoſoever are given unto, fall in other wickedneſs, to the great offence of the church. ‡ Or, to no man. 9 The third part of the epiſtle, which is interlaced among the former exhortations (which he returneth unto afterward) wherein he ſpeaketh of mourning for the dead, and the manner of the reſurrection, and of the latter day. 10 we muſt take heed that we do not immoderately bewail the dead, that is, as they uſe to do which think that they are utterly periſhed. 11 A confirmation: for death is but a ſleep of the body (for he ſpeaketh of the faithfull) untill the Lord cometh.

aſleep,

asleep, that ye sorrow not, even as others which have no hope.

14 [12] For if we believe that Jesus died, and rose again, even so them also which sleep in [d] Jesus will God [e] bring with him.

15 [13] For this we say unto you by the [f] word of the Lord, that [g] we which are alive and remain unto the coming of the Lord, shall not prevent them which are asleep.

16 For the Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a [h] shout, with the voice of the archangel, and with the trump of God: and the dead in Christ shall rise first.

17 Then we which are alive, and remain, shall be [i] caught up together with them in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air: and so shall we ever be with the Lord.

18 Wherefore, ‡ comfort one another with these words.

12 A reason of the confirmation, for seeing that the head is risen, the members also shall rise, and that by the vertue of God.
d They die in Christ, which continue in faith, whereby they are grafted into Christ, even to the last gasp.
e will call their bodies out of their grave, and joyn their souls to them again.
13 The manner of the resurrection shall be thus: The bodies of the dead shall be as it were raised out of sleep at the sound of the trumpet of God, Christ himself shall descend from heaven The saints (for he speaketh properly of them) which shall then be found alive, together with the dead which shall rise shall be taken up into the clouds to meet the Lord, and shall be in perpetuall glory with him f In the name of the Lord, as though he himself spake unto you. g He speaketh of these things, as though he should be one of them, whom the Lord shall find alive at his coming, because that time is uncertain: and therefore every one of us ought to be in such a readiness, as if the Lord were coming at every moment. h The word which the apostle useth here, signifieth properly that incouragement which mariners use one to another, when they altogeth r, with one shout put forth their oars and row together. i Suddenly and in the twinkling of an eye. ‡ Or, exhort

Chap. V.

1 He proceedeth in the former description of Christs coming to judgement, 16 and giveth divers precepts, 23 and so concludeth the epistle.

BUt [1] of the times & the [a] seasons, brethren, ye have no need that I write unto you.

2 For your selvs know perfectly that the day of the Lord so cometh as a thief in the night.

3 For when they shall say, Peace and safety: then sudden destruction cometh upon them, as travail upon a woman with child; and they shall not escape.

4 [2] But ye, brethren, are not in darkness, that that day should overtake you as a thief.

5 Ye are all the children of light, and the children of the day: we are not of the night, nor of darkness.

6 Therefore let us not sleep as do others: but let us watch and be sober.

7 For they that sleep, sleep in the night, and they that be drunken, are drunken in the night.

8 [3] But let us who are of the day, be sober, putting on the breast-plate of faith and love, and for an helmet, the hope of salvation.

9 [4] For God hath not appointed us to wrath: but to obtain salvation by our Lord Jesus Christ,

1 The day that God hath appointed for this judgement, we know not: But this is sure that it shall come upon men when they look for nothing less.
a Look Acts 1, 7.
2 Returning to exhortations he warneth us which are lightened with the knowledge of God, that it is our duty not to live securely in deliciousness, least we be suddenly taken in a dead sleep in pleasures: but contrariwise to have an eye to the Lord, and not suffer our selvs to be oppressed with the cares of this world, for that is meet for the darkness of the night, and this for the light.
3 we must fight with faith and hope, much less ought we lie carelessly snorting. 4 He pricketh us forwards by setting most certain hope of victory before us.

10 [5] Who died for us, that whether we wake or sleep, we should live together with him.

11 [6] Wherefore ‡ comfort your selvs together, and edify one another, even as also ye do.

12 [7] And we beseech you, brethren, to [b] know them which labour among you, & are over you in the [c] Lord, and admonish you;

13 And to esteem them very highly in love [d] for their works sake. And [8] be at peace among your selvs.

14 [9] Now we ‡ exhort you, brethren, warn them that are ‡ [e] unruly, comfort the feeble-minded, support the weak, be patient toward all men.

15 [10] See that none render evil for evil unto any man: but ever follow that which is good, both among your selvs, and to all men.

16 [11] Rejoyce evermore.

17 Pray without ceasing.

18 In every thing give thanks: for this is the [f] will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you.

19 [12] Quench not the spirit.

20 Despise not [g] prophesyings.

21 Prove all things: hold fast that which is good.

22 [13] Abstain from all [a] appearance of evil.

23 And the very God of peace [i] sanctify you wholly: and I pray God your whole spirit and soul and body be preserved blameless unto the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ.

24 [14] [k] Faithfull is he that calleth you, who also will [l] do it.

25 [15] Brethren, pray for us.

26 Greet all the brethren with an holy kiss.

27 I ‡ charge you by the Lord, that this epistle be read unto all the holy brethren.

28 The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you. Amen.

¶ The first epistle unto the Thessalonians, was written from Athens.

5 The death of Christ is a pledg of our victory, for therefore he died, that we might be partakers of his life or vertue, yea even whiles we live here.
6 we must not onely watch our selvs, but we are also bound to stir up and confirm one another.
‡ Or, exhort

THE

The ſecond Epiſtle of PAUL the Apoſtle TO THE THESSALONIANS.

CHAP. I.

1 Saint Paul certifieth them of the good opinion which he had of their faith, love, and patience: and therewithall uſeth divers reaſons for the comforting of them in perſecution, whereof the chiefeſt is taken from the righteous judgement of God.

PAul and Silvanus, and Timotheus, unto the church of the Theſſalonians, in God our Father, and the LORD Jeſus Chriſt;

2 Grace unto you, and peace from God our Father, and the Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

1 The firſt part of the epiſtle, wherein he rejoyceth that through the grace of God, they have manfully ſuſtained all the aſſaults of their enemies, wherein he confirmeth them: moreover ſhewing with what gifts they muſt chiefly fight, to wit, with faith and charity, which muſt daily increaſe

a That whereas it grew up before, it doth alſo receive ſome increaſe every day more and more.

2 He openeth the fountain of all true comfort, to wit, that in afflictions which we ſuffer of the wicked for righteouſneſs ſake, we may behold as it were in a glas the teſtimony of that judgement to come, and the end thereof moſt acceptable to us, and moſt ſharp to his enemies.

3 A proof: God is juſt, therefore he will worthily puniſh the unjuſt, and will do away the miſeries of his people.

4 He confirmeth them alſo by the way, by this means, that the condition both of this preſent ſtate, and the ſtate to come, is common to him with them.

3 [1] We are bound to thank God always for you, brethren, as it is meet, becauſe that your faith [a] groweth exceedingly, and the charity of every one of you all towards each other aboundeth:

4 So that we our ſelvs glory in you in the churches of God, for your patience and faith in all your perſecutions and tribulations that ye endure.

5 [2] Which is a manifeſt token of the righteous judgement of God, that ye may be counted worthy of the kingdom of God, for which ye alſo ſuffer.

6 [3] Seeing it is a righteous thing with God, to recompenſe tribulation to them that trouble you;

7 And to you who are troubled, [4] reſt with us, [5] when the Lord Jeſus ſhall be revealed from heaven, with † his mighty angels,

8 In flaming fire, ‡ taking vengeance on them [6] that know not God, and that obey not the goſpel of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt;

9 Who ſhall be puniſhed with everlaſting deſtruction from the preſence of the Lord, and from the glory of his power:

10 When he ſhall come to be glorified in his ſaints, and to be admired in all them that believe ([7] becauſe our teſtimony among you was believed) in that day.

11 [8] Wherefore alſo we pray always for you, that our God would ‡ count you [b] worthy of this calling, and fulfill all the [c] good pleaſure of his goodneſs, and the [d] work of faith with power.

12 That the name of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt may be glorified in you, and ye in him, according to the grace of our God, and the Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

c which he determined long ſince, onely upon his gracious and mercifull goodneſs toward you.

d So then, faith is an excellent work of God in us: and we ſee here plainly that the apoſtle leaveth nothing to free will, to make it check-mate with Gods working therein, as the papiſts dream.

CHAP. II.

1 He willeth them to continue ſtedfaſt in the truth received, 3 ſheweth that there ſhall be a departure from the faith, 9 and a diſcovery of Antichriſt, before the day of the Lord come. 15 And thereupon repeateth his former exhortation, and prayeth for them.

NOw [1] we beſeech you, brethren, by the coming of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, and by our [a] gathering together unto him,

2 [2] That ye be not ſoon ſhaken in mind, or be troubled, neither by [b] ſpirit, nor by [c] word, nor by [d] letter, as from us, as that the day of Chriſt is at hand.

3 Let no man deceive you by any means: [3] for that day ſhall not come, except there come a falling away firſt, and [e] that man of ſin be revealed, the ſon of perdition:

4 Who oppoſeth and [f] exalteth himſelf above all that is called God, or that is worſhipped: [4] ſo that he as God ſitteth in the temple of God, ſhewing himſelf that he is God.

5 [5] Remember ye not, that when I was yet with you; I told you theſe things?

6 And now ye know [g] what ‡ withholdeth, that he might be revealed in his time.

7 [6] For the myſtery of iniquity doth already work: [7] onely he who now [h] letteth, will let, untill he be taken out of the way.

8 [8] And then ſhall [i] that wicked be revealed, whom the Lord ſhall [k] conſume with the [l] ſpirit of his mouth, & ſhall deſtroy with the brightneſs of his coming:

1 The ſecond part of the epiſtle, containing an excellent prophecy of the ſtate of the church, which ſhall be from the apoſtles time unto the latter day of judgement.

a If we think earneſtly upon that unmeaſurable glory, which we ſhall be partakers of with Chriſt, it will be an excellent remedy for us againſt wavering and impatience, ſo that neither the gliſtering of the world ſhall allure us, nor the dreadfull ſight of the croſs diſmay us.

2 we muſt take heed of fals prophets, eſpecially in this matter, which go about to deceive, and that for the moſt part, after three ſorts: for either they brag of fained propheticall revelations, or they bring conjecturs and reaſons of their own, or uſe counterfeit writings.

b By dreams and fables, which men pretend to be ſpirituall revelations. c Either by word of mouth, or by books written. d Either by forged letter, or falſly gloſed upon. 3 The apoſtle foretelleth that before the coming of the Lord, there ſhall be a throne ſet up clean contrary to Chriſts glory, wherein that wicked man ſhall ſit, and transfer all things that appertain to God, to himſelf, and many ſhall fall away from God to him. e By ſpeaking of one, he pointeth out the body of the tyrannous and perſecuting church. f All men know who he is that ſaith he can ſhut up heaven and open it at his pleaſure, and took upon him to be Lord and Maſter above all kings and princes, before whom kings and princes fall down and worſhip, honouring that Antichriſt as a god. 4 He foretelleth that Antichriſt (that is, whoſoever he be that ſhall occupy that ſeat that falleth away from God) ſhall not reign without the church, but in the very boſom of the church. 5 This prophecy was continually declared to the ancient church, but it was neglected of them that followed. g what hindereth and ſtayeth, ‡ Or, holdeth, 6 Even in the apoſtles time the firſt foundation of the apoſtaticall ſeat was laid, but yet ſo that they deceived men. 7 He foretelleth, that when the empire of Rome is taken away, the ſeat that falleth away from God, ſhall ſucceed and hold his place, as the old writers. Tertullian, Chryſoſtome and Hierome do expound it. h He which is now in authority, and ruleth all, to wit, the Roman empire. 8 That wickedneſs ſhall at length be detected by the word of the Lord, and ſhall utterly be abolished by Chriſts coming. i word for word, that lawleſs fellow, that is to ſay, he that ſhall tread Gods law clean under foot. k Bring to nought. l with his word, for the true miniſters of the word are as a mouth, whereby the Lord breatheth out that mighty and everlaſting word, which ſhall break his enemies in ſunder, as it were an iron rod.

1 The firſt part of the epiſtle, wherein he rejoyceth that through the grace of God, they have manfully ſuſtained all the aſſaults of their enemies, wherein he confirmeth them: moreover ſhewing with what gifts they muſt chiefly fight, to wit, with faith and charity, which muſt daily increaſe

a That whereas it grew up before, it doth alſo receive ſome increaſe every day more and more.

2 He openeth the fountain of all true comfort, to wit, that in afflictions which we ſuffer of the wicked for righteouſneſs ſake, we may behold as it were in a glas the teſtimony of that judgement to come, and the end thereof moſt acceptable to us, and moſt ſharp to his enemies.

3 A proof: God is juſt, therefore he will worthily puniſh the unjuſt, and will do away the miſeries of his people.

4 He confirmeth them alſo by the way, by this means, that the condition both of this preſent ſtate, and the ſtate to come, is common to him with them. 5 A moſt glorious deſcription of the ſecond coming of Chriſt, to be ſet againſt all the miſeries of the godly, and the triumphs of the wicked. † Gr. the angels of his power, ‡ Or, yielding 6 There is no knowledge of God unto ſalvation, without the goſpel of Chriſt. 7 The children of God ſhall be counted by the faith which they have in the goſpel, which is preached unto them by the apoſtles. 8 Seeing that we have the mark ſet before us, it remaineth that we go unto it. And we go to it, by certain degrees of cauſes: firſt by the free love and good pleaſure of God, by vertue whereof all other inferiour cauſes work: from thence proceedeth the free calling to Chriſt, and from calling, faith, whereupon followeth both the glorifying of Chriſt in us, and us in Chriſt. ‡ Or, vouchſafe b By (calling) he meaneth not the very act of calling, but that ſelfſame thing whereunto we are called, which is the glory of that heavenly kingdom.

9 [9] Even him whose coming is after the working of Satan, with all power, and signs, and [m] lying wonders,

10 And with all deceiveableness of unrighteousness, in them that perish; because they received not the love of the truth, that they might be saved.

11 And for this cause God shall send them [n] strong delusion, that they should believe a lie:

12 That they all might be damned, who believed not the truth, but [o] had pleasure in unrighteousness.

13 [10] But we are bound to give thanks alway to God for you, brethren, beloved of the Lord, because God hath from the beginning chosen you to salvation, through [p] sanctification of the Spirit, and [q] belief of the truth, 14 Whereunto he called you by our [r] gospel, to the obtaining of the glory of our Lord Jesus Christ.

15 [11] Therefore brethren stand fast, and hold the traditions which ye have been taught, whether by word, or our epistle.

16 Now our Lord Jesus Christ himself, and God even our Father, which hath loved us, and hath given us everlasting consolation, and good hope through grace, 17 Comfort your hearts, and stablish you in every good word and work.

9 He foretelleth, that Satan will bestow all his might and power, and use all fals miracles that he can to establish his seat, and that with great success, because the wickedness of the world doth so deserve it. yet so, that onely the unfaithfull shall perish through his deceit.
m which are partly fals, and partly wrought to establish a falshood.
n A most mighty working to deceive them.
o They liked lyes so well, that they had pleasure in them, which is the greatest madness that may be.
10 The elect shall stand stedfast and safe from all their mischiefs. Now election is known by these testimonies: faith is gathered by sanctification: faith by that, that we accord unto the truth: truth by calling, through the preaching of the gospel: from whence we come at length to a certain hope of glorification.
p To sanctify you.
q Faith which layeth hold not upon lies, but upon the truth of God, which is the gospel. r By our preaching 11 The conclusion: It remaineth then that we continue in the doctrin which was delivered unto us by the mouth & writings of the apostles, through that free good will of God, which comforteth us with an invincible hope, and also in all godliness our whole life long.

Chap. III.

1 He craveth their prayers for himself, 3 testifieth what confidence he hath in them, 5 maketh request to God in their behalf, 6 giveth them divers precepts, especially to shun idleness and ill company. 16 And last of all, concludeth with prayer and salutation.

FInally, [1] brethren, pray for us, that the † word of the Lord may have free course, and be glorified even as it is with you:

2 And that we may be delivered from † [a] unreasonable and wicked men: [2] for all men have not faith.

3 But the Lord is faithfull, who shall stablish you, and keep you from [b] evil.

4 [3] And we have confidence in the Lord touching you, that ye both do and will do the things which we command you.

1 He addeth now consequently according to his manner, divers admonitions: The first of them is, that they make prayers for the increase and free passage of the gospel, and for the safety of the faithfull ministers of the same.
† Gr, may run,
† Gr, absurd
a which have no care of their duty.
2 It is no marvell that the gospel is hated of so many, seeing that faith is a rare gift of God. Notwithstanding the church shall never be destroyed by the multitude of the wicked, because it is grounded and staved upon the faithfull promise of God. b From Satans snares, or from evil. 3 The second admonition is, that they follow always the doctrin of the apostles as a rule for their life.

5 [4] And the Lord direct your hearts into the love of God, and into ‡ the patient waiting for Christ.

6 [5] Now we command you, brethren, in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that ye withdraw your selvs from every brother that walketh disorderly, and not after the tradition which he received of us.

7 [6] For your selvs know how ye ought to follow us, for we behaved not our selvs disorderly among you,

8 Neither did we eat any mans bread for nought: but wrought with labour and travell night and day, that we might not be chargeable to any of you.

9 Not because we have not power, but to make our selvs an ensample unto you to follow us.

10 For even when we were with you, this we commanded you, that if any would not work, [c] neither should he eat.

11 For we hear that there are some which walk among you [7] disorderly, working not at all, but are busy-bodies.

12 [9] Now them that are such we command, and exhort by our Lord Jesus Christ, that with quietness they work, and eat their own bread.

13 [10] But ye, brethren, ‡ be not weary in well doing.

14 [11] And if any man obey not our word ‡ by this epistle, note that man, & have no [12] company with him, that he may be [13] ashamed.

15 [14] Yet count him not as an enemy, but admonish him as a brother.

16 [15] Now the Lord of peace himself give you peace always, by all means. The Lord be with you all.

17 [16] The salutation of Paul with mine own hand, which is the token in every epistle: so I write.

18 The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all. Amen.

¶ The second epistle to the Thessalonians was written from Athens.

4 Thirdly, he diligently & earnestly admonisheth them of two things which are given us by the onely grace of God, to wit, of charity, and a watchfull mind of the coming of Christ.
‡ Or, the patience of Christ.
5 Fourthly, he saith, that idle and lazy persons ought not to be relieved of the church, nay, that they are not to be suffered.
6 Lest he might seem to deal hardly with them, he setteth forth himself for an example, who besides his travell in preaching, laboured with his hands, which he saith he was not simply bound to do.
c what shall we do then with those idle bellied monks and sacrificing priests? A monk (saith Socrates, book 8. of the Tripartite history) which worketh not with his hands, is like a thief.
7 How great a fault idleness is, he declareth by that, that God created no man in vain, or to no purpose, neither is there any unto whom he hath not allotted, as it were a certain standing and room. whereupon it followeth, that the order which God hath appointed, is troubled by the idle, yea broken, which is great sin and wickedness.
8 He reprehendeth a vice, which is joyned with the former, whereupon follow an infinite sort of mischiefs: to wit, that there are none more busy in other mens matters than they which neglect their own.
9 The Lord commandeth and the apostles pray in the name of Christ, first, that no man be idle, and next, that every man do quietly and carefully see to do his duty in that office and calling wherein the Lord hath placed him. 10 we must take heed, that some mens unworthiness cause us not to be slacker in well doing. ‡ Or, faint not 11 Excommunication is a punishment for the obstinate. ‡ Or, signify that man by an epistle, 12 we must have no familiarity nor fellowship with the excommunicate. 13 The end of excommunication is not the destruction, but the salvation of the sinner, that at last through shame he may be driven to repentance. 14 we must so eschew familiarity with the excommunicate, that we diligently seek all occasions and means that may be, to bring them again into the right way. 15 Prayers are the seals of all exhortations. 16 The apostle subscribeth his letter with his own hands that fals letters might not be brought and put in place of true.

The first Epistle of PAUL the Apostle TO TIMOTHY.

CHAP. I.

1 Timothy is put in mind of the charge which was given unto him by Paul, at his going to Macedonia. 5 Of the right use and end of the law. 11 Of Saint Pauls calling to be an apostle, 20 and of Hymeneus and Alexander.

1 First of all he avoucheth his own free vocation and also Timothies, that the one might be confirmed by the other: and therewithall he declareth the sum of the apostolicall doctrin, to wit, the mercy of God in Christ Jesus, apprehended by faith, the end whereof is yet hoped for.

PAul [1] an apostle of Jesus Christ by the commandment of God our Saviour, and Lord Jesus Christ, which is our hope;

2 Unto Timothy, my own son in the faith: grace, [a] mercy, and peace from God our Father, and Jesus Christ our Lord.

a There is as much difference betwixt mercy and grace, as is betwixt the effect and the cause: for grace is that free good will of God, whereby he chose us in Christ, and mercy is that free justification which followeth it.

3 [2] As I besought thee to abide still at Ephesus when I went into Macedonia, that thou mightest charge some that they teach no other doctrin:

2 This whole epistle consisteth in admonitions, wherein all the duties of a faithfull pastour are lively set out. And the first admonition is this, that no innovation be made either in the apostles doctrin it self, or in the manner of teaching it.

4 [3] Neither give heed to fables, and endless [b] genealogies, which minister questions, rather than godly edifying, which is in faith: so do.

3 The doctrin is corrupted not onely by false opinions, but also by vain & curious speculations: the declaration and utterance whereof can nothing help our faith.

5 [4] Now the end of the [c] commandment is [d] charity, out of a pure heart, and of a good conscience, and of faith unfeigned:

b He noteth out one kind of vain questions.

6 [5] From which some ‡ having swerved, have turned aside unto vain jangling;

4 The second admonition, is that the right use and practice of the doctrin must be joyned with the doctrin. And that consisteth in pure charity and a good conscience, and true faith.

7 [6] Desiring to be teachers of the law, understanding neither what they say, nor whereof they affirm.

8 [7] But we know that the law is good, if a man use it lawfully;

9 [8] Knowing this, that the law is not made for a [e] righteous man, but for the lawless and disobedient, for the ungodly and for [f] sinners, for unholy and profane, for murderers of fathers, and murderers of mothers, for manslayers,

10 For whoremongers, for them that defile themselvs with mankind, for men-stealers, for liars, for perjured persons, and if there be any other thing that is contrary to sound doctrin:

11 [9] According to the glorious gospel of the blessed God, [10] which was committed to my trust.

c Of the law. d There is neither love without a good conscience, nor a good conscience without faith, nor faith without the word of God. 5 That which he spake before generally of vain and curious controversies, he applyeth to them which pretending a zeal of the law, dwelled upon outward things, and never made an end of babling of foolish trifles. ‡ Or, not aiming at, 6 There are none more unlearned, and more impudent in usurping the name of holiness, than foolish sophisticall bablers. 7 The taking away of an objection: He condemneth not the law, but requireth the right use and practice of it. 8 He indeed escapeth the curse of the law, and therefore doth not abhor it, who fleeing and eschewing those things which the law condemneth, giveth himself with all his heart, to observe it: and not he that maketh a vain babling of outward and curious matters. e And such a one is he whom the Lord hath endued with true doctrin, and with the Holy Ghost. f To such as make an art, as it were, of sinning. 9 He setteth against fond and vain babling, not onely the law, but the gospel also, which condemneth not, but greatly commendeth the wholesom doctrin contained in the commandments of God, and therefore he calleth it a glorious gospel, and the gospel of the blessed God, the vertue whereof these bablers knew not. 10 A reason why neither any other gospel is to be taught than he hath taught in the church, neither after any other sort, because there is no other gospel beside that, which God committed to him.

12 [11] And I thank Christ Jesus our Lord, who hath [g] enabled me: for that he counted me faithfull, putting me into the ministry, 11 He maintaineth of necessity his apostleship against some that did carp at his former life, debasing himself even to hell, to advance Christs onely mercy, wherewith he abolished all those his former doings.

13 Who was before a [h] blasphemer, and a persecuter, and injurious. But I obtained mercy, because I did it ignorantly, in unbelief.

g which gave me strength, not onely when I had no will to do well, but also when I was wholly given to do evil.

14 And the grace of our Lord was exceeding abundant, with [12] faith, and love which is in Christ Jesus.

h These are the preparative works which Paul braggeth of.

15 ¶ [13] This is a [i] faithfull saying, and worthy of all acceptation, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners, of whom I am chief.

12 He proveth this change by the effects, for that, that he that was a profane man, is become a believer: and that did most outragiously persecute Christ, burneth now in love toward him.

16 Howbeit, for this cause I obtained mercy, that in me first Jesus Christ might shew forth all long-suffering, for a pattern to them which should hereafter believe on him to life everlasting.

17 ¶ [14] Now unto the king eternall, immortall, invisible, the [k] onely wise God, be honour and glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

13 He turneth the reproach of the adversaries upon their own heads, shewing that this singular example of the goodness of God, redoundeth to the commodity of the whole church.

18 ¶ [15] This charge I commit unto thee, son Timothy, according to the prophecies which went before on thee, that thou by [l] them mightst war a good warfare:

i worthy to be believed.

19 Holding faith, [m] and a good conscience, [16] which some having put away, concerning faith have made shipwrack.

14 He breaketh out into an exclamation, even for very zeal of mind for that he cannot satisfy himself in amplifying the grace of God. k Look John. 17. 3. 15 The conclusion of both the former fatherly admonitions, to wit, that Timothy striving manfully against all lets, being called to the ministery according to many prophecies which went before of him, should both maintain the doctrin which he had received, and keep also a good conscience. l By the help of them. m wholesom and sound doctrin. 16 whosoever keep not a good conscience, do lose also by little and little the gift of understanding: which he proveth by two most lamentable examples. 17 Such as fall from God, and his religion, are not to be suffered in the church, but rather ought to be excommunicated. n Cast out of the church, and so delivered them to Satan. o That by their smart they might learn what it is to blaspheme.

CHAP. II.

1 That it is meet to pray and give thanks for all men, and the reason why. 9 How women should be attired. 12 They are not permitted to teach. 15 They shall be saved, notwithstanding the testimonies of Gods wrath in child-birth, if they continue in faith.

I ‡ [1] Exhort therefore, that first of all, supplications, prayers, intercessions, and giving of thanks be made for all men:

‡ Or, desire

1 Having dispatched those things which pertain to doctrin, he speaketh now in the second place of the other part of the ministery of the word, to wit, of publik prayers. And first of all, declaring this question for whom we ought pray: he teacheth that we must pray for all men, and especially, for all manner of magistrats, which thing was at that time somewhat doubted of, seeing that kings, yea, and the most part of magistrats were at that time enemies of the church. Or, eminent place, ‡ An argument taken of the end: to wit, because that magistrats are appointed to this end, that men might peaceably and quietly live in all godliness and honesty, and therefore must we commend them especially to God, that they may faithfully execute so necessary an office. a This word containeth all kind of duty which is to be used amongst men in all their affairs.

2 For kings, and for all that are in ‡ authority, [2] that we may lead a quiet and peaceable life in all godliness and [a] honesty.

3 Another argument, why churches or congregations ought to pray for all men, without any difference of nation, kind, age, or order, to wit, because the Lord by calling of all sorts, yea, sometime those that are greatest enemies to the gospel, will have his church gathered together after this sort, & therefore prayers to be made for all.
4 God should not els be manifested to be the onely God of all men, unless he should shew his goodness in saving of all sorts of men: neither should Christ be seen to be the onely Mediatour between God and all sorts of men, by having taken upon him the nature of man which is common to all men, unless he had satisfied for all sorts of men, and made intercession for all.
b Christ Jesus which was made man.
‡ Or, a testimony
5 A confirmation, because that even to the gentiles is the secret of salvation now opened and made manifest, the apostle himself being appointed properly to this office, which he doth faithfully and sincerely execute. c Faithfully and sincerely and by faith: he meaneth wholesom and sound doctrin, and by truth, and upright and sincere handling of it. 6 He hath spoken of the persons for whom we must pray: and now he teacheth, that the difference of place is taken away: for in times past, one onely nation, and in one certain place, came together to publik service. but now churches or congregations are gathered together every where, (orderly and decently) and men come together to serve God publikly with common prayer, neither must we strive for the nation, or for the purification of the body, or for the place, but for the mind to have it clean from all offence, and full of sure trust and confidence. d He putteth the sign for the thing it self, the lifting up of hands for the calling upon God. e without these griefs and offences of the mind, which hinder us from calling upon God with a good conscience f Doubting which is against faith, James 1. 6. 7 Thirdly, he appointeth women to learn in the publik assemblies with silence and modesty, being comly apparelled, without any riot or excess in their apparell. ‡ Or, plaited. 8 The first argument. why it is not lawfull for women to teach in the congregation, because by this means they should be placed above men, for they should be their masters: wh ch is against Gods ordinance. 9 He proveth this ordinance of God, whereby the woman is subject to man, first by that that God made the woman after man, for mans sake. 10 Then, because that after sin, God enjoyned the women this punishment, for that the man was deceived by her. g Adam was deceived, but through his wives means, and therefore she is worthily for this cause subject to her husband, and ought to be. 11 He addeth a comfort by the way, that their subjection hindereth not, but that women may be saved as well as men, if they behave themselvs in those burdens of marriage holily and modestly, with faith and charity.

3 [3] For this is good and acceptable in the sight of God our Saviour:

4 Who will have all men to be saved, and to come unto the knowledge of the truth.

5 [4] For there is one God, and one mediatour between God and men, the [b] man Christ Jesus.

6 Who gave himself a ransom for all, ‡ [5] to be testified in due time.

7 Whereunto I am ordained a preacher, and an apostle, (I speak the truth in Christ, and lie not) a teacher of the Gentiles in [c] faith and verity.

8 ¶ [6] I will therefore that men pray every where, [d] lifting up holy hands, without [e] wrath and [f] doubting.

9 ¶ [7] In like manner also, that women adorn themselvs in modest apparell, with shamefac'dness and sobriety: not with ‡ broidred hair, or gold, or pearls, or costly aray;

10 But (which becometh women professing godliness) with good works.

11 ¶ Let the women learn in silence with all subjection.

12 But I suffer not a woman to teach, [8] nor to usurp authority over the man, but to be in silence.

13 [9] For Adam was first formed, then Eve.

14 [10] And Adam was not [g] deceived, but the woman being deceived was in the transgression.

15 [11] Notwithstanding she shall be saved in child-bearing, if they continue in faith and charity, and holiness with sobriety.

Chap. III.

1 How bishops, and deacons, and their wives should be qualified, 14 and to what end S. Paul wrote to Timothy of these things. 15 Of the church, and the blessed truth, therein taught and professed.

1 Having dispatched the treatise, as well of doctrin and of the manner of handling of it, as also of publik prayer, he now in the third place cometh to the persons themselvs, speaking first, of pastors, and afterward of deacons, and he useth a preface, that the church may know that these be certain and sure rules. 2 A bishoprick, or the ministery of the sword is not an idle dignity, but a work, and that an excellent work, and therefore a bishop must be furnished with many vertues both at home and abroad; wherefore it is requisit before he be chosen to examin well his learning, his gifts, and ableness, and his life. a He speaketh not here of ambitious seeking, in the which there cannot be a worse fault in the church, but generally of the mind and disposition of man, framed and disposed to help and edifie the church of God, when and wheresoever it shall please the Lord. b Therefore he that shutteth out married men from the office of bishops, onely because they are married, is antichrist. ‡ Or, modest, ‖ Or, not ready to quarrill and offer wrong, as one in wine, c A common tipler, and one that will sit by it.

THis [1] is a true saying, [2] If a man [a] desire the office of a bishop, he desireth a good work.

2 A bishop then must be blameless, the husband of [b] one wife, vigilant, sober, ‡ of good behaviour, given to hospitality, apt to teach;

3 ‡ Not [c] given to wine, no striker, not greedy of filthy lucre, but patient, not a brauler, not covetous;

4 One that ruleth well his own house, having his children in subjection with all gravity.

5 (For if a man know not how to rule his own house, how shall he take care of the church of God?)

6 Not ‡ a novice, least being lifted up with pride, he fall into the [d] condemnation of the devil.

7 Moreover, he must have a good report of them which are without, least he fall into reproach, and the snare of the devil.

8 ¶ [3] Likewise must the [e] deacons be grave, not double-tongued, not given to much wine, not greedy of filthy lucre.

9 Holding the [f] mystery of the faith in a pure conscience.

10 And let these also first be proved; then let them use the office of a deacon, being found blameless.

11 [4] Even so must their wives be grave, not slanderers, sober, faithful in all things.

12 [5] Let the deacons be the husbands of one wife, ruling their children, and their own houses well.

13 For they that have ‡ used the office of a deacon well, purchase to themselvs a good [g] degree, and [h] great boldness in the faith, which is in Christ Jesus.

14 ¶ [6] These things write I unto thee, hoping to come unto thee shortly.

15 But if I tarry long, that thou mayest know how thou oughtest to behave thy self in the [7] house of God, which is the church of the living God, the [i] pillar and ‡ ground of the truth.

16 [8] And without controversy, great is the mystery of godliness: God was manifest in the flesh, [k] justified in the Spirit, seen of angels, preached unto the Gentiles, believed on in the world, received up into glory.

‡ Or, unrulily come to the faith.
d Least by reason that he is advanced to that degree, he take occasion to be proud, which will undo him, and so he fall into the same condemnation that the devil himself is fallen into.
3 Likewise the deacons must first be proved, that there may be a good trial of their honesty, truth, sobriety, mind void of covetousness, that they are well instructed in the doctrin of faith, and to be short, of their good conscience and integrity.
e These are they that had to see to the poor.
f The doctrin of the gospel, which is a mystery indeed: for flesh and bloud do not reveal it 4 Regard must be had also, to the pastours and deacons wives.
5 They that have more wives than one at one time, must neither be called to be ministers, nor to be deacons ‡ Or, ministred
g Honour and estimation.
h Bold and assured confidence without fear.
6 Paul purposing to add many peculiar things pertaining to the daily office of a pastour, speaketh first a word or two concerning his coming to Timothy, that he should be so much the more carefull, least at his coming he might be reproved of negligence. 7 The pastour hath always to think, how that he is occupied in the house of the living God, wherein the treasure of the truth is kept. i To wit, in respect of men: for the church resteth upon that corner stone, Christ, and is the preserver of the truth, but not the mother. ‡ Or, stay. 8 There is nothing more excellent than this truth, whereof the church is the keeper and preserver here among men, the ministry of the word being appointed to that end and purpose: for it teacheth us the greatest matters that may be thought of, to wit, that God is become visible in the person of Christ by taking our nature upon him, whose majesty notwithstanding in so great weakness was manifested many ways, insomuch that the sight of it pierced the very angels, and to conclude, he being preached unto the gentiles, was received of them, and is now placed above in glory unspeakable. k The power of the Godhead shewed it self so marvellously in that weak flesh of Christ, that though he were a weak man, yet all the world knoweth he was, and is God.

Chap. IV.

1 He foretelleth that in the latter times there shall be a departure from the faith. 6 And to the end that Timothy might not fail in doing his duty, he furnisheth him with divers precepts belonging thereto.

NOw the [1] Spirit speaketh expresly, that in the latter times some shall depart from the [a] faith, giving heed to seducing spirits, and doctrins of devils:

2 [2] Speaking lies in [b] hypocrisy, having their [c] conscience seared with a hot iron:

3 [3] Forbidding to marry, and commanding, shall give eat to them.

1 He setteth against that true doctrin, fals opinions, which he foretelleth, that certain which shall fall away from God and his religion, shall bring in by the suggestion of Satan, and so that a great number a From the true doctrin of God. 2 Although heretickes counterfeit holiness never so much, yet have they no conscience. b For they will, as it were, practice the art of disguised persons and players, that we may not think they will lie lurking in some one corner, or keep any resemblance of shamefac'dness. c whose conscience waxed so hard, that there grew an hard fleshiness over it, and so cause to have a canker in it, and now at length required of very necessity to be burned with an hot iron.
h He setteth down two kinds of this fals doctrin, to wit, the law of sole life, and difference of meats.

to

to abstain from meats,[4] which God hath created [5] to be received [6] with thanksgiving of them which believe and know the truth.

4 [7] For every creature of God is good, and nothing to be refused, if it be received with thanksgiving:

5 [8] For it [d] is sanctified by the [e] word of God, and prayer.

6 [9] If thou put the brethren in remembrance of these things, thou shalt be a good minister of Jesus Christ, nourished up in the words of faith, and of good doctrin, whereunto thou hast [f] attained.

7 [10] But refuse profane and old wives fables, [11] and exercise thy self rather unto [g] godliness.

8 [12] For bodily exercise profiteth ‡ little, but godliness is profitable unto all things, having promise of the life that now is, and of that which is to come.

9 [13] This is a faithfull saying, and worthy of all acception:

10 For therefore we both labour, and suffer reproach, because we trust in the living God, who is the Saviour of all men, specially of those that believe.

11 These things command and teach.

12 ¶ [14] Let no man despise thy youth, but be thou an example of the believers, in word, in conversation, in charity, in spirit, in faith, in purity.

13 [15] Till I come, give attendance to reading, to exhortation, to doctrin.

14 Neglect not the gift that is in thee, which was given thee by prophesy, with the laying on of the hands of the presbytery.

15 Meditate upon these things, give thy self wholly to them, that thy profiting may appear ‡ to all.

16 Take heed unto thy self, and unto thy doctrin: continue in them: for in doing this thou shalt both [h] save thy self, and them that hear thee.

4 He proveth that he justly called such doctrins deviliſh, first, because the teachers of them make laws of things which are not their own: for have they created the meats?

5 Secondly, because they overthrow with their decrees, the end wherefore they were created of God, to wit, that we should use them.

6 Thirdly, for that by this means they rob God of his glory, who will be honoured in the use of them. And herewithall, the apostle declareth, that we must use the liberality of God, soberly, and with a good conscience.

7 He setteth an apostolicall rule for taking away the difference of meats, against that false doctrin.

8 He useth Gods benefits rightly, which acknowledgeth the giver of them by his word, and calleth upon him.

d It is so made pure and holy in respect of us, so that we may use it with a good conscience, as received at the Lords hands.

e we confess and acknowledge that God is the maker and giver of those creatures which we use, Secondly, that we are of the number of those, who through Christs benefit have recovered that right over all creatures, which Adam lost by his fall. Thirdly, by our prayers we crave of the Lord, that we may use those meats with a good conscience, which we receive at his hands. Fourthly, we make an end of our eating and drinking, with thanksgiving and prayer: and so are our meats sanctified to us. 9 The conclusion with an exhortation to Timothy, to propound these things diligently to the churches, which he had sucked of the apostle, even in a manner from the teat f A great measure thereof. 10 He setteth again true doctrin not onely against that false and apostatical doctrin, but also against all vain & curious subtilties. 11 It is not onely requisite that the minister of the word be sound in doctrin, but also that his life be godly and religious. g In the true serving of God. 12 Godliness consisteth in spirituall exercise, and not in outward austereness of life, which though it be something to be accounted of, if it be rightly used, yet it is in no wise comparable with godliness; For it profiteth not of it self, but through the benefit of another, but this hath the promise both of the life present, and of that that is to come. ‡ Or, for a little time. 13 He goeth a little from his matter, and sheweth that they which give themselvs to godliness, although they are afflicted and reproached, are notwithstanding not to be counted miserable, as other men are, because they are not afflicted for that cause that other men are, and the end of them both is far different one from the other. For how can God forsake his, which is bountifull, even toward his enemies? And he willeth that this doctrin be well beaten into their heads. 14 Now he returneth to that exhortation, shewing which are the true vertues of a pastour, whereby he may come to be reverenced, although he be but young, to wit, such speech and life as are witnesses of charity, zeal, faith, and purity: but here is no mention made of the crosierstaff, ring, cloak, and such other foolish and childish toys. 15 The private exercise of pastours, is continuall reading of the scriptures, where out they may draw water of wholsom doctrin and exhortation, both to themselvs and to others. ‡ Or, in all things. h Faith is by hearing, and hearing by preaching: and therefore the ministers of the word are so said to save themselvs and others, for that in them the Lord hath put the word of reconciliation.

Chap. V.

1 Rules to be observed in reproving. 3 Of widows. 17 Of elders. 23 A precept for Timothies health. 24 Some mens sins go before unto judgement, and some mens do follow after.

1 [1] Rebuke not an elder, but intreat him as a father, and the younger men as brethren:

2 The elder women as mothers, the younger as sisters, with all purity.

1 Of keeping measure in private rephehensions, according to the degrees of ages and kinds.

3 [2] Honour widows that are widows indeed.

4 [3] But if any widow have children or nephews, let them learn first to shew ‡ piety at [4] home, and to [5] requite their parents: [6] for that is good and acceptable before God.

5 [7] Now she that is a widow indeed, and desolate, trusteth in God, and continueth in supplications and prayers night and day.

6 [8] But she that liveth ‡ in pleasure, is dead while she liveth.

7 And these things give in charge, that they may be blameless.

8 But if any provide not for his own, and specially for those of his own ‡ house, he hath denied the faith, and is worse than an infidel.

9 ¶ [9] Let not a widow be ‡ taken into the number, under threescore years old, having been the wife of [b] one man:

10 Well reported of for good works; if she have brought up children, if she have lodged strangers, if she have [c] washed the saints feet, if she have relieved the afflicted, if she have diligently followed every good work.

11 [10] But the younger widows [d] refuse: for when they have begun to wax wanton against Christ, they will marry:

12 Having damnation, because they have cast off their first faith.

13 [11] And withall they learn to be idle, wandering about from house to house; and not onely idle, but tatlers also, and busy-bodies, speaking things which they ought not.

14 [12] I will therefore that the younger women marry, bear children, guide the house, give none occasion to the adversary † to speak reproachfully.

15 For some are already turned aside after Satan.

16 [13] If any man or woman that believeth have widows, let them relieve them, and let not the church be charged; that it may relieve them that are widows indeed.

17 ¶ [14] Let the elders that rule well, be counted worthy of [e] double honour, [f] especially they who labour in the word and doctrin.

18 For the scripture saith, * Thou shalt not muzzle the ox that treadeth out the corn: and, * The labourer is worthy of his reward.

19 ¶ [15] Against an elder receive not an accusation, but ‡ before two or three witnesses.

20 [16] Them that sin rebuke before all, that others also may fear.

21 [17] I charge thee before God and the Lord Jesus Christ, and the elect angels, that thou observe these things ‡ without preferring one

2 The apostle giveth these rules touching the care of widows.

a Have care of those widows which have need for help

3 widows children and nephews must take care for their parents according to their ability

‡ Or, kindness

4 The first reason, because that that which they bestowed upon theirs, they bestow it upon themselvs.

5 Another, because nature it self teacheth us to recompense our parents.

6 The third, because this dutifulness pleaseth God.

7 The second rule: Let the church have care of such as are widows indeed, that is to say, such as are poor and destitute of help of their own friends, and live godly and religiously.

8 The third rule: Let widows that live in pleasure, and neglect the care of their own family be holden and accounted as fallers away from God, and his religion, and worse than very infidels.

‡ Or, delicately,

‡ Or, kindred,

9 The fourth rule: Let none under threescore years old be taken into the number of widows, to serve the congregations or churches, and such as are free from all reproach of unchastity, and are well reported of, for their diligence, charity, and integrity.

‡ Or, chosen.

b That had no more husbands, but one at one time.

c This is spoken in respect of the manner of these countreys.

10 The first reason, why younger widows are not to be admitted to this ministery, to wit, because for the lightness of their ages they will at length shake off the burden that Christ hath laid upon them, and think rather upon marrying again: and so will forsake the ministery whereunto they had bound themselvs. d Take them not into the colledge of widows. 11 Another reason: because they are for the most part praters and busy bodies, and gadders up and down, neglecting their charge and duty. 12 The first rule: Let younger widows marry and govern their houses godly. † Gr. for their railing. 13 The sixth rule: Let the faithfull help their widows at their own charges as much as they can, and let not the congregation be burdened with these expenses. 14 Now he giveth rules, and sheweth how he ought to behave himself with the elders, that is to say, with the pastours, and such as have the governance in the discipline of the church, which is president of their company. The first rule: Let the church or congregation see unto this especially, as God himself hath commanded, that the elders that do their duty well, be honestly maintained. e we must be more carefull for the rest. f There were two kinds of elders, the one attended upon the government onely, and looked to the manners of the congregation, the other did beside that attend upon preaching and prayers, to and for the congregation. * Deut. 25.4. * Matth. 10.10. 15 The second rule: Let no accusation be admitted against an elder, but under two or three witnesses. ‡ Or, under 16 The third rule: Let the elders so convicted be rebuked openly, that they may be an example to others. 17 The fourth rule: Let sincerity be used without any prejudice or respect of persons in ecclesiasticall proceedings (especially against the elders) because God himself is there present, and the Lord Jesus Christ with a multitude of angels. ‡ Or, without prejudice.

before another, doing nothing by partiality.

22 ¶ [18] Lay hands [g] ſuddenly on no man, neither be partaker of other mens ſins, keep thy ſelf pure.

23 [19] Drink no longer water, but uſe a little wine for thy ſtomacks ſake, and thine often infirmities.

24 [20] Some mens ſins are open beforehand, going before to judgement: and ſome men they follow after.

25 [21] Likewiſe alſo the good works of ſome are manifeſt before-hand, and they that are otherwiſe cannot be hid.

18 The nith rule, Let the miniſter layhands ſuddenly on no man: Let him not be faulty herein, either by favouring any mans folly, or perverſe affection: If ought be done otherwiſe than well of his fellows, let him keep his conſcience pure.

g As much as in thee lieth, do not rafhly admit any whatſoever to any eccleſiaſticall function 19 The ſixth rule, Let the elders have indifferent conſideration of their health, in the manner of their diet. 20 Becauſe hypocrits ſomtimes creep into the miniſtery, although there be never ſo great diligence uſed, the apoſtle willeth the paſtours not to be troubled therefore, or ſlack any whit of their diligence in trying and examining, becauſe the Lord hath appointed a time to diſcover the faults of ſuch men, and it is our parts to take heed that we offend not therein. 21 Another comfort belonging to them, which ſomtimes are ſlandered and miſreported of.

CHAP. VI.

1 Of the duty of ſervants. 3 Not to have fellowſhip with new-fangled teachers. 6 Godlineſs is great gain. 10 And love of money the root of all evil. 11 What Timothy is to flee, and what to follow, 17 and whereof to admoniſh the rich. 20 To keep the purity of true doctrin, and to avoid profane janglings.

1 He addeth alſo rules for the ſervants duty towards their maſters: whereupon no doubt there were many queſtions then moved by them, which took occaſion by the goſpel to trouble the common ſtate. And this is the fifft rule, Let ſervants that are come to the faith, and have infidels to their maſters, ſerve them notwithſtanding with great fidelity

LEt [1] as many ſervants as are under the yoke, count their own maſters worthy of all honour; [2] that the name of God, and his doctrin be not blaſphemed.

2 The reaſon leaſt God ſhould ſeem by the doctrin of the goſpel to ſtir up men to rebellion and all wickedneſs.

2 [3] And they that have believing maſters, let them not deſpiſe them, becauſe they are brethren: but rather do them ſervice, becauſe they are ‡ faithfull and beloved, [a] partakers of the benefit. [4] Theſe things teach and exhort.

3 The ſecond rule Let not ſervants that are come to the faith, and have alſo maſters of the ſame profeſſion and religion, abuſe the name of brotherhood, but let them ſo much the rather obey them.

‡ Or, believing

a Let this be ſufficient, that as touching thoſe things which pertain to everlaſting life, they are partakers of the ſame good will and love of God, as their maſters themſelvs are

3 [5] If any man teach otherwiſe, and conſent not to wholeſom words, even the words of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, and to the doctrin which is according to godlineſs:

4 He is ‡ proud, knowing nothing, but ‡ doting about queſtions and [b] ſtrifes of words, whereof cometh envy, ſtrife, railings, evil ſurmiſings,

5 ‡ Perverſe [c] diſputings of men of corrupt minds, and deſtitute of the truth, ſuppoſing that gain is godlineſs: from ſuch withdraw thy ſelf.

6 [6] But godlineſs with contentment is great gain.

7 [7] For we brought nothing into this world, and it is certain we can carry nothing out.

4 A generall concluſion that theſe things ought not onely to be ſimply taught, but muſt with exhortations be diligently beaten into their heads. 5 He condemneth ſeverely, and excommunicateth or caſteth out of the church as proud men, ſuch as content not themſelvs with Chriſts doctrin, (that is to ſay the doctrin of godlineſs) but weary both themſelvs and others in vain queſtions, (for all other things are vain) becauſe they content not themſelvs in Chriſts doctrin: and as lying deceivers, becauſe they favour or ſound of nothing but v nity. as mad men becauſe they trouble themſelvs ſo much in matters of nothing: as miſchievous plagues, for that they cauſe great contentions and corrupt mens minds and judgement: to be ſhort, as prophane and wicked, becauſe they abuſe the precious name of godlineſs and religion, to filthy lucre. ‡ Or, a fool ‡ Or, ſick b Striving about words, and not about matter: and by words he meaneth all thoſe things which have not pith in them, and whereby we can reap no profit. ‡ Or, gallings one of anothers, c Such as we ſee in thoſe ſhameleſs ſchools of popery, which are nothing elſe but vain babling and prating, 6 He turneth away fitly the name of gain and lucre, confeſſing that godlineſs is great gain, but far after another ſort, to wit, becauſe it bringeth true ſufficiencie. 7 He mocketh their folly, which do ſo greedily gape after frail things, that they can in no wiſe be ſatisfied, and yet notwithſtanding they cannot enjoy that exceſs.

8 And having food and raiment, let us be therewith content.

9 [8] But they that will be rich, fall into temptation, and a ſnare, and into many fooliſh and hurtfull luſts, which drown men in deſtruction and perdition,

8 He frayeth Timothy from covetouſneſs after another ſort, to wit, becauſe it draweth with it an infinite ſort of luſts, and thoſe very hurtfull, wherewith covetous men do torment themſelvs ſo far forth, that in the end they caſt away from them their faith and ſalvation.

‡ Or, have ſeduced.

10 For the love of money is the root of all evil, which while ſome coveted after, they have ‡ erred from the faith, and [d] pierced themſelvs through with many ſorrows.

d Sorrow and grief do as it were pierce through the mind of man, and are the harveſt and true fruits of covetouſneſs.

11 ¶ [9] But thou, [e] O man of God, flee theſe things: and follow after righteouſneſs, godlineſs, faith, love, patience, meekneſs.

9 A peculiar exhortation to diverſ vertues, wherewith it behoveth the paſtours eſpecially to be furniſhed.

12 Fight the good fight of faith, lay hold on eternall life, whereunto thou art alſo called, and haſt profeſſed a good profeſſion before many witneſſes.

e whom the Spirit of God ruleth

13 [10] I give thee charge in the ſight of God, who quickeneth all things, and before Chriſt Jeſus, who before Pontius Pilate witneſſed a good ‡ confeſſion,

10 A moſt earneſt requeſt and charge to obſerve and keep all the premiſſes faithfully, with our eyes ſet upon the coming of Jeſus Chriſt, whoſe glory we have to ſet againſt the vain glifting of this world, and his power againſt all the terrours of the wicked.

‡ Or, profeſſion.

14 That thou keep this commandment without ſpot, unrebukeable, untill the appearing of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

15 Which in his times he ſhall ſhew, who is the [f] bleſſed and onely Potentate, the King of kings, and Lord of lords:

f He heapeth many words together, to one purpoſe: whereby he voucheth the power of God, which if we ſtick faſt unto, we ſhall not be moved out of our ſtanding.

16 Who onely hath immortality, dwelling in the light which no man can approach unto, whom no man hath ſeen, nor can ſee: to whom be honour and power everlaſting. Amen.

11 He addeth for an overplus, as it were, a ſharp admonition to the rich, that they chiefly take heed of two miſchiefs, to wit, of pride, and deceitfull hope, againſt which he ſetteth three excellent vertues, hope in the living God, liberality towards their neighbour, and gentle conditions.

17 ¶ [11] Charge them that are rich in [g] this world, that they be not high-minded, nor truſt in † uncertain riches, but in the [h] living God, who giveth us richly all things to enjoy:

g In things pertaining to this life, with whom thoſe men are compared which are rich in good works.

† Gr. uncertainty of riches.

18 That they do good, that they be rich in good works, ready to diſtribute, ‡ willing to communicate:

h who onely is,

‡ Or, ſociable.

19 [12] Laying up in ſtore for themſelvs a good foundation againſt the time to come, that they may lay hold on eternall life.

12 The praiſe of liberality, by the effects thereof: becauſe it is a ſure teſtimony of the Spirit of God which dwelleth in us, and therefore of the ſalvation that ſhall be given us

20 ¶ [13] O Timothy, keep that which is committed to thy truſt, avoiding profane and vain bablings, and oppoſitions of ſcience, falſly ſo called:

13 He rehearſeth the chiefeſt of all the former exhortations, which ought to be deeply imprinted in the minds of all miniſters of the word, to wit that they eſchew all vain bablings of ſophiſtry, and continue in the ſimplicity of ſincere doctrin

21 Which ſome [i] profeſſing, have erred concerning the faith. Grace be with thee. Amen.

i Not onely in word, but alſo in countenance and geſture: to be ſhort, while their behaviour was ſuch, that even when they held their peace they would make men believe, their heads were occupied about nothing but high and weighty matters, even then they erred concerning the faith.

¶ The firſt to Timothy was written from Laodicea, which is the chiefeſt city of Phrygia Pacatiana.

THE

The ſecond Epiſtle of PAUL the Apoſtle TO TIMOTHY.

CHAP. I.

1 Pauls love to Timothy, and the unfeigned faith which was in Timothy himſelf, his mother, and grandmother. 6 He is exhorted to ſtir up the gift of God which was in him, 8 to be ſtedfaſt and patient in perſecution, 13 and to perſiſt in the form and truth of that doctrin which he had learned of him. 15 Phygellus and Hermogenes, and ſuch like are noted, and Oneſiphorus is highly commended.

1 PAul an apoſtle of Jeſus Chriſt by the will of God, [a] according to the promiſe of life, which is in Chriſt Jeſus,

2 To Timothy my dearly beloved ſon: grace, mercy, and peace from God the Father, and Chriſt Jeſus our Lord.

3 ¶ [1] I thank God, whom I ſerve from my [b] fore-fathers with pure conſcience, that without ceaſing I have remembrance of thee in my prayers night and day:

4 Greatly deſiring to ſee thee, being mindful of thy tears, that I may be filled with joy.

5 When I call to remembrance the unfeigned faith that is in thee, which dwelt firſt in thy grandmother Lois, and thy mother Eunice; and I am perſwaded that in thee alſo.

6 [2] Wherefore I put thee in remembrance, that thou [c] ſtir up the gift of God which is in thee, by the putting on of my hands.

7 For God hath not given us the ſpirit of [d] fear, but of power, of love, and of a ſound mind.

8 ¶ [3] Be not thou therefore aſhamed of the teſtimony of our Lord, nor of me [e] his priſoner, but be thou partaker of the afflictions of the [f] goſpel, according to the [g] power of God:

9 [4] Who hath ſaved us, and called us with an holy calling, not according to our works, but according to his own purpoſe and grace which was [h] given us in Chriſt Jeſus, [i] before the world began:

10 But is now made manifeſt by the appearing of our Saviour Jeſus Chriſt, who hath aboliſhed death, and hath brought life and immortality to [k] light, through the goſpel:

11 [5] Whereunto I am appointed a preacher, and an apoſtle, and a teacher of the Gentiles.

12 [6] For the which cauſe I alſo ſuffer theſe things; [7] nevertheleſs I am not aſhamed, for I know whom I have ‡ believed, and I am perſwaded that he is able to keep that which I have committed unto him againſt that day.

13 ¶ [8] Hold faſt the form of ſound words, which thou haſt heard of me, in faith and love which is in Chriſt Jeſus.

14 [9] That good thing which was committed unto thee, keep [10] by the Holy Ghoſt which dwelleth in us.

15 [11] This thou knoweſt, that all they which are in Aſia be turned away from me, of whom are Phygellus, and Hermogenes.

16 The Lord give mercy unto the houſe of Oneſiphorus, for he oft refreſhed me, and was not aſhamed of my chain.

17 But when he was in Rome, he ſought me out very diligently, and found me.

18 The Lord grant unto him that he may find mercy of the Lord in that day: and in how many things he miniſtred unto me at Epheſus, thou knoweſt very well.

a Sent of God to preach that life, which he promiſed in Chriſt Jeſus.

1 The chiefeſt mark that he ſhooteth at in this epiſtle, is to confirm Timothy to continue conſtantly, and manfully, even to the end, ſetting firſt before him the great good which he beareth him, and then reckoning up the excellent gifts which God would as it were have to be by inheritance in Timothy, and his anceſtors, which might ſo much the more make him bound to God.

b From Abraham, Iſaac and Jacob: for he ſpeaketh not of Phariſaiſm, but of Chriſtianiſm.

2 He warneth us to ſet the invincible power of the Spirit, which God hath given us againſt thoſe ſtorms which may and do come upon us.

c The gift of God is as it were a certain lively flame kindled in our hearts, which the fleſh and the devil go about to put out: & therefore we on the contrary ſide, muſt labour as much as we can to foſter and keep it burning.

k Hath cauſed life and immortality to appear.

5 That is the goſpel which the apoſtle preached.

6 He confirmeth his apoſtleſhip by a ſtrange argument, to wit, becauſe the world could not abide it, and therefore it perſecuted him that preached it.

7 By ſetting his own example before us, he ſheweth us how it may be, that we ſhall not be aſhamed of the croſs of Chriſt, to wit, if we be ſure that God both can and will keep the ſalvation which he hath, as it were, laid up in ſtore by himſelf for us againſt that day.

‡ Or, truſted,

8 He ſheweth wherein he ought to be moſt conſtant, to wit, both in the doctrin itſelf, the abridgement whereof is faith and charity, and next in the manner of teaching it, a lively pattern and ſhape whereof Timothy knew in the apoſtle.

9 An amplification taken of the dignity of ſo great a benefit committed to the miniſters.

10 The taking away of an objection, it is an hard thing to do it, but the Spirit of God is mighty, who hath inwardly indued us with his vertue.

11 He preventeth an offence which aroſe by the means of certain that fell from God, and the religion, and uttereth alſo their names, that they might be known of all men. But he ſetteth againſt them the ſingular faith of one man, that one onely good example might counterpoiſe and weigh down all evil examples.

d To pierce us through, and terrify us, as men whom the Lord will ſhame of, but alſo that it is glorious and moſt honourable: firſt, becauſe the goſpel wherefore the godly are afflicted, is the teſtimony of Chriſt: and ſecondly, becauſe at length the great vertue and power of God appeareth in them.

e For his ſake.

f The goſpel after a ſort is ſaid to be afflicted in them that preach it.

g Through the power of God

4 He ſheweth with how great benefits God hath bound us, to maintain boldly and conſtantly his glory which is joyned with our ſalvation, and reckoneth up the cauſes of our ſalvation, to wit, that free and eternall purpoſe of God, to ſave us in Chriſt, which was to come, whereby it ſhould come to paſs, that we ſhould at length be freely called of God by the preaching of the goſpel, to Chriſt the deſtroyer of death and authour of immortality.

h He ſaith, that that grace was given us from everlaſting, unto which we were predeſtinate from everlaſting. So that the doctrin of foreſeen faith and foreſeen works, is clean contrary to the doctrin which preacheth and teacheth the grace of God.

i Before that courſe of years which hath run on, ever ſince the beginning of the would.

CHAP. II.

1 He is exhorted again to conſtancy and perſeverance, and to do the duty of a faithful ſervant of the Lord, in dividing the word aright, and ſtaying profane and vain bablings. 17 Of Hymeneus & Philetus. 19 The foundation of the Lord is ſure. 22 He is taught whereof to beware, and what to follow after, and in what ſort the ſervant of the Lord ought to behave himſelf.

THou [1] therefore my ſon, be ſtrong in the grace that is in Chriſt Jeſus.

2 And the things that thou haſt heard of me ‡ among [a] many witneſſes, the ſame commit thou to faithful men, who ſhall be able to teach others alſo.

3 [2] Thou therefore endure hardneſs, as a good ſouldier of Jeſus Chriſt.

4 No man that warreth entangleth himſelf

1 The concluſion of the former exhortation which hath alſo added unto it a declaration, how that they do not keep that worthy thing that is committed unto them, which keep it to themſelvs, but they rather, which do moſt freely communicate it with others, to the end that many may be partakers of it, without any mans loſs or hinderance.

‡ Or, by a when many were by, which can bear witneſs of theſe things.

2 A nother admonition: That the miniſtery of the word is a ſpirituall warfare, which man can ſo travell in, that he may pleaſe his captain, unleſs he forgo and part with all hinderances which might draw him away from it.

with the affairs of [b] this life; that he may please him who hath chosen him to be a souldier,

5 [3] And if a man also strive for masteries, yet is he not crowned except he strive lawfully.

6 ‡ [4] The husbandman that laboureth must be first partaker of the fruits.

7 [5] Consider what I say, and the Lord give thee understanding in all things.

8 ¶ [6] Remember that Jesus Christ of the seed of David, was raised from the dead, according to my gospel.

9 [7] Wherein I suffer trouble as an evil doer, even unto bonds, but the word of God is not bound.

10 Therefore I endure all things for the elects sakes, that they may also obtain the salvation which is in Christ Jesus, with eternal glory.

11 [8] It is a faithful saying: For if we be [c] dead with him, we shall also live with him:

12 If we suffer, we shall also reign with him: if we deny him, he also will deny us:

13 If we believe not, yet he abideth faithful, he cannot deny himself.

14 Of these things put them in remembrance, charging them [d] before the Lord, that they strive not about words, to no profit, but to the subverting of the hearers.

15 ¶ [9] Study to shew thy self approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, [e] rightly dividing the word of truth.

16 [f] But shun profane and vain bablings, [10] for they will increase unto more ungodliness.

17 And their word will eat as doth a ‡ canker: of whom is Hymeneus and Philetus:

18 Who concerning the truth have erred, saying that the resurrection is past already: and overthrow the faith of some.

19 [11] Nevertheless, the foundation of God standeth ‡ sure, having this seal, the Lord knoweth them that are his. And, Let every one that [g] nameth the name of Christ depart from iniquity.

20 [12] But in a great house there are not onely vessels of gold, and of silver, but also of wood, and of earth: and some to honour, and some to dishonour.

21 If a man therefore [h] purge himself from these, he shall be a vessel unto honour, sanctified and meet for the masters use, and prepared unto every good work.

22 ¶ [13] Flee also youthfull lusts: but follow righteousness, faith, charity, [14] peace, with them that call on the Lord out of a pure heart.

23 But fooliſh and unlearned questions avoid, knowing that they do gender strifes.

24 And the servant of the Lord must not strive: but be [i] gentle unto all men, apt to teach, ‡ patient:

25 In meekness instructing those that [k] oppose themselvs, if God peradventure will give them repentance to the acknowledging of the truth:

26 And that they may † recover themselvs out of the snare of the devil, who are † taken captive by him at his will.

CHAP. III.

1 He advertiseth him of the times to come, 6 describeth the enemies of the truth, 10 propoundeth unto him his own example, 16 and commendeth the holy scriptures.

THis [1] know also, that in the last days perilous times shall come.

2 For men shall be lovers of their own selvs, covetous, boasters, proud, blasphemers, disobedient to parents, unthankfull, [a] unholy,

3 Without natural affection, truce-breakers, ‡ false accusers, incontinent, fierce, despisers of those that are good.

4 Traitours, heady, high-minded, lovers of pleasures more than lovers of God;

5 Having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof: from such [2] turn away.

6 For of this sort are they which creep into houses; and lead captive silly women laden with sins, led away with divers lusts,

7 Ever learning, and never able to come to the knowledge of the truth.

8 Now as Jannes and Jambres withstood Moses, so do these also resist the truth: men of corrupt minds, ‡ reprobate concerning the faith.

9 [3] But they shall proceed no further: for their folly shall be manifest unto all men, as theirs also was.

10 [4] But ‡ thou hast [b] fully known my doctrin, manner of life, purpose, faith, long-suffering, charity, patience, 11 Persecutions, afflictions which came unto me at [c] Antioch, at Iconium, at Lystra, what persecutions I endured: but out of them all the Lord delivered me.

12 Yea, and all that will live godly in Christ Jesus, shall suffer persecution.

13 But evil men and seducers shall wax [d] worse and worse, deceiving, and being deceived.

14 But continue thou in the things which thou hast learned and hast been assured of, knowing of whom thou hast learned them:

15 And that from a child thou hast known the holy scriptures, which are able to make them in their wickedness. ‡ Or, forbearing: k He meaneth such as do not yet see the truth. ‡ Gr. awake † Gr. taken alive

1 The seventh admonition: we may not hope for any church in this world without corruption: but there shall be rather great abundance of most wicked men, even in the very bosom of the church, which notwithstanding shall make a shew and countenance of great holiness, and charity.

a which make no account, either of right or honesty.

‡ Or, malicious,

2 we must not dally with such men as resist the truth, not of simple ignorance, but of a perverse mind) which thing appeareth by their fruits which he painteth out here lively) but we must rather turn away from them.

‡ Or, of no judgement

3 He addeth a comfort: The Lord will at length pluck off all their vizards.

4 That we be not deceived by such hypocrites, we must set before us the vertues of the holy servants of God, and we must not be afraid of persecution which they suffered willingly, and which always followeth true godliness. But we must especially hold fast the doctrin of the apostles, the sum whereof is this, that we are saved through faith in Christ Jesus.

‡ Or, Thou hast been a diligent follower of b Thou knowest throughly not onely what I taught and did,

13 Returning to the matter from whence he digressed, vers. 16. he warneth him to exercise himself in weighty matters, and such as pertain to godliness.

14 The sixth admonition: we must above all things eschew all bitterness of mind, both in teaching all men, and also in calling them back which have gone out of the way.

i To win them through our patience bearing with them, but not to please them, or excuse

1 The first admonition: we must not be idle disputers, but faithfull stewards, in dividing aright the word of truth, in so much that we must stop the mouths of other vain bablers. c By adding nothing to it, neither overslipping any thing, neither mangling it, not renting it in sunder, not wresting of it: but marking diligently what his hearers are able to hear, and what is fit to edifying. f Mark and watch, and see they creep not on further. 10 He discovereth the subtilty of Satan, who beginning with these principles, draweth us by little and little to ungodliness through the means of that wicked and profane babling, still creeping on: which he proveth by the horrible example of them taught, that the resurrection was already past. ‡ Or, gangrene: 11 A digression, wherein he salveth that offence that rose by their falling away: shewing first, that the elect are out of all danger of any such falling away: secondly, that they are known to God, and not to us: and therefore it is no marvell if we count hypocrites oftentimes for the true brethren: but we must take heed that we be not like them, but rather that we be indeed such as we are said to be. ‡ Or, steady. g That serveth and worshippeth him, and is, as it were, named of him, a faithfull man, or Christian. 12 The taking away of an objection: It is no dishonour to the good man of the house, that he hath not in a great house, all vessels of one sort and for one service, but we must look to this, that we be found vessels prepared to honour h By these words is meant the execution of the matter, and not the cause: for in that we purge our selvs, it is not to be attributed to any free will that is in us but to God, who freely and wholly worketh in us a good and an effectuall will.

7 The taking away of an objection: Truth it is, that he is kept in prison as an evil doer, yet there is no cause, why therefore some should go about to derogate credit from his Gospel, seeing that notwithstanding God did bless his ministry, nay rather, that example of his captivity and patience, did sundry ways confirm the church in the hope of a better life.

8 The fourth admonition: we ought not to contend upon words and questions, which are not onely unprofitable, but also for the most part hurtful: but rather upon this, how we may frame our selvs to all manner of patience, and to die also with Christ (that is to say, for Christs name) because that is the plain way to the most glorious life: as contrariwise, the falling away of men can diminish no part of the truth of God, although by such means they procure most certain destruction to themselvs. c If we be afflicted with Christ, and for Christ his sake. d Call God to witness of, as a Judge: as Moses, Josua, Samuel, and Paul himself did, Acts 20. 9 The fift admonition: A minister must not be an idle disputer, but a faithfull steward, in dividing aright the word of truth, in so much that he must stop the mouths of other vain bablers. e By adding nothing to it, neither overslipping any thing, neither mangling it, not renting it in sunder, not wresting of it: but marking diligently what his hearers are able to hear, and what is fit to edifying. f Mark and watch, and see they creep not on further. 10 He discovereth the subtilty of Satan, who beginning with these principles, draweth us by little and little to ungodliness through the means of that wicked and profane babling, still creeping on: which he proveth by the horrible example of them taught, that the resurrection was already past. ‡ Or, gangrene: 11 A digression, wherein he salveth that offence that rose by their falling away: shewing first, that the elect are out of all danger of any such falling away: secondly, that they are known to God, and not to us: and therefore it is no marvell if we count hypocrites oftentimes for the true brethren: but we must take heed that we be not like them, but rather that we be indeed such as we are said to be. ‡ Or, steady. g That serveth and worshippeth him, and is, as it were, named of him, a faithfull man, or Christian. 12 The taking away of an objection: It is no dishonour to the good man of the house, that he hath not in a great house, all vessels of one sort and for one service, but we must look to this, that we be found vessels prepared to honour h By these words is meant the execution of the matter, and not the cause: for in that we purge our selvs, it is not to be attributed to any free will that is in us but to God, who freely and wholly worketh in us a good and an effectuall will.

but also how I was minded and disposed. c which is in Pisidia. d Their wickedness shall thee

thee wiſe unto ſalvation, through faith which is in Chriſt Jeſus.

16 [5] All ſcripture is given by inſpiration of God, and is profitable for doctrin, for reproof, for correction, for inſtruction in righteouſneſs:

17 That the [e] man of God may be perfect, ‡throughly furniſhed unto all good works.

5 The eight admonition which is moſt precious: A paſtour muſt be wiſely the word of God onely: wherein we have perfectly delivered unto us whatſoever pertaineth either to diſcern, know, and eſtabliſh true opinions, and to confute falſe: and furthermore to correct evil manners, and to frame good. e The prophets and expounders of Gods will, are properly and peculiarly called men of God, ‡ Or, perfected.

Chap. IV.

1 He exhorteth him to do his duty with all care and diligence: 6 certifieth him of the nearneſs of his death: 9 willeth him to come ſpeedily unto him, and to bring Marcus with him, and certain other things which he wrote for: 14 warneth him to beware of Alexander the ſmith: 16 informeth him what had befallen him at his firſt anſwering. 19 And ſoon after he concludeth.

1 The principal and chief of all admonitions being therefore propoſed with a moſt earneſt charge, is this: that the word of God be propounded with a certain holy importunity, as neceſſity requireth: but ſo, that a good and true ground of the doctrin be laid, and the vehemency be tempered with all holy meekneſs.

I [1] Charge thee therefore before God, and the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, who ſhall judge the quick and the dead at his appearing, and his kingdom:

2 Preach the word, be inſtant in ſeaſon, out of ſeaſon, reprove, rebuke, exhort with all long ſuffering and doctrin.

2 Faithfull paſtours in times paſt, took all occaſions they could, becauſe men were very prompt and ready to return to their fables.

3 [2] For the time will come when they will not endure ſound doctrin, but after their own luſts ſhall they heap to themſelvs teachers, having itching ears.

4 And they ſhall turn away their ears from the truth, and ſhall be turned unto [a] fables.

a To falſe and unprofitable doctrins which the world is now ſo bewitched withall, that it had rather the open light of the truth were utterly put out, than it would come out of darkneſs.

5 [3] But watch thou in all things, endure afflictions, do the work of an evangeliſt ‡ [b] make full proof of thy miniſtery.

3 The wickedneſs and falling away of the world, ought to cauſe faithful miniſters to be ſo much the more careful.

6 [4] For I am now ready to be [c] offered, and the time of my departure is at hand.

7 I have fought a good fight, I have finiſhed my courſe, I have kept the faith.

8 Henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteouſneſs; which the Lord the righteous judge ſhall give me at that day: and not to me onely, but unto all them alſo that love his appearing.

‡ Or, fulfill b Prove and ſhew by good and ſubſtantiall proof, that thou art the true miniſter of God. 4 He foretelleth his death to be at hand, and ſetteth before them an excellent example, both of invincible conſtancy, and ſure hope. c To be offered for a drink offering: and he alludeth to the powring out of bloud or wine which was uſed in ſacrifices.

9 ¶ [5] Do thy diligence to come ſhortly unto me.

10 For Demas hath forſaken me, having [d] loved this preſent world, and is departed unto Theſſalonica: Creſcens to Galatia, Titus unto Dalmatia.

11 Onely Luke is with me. Take Mark and bring him with thee: for he is profitable to me for the miniſtery.

12 And Tychicus have I ſent to Epheſus.

13 ¶ The cloke that I left at Troas with Carpus, when thou comeſt, bring with thee, and the books, but eſpecially the parchments.

14 ¶ Alexander the coppersmith did me much evil: the Lord reward him according to his works.

15 Of whom be thou ware alſo, for he hath greatly withſtood ‡ our words.

16 ¶ At my firſt anſwer no man ſtood with me: but all men forſook me: I pray God that it may not be laid to their charge.

17 Notwithſtanding, the Lord ſtood with me, and ſtrengthened me, that by me the preaching might be fully known, and that all the Gentiles might hear: and I was delivered out of the mouth of the [e] lion.

18 And the Lord ſhall deliver me from every [f] evil work, and will preſerve me unto his [g] heavenly kingdom; to whom be glory for ever and ever. Amen.

19 ¶ Salute Priſca and Aquila, and the houſhold of Oneſiphorus.

20 Eraſtus abode at Corinth: but Trophimus have I left at Miletum ſick.

21 Do thy diligence to come before winter: Eubulus greeteth thee, and Pudens, and Linus, and Claudia, and all the brethren.

22 The Lord Jeſus Chriſt be with thy ſpirit. Grace be with you. Amen.

CHAP. I.

1 For what end Titus was left in Crete. 6 How they that are to be chosen ministers, ought to be qualified. 11 The mouths of evil teachers to be stopped: 12 and what manner of men they be.

PAul [1] a [a] servant of God, and an apostle of Jesus Christ, according to the faith of Gods [b] elect, [2] and the acknowledging of the truth, which is after godliness:

2 ‡ In [c] hope of eternal life, which God that cannot lie, [d] promised before the [e] world began;

3 [3] But hath in due times manifested his word through preaching, which is committed unto me, according to the commandment of God our [f] Saviour:

4 [4] To Titus mine own son after the common faith, [5] grace, mercy, and peace from God the Father, and the Lord Jesus Christ our Saviour.

5 [6] ¶ For this cause left I thee in Crete, that thou shouldest set in order the things that are ‡ wanting, and ordain elders in every city, as I had appointed thee.

6 If any be blameless, the husband of one wife, having faithful children not accused of riot or [g] unruly.

7 [7] For a bishop must be blameless, as the [h] steward of God: not [i] self-willed, not soon angry, not * given to wine, no striker, not given to filthy lucre:

8 But a lover of hospitality, a lover of ‡ good men, [k] sober, just, holy, temperate:

9 [8] Holding fast the faithful word, ‡ as he hath been taught, [9] that he may be able by sound doctrin, both to exhort and to convince the gainsayers.

10 [10] For there are many unruly and vain talkers and deceivers, especially they of the [l] circumcision:

11 Whose mouths must be stopped, who subvert whole houses, teaching things which they ought not; for filthy lucres sake.

12 [m] One of themselvs, even a prophet of their own, said, The Cretians are alway liars, evil beasts, slow bellies.

13 This witness is true: wherefore rebuke them [n] sharply, that they may be sound in the faith;

14 Not giving heed to Jewish fables, and commandments of men, that turn from the truth.

15 ¶ [11] Unto the pure all things are pure, but unto them that are defiled, and unbelieving, is nothing pure: but even their [o] mind and conscience is defiled.

16 They profess that they know God; but in works they deny him, being abominable, and disobedient, and unto every good work ‡ reprobate.

CHAP. II.

2 Directions given unto Titus both for his doctrin and life. 9 Of the duty of servants, and in general of all Christians.

BUt [1] speak thou the things which become sound doctrin:

2 [2] That the aged men be ‡ sober, grave, temperate, sound in faith, in charity, in patience.

3 ¶ The aged women likewise, that they be in behaviour as becometh ‡ holiness, not ‡ false accusers, not given to much wine, teachers of good things;

4 That they may teach the young women to be ‡ sober, to love their husbands, to love their children,

5 To be discreet, chaste, [a] keepers at home, good, obedient to their own husbands, that the word of God be not blasphemed.

6 ¶ Young men likewise exhort to be ‡ sober-minded.

7 [3] In all things shewing thy self a pattern of good works: in doctrin shewing uncorruptness, [b] gravity, sincerity,

8 Sound speech that cannot be condemned, that he that is of the contrary part, may be ashamed, having no evil thing to say of you.

9 ¶ [4] Exhort servants to be obedient unto their own masters, and to please them well in [c] all things, not ‡ answering again:

10 Not purloining, but shewing all good fidelity, that they may adorn the doctrin of God our Saviour in all things.

11 ¶ [5] For the grace of God ‡ that bringeth salvation, hath appeared to all men,

12 Teaching us, that denying ungodliness and

1 He voucheth his apostleship (not for Titus, but for the Cretenses sake) both by the testimony of his outward calling, and by his consent, wherein he agreeth with all the elect from the beginning of the world.
a A minister, as Christ himself, in that that he was a minister and head of the prophets, is called a servant, Esa. 42. 1.
b Of those whom God had chosen.
2 The faith wherin all the elect consent, is the true and sincere knowledge of God, tending to this end, that worshipping God aright, they may at length obtain life everlasting according to the promise of God, who is true, which promise was exhibited in Christ in due time according to his eternall purpose.
‡ Or, for
c Hope is the end of faith.
d Freely, and of his meer liberality.
e Look 2 Tim. 1. 9.
3 The truth is no other where to be sought, but in the preaching of the apostles.
f This word (Saviour) doth not onely signify a preserver of life, but also a giver of life.
4 The apostle moveth the Cretenses to hear Titus, by setting forth his consent, and agreement with him in the faith, and therewithall sheweth by what speciall note we may distinguish true ministers from false. 5 There is but one way of salvation, common both to the pastour and the flock. 6 The first admonition to ordain elders in every city. ‡ Or, left undon. g This word is proper to horses and oxen, which will not abide the yoke. 7 The second admonition: what fault pastours (whom he comprehended afore under the word elders) ought to be void of, and what vertues they ought to have. h whom the Lord hath appointed steward of his gifts. i Not hard conditioned, and evil to please. * 1 Tim. 3. 3. ‡ Or, good things, k Circumspect, and of a sound judgement, and of a singular example of moderation. 8 The third admonition: The pastour must hold fast that doctrin, which the apostles delivered, and pertaineth to salvation, leaving all curious and vain matters. ‡ Or, in teaching, 9 The fourth admonition. To apply the knowledge of true doctrin unto use, which consisteth in two things, to wit, in governing them which shew themselvs apt to learn, and confuting the obstinate. 10 An applying of the generall proposition to a particular. The Cretenses above all others need sharp reprehensions, both because their minds are naturally given to lies and slothfulness, and also because of certain covetous Jews, which under a colour of godliness, joyned partly certain vain traditions, and partly old ceremonies with the gospel. l Of the Jews, or rather of those Jews which went about to joyn Christ and the Law together.
m Epimenides, who was counted a propher amongst them, look upon Laertius, and Cicero in his first book of divination.
n Roughly, and plainly, and go not about the bush with them.
11 He sheweth in few words, that purity consisteth not in any externall worship, and that, that is according to the old law (as in difference of meats, and washings, and other such things which are abolished) but in the mind and conscience: and whosoever teach otherwise, know not what is true religion indeed, and also are nothing less than that they would seem to be. o If our minds and consciences be unclean, what cleanness is there in us before generation? ‡ Or, void of judgement.
1 The fifth admonition: The doctrin must not onely be generally pure, but also be applied to all ages and orders of men, according to the diversity of circumstances,
2 what are the chiefest vertues for old and young, both men and women, and how they ought to be stirred up unto them continually.
‡ Or, vigilant,
‡ Or, holy women,
‡ Or, makebates,
‡ Or, wise,
a No gadders up and down.
‡ Or, discreet.
3 The sixth admonition: That both the pastours life and doctrin must be sound.
b Not such a gravity as may drive men from coming to the minister, but such as may cause them to come in most reverent and honest sort.
4 The seventh admonition, of servants duty toward their masters.
c which may be done without offence to God.
‡ Or, gain saying.
5 The eight admonition, belonging to all the godly, that seeing God calleth all men to the gospel, and Christ hath so justified us, that he hath also sanctified us, we must all of us give our selvs to true godliness, and righteousness, setting before us a sure hope of immeasurable glory: which thing must in such sort be beaten into their heads, that the gain-sayers also must be reproved by the authority of the Mighty God. ‡ Or, that bringeth salvation to all men, hath appeared.

CHAP. III.

1 Titus is yet further directed by Paul, both concerning the things he ſhould teach, and not teach. 10 He is willed alſo to reject obſtinate hereticks: 12 which done, he appointeth him both time and place, wherein he ſhould come unto him, and ſo concludeth.

PUt [1] them in mind to be ſubject to principalities and powers, to obey magiſtrates, to be ready to every good work,

2 To ſpeak evil of no man, to be no brawlers, but gentle, ſhewing all meekneſs unto all men.

3 [2] For we our ſelvs alſo were ſometimes fooliſh, diſobedient, deceived, ſerving divers luſts and pleaſures, living in malice and envie, hatefull, and hating one another.

4 But after that the kindneſs and ‡ love of God our Saviour toward man appeared,

5 Not by works of [a] righteouſneſs, which we have don, but according to his mercy he ſaved us by the waſhing of regeneration, and renewing of the [b] Holy Ghoſt:

1 He declareth particularly and ſeverally that which he ſaid before generally, noting out certain chief and principall duties, which men ow to men, and eſpecially ſubjects to their magiſtrates.
2 He confirmeth again the former exhortation by propounding the free benefit of our regeneration, the pledge whereof is our baptiſm.
‡ Or, pity.

7 That being juſtified by his grace, we ſhould be made heirs according to the hope of eternall life.

† Gr. richly,

8 ¶ [3] This is a faithfull ſaying, & theſe things I will that thou affirm conſtantly, that they which have believed in God, might be carefull to maintain [c] good works: theſe things are good and profitable unto men.

3 'Again with great earneſtneſs he beateth into our head, how that we ought to give our ſelvs to true godlineſs, and eſchew all vain queſtions, which ſerve to nothing but to move ſtriſe and debate.
c Give themſelvs earneſtly unto good works.

9 But avoid fooliſh queſtions and genealogies, and contentions, and ſtrivings about the law; for they are unprofitable and vain.

10 ¶ [4] A man that is an heretick, after the firſt and ſecond admonition, reject:

11 Knowing that he that is ſuch, is ſubverted, and ſinneth, being condemned of himſelf.

4 The miniſters of the word, muſt at once caſt off hereticks, that is, ſuch as ſtubbornly and ſeditiouſly diſquiet the church, and will give no ear to eccleſiaſticall admonitions.

12 ¶ [5] When I ſhall ſend Artemas unto thee, or Tychicus, be diligent to come unto me to Nicopolis: for I have determined there to winter.

13 Bring Zenas the lawyer, and Apollos on their journey diligently, that nothing be wanting unto them.

14 And let ours alſo learn to ‡ maintain good works for neceſſary uſes, that they be not unfruitfull.

5 Laſt of all, he writeth a word or two of private matters, and commendeth certain men.

‡ Or, profeſs honeſt trades

15 ¶ All that are with me ſalute thee. Greet them that love us in the faith. Grace be with you all. Amen.

¶ It was written to Titus ordained the firſt biſhop of the church of the Cretians, from Nicopolis of Macedonia.

The Epiſtle of PAUL TO PHILEMON.

4 He rejoyceth to hear of the faith and love of Philemon: 9 whom he deſireth to forgive his ſervant Oneſimus, and lovingly to receive him again.

PAul a priſoner of Jeſus Chriſt, and Timothy our brother unto Philemon our dearly beloved, and fellow-labourer,

2 And to our beloved Apphia, and Archippus our fellow-ſouldier, and to the church in thy houſe:

3 Grace to you, and peace from God our Father, and the Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

4 ¶ I thank my God, making mention of thee always in my prayers,

5 Hearing of thy love and faith, which thou haſt toward the Lord Jeſus, and toward all ſaints;

a By communication of faith, he meaneth thoſe duties of charity which are beſtowed upon the ſaints, and flow forth of an effectuall faith.

6 That the [a] communication of thy faith may become effectuall by the acknowledging of every good thing, which is in you in [b] Chriſt Jeſus.

b Shewing that there is no good thing in us, but we have it by Chriſt

7 For we have great joy and conſolation in thy love, becauſe the [c] bowels of the ſaints are refreſhed by thee, brother.

c Becauſe thou didſt ſo dutifully and cheerfully refreſh the ſaints, that they conceived inwardly a marvellous joy: for this word (bowels) is meant not onely the inward feeling of wants and miſeries that men have one of anothers ſtate, but alſo that joy, and comfort which entreth into the very bowels, as though the heart were refreſhed and comforted.

8 Wherefore, though I might be much bold in Chriſt, to enjoyn thee that which is convenient,

9 [1] Yet for loves ſake I rather beſeech thee, being ſuch a one as Paul the aged, and now alſo a priſoner of Jeſus Chriſt.

1 An example of a Chriſtian excuſe and commendation for an other man.

10 ¶ I beſeech thee for my ſon Oneſimus, whom I have begotten in my bonds.

11 Which in time paſt was to thee unprofitable: but now profitable to thee and to me:

12 Whom I have ſent again: thou therefore receive him that is mine own [d] bowels:

d As mine own ſon, and as if I had begotten him of mine own body.

13 Whom

202

13 Whom I would have retained with me, that in thy stead he might have ministred unto me in the bonds of the gospel.

14 But without thy mind would I do nothing: that thy benefit should not be as it were of [e] necessity, but willingly.

15 For perhaps he therefore [f] departed for a [g] season, that thou shouldest receive him for ever;

16 Not now as a servant, but above a servant, a brother beloved, specially to me, but how much more unto thee, both in the [h] flesh, and in the Lord?

17 If thou count me therefore a partner, receive him as my self.

18 If he hath wronged thee, or oweth thee ought, put that on mine account.

19 I Paul have written it with mine own hand, I will repay it: albeit I do not say to thee how thou owest unto me even thine own self besides.

20 [i] Yea, brother, let me have joy of thee in the Lord: refresh my bowels in the Lord.

21 Having confidence in thy obedience, I wrote unto thee, knowing that thou wilt also do more than I say.

22 But withall prepare me also a lodging: for I trust that through your prayers I shall be given unto you.

23 ¶ There salute thee Epaphras, my fellow-prisoner in Christ Jesus:

24 Marcus, Aristarchus, Demas, Lucas, my fellow-labourers.

25 The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with your spirit. Amen.

¶ Written from Rome to Philemon, by Onesimus a servant.

e That thou mightest not seem to have sent me thy servant upon constraint, but willingly.
f Thus he aswageth the harder kind of speech, which is to say, he ran away.
g For a little time.
h Because he is thy servant, as other servants are, and because he is the Lords servant, so that thou must needs love him, both for the Lords sake, and for thine own sake.
i Good brother, let me obtain this benefit at thine hand.

The Epistle of PAUL the Apostle TO THE HEBREWS.

THE ARGUMENT.

THe drift and end of this epistle, is to shew that Jesus Christ the Son of God, both God and man, is that true eternall and onely prophet, king, and high priest, that was shadowed by the figures of the old law, and is now indeed exhibited: of whom the whole church ought to be taught, governed, and sanctified.

CHAP. I.

1 Christ in these last times coming to us from the Father, 4 is preferred above the angels, both in person and office.

GOd who [1] at sundry times, and in divers manners, spake in time past unto the fathers by the prophets,

2 Hath in [a] these last days spoken unto us by his [b] Son, whom he hath appointed [2] heir of all things, by [c] whom also he made the [d] worlds:

3 * Who being the [e] brightness of his glory, and the express image of his [f] person, and [g] upholding all things by the word of his power, when he [3] had by himself purged our sins, [h] sat down on the right hand of the majesty on high:

4 [4] Being made so much better than the angels, as he hath by inheritance obtained a more excellent [i] name than they.

5 [5] For unto which of the angels said he at any time, Thou art my Son, [k] this day have I begotten thee? [6] And again, I will be to him a Father, and he shall be to me a Son?

6 [7] And [l] again, when he bringeth in the first-begotten into the world, he saith, And let all the angels of God worship him.

7 [8] And of the angels he saith, Who maketh his [m] angels spirits, and his ministers a [n] flame of fire.

8 But unto the Son he saith, Thy [o] throne, O God, is for [p] ever and ever, a sceptre of † righteousness is the [q] sceptre of thy kingdome:

9 Thou hast loved righteousness, and hated [r] iniquity, therefore God even thy God hath [s] anointed thee with the oyl of gladness above thy [t] fellows.

10 [9] And, * Thou Lord in the beginning hast [u] laid the foundation of the earth: and the heavens are the works of thine hands.

11 * They shall perish, but thou remainest: and they all shall wax old as doth a garment:

12 And as a vesture shalt thou fold them up, and they shall be changed: but thou art the same, and thy years shall not fail.

13 [10] But to which of the angels said he at any time, * Sit on my right hand, untill I make thine enemies thy footstool?

1 The first part of the generall proposition of this epistle: the Son of God is indeed that prophet or teacher, which hath actually now performed that, that God after a sort, and in shadows signified by his prophets, and hath fully opened his Fathers will to the world.
a So that the former declaration made by the prophets was not full, and nothing must be added to this latter.
b which one Son is God and man.
2 The second part of the same proposition: The same Son is appointed of the Father to be our King and Lord, by whom also he made all things: and in whom onely he setteth forth his glory, yea, and himself also to be beholden of us, who beareth up and substaineth all things by his will and pleasure. c Possessour and equall compartner of all things with the Father. d That is, whatsoever hath been at any time, is or shall be. * Wisd. 7. 26. e He in whom that glory and majesty of the Father shineth, who is otherwise infinit, and cannot be beholden. f His Fathers person. g Substaineth, defendeth, and cherisheth. 3 The third part of the same proposition: The same Son executed the office of the high priest in offering up himself, and is our onely and most mighty Mediatour in heaven. h This sheweth that the savour of that his sacrifice is not onely most acceptable to the Father, but also is everlasting, and furthermore, how far this high priest passeth all the other high priests. 4 Before he cometh to declare the office of Christ, he setteth forth the excellency of his person, and first of all he sheweth him so to be man, that therewithall he is God also. i Dignity and honour. 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10. He proveth and confirmeth the dignity of Christ manifested in the flesh, by these six evident testimonies, whereby it appeareth that he far passeth all angels, insomuch that he is called both Son, and God, in verse 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 13.

k The Father begat the Son from everlasting generation, but that everlasting generation was made manifest and represented to the world in his time, and therefore he addeth this word (To day.)
l The Lord was not content to have spoken it once, but he repeateth it in another place.

Chap. II.

1 We ought to be obedient to Christ Jesus, 5 and that because he vouchsafed to take our nature upon him, 14 as it was necessary.

1 THerefore [1] we ought to give the more earnest heed to the things which [a] we have heard, least at any time we should † let them [b] slip.

1 Now as it were pausing with himself: and shewing to what end and purpose all these things were spoken, to wit, to understand by the excellency of Christ, above all creatures, that his doctrin, majesty and priest-hood, is most perfect, he used an exhortation taken from a comparison.
a He maketh himself an hearer.
† Gr. run out as leaking vessels.
b They are said to let the word run out, which hold not fast when they have heard it.

2 For if the [c] word spoken by angels was stedfast, and every transgression and disobedience received a just recompence of reward:

c The law which appointed punishment for the offenders: and which Paul saith was given by angels, Galat. 3.19. and Steven, Acts 7.53.

3 How shall we escape if we neglect so great salvation, [2] which at the first began to be spoken by the Lord, and was confirmed unto us by [d] them that heard him,

2 If the breach and transgression of the word spoken by angels was not suffered unpunished, much less shall it be lawfull for us to neglect the gospel which the Lord of angels preached, and was confirmed by the voice of the apostles, and with so many signs and wonders from heaven, and especially with so great and mighty working of the Holy Ghost.
d By the apostles.

4 God also bearing them witness, both with [e] signs and wonders, and with divers miracles, and ‡ gifts of the Holy Ghost, according to his own will?

e That is, the true end of miracles. Now they are called signs because they appear one thing, and represent another: and they are called wonders because they represent some strange and unaccustomed thing: and vertues, because they give us a glimce of Gods mighty power, ‡ Or, distributions.

5 [1] For unto the angels hath he not put in subjection the [f] world to come, whereof we speak.

3 If it were an hainous matter to contemn the angels which are but servants, much more hainous is it to contemn that most mighty King of the restored world. f The world to come, whereof Christ is Father, Esa. 9 6. or the church, which as a new world, was to be gathered together by the gospel.

6 [4] But one in a certain place testified, saying, * [g] What is man that thou art mindfull of him; or the [h] son of man that thou visitest him?

4 He sheweth that the use of his kingly dignity consisteth herein, that men might not onely in Christ recover that dignity which they have lost, but also might be through him advanced above all things, which dignity of men David describeth most excellently. * Psal. 8.4.
g what is there in man that thou shouldest have so great regard of him and do him that honour?
h He calleth all the citizens of that heavenly kingdom, as they are considered in themselvs, before that God giveth them the liberty of that city in Christ, Man, and the Son of man.

7 Thou [i] madest him ‡ a little lower than the angels; thou crownedst him with [k] glory and honour, and didst set him over the works of thine hands:

i This is the first honour of the citizens of the world to come, that they are next the angels.
‡ Or, a little while inferiour to.

8 Thou hast put all things in subjection under his feet. For in that he put all in subjection under him, he left nothing that is not put under him. [5] But now we see not yet all things put under him.

k For they shall be in very great honour when they shall be partakers of the kingdom. And he speaketh of the thing that shall be, as though it were already, because it is so certain. 5 An objection: But where is this so great rule and dominion? 6 The answer: This is already fulfilled in Jesus Christ our head who was for a time for our sakes inferiour to the angels, being made man but now is advanced into most high glory.

9 [6] But we [l] see Jesus, who was made a little [m] lower than the angels, ‡ [7] for the [n] suffering of death, crowned with glory and honour, that he by the grace of God should [o] taste death for [8] every man.

l By his vertue and power which appeareth manifestly in the church. m who abased himself for a season, and took upon him the shape of a servant. ‡ Or, by. 7 He sheweth the cause of this subjection, to wit, to taste of death for our sakes, that so doing the part of a redeemer, he might not onely be our prophet and king, but also our high priest n That he might die. o Feel death. 8 Herein consisteth the force of the argument: for we could not at length be glorified with him, unless he had been abased for us, even all the faithfull. And by this occasion the apostle cometh to the other part of the declaration of Christs person, wherein he proveth him to be in such sort God, that he is also man.

10 [9] For it became [p] him, for whom are all things, and by whom are all things, in [10] bringing many sons unto glory, [11] to make the [q] captain of their salvation perfect through sufferings.

9 He proveth moreover by other arguments, why it behoved the Son of God who is true God (as he proved a little before) to become man notwithstanding, subject to all miseries, sin onely excepted.
p God. 10 First of all because the Father, to whose glory all things are to be referred, purposed to bring many sons unto glory. And how could he have men for his sons, unless his onely begotten Son had become brother to men.

11 [12] For both he that [r] sanctifieth, and they who are sanctified, are all of [s] one: for which cause he is not ashamed to call them brethren,

11 Secondly, The Father determined to bring those sons to glory, to wit, out of that ignominy wherein they lay before. Therefore the son should not have been seen plainly to be made man unless he had been made like unto other men, that he might come to glory by the self-same way, by the which he should bring others: yea rather, it became him which was prince of the salvation of others to be consecrated above others through those afflictions, prophet, king, and priest, which are the parts of that principality for the salvation of others.
q The Captain who as he is chiefest in dignity, so is he the first begotten from among the dead, amongst many brethren.

12 [13] Saying, I will declare thy name unto my brethren, in the midst of the church will I sing praise unto thee.

13 [14] And again, * I will put my [t] trust in him: and again, * [u] Behold, I, and the children which God hath given me.

12 The ground of both the former arguments, for neither should we be sons through him, neither could he be consecrated through afflictions, unless he had been made man like unto us. But because this sonhood depeth not upon nature onely, for no man is accounted the son of God, unless that besides that he is a son of man, he be also Christs brother, (which is by sanctification, that is, by becoming one with Christ, who sanctifieth us through faith) therefore the apostle maketh mention of the sanctifier, to wit, of Christ, and of them that are sanctified, to wit, of all the faithfull, whom therefore Christ vouchsafeth to call brethren. r He visith the time that now is, to shew us that we are yet still going on, and increasing in this sanctification: and by sanctification he meaneth an separation from the rest of the world, our cleansing from sin, and our dedication wholly unto God, all which Christ alone worketh in us. s One, of one self-same nature of man. 13 That which he taught before of the incarnation of the sanctifier, he applieth to the prophetick office. 14 He applieth the same to the kingly power of Christ, in delivering his from the power of the devil and death. * Psal 18. 2. t I will commit my self to him, and to his defence. * Isa. 8. 18. u This Esai speaketh of himself and his disciples, but betokening thereby all ministers, as also his disciples signify the whole church. And therefore seeing Christ is the head of the prophets and ministers, these words are more rightly verified of him, than of Esai. x Are made of flesh and bloud, which is a frail and brittle nature.

14 Forasmuch then as the children are [x] partakers of flesh and bloud; he also himself likewise took part of the same, that through death he might destroy him that had the [y] power of death, that is, the [z] devil:

y The devil is said to have the power of death, because he is the authour of sin: and from sin cometh death, and for this cause he eggeth us daily to sin. z He speaketh of one as of the prince, joyning to him secretly all his angels. a By (death) thou must understand here that death which is joyned with the wrath of God, as it must needs be, if it be without Christ except which there can be nothing devised more miserable. 15 He expoundeth those words of flesh and bloud shewing that Christ is true man, and that not by turning his divine nature, but by taking of mans nature. And he nameth Abraham, respecting the promises made to Abraham in this behalf. † Gr. he taketh not hold of angels, but of the seed of Abraham he taketh hold.

15 And deliver them who through fear of [a] death were all their life-time subject to bondage.

a The nature of angels. c The very nature of man. 16 He applieth the same to the priesthood, for which he should not have been fit, unless he had become man, and that like unto us in all things, sin onely except. d Not onely as touching nature, but qualities also. e That he might be truely touched with the feeling of our miseries. f Doing his office sincerely. g was tried and egged to wickedness by the devil.

16 [15] For verily † he took not on him the nature of [b] angels: but he took on him the [c] seed of Abraham.

17 [16] Wherefore in [d] all things it behoved him to be made like unto his brethren, that he might be [e] a mercifull and [f] faithfull high priest, in things pertaining to God, to make reconciliation for the sins of the people:

18 For in that he himself hath suffered, being [g] tempted, he is able to succour them that are tempted.

Chap. III.

1 Christ is more worthy than Moses: 7 therefore if we believe not in him, we shall be more worthy of punishment than hard-hearted Israel.

1 WHerefore, [1] holy brethren, partakers of the heavenly calling, consider the [a] apostle and high priest of our [b] profession Christ Jesus,

1 Having laid the foundation, that is to say, declared and proved both the natures of one self same Christ, he giveth him three offices; to wit, the office of a prophet, king, and priest, and as touching the office of teaching, and governing comparing him with Moses and Joshua, unto the 14 vers. of the next chapter, and with Aaron touching the priesthood. And he propoundeth that which he purposed to speak of, with a most grave exhortation, that all our faith may tend to Christ, as to the onely everlasting teacher, governer, and high priest. a The ambassadour or messenger, as Rom 15. he is called the minister of circumcision. b Of the doctrin of the gospel which we profess. 2 He confirmeth his exhortation with two reasons, first of all because Christ Jesus was appointed such an one of God, secondly, because he throughly executed the offices that his Father enjoyned him. † Gr. made, 1 Sam. 12.6. c Apostle and high priest. 3 Now he cometh to the comparison with Moses, and he maketh them like one to the other in this, that they were both appointed rulers over Gods house, and executed faithfully their offices: but by and by after he sheweth that there is great unlikeness in that same similitude.

2 [2] Who was faithfull to him that † [c] appointed him, [3] as also Moses was faithfull in all his house

3 [4] For

4 The first comparison: The builder of the house is better than the house it self, therefore is Christ better than Moses. The reason of the consequent is this: because the builder of this house is God, which cannot be attributed to Moses: and therefore Moses was not properly the builder: but a part of the house: but Christ as Lord and God made all this house.

5 Another comparison: Moses was a faithfull servant in this house: that is, in the church, serving the Lord that was to come, but Christ ruleth and governeth his house as Lord.

6 He applieth the former doctrin to his end, exhorting all men by the words of David to hear the Son himself speak, and to give full credit to his words, seeing that otherwise they cannot enter into that eternall rest.

d To wit Christ.

e He calleth that excellent effect of faith (whereby we cry Abba, that is, Father) confidence, and to confidence he joyneth hope.

* Psal. 95. 7.

f So that God was to speak once again after Moses.

g In the day that they vexed the Lord, or strove with him.

h They are brutish and mad.

† Gr. If they shall enter

7 Now weighing the words of David, he sheweth first by this word, (To day) that we must not neglect the occasion while we have it: for that word is not to be restrained to Davids time, but it comprehendeth all that time wherein God calleth us.

i while the day lasteth, that is to say, So long as the gospel is offered to us.

3 [4] For this man was counted worthy of more glory than Moses, in as much as he, who hath builded the house, hath more honour than the house.

4 For every house is builded by some man, but he that built all things is God.

5 [5] And Moses verily was faithfull in all his house as a servant, for a testimony of those things which were to be spoken after:

6 But Christ as a Son over his own house, [6] whose [d] house are we, if we hold fast the [e] confidence, and the rejoycing of the hope firm unto the end.

7 ¶ Wherefore as the holy Ghost saith, * To day if ye will [f] hear his voice,

8 Harden not your hearts, as in the [g] provocation, in the day of temptation in the wilderness.

9 When your fathers tempted me, proved me, and saw my works forty years.

10 Wherefore I was grieved with that generation, and said, They do alway [h] err in their heart, and they have not known my ways.

11 So I sware in my wrath, † They shall not enter into my rest.

12 [7] Take heed, brethren, least there be in any of you an evil heart of unbelief, in departing from the living God.

13 But exhort one another daily [i] while it is called, To day, least any of you be hardened through the deceitfulness of sin.

14 [8] For we are made partakers of Christ, if we hold the [k] beginning of our confidence stedfast unto the end:

15 [1] While it is said, To day if ye will hear his voice, harden not your hearts, as in the provocation.

16 For some when they had heard, did provoke: howbeit not all that came out of Egypt by Moses.

17 But with whom was he grieved forty years? was it not with them that had sinned, whose carcases fell in the wilderness?

18 And to whom sware he that they should not enter into his rest, but to them that believed not?

19 So we see that they could not enter in, because of unbelief.

8 Now he considereth these words, If you hear his voice, &c. shewing that they are spoken and meant of the hearing of faith, against which he setteth hardening through unbelief.

k That beginning of trust and confidence and after the manner of the Hebrews, he calleth that, Beginning, which is chiefest.

l So long as this voice soundeth out.

Chap. IV.

1 The rest of Christians is attained by faith. 12 The power of Gods word. 14 By our high priest Jesus the Son of God, subject to infirmities, but not sin, 16 we must and may go boldly to the throne of grace.

LEt us therefore fear, least a promise being left us of entring into his rest, any of you should seem to come short of it.

1 By these words, His voice, he sheweth that David meant the preaching of Christ, who was then also preached, for Moses, and the prophets respected none other.

2 [1] For unto us was the gospel preached, as well as unto them: but † the word preached did not profit them, ‡ not being [a] mixed with faith in them that heard it.

† Gr. the word of hearing. ‡ Or, because they were not united by faith to.

a He compareth the preaching of the gospel to drink, which being drunk, that is to say, Heard, profiteth nothing unless it be tempered with faith.

3 [2] For we which have believed do enter into rest, as he said, As I have sworn in my wrath, if they shall enter into my rest: although the works were finished from the foundation of the world.

4 For he spake in a certain place of the seventh day on this wise, And God did rest the seventh day from all his works.

5 And in this place again, If they shall enter into my rest.

6 ¶ Seeing therefore it remaineth that some must enter therein, and they to whom ‡ it was first preached, entred not in because of unbelief:

7 Again, he limiteth a certain day, saying in David, To day, after so long a time; as it is said, To day if ye will hear his voice, harden not your hearts.

8 For if ‡ [b] Jesus had given them rest, then would he not afterward have spoken of another day.

9 There remaineth therefore a ‡ rest to the people of God.

10 [c] For he that is entred into his rest, he also hath ceased from his own works, as God did from his.

11 [3] Let us labour therefore to enter into that rest, [d] least any man fall after the same example of ‡ unbelief.

12 [4] For the [e] word of God is [f] quick, and powerfull, and sharper than any two edged sword, piercing even to the dividing asunder of [g] soul and [h] spirit, and of the joynts and marrow, and is a discerner of the thoughts and intents of the heart.

13 Neither is there any creature that is not manifest in his [i] sight: but all things are naked, and opened unto the eyes of him with whom we have to do.

14 [5] Seeing then that we have a great high priest, that is passed into the heavens, Jesus the Son of God, let us [k] hold fast our profession.

15 [6] For we have not an high priest which cannot be touched with the feeling of our infirmities: but was in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin.

16 Let us therefore come boldly unto the throne of grace, that we may obtain mercy, and find grace to help in time of need.

2 Least any man should object that those words were meant of the land of Canaan, and of Moses doctrin, & therefore cannot be well drawn to Christ, and to eternall life, the apostle sheweth that there are two manner of rests spoken of in the scriptures: the one of the seventh day, wherein God is said to have rested from all his works: another is said to be that same, whereunto Joshuah led the people: but this rest is not the last rest whereunto we are called: and that he proveth by two reasons: For seeing that David so long time after, speaking to the people which were then placed in the land of Canaan, used these words, (To day) and threatneth them still that they shall not enter into the rest of God, which refused then the voice of God that sounded in their ears, we must needs say, that he meant another time than the time of Moses, and another rest than the rest of the land of Canaan: And that is, that everlasting rest, wherein we begin to live to God, after that the race of this life ceaseth: as God rested the seventh day from those his works, that is to say, from making the world. Moreover the apostle therewithall signifieth that the way to this rest, which Moses and the land of Canaan, and all that order of the law did shadow, is opened in the gospel onely.

‡ Or, the gospel was first preached,

‡ That is, Joshuah

b He speaketh of Joshuah the son of Nun: and as the land of Canaan was a figure of our true rest, so was Joshuah a figure of Christ.

‡ Or, keeping of a sabbath. c As God rested the seventh day, so must we rest from our works, that is, from such as proceed from our corrupt nature. 3 He returneth to an exhortation. d Least any man become a like example of infidelity. ‡ Or, disobedience. 4 An amplification taken from the nature of the word of God, the power whereof is such, that it entreth even to the deepest and most inward and secret parts of the heart, wounding them deadly that are stubborn, and plainly quickening the believers. e The doctrin of God which is preached both in the law and in the gospel. f He calleth the word of God quick by reason of the effects it worketh in them to whom it is preached. g He calleth that the soul which hath the affections resident in it. h By the spirit, he meaneth that noblest part which is called the mind. i In Gods sight. 5 Now he entreth into the comparison of Christs priest-hood with Aarons, and declareth even in the very beginning the marvellous excellency of this priest-hood, calling him the Son of God, and placing him in the seat of God in heaven, plainly and evidently setting him against Aarons priest, and the transitory tabernacle, which comparisons he setteth forth afterward more at large. k And let it not go out of our hands. 6 Least he might seem by this great glory of our high priest, to stay and stop us from going unto him, he addeth straight ways after, that he is notwithstanding our brother indeed, (as he proved it also before) and that he accompteth all miseries his own, to call us boldly to him.

Chap. V.

1 The authority and honour of our Saviours priesthood. 11 Negligence in the knowledge therefore is reproved.

FOr [1] every high priest taken from among men, is ordained for men in things pertaining

1 The first part of the first comparison of Christs high priesthood with Aarons: Other high priests are taken from among men, and are called after the order of men.

ing to God, [2] that he may offer both [a] gifts and [b] sacrifices for sins.

2 Who ‡ [c] can have compassion on the ignorant, and [d] on them that are out of the way, for that he himself also is [e] compassed with infirmity.

3 And by reason hereof he ought, as for the people, so also for himself, to offer for sins.

4 [3] And no man taketh this honour unto himself, but he that is called of God, as was Aaron.

5 So also, Christ glorified not himself, to be made an high priest: but he that said unto him, Thou art my Son, to day have I begotten thee.

6 As he saith also in another place, Thou art a priest for ever after the [f] order of Melchisedec.

7 [4] Who in the [g] days of his flesh, when he had offered up prayers and supplications, with strong crying and tears, unto him that was able to [h] save him from death, and was heard, ‡ in that he feared:

8 Though he were a Son, yet [i] learned he obedience, by the things which he suffered:

9 [5] And being made [k] perfect, he became the authour of eternal salvation unto all them that obey him,

10 Called of God an high priest after the order of Melchisedec.

11 ¶ [6] Of whom we have many things to say, and hard to be uttered, seeing ye are dull of hearing.

12 [7] For when for the time ye ought to be teachers, ye have need that one teach you again which be the first principles of the oracles of God, and are become such as have need of milk, and not of strong meat.

13 For every one that useth milk, † is unskilful [l] in the word of righteousness: for he is a babe.

14 But strong meat belongeth to them that are ‡ of full age, even those who by reason ‡ of use have their [m] senses exercised to discern both good and evil.

2 The first part of the second comparison: Others as weak, are made high-priests, to the end that feeling the same infirmity in themselves which is in all the rest of the people, they should in their own and the peoples name offer gifts and sacrifices, which are witnesses of common faith and repentance.
a Offering of things without life.
b Beasts which were killed, but especially in the sacrifices for sins and offences.
‡ Or, can reasonably bear with c Fit and meet.
d On them that are sinful: for in the Hebrew tongue, under ignorance and error is every sin meant, even that sin that is voluntary.
e For that he himself beareth about with him a nature subject to the same discommodities and vices.
3 The third comparison which is whole. The others are called of God, and so was Christ, but in another order than Aaron. for Christ is called the Son, begotten of God, and a priest for ever after the order of Melchisedec.
f After the likeness or manner as it is afterward declared.
4 The other part of the second comparison: Christ being exceedingly afflicted and exceedingly mercifull, asked, not for his sins, for he had none, but for his fear, and obtained his request, and offered himself for all his.
g while he lived here with us, in our weak and frail nature.
h To deliver him from death.
‡ Or, for his piety:
i He learned indeed what it is to have a father, whom a man must obey. 5 The other part of the first comparison. But Christ was consecrate of God the Father as the authour of our salvation, and an high priest for ever, and therefore he is so a man, that notwithstanding he is far above all men. k Look Chap. 2. 10. 6 A digression untill he come to the beginning of the seventh Chapter: wherein he partly holdeth the Hebrews in the diligent consideration of those things which he hath said, and partly prepareth them to the understanding of those things whereof he will speak 7 An example of an apostolik chiding. † Gr. hath no experience l In the word which teacheth righteousness. ‡ Or, perfect, † Or, of an habit, or perfection, m All their power whereby they understand and judge.

CHAP. VI.

1 He exhorteth, not to fall back from the faith, 11 but to be stedfast, 12 diligent and patient to wait upon God, 13 because God is most sure in his promise.

‡ Or, the word of the beginning of Christ.

THerefore leaving ‡ the [a] principles of the doctrin of Christ, let us go on unto perfection, [1] not laying again the foundation of a The first principles of Christian religion, which we do call the Catechism. 1 Certain principles of a Catechism, which comprehend the sum of the doctrin of the gospel, were given in few words, and briefly to the rude and ignorant, to wit, the profession of repentance and faith in God: the articles of which doctrin were demanded of them which were not as yet received members of the church, at the days appointed for baptism: and of the children of the faithfull which were baptized in their infancy, when hands were laid upon them. And of those articles, two are by name recited: the resurrection of the flesh, and the eternall judgement.

repentance from dead works, and of faith towards God,

2 Of the doctrin of baptisms, and of laying on of hands, and of resurrection of the dead, and of eternal judgement.

3 And this will we do, if God permit.

4 ¶ [2] For it is [b] impossible for those who were once enlightened, and have [c] tasted of the heavenly gift, and were made partakers of the Holy Ghost,

5 And have tasted the good word of God, and the powers of the world to come;

6 If they shall fall away, to renew them again unto repentance: seeing they [d] crucify to themselves the Son of God afresh, and put him to an open shame.

7 [3] For the earth which drinketh in the rain that cometh oft upon it, and bringeth forth herbs meet for them ‡ by whom it is dressed, receiveth blessing from God.

8 But that which beareth thorns and briers, is rejected, and is nigh unto cursing, whose end is to be burned.

9 ¶ [4] But beloved, we are perswaded better things of you, and things that accompany salvation, though we thus speak.

10 [5] For God is not unrighteous, to forget your work and labour of love, which ye have shewed toward his name, in that ye have ministred to the saints, and do minister.

11 And we desire, that every one of you do shew the same diligence, to the full assurance of hope unto the end:

12 [6] That ye be not slothfull, but followers of them, who through faith and patience inherit the promises.

13 [7] For when God made promise to Abraham, because he could swear by no greater, he sware by himself,

14 Saying, Surely, blessing, I will [e] bless thee, and multiplying, I will multiply thee.

15 And so after he had patiently endured, he obtained the promise.

16 For men verily swear by the greater, and an oath for confirmation is to them an end of all strife.

17 Wherein God willing more [f] abundantly to shew unto the heirs of promise the immutability of his counsel, † confirmed it by an oath:

18 That by two immutable things, in which it was impossible for God to lie, we might have a strong consolation, who have fled for refuge to lay hold upon the hope set before us:

19 [8] Which hope we have as an anker of the soul, both sure and stedfast, and which entreth into that within the vail:

20 [9] Whither the forerunner is for us entred, even Jesus, made an high priest for ever after the order of Melchisedec.

2 He addeth a vehemency to his exhortation, and a most sharp threatning of the certain destruction that shall come to them which fall from God and his religion.
b He speaketh of a general backsliding, and such as do altogether fall away from the faith, and not of sins which are comitted through the frailty of a man, against the first and the second table.
c we must mark the force of this word, for it is one thing to believe as Lidia did, whose heart God opened, Acts 16. 13. and another thing to have some taste.
d As men that hate Christ, and as though they crucified him again, make him a mocking stock to all the world, and that to their own destruction, as Julian the apostata or backslider did 3 He setteth forth the former threatning with a similitude.
‡ Or, for
4 He mitigateth and asswageth all that sharpness, hoping better of them to whom he writeth.
5 He praiseth them for their charity, thereby encouraging them to go forward, and to hold out to the end.
6 He sheweth what vertues chiefly they have need of to go forward constantly, and also to profit: to wit, of charity, and patience: and least any man should object and say, that these things are impossible to be don, he willeth them to set before themselves the example of their ancestors, and to follow them.
7 Another prick to prick them forward: Because the hope of the inheritance, is certain, if we continue to the end, for God hath not onely promised it, but also promised it with an oath.
e I will heap up benefits most plentifully upon thee.
f More than was needfull, were it not for the wickedness of men which believe not God, no, though he swear.
† Gr. interposed himself by his oath. 8 He likeneth hope to an anker: because that even as an anker being cast into the bottom of the sea, stayeth the whole ship, so doth hope also enter even into the very secret places of heaven. And he maketh mention of the sanctuary, alluding to the old tabernacle, and by this means returneth to the comparisons of the priesthood of Christ with the Leviticall. 9 He repeateth Davids words, wherein all those comparisons, whereof he hath before made mention, are signified, as he declareth in all the next Chapter.

Chap. VII.

1 Chriſt Jeſus is a prieſt after the order of Melchidec, 11 and ſo far more excellent than the prieſts of Aarons order.

FOr this [1] Melchiſedec king of Salem, prieſt of the moſt high God, who met Abraham returning from the ſlaughter of the kings, and [a] bleſſed him:

2 To whom alſo Abraham gave a tenth part of all: firſt being by interpetation king of righteouſneſs, and after that alſo, king of Salem, which is king of peace:

3 [2] Without father, without mother, † without deſcent, having neither beginning of days, nor end of life: but made like unto the Son of God, abideth a prieſt continually.

4 [3] Now conſider how great this man was, unto whom even the patriarch Abraham gave the tenth of the ſpoils.

5 And verily they that are of the ſons of Levi, who receive the office of the prieſthood, have a commandment to take tithes of the people according to the law, that is, of their brethren, though they come out of the [b] loins of Abraham.

6 But he whoſe ‡ deſcent is not counted from them, received tithes of Abraham, and bleſſed him that had the promiſes.

7 And [c] without all contradiction, the leſs is bleſſed of the better.

8 And here men that die receive tithes: but there he receiveth them, of whom it is witneſſed that he liveth.

9 [4] And as I may ſo ſay, Levi alſo who receiveth tithes, payed tithes in Abraham.

10 For he was yet in the loins of his father when Melchiſedec met him.

11 [5] If therefore [d] perfection were by the Levitical prieſthood, (for under it the people received the law) what further need was there that another prieſt ſhould riſe after the order of Melchiſedec, and not be called after the order of Aaron?

12 [6] For the prieſthood being changed, there is made of neceſſity a change alſo of the [e] law.

13 For he of whom theſe things are ſpoken, pertaineth to another tribe, of which [f] no man gave attendance at the altar.

14 For it is evident that our Lord ſprang out of Juda, of which tribe Moſes ſpake nothing concerning prieſthood.

15 [7] And it is yet far more evident: for that after the ſimilitude of Melchiſedec there ariſeth another prieſt, 16 [8] Who is made, not after the [g] law of a carnal commandment, but after the power of an endleſs life.

17 For he teſtifieth, Thou art a prieſt for ever after the order of Melchiſedec.

18 [9] For there is verily a diſanulling of the [h] commandment going before, for the weakneſs and unprofitableneſs thereof.

19 For the law made nothing perfect, ‡ but the bringing in of a better hope did: by the which we draw nigh unto God.

20 [10] And in as much as not without an oath he was made prieſt,

21 (For thoſe prieſts were made ‡ without an oath: but this with an oath, by him that ſaid unto him, * The Lord ſware and will not repent, Thou art a prieſt for ever, after the order of Melchiſedec)

22 By ſo much was Jeſus made a ſurety of a better teſtament.

23 [11] And they truly were many prieſts, becauſe they were not ſuffered to continue by reaſon of death.

24 But this man, becauſe he continueth ever, hath an ‡ [i] unchangeable prieſthood.

25 Wherefore he is [k] able alſo to ſave them ‡ to the uttermoſt, that come unto God by him, ſeeing he ever liveth to make interceſſion for them.

26 ¶ [12] For ſuch an high prieſt became us, who is holy, harmleſs, undefiled, ſeparate from ſinners, and made higher than the heavens:

27 Who needeth not daily as thoſe high prieſts, to offer up ſacrifice, firſt for his own ſins, and then for the peoples: [13] for [l] this he did [m] once, when he offered up himſelf.

28 For the law maketh men high prieſts which have infirmity, but the [n] word of the oath [14] which [o] was ſince the law, maketh the Son, who is † conſecrated for evermore.

1 Declaring thoſe words, According to the order of Melchiſedec, whereupon that compariſon ſtandeth of the prieſthood of Chriſt with the Levitical: firſt, Melchiſedec himſelf is conſidered as the figure of Chriſt, and there are the heads of that compariſon: Melchiſedec was a king and a prieſt, and ſuch an one indeed is Chriſt alon: He was a king of peace and righteouſneſs, ſuch an one indeed is Chriſt alone.

a with a ſolemn and prieſtly bleſſing.

2 Another figure: Melchiſedec is ſet before us to be conſidered as one without beginning and without ending, for neither his father, nor his mother, nor his anceſtors nor his death are written of: and ſuch an one indeed is the Son of God, to wit, an everlaſting prieſt: as he is God, without mother wonderfully begotten: as he is man, without father wonderfully conceived.

† Gr. without pedegree,

3 Another figure: Melchiſedec in conſideration of his prieſthood was above Abraham: for he took tenths of him and bleſſed him as a prieſt: ſuch a one indeed is Chriſt, upon whom dependeth even Abrahams ſanctification, and all the believers, and whom all men ought to worſhip and reverence as the author of all

b were begotten of Abraham.

‡ Or, pedegree

c He ſpeaketh of the publik bleſſing which the prieſts uſed

4 A double amplification: The firſt that Melchiſedec took the tenths as one immortal (to wit, in reſpect that he is the figure of Chriſt, for his death is in no place made mention of, and David ſetteth him forth as an everlaſting prieſt) but the Levitical prieſts, as mortall men, for they ſucceed one another: the ſecond, that Levi himſelf was tithed in Abraham by Melchiſedec. Therefore the prieſthood of Melchiſedec (that is, Chriſts, who is pronounced to be an everlaſting prieſt according to his order) is more excellent than the Levitical. 5 The third treatiſe of this epiſtle, wherein after he hath proved Chriſt to be a king, a prophet and prieſt, he now handleth diſtinctly the condition and excellency of all all theſe offices, ſhewing that all theſe were but ſhadows in all other, but in Chriſt they are true and perfit. And he beginneth with the prieſthood, wherewi h alſo the former treatiſe ended, that by this means all the parts and members of the diſputation may better hang together. And firſt of all he proveth that the Levitical prieſt hood was imperfect, becauſe another prieſt is promiſed a long time after, according to another order that is to ſay, of another manner of rule and faſhion d If the prieſthood of Levi could have made any man perfit. 6 He ſheweth how that by the inſtitution of the new prieſthood, not onely the imperfection of the prieſthood of Levi was declared, but alſo that it was changed for this: for theſe two cannot ſtand together becauſe that firſt appointment of the tribe of Levi, did ſhut forth the tribe of Juda, and made it alſo inferiour to Levi: and this latter doth place the prieſthood in the tribe of Juda e Of the inſtitution of Aaron. f Had any thing to do about the altar. 7 Leaſt any man might oniect, that the prieſthood indeed was tranſlated from Levi to Juda, but yet notwithſtanding the ſame remaineth ſtill, he both weigheth and expoundeth thoſe words of David, for ever according to the order of Melchiſedec, whereby alſo a divers inſtitution of prieſthood is well perceived.

5 He proveth the diverſity and excellency of the inſtitution of Melchiſedecs prieſthood, by this, that the prieſthood of the law did ſtand upon an outward and bodily anointing: but the ſacrifice of Melchiſedec is for out to be everlaſting & more ſpirituall.

g Not after the ordination which commandeth trail and tranſitory things, as was done in Aarons conſecration, and all that whole prieſthood.

9 Again, that no man might object that the laſt prieſthood was added to make a perfect one, by the coupling of them both together, he proveth that the firſt was abrogated by the latter, as unprofitable, and that by the nature of them both. For how could thoſe corporal and tranſitory things ſanctify us, either of themſelvs, or being iovned with another?

h The ceremoniall law.

‡ Or, but it was the bringing in

10 Another argument, whereby he proveth that the prieſthood of Chriſt is better than the prieſthood of Levi, becauſe his was eſtabliſhed with an oath, but theirs was not ſo

‡ Or, without ſwearing of an oath:

* Pſal. 110. 4.

11 Another argument tending to the ſame purpoſe The Leviticall prieſts (as mortall men) could not be everlaſting, but Chriſt, as he everlaſting, ſo hath he alſo an everlaſting prieſthood, making moſt effectuall interceſſion for them which by him come unto God. ‡ Or, which paſſeth not from one to another. i which cannot paſs away. k He is fit and meet: ‡ Or, ever more, 12 Another argument: There are required in an high prieſt innocency and perfect purenes, which may ſeparate him from ſinners, for whom he offereth. But the Leviticall high prieſts ſhall not be found to be ſuch, for they offer firſt for their own ſins: but Chriſt onely is ſuch a one, and therefore the true and onely high prieſt 13 Another argument, which notwithſtanding he handleth afterward: The Liviticall prieſts offered ſacrifice after ſacrifice, firſt for themſelvs, and then for the people, But Chriſt offered not for himſelf but for others, not ſacrifices, but himſelf, not oftentimes, but once. And this ought not to ſeem ſtrange, ſaith he, forasmuch as they are weak, but this Man is conſecrate an everlaſting prieſt, and that by an oath. l That ſacrifice which he offered. m It was ſo done, that it needeth not to be repeated or offered again any more. n The commandment of God which was bound with an oath. 14 Another argument taken of the time: Former things are taken away by the latter. o Exhibited. ‡ Gr. perfected.

Chap. VIII.

1 By the eternal prieſthood of Chriſt, the Levitical prieſthood of Aaron is aboliſhed: 7 and the temporal covenant with the fathers, by the eternal covenant of the goſpel.

NOw [1] of the things which we have ſpoken, this is the ſum: We have ſuch an high prieſt, who is ſet on the right hand of the throne of the majeſty in the heavens:

2 [2] A miniſter ‡ of the [a] ſanctuary, [3] and of the [b] true tabernacle which the Lord pitched, and not man.

3 [4] For every high prieſt is ordained to offer

1 He briefly repeateth that whereunto all theſe things are to be referred, to wit, that we have ſuch other high prieſt than thoſe Leviticall high prieſts are, even ſuch an one as ſitteth at the right hand of the moſt high God in heaven

2 They of Levi were high prieſts in an earthly ſanctuary, but Chriſt is in the heavenly. ‡ Or, of holy things, a Of heaven. 3 They of Levi exerciſed their prieſthood in a frail tabernacle, but Chriſt beareth about with him a far other tabernacle, to wit, his body which God himſelf made to be everlaſting, as it ſhall afterward be declared, Chap. 9 11. b Of his body. 4 He bringeth a reaſon, why it muſt needs be that Chriſt ſhould have a body, (which he calleth a tabernacle, which the Lord pight and not man) to wit, that he might have what to offer: for otherwiſe he could not be an high prieſt. And the ſelf-ſame body is both the tabernacle, and the ſacrifice.

gifts

gifts and sacrifices: wherefore it is of necessity that this man have some what also to offer.

4 [5] For if he were on earth, he should not be a priest, seeing that ‡ there are priests that offer gifts according to the law,

5 Who serve unto the example and shadow of heavenly things, as Moses was admonished of God when he was about to make the tabernacle. For see (saith he) that thou make all things according to the patern shewed to thee in the mount.

6 [6] But now hath he obtained a more excellent ministery, by how much also he is the mediatour of a better ‡ covenant, which was established upon better promises.

7 [7] For if that first covenant had been faultless, then should no place have been sought for the second.

8 For finding fault with them, he saith, Behold, the days come (saith the Lord) when I will make a new covenant with the [e] house of Israel and the house of Judah:

9 Not according to the covenant that I made with their fathers in the day when I took them by the hand to lead them out of the land of Egypt, because they continued not in my covenant, and I regarded them not, saith the Lord.

10 For this is the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel after those days, saith the Lord, * I will † put my laws into their mind, and write them ‡ in their hearts: and I will be to them a God, and they shall be to me a people.

11 And they shall not teach every man his neighbour, and every man his brother, saying, Know the Lord: for all shall know me, from the lest to the greatest.

12 For I will be merciful to their unrighteousnes, and their sins and their iniquities will I remember no more.

13 [8] In that he saith, A new covenant, he hath made the first old. Now that which decayeth and waxeth old, is ready to vanish away.

5 He giveth a reason, why he said that our high priest is in the heavenly sanctuary, and not in the earthly: because, saith he, if he were now on the earth, he could not minister in the earthly sanctuary, seeing there are yet Leviticall priests which are appointed for him, that is to say, to be patterns of that perfit example. And to what purpose should the paterns serve when the true and originall example is present? ‡ Or, they are priests

6 He entreth into the comparison of the old and transitory testament or covenant, being but for a time, whereof the Leviticall priests were mediatours, with the new, the everlasting mediatour whereof is Christ to shew, that this is not onely better than that in all respects, but also that that was abrogated by this. ‡ Or, testament,

7 He proveth by the testimony of Jeremy, that there is a second testament or covenant, and therefore that the first was not perfit.

e He calleth it an house, as it were one family of the whole kingdom: for whereas the kingdom of David was divided into two factions, the prophet giveth us to understand, that through the new testament they shall be joyned together again in one.

* Jer. 31. 33.
† Gr. give
‡ Or, upon

8 The conclusion therefore by the latter and the new, the first and old is taken away, for it could not be called new, if it differed not from the old, and again, that same is at length taken away, which is subject to corruption, and therefore imperfect.

Chap. IX.

1 The description of the rites and bloudy sacrifices of the law, 11 far inferiour to the dignity and perfection of the bloud and sacrifice of Christ.

THen verily the [1] first covenant had also ‡ ordinances of divine service, and [a] a worldly sanctuary.

2 For there was a tabernacle made, the first wherein was the candlestick and the table and the shewbread; which is called ‡ the sanctuary.

3 And after the [b] second vail, the tabernacle which is called the [c] holiest of all:

4 Which had the golden censer, and the ark of the covenant overlaid round about with gold, wherein was the golden pot that had manna, and Aarons rod that budded, and the tables of the covenant;

5 And over it the cherubims of glory shadowing the [d] mercy-seat: of which we cannot now speak particularly.

6 ¶ [2] Now when these things were thus ordained, the priests went always into the first tabernacle, accomplishing the service of God.

7 But into the second went the high priest alone once every year, not without bloud, which he offered for himself, and for the [e] errours of the people.

8 [3] The Holy Ghost this signifying, that the way into the holiest of all, was not yet made manifest, while as the first tabernacle was yet standing:

9 [4] Which was a figure [f] for the time then present, in which were offered both gifts & sacrifices, that could not make him that did the service perfect, as pertaining to the conscience.

10 [5] Which stood onely in meats and drinks, & divers washings, and carnal ‡ ordinances [g] imposed on them untill the time of reformation.

11 [6] But Christ being come an high priest of good things to come, [7] by a [h] greater and more perfect tabernacle, not made with hands, that is to say, not of this building:

12 [8] Neither by the bloud of [i] goats and calvs, but by his own bloud he entred in once into the holy place, having obtained eternal redemption for us.

13 [9] For if the bloud of bulls, and of goats, and the ashes of an heifer sprinkling the unclean, sanctifieth to the [k] purifying of the flesh:

14 How much more shall the bloud of Christ, who through the eternal Spirit, offered himself without ‡ spot to God, purge your conscience from [l] dead works to serve the living God?

15 [10] And for this cause he is the Mediatour of the new testament, that by means of death, for the redemption of the transgressions that were under the first testament, they which are called might receive the promise of eternal inheritance.

16 [11] For where a testament is, there must also of necessity ‡ be the death of the testatour.

17 For a testament is of force after men are dead: otherwise it is of no strength at all whilest the testatour liveth.

1 A division of the first tabernacle, which he calleth worldly, that is to say, transitory and earthly, into two parts, to wit, into the holy places, and the holiest of all.
‡ Or, ceremonies
a An earthly and a flitting.
‡ Or, holy.
b He calleth it the second vail, not because there was two vails, but because it was behind the sanctuary, or the first tabernacle.
c The holiest sanctuary.

d The Hebrews call the cover of the ark of the covenant, the mercy-seat, whom both the Grecians and we follow.

2 Now he cometh to the sacrifices, which he divideth into those daily sacrifices, and that yearly and solemn sacrifice, with the which the high priest onely but once every year entring into the holiest of all with bloud offered for himself and the people.

e For the sins, Look Chap. 5. 2.

3 Of that yearly rite and the ceremony, he gathereth that the way was not by such sacrifices opened into heaven, which was shadowed by the holiest of all: for why did the high priest alone enter in thither, shutting out all others, and that to offer sacrifices there both for himself and for others, and after, did shut the holiest of all again?

4 An objection, If the way were not opened into heaven by those sacrifices (that is to say, if the worshippers were not purged by them) why then were those ceremonies used? To wit, that men might be called back to that spirituall example, that is to say, to Christ, who should correct all those things at his coming.

f For that time that that figure had to last.

5 Another reason, why they could not make clean the conscience of the worshippers, to wit, because they were outward and carnall, or corporall, things.
‡ Or, rites, or ceremonies,

g For they were, as you would say, a burden, from which Christ delivered us. 6 Now he entreth into the declaration of the figures, and first of all comparing the Leviticall high priest with Christ, (that is to say, the figure with the thing it self) he attributeth to Christ the administration of good things to come, that is, everlasting, which those carnall things had respect unto. 7 Another comparison of the first corruptible tabernacle, with the latter, (that is to say, with the humane nature of Christ) which is the true incorruptible temple of God, whereinto the Son of God entred, as the Leviticall high priests into the other which was frail and transitory. h By a more excellent and better. 8 Another comparison of the bloud of the sacrifices with Christ. The Leviticall high priests entring by those their holy places into their sanctuary, offered corruptible bloud for one year onely: but Christ entring into that holy body of his, entred by it into heaven it self, offering his own most pure bloud for an everlasting redemption: For one self-same Christ answereth both to the high priest, and the tabernacle, & the sacrifices, & the offerings themselvs, as the truth to the figures, so that Christ is both high priest, and tabernacle, and sacrifice, yea, all those both truly and for ever. i For this yearly sacrifice of reconciliation, there were two kinds of sacrifices, the one a goat, the other a heifer, or calf. 9 If the outward sprinkling of bloud and ashes of beasts was a true and effectuall sign of purifying and cleansing, how much more shall the thing it self, and the truth being present, which in times past was shadowed by those external sacraments, that is to say, his bloud, which is in such sort mans bloud, that it is also the bloud of the Son of God, & therefore hath an everlasting vertue of purifying and cleansing. k He considereth the signs apart, being separate from the thing it self. ‡ Or, faults. l From sins which proceed from death, and bring forth nothing but death. 10 The conclusion of the former argument: therefore seeing the bloud of beasts did not purge sins, the new Testament which was before time promised, whereunto those outward things had respect, is now indeed established, by the vertue whereof all transgressions might be taken away, and heaven indeed opened unto us: whereof it followeth that Christ shed his bloud also for the fathers, for he was shadowed by these old ceremonies, otherwise unless they had served to present him, they had been nothing at all profitable. Therefore this testament is called the latter, not as concerning the vertue of it, (that is to say, remission of sins) but in respect of that time, wherein the thing it self was finished, that is to say, wherein Christ was indeed exhibited to the world, & fulfilled all things which were necessary to our salvation. 11 A reason why the testament must be established by the death of the Mediatour, because this testament hath the condition of a testament or gift, which is made effectuall by death, and therefore at it might be effectuall, it must needs be that he that made the testament, should dy. ‡ Or, be brought in.

18 [12] Whereupon, neither the first testament was ‡ dedicated without bloud.

19 For when Moses had spoken every precept to all the people, [m] according to the law, he took the bloud of calvs and of goats, with water and ‡ scarlet wooll, and hyssop, and [n] sprinkled both the book and all the people, 20 Saying, This is the bloud of the testament which God hath enjoyned unto you.

21 Moreover, he sprinkled with bloud both the tabernacle, and all the vessels of the ministry.

22 And almost all things are by the law purged with bloud: and without shedding of bloud is no remission.

23 ¶ It was therefore necessary that the [o] paterns of things in the heavens should be purified with these, but the heavenly things themselvs with better sacrifices than these.

24 [13] For Christ is not entred into the holy places made with hands, which are the figures of the true, but into heaven it self, now to appear in the presence of God for us.

25 [14] Nor yet that he should offer himself often, as the high priest entreth into the holy place, every year with bloud of others:

26 [15] For then must he often have suffered since the foundation of the world: but now once in the [p] end of the world, hath he appeared to put away [q] sin by the sacrifice of himself.

27 And as it is appointed unto men [r] once to die, but after this the judgement:

28 So Christ was once offered to bear the sins of [s] many, [16] and unto them that look for him shall he appear the second time, without sin, unto salvation.

12 There must be a proportion between those things which purify, and those things which are purified: Under the law all those figures were earthly, the tabernacle, the book, the vessels, the sacrifices, although they where the signs of heavenly things. Therefore it was requisit that all those should be purified with some matter and ceremony of the same nature, to wit, with the bloud of beasts, with water, wooll, hyssop. But under Christ all things are heavenly, an heavenly tabernacle, an heavenly sacrifice, an heavenly people, an heavenly doctrin, and heaven it self is set open before us for an everlasting habitation. Therefore all these things are sanctified in like sort, to wit, with that everlasting offering of the quickning bloud of Christ.

‡ Or, purified

m As the Lord had commanded.

‡ Or, purple

n He useth to sprinckle.

o The patterns of heavenly things were earthly, and therefore they were to be set forth with earthly things, as with the bloud of beasts, and wooll, and hyssop. But under Christ all things are heavenly, and therefore they could not but be sanctified with the offering of his lively bloud.

p The end of the world, that is, the time of the gospel.

q The whole root of sin.

r He speaketh of the naturall state and condition of man: For as for Lazarus and certain others that died twice, that was no usuall thing, but extraordinary: and as for them that shall be changed, their changing is a kind of death. 1 Cor. 15. 51.

s Thus the generall promise is restrained to the elect onely, and we have to seek the testimony of our election, not in the secret consel of God, but in the effects that in our faith worketh, and so we must climb up from the lowest step to the highest, there to find such comfort as is most certain and shall never be moved. 16 Shortly by the way he setteth our Christ as Judge, partly to terrify them which do not rest themselvs in the onely oblation of Christ once made, and partly to keep the faithfull in their day, that they go not back.

Chap. X.

1 The weakness of the law-sacrifices. 10 The sacrifice of Christs body once offered, 14 for ever hath taken away sins. 19 An exhortation to hold fast the faith, with patience and thanksgiving.

1 He preventeth a privy objection, why then were those sacrifices offered? The Apostle answereth, first touching that yearly sacrifice which was the solemnest of all, wherein (saith he) there was made every year a remembrance again of all former sins. Therefore that sacrifice had no power to sanctify: for to what purpose should those sins which are purged be repeated again, and wherefore should now sins come to be repeated every year, if those sacrifices did abolish sins? a Of things which are everlasting, which were promised to the fathers, and exhibited in Christ.

FOr [1] the law having a shadow of good things to [a] come, & not the very image of the things, can never with those sacrifices which they offered year by year continually, make the comers thereunto perfect.

2 For then would they not have ceased to be offered; because that the worshippers once purged, should have had no more conscience of sins.

3 But in those sacrifices there is a remembrance again made of sins every year.

4 For it is not possible that the bloud of bulls and of goats should take away sins.

5 [2] Wherefore when he [b] cometh into the world, he saith, Sacrifice and offering thou wouldest not, but [c] a body ‡ hast thou prepared me:

6 In burnt-offerings, and sacrifices for sin thou hast had no pleasure:

7 Then said I, Lo, I come (in the volume of the book it is written of me) to do thy will, O God.

8 Above, when he said, Sacrifice, and offering, and burnt-offerings, and offering for sin thou wouldest not, neither hadst pleasure therein, which are offered by the law:

9 Then said he, Lo, I come to do thy will, (O God) He taketh away the [d] first, that he may establish the second.

10 By the which will we are sanctified, through the offering of the body of Jesus Christ once for all.

11 [3] And every priest standeth [e] daily ministring and offering oftentimes the same sacrifices which can never take away sins.

12 But this man after he had offered one sacrifice for sins for ever, sat down on the right hand of God:

13 [4] From henceforth expecting till his enemies be made his footstool.

14 For by one offering he hath perfected for ever them that are sanctified.

15 [5] Whereof the holy Ghost also is a witness to us: for after that he had said before,

16 This is the covenant that I will make with them after those days, saith the Lord: I will * put my laws into their hearts, and in their minds will I write them:

17 And their sins and iniquities will I remember [f] no more.

18 Now, where remission of these is, there is no more offering for [g] sin.

19 ¶ [6] Having therefore, brethren, ‡ boldness to enter into the holiest by the bloud of Jesus,

20 By a new and living way which he hath ‡ consecrated for us, through the vail, that is to say, his [h] flesh:

21 And having an high priest over the house of God:

22 [7] Let us draw near with a [i] true heart, in full assurance of faith, having our [k] hearts sprinkled

2 A conclusion following of those things that went before, and comprehending also the other sacrifices. Seeing that the sacrifices of the law could not do it therefore, Christ speaking of himself as of our high priest, manifested in the flesh, witnesseth evidently that God rested not in the sacrifices, but in the obedience of his Son our high priest, in whose obedience he offered up himself once to his Father for us.

b The Son of God is said to come into the world, when he was made man.

c It is word for word in the Hebrew text, Thou hast pierced mine ears through, that is, thou hast made me obedient, and willing to hear.

‡ Or, thou hast fitted me:

d That is, the sacrifices, to establish the second, that is, the will of God.

3 A conclusion, with the other part of the comparison: The Leviticall high priest repeateth the same sacrifices daily in his sanctuary: whereupon it followeth that neither those sacrifices, neither those offerings, neither those high priests could take away sins. But Christ having offered one sacrifice once for the sins of all men, and having sanctified his own for ever, sitteth at the right hand of the Father, having all power in his hands.

e At the altar.

4 He preventeth a privy objection, to wit, that yet notwithstanding we are subject to sin and death, whereunto the apostle answereth, that the full efficacy of Christs vertue hath not yet shewed it self, but shall at length appear when he will at once put to flight all his enemies, with whom as yet we strive.

5 Although there do yet remain in us reliques of sin, yet the work of our sanctification which is to be perfected, hangeth upon the self-same sacrifice which never shall be repeated: and that the apostle proveth by alledging again the testimony of Jeremy, thus sin is taken away by the new testament. seeing the Lord saith that it shall come to pass, that according to the form of it, he will no more remember our sins: Therefore we need now no purging sacrifice to take away that which is already taken away, but we must rather take pains, that we may now through faith be partakers of that sacrifice. * Jer. 31. 33. f why then, where is the fire of purgatory, and that papists distinction of the fault, and the punishment? g He said well, for sin: for there remaineth another offering, to wit, of thanksgiving. 6 The sum of the former treatise: we are not shut out now of the holy place, as the Fathers were, but we have an entrance into the true holy place (that is, into heaven) seeing that we are purged with the bloud, not of beasts, but of Jesus. Neither as in times past, both the high priest shut us out by setting the vail against us, but through the vail which is his flesh, he hath brought us into heaven it self, being present with us, so that we have now truly an high priest, which is over the house of God. ‡ Or, liberty ‡ Or, new made h So Christs flesh sheweth us the Godhead, as it were, under a vail. For otherwise we were not able to abide the brightness of it. 7 A most grave exhortation, wherein he sheweth how that sacrifice of Christ may be applyed to us: to wit, by faith, which also he describeth by the consequents, to wit, by sanctification of the Spirit, which causeth us surely to hope in God, and to procure by all means possible one another's salvation, through the love that is in us one towards another. i with no double and counterfeit heart, but with such an heart as is truly and indeed given to God. k This is it which the Lord saith, Be ye holy, for I am holy.

23 Let us hold faſt the profeſſion of our faith without wavering: (for he is faithful that promiſed)

24 And let us conſider one another to provoke unto love, and to good works.

25 Not forſaking the aſſembling of our ſelvs together, as the manner of ſome is, but exhorting one another: [g] and ſo much the more, as ye ſee the day approaching.

26 For if we ſin [m] wilfully after that we have received the knowledge of the truth, there remaineth no more ſacrifice for ſins, 27 But a certain fearful looking for of judgement, and fiery indignation, which ſhall devour the [n] adverſaries.

28 [o] He that deſpiſed Moſes law, died without mercy, under two or three witneſſes.

29 Of how much ſorer puniſhment, ſuppoſe ye ſhall he be thought worthy, who hath troden under foot the Son of God, and hath counted the bloud of the covenant wherewith he was ſanctified, an unholy thing, and hath done diſpite unto the Spirit of grace?

30 [10] For we know him that hath ſaid, * Vengeance belongeth unto me, I will recompence, ſaith the Lord: and again, The Lord ſhall [o] judge his people.

31 It is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God.

32 [11] But call to remembrance the former days, in which after ye were illuminated, ye endured a great fight of afflictions:

33 Partly whileſt ye were made [p] a gazing ſtock, both by reproaches and afflictions, and partly whileſt ye became [q] companions of them that were ſo uſed.

34 For ye had compaſſion of me in my bonds, and took joyfully the ſpoiling of your goods, knowing in your ſelvs that ye have in heaven a better and an enduring [r] ſubſtance.

35 Caſt not away therefore your confidence, which hath great recompence of reward.

36 For ye have need of patience, that after ye have done the will of God, ye might receive the promiſe.

37 For yet a [s] little while, and he that ſhall come will come, and will not tarry.

38 [12] Now the juſt ſhall live by faith: but if any man draw back, my ſoul ſhall have no pleaſure in him.

39 But we are not of them who draw back unto perdition; but of them that believe, to the ſaving of the ſoul.

CHAP. XII.

1 An exhortation to constant faith, patience, and godliness. 22 A commendation of the new Testament above the old.

WHerefore, seeing we also are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses, let us lay aside every weight, and the sin which doth so easily [a] beset us, and let us run with patience the race that is set before us,

1 An applying of the former examples, whereby we ought to be stirred up to run the whole race, casting away all stops and impediments.

a For sin besiegeth us on all sides, so that we cannot escape out.

2 [2b] Looking unto Jesus the ‡ authour and finisher of our faith, who for the joy that was set before him, [c] endured the cross, despising the shame, and is set down at the right hand of the throne of God.

2 He setteth before us, as the mark of this race, Jesus himself our captain, who willingly overcame all the roughnes of the same way.

b As it were upon the mark of our faith.

‡ Or, beginner.

c whereas he had all kind of blessednes in his hand and power, yet suffered willingly the ignominy of the cross.

3 [3] For consider him that endured such contradiction of sinners against himself, least ye be wearied and faint in your minds.

3 An amplification, taken of the circumstance of the persons and the things themselvs, which he compareth between themselvs: for how great is Jesus in comparison of us, and how far more grievous things did he suffer than we?

4 [4] Ye have not yet resisted unto bloud, striving against sin.

4 He taketh an argument of the profit which cometh to us by Gods chastisements, unless we be in fault. First of all, because sin, or that rebellious wickednes of our flesh, is by this means tamed.

5 [5] And ye have forgotten the exhortation which speaketh unto you as unto children, My son, despise not thou the chastening of the Lord, nor faint when thou art rebuked of him.

5 Secondly, because they are testimonies of his fatherly goodwill toward us, insomuch that they shew themselvs to be bastards, which cannot abide to be chastened of God.

6 For whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth, & scourgeth every son whom he receiveth.

6 Thirdly, if all men yield this right to fathers, to whom next after God we owe this life, that they may rightfully correct their children, shall we not be much more subject to that our Father, who is the author of the spiritual and everlasting life?

7 If ye endure chastening, God dealeth with you as with sons: for what son is he whom the father chasteneth not?

7 An amplification of the same argument: Those fathers have corrected us after their fancy, for some frail and transitory profit: but God chastneth & instructeth us for our singular profit, to make us partakers of his holiness: which thing although these our sences do not presently perceive, yet the end of the matter proveth it.

8 But if ye be without chastisement, whereof all are partakers, then are ye bastards and not sons.

8 The conclusion, we must go forward courageously and keep always a right course, and (as far forth as we may) without any staggering or stumbling. d The description of a man that is out of heart, and clean discouraged, ‡ Or, even e Keep a right course, and so that you shew examples of good life for others to follow. 9 we must live in peace and holiness with all men 10 we must study to edify one another, both in doctrin and example of life. ‡ Or, fall from. f That no heresie or backsliding be an offence. 11 we must eschew fornication, and a prophane mind, that is, such a mind as giveth not to God his due honour, which wickedness, how severely God will at length punish, the horrible example of Esau teacheth us. ‡ Or, way to change his mind g There was no place left for his repentance: and it appeareth by the effects, what his repentance was, for when he was gone out of his fathers sight, he threatned his brother to kill him.

9 Furthermore, we have had fathers of our flesh, which corrected us, and we gave them reverence: shall we not much rather be in subjection unto the Father of spirits, & live?

10 For they verily for a few days chastened us after their own pleasure; but he for our profit, that we might be partakers of his holiness.

11 Now no chastening for the present seemeth to be joyous, but grievous: nevertheless, afterward it yieldeth the peaceable fruit of righteousness, unto them which are exercised thereby.

12 ¶ [8] Wherefore lift up the hands which [d] hang down, and the feeble knees:

13 And make ‡ [e] straight paths for your feet, least that which is lame be turned out of the way, but let it rather be healed.

14 [9] Follow peace with all men, & holiness, without which no man shall see the Lord:

15 [10] Looking diligently, least any man ‡ fail of the grace of God, least any [f] root of bitterness springing up, trouble you, and thereby many be defiled:

16 [11] Least there be any fornicatour, or profane person, as Esau, who for one morsel of meat sold his birth-right.

17 For ye know, how that afterward when he would have inherited the blessing, he was rejected: for he found no ‡ [g] place of repentance, though he sought it carefully with tears.

18 [12] For ye are not come unto the mount that might be [h] touched, & that burned with fire, nor unto blackness, and darkness, and tempest,

19 And the sound of a trumpet, and the voice of words, which voice they that heard, intreated that the word should not be spoken to them any more.

20 (For they could not endure that which was commanded: and if so much as a beast touch the mountain; it shall be stoned, or thrust through with a dart.

21 And so terrible was the [i] sight, that Moses said, I exceedingly fear and quake)

22 But ye are come unto mount Sion, and unto the city of the living God, the heavenly Jerusalem, and to an innumerable company of angels,

23 To the general assembly and church of the first-born, which are ‡ written in heaven, and to God the judge of all, and to the spirits of just men, made [k] perfect,

24 And to Jesus the mediatour of the new ‡ covenant, and to the bloud of sprinkling, that speaketh better things than that of Abel.

25 ¶ [13] See that ye refuse not him that speaketh: for if they escaped not who refused him, that spake on earth, much more shall not we escape, if we turn away from him that speaketh from heaven.

26 [14] Whose voice then shook the earth; but now he hath promised, saying, [l] Yet once more I shake not the earth onely, but also heaven.

27 And this word, Yet once more, signifieth the removing of those things that ‡ are shaken, as of things that are made, that those things which cannot be shaken may remain.

28 [15] Wherefore we receiving a kingdom which cannot be moved, ‡ let us have grace, whereby we may serve God acceptably, with [m] reverence and godly [n] fear.

29 For our God is a consuming fire.

12 Now he applieth the same exhortation to the prophetical and kingly office of Christ, compared with Moses, after this sort. If the majesty of the law was so great, how great think you that the glory of Christ and the gospel is? And this comparison he declareth also particularly.

h which might be touched with hand, which was of a gross and earthly matter.

i The shape and form which he saw, which was no counterfeit and forged shape, but a true one.

‡ Or, enrolled.

k So he calleth them that are taken up into heaven, although one part of them doth sleep in the earth.

13 The applying of the former comparison. If it were not lawful to contemn his word which spake on the earth, how much less his voyce which is from heaven?

14 He compareth the stedfast majesty of the gospel, wherewith the whole world was shaken, and even the very frame of heaven was as it were astonished, with the small and vanishing sound of the governance by the law.

l It appeareth evidently in this that the prophet speaketh of the calling of the Gentiles, that these words must be referred to the kingdom of God. ‡ Or, may be shaken.

15 A general exhortation to live reverently and religiously under the most happy subjection of so mighty a king, who as he blesseth his most mightily, so doth he most severely revenge the rebellion. And this is the sum of a Christian life, respecting the first table. ‡ Or, let us hold fast

m By reverence is meant, that honest shamefacedness which keepeth them in their duties.

n He meaneth a filial fear, without which the worship of God is not acceptable:

Chap. XIII.

1 Divers admonitions, as to charity, 4 to honest life, 5 to avoid covetousness, 7 to regard Gods preachers, 9 to take heed of strange doctrins, 10 to confess Christ, 16 to give alms, 17 to obey governours, 18 to pray for the apostle. 20 The conclusion.

LEt [1] brotherly love continue.

2 Be not forgetful to entertain strangers, for thereby some have entertained angels unawares.

3 Remember them that are in bonds, as bound with them; and them which suffer adversity, [a] as being your selves also in the body.

4 [2] Marriage is honourable in all, and the bed undefiled: but whoremongers and adulterers God will judge.

5 [3] Let your conversation be without covetousness: and be content with such things as ye have. For [b] he hath said, * I will never leave thee, nor forsake thee.

1 He cometh to the second table, the sum whereof is charity, especially toward strangers, and such as are afflicted.

a Be so much touched, as if their misery were yours.

2 He commendeth chaste matrimony in all sorts of men, and threatneth utter destruction from God against whoremongers and adulterers.

3 Covetousness is condemned, against which is set a contented mind with that which the Lord hath given.

b Even the Lord himself. * Josh. 1. 5.

6 So that we may boldly say, The Lord is my helper, and I will not fear what [c] man shall do unto me.

7 ¶ [4] Remember them which ‡ have the rule over you, who have spoken unto you the word of God; whose faith follow, considering the end of their conversation.

8 [5] Jesus Christ the same yesterday, and to day, and for ever.

9 Be not carried about with divers and strange doctrins: [6] for it is a good thing that the heart be established with grace, not with [d] meats, which have not profited them that have been [e] occupied therein.

10 [7] We have an [f] altar whereof they have no right to eat, which [g] serve the tabernacle.

11 For the bodies of those beasts, whose bloud is brought into the sanctuary by the high priest for sin, are burnt without the camp.

12 Wherefore Jesus also, that he might sanctifie the people with his own bloud, suffered without the gate.

13 [8] Let us go forth therefore unto him without the camp, bearing his reproach.

14 * For here have we no continuing city, but we seek one to come.

15 [9] By him therefore let us offer the sacrifice of praise to God continually, that is, the fruit of our lips, † giving thanks to his name.

16 But to do good, and to communicate forget not, for with such sacrifices God is well pleased.

17 ¶ [10] Obey them that ‡ have the rule over you, and submit your selves: for they watch for your souls, as they that must give account: that they may do it with joy, and not with grief: for that is unprofitable for you.

18 [11] Pray for us: for we trust we have a good conscience, in all things willing to live honestly.

19 But I beseech you the rather to do this, that I may be restored to you the sooner.

20 ¶ Now the God of peace that brought again from the dead our Lord Jesus, that great shepherd of the sheep, through the bloud of the everlasting ‡ covenant,

21 Make you [h] perfect in every good work to do his will, ‡ [i] working in you that which is well pleasing in his sight, through Jesus Christ, to whom be glory for ever and ever. Amen.

22 ¶ And I beseech you, brethren, suffer the word of exhortation, for I have written a letter unto you in few words.

23 Know ye, that our brother Timothy is set at liberty, with whom if he come shortly, I will see you.

24 Salute all them that have the rule over you, and all the saints. They of Italy salute you.

25 Grace be with you all. Amen.

¶ Written to the Hebrews from Italy, by Timothy.

c He setteth man against God.

4 We have to set before us the example of valiant captains, whom we ought diligently to follow.

‡ Or, are the guides.

5 He repeateth the sum of the doctrin, to wit, the onely ground of all precepts of manners, and that is this: That we ought to quiet and content our selves in Christ onely: for there was yet never any man saved without the knowledge of him, neither is at this day saved, neither shall be saved after.

6 He toucheth them which mixed an external worship and especially the difference of meats, with the gospel, which doctrin he plainly condemneth as clean repugnant to the benefits of Christ.

d By this one kind which concerneth the difference of clean and unclean meats, we have to understand all the ceremonial worship.

e which observed the difference of them superstitiously.

7 He refuteth their errour by an apt and fit comparison. They which in times past served the tabernacle, did not eat of the sacrifices whose bloud was brought for sin into the holy place by the high priest. Moreover these sacrifices did represent Christ our offring: Therefore they cannot be partakers of him which serve the tabernacle, that is, such as stand in the service of the law: but let us not be ashamed and follow him out of Jerusalem, from whence he was cast out and suffered: for in this also Christ, who is the truth, answereth that figure, in that he suffered without the gate.

f By the altar, he meaneth the offerings.

g whereof they cannot be partakers which stubbornly retain the rites of the law.

8 He goeth on further in this comparison, and sheweth that this also is signified unto us, that the godly followers of Christ must, as it were, go out of the world bearing his cross * Mich. 2. 10. 9 Now that those corporal sacrifices are taken away, he teacheth us that the true sacrifices of confession remain, which consist partly in giving of thanks, and partly in liberality, with which sacrifices indeed God is now delighted. † Gr. confessing to. 10 We must obey the warnings and admonitions of our ministers and elders, which watch for the salvation of their souls which are committed unto them. ‡ Or, guide. 11 The last part of this epistle, wherein he commendeth his ministery to the Hebrews, and wisheth them continuance and increase of graces from the Lord: and excuseth himself in that he hath used but few words to comfort them, having spent the epistle in disputing: and saluteth certain brethren familiarly and friendly. ‡ Or, testament, h Make you fit or meet. ‡ Or, doing

i Hence cometh that saying of the father, that God crowneth his works in us.

The [a] general Epistle of

JAMES.

a That is, written to no one man, city, or country but to all the Jews generally, being now dispersed.

Chap. I.

1 We are to rejoyce under the cross, 5 to ask patience of God, 13 and in our trials not to impute our weakness, or sins unto him, 19 but rather to hearken to the word, to meditate in it, and to do thereafter: 26 otherwise men may seem, but never be truly religious.

JAmes a servant of God, and of the Lord Jesus Christ, to the twelve tribes which are [b] scattered abroad, greeting.

b To all the believing Jews, of what tribe soever they be, and are dispersed through the whole world.

2 ¶ [1] My brethren, [c] count it all joy [2] when ye fall into divers temptations,

1 The first place or part touching comfort in afflictions, wherein we ought not to be cast down and be faint-hearted, but rather rejoyce and be glad.

c Seeing their condition was miserable in that scattering abroad, he doth well to begin as he doth.

2 The first argument, because our faith is tryed through afflictions: which ought to be most pure, for so it is behoveable for us.

3 [3] Knowing this, that the [d] trying of your faith worketh patience.

3 The second, because patience, a far passing and most excellent vertue, is by this means ingendred in us.

d That wherewith your faith is tryed, to wit, those manifold tentations.

4 [4] But let patience have her perfect work, that ye may be perfect and entire, wanting nothing.

4 The third argument propounded in manner of an exhortation, that true and continuall patience may be discerned from fained, and for a time. The cross is, as it were, the instrument wherewith God doth polish and fine us. Therefore the work and effect of afflictions, is the perfecting of us in Christ.

5 ¶ [5] If any of you lack [e] wisdom, let him ask of God, that giveth to all men liberally, and upbraideth not, and it shall be given him.

5 An answer to a privy objection. It is easily said, but it is not so easily done. He answereth that we need in this case a far other manner of wisdom, than the wisdom of a man, to judge those things best for us, which are most contrary to the flesh. But yet we shall easily obtain this gift of wisdom, if we ask it rightly, that is, with a sure confidence of God, who is most bountiful and liberal.

6 But let him ask in faith, nothing [f] wavering: [6] for he that wavereth is like a wave of the sea, driven with the wind, and tossed.

6 A digression, or going aside from his matter, against prayers which are conceived with a doubting mind, whereas we have a certain promise of God, and this is the second part of the epistle.

7 For let not that man think that he shall receive any thing of the Lord.

8 A double-minded man is unstable in [g] all his ways.

9 ¶ [7] Let the brother of [h] low degree ‡ rejoyce in that he is exalted:

10 [8] But the [i] rich, in that he is made low: [9] because as the flower of the grass he shall pass away.

11 For the sun is no sooner risen with a burning heat, but it withreth the grass; and the flower thereof falleth, and the grace of the fashion of it perisheth: so also shall the rich man fade away in his [k] ways.

12 ¶ [10] Blessed is the man that endureth [l] temptation: for when he is tried, he shall receive the crown of life which the Lord hath promised to them that love him.

13 [11] Let no man say when he is [m] tempted, I am tempted of God: [12] for God cannot be tempted with ‡ evil, neither tempteth he any man.

c By wisdom, he meaneth, the knowledge of that doctrin whereof mention is made before, to wit, wherefore we are afflicted of God, and what fruit we have to reap of affliction.

d why then, what need other mediatours?

f why then, what need other mediatours?

g In all his thoughts and his deeds.

7 He returneth to his purpose, repeating the proposition, which is, that we must rejoyce in the cross, for it doth not press us down, but exalt us.

h who is afflicted with poverty, or contempt, or with any kind of calamity.

‡ Or, glory.

8 Before he concludeth, he giveth a doctrin contrary to the former: to wit, how we ought to use prosperity, which is plenty of all things: to wit, so that no man therefore please himself, but be so much the more void of pride.

i who hath all things at his will.

9 An argument taken of the very nature of things themselves, for that they are most vain and uncertain.

k whatsoever he either proposeth in his mind, or doth.

10 The conclusion: therefore we must patiently bear the cross: and he addeth a fourth argument, which comprehendeth the sum of all the former, to wit, because we come by this way to the crown of life, but yet of grace according to the promise.

l Affliction whereby the Lord tryeth him.

11 The third part of this epistle, wherein he descendeth from outward tentations, that is, from afflictions whereby God trieth us: to inward, that is, to those lusts whereby we are stirred up to do evil. The sum is this: Every man is the author of these temptations to himself, and not God: for we bear about in our bosoms that wicked corruption, which taketh occasion by what means soever, to stir up evil motions in us, whence out at length proceed wicked doings, and in conclusion followeth death, the just reward of them.

m When he is provoked to do evil.

12 Here is a reason shewed, why God cannot be the author of evil-doing in us, because he desireth not evil.

‡ Or, evil,

13 Another reason taken of contraries: God is the author of all goodness and so, that he is always like himself: how then can he be thought to be the author of evil?

14 But every man is tempted, when he is drawn away of his own lust, and enticed.

15 Then when lust hath conceived, it bringeth forth [n] sin: and sin when it is finished, bringeth forth death.

n By sin is meant in this place, actual sin.

16 [13] Do not err, my beloved brethren.

17 Every good gift, and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the [o] Father of lighs, with whom is no variableness, neither [p] shadow of turning.

o From him who is the fountain and author of all goodness.

p He goeth on in the metaphore: for the sun by his manifold and sundry kinds of turning, maketh hours, days, moneths, years, light and darkness.

18 [14] Of his own [q] will begat he us with the word of truth, that we should be a kind of [r] first-fruits of his creatures.

14 The fourth part, concerning the excellency and fruit of the sum is this: we must hear the word of God most carefully and diligently, seeing it is the seed, wherewith God of his free favour and love hath begotten us unto himself, picking us out of the number of his creatures. And the apostle condemneth two faults, which do greatly trouble us in this matter, to wit, for that we so please our selves, that we had rather speak our selv, then hear God speaking: yea we stuff and are angry when we are reprehended: against which faults, he setteth a peaceable and quiet mind, and such an one as is desirous of purity.

q This is it which Paul calleth gracious favour, and good will, which is the fountain of our salvation.

19 ¶ Wherefore, my beloved brethren, let every man be swift to hear, slow to speak, slow to wrath.

20 For the wrath of man worketh not the [s] righteousness of God.

r As it were an holy kind of offering, taken out of the residue of men.

s That which God appointeth

21 Wherefore lay apart all filthiness, and superfluity of naughtiness, and receive with [t] meekness the engrafted word, which is able to save your souls.

t By meekness, he meaneth modesty, and whatsoever is contrary to an haughty and proud stomack, Matth. 7. 21 Rom. 2 13.

22 [15] But be ye doers of the word, and not hearers onely, [16] deceiving your own selvs.

15 Another admonition: therefore is Gods word heard, that we may frame our lives according to the prescript thereof.

16 He addeth reasons, and those most weighty: First, because they, that do otherwise, do very much hurt themselvs.

23 [17] For if any be a hearer of the word, and not a doer, he is like unto a man beholding his [u] natural face in a glass.

17 Secondly, because they lose the chiefest use of Gods word, which conteet not by it the faults that they know.

u He alludeth to the natural spot, to which is contrary that purity whereunto we are born again, the lively image whereof we behold in the law.

24 For he beholdeth himself and goeth his way, and straightway forgetteth what manner of man he was.

‡ doing.

25 But whoso looketh into the perfect law of liberty, and continueth therein, he being not a forgetful hearer, but a doer of the work, this man shall be blessed in his ‡ [x] deed.

x Behaving himself so: for works do shew faith.

26 ¶ [18] If any man among you seem to be religious, and bridleth not his tongue, but deceiveth his [y] own heart, this mans religion is vain.

18 The third admonition, the word of God prescribeth a rule not onely to do well, but also to speak well.

y The fountain of all brabling, and cursed speaking, and sweetness, is this, that men know not themselvs.

27 [19] Pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father, is this, To [z] visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction, and to keep himself unspotted from the world.

19 The fourth: the true service of God standeth in charity toward our neighbours (especially such as need others help, as the fatherless and widows) and purity of life.

z To have a care of them, and to help them as much as we can.

CHAP. II.

1 It is not agreeable to Christian profession to regard the rich, and to despise the poor brethren: 13 rather we are to be loving and merciful: 14 and not to boast of faith where no deeds are; 17 which is but a dead faith, 19 the faith of devils, 21 not of Abraham, 25 and Rahab.

MY [1] brethren, have not the faith of our Lord Jesus Christ the Lord of [a] glory, with respect of persons.

2 For if there come unto your † assembly a man with a gold ring, in goodly apparel, and there come in also a poor man, in vile raiment:

3 And ye have respect to him that weareth the gay clothing, and say unto him, Sit thou here ‡ in [b] a good place; and say to the poor, Stand thou there, or sit here under my foot-stool:

4 Are ye not then partial in [c] your selvs, and are become judges of evil thoughts?

5 [2] Hearken, my beloved brethren, Hath God chosen the [d] poor of this world, rich in faith, and heirs of ‡ the kingdom, which he hath promised to them that love him?

6 But ye have despised the poor. [3] Do not rich men oppress you, and draw you before the judgement-seats?

7 Do not they blaspheme that worthy name, by the which ye are [e] called?

8 [4] If ye fulfill the [f] royal law, according to the scripture, Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thy self, ye do well.

9 But if ye have respect to persons, ye commit sin, and are convinced of the law as transgressours.

10 [5] For whosoever shall keep the whole law, and yet offend in one point, he is guilty of [g] all.

11 [6] For ‡ he that said, Do not commit adultery, said also, Do not kill. Now if thou commit no adultery, yet if thou kill, thou art become a transgressour of the law.

12 [7] So speak ye, and so do, as they that shall be judged by the law of liberty.

13 For he shall have judgement without mercy, that hath shewed no mercy; and [h] mercy ‡ rejoyceth against judgement.

14 ¶ [8] what doth it profit, my brethren, though a man say he hath faith, and have not works? can faith save him?

15 [9] If a brother or sister be naked, and destitute of daily food,

16 And one of you say unto them, Depart in peace, be you warmed, and filled: notwithstanding ye give them not those things which are needful to the body: what doth it profit?

17 Even so faith, if it hath not works, is dead being † alone.

18 [i] Yea, a man may say, Thou hast faith, and I have works: shew me thy faith ‡ without thy works, and I will shew thee my faith by my works.

19 [10] Thou believest that there is one God, thou doest well: the devils also believe, and tremble.

20 [11] But wilt thou know, O vain man, that faith without works is dead?

21 Was not Abraham our father [k] justified by works, when he had offered Isaac his son upon the altar?

22 ‡ Seest thou how faith [l] wrought with his works, and by works was faith made [m] perfect?

23 And the scripture was [n] fulfilled which saith, * Abraham believed God, and it was imputed unto him for righteousness: and he was called the friend of God.

24 [12] Ye see then how that by works a man is [o] justified, and not by [p] faith only.

25 [13] Likewise also, was not Rahab the harlot justified by works, when she had received the messengers, and had sent them out another way?

26 [14] For as the body without the ‡ spirit is dead, so faith without works is dead also.

1 The fifth: charity which proceedeth from a true faith, cannot stand with the accepting of persons: which he proveth plainly, by setting forth their example, who with the reproach or disdain of the poor, honour the rich.

a For if we knew what Christs glory is, and esteemed it as we ought to do, there would not be such respect of persons as there is.

† Gr. synagogue

‡ Or, well, or seemly

b In a worshipfull and honourable place.

c Have ye not (which ye ought not to do) by this means within your selvs judged one man to be preferred before another?

2 He sheweth, that they are perverse and naughty judges, which preferr the rich before the poor, by that that God on the contrary side perferreth the poor, whom he hath enriched with true riches, before the rich.

d The needy and wretched, and (if we measure it after the opinion of the world) the veriest abiects of all men.

‡ Or, that

3 Secondly, he proveth them to be mad men: for that the rich men are rather to be holden execrable and cursed, considering that they persecute the church, and blaspheme Christ: for he speaketh of wicked and profane rich men, such as the most part of them have been always, against whom he setteth the poor and abiect.

e word for word, which is called upon of you.

4 The conclusion: Charity which God prescribeth cannot agree with the accepting of persons, seeing that we must walk in the kings high way.

f The law is said to be royal and like the kings high way, for that is plain and without turnings, and that the law calleth every one our neighbour without respect, whom we may help by any kind of duty. 5 A new argument to prove the same conclusion: They do not love their neighbours, which neglect some, and ambitiously honour others: for he doth not obey God, which cutteth off from the commandments of God, that that is not so commodious for him, nay he is rather guilty generally of the breach of the whole law, although he observe the residue.

g Not that all sins are equal, but because he that breaketh one little of the law, offendeth the majesty of the law-giver. 6 A proof: because the law-maker is always one and the self-same, & the body of the law cannot be divided. ‡ Or, that law which said, 7 The conclusion of the whole treatise: we are upon this condition delivered from the curse of the law by the mercy of God, that in like sort we should maintain and cherish charity and good will one towards another, and whoso doth no so, shall not taste of the grace of God.

h He that is hard and churlish against his neighbour, or else helpeth him not, he shall find God and hard and rough judge to himself ward. ‡ Or, glorieth 8 The fift place, which hangeth very well with the former treatise, touching a true and lively faith. And the proposition of the place is this: Faith which bringeth not forth works, is not that faith whereby we are justified, but an image of faith: or else this, they are not justified by faith, which shew not the effects of faith. 9 The first reason taken of a similitude: If a man say to one that is hungry, Fill thy belly, and yet giveth him nothing, this shall not be true charity: so if a man say, he believeth, and bringeth forth no works of his faith, this shall not be a true faith but a certain dead thing set out with the name of faith, whereof no man hath to brag, unless he will openly incurr reprehension, seeing that the cause is understood by the effect.

† Gr. by it self.

i Nay, thus may every man bear down thy pride.

‡ Some copies read, by thy works,

10 Another reason taken of an absurdity: If such a faith were the true faith whereby we are justified, the devils should be justified, for they have that, but yet notwithstanding they tremble, and are not justified therefore, neither is that faith a true faith.

11 The third reason taken from the example of Abraham who no doubt had a true faith: but he in offering his son, shewed himself to have that faith which was not void of works, and therefore he received a true testimonny when it was said, that faith was imputed to him for righteousness.

k was he not by his works known and found to be justified? for he speaketh not here of the causes of justification, but by what effects we may know that a man is justified. ‡ Or, thou seest, l was effectuall and fruitfull with good works. m That the faith was declared to be a true faith, and that by works. n Then was the scripture fulfilled, when it appeared plainly, how truely it was written of Abraham. * Gen. 15. 6. Rom 4. 3. Gal. 3. 6. 12 The conclusion: He is onely justified that hath faith which hath works following it. o Is proved to be just. p Of that dead and fruitless faith which you boast of. 13 A fourth reason taken from a like example of Rahab the harlot, who also is proved by her works that she was justified by a true faith. 14 The conclusion repeated again: faith which bringeth not forth fruits and works, is not faith but a dead carcase. ‡ Or, breath.

CHAP. III.

1 We are not rashly or arrogantly to reprove others: 5 but rather to bridle the tongue, a little member, but a powerful instrument of much good, and great harm. 13 They who be truly wise, be mild, and peaceable, without envying and strife.

MY [1] brethren, be not many masters, [2] knowing that we shall [a] receive the greater ‡ condemnation.

2 For in many things we offend all. [3] If any man offend not in word, the same is a perfect man, and able also to bridle the whole body.

3 [4] Behold, we put bits in the horses mouths, that they may obey us, and we turn about their whole body.

4 Behold also the ships, which though they be so great, and are driven of fierce winds, yet are they turned about with a very small helm, whithersoever the governour listeth.

5 Even so the tongue is a little member, and boasteth great things: [5] behold how great ‡ a matter a little fire kindleth.

6 And the tongue is a fire, [b] a world of iniquity: so is the tongue amongst our members, that it defileth the whole body, and [c] setteth on fire the course of nature, and it is set on fire of hell.

1 The sixth part or place: Let no man usurp (as most men ambitiously do) authority to judge and censure others rigorously.

2 A reason, because they provoke Gods severity against themselvs, which do so curiously and rigorously condemn others, being themselvs guilty and faulty.

a Unless we surcease from this masterlike and proud finding fault with others.

3 The seventh place, touching the bridling of the tongue joyned with the former, so that it is manifest that there is no man which may not justly be found fault with-all, seeing it is a rare vertue to bridle the tongue.

4 He sheweth by two similitudes, the one taken from the bridles of horses, that other from the rudders of ships, how great matters may be brought to pass by the good moderation of the tongue. 5 On the contrary part he sheweth how great discommodities arise by the intemperancy of the tongue throughout the whole world, to the end that men may so much the more diligently give themselvs to moderate it. ‡ Or, wood. b An heap of all mischiefs. c It is able to set the whole world on fire.

† Gr. nature of man.

7 For every † kind of beasts, and of birds, and of serpents, and things in the sea, is tamed, and hath been tamed of † mankind.

8 But the tongue can no man tame, it is an unruly evil, full of deadly poison.

9 [o] Therewith bless we God, even the Father: and therewith curse we men, which are made after the [7] similitude of God.

10 [8] Out of the same mouth proceedeth blessing and cursing: my brethren, these things ought not so to be.

11 Doth a fountain send forth at the same ‡ place sweet water and bitter?

12 Can the fig-tree, my brethren, bear olive berries? either a vine, figs? so can no fountain both yield salt water and fresh.

13 ¶ [9] Who is a wise man and endued with knowledge amongst you? let him shew out of a good conversation his works with meekness of wisdom.

14 But if ye have bitter envying and strife in your hearts, glory not, and lie not against the truth.

15 This wisdom descendeth not from above, but is earthly, ‡ sensual, devilish.

16 For where envying and strife is, there is † confusion, and every evil work.

17 But the wisdom that is from above is first pure, then peaceable, gentle, and easy to be intreated, [d] full of mercy and good fruits, ‡ without partiality, and without hypocrisy.

18 [10] And the fruit of righteousness is sown in peace of them that make peace.

6 Amongst other faults of the tongue, the apostle chiefly reproveth backbiting and speaking evil of our neighbours, even in them especially which otherwise will seem godly and religious.

7 He denyeth by two reasons, that God can be praised by that man, that useth cursed speaking, or to backbite: first, because man is the image of God, which whosoever doth not honour reverenceth not God himself.

8 Secondly, because the order of nature which God hath set in things will not suffer things that are so contrary the one to the other, to stand the one with the other.

‡ Or, hole

9 The eighth part, which hangeth with the former, touching meekness of mind, against which he setteth envy and a contentious mind.

And in the beginning he stoppeth the mouth of the chief fountain of all these mischiefs, to wit, a false perswasion of wisdom, whereas notwithstanding there is no true wisdom but that is heavenly, and frameth our minds to all kind of true moderation and simplicity. ‡ Or, naturall, † Gr tumult, or unquietness, d He setteth mercy against the fierce and cruel nature of man, and sheweth that heavenly wisdom bringeth forth good fruits: for he that is heavenly wise, referreth all things to Gods glory, and the profit of his neighbours. ‡ Or, without wrangling, 10 Because the world perswadeth it self that they are miserable which live peaceably and simply: on the contrary side the adostle pronounceth that they shall at the length reap the harvest of peaceable righteousness.

Chap. IV.

1 We are to strive against covetousness, 4 intemperance, 5 pride, 11 detraction and rash judgement of others: 13 and not to be confident in the good success of worldly business, but mindful ever of the uncertainty of this life, to commit our selvs and all our affairs to Gods providence.

1 He goeth on forward in the same argument, condemning certain other causes of wars, and contentions, to wit, unbridled pleasures and immoderate lusts, by their effects, for so much as the Lord doth worthily make them void, so that they bring nothing else to them in whom they are, but incurable torments.

‡ Or, brawlings, ‡ Or pleasures,

2 He reprehendeth them by name, which are not ashamed to go about to make God the minister and helper of their lusts and pleasures, in asking things which either are of themselvs unlawfull, or being lawfull ask them to wicked purpose and uses.

‡ Or, pleasures. 3 Another reason, why such unbridled lusts and pleasures are utterly to be condemned, to wit, because that he that giveth himself to the world, divorceth himself from God, and breaketh the band of that holy and spirituall marriage. 4 The taking away of an objection: Indeed our minds run headlong into these vices, but we ought so much the more diligently to take heed of them, which care and study shall not be in vain, seeing that God resisteth the stubborn, and giveth that grace to the modest and humble that surmounteth all those vices. ‡ Or, enviously?

FRom [1] whence come wars and ‡ fightings among you? come they not hence, even of your ‡ lusts, that war in your members?

2 Ye lust, and have not: ye kill, and desire to have, and cannot obtain: ye fight and war, yet ye have not, [2] because ye ask not.

3 Ye ask, and receive not, because ye ask amiss, that ye may consume it upon your ‡ lusts.

4 ¶ [3] Ye adulterers, and adulteresses, know ye not that the friendship of the world is enmity with God? whosoever therefore will be a friend of the world, is the enemy of God.

5 [4] Do ye think that the scripture saith in vain, The spirit that dwelleth in us lusteth ‡ to envie?

6 But he giveth more grace, wherefore he saith, * God resisteth the proud, but giveth grace unto the humble.

7 [5] Submit your selvs therefore to God: resist the devil, and he will flee from you.

8 Draw nigh to God, and he will draw nigh to you: cleanse your hands, ye sinners, and purify your hearts, ye double-minded.

9 [6] Be afflicted, and mourn, and weep: let your laughter be turned to mourning, and your joy to [a] heaviness.

10 Humble your selvs in the sight of the Lord, and he shall lift you up.

11 ¶ [7] Speak not evil one of another, brethren: he that speaketh evil of his brother, and judgeth his brother, speaketh evil of the law, and judgeth the law: but if thou judge the law, thou art not a doer of the law, but a judge.

12 There is one law-giver, who is able to save, and to destroy: who art thou that judgest another?

13 ¶ * [8] Go to now, ye that say, To day or to morrow we will go into such a city, and continue there a year, and buy and sell, and get gain:

14 Whereas ye know not what shall be on the morrow: for what is your life? ‡ It is even a vapour that appeareth for a little time, and then vanisheth away.

15 For that ye ought to say, If the Lord will we shall live, and do this, or that.

16 But now ye rejoyce in your boastings: all such rejoycing is evil.

17 [9] Therefore to him that knoweth to do good, and doth it not, to him it is sin.

* Prov. 3. 34. 1 Pet. 5. 5.

5 The conclusion: we must set the contrary vertues against those vices, and therefore whereas we obeyed the suggestions of the devil, we must submit our minds to God, & resist the devil, with a certain and assured hope of victory. To be short, we must employ our selvs to come near unto God by purity and sincerity of life.

6 He goeth on in the same comparison of contraries, and setteth against those profane joys an earnest sorrow of mind, and against pride and arrogancy, holy modesty.

a By this word, the Grecians mean an heaviness joyned with shamefastness, which is to be seen in a cast-down countenance, and setled as it were upon the ground.

7 He reprehendeth most sharply another double mischief of pride: the one is, in that the proud and arrogant will have other men to live according to their will and pleasure, and therefore they do most arrogantly condemn whatsoever pleaseth them not: which thing cannot be done without great injury to our onely lawmaker, for by this means his laws are found fault withall, as not circumspectly enough written, and men challenge that unto themselvs which properly belongeth to God alone, in that they lay a law upon mens consciences. * Prov. 27. 1. 8 The other fault is this, That men do so confidently determin upon these and those matters and businesses, as though that every moment of their life did not depend of God. ‡ Or, for us 9 The conclusion of all the former treatise: The knowledge of the will of God, doth not onely nothing at all profit, unless the life be answerable unto it, but also maketh the sins far more grievous.

Chap. V.

1 Wicked rich men are to fear Gods vengeance. 7 We ought to be patient in afflictions, after the example of the prophets, and Job: 12 to forbear swearing, 13 to pray in adversity, to sing in prosperity: 16 to acknowledge mutually our severall faults, to pray one for another, 19 and to reduce a straying brother to the truth.

GO [1] to now ye rich men, weep & howl for your miseries that shall come upon you.

2 Your riches are corrupted, and your garments are moth-eaten.

3 Your gold and silver is cankered, and the rust of them shall be a witness against you, and shall eat your flesh as it were fire: ye have heaped treasure together for the last days.

4 Behold, the hire of the labourers, which have reaped down your fields, which is of you kept back by fraud, crieth: and the cries of them which have reaped, are entred into the [a] ears of the Lord of sabaoth.

5 Ye have lived in pleasure on the earth, and been wanton: ye have [b] nourished your hearts, as in a [c] day of slaughter.

6 Ye have condemned and killed the just, and he doth not resist you.

7 ¶ ‡ [2] Be patient therefore, brethren, unto the coming

1 He denounceth utter destruction to the wicked and profane rich men, and such as are drowned in their riotousness, mocking at their foolish confidence, when as there is nothing indeed more vain than such things.

a The Lord, who is more mighty than ye are, hath heard them.

b Ye have pampered up yourselves.

c The Hebrews call a day that is appointed to solemn banketting, a day of slaughter, or feasting.

‡ Or, be long patient, or suffer unto long patience.

2 He applieth that to the poor, which he spake against the rich, warning them to wait for the Lords coming patiently, who will revenge the injuries which the rich men do them.

coming of the Lord: [s] behold, the husbandman waiteth for the precious fruit of the earth, and hath long patience for it, untill he receive the early and latter rain.

8 Be ye also patient; stablish your hearts: for the coming of the Lord draweth nigh.

9 ‡ [4 d] Grudge not one against another, brethren, least ye be condemned: [5] behold, the judge standeth before the door.

10 [6] Take, my brethren, the prophets, who have spoken in the name of the Lord, for an example of suffering affliction, and of patience.

11 Behold, we count them happy which endure. Ye have heard of the patience of Job, and have seen the [e] end of the Lord: that the Lord is very pitiful and of tender mercy.

12 ¶ [7] But above all things, my brethren, swear not, neither by heaven, neither by the earth, neither by any other oath: but let your yea, [f] be yea, and your nay, nay, least ye fall into condemnation.

13 ¶ [8] Is any among you afflicted? let him pray. Is any merry? let him sing psalms.

14 [9] Is any sick among you? let him call for the elders of the church, and let them pray over him, anointing him with [g] oyl in the [h] name of the Lord:

15 And the prayer of faith shall save the sick, and the Lord shall raise him up; and if he have committed [i] sins, they shall be forgiven him.

16 ¶ [10] Confess your faults one to another, and pray one for another, that ye may be healed: [11] the effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much.

17 Elias was a man subject to like passions as we are, and he prayed ‡ earnestly that it might not rain: and it rained not on the earth by the space of three years and six moneths.

18 And he prayed again, and the heaven gave rain, and the earth brought forth her fruit.

19 ¶ [12] Brethren, if any of you do err from the truth, and one [k] convert him;

20 Let him know, that he which converteth the sinner from the errour of his way, shall save a soul from death, and shall hide a multitude of sins.

5 The taking away of an objection. Although his coming seem to linger, yet at the last we must follow the husbandmen, who do patiently wait for the times that are proper for the fruits of the earth. And again, God will not defer the least jot of the time that he hath appointed.

‡ Or, grone, or grieve not

4 He commendeth Christian patience, for that whereas others through impatience use to accuse one another, the faithful on the contrary side, complain not, although they receive injury.

d By grudging, he meaneth a certain inward complaining which betokeneth impatience.

5 The conclusion: the Lord is at the door: who will defend his own, and revenge his enemies, and therefore we need not to trouble our selves.

6 Because most men are wont to object, that it is good to repell injuries by what means soever, he setteth against that the examples of the fathers, whose patience had a most happy end, because God as a most bountifull Father, & never forsaketh his. e what end the Lord gave.

7 Because even the best men sometimes through impatience break out into oaths sometimes lesser, sometimes greater, the apostle warneth us to detest such wickedness, and to accustom our tongues to simple and true talk. f That that you have to say or affirm, speak or affirm it simply, and without an oath: and that that you will deny, deny it simply and flatly. 8 He sheweth the best remedy against all afflictions, to wit, prayers which have their place both in sorrow and joy.

9 He sheweth peculiarly, to what physicians especially we must go, when we are diseased, to wit, to the prayers of the elders, which then also could cure the body, for so much as the gift of healing was then in force) and take away the chiefest cause of sicknesses and diseases, by obtaining for the sick through their prayers and exhortation, remission of sins.

g This was a sign of the gift of healing: and now seeing we have the gift no more, the sign is no longer necessary.

h By calling on the name of the Lord.

i He hath reason in making mention of sins, for diseases are for the most part sent because of sins.

10 Because God pardoneth their sins which confess and acknowledge them, and not theirs which justify themselves, therefore the apostle addeth, that we ought freely to confer one with another touching those inward diseases, that we may help one another with our prayers.

11 He commendeth prayers by the effects that come of them, that all men may understand that there is nothing more effectual than they are, so that they proceed from a pure mind.

‡ Or, in his prayer

12 The taking away of an objection: All reprehensions are not condemned, seeing that on the contrary part there is nothing more acceptable to God than to call into the way, a brother that was wandering out of the way.

k Hath called him back from his way.

The first epistle general of

PETER.

Chap. I.

1 He blesseth God for his manifold spiritual graces, 10 shewing that the salvation in Christ is no news, but a thing prophesied of old: 13 and exhorteth them accordingly to a godly conversation, forasmuch as they are now born a new by the word of God.

PEter an apostle of Jesus Christ, to the strangers scattered throughout Pontus Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia, and Bithynia,

2 [1] Elect according to the [a] foreknowledge of God the Father, through [b] sanctification of the Spirit unto obedience, and sprinkling of the bloud of Jesus Christ: Grace unto you and peace be multiplied.

3 ¶ Blessed be the God, and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, which according to his † abundant mercy, hath begotten us again unto a [c] lively hope, by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead,

4 To an inheritance incorruptible, and undefiled, and that fadeth not away, reserved in heaven ‡ for you,

5 [2] Who are kept by the power of God through faith unto salvation, ready to be revealed in the [c] last time.

6 Wherein ye greatly rejoyce, though now for a season (if need be) ye are in heavinesse through manifold temptations.

7 That the triall of your faith being much more precious than of gold that perisheth, though it be tried with fire, might be found unto praise, and honour and glory at the [c] appearing of Jesus Christ.

8 Whom having not seen, ye love: in whom though now ye see him not: yet believing, ye rejoyce with joy, unspeakable, and full of glory:

9 Receiving the end of your faith, even the salvation of your souls.

1 Peter purposing to speak of the duties of a Christian life, reasoneth first of the principles and beginnings of all Christian actions, rising far higher than nature, and carrying us also far above the same. For he sheweth that we which are otherwise of nature sinners, through the free mercy of the Father, first chosen from everlasting: then according to that everlasting decree, were by a certain second creation made his sons in Christ his onely begotten, by whose Spirit we are inwardly changed, and by whose bloud we are also reconciled, to the end, that as Christ himself rose again from the dead, we also might be received into that same heavenly and everlasting glory. a Or, according to the purpose of God, who never altereth nor changeth the same. b That being set apart from the rest of this wicked world, through the working of the holy Ghost, they should be consecrated to God, Ephes. 1. 5.

Gr. much

c Everlasting hope.

‡ Or, for us.

2 Now he sheweth by what way we come unto that glory, to wit, through all kind of afflictions, wherein notwithstanding faith maketh us so secure, that we are not onely not overcome with sorrow, but also through the beholding of God himself (who otherwise is invisible) with the eyes of faith, are unspeakably joyful. because all such things as they are but for a time, so are they not applyed unto us to destroy us, but as it were by fire to purge us, and to make us perfit, that at the length we may obtain salvation. d This is that time which Daniel calleth the time of the end, when as that great restoring of all things shall be, which all creatures look, Rom. 8. 19. e He speaketh of the second coming of Christ.

10 [s] Of which ſalvation the prophets have enquired, and ſearched diligently, who prophecied of the grace that ſhould come unto you:

11 Searching what, or what manner of time the Spirit of Chriſt which was in them did ſignify, when it teſtified beforehand the ſufferings of Chriſt, and the glory that ſhould follow.

12 Unto whom it was revealed, that not unto themſelvs, but unto us they did miniſter the things which are now reported unto you by them that have preached the goſpel unto you, with the holy Ghoſt [t] ſent down from heaven, which things the angels deſire to look into.

13 ¶ [4] Wherefore [g] gird up the loins of your mind, be ſober, and [5] hope † [h] to the end, for the grace that is to be [6] brought unto you at the [7] revelation of Jeſus Chriſt.

14 [8] As obedient children, not faſhioning your ſelvs according to the former luſts, in your ignorance:

15 But as he which hath called you is holy, ſo be ye holy in all manner of converſation;

16 [9] Becauſe it is written, * Be ye holy, for I am holy.

17 [10] And if ye [i] call on the Father, who without reſpect of perſons judgeth according to every mans work, paſs the time of your ſojourning here in fear:

18 [11] Foraſmuch as ye know that ye were not redeemed with corruptible things, as ſilver and gold, from your vain converſation received by tradition from your fathers;

19 But with the precious bloud of Chriſt, as of a Lamb without blemiſh and without ſpot.

20 [12] Who verily was foreordained before the [k] foundation of the world, but was manifeſt in theſe laſt times for you;

21 Who by him do believe in God that raiſed him up from the dead, and gave him glory, that your faith and hope might be in God.

22 ¶ [13] Seeing ye have purified your ſouls in obeying the truth through the Spirit, unto unfeigned love of the brethren: ſee that ye love one another with a pure heart fervently;

23 Being born again, not of corruptible ſeed, but of incorruptible, by the word of God which liveth and abideth for ever.

24 ‡ [14] For all [l] fleſh is as graſs, and all the glory of man, as the flower of graſs: the graſs withereth, & the flower thereof falleth away:

25 [15] But the word of the Lord endureth for ever. And this is the word which by the goſpel is preached unto you.

3 He putteth a difference between true faith, that is to ſay, that faith which onely hath an eye to the doctrin of the prophets and apoſtles, and falſe faith: Afterward he maketh two degrees of one and the ſelf-ſame faith, according to the manner of divers revelations, when as indeed it is but one onely faith. Thirdly, he ſaith, that the preaching of the apoſtles, is the fulfilling of the preaching of the prophets, altho ugh the later end of it be as yet looked for of the very angels.

† He alludeth to the prophecy of Joel, which was exhibited upon the day of Pentecoſt, in the apoſtles, as it were in the firſt fruits of the holy Ghoſt, which this ſame our Peter declareth Act. 2. 6.

4 He goeth from faith to hope: which is indeed a companion that cannot be ſundered from faith: and he uſeth an argument taken of compariſon: we ought not to be wearied in looking for ſo excellent a thing, which the very angels wait for with great deſire.

g This is a borrowed ſpeech, taken of a common uſage amongſt them: for by reaſon that they wore long garments, they could not travel, unleſs they girded up themſelvs: and hence it is that Chriſt ſaid, Let your loyns be girded up.

5 He ſetteth forth very briefly, what manner of hope ours ought to be, to wit, continual untill we enjoy the thing we hope for: then what we have to hope for, to wit, grace (that is, free ſalvation) revealed to us in the goſpel, and not that that men do raſhly and fondly promiſe to themſelvs. † Gr. perfectly. h Soundly and ſincerely. 6 An argument to ſtir up our minds ſeeing, that God doth not wait till we ſeek him, but cauſeth ſo great a benefit to be brought even unto us. 7 He ſetteth out the end of faith, leaſt any ſhould promiſe himſelf, either ſooner or later, that full ſalvation, to wit, the latter coming of Chriſt, and therewithall warneth us, not to meaſure the dignity of the goſpel according to the preſent eſtate, ſeeing that that which we are now, is not yet revealed. 8 He paſſeth from faith and hope, to the fruits of them both, which are underſtood in the name of obedience: And it conſiſteth in two things, in renouncing our luſts, and living godly: which luſts have their beginning of that blindneſs wherein all men are born: but holineſs proceedeth from the grace and favour of God which adopteth us, and therefore regenerateth us, that the father and the children may be of one diſpoſition. 9 He ſheweth that ſanctification doth neceſſarily follow adoption. * Levit. 11. 44. & 19. 2. & 20. 7. 10 As before he diſtinguiſhed true faith and hope from falſe, ſo doth he now obedience, ſetting the quick and ſharp ſight of God, againſt an outward mark, and earneſt reverence againſt vain ſeverity. i If you will be called the ſons of that father. 11 An exhortation, wherein he ſetteth forth the excellency and greatneſs of the benefit of God the Father in ſanctifying us by the death of his own Son. And he partly ſetteth the purifyings of the law againſt the thing it ſelf, that is, againſt the bloud of Chriſt, and partly alſo mens traditions, which he condemneth as utterly vain and ſuperſtitious, be they never ſo old and ancient. 12 The taking away of an objection: what was done to the world, before that Chriſt was ſent into the world; was there no holineſs before, and was there no church? The apoſtle anſwereth, that Chriſt was ordained and appointed to redeem and deliver mankind: before that mankind was: much leſs was there any church without him before his coming in the fleſh: yet we are happieſt above the reſt, to whom Chriſt was exhibited indeed in this that he having ſuffered and overcome death for us, doth now moſt effectually work in us by the vertue of his Spirit to create in us faith, hope, and charity: k From everlaſting. 13 He commendeth the practiſe of obedience, that is, charity: earneſtly beating into their heads again, that he ſpeaketh not of any common charity, and ſuch as proceedeth from that our corrupt nature, but of that whoſe beginning is the Spirit of God, which purifieth our ſouls through the word, laid hold on by faith, and ingendreth alſo in us a ſpiritual and everlaſting life, as God himſelf is moſt pure and truely living.

14 A reaſon why we have need of this heavenly generation, to wit, becauſe, that men, be their glory never ſo great, are of nature void of all true and ſound goodneſs.

l The word (fleſh) ſheweth the weakneſs of our nature, which is chiefly to be conſidered in the fleſh it ſelf. 15 Again, leſt any man ſhould ſeek that ſpiritual force and vertue in fained imaginations, the apoſtle calleth us back to the word of God: teaching us furthermore, that there is no other word of the Lord to be looked for, than this which is preached, in which onely we muſt reſt.

Chap. II.

1 He dehorteth them from the breach of charity: 4 ſhewing that Chriſt is the foundation whereupon they are built. 11 He beſeecheth them alſo to abſtain from fleſhly luſts, 13 to be obedient to magiſtrates: 18 and teacheth ſervants how to obey their maſters, 20 patiently ſuffering for well-doing, after the example of Chriſt.

WHerefore [1] laying aſide all malice and all guile, and hypocriſies, and envies, and all evil-ſpeakings,

2 [2] As [3] new born babes deſire the ſincere milk of the word, that ye may grow thereby:

3 [3] If ſo be ye have taſted that the Lord is gracious.

4 [4] To whom coming, as unto a living ſtone, diſallowed indeed of men, but choſen of God, and precious,

5 Ye alſo as lively ſtones, are built up a ſpiritual houſe, [5] an holy prieſt-hood to offer up ſpiritual ſacrifices, acceptable to God by Jeſus Chriſt.

6 [6] Wherefore alſo it is contained in the ſcripture, * Behold, I lay in Sion a chief corner-ſtone, elect, precious; and he that believeth on him ſhall not be confounded.

7 [7] Unto you therefore which believe he is ‡ precious: but unto them which be diſobedient, the ſtone which the builders diſallowed, the ſame is made the head of the corner,

8 * And a ſtone of ſtumbling, and a rock of offence, even to them which ſtumble at the word, being diſobedient, whereunto alſo they were appointed.

9 [8] But ye are a choſen generation, a royal prieſt-hood, an holy nation, ‡ a peculiar people, that ye ſhould ſhew forth the ‡ praiſes of him, who hath called you out of darkneſs into his marvellous light.

1 Having laid for that foundation the Spirit of God effectually working by the word, and having built thereupon three vertues which are the grounds of all Chriſtian actions, to wit, faith, hope, and charity: now he proceedeth to a generall exhortation, the firſt member whereof is, that we flee and eſchew both ſecret and alſo open malice.

2 The ſecond is that being newly begotten & born of the new ſeed of the incorrupt word, drawing and ſucking greedily the ſame word as milk, we ſhould more and more as it were grow up in that ſpirituall life. And he calleth it, ſincere, not onely becauſe it is a moſt pure thing, but alſo that we ſhould take heed of them which corrupt it.

a As it becometh new men.

3 He commendeth that ſpirituall nouriſhment for the ſweetneſs and profit of it.

4 He goeth on forward in the ſame exhortation, but uſeth another kind of borrowed ſpeech, alluding to the temple. Therefore he ſaith, that the company of the faithful is, as it were, a certain holy and ſpirituall building, built of the lively ſtones, the foundation whereof is Chriſt, as a lively ſtone ſuſtaining all that are joyned unto him, with his living vertue, and knitting them together with himſelf, although this ſo great a treaſure be neglected of men. 5 Going forward in the ſame ſimilitude, he compareth us now to prieſts, placed to this end in that ſpirituall temple, that we ſhould ſerve him with a ſpiritual worſhip, that is, with holineſs and righteouſneſs: but as the temple, ſo is the prieſthood built upon Chriſt, in whom onely all our ſpirituall offerings are accepted. 6 He proveth it by the teſtimony of the prophet. Eſai. 28. 16. * Pſal. 11. 8, 21. Matt. 21. 42. Act. 4. 11. 7 By ſetting the moſt bleſſed condition of the believers, and the moſt miſerable of the rebellious, one againſt the other, he pricketh forward the believers, and triumpheth over the other, and alſo preventeth an offence which ariſeth hereof, that none do more reſiſt this doctrin of the goſpel, than they which are chiefeſt amongſt the people of God, as were at that time that Peter wrote theſe things, the prieſts, and elders, and ſcribes. Therefore he anſwereth firſt of all, that there is no cauſe why any man ſhould be aſtoniſhed at this their ſtubbornes, as though it were a ſtrange matter, ſeeing we have been forewarned ſo long before, that it ſhould ſo come to paſs: and moreover, that it pleaſed God to create and make certain to this ſelf-ſame purpoſe, that the Son of God might be glorified in their juſt condemnation. Thirdly, for that glory of Chriſt is hereby ſet forth greatly, whereas notwithſtanding Chriſt remaineth the ſure head of his church and they that ſtumble at him, caſt down and overthrow themſelvs and not Chriſt. Fourthly, although they be created to this end and purpoſe, yet their fall and decay is not to be attributed to God, but to their own obſtinate ſtubbornes, which cometh between Gods decree and the execution thereof, of their condemnation, and is the true and proper cauſe of their deſtruction. ‡ Or, an honour. * Iſa. 8. 4. The contrary member, to wit, he deſcribeth the ſingular excellency of the elect, and alſo leaſt any man ſhould doubt whether he be choſen or not, the apoſtle calleth us back to the effectuall calling, that is, to the voice of the goſpel ſounding both in our ears and minds, by the outward preaching and ſacraments, whereby we may certainly underſtand that everlaſting decree of our ſalvation, (which otherwiſe is moſt ſecret and hidden) and that through the onely mercy of God, who freely uſeth and calleth us. Therefore this onely remaineth, ſaith he, that by all means poſſible we ſet forth ſo great goodneſs of the moſt mighty God. ‡ Or, a purchaſed people. ‡ Or, vertues.

10 Which in time paſt were not a people, but are now the people of God: * which had not obtained mercie, but now have obtained mercie.

11 [9] Dearly beloved, [10] I beſeech you as ſtrangers and pilgrims, [11] abſtain from fleſhly luſts, which [12] war againſt the ſoul:

12 [13] Having your converſation honeſt among the Gentiles, that ‡ whereas they ſpeak againſt you as evil doers, they [14] may by your good works which they ſhall behold, glorifie God in the day of [b] viſitation.

13 [15] Submit your ſelvs to [c] every ordinance of man [16] for the Lords ſake, [17] whether it be to the king, as ſupreme, 14 Or unto governours, as unto them that are ſent by him [18] for the puniſhment of evil doers, and for the praiſe of them that do well.

15 [19] For ſo is the will of God, that with well doing ye may put to ſilence the ignorance of fooliſh men.

16 As free, and not † uſing your liberty for a cloke of maliciouſneſs, but as the ſervants of God.

17 [20 d] ‡ Honour all men. Love the [e] brotherhood. Fear God. Honour the king.

18 [21] Servants be ſubject to your maſters with all fear, not onely to the good and gentle, but alſo to the froward.

19 [22] For this is thank-worthy, if a man for [f] conſcience toward God endure grief, ſuffering wrongfully.

20 For what glory is it, if when ye be bufeted for your faults, ye ſhall take it patiently? but if when ye do well, and ſuffer for it, ye take it patiently, this is ‡ acceptable with God.

21 [23] For even hereunto were ye called: becauſe Chriſt alſo ſuffered ‡ for us, leaving us an [g] example, that ye ſhould follow his ſteps.

22 Who did no ſin, neither was guile found in his mouth.

23 Who when he was reviled, reviled not again, when he ſuffered, he threatned not, but ‡ [24] committed himſelf to him that [25] judged righteouſly.

24 [26] Who his own ſelf bare our ſins in his own body ‡ on the tree, that we being dead to ſin, ſhould live unto righteouſneſs; by whoſe ſtripes ye are healed.

25 For ye were as ſheep going aſtray, but are now returned unto the Shepherd and Biſhop of your ſouls.

* Hoſ. 2. 23.

9 He returneth to that generall exhortation.
10 A reaſon why we ought to live holily, to wit, becauſe we are citizens of heaven, and therefore we ought to live according to the laws, not of this world, which is moſt corrupt, but of the heavenly citie, although we be ſtrangers in the world.
11 Another argument: The children of God live not according to the fleſh, that is, according to that corrupt nature, but according to the Spirit. Therefore fleſhly motions ought not to beat rule in us.
12 The third argument: For although thoſe luſts flatter us, yet they ceaſe not to fight againſt our ſalvation.
13 The fourth argument, taken of the profit of ſo doing: for by this means alſo we provide for our good name and eſtimation, whileſt we compell them at length to change their minds, which ſpeak evil of us.
† Or, wherein
14 The fifth argument, which alſo is of great force: Becauſe the glory of God is greatly ſet forth by that means, whileſt by example of our honeſt life, even the moſt profane men are brought unto God, and ſubmit themſelvs unto him.
b when God ſhall have mercy on them.
15 That which he ſpake generally, he now expoundeth by parts, deſcribing ſeverally every mans dutie. And firſt of all he ſpeaketh of obedience, which is due both to the laws, and alſo to the magiſtrates both higher and lower. c By ordinance, is meant the framing and ordering of civil government, which he calleth ordaining of man, not becauſe man invented it, but becauſe it is proper to men
16 The firſt argument: becauſe the Lord is the author and revenger of this policie of men, that is, which is ſet amongſt men: and therefore the true ſervants of the Lord muſt above all others be diligent obſervers of this order. 17 He preventeth a cavil which is made by ſome, that ſay they will obey kings and the higher magiſtrates, and yet contemn their miniſters: although their miniſters were not armed with their authoritie which ſent them. 18 The ſecond argument taken from the end of this order, which is not onely moſt profitable, but alſo very neceſſary: ſeeing that by this means vertue is rewarded, and vice puniſhed: wherein the quietneſs and hapineſs of this life conſiſteth. 19 He declareth the firſt argument more amply, ſhewing that Chriſtian libertie doth amongſt all things, leſt, or not all, conſiſt herein, to wit, to caſt off the bridle of laws, (as at that time ſome altogether unskilfull in the kingdom of God reported) but rather in this, that living holily according to the will of God, we ſhould make manifeſt to all men, that the goſpel is not a cloak for ſin and wickedneſs, ſeeing we are in ſuch ſort free, that yet we are ſtill the ſervants of God, and not of ſin. † Gr. having 20 He divideth the civil life of man, by occaſion of thoſe things which he ſpake, into two generall parts: to wit, into thoſe duties which private men ow to private men, and eſpecially the faithfull to the faithfull, and into that ſubjection whereby inferiors are bound to their ſuperiors: but ſo, that kings be not made equall to God, ſeeing that fear is due to God, and honour to kings. d Be charitable and dutifull towards all men. ‡ Or, eſteem
e The aſſembly and fellowſhip of the brethren, as Zech. 11. 14. 21 He goeth to the dutie of ſervants towards their maſters, which he deſcribeth with theſe bounds, that ſervants ſubmit themſelvs willingly, and not by conſtraint, not onely to the good and courteous, but alſo to the froward and ſharp maſters. 22 The taking away of an objection: indeed the condition of ſervants is hard, eſpecially if they have froward maſters: but this their ſubjection ſhall be ſo much the more acceptable to God, if his will prevail more with ſervants, than the maſters injuries. f Becauſe he maketh a conſcience of it, to offend God, by whoſe good will and appointment he knoweth this burden is laid upon him. ‡ Or, thank. 23 He mitigateth the grievouſneſs of ſervitude, while he ſheweth plainly that Chriſt died alſo for ſervants, that they ſhould bear ſo much the more patiently this inequality betwixt men which are of one ſelf-ſame nature: moreover ſetting before them Chriſt that Lord of Lords for an enſample, he ſignifieth that they cannot but ſeem too delicate, which ſhew themſelvs more grieved in bearing of injuries, than Chriſt himſelf who was moſt juſt, and moſt ſharply of all afflicted, yet was moſt patient. g A borrowed kind of ſpeech taken of painters and ſchool-maſters.
‡ Some read for you.

1 Or, committed his cauſe.
24 He ſheweth them a remedie againſt injuries, to wit, that they commend their cauſe to God, by the example of Chriſt.
25 He ſeemeth now to turn his ſpeech to maſters, which have alſo themſelvs a maſter and judge in heaven, who will juſtly revenge the injuries don to ſervants, without any reſpect of perſons. 26 He calleth the ſervants back from the conſideration of the injuries which they are conſtrained to bear, to think upon the greatneſs and the end of the benefit received of Chriſt. ‡ Or, to.

Chap. III.

1 He teacheth the duty of wives and husbands to each other, 8 exhorting all men to unitie and love, 14 and to ſuffer perſecution. 19 He declareth alſo the benefits of Chriſt toward the old world.

Likewiſe, [1] ye wives, be in ſubjection to your own husbands, [2] that if any obey not the word, they alſo may without the word be won by the converſation of the wives:

2 While they behold your chaſte converſation coupled with fear.

3 [3] Whoſe adorning, let it not be that outward adorning, of plaiting the hair, and of wearing of gold, or of putting on of apparel,

4 But let it be the [a] hidden man of the heart, in that which is not corruptible, even the ornament of a meek and quiet ſpirit, which is in the [b] ſight of God of great price.

5 [4] For after this manner in the old time, the holy women alſo who truſted in God adorned themſelvs, being in ſubjection unto their own husbands.

6 Even as Sarah obeyed Abraham, calling him Lord, whoſe † daughters ye are as long as ye do well, and are [5] not afraid with any amazement.

7 [6] Likewiſe ye husbands, [c] dwell with them according to [d] knowledge, [7] giving [e] honour unto the wife as unto the weaker [f] veſſel, and as being [g] heirs together of the [g] grace of life, [9] that your prayers be not hindred.

8 [10] Finally, be ye all of one mind, having compaſſion one of another, ‡ love as brethren, be pitifull, be courteous:

9 [11] Not rendring evil for evil, or railing for railing: but contrariwiſe bleſſing, [12] knowing that ye are thereunto called, that ye ſhould inherit a bleſſing.

1 In the third place he ſetteth forth the wives duties to their husbands, commanding them to be obedient.
2 He ſpeaketh, namely, of them which had husbands that were no Chriſtians, which ought ſo much the more be ſubject to their husbands, that by their honeſt and chaſte converſation, they may gain them to the Lord.
3 He condemneth the riot and exceſs of women, and ſetteth forth their true apparelling, ſuch as is precious before God, to wit, the inward & incorruptible, which conſiſteth in a meek and quiet ſpirit.
a who hath his ſeat faſtened in the heart: ſo that the hid man is ſet againſt the outward decking of the body.
b Precious indeed, and ſo taken of God.
4 An argument taken out of the example of women, and eſpecially of Sara, which was the mother of all believers.
† Gr. children
5 Becauſe women are of nature fearfull, he giveth them to underſtand that he requireth of them that ſubjection, which is not wrung out of them either by force or fear. 6 He teacheth husbands alſo their duties, to wit, that the more underſtanding and wiſdom they have, the more wiſely and circumſpectly they behave themſelvs. c Do all the duties of wedlock d The more wiſdom the husband hath, the more circumſpectly he muſt behave himſelf in bearing thoſe diſcommodities, which through the womans weakneſs oftimes cauſe trouble both to the husband and the wife. 7 The ſecond argument, becauſe the wife, notwithſtanding that ſhe is weaker by nature than the man, is an excellent inſtrument of the man, made to far more excellent uſes: whereupon it followeth, that ſhe is not therefore to be neglected, becauſe ſhe is weak, but on the contrary part, ſhe ought to be ſo much the more cared for. e Having an honeſt care of her. f The woman is called a veſſel, after the manner of the Hebrews, becauſe the husband uſeth her as his fellow and helper, to live faithfully before God. g The third argument: for that they are equall in that which is the chiefeſt (that is to ſay, in the benefit of of eternall life) which otherwiſe are unequall as touching the governance and converſation at home, and therefore they are not to be deſpiſed although they be weak. g Of that gracious and free benefit whereby we have everlaſting life given us. 9 The fourth argument: All brawlings and chidings muſt be eſchewed, becauſe they hinder prayers and the whole ſervice of God, whereunto both the husband and wife are equally called 10 He returneth to common exhortations, and commandeth concord, and whatſoever things pertain to the maintenance of peace and mutuall love ‡ Or, loving to the brethren, 11 we muſt not onely not recompence injurie for injurie, but we muſt alſo recompence them with benefits. 12 An argument taken of compariſon: Seeing that we our ſelvs are called of God whom we offend ſo often, to ſo great a benefit, (ſo far is he from revenging the injuries which we do unto him) ſhall we rather make our ſelvs unworthy of ſo great bountifulneſs, than forgive one anothers faults? And from this vers to the end of the chapter, there is a digreſſion or going from the matter he is in hand with, to exhort us valiantly to bear afflictions.

10 [13] For * he that will love life, and [h] ſee good days, let him refrain his tongue from evil, and his lips that they ſpeak no guile.

11 Let him eſchew evil and do good, let him ſeek peace, and enſue it.

12 For the eyes of the Lord are over the righteous, and his ears are open unto their prayers: but the [i] face of the Lord is † againſt them that do evil.

13 [14] And who is he that will harm you, if ye be followers of that which is good?

14 But and if ye ſuffer for righteouſneſs ſake, happy are ye, and be not * [15] afraid of their [k] terrour, neither be troubled:

15 But [l] ſanctifie the Lord God in your hearts, and [16] be ready always to give an anſwer to every man that aſketh you a reaſon of the hope that is in you, with meekneſs and ‡ fear:

16 Having a good conſcience, that whereas they ſpeak evil of you, as of evil doers, they may be aſhamed that falſly accuſe your good converſation in Chriſt.

17 [17] For it is better, if the will of God be ſo, that ye ſuffer for well doing, than for evil doing.

18 [18] For Chriſt alſo hath once ſuffered for ſins, the [19] juſt for the unjuſt: ([20] that he might bring us to God) [21] being put to death in the [m] fleſh, but quickened by the Spirit:

19 [22] By which alſo he went and preached unto the ſpirits in priſon;

20 Which ſomtime were diſobedient, when [n] once the long-ſuffering of God waited in the days of Noah, while the ark was a preparing, wherein few, that is eight, [o] ſouls were ſaved by water.

21 [23] The like figure whereunto, even baptiſm, doth alſo now ſave us, (not the putting away of the filth of the fleſh, but the anſwer of a good conſcience towards [p] God) by the [24] reſurrection of Jeſus Chriſt:

22 Who is gon into heaven, and is on the right hand of God, angels, and authorities, and powers being made ſubject unto him.

CHAP. IV.

1 He exhorteth them to ceaſe from ſin by the example of Chriſt, and the conſideration of the generall end that now approacheth: 12 and comforteth them againſt perſecution.

FOraſmuch [1] then as Chriſt hath ſuffered for us in the fleſh, arm your ſelvs likewiſe with the ſame mind: for he that hath ſuffered in the fleſh, hath ceaſed from ſin:

2 That he no longer ſhould live the [a] reſt of his time in the fleſh, to the luſt of men, but to the will of God.

3 [2] For the time paſt of our life may ſuffice us to have wrought the [b] will of the Gentiles, when we walked in laſciviouſneſs, luſts, exceſs of wine, revellings, banquetings, and abominable idolatries:

4 [3] Wherein they think it [c] ſtrange that you run not with them to the ſame exceſs of riot, ſpeaking evil of you:

5 Who ſhall give account to him that is ready to judge the quick and the dead.

6 [4] For, for this cauſe was the goſpel preached alſo to them that are dead, that they might be judged according to men in the fleſh, but live according to God in the ſpirit.

7 [5] But the end of all things is at hand: be ye therefore ſober and watch unto prayer.

8 [6] And above all things have fervent charity, among your ſelvs: for charity ſhall cover the multitude of ſins.

9 [7] Uſe hoſpitalitie one to another without grudging.

10 [8] As every man hath received the gift, even ſo miniſter the ſame one to another, [9] as good ſtewards of the manifold grace of God.

11 [10] If any man ſpeak, let him ſpeak as the oracles of God: if any man miniſter, let him do it as of the ability which God giveth, that God in all things may be glorified through Jeſus Chriſt; to whom be praiſe and dominion for ever and ever. Amen.

12 [11] Beloved, think it not [d] ſtrange [12] concerning the fiery triall, which is to try you, as though ſome ſtrange thing happened unto you.

13 [13] But rejoyce in as much as ye are partakers of Chriſts ſufferings; that when his glory ſhall be revealed, ye may be glad alſo with exceeding joy.

If we ſanctifie God in our minds and hearts, that is to ſay, if we reſt upon him as one that is Almighty, that loveth mankind, that is good and true indeed.
k Be not diſmayed as they are. l Give him onely all praiſe and glory. 16 He will have us, when we are afflicted for righteouſneſs ſake, to be carefull not for redeeming of our life, either with denying or renouncing the truth, or with like violence, or any ſuch means: but rather to give an account of our faith boldly, and yet with a meek ſpirit; and full of godly reverence, that the enemies may not have any thing juſtly to object, but may rather be aſhamed of themſelvs. ‡ Or, reverence: 17 A reaſon which ſtandeth upon two generall rules of Chriſtianitie, which notwithſtanding all men allow not of. The one is, if we muſt needs ſuffer afflictions, it is better to ſuffer wrongfully than rightfully: the other is this, becauſe we are ſo afflicted not by hap, but by the will of our God. 18 A proof of either of the rules, by the example of Chriſt himſelf our chief patern, who was afflicted not for his own ſins (which were none) but for ours, and that according to his Fathers decree. 19 An argument taken of compariſon: Chriſt the juſt, ſuffered for us that are unjuſt, and ſhall it grieve us which are unjuſt, to ſuffer for the juſts cauſe? 20 Another argument being partly taken of things coupled together, to wit, becauſe Chriſt bringeth us to his Father that ſame way that he went himſelf, and partly from the cauſe efficient: to wit, becauſe Chriſt is not onely ſet before us for an example to follow, but alſo holdeth us up by his vertue in all the difficulties of this life, untill he bring us to his Father. 21 Another argument, taken of the happie end of theſe afflictions, wherein alſo Chriſt goeth before us both in example and vertue, as one who ſuffered moſt grievous torments even unto death, although but in one part onely of him, to wit, in the fleſh, or mans nature: but yet became conquerour by the vertue of his divinitie. m As touching his manhood, for his body was dead, and his ſoul felt the ſorrows of death. 22 A ſecret objection: Chriſt indeed might do this, but what is that to us? Yes (ſaith the Apoſtle) for Chriſt hath ſhewed forth his vertue in all ages both to the preſervation of the godly, were they never ſo few and miſerable, and to revenge the rebellion of his enemies, as it appeareth by the hiſtorie of the floud: for Chriſt is he which in thoſe days (when God through his patience appointed a time of repentance to the world) was preſent, not in corporall preſence, but by his divine vertue, preaching repentance, even by the mouth of Noah himſelf, who then prepared the ark, to thoſe diſobedient ſpirits which are now in priſon, waiting for the full recompence of their rebellion, and ſaved thoſe few, (that is, eight onely perſons) in the water. n This word (once) ſheweth that there was a furthermoſt day appointed, and if that were once paſt, there ſhould be no more. o Men. 23 A proportionall applying of the former example to the time which followed the coming of Chriſt: for that preſervation of Noah in the waters was a figure of our baptiſm, not as though the materiall water of baptiſm ſaveth us, as thoſe waters which bare up the ark ſaved Noah: but becauſe Chriſt with his inward vertue, which the outward baptiſm ſhadoweth, preſerveth us being waſhed, ſo that we may call upon God with a good conſcience. p The conſcience being ſanctified, may freely call upon God. 24 That ſelf-ſame vertue, whereby Chriſt roſe again, and now being carried up into heaven, hath received all power, doth at this day defend and preſerve us.

1 Having ended his digreſſion, and ſliding from his matter now he returneth to the exhortation which he brake off, taking occaſion by that which he ſaid touching the death and reſurrection of Chriſt, ſo defining our ſanctification, that to be ſanctified, is all one as to ſuffer in the fleſh, that is to ſay, to leave off from our wickedneſs, and viciouſneſs: and to riſe again to God, that is to ſay, to be renewed by the vertue of the Holy Ghoſt, that we may lead the reſt of our life which remaineth, after the will of God.
a So much of this preſent life as remaineth yet to be paſſed over.
2 By putting us in mind of the diſhoneſtie of our former life led in the filth of ſin, he calleth us to earneſt repentance.
b wickedly and licentiouſly after the manner of the gentiles.
3 That we be not moved with the enemies perverſe and ſlanderous judgements of us, we have to ſet againſt them the laſt judgement of God which remaineth for them: for none, whether they be then found living, or were dead before, ſhall eſcape it.
c They think it a new and ſtrange manner.
4 A digreſſion: becauſe he made mention of the laſt generall judgement. And he preventeth an objection, that ſeeing Chriſt came very lately, they may ſeem to be excuſible which died before. But this the apoſtle denieth: for (ſaith he) this ſelf-ſame goſpel was preached unto them alſo (for he ſpeaketh unto the Jews) and that to the ſame end that I now preach it unto you, to wit, that the fleſh being aboliſhed and put away (that is to ſay, that wicked and naughtie corruption which reigneth in men) they ſhould ſuffer themſelvs to be governed by the vertue of the ſpirit of God. 5 He returneth to his purpoſe, uſing an argument taken from the circumſtance of the time. Becauſe the laſt end is at hand, and therefore we muſt ſo much the more diligently watch and pray, with true ſobrietie of mind. 6 He commendeth charitie of one towards another, becauſe it doth as it were hide a multitude of ſins, and therefore preſerveth and maintaineth peace and concord: for they that love one another, do eaſily forgive one another their offences. 7 Of all the duties of charitie, he commendeth one, namely, which was at that time moſt neceſſarie, to wit, hoſpitalitie, which he will have to be voluntarie, and moſt courteous and bountifull. 8 He ſheweth the uſe of charitie, to wit, that every man beſtow that gift which he hath received, to the profit of his neighbour. 9 A reaſon: Becauſe that whatſoever gift we have, we have received it of God upon this condition, to be his diſpoſers and ſtewards. 10 He reckoneth up two kinds of theſe gifts as chief, to wit, the office of teaching in the church, and the other eccleſiaſticall functions, wherein two things eſpecially are to be obſerved: to wit, that the pure word of God be taught, and whatſoever is don, be referred to the glory of God the Father in Chriſt, as to the proper mark. 11 Becauſe the croſs is joyned with the ſincere profeſſion of religion, the apoſtle ſtily repeateth that which he touched before, warning us not to be troubled at perſecutions and afflictions, as at a new and ſtrange thing. d As though ſome new thing had befallen you, which you never thought of before. 12 The firſt reaſon: Becauſe the Lord meaneth not to conſume us with this fire (as it were) but to purge us of our droſs, and make us perfect. 13 Another reaſon: becauſe the afflictions of the godly and the wicked differ very much, and chiefly in three points: Firſt, becauſe the godly communicate with Chriſt in their afflictions, and therefore ſhall in their time be partakers alſo of gis glory. 14 Secondly, becauſe that although the infidels think far otherwiſe, who in afflicting the godly, blaſpheme God, yet the godly in that they are reviled upon, are honoured of God with the true ſpirituall glory, and their adoption is ſealed to them by the Spirit of God.

Chriſt,

Christ, happy are ye; for the [e] ſpirit of glory, and of God reſteth upon you: on their part he is evil ſpoken of, but on your part he is glorified.

15 [15] But let none of you ſuffer as a murderer, or as a thief, or as an evil-doer, or as a buſie-body in other mens matters.

16 Yet if any man ſuffer as a Chriſtian, let him not be aſhamed, but let him glorifie God on this behalf.

17 [16] For the time is come that judgement muſt begin at the houſe of God: and if it [17] firſt begin at us, what ſhall the end be of them that obey not the goſpel of God?

18 And if the righteous ſcarcely be ſaved, where ſhall the ungodly and the ſinner appear?

19 [18] Wherefore, let them that ſuffer according to the will of God, commit the keeping of their ſouls to him in well doing, as unto a faithfull Creator.

e By ſpirit he meaneth the gifts of the Spirit. 15 The third difference, for the godly are not afflicted for their evil doings, but for righteouſneſs ſake as Chriſtians: whereby it cometh to paſs that the croſs, ſeeing it is a teſtimony unto them of faith and righteouſneſs, miniſtreth to them, not an occaſion of ſorrow, but of unſpeakable joy: now the apoſtle propounded this third difference under the form of an exhortation. 16 The third reaſon: Becauſe the Lord of all the world being eſpecially carefull for them of his houſhold, doth therefore chaſtiſe them firſt of all, yet ſo that he keepeth a meaſure in his greateſt ſeveritie: and as he hath always uſed to do heretofore, ſo doth he now, eſpecially when as he exhibited himſelf in perſon to his church. 17 Leaſt the godly ſhould be offended and ſtumble at that vain ſhadow of the felicitie of the wicked, as though God were not the governor of the world, for that the wicked are in good caſe, and the godly in evil, the apoſtle teacheth by an argument of a compariſon of them together, that God who ſpareth not his own, but nurtureth them under the croſs, will at length in his time handle the rebellious and wicked far otherwiſe, whom he hath appointed to utter deſtruction. 18 The concluſion: Seeing the godly are not afflicted by chance, but by the will of God, they ought not to deſpair, but go forward notwithſtanding in the way of holineſs and well doing, commending themſelvs to God their faithfull Creator, that is to ſay, their Father.

Chap. V.

1 He exhorteth the elders to feed their flocks, 5 the younger to obey, 8 and all to be ſober, watchfull and conſtant in the faith: 9 to reſiſt the cruel adverſary the devil.

1 He deſcribeth peculiarly the office of the elders, that is to ſay, of them that have the care of the church. 2 He uſeth a preface touching the circumſtance of his own perſon: to wit, that he as their companion communeth with them not of matters which he knoweth not, but wherein he is as well experienced as any, and propoundeth unto them no other condition but that which he himſelf hath ſuſtained before them, and doth ſtill take the ſame pains, and alſo hath one ſelf-ſame hope together with them. 3 The firſt rule: He that is a ſhepherd let him feed the flock. 2 He ſaith not, offer for the quick and the dead, and ſing patched ſhreds in a ſtrange tongue, but (feed.) 4 The ſecond: Let the ſhepherds conſider, that the flock is not his, but Gods. ‡ Or, as much as in you is, 5 The third: Let not the ſhepherds invade other mens flocks, but let them feed that which God had committed unto them. 6 Let the ſhepherds govern the church with the word, and example of godly and unblamable life, not by conſtraint, but willingly, not for filthy lucre, but of a ready mind, not as lords over Gods portion and heritage, but as his miniſters.

THe [1] elders which are among you [2] I exhort, who am alſo an elder, and a witneſs of the ſufferings of Chriſt, and alſo a partaker of the glory that ſhall be revealed.

2 [3] [2] Feed the [4] flock of God ‡ which is [5] among you, [6] taking the overſight thereof, not by conſtraint, but willingly: not for filthy lucre, but of a ready mind.

3 Neither as ‡ being lords over Gods [b] heritage: but being enſamples to the flock.

4 [7] And when the chief Shepherd ſhall appear, ye ſhall receive a crown of glory that fadeth not away.

5 [8] Likewiſe ye younger, ſubmit your ſelvs unto the elder: yea, all of you be ſubject one to another, and be clothed with humility: [9] for God reſiſteth the proud, and giveth grace to the humble.

6 Humble your ſelvs therefore [10] under the mighty hand of God, that he may exalt you in due time:

7 Caſting all your care upon him, for he careth for you.

8 [11] Be ſober, be vigilant: becauſe your adverſary the devil, as a roaring lion, walketh about, ſeeking whom he may devour:

9 Whom reſiſt ſtedfaſt in the faith, [12] knowing that the ſame afflictions are accompliſhed in your [c] brethren that are in the world.

10 [13] But the God of all grace who hath called us into his eternall glory by Chriſt Jeſus, after that ye have ſuffered a while, make you perfect, ſtabliſh, ſtrengthen, ſettle you.

11 To him be glory and dominion for ever and ever. Amen.

12 [14] ¶ By Silvanus a faithfull brother unto you, (as I ſuppoſe) I have written briefly, exhorting and teſtifying that this is the true grace of God wherein ye ſtand.

13 [15] The church that is at [d] Babylon elected together with you, ſaluteth you, and ſo doth Marcus my ſon.

14 Greet ye one another with a kiſs of charity. Peace be with you all that are in Chriſt Jeſus. Amen.

‡ Or, over ruling b which is the Chriſtian people. 7 That the ſhepherds minds be not overcome either with the wickedneſs of men, or their cruelty, he warneth them to caſt their eyes continually upon that chief ſhepherd, and the crown which is laid up for them in heaven. 8 He commendeth many peculiar Chriſtian vertues, and eſpecially modeſtie: which admonition all of us ſtand in need of, but eſpecially the younger ſort, by reaſon of the untowardneſs and pride of that age. 9 Becauſe pride ſeemeth to many to be the way unto the glory of this life, the apoſtle witneſſeth on the contrary ſide, that ignominie and ſhame is the reward of pride, and glory the reward of modeſtie. 10 Becauſe thoſe proud and loftie ſpirits threaten the modeſt and humble, the apoſtle warneth us to ſet the power of God againſt the vanitie of proud men, and to hang wholly upon his providence. 11 The cruelty of Satan, whom ſeek by all means to overcome by watchfulneſs and faith. 12 The perſecutions which Satan ſtirreth up, are neither new nor proper to any one man, but from old and ancient time common to the whole church, and therefore we muſt ſuffer that patiently, wherein we have ſuch and ſo many fellows of our conflicts and combats. c Among it your brethren, which are diſperſed throughout the world. 13 He ſealeth up, as it were, with a ſeal, the former exhortation with a ſolemn prayer, again willing them to ask increaſe of ſtrength at his hands, of whom they had the beginning, and hope to have the accompliſhment: to wit, of God the Father in Chriſt Jeſus, in whom we are ſure of the glory of eternall life. 14 Continuance and perſeverance in the doctrin of the Apoſtles, is the onely ground and foundation of Chriſtian ſtrength. Now the ſum of the Apoſtles doctrin, is, ſalvation freely given of God. 15 Familiar ſalutations

CHAP. I.

1 Confirming them in the hope of the increaſe of Gods graces, 5 he exhorteth them by faith and good works, to make their calling ſure: 12 whereof he is carefull to remember them, knowing that his death is at hand: 16 and warneth them to be conſtant in the faith of Chriſt, who is the true Son of God, by the eye-witneſs of the apoſtles beholding his majeſtie, and by the teſtimonie of the Father, and the prophets.

1 A ſalutation, wherein he giveth them to underſtand, that he dealeth with them as Chriſts ambaſſadour, and otherwiſe agreeth with them in one ſelf-ſame faith, which is grounded upon the righteouſneſs of Jeſus Chriſt, our God and Saviour.

SImon [1] Peter, a ſervant and an apoſtle of Jeſus Chriſt, to them that have obtained like precious faith with us, through the [a] righteouſneſs of God, and our Saviour Jeſus Chriſt:

2 Grace and peace be multiplied unto you, [2] through the knowledge of God, and of Jeſus our Lord;

2 In that that God ſtanding to his promiſes, ſhewed himſelf faithfull, and therefore juſt unto us.

3 [3] According as his [b] divine power hath given unto us all things that pertain unto [c] life and godlineſs, through the [d] knowledge of him that hath called us ‡ to glorie and vertue:

2 Faith is the acknowledging of God and Chriſt, from whence all our bleſſedneſs iſſueth and floweth.

3 Chriſt ſetteth forth himſelf unto us plainly, in the Goſpel, and that by his onely power, and giveth us all things which are requiſite both to eternall life, wherein he hath appointed to glorifie us, and alſo to godlineſs, in that he doth furniſh us with true vertue.

4 [4] Whereby are given unto us exceeding great and precious promiſes; that by theſe you might be partakers of the [e] divine nature, having eſcaped the corruption that is in the [f] world through [g] luſt.

b He ſpeaketh of Chriſt, whom he maketh God, and the onely Saviour.
c Unto Salvation
d This is the ſum of true religion, to be led by Chriſt to the Father, as it were by the hand.
‡ Or, by
4 An explication of the former ſentence, declaring the cauſes of ſo great benefits, to wit, God and his free promiſe, from whence all theſe benefits proceed, I ſay, theſe moſt excellent benefits, whereby we are delivered from the corruption of the world, (that is, from the wicked luſts which we carrie about us) and are made, after a ſort, like unto God himſelf. e By the divine nature he meaneth not the ſubſtance of the Godhead, but the partaking of thoſe qualities, whereby the image of God is reſtored in us. f In men. g For luſt is the ſeat of corruption, and hath it's place even in our very bowels and inmoſt parts.

5 [5] And beſides this, giving all diligence, [h] add to your faith, vertue; and to vertue, knowledge;

6 [6] And to knowledge, temperance; and to temperance, patience; and to patience, godlineſs;

7 And to godlineſs, brotherly kindneſs; and to brotherly kindneſs, charity.

8 [7] For if theſe things be in you, and abound, they make you that ye ſhall neither be barren nor unfruitfull in the knowledge of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

9 But he that lacketh theſe things, is blind, and [i] cannot ſee far off, and hath forgotten that he was purged from his old ſins.

10 [8] Wherefore the rather, brethren, give diligence to make your calling and election ſure: for if ye do theſe things, ye ſhall never fall:

5 Having laid the foundation, (having declared the cauſes of our ſalvation, and eſpecially of our ſanctification) now he beginneth to exhort us to give our minds wholly to the true uſe of this grace. And he beginneth with faith, without which nothing can pleaſe God; and he warneth us to have it full fraught with vertue (that is to ſay, with good and godly manners) being joyned with the knowledge of Gods will, without which, there is neither faith, neither any true vertue. h Supply alſo and ſupport or aid. 6 He reckoneth up certain other principall vertues, whereof ſome pertain to the firſt table of the law, others to the laſt. 7 As thoſe fruits do ſpring from the true knowledge of Chriſt, ſo in like ſort the knowledge it ſelf is foſtered, and groweth by bringing forth ſuch fruits, in ſo much that he that is unfruitfull, did either never know the true light, or hath forgotten the gift of ſanctification which he hath received. i He that hath not an effectuall knowledge of God in him, is blind as touching the kingdom of God, for he cannot ſee things that are afar off, that is to ſay, heavenly things. 8 The concluſion: Therefore ſeeing our calling and election is approved by thoſe fruits, and is confirmed in us, and moreover ſeeing this is the onely way to the everlaſting kingdom of Chriſt, it remaineth that we caſt our minds wholly that way.

11 For ſo an entrance ſhall be miniſtred unto you abundantly, into the everlaſting kingdom of our Lord and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt.

9 An amplifying of the concluſion joyned with a modeſt excuſe, wherein he declareth his love towards them, and foretelleth them of his death which is at hand.
k In this body.

12 [9] Wherefore I will not be negligent to put you always in remembrance of theſe things, though ye know them, and be eſtabliſhed in the preſent truth.

13 Yea, I think it meet, as long as I am in this [k] tabernacle, to ſtir you up, by putting you in remembrance:

14 Knowing that ſhortly I muſt put off this my tabernacle, even as * our Lord Jeſus Chriſt hath ſhewed me.

* Joh. 21. 18.

15 Moreover, I will endeavour, that you may be able after my deceaſe, to have theſe things always in remembrance.

10 Another amplification taken both of the great certaintie, and alſo excellencie of his doctrin, as whereof our Lord Jeſus Chriſt the Son of God is author, whoſe glory the apoſtle himſelf both ſaw and heard.

16 [10] For we have not followed cunningly deviſed fables, when we made known unto you the power and coming of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, but were eye-witneſſes of his majeſtie.

17 For he received from God the Father, honour and glory, when there came ſuch a voice to him from the excellent glory, This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleaſed.

18 And this voice which came from heaven we heard, when we were with him in the holy mount.

11 The truth of the Goſpel is hereby alſo manifeſt, in that it agreeth wholly with the foretellings of the prophets.
12 The doctrin of the apoſtles doth not ſhut out the doctrin of the prophets, for they confirm each other, by each others teſtimonies, but the prophets were as candles which gave light unto the blind, untill the brightneſs of the Goſpel began to ſhine. l A more full and open knowledge, than was under the ſhadows of the law. m That clearer doctrin of the goſpel.

19 [11] We have alſo a more ſure word of propheſie, [12] whereunto ye do well that ye take heed, as unto a light that ſhineth in a dark place, untill the day [l] dawn, and the [m] day-ſtar ariſe in your hearts.

20 [13] Knowing this firſt, that no propheſie of the [n] ſcripture is of any [o] private interpretation.

13 The prophets are to be read, but ſo, that we aſk of God the gift of interpretation, for he that is the author of the writings of the prophets, is alſo the interpreter of them. n He joyneth the ſcripture and propheſie together, to diſtinguiſh true prophecies from fals. o For all interpretation cometh from God.

21 For the propheſie came not ‡ in old time by the will of man: but [p] holy men of God ſpake as they were [q] moved by the holy Ghoſt.

‡ Or, at any time p The Godly interpreters and meſſengers. q In the ſpirit of God: and theſe their motions were in very good order, and not ſuch as were the motions of the profane ſoothſayers, and foretellers of things to come.

CHAP. II.

1 He foretelleth them of falſe teachers, ſhewing the impiety and puniſhment both of them and their followers: 7 from which the godly ſhall be delivered, as Lot was out of Sodom: 10 and more fully deſcribeth the manners of thoſe profane and blaſphemous ſeducers, whereby they may be the better known and avoided.

1 As in times paſt there were two kinds of prophets, the one true, the other fals, ſo Peter foretelleth them, that there ſhall be ſome true, and ſome fals teachers in the church, in ſo much that Chriſt himſelf ſhall be denied of ſome, which notwithſtanding ſhall call him Redeemer. a Under the law while the ſtate and policie of the Jews was yet ſtanding.

BUt [1] there were fals prophets alſo among the [a] people, even as there ſhall be fals teachers

teachers among you, who privily ſhall bring in damnable hereſies, even denying the Lord that bought them, and bring upon themſelvs ſwift deſtruction.

2 [2] And many ſhall follow their ‡ pernicious ways, by reaſon of whom the way of truth ſhall be evil ſpoken of.

3 [3] And through covetouſneſs ſhall they with fained words make [b] merchandize of you; [4] whoſe judgement now of a long time lingreth not, and their damnation ſlumbreth not.

4 For if God ſpared not the angels that ſinned, but caſt them down to [c] hell, and delivered them into [d] chains of darkneſs, to be reſerved unto judgement:

5 And ſpared not the [e] old world, but ſaved Noah the eighth perſon, [f] a preacher of righteouſneſs, bringing in the floud upon the world of the ungodly:

6 And turning the cities of Sodom and Gomorrha into aſhes, condemned them with an overthrow, making them an enſample unto thoſe that after ſhould live ungodly:

7 And delivered juſt Lot, vexed with the filthy converſation of the wicked:

8 (For that righteous man dwelling among them, in [g] ſeeing and hearing, [h] vexed his righteous ſoul from day to day, with their unlawfull deeds)

9 The Lord [i] knoweth how to deliver the godly out of temptations, and to reſerve the unjuſt unto the day of judgement to be puniſhed:

10 [5] But chiefly them that walk after the fleſh in the luſt of uncleanneſs, and diſpiſe ‡ government, preſumtuous are they, ſelf willed, they are not afraid to ſpeak evil of [k] dignities.

11 Whereas angels which are greater in power and might, bring no railing accuſation ‡ againſt them before the Lord.

12 [6] But theſe, as naturall brute beaſts, [l] made to be taken and deſtroyed, ſpeak evil of the things that they underſtand not, and ſhall utterly periſh in their [m] own corruption;

13 And ſhall receive the reward of unrighteouſneſs, as they that count it pleaſure to riot in the day time: ſpots they are and blemiſhes, ſporting themſelvs with their own deceivings, while they [n] feaſt with you:

14 [7] Having eyes full of ‡ adultery, and that cannot ceaſe from ſin, beguiling unſtable ſouls, an heart they have exerciſed with covetous practices: curſed children.

15 Which have forſaken the right way, and are gone aſtray, following the way of Balaam the ſon of Boſor, who loved the wages of unrighteouſneſs:

16 But was rebuked for his iniquity: the dumb aſs ſpeaking with mans voice, forbad the madneſs of the prophet.

17 [8] Theſe are [o] wells without water, clouds that are carried with a tempeſt, to whom the [p] miſt of darkneſs is reſerved for ever.

18 For when they ſpeak great [q] ſwelling words of vanity, they [r] allure through the luſts of the fleſh, through much wantonneſs, thoſe that were ‡ [t] clean eſcaped from them who live in errour.

19 While they promiſe them libertie, they themſelvs are the ſervants of corruption: for of whom a man is overcome, of the ſame he is brought in bondage.

20 [9] For if after they have eſcaped the pollutions of the world, through the knowledge of the Lord and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt, they are again intangled therein, and overcome; the latter end is wors with them than the beginning.

21 For it had been better for them not to have known the way of righteouſneſs, than after they have known it, to turn from the holy commandment delivered unto them.

22 But it is happened unto them according to the true proverb, * The dog is turned to his own vomit again, and the ſow that was waſhed, to her wallowing in the mire.

Chap. III.

1 He aſſureth them of the certainty of Chriſts coming to judgement, againſt thoſe ſcorners who diſpute againſt it: 8 warning the godly for the long patience of God, to haſten their repentance. 10 He deſcribeth alſo the manner how the world ſhall be deſtroyed: 11 exhorting them from the expectation thereof, to all holineſs of life: 15 and again, to think the patience of God to tend to their ſalvation.

THis [1] ſecond epiſtle (beloved) I now write unto you, in both which I ſtir up your pure minds by way of remembrance:

2 That ye may be mindfull of the words which were ſpoke before by the holy prophets, and of the commandment of us the apoſtles of the Lord and Saviour:

3 [2] Knowing this firſt, that there ſhall come in the laſt days [a] ſcoffers, walking after their own luſts,

4 [3] And ſaying, Where is the promiſe of his coming? For ſince the fathers fell aſleep, all things continue as they were from the beginning of the creation.

5 [4] For this they willingly are ignorant of, that by the word of God the heavens were of old, and the [b] earth † ſtanding out of the water, and in the water.

6 [5] Whereby the world that then was, being overflowed with [c] water, periſhed.

7 [6] But the heavens and the earth which are now, by the ſame word are kept in ſtore, reſerved

2 There ſhall not onely be hereſies, but alſo many followers of them.
‡ Or, laſcivious way, as ſom copies read.
3 Covetouſneſs for the moſt part is a companion of hereſie, and maketh merchandiſe even of ſouls.
b They will abuſe you, and ſell you, as they ſell cattel in a fair.
4 A comfort for the godly: God who caſt the angels that fell away from him, headlong into the darkneſs of hell, at length to be judged: and who deſtroyed the old world with the flood, and preſerved Noe the eighth perſon: and who burned Sodom, and ſived Lot, will deliver his elect from theſe errors, and will utterly deſtroy thoſe unrighteous.
c So the Grecians called the deep dungeons under the earth, which ſhould be appointed to torment the ſouls of the wicked in.
d Bound them with darkneſs, as it were with chains: and by darkneſs, he meaneth that moſt miſerable ſtate of life that is full of horrour.
e which was before the floud: not that God made a new world, but becauſe the world ſeemed new.
f For he ceaſed not the ſpace of an hundred and twenty years to warn the wicked both by word and deed, what wrath of God hanged over their heads.
g With why ſoever he looked, and turned his ears.
h He had a troubled ſoul, and being vehemently grieved, lived a painfull life.
i Hath been long practiſed in ſaving and delivering the righteous.
5 He goth to another ſort of corrupt men, which notwithſtanding are within the boſom of the church, which are wickedly given, and do ſeditiouſly ſpeak evil of the authority of magiſtrates (which the angels themſelvs that miniſter before God, do not diſprais.) served unto fire against the day of judgement, and perdition of ungodly men.

8 [7] But (beloved) be not ignorant of this one thing, that one day is with the Lord as a thousand years, and a thousand years as one day.

9 [8] The Lord is not slack concerning his promise, (as some men count slackness) [9] but is long-suffering to us-ward, not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance.

10 [10] But the day of the Lord will come as a thief in the night, in the which the heavens shall pass away with a great [d] noise, and the elements shalt melt with fervent heat, the earth also and the works that are therein shall be burnt up.

11 [11] Seeing then that all these things shall be dissolved, what manner of persons ought ye to be in all holy conversation and godliness,

12 Looking for and [e] ‡ hasting unto the coming of the day of God, wherein the heavens being on fire shall be dissolved, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat?

13 Nevertheless we, according to his promise, look for new heavens and a new earth, [f] wherein dwelleth righteousness.

14 Wherefore (beloved) seeing that ye look for such things, be diligent that ye may be found of him in [g] peace, without spot, and blameless.

15 And account that the long-suffering of our Lord is salvation, [12] even as our beloved brother Paul also, according to the wisdom given unto him, hath written unto you.

16 As also in all his epistles, speaking in them of these things, [13] [h] in which are some things hard to be understood, which they that are unlearned and unstable wrest, as they do also the other scriptures, unto their own destruction.

17 Ye therefore, beloved, seeing ye know these things before, beware least ye also being led away with the errour of the wicked, fall from your own stedfastness.

18 But grow in grace, and in the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ: to him be glory both now and for ever. Amen.

7 The taking away of an objection: in that he seemeth to defer his judgement a long season: in respect of us it is true but not before God, with whom there is no time either long or short.

8 The Lord will surely come, because he hath promised: and that neither sooner nor later than he hath promised.

9 A reason why the latter day cometh not out of hand, because God doth patiently wait till the elect be brought to repentance, that none of them may perish.

10 A very short description of the last destruction of the world, but in such sort as nothing could be spoken more gravely.

d with the violence as it were of a hissing storm.

11 An exhortation to puritie of life, setting before us that horrible judgement of God, both to bridle our wantonness, and also to comfort us, so that we be found watching, and ready to meet him at his coming. e He requireth patience of us, yet such patience as is not slothfull. ‡ Or, hasting the coming.

f In which heavens.

g That you may try to your profit, how gentle and peaceable he is.

12 Pauls epistles are allowed by the expresse testimony of Peter.

13 There be certain of these things obscure & dark, whereof the unlearned take occasion to overthrow some men that stand not fast, wresting the testimonies of the scripture to their own destruction. But this is the remedy against such deceit, to labour that we may daily more and more grow up, and increase, in the knowledge of Christ.

h That is to say, among the which things: for he disputeth not here, whether Pauls epistles be plain or dark, tantum, that amongst these things which Paul hath written of in his epistles, and Peter himself in these two of his own, there are some things which cannot be so easily understood, and therefore are of some drawn to their own destruction: and this he saith to make us more attentive and diligent, and not to remove us from the reading of holy things, for to what end should they have written vain speculations?

The first Epistle general of

J O H N.

Chap. I.

1 He describeth the person of Christ in whom we have eternall life by a communion with God: 5 to which we must adjoyn holiness of life, to testifie the truth of that our communion and profession of faith, as also to assure us of the forgiveness of our sins by Christs death.

1 [1] THat which was from the beginning, which we have [a] heard, which we have seen with our eyes, which we have looked upon, and our hands have handled of the [b] word of life:

2 (For the life was manifested, and we have seen it, and bear witness, and [c] shew unto you that eternall life which was with the Father, and was manifested unto us)

3 That which we have seen and heard, declare we unto you, [2] that ye also may have fellowship with us; and truly our fellowship is with the Father, and with his Son Jesus Christ.

4 And these things write we unto you, that your joy may be full.

5 [3] This then is the message which we have heard of him, and declare unto you, that God is light, and in him is no darkness at all.

6 If we say that we have fellowship with him, and walk in darkness, we lie, and do not the truth:

7 But if we walk in the [d] light as he is in the light, we have fellowship one with another, and [4] the bloud of Jesus Christ his son cleanseth us from all sin.

8 [5] If we say that we have no sin, we [e] deceive our selvs, and the [f] truth is not in us.

9 [6] If we confess our sins, he is [g] faithfull, and just to [h] forgive us our sins, and to cleans us from all unrighteousness.

10 [7] If we say that we have not sinned, we make him a [i] liar, and his [k] word is not in us.

1 He beginneth with the description of the person of Christ, whom he maketh one and not two: and him both God from everlasting (for he was with the Father from the beginning, and is that eternall life) and also made true man, whom John himself and his companions both heard, and beheld, and handled.

a I heard him speak, I saw him my self with mine eyes, I handled with mine hands him that is very God, being made very man, and not I alone, but others also that were with me.

b That same everlasting word by whom all things are made, and in whom onely there is life. c Being sent by him: and that doctrin is rightly said to be shewed, for no man could so much as have thought of it, if it had not been thus shewed. 2 The use of this doctrin is this, that all of us being coupled and joyned together with Christ by faith, might become the sons of God: in which thing onely consisteth all happiness.

3 Now he entreth into a question, whereby we may understand that we are joyned together with Christ to wit, if we be governed with his light, which is perceived by the ordering of our life. And thus he reasoneth: God is in himself most pure light, therefore he agreeth well with them which are lightsom, but with them that are darksom he hath no fellowship.

d God is said to be light of his own nature, and to be in light, that is to say, in that everlasting infinite blessednes: and we are said to walk in light in that the beams of that light do shine unto us in the word.

4 A digression, or going from the matter he is in hand with, to the remission of sin: for this our sanctification which walk in the light, is a testimony of our joyning and knitting together with Christ, but because this our light is very dark, we must needs obtain another benefit in Christ, to wit, that our sins may be forgiven us being sprinkled with his bloud: and this in conclusion is the prop and stay of our salvation. 5 There is none but needeth this benefit, because there is none that is not a sinner. e This place doth fully refute that perfitness and works of supererogation, which the Papists dream of. f So then, John speaketh not thus for modesties sake, as some say, but because it is so indeed. 6 Therefore the beginning of salvation is to acknowledge our wickedness, and to require pardon of him, who freely forgiveth all sins, because he hath promised so to do, and he is faithfull and just. g So then our salvation hangeth upon the free promises of God, who because he is faithfull and just, will perform that which he hath promised. h where are then our merits? for this is our true felicity. 7 A rehearsall of the former sentence, wherein he condemned all of sin without exception: insomuch that if any man perswade himself otherwise, he doth as much as in him lieth, make the word of God himself vain, and to no purpose, yea, he maketh God a liar: for to what end, either in times past needed sacrifices, or now Christ and the gospel, if we be not sinners? i They do not onely deceive themselvs, but are blasphemous against God. k His doctrin shall have no place in us, that is, in our hearts.

CHAP. II.

1 He comforteth them against the sins of infirmity,
3 Rightly to know God, is to keep his commandments,
9 to love our brethren, 15 and not to love the world.
18 We must beware of seducers: 20 from whose deceits the godly are safe preserved by perseverance in faith and holiness of life.

MY [1] little children, these things write I unto you, that ye sin not. And if any man sin, we have an [a] advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous:

2 And he is the [b] propitiation for our sins: and not for ours onely, but also for the sins of the [c] whole world.

3 [2] And hereby we do know that we [d] know him, [e] if we keep his commandments.

4 [3] He that saith, I know him, and keepeth not his commandments, is a liar, and the truth is not in him.

5 [4] But whoso keepeth his word, in him verily is the [f] love of God perfected: hereby know we that we are in [g] him.

6 [5] He that saith he abideth in him, ought himself also so to walk, even as he walked.

7 [6] Brethren, I write no new commandment unto you, but an old commandment, which ye had from the beginning: the old commandment is the word which ye have heard from the beginning.

8 [7] Again, a new commandment I write unto you, [h] which thing is true in him and in you: because the darkness is past, and the true light now shineth.

9 [8] He that saith he is in the light, and hateth his brother, is in darkness even untill now.

10 He that loveth his brother abideth in the light, and there is none † occasion of stumbling in him.

11 But he that hateth his brother, is in darkness, and walketh in darkness, and knoweth not wither he goeth, because that darkness hath blinded his eyes.

12 [9] [i] I write unto you, little children, because your sins are forgiven you for his [k] names sake.

13 [10] I write unto you, fathers, because ye have known him that is from the beginning, [11] I write unto you, young men, because ye have overcome the wicked one. [12] I write unto you, little children, because ye have known the Father.

14 [13] I have written unto you, fathers, because ye have known him that is from the beginning. I have written unto you, young men, because ye are strong, and the word of God abideth in you, and ye have overcome the wicked one.

15 [14] Love not the [l] world, neither the things that are in the world. If any man love the world, the [m] love of the Father is not in him.

16 For all that is in the world, the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life, is not of the Father, but is of the world.

17 [15] And the world passeth away and the lusts thereof: but he that doth the will of God, abideth for ever.

18 [16] [n] Little children, [17] it is the last time, and as [18] ye have heard that Antichrist shall come, even now are there many Antichrists, whereby we know that it is the last time.

19 [19] They went out from us, but they were not of us: for if they had been of us, [o] they would no doubt have continued with us: [20] but they went out, that they might be made manifest, that they were not all of us.

20 [21] But ye have an [p] unction from the [q] holy One, and ye know all things.

21 [22] I have not written unto you, because ye know not the truth: but because ye know it, and that no lie is of the truth.

22 [23] Who is a liar but he that denieth that Jesus is the [r] Christ? he is Antichrist that denieth the Father and the Son.

23 [r] Whosoever denieth the Son, the same hath not the Father: but he that acknowledgeth the Son, hath the Father also.

24 [24] Let that therefore abide in you, which ye have heard from the beginning: if that which ye have heard from the beginning, shall remain in you, ye also shall continue in the Son, and in the Father.

25 And this is the promise that he hath promised us, even eternall life.

26 [25] These things have I written unto you, concerning them that seduce you.

27 But the [s] anointing which ye have received of him, abideth in you: and ye [u] need not that any man teach you: But, as the same [x] anointing teacheth you of all things, and is truth, and is no lie: and even as it hath taught you, ye shall abide in him.

28 [26] And now, little children, abide in him,

1 It followeth not hereof, that we must give our wicked nature the bridle, or sin so much the more freely, because our sins are cleansed away by the bloud of Christ, but we must rather so much the more diligently resist sin. And yet we must not despair because of our weakness, for we have an advocate and a purger, Christ Jesus the just, and therefore acceptable unto his Father.

a In that he nameth Christ, he shutteth forth all other.

b Reconciliation and intercession go together, to give us to understand, that he is both advocate and high priest.

c For men of all sorts, of all ages, and all places, so that this benefit belongeth, not to the Jews onely, of whom he speaketh as appeareth vers. 7, but also to other nations.

2 He returneth to the testimony of our conjunction with God, to wit, to sanctification, declaring what it is to walk in the light, to wit, to keep Gods commandments, whereby it followeth that holiness doth not consist in those things which men have devised, neither in a vain profession of the Gospel.

d This must be understood of such a knowledge as hath faith with it, and not of a common knowledge.

e For the tree is known by the frute.

3 Holiness, that is, a life ordered according to the prescript of Gods commandments, how weak so ever we be, is of necessitie joyned with faith, that is, with the true knowledge of the Father in the Son. 4 He that keepeth Gods commandment, loveth God indeed: He that loveth God, is in God, or is joyned together with God. Therefore he that keepeth his commandments is in him. f wherewith we love God. g He meaneth our conjunction with Christ. 5 He that is one with Christ, must needs live his life, that is, must walk in his steps. 6 The apostle going about to expound the commandment of charity one towards another, telleth first, that when he urgeth holiness, he bringeth no new trade of life (as they use to do which devise tradition one after another) but putteth them in mind of that same law which God gave in the beginning, to wit, by Moses, at that time that God began to make laws to his people. 7 He addeth that the doctrin indeed is old, but it is now after a sort new, both in respect of Christ, and also of us, in whom he through the gospel, engraveth his law effectually, not in tables of stone, but in our minds. h which thing, (to wit, that the doctrin is now which I write unto you) is true in him, and in you 8 Now he cometh to the second table, that is, to charity one towards another, and denieth that, that man hath true light in him, or is indeed regenerate and the son of God, which hateth his brother: and such an one wandereth miserably in darkness, brag he of never so great knowledge of God, for that wittingly and willingly he casteth himself head long into hell. † Gr. scandal. 9 He returneth again from sanctification to remission of sins, because that free reconciliation in Christ is the ground of our salvation, whereupon afterwards sanctification must be built as upon a foundation. i Therefore I write unto you, because you are of their number whom God hath reconciled to himself. k For his own sake: And in that he nameth Christ, he shutteth out all other, whether they be in heaven or earth. 10 He sheweth that this doctrin agreeth to all ages, and first of all speaking to old men, he sheweth that Christ and his doctrin are passing ancient, and therefore if they be delighted with old things, nothing ought to be more acceptable unto them. 11 He advertiseth young men, if they be desirous to shew their strength, that they have a most glorious combate set here before them, to wit, Satan the worst enemy, who must be overcom: willing them to be as sure of victory as if they had already gotten it. 12 Finally, He sheweth to children, that that true Father from whom they have to look for all good things, is set forth unto them in the gospel. 13 He addeth afterward in like order, as many exhortations: as if he should say, Remember, you fathers, as I wrote even now, that the everlasting Son of God is revealed to us. Remember ye young men, that that strength whereby I said that you put Satan to flight, is given you by the word of God which dwelleth in you.

14 The world which is full of wicked desires, lusts or pleasures, and pride, is utterly hated of our heavenly Father. Therefore the Father & the world cannot be loved together: and this admonition is very necessary for green and flourishing youth.

l He speaketh of the world, as it agreeth not with the will of God, for otherwise God is said to love the world with an infinite love, John. 3. 16. that is to say, those whom he chose out of the world.

m wherewith the Father is loved.

15 He sheweth how much better it is to obey the Fathers will, than the lusts of the world, by both their natures and unlike event.

16 Now, he turneth himself to little children which notwithstanding are well instructed in the sum of religion, and willeth them by divers reasons to shake off slothfulness which is to familiar with that age.

n He useth this word (little) not because he speaketh to children, but to allure them the more by using such sweet words.

17 First, because the last time is at hand, so that the matter suffereth no delay.

18 Secondly, because Antichrists, that is, such as fall from God, are already come, even as they heard that they should come.

And it was very requisite to warn that unheedy and wariless age of that danger.

19 A digression against certain offences and stumbling blocks wherat that rude age especially might stumble and be shaken.

Therefore that they should not be terrified with the foul falling back of certain, first he maketh plain unto them, that although such as fall from God and his religion had place in the church, yet they were never of the church: because the church is the company of the elect, which cannot perish, and therefore cannot fall from Christ. o So then the elect can never fall from grace. 20 Secondly, he sheweth that these things fall out to the profit of the church, that hypocrites may be plainly known. 21 Thirdly, he comforteth them, to make them stand fast, insomuch as they are annointed of the holy Ghost with the true knowledge of salvation. p The grace of the holy Ghost, and this is a borrowed kind of speech taken from the ointings used in the law. q From Christ who is peculiarly called Holy. 22 The taking away of an objection. He wrote not these things as to men which are ignorant of religion, but rather as to them which do well know the truth, yea so far forth that they are able to discern truth from falshood 23 He sheweth now plainly that false doctrin of the Antichrists, to wit, that either they fight against the person of Christ or his office, or both together, and at once. And they that do so, do in vain boast and brag of God, for that in denying the Son, the father also is denyed. r Is the true Messias. s They then are deceived themselves, and also deceive others, which say that the Turks and other infidels worship the same God that we do. 24 The whole preaching of the prophets and apostles is contrary to that doctrin. Therefore it is utterly to be cast away, and this wholly to be holden, and kept, which leadeth us to seek eternall life in the free promise, that is to say, in Christ alone, who is given us of the Father 25 The same Spirit which indueth the elect with the knowledge of the truth and sanctifieth them, giveth them therewithall the gift of perseverance, to continue to the end. t The Spirit which you have received of Christ, and which hath led you into all truth. u You are not ignorant of those things, and therefore I teach them not as things that were never heard of, but call them to your remembrance as things which you do know. x He commendeth both the doctrin which they had embraced, and also highly praiseth their faith, and the diligence of such as taught them, yet so, that he taketh nothing from the honour due to the holy Ghost. 26 The conclusion both of the whole exhortation, and also of the former treatie.

that when he shall appear, we may have confidence, and not be ashamed before him at his coming.

29 [27] If ye know that he is righteous, ‡ ye know that every one that doth righteousnes, is born of him.

2 - A passing over to the treatise following, which tendeth to the same purpose, but yet is more ample, and handleth the same matter after another order: for before he taught us to go up from the effects to the cause, and in this that followeth, he goeth down from the causes to the effects: And this is the sum of this argument, God is the fountain of all righteousnes, and therefore they that give themselvs to righteousnes, are known to be born of him, because they resemble God the Father. ‡ Or, know ye.

Chap. III.

1 He declareth the singular love of God towards us, in making us his sons: 3 who therefore ought obediently to keep his commandments, 11 as also brotherly to love one another.

BEhold, [1] [a] what manner of love the Father hath bestowed upon us, that we should be [b] called the sons of God: [2] therefore the world knoweth us not, because it knew him not.

2 [3] Behold, now are we the sons of God: and it doth not yet appear what we shall be, but we know, that when he shall appear, we shall be [c] like him: for we shall see him [d] as he is.

3 [4] And every man that hath this hope in him, purifieth himself, even [e] as he is pure.

4 [5] Whosoever [f] committeth sin, transgresseth also the law: for [g] sin is the transgression of the law.

5 [6] And ye know that he was manifested to take away our sins, and in him is no sin.

6 Whosoever abideth in him, sinneth not: whosoever [h] sinneth, hath not seen him, neither known him.

7 [7] Little children, let no man deceive you: he that doth righteousnes, is righteous, even as he is righteous.

8 [8] He that committeth sin, is of the devil [i]: for the devil [k] sinneth from the [l] beginning: for this purpose the Son of God was manifested, that he might destroy the works of the devil.

9 Whosoever is born of God, doth not commit sin: for his seed [m] remaineth in him, & he cannot sin, because he is born of God.

10 [9] In this the children of God are manifest, and the children of the devil: whosoever doeth not righteousnes, is not of God, [10] neither he that loveth not his brother.

11 [11] For this is the ‡ message that ye heard from the beginning, that we should love one another.

1 He beginneth to declare this agreement of the Father and the Son, as the highest cause, to wit, as that true love of God toward us, wherewith he so loveth us, that also he adopteth us to be his children.
a What a gift, of how great love.
b That we should be the Sons of God, and so that all the world may perceive we are so.
2 Before he declareth this adoption, he saith two things: the one, that this so great a dignity, is not to be esteemed according to the judgement of the flesh, because it is unknown to the world, for the world knoweth not God the Father himself:
3 The other, this dignity is not fully made manifest to us our selvs, much less to strangers, but we are sure of the accomplishment of it, inasmuch that we shall be like unto the Son of God himself, and shall enjoy his right indeed, such as he is now, but yet notwithstanding this is deferred until his next coming.
c Like, but not equall
d For now we see as in a glass. 1 Cor. 13. 12.
4 Now he describeth this adoption, (the glory whereof as yet consisteth in hope) by the effect, to wit, because that whosoever is made the Son of God, endevoureth to resemble the Father in purity. e This word signifieth a likeness, but not an equality. 5 The rule of this purity can from no whence else be taken but from the law of God, the transgression whereof is that which is called sin. f Giveth not himself to pureness. g A short definition of sin. 6 An argument taken from the materiall cause of our salvation: Christ in himself is most pure, and he came to take away our sins by sanctifying us with the Holy Ghost. Therefore whosoever is truely partaker of Christ, doth not give himself to sin, and contrariwise he that giveth himself to sin, knoweth not Christ. h He is said to sin, that giveth not himself to pureness, and in him sin reigneth: but sin is said to dwell in the faithfull, and not to reign in them. 7 Another argument of things coupled together: He that liveth justly, is just, and resembleth Christ that is just, and by that is known to be the Son of God. 8 An argument taken of contraries, the devil is the authour of sin, and therefore he is of the devil, or is ruled by the inspiration of the devil, that serveth sin: and if he be the devils son then is he not Gods son, for the devil and God are so contrary the one to the other, that even the Son of God was sent to destroy the works of the devil. Therefore on the contrary side, whosoever resisteth sin, is the Son of God, being born again of his Spirit as of new seed, in so much, that of necessity he is now delivered from the slavery of sin. i Resembleth the devil, as the child doth the father, and is governed by his Spirit. k He saith not sinned, but sinneth, for he doth nothing else but sin. l From the very beginning of the world. m The Holy Ghost is so called of the effect he worketh, because by his vertue and mighty working, as it were by seed, we are made new men. 9 The conclusion: By a wicked life they are known, which are governed by the spirit of the devil: and by a pure life, which are Gods children. 10 He beginneth to commend charity towards the brethren, as another mark of the sons of God. 11 The first reason taken of the authority of God which giveth the commandment. ‡ Or, commandment.

12 [12] Not as [n] Cain, who was of that wicked one, and slew his brother: [13] and wherefore slew he him? because his own works were evil, and his brothers righteous.

13 Marvel not, my brethren, if the world hate you.

14 [14] We [o] know that we have passed from death unto life, because we love the brethren: he that loveth not his brother, abideth in death.

15 [15] Whosoever hateth his brother, is a murderer, and ye know that no murderer hath eternall life abiding in him.

16 [16] Hereby perceive we the love of God, because he laid down his life for us: and we ought to lay down our lives for the brethren.

17 [17] But whoso hath this [p] worlds good, and seeth his brother have need, and [q] shutteth up his bowels of compassion from him, how dwelleth the love of God in him?

18 [18] My little children, let us not love in word, neither in tongue, but in deed and in truth.

19 [19] And hereby we know that we are of the truth, and shall † [20] assure our hearts before him.

20 For [r] if our heart condemn us, God is greater than our heart, and knoweth all things.

21 [21] Beloved, if our heart condemn us not, then have we confidence towards God.

22 [22] And whatsoever we ask, we receive of him, because we keep his commandments, and do those things that are pleasing in his sight.

23 And this is his commandment, that we should believe on the name of his Son Jesus Christ, and love one another, as he gave us commandment.

24 And he that keepeth his commandments, dwelleth in him, and he in him: and hereby we know that he abideth in us, by the [s] Spirit which he hath given us.

12 An amplification taken of the contrary example of Cain which slew his brother.
n He bringeth forth a very fit and very old example, wherein we may behold both the nature of the Sons of God, and the sons of the devil, and what state and condition remaineth for us in this world, and what shall be the end of both at length.
13 A short digression: Let us not marvell that we are hated of the world for doing our duty; for such was the condition of Abel, who was a just person: and who would not rather be like him than Cain?
14 The second reason: because charity is a testimony that we are translated from death to life: and therefore hatred towards the brethren is a testimony of death: and whosoever nourisheth it, doth as it were foster death in his bosom.
o Love is a token that we are translated from death to life, forasmuch as by the effects the cause is known.
15 A confirmation: whosoever is a murtherer, is in eternall death: who so hateth his brother is a murtherer, therefore is in death. And thereupon followeth the contrary: He that loveth his brother hath passed to life, for indeed we are born dead.
16 Now he sheweth how far Christian charity extendeth, even so far, that according to the example of Christ, every man forget himself, to provide for, and help his brethren. 17 He reasoneth by comparisons: for if we are bound even to give our life for our neighbours, how much more are we bound to help our brothers necessitie with our goods and substance.
p wherewith this life is sustained. q Openeth not his heart to him, not helpeth him willingly and cheerfully. 18 Christian charitie standeth not in words but in deed, and proceedeth from a sincere affection. 19 He commendeth charitie, by a triple effect: for first of all, by it we know that we are indeed the Sons of God, as he shewed before Gr. persuade. 20 Therefore it commeth that we have a quiet conscience, as on the contrary side, he that thinketh that he hath God for a judge, because he is guilty to himself, either he is never, or els very rarely, quiet, for God hath a far quicker sight than we, and judgeth more severely. 1 If an evil conscience convinceth us, much more ought the judgement of God condemn us, who knoweth our hearts better than we our selves do. 21 A third effect also riseth of the former, that in these miseries we are sure to be heard, because we are the sons of God: as we understand by the grace of sanctification, which is proper to the elect. 22 The conclusion, That faith in Christ, and love one towards another, are things joyned together, and therefore the outward testimonies of sanctification must and do answer that inward testimonie of the Spirit given unto us. ‡ His meaneth the Spirit of sanctification, whereby we are born a new and live unto God.

Chap. IV.

1 He warneth them not to believe all teachers who boast of the Spirit, but to trie them by the rules of the catholick faith: 7 and by many reasons exhorteth to brotherly love.

BEloved, [1] believe not every [a] spirit, but trie the spirits whether they are of God: because many false prophets are gon out into the world.

1 Taking occasion least by the name of the Spirit, love and charity should be separated from the worship of God, which chiefly dependeth of his true knowledge, he returneth to that which he spake of in the second chapter, touching the taking heed of Antichrists. And he will have us here to take heed of two things, the one is, that seeing there be many false prophets, we do not lightly give credit to every man: the other is, that because many men teach false things, we should not therefore believe any. we must then observe a mean, that we may be able to discern the Spirit of God which is altogether to be followed, from impure spirits which are to be eschewed. a This is spoken by the figure Metonymie, and it is, as if he had said, Believe not every one that saith that he hath a gift of the Holy Ghost to do the office of a prophet.

2 [2] Hereby

2 He giveth a certain and perpetual rule to know the doctrin of Antichrist by, to wit, If either the divine or human nature of Christ, or the true uniting of them together be denied: or if the least jot that may be, be derogated from his office, who is our onely King, Prophet, and everlasting high priest.
b He speaketh simply of the doctrin, and not of the person.
c The true Messias.
d Is true man.
3 He comforteth the elect with a most sure hope of victory: but yet so, that he teacheth them that they fight not with their own vertue, but with the vertue and power of God.
4 He bringeth a reason, why the world receiveth these teachers more willingly than the true: to wit, because they breath out nothing but that which is worldly: which is another note also to know the doctrin of Antichrist by.
5 He testifieth unto them, that his doctrin, and the doctrin of his followers, is the assured word of God, which of necessity we have boldly to set against all the mouths of the whole world, and thereby discern the truth from falshood.
e True prophets, against whom are set fals prophets, that is, such as err themselvs, and lead others into errour.
6 He returneth to the commending of brotherly love and charitie.
7 The first reason: Because it is a very divine thing, and therefore very meet for the sons of God: so that whosoever is void of it, cannot be said to know God aright.
8 A confirmation, for it is the nature of God to love men, whereof we have a most manifest proof above all other, in that, that of his onely free and infinit good will towards us his enemies, he delivered unto death, not a common man, but that his own Son, yea, his onely begotten Son, to the end that we being reconciled through his bloud might be made partakers of his everlasting glory. f In that he calleth God, Love, he saith more than if he had said that he loveth us infinitly. 9 Another reason by comparison: if God so loved us, shall not we his children love one another? 10 A third reason: Because God is invisible, therefore by this effect of his spirit, to wit, by charitie, he is understood, yea, and to be not out of us, but joyned with us, and in us, in whom he is so effectually working. g Is surely in us indeed, and in truth. 11 He underlayeth this charitie with another foundation, to wit, faith in Jesus, which joyneth us indeed with him, even as charity witnesseth that we are joyned with him. Furthermore he testifieth of Christ, as who had seen him with his eyes. h with such a confession as cometh from true faith, and is accompanied with love, so that there be an agreement of all things. 12 A fourth reason: God is the fountain and well-spring of charity, yea charity it self, therefore whosoever abideth in it, hath God with him. 13 Again (as a little before) he commendeth love, for that, seeing that by our agreement with God in this thing; we have a certain testimony of our adoption, it cometh thereby to pass, that without fear we look for that latter day of judgement, so that trembling, and that torment of conscience is cast out by this love. † Gr. love with us i This signifieth a likeness, not an equalitie. k If we understand by love, that we are in God, and God in us, that we are sons, and that we know God, and that everlasting life is in us; he concludeth aright, that we may well gather peace and quietness thereby.

2 [2] Hereby know ye the Spirit of God: [b] every spirit that confesseth that [c] Jesus Christ is come in the [d] flesh, is of God.

3 And every spirit that confesseth not that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh, is not of God: and this is that spirit of antichrist, whereof you have heard that it should come, and even now already is it in the world.

4 [3] Ye are of God, little children, and have overcome them: because greater is he that is in you, than he that is in the world.

5 [4] They are of the world: therefore speak they of the world, and the world heareth them.

6 [5] We are of God: he that knoweth God, heareth us; he that is not of God, heareth not us: hereby know we the [e] Spirit of truth, and the spirit of errour.

7 [6] Beloved, let us love one another: [7] for love is of God; and every one that loveth, is born of God, and knoweth God.

8 He that loveth not, knoweth not God: [8] for God is [f] love.

9 In this was manifested the love of God towards us, because that God sent his onely begotten Son into the world, that we might live through him.

10 Herein is love, not that we loved God, but that he loved us, and sent his Son to be the propitiation for our sins.

11 [9] Beloved, if God so loved us, we ought also to love one another.

12 [10] No man hath seen God at any time. If we love one another, God dwelleth in us, and his love is [g] perfected in us.

13 Hereby know we that we dwell in him, and he in us, because he hath given us of his Spirit.

14 [11] And we have seen and do testifie, that the Father sent the Son to be the Saviour of the world.

15 Whosoever shall [h] confess that Jesus is the Son of God, God dwelleth in him, and he in God.

16 And we have known and beleeved the love that God hath to us. [12] God is love, and he that dwelleth in love, dwelleth in God, and God in him.

17 [13] Herein is † our love made perfect, that we may have boldness in the day of judgement: because [i] as he is, so are we in this world.

18 There is [k] no fear in love, but perfect love casteth out fear: because fear hath torment: he that feareth is not made perfect in love.

19 [14] We love him: because he first loved us.

20 [15] If a man say, I love God, and hateth his brother, he is a liar: [16] for he that loveth not his brother whom he hath seen, how can he love God whom he hath not seen?

21 [17] And this commandment have we from him, that he who loveth God, love his brother also.

14 Least any man should think that peace of conscience proceedeth from our love, as from the cause, he goeth back to the fountain, to wit, to the free love wherewith God loveth us, although we deserved and do deserve his wrath. And hereof springeth another double charity, which both are tokens and witnesses of that first, to wit, that there withall we love God who loved us first, and then for his sake our neighbours also. 15 As he shewed that the love of our neighbour cannot be separate from the love wherewith God loved us, because this last engendreth the other: so he denieth that the other kind of love wherewith we love God, can be separate from the love of our neighbour: whereof it followeth, that they lie impudently, which say they worship God, and yet regard not their neighbours. 16 The first reason taken of comparison, why we cannot hate our neighbour, and love God, to wit, because that he that cannot love his brother, whom he seeth: how can he love God whom he seeth not? 17 A second reason, why God cannot be hated, and our neighbour loved, because the self same law-maker commandeth both to love him and our neighbour.

Chap. V.

1 He that loveth God, loveth his children, and keepeth his commandments: 3 which to the faithfull are light, and not grievous. 9 Jesus is the Son of God, able to save us, 14 and to hear our prayers, which we make for our selvs, and for others.

1 He goeth on forward in the same argument, shewing how both those loves come into us, from that love wherewith God loveth us, to wit, by Jesus our Mediator, laid hold on by faith, in whom we are made the children of God, and do love the Father, of whom we are so begotten, and also our brethren, which are begotten with us.
a Is the true Messias.
b By one he meaneth all the faithfull.
2 The love of our neighbour doth so hang upon the love wherewith we love God, that this last must needs go before the first: whereof it followeth, that that is not to be called love, when men agree together to do evil, neither that, when as in loving our neighbours, we respect not Gods commandment.
c There is no love where there is no true doctrin.

WHosoever [1] beleeveth that Jesus is the [a] Christ, is born of God: and every one that loveth him that begat, [b] loveth him also that is begotten of him.

2 [2] By this we know that we love the children of God, when we love God, and keep his [c] commandments.

3 [3] For this is the love of God, that we keep his commandments, [4] and his commandments are [d] not grievous.

4 [5] For whatsoever is born of God, overcometh the world, [6] and this is the victorie that [e] overcometh the world, even our [f] faith.

5 [7] Who is he that overcometh the world, but he that beleeveth that Jesus is the Son of God?

6 [8] This is he that came by water and bloud, even Jesus Christ, [9] not by water onely, but by water and bloud: and it is the [g] Spirit that beareth witness, because the Spirit is truth.

7 For there are three that bear record in heaven, the Father, the [h] Word, and the holy Ghost: and these three are [i] one.

8 And there are three that bear witness in earth, the spirit, and the water, and the bloud: and these three agree in one.

9 [10] If we receive the witness of men, the

3 The reason: for to love God, is to keep his commandments, which being so, and seeing that both the loves are commanded of one and the self-same Law-maker, (as he taught before) it followeth also, that we do not love our neighbours, when we break Gods commandments. 4 Because experience teacheth us, that there is no abilitie in our flesh, neither yet will to perform Gods commandments, therefore least the apostle should seem, by so often putting them in mind of the commandments of God, to require things that are impossible, he pronounceth that the commandments of God are not in such sort grievous or burdensom, that we can be oppressed with the burden of them. d To them that be regenerate, that is to say, born anew, which are led by the Spirit of God, and are through grace delivered from the curse of the law. 5 A reason: Because by regeneration we have gotten strength to overcome the world, that is to say, whatsoever striveth against the commandments of Gods. 6 He declareth what that strength is, to wit, faith. e He useth the time that is past, to give us to understand, that although we be in the battel, yet undoubtedly we shall be conquerors, and are most certain of the victory. f which is the instrumentall cause, and as a mean and hand whereby we lay hold on him, who indeed doth perform this, that is, hath and doth overcome the world, even Christ Jesus. 7 Moreover, he declareth two things, the one, what true faith is, to wit, that which resteth upon Jesus Christ the Son of God alone: whereupon followeth the other, to wit, that this strength is not proper to faith, but by faith as an instrument is drawn from Jesus Christ the Son of God. 8 He proveth the excellencie of Christ, in whom onely all things are given us, by six witnesses, three heavenly, and three earthly, which wholly and fully agree together. The heavenly witnesses are the Father, who sent the Son, the word it self, which became flesh, and the Holy Ghost; The earthly witnesses are water (that is, our sanctification) bloud (that is, our justification) the Spirit (that is, acknowledging of God the Father in Christ by faith through the testimonie of the holy Ghost.) 9 He warneth us not to separate water from bloud (that is sanctification from justification; or righteousnes begun, from righteousnes imputed) for we stand not upon sanctification, but so far forth as it is a witness of Christs righteousnes imputed unto us: and although this imputation of Christs righteousnes be never separated from sanctification, yet is it the onely matter of our salvation.
g Our spirit which is the third witness, testifieth that the holy Ghost is truth, that is to say, that that is true which he telleth us, to wit, that we are the sons of God. h Look John. 8. 14.
i Agree in one. 10 He sheweth by an argument of comparison, of what great weight the heavenly testimony is, that the Father hath given of the Son, unto whom agreeth both the Son himself and the holy Ghost.

witness

witneſs of God is greater: [k] for this is the witneſs of God, which he hath teſtified of his Son.

10 [11] He that beleeveth on the Son of God, hath the witneſs in himſelf: he that beleeveth not God, hath made him a liar, becauſe he beleeveth not the record that God gave of his Son.

11 [12] And this is the record, that God hath given to us eternall life: and this life is in his Son.

12 He that hath the Son, hath life; and he that hath not the Son of God, hath not life.

13 [13] Theſe things have I written unto you that beleeve on the name of the Son of God, that ye may know that ye have eternall life, and that ye may beleeve on the name of the Son of God.

14 [14] And this is the confidence that we have ‡ in him, that if we ask any thing according to his will, he heareth us.

15 And if we know that he hear us, whatſoever we ask, we know that we have the petitions that we deſired of him.

16 [15] If any man ſee his brother ſin a ſin which is not unto death, he ſhall [l] ask, and he ſhall give him life for them that ſin not unto death. There is a ſin unto death: I do not ſay that he ſhall pray for it.

17 [16] All unrighteouſneſs is ſin, and there is a ſin not unto death.

18 [17] We know that whoſoever is born of God ſinneth not, but he that is begotten of God, keepeth himſelf, and that wicked one toucheth him not.

19 [18] And we know that we are of God, and the whole world lieth in wickedneſs.

20 And we know that the Son of God is come, and hath given us an underſtanding that we may know him that is true: and we are in him that is true, even in his Son Jeſus Chriſt. This is the true [m] God, and eternall life.

21 [19] Little children, keep your ſelvs from idols. Amen.

k I conclude thus aright: For that teſtimony which I did is given in heaven, cometh from God, who ſetteth forth his Son.

11 He proveth the ſtrongneſs of the earthly witneſſes by every mans conſcience, having that teſtimony in it ſelf, which conſcience, if rightly, cannot be deceived, becauſe it conſenteth to the heavenly teſtimonie which the Father giveth of the Son: for otherwiſe the Father muſt needs be a liar, if the conſcience which accordeth and aſſenteth to the Father, ſhould lie.

12 Now at length he ſheweth what this teſtimonie is, that is confirmed with ſo many witneſſes, to wit, that life, or everlaſting felicity is the meer and onely gift of God, and proceedeth from him unto us, which by faith are joyned with him, for that without him life is no where to be found.

13 The concluſion of the epiſtle, wherein he ſaveth laſt of all, that even they which already beleeve, do ſtand in need of this doctrin, to the end that they may grow more and more in faith: that is to ſay, to the end that they may be daily more and more certified of their ſalvation in Chriſt, through faith.

14 Becauſe we do not yet in effect obtain that which we hope for, the apoſtle joyneth invocation or prayer with faith, which he will have to proceed from faith, and moreover to be conceived in ſuch ſort, that nothing be asked but that which is agreeable to the will of God: and ſuch prayers cannot be vain.

15 we are to make prayers not onely for our ſelvs, but alſo for our brethren which do ſin, that their ſins be not unto them, to death: and yet he excepteth that ſin which is never forgiven, or the ſin againſt the Holy Ghoſt that is to ſay, as univerſall and willfull falling away from the known truth of the Goſpel.

‖ This is as much as if he ſaid, let him deſire the Lord to forgive him, and he will forgive him being ſo deſired.

16 The taking away of an objection: indeed all iniquitie is comprehended under the name of ſin: but yet we muſt not deſpair therefore, becauſe every ſin is not deadly, and without hope of remedy.

17 A reaſon why not all, nay rather, why no ſin is mortall to ſome to wit, becauſe they be born of God, that is to ſay, made the ſons of God in Chriſt, and being indued with his Spirit, they do not ſerve ſin, neither are deadly wounded of Satan.

18 Every man muſt particularly applie to himſelf the generall promiſes, that we may certainly perſwade our ſelvs, that whereas all the world is by nature loſt, we are freely made the ſons of God, by the ſending of Jeſus Chriſt his ſon unto us: of whom we are lightned with the knowledge of the true God and everlaſting life.

m The divinitie of Chriſt is moſt plainly proved by this place.

19 He expreſſeth a plain precept of taking heed of idols: which he ſetteth againſt the onely true God, that with this ſeal, as it were, he might ſeal up all the former doctrin.

The ſecond Epiſtle of

J O H N.

He exhorteth a certain honourable matron with her children, to perſevere in Chriſtian love and belief, 8 leaſt they loſe the reward of their former profeſſion: 10 and to have nothing to do with thoſe ſeducers that bring not the true doctrin of Chriſt Jeſus.

THE elder unto the [a] elect [b] ladie, and her children, [1] whom I love in the truth: and not I onely, but alſo all they that have known the truth:

2 For the truths ſake which dwelleth in us, and ſhall be with us for ever:

3 Grace be with you, mercie, and peace from God the Father, and from the Lord Jeſus Chriſt the Son of the Father, in [c] truth and love.

4 [2] I rejoyced greatly, that I found of thy children walking [d] in truth, as we have received a commandment from the Father.

5 And now I beſeech thee, ladie, not as though I wrote a new commandment unto thee, but that which we had from the beginning, that we love one another.

6 And this is love, that we walk after his commandments. This is the commandment, that as ye have heard from the beginning, ye ſhould walk in it.

7 [3] For many deceivers are entred into the world, who confeſs not that Jeſus Chriſt is come in the fleſh. This is a deceiver and an Antichriſt:

8 [4] [e] Look to your ſelvs, that we loſe not thoſe things which we have ‡ wrought, but that we receive a full reward.

9 Whoſoever transgreſſeth, and abideth not in the doctrin of Chriſt, hath not God: he that abideth in the doctrin of Chriſt, he hath both the Father and the Son.

10 [5] If there come any unto you, and bring not this doctrin, receive him not into your houſe, neither bid him God ſpeed.

11 For he that biddeth him God ſpeed, is partaker of his evil deeds.

12 Having many things to write unto you, I would not write with paper and ink, but I truſt to come unto you, and ſpeak ‡ face to face, that our joy may be full.

h Thus he covertly ſetteth forth their horrible and monſtrous luſts.

8 Likewiſe alſo theſe filthy [i] dreamers defile the fleſh, [6] deſpiſe [k] dominion, and ſpeak evil of dignities.

i which are ſo blockiſh and void of reaſon, as if all their ſenſes and wits were in a moſt dead ſleep.
6 Another moſt pernicious doctrin of theirs, in that they take away the authoritie of magiſtrates, and ſpeak evil of them, as at this day the Anabaptiſts do.
k It is a greater matter to deſpiſe government than the governours, that is to ſay, the matter it ſelf, than the perſons.

9 [7] Yet

228

9 [7] Yet Michael the archangel, when contending with the devil, he diſputed about the body of Moſes, durſt not bring againſt him a railing accuſation, but ſaid, * The Lord rebuke thee.

10 [8] But theſe ſpeak evil of thoſe things which they know not: but what they know naturally, as brute beaſts, in thoſe things they corrupt themſelvs.

11 [9] Wo unto them, for they have gon in the way of Cain, and ran greedily after the errour of Balaam for reward, and periſhed in the gainſaying of Core.

12 [10] Theſe are ſpots in your [l] feaſts of charity, when they feaſt with you, feeding themſelvs without [m] fear: clouds they are without water, carried about of winds; trees whoſe fruit withereth, without fruit, twice dead, plucked up by the roots;

13 Raging waves of the ſea, foming out their own ſhame; wandring ſtars, to whom is reſerved the [n] blackneſs of darkneſs for ever.

14 And Enoch alſo the ſeventh from Adam, propheſied of theſe, ſaying, Behold, the Lord * cometh with ten thouſands of his ſaints,

15 To execute judgement upon all, and to convince all that are ungodly among them, of all their ungodly deeds which they have ungodly committed, & of all their hard ſpeeches, which ungodly ſinners have ſpoken againſt him.

16 Theſe are murmurers, complainers, walking after their own luſt, and their mouth ſpeaketh great ſwelling words, having mens perſons in admiration becauſe of advantage.

17 [11] But beloved, remember ye the words which were ſpoken before of the apoſtles of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt:

18 How that they told you there ſhould be mockers in the laſt time, who ſhould walk after their own ungodly luſts.

19 [12] Theſe be they who ſeparate themſelvs, ſenſuall, having not the Spirit.

20 But ye, beloved, building up your ſelvs on your moſt holy faith, praying in the Holy Ghoſt, 21 Keep your ſelvs in the love of God, looking for the mercy of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt unto eternall life.

22 [13] And of ſome have compaſſion, making a difference:

23 And others ſave with [p] fear, pulling them out of the fire: hating even the [q] garment ſpotted by the fleſh.

24 [14] Now unto him that is able to keep you from falling, and to preſent you faultleſs before the preſence of his glory with exceeding joy,

25 To the onely wiſe God our Saviour, be glory and majeſty, dominion and power, both now and ever. Amen.

7 An argument of compariſon: Michael one of the chiefeſt angels, was content to deliver Satan, although a moſt curſed enemy, to the judgement of God to be puniſhed: and theſe not aſhamed to ſpeak evil of the powers which are ordained of God. * Zach. 3. 2.

8 The concluſion, Theſe men are in a double fault, to wit, rath folly in condemning ſome, & for their impudent and ſhameleſs contempt of that knowledge, which when they had gotten, yet not withſtanding they lived as brute beaſts, ſerving their bellies.

9 He foretelleth their deſtruction, becauſe they reſemble or ſhew forth Cains ſhameleſs malice, Balaams filthy covetouſneſs, and, to be ſhort, Cores ſeditious and ambitious head.

10 He rebuketh moſt ſharply, with many other notes and marks, both their diſhoneſty, or filthineſs, and their ſaucineſs, but eſpecially, their vain bravery of words and moſt vain pride: joyning therewithall a moſt grave & heavy threatning out of a moſt ancient propheſie of Enoch touching the judgement to come. l The feaſts of charitie were certain banquets, which the brethren which were members of the church kept altogether, as Tertullian ſetteth them forth in his Apologie, chap. 39. m Impudently, without all reverence either to God or man. n Moſt groſs darkneſs. o The preſent time, for the time to come.

11 The riſing up of ſuch monſters was ſpoken of before, that we ſhould not be troubled at the newneſs of the matter.

12 It is the property of Antichriſts to ſeparate themſelvs from the Godly, becauſe they are not governed by the Spirit of God: and contrariwiſe, it is the property of Chriſtians to edifie one another through godly prayers, both in faith, and alſo in love, untill the mercy of Chriſt appear to their full ſalvation.

13 Amongſt them which wander and go aſtray, the godly have to uſe this choice, that they handle ſome of them gently, and that otherſome being even in the very flame, they endeavour to ſave with ſevere and ſharp inſtruction of the preſent danger: yet ſo, that they do in ſuch ſorts abhor the wicked and diſhoneſt, that they eſchew even the leſt contagion that may be. p By fearing them, and holding them back with godly ſeverity q An amplification, taken from the forbidden things of the law which did defile. 14 He commendeth them to the grace of God, declaring ſufficiently that it is God onely that can give us that conſtancie which he requireth of us.

The order of time whereunto the contents of this book are to be referred.

The year of Chriſt. 1, &c.

THe dragon watched the church of the Jews, which was ready to travail: She bringeth forth, fleeth, and hideth her ſelf, whileſt Chriſt was yet upon the earth.

34 The dragon perſecuteth Chriſt aſcending into heaven, he fighteth and is thrown down: and after perſecuteth the church of the Jews.

The church of the Jews is received into the wilderneſs, for three years and an half.

When the church of the Jews was overthrown, the dragon invaded the Catholik church: all this is in the 12 chap.

79 The dragon is bound for a thouſand years, chap. 20.

70 The dragon raiſeth up the beaſt with ſeven heads, and the beaſt with two heads, which make havock of the Catholick church and her prophets for 1260 years after the paſſion of Chriſt, chap. 13. & 11.

97 The ſeven churches are admoniſhed of things preſent, ſomwhat before the end of Domitian his reign, and are forewarned of the perſecution to come under Trajan for ten years, chap. 2. & 3.

God by word and ſigns provoketh the world, and ſealeth the godly, chap. 6. & 7.

He ſheweth forth exemplars of his wrath upon all creatures, mankind excepted, chap. 8.

1073 The dragon is let looſe after a thouſand years, and Gregory the ſeventh, being pope, rageth againſt Henry the third, then Emperour, chap. 20.

1217 The dragon vexeth the world 150 years unto Gregory the ninth, who writ the decretals, and moſt cruelly perſecuted the emperour Frederick the ſecond.

The dragon by both the beaſts perſecuted the church, and putteth the godly to death, chap. 9.

1295 The dragon killeth the prophets after 1260 years, when Boniface the 8 was pope, who was the author of the ſixt book of the decretals: he excommunicated Philip the French King.

Boniface celebrateth the jubile.

1300 About this time was a great earthquake, which overthrew many houſes in Rome.

1301 Prophecie ceaſeth for three years and a half, untill Benedict the ſecond ſucceeded after Boniface the eight.

1305 Prophecie is revived, chap. 11.

The dragon and the two beaſts oppugn prophecie, chap. 13.

Chriſt defendeth his church in word and deed, chap. 14.

With threats and arms, chap. 16.

Chriſt giveth his church victory over the harlot, chap. 17. 18.

Over the two beaſts, Chap. 19.

Over the dragon, and death, chap. 20.

The church is fully glorified in heaven with eternall glory, in Chriſt Jeſus, chap. 21. & 22.

THE

THE REVELATION OF S. JOHN THE DIVINE.

CHAP. I.

4 John writeth his revelation to the ſeven churches of Aſia, ſignified by the ſeven golden candleſticks. 7 The coming of Chriſt. 14 His glorious power and majeſty.

1 This chapter hath two principall parts, the title or inſcription which ſtandeth in ſtead of an exordium: and a narration going before the whole propheſy of this book. The inſcription is double, generall and particular. The generall containeth the kind of propheſy, the authour, end, matter, inſtruments, and manner of communicating the ſame, in the firſt vers: the moſt religious faithfulneſs of the apoſtle as a publick witneſs, vers 2. And the uſe of communicating the ſame taken from the promiſe of God, and from the circumſtance of the time. vſ. 3.

THE [1] [a] Revelation of [b] Jeſus Chriſt, which God gave unto him, to ſhew unto his ſervants things which muſt ſhortly come to paſs; and he ſent and ſignified it by his angel unto his ſervant John:

2 Who bare record of the word of God, and of the teſtimony of Jeſus Chriſt, and of all things that he ſaw.

3 Bleſſed is he that readeth, and they that hear the words of this propheſy, and keep thoſe things which are written therein: for the time is at hand.

4 [2] John to the ſeven churches in Aſia, Grace be unto you, and peace, [3] from him * [c] which is, and which was and which is to come, and [4] from the ſeven ſpirits which are [d] before his throne:

5 And from Jeſus Chriſt, who [5] is the faithful witneſs, and the * firſt begotten of the dead, and the prince of the kings of the earth: Unto him that loved us, * and waſhed us from our ſins in his own bloud,

6 And hath * made us kings and prieſts unto God and his Father; to him be glory and dominion for ever and ever. Amen.

a As opening of a hid and ſecret thing.

b which the Son opened to us out of his Fathers boſom by angels.

2 This is the particular or ſingular inſcription wherein ſalutation is written unto certain churches by name, which repreſent the church Catholick: and the certainty and truth of the ſame is declared, from the authour thereof unto the eight vers.

3 That is, from God the Father; eternall, immortall, immutable: whoſe unchangeableneſs Saint John declareth by a form of ſpeech which is undeclined. For there is no incongruity in this place, where of neceſſity the words muſt be attemper'd unto the myſteries, and not the myſteries corrupted or impaired by the words. * Exod. 3. 14. c By theſe three times, Is, Was, and Shall be, is ſignified this word Jehovah, which is the proper name of God.

4 That is, from the holy Ghoſt which proceedeth from the Father and the Son This Spirit is one in perſon according to his ſubſtance: but in communication of his vertue, and in demonſtration of his divine works in thoſe ſeven churches, doth ſo perfectly manifeſt himſelf, as if there were ſo many ſpirits, every one perfectly working in his own church: wherefore after Chap. 5. 6. they are called the ſeven horns and ſeven eyes of the Lamb, as much to ſay, as his moſt abſolute power and wiſdom: and Chap. 3. 1. Chriſt is ſaid to have thoſe ſeven Spirits of God, and Chap. 4. 5. it is ſaid, that ſeven lamps do burn before his throne, which alſo are thoſe ſeven Spirits of God. That this place ought to be ſo underſtood, it is thus proved. For firſt, grace and peace is asked by prayer of this Spirit, which is a divine work, and an action incommunicable in reſpect of the moſt high Deity Secondly, he is placed between the Father and the Son, as ſet in the ſame degree of dignity and operation with them, beſides, he is before the throne, as of the ſame ſubſtance with the Father and the Son: as the ſeven eyes and the ſeven horns of the Lamb; moreover, theſe Spirits are never ſaid to adore God, as all other things are. Finally, that is, the power whereby the Lamb openeth the book, and looſeth the ſeven ſeals thereof, when none could be found amongſt all creatures by whom the book might be opened, chap. 5. Of theſe things long ago Maſter John Luide of Oxford wrote learnedly unto me, Now the holy Ghoſt is ſet in order of words before Chriſt, becauſe there was in that which followeth a long proceſs of ſpeech to be uſed concerning Chriſt. d Theſe are the ſeven ſpirits, which are afterward, chap. 5. 6. called the horns and eyes of the Lamb, and are now made as a guard waiting upon God. 5 A moſt ample and grave commendation of Chriſt, firſt, from his offices, the prieſt-hood and kingdom: ſecondly, from his benefits, as his love toward us, and waſhing us with his bloud, in this vers, and communication of his kingdom, and prieſt-hood with us: thirdly, from his eternall glory and power, which is always to be celebrated of us, vers 6. Finally, from the accompliſhment of all things once to be effected by him, at his ſecond coming, what time he ſhall openly deſtroy the wicked, and ſhall comfort the godly in the truth, vers 7. * 1 Cor. 15. 20. Coloſſ. 1. 18. * Hebr. 9. 14. * 1 Pet. 2. 5.

7 ¶ * Bebold, he cometh with clouds, and every [e] eye ſhall ſee him, and they alſo which pierced him: and all kindreds of the earth ſhall wail becauſe of him: even ſo, Amen.

* Dan 7. 13. Matth. 24. 30. e All men.

8 [6] I am [f] Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the ending, ſaith the LORD, which is, and which was, and which is to come, the Almighty.

9 ¶ [7] I John, who alſo am your brother, and companion in tribulation, and in the kingdom and patience of Jeſus Chriſt, was in the iſle that is called [g] Patmos, for the word of God, and for the teſtimony of Jeſus Chriſt.

10 I was in the [h] Spirit on the [i] LORDS day, and heard behind me a great voice, as of a trumpet, 11 Saying, I am Alpha and Omega, the firſt and the laſt: and what thou ſeeſt, write in a book, and ſend it unto the ſeven churches which are in Aſia, unto Epheſus, and unto Smyrna, and unto Pergamos, and unto Thyatira, and unto Sardis, and Philadelphia, and unto Laodicea.

12 [8] And I turned to [k] ſee the voice that ſpake with me. [9] And being turned, I ſaw ſeven golden candleſticks;

13 And in the midſt of the ſeven candleſticks, one like unto the Son of man, * clothed with a garment down to the foot, and girt about the paps with a golden girdle.

14 His head, and his hairs were white like wooll as white as ſnow, and his eyes were as a flame of fire,

15 And his feet like unto fine braſs, as if they burned in a furnace: and his voice as the ſound of many waters.

16 And he had in his right hand ſeven ſtars: and out of his mouth went a ſharp two-edged

6 A confirmation of the ſalutation afore going, taken from the words of God himſelf: in which he avoucheth his operation in every ſingular creature, the unmutable eternity that is in himſelf, and his omnipotency in all things: and concludeth in the unity of his own eſſence, that Trinity of perſons which was before ſpoken of.

f I am he before whom there is nothing, yea, by whom every thing that is made, was made, and ſhall remain though all they ſhould periſh.

7 The narration, opening the way to the declaring of the authority and calling of Saint John the Euangeliſt in this ſingular Revelation, and to procure faith and credit unto this propheſy. This is the ſecond part of this Chapter, conſiſting of a propoſition, and an expoſition, ſheweth, firſt who was called unto this Revelation, in what place, and now occupied, vers 9. Then at what time, and by what means, namely, by the ſpirit, and the word, and that on the Lords day, which day ever ſince the reſurrection of Chriſt, was conſecrated for Chriſtians unto the religion of the Sabbath: that is to ſay, to be a day of reſt, verſ 10. Thirdly, who is the authour that calleth him, and what is the ſum of his calling.

g Patmos is one of the Iſles of Sporas, whither John was baniſhed, as ſome write. h That is, that holy raviſhment expreſſed; wherewith the prophets were raviſhed, and being, as it were, carried out of the world, were converſant with God: and ſo Ezekiel ſaith often, that he was carried from place to place of the Lords ſpirit, and that the ſpirit of the Lord fell upon him. i He calleth it the Lords day, which Paul calleth the firſt day of the week, 1 Cor. 16. 2. k The expoſition declaring the third and laſt point of the propoſition (for the other points are evident of themſelvs) wherein is ſpoken, firſt, of the Authour of his calling, unto the 17 verſ. ſecondly, of the calling it ſelf, unto the end of the chapter. And firſt of all, the occaſion is noted in this vers, in that Saint John turned himſelf towards the viſion after is ſet down the deſcription of the Authour, in the verſes following, 13, 14, 15, 16. k To ſee him whoſe voice I had heard. 9 The deſcription of the Authour, which is Chriſt: by the candleſticks that ſtand about him, that is, the churches that ſtand before him, and depend upon his direction in this vers by his properties, that he is one furniſhed with wiſdom and dexterity to the atchieving of great things, verſ. 13. with ancient gravity and moſt excellent ſight of the eye; verſ. 14. with ſtrength invincible, and with a mighty word, verſ. 15. By his operations that he ruleth the miniſtery of his ſervants in the church, giveth effect thereunto by the ſword of his word, and enlightening all things by his countenance, doth moſt mightily provide for every one by his divine providence, verſ. 16. * Dan 10. 5, 6.

17 [10] And when I saw him, I fell at his feet as dead: [11] and he laid his right hand upon me, saying unto me, Fear not, * [12] I am the first and the last.

18 I am he that liveth, and was dead: and behold, I am alive for evermore, Amen, and have the keys of hell and of death.

19 [13] Write the things which thou hast seen, and the things which are, and the things which shall be hereafter;

20 [14] The mystery of the seven stars which thou sawest in my right hand, and the seven golden candlesticks. The seven stars are the [a] angels of the seven churches: and the seven candlesticks which thou sawest, are the seven churches.

10 A religious fear that goeth before the calling of the Saints, and their full confirmation to take upon them the vocation of God.
11 A divine confirmation of this calling, partly by signs, and partly by word of power. * Isa. 41. 4. & 44. 6 12 A most elegant description of his calling contained in three things, which are necessary unto a just vocation: First: the authority of him that calleth, for that he is the beginning and end of all things in this vers, for that he is eternall and omnipotent, vers. 18. Secondly, the sum of this propheticall calling and revelation, vers. 13. Lastly, a declaration of those persons unto whom this prophesy is by the commandment of God, directed in the description thereof, vers. 20. 13 The sum of this prophesy, that the apostle must write whatsoever he should see, adding nothing, nor taking away any thing, vers. 2. Hereof there are two parts: one is a narration of those things which are, that is, which then were at that time contained in the second and third chapter: the other part is of those things which were to come, contained in the rest of this book. 14 That is, the thing which was mysticall, signified by the particulars of the vision before going. 1 By angels he meaneth the ministers of the church.

Chap. II.

What is commanded to be written to the angels, that is, the ministers of the churches of 1 Ephesus, 8 Smyrna, 12 Pergamos, 18 Thyatira: and what is commended, or found wanting in them.

1 The former part of this book is comprised in a narration of those things which then were, as S. John taught us, Chap. 1. 19. it belongeth wholly unto instruction, and in these two next chapters, containeth seven places, according to the number and condition of those churches which were named before, Chap. 1. 11. figured vers. 12. and distributed most aptly into their pastors and flocks, vers 20. which vers of that chapter is as it were a passage unto the first part. Every one of these seven places hath three principall members: an exordium taken from the person of the author: a proposition, in which is praise and commendation of that which is good, reprehension of that which is evil: and instruction, containing either an exhortation alone, or withall, a dissuasion opposite unto it, and a conclusion stirring up unto attention, by divine promises. And this first place is unto the pastors of the church of Ephesus. 2 The exordium, wherein are contained the speciall praises of Christ Jesus the author of this prophecy, out of the 6 and 13 verses of the first chapter. 3 The proposition, first commending the pastor of this church, vers. 2, 3. then reproving him, vers. 4. after informing him, and withall threatning that he will translate the church to another place, vers. 5. This commination, or threat, Christ mitigateth by a kind of correction, calling to mind the particular vertue and piety of that church, which God never leaveth without recompense, vers 6 Concerning the Nicolaitans, see after upon the 15 vers. 2 To deal with thee for. 4 The conclusion, containing a commandment of attention, and a promise of everlasting life, shadowed out in a figure, of which Gen. 2. 9. 5 That is, in Paradise after the manner of the Hebrew phrase b This Christ speaketh as he is Mediator. 6 The second place is unto the pastors of the church of the Smyrnians. The exordium is taken out of the 17 and 18 verses of the first chapter. c Smyrna was one of the cities of Jonia in Asia.

1 Unto [1] the angel of the church of Ephesus, write, [2] These things saith he that holdeth the seven stars in his right hand, who walketh in the midst of the seven golden candlesticks:

2 [3] I know thy works, and thy labour, and thy patience, and how thou canst not bear them which are evil, and thou hast tried them which say they are apostles, and are not, and hast found them liars.

3 And hast born, and hast patience, and for my names sake hast laboured, and hast not fainted.

4 Nevertheless, I have somwhat [4] against thee, because thou hast left thy first love.

5 Remember therefore from whence thou art fallen, and repent, and do the first works, or else I will come unto thee quickly, and will remove thy candlestick out of his place, except thou repent.

6 But this thou hast, that thou hatest the deeds of the Nicolaitans, which I also hate.

7 [4] He that hath an ear, let him hear what the spirit saith unto the churches; To him that overcometh will I give to eat of the tree of life, which is in the [5] midst of the [b] paradise of God.

8 [6] And unto the angel of the church in [c] Smyrna, write, These things saith the first and the last, which was dead, and is alive,

9 [7] I know thy works, and tribulation, and poverty, (but thou art rich) and I know the blasphemy of them which say they are Jews and are not, but are the synagogue of Satan.

10 Fear none of those things which thou shalt suffer: behold, the devil shall cast some of you into prison, that ye may be tried, and ye shall have [8] tribulation ten days: be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life.

11 [9] He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches, He that overcometh, shall not be [10] hurt of the second death.

12 ¶ [11] And to the angel of the church in [d] Pergamos, write, These things saith he, which hath the sharp sword with two edges:

13 [12] I know thy works, and where thou dwellest, even where Satans seat is, and thou holdest fast my name, and hast not denied my faith, even in those [e] days wherein Antipas was my faithful martyr, who was slain among you, where Satan dwelleth.

14 But I have a few things against thee, because thou hast there them that hold the doctrin of * Balaam, who taught Balac to cast a stumbling blok before the children of Israel, to [f] eat things sacrificed unto idols, and to commit fornication.

15 So hast thou also them that hold the doctrin of the [13] Nicolaitans; which thing I hate.

16 Repent, or els I will come unto thee quickly, and will fight against them with the sword of my mouth.

17 [14] He that hath an ear, let him hear what the spirit saith unto the churches, To him that overcometh will I give to eat [15] of the hidden [g] manna, and will give him a [h] white stone, and in the stone a [16] new name written, which no man knoweth, saving he that receiveth it.

18 ¶ [17] And unto the [18] angel of the church in Thyatira, write, These things saith the Son of God, who hath his eyes like unto a flame of fire, and his feet are like fine brass.

19 I know thy [19] works, and charity, and [i] service, and faith, and thy patience, and thy works, and the last to be more than the first.

20 Notwithstanding, I have a few things against thee, because thou sufferest that woman * Jezebel, which calleth her self a pro-

7 The proposition of praise is in this vers, and of exhortation joyned with promise, is in the next vers.
8 That is, of ten years. For so commonly both in this book, and in Daniel, years are signified by the name of days that God thereby might declare, that the space of time is appointed by him, and the same very short. Now because Saint John wrote this book in the end of Domitian the emperour his reign, as Justinus and Irenæus do witness, it is altogether necessary that this should be referred unto that persecution which was don by the authority of the emperour Traian, who began to make havock of the Christian churches in the tenth year of his reign, as the Historygraphers do write: and his bloudy persecution continued untill Adrian the Emperour had succeeded in his place: The space of which time is precisely ten years, which are here mentioned.
9 The conclusion, vers. 7.
10 See chap. 20. 6.
11 The third place is unto the pastours of Pergamos. The exordium is taken out of the 16 vers of the first chapter.
d Pergamos was the name of a famous city in old time in Asia, where the kings of the Attalians were always resident.
12 The proposition of praise, is in this vers, of reprehension in the two following, and of exhortation joyned with a conditional threat, vers 16. Now this Antipas was the angel or minister of the church of Pergamos, As Areas writeth
e The faith of them of Pergamos is so much the more highly commended, because they remained constant even in the very heat of persecution * Num. 25. f That which is here spoken of things offered to idols, is meant of the same kind which Paul speaketh of, 1 Cor. 10. 14. 13 which follow the footsteps of Balaam, and such as were abandoned unto all filthiness: as he shewed in the vers aforegoing, and is here signified by a note of similitude. And thus also must the first vers be understood. For this matter especially, Irenæus must be consulted withal. 14 The conclusion, standing of exhortation as before, and of promise. 15 The bread of life, invisible, spiritual, and heavenly, which is kept secretly with God, from before all eternity. g He alludeth to that sermon which we read of, Joh. 6. and to the place we find, Psal. 105. 40. h Areias writeth, that such a stone was wont to be given to wrestlers at games, or else that such stones did in old time witness the quitting of a man. 16 which is a sign and witness of forgiveness and remission of sins, of righteousness and true holiness, and of purity incorrupted, after that the old man is killed, 17 A sign and testimony of newness of life in righteousness and true holiness, by putting on the new man, whom none doth inwardly know, save the spirit of man, which is in himself, the praise whereof is not of men, but of God. Rom. 2. vers 28. 18 The fourth place is unto the pastours of Thyatira. The exordium is taken out of the fourteenth and fifteenth verses of the first chapter. 19 The proposition of praise is in this vers of reprehension, for that they tolerated with them the doctrin of unrighteousness and ungodliness, in vers. 20 the authors whereof, though they were called back of God, repented not, vers. 21 whereunto is added a most heavy threatning, vers 22. & 23. of a conditional promise, and of exhortation to hold fast the truth, in the two verses following. i So he calleth those offices of charity which are don to the Saints. * 1 Kings 16. 31.

pheteſs,

phetess, to teach and to seduce my servants to commit [k] fornication, and to eat things sacrificed unto idols.

21 And I gave her space to repent of her fornication, and she repented not.

22 Behold, I will cast her into a bed, and them that commit adultery with her into great tribulation, except they repent of their deeds.

23 And I will kill her children with death, and all the churches shall know that * I am he which searcheth the reins and hearts: and I will give unto every one of you according to your works.

24 But unto you I say, and unto the rest in Thyatira, as many as have not this doctrin, and which have not known the [l] depths of Satan, as they speak, I will [m] put upon you none other burden:

25 But that which ye have already, hold fast till I come.

26 [20] And he that overcometh, and keepeth my works unto the end, to him will I give [21] power over the nations:

27 (* And he shall rule them with a rod of iron: as the vessels of a poter shall they be broken to shivers) even as I received of my Father.

28 And I will give him the [22] morning-star.

Chap. III.

1 The angel of the church of Sardis is reproved, 3 exhorted to repent, and threatned if he do not repent. 8 The angel of the church of Philadelphia 10 is approved for his diligence and patience. 15 The angel of Laodicea is rebuked, for being neither hot nor cold, 19 and admonished to be more zealous. 20 Christ standeth at the door, and knocketh.

AND [1] unto the angel of the church in [2] Sardis write, These things saith he that hath the seven spirits of God, and the seven stars, [2] I know thy works, that thou hast a [b] name that thou livest, and art dead.

2 Be watchful, and strengthen the things which remain, that are [c] ready to die: for I have not found thy works perfect before God:

3 Remember therefore how thou hast received and heard, and hold fast, and repent. * If therefore thou shalt not watch, I will come on thee as a thief, and thou shalt not know what hour I will come upon thee.

4 Thou hast a few names even in Sardis, which have [3] not defiled their garments, and they shall walk with me in [4] white: [5] for they are [d] worthy.

1 The fift place is unto the pastors of Sardis. The exordium is taken out of the 4 and 16 verses of the first chapter.

2 Sardis is the name of a most flourishing and famous city, where the kings of Lydia kept their courts.

2 The proposition of the proof is in this vers: of exhortation joyned with a threatning in the two verses that follow, and of qualification by way of correction, unto the comfort of the good which yet remained there, vers. 2.

b Thou art said to live, but art dead indeed.

c Other things, whose state is such, that they are now going, and unless they be confirmed, will perish forwith. * 1 Thess. 5. 2. 2 Petr. 3. 10. 3 That is, who have with all religion guarded themselves from sin and contagion, even from the very shew of evil, as Saint Jude exhorteth, vers. 23. 4 Pure from all spot, and shining with glory. So it is to be understood always hereafter, as in the next vers 5 The conclusion standing upon a promise and a commandment, as before. d They are meet and fit, to wit, because they are justified in Christ, as they have truly shewed it: for he is righteous that worketh righteousness; but so as the tree bringeth forth the fruit, Look Rom. 8. 18.

5 He that overcometh; the same shall be clothed in white raiment, and I will not blot out his name out of the * book of life, but I will confess his name before my father, and before his angels.

6 He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches.

7 ¶ [6] And to the angel of the church in Philadelphia write, These things saith he that is holy, he that is true, he that hath the [e] key of David, he that openeth, and no man shutteth; and shutteth, and no man openeth;

8 [7] I know thy works: behold I have set before thee an open door, and no man can shut it: for thou hast a little strength, and hast kept my word, and hast not denyed my name.

9 Behold, I will make them [f] of the synagogue of Satan (which say they are Jews, and are not, but do ly) behold, I will make them to come and [g] worship before thy feet, and to know that I have loved thee.

10 Because thou hast [8] kept the word of my patience, I also will keep thee from the hour of temptation, which shall come upon all the world, to try them that dwell upon the earth.

11 Behold, I come quickly: hold that fast which thou hast, that no man take thy crown.

12 [9] Him that overcometh, will I make a pillar in the temple of my God, and he shall go no more out: and I will [10] write upon him the name of my God, and the name of the city of my God, which is new Jerusalem, which cometh down out of heaven from my God: and I will write upon him my new name.

13 He that hath an ear, let him hear what the spirit saith unto the churches.

14 ¶ [11] And unto the angel of the church ‡ of the Laodiceans, write, These things saith the [h] Amen, the faithful and true witness, the [i] beginning of the creation of God, 15 [12] I know thy works, that thou art neither cold nor hot: I would thou wert cold or hot.

16 So then because thou art luke warm, and neither cold nor hot, I will spue thee out of my mouth.

17 Because thou sayest, I am rich, and increased with goods, and have need of nothing: and knowest not that thou art wretched, and miserable, and [13] poor, and blind, and naked.

18 I counsel thee to buy of me gold tried in the fire, that thou mayest be rich; and white raiment, that thou mayest be clothed, and that the shame of thy nakedness do not appear, and anoint thine eyes with eye-salve, that thou mayest see.

19 * As many as I love, I rebuke and chasten, be [k] zealous therefore and repent.

20 Behold, I stand at the door, and knock: [14] if any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me.

* Phil. 4. 3. Chap. 20. 12.

6 The fixt place is unto the pastors of Philadelphia. The exordium is taken out of the 18 vers of the first chapter.

e All power of rule in commanding and forbidding in delivering and punishing And the house of David is the church, and the continuall promise of Davids kingdom belongeth to Christ.

7 The proposition of praise is in this vers: of promises, to bring home again them that wander, vers. 9. and to preserve the godly, vers. 10 and of exhortation, vers. 11.

f I will bring them of that race.

8 That is, fall down & worship, either thee civilly, or Christ religiously at thy feet (and thus I had rather take it) whether here in the church (which seemeth more proper to the argument of this place) or there in the world to come. For Christ verily shall fulfill his word.

g Because thou hast been patient and constant, as I would my servants should be.

9 The conclusion which containeth a promise and commandment.

10 That is, The new man shall be termed after his father, mother, and head, Christ.

11 The seventh place is unto the pastors of the church of Laodicea. The exordium is taken out of the 15 vers of the first chapter.

‡ Or, in Laodicea.

h Amen, soundeth as much in the Hebrew tongue, as Truly, or Truth it self.

12 The proposition of reproof is in this vers. whereunto is adjoyned a threatning, vers. 16. with a confirmation declaring the same, vers. 17. and of exhortation, unto faith and repentance, vers. 18. 19. whereunto is adjoyned a conditionall promise, vers 20.

13 The spirituall misery of men is metaphorically expressed in three points: unto which are matched, as correspondent, those remedies which are offered, vers. 18. Hebr. 12. 5. k Zeal is set against them which are neither hot nor cold. taken after the manner of an allegory, as John. 14. 23.

12 The conclusion consisting of a promise, as chap. 2. vers. 26. and of an exhortation. hitherto hath been the first part of the book of the Apocalyps.

CHAP. IV.

2 John seeth the throne of God in heaven. 4 The four and twenty elders. 6 The four beasts full of eyes before and behind. 10 The elders lay down their crowns, and worship him that sat on the throne.

AFter 1 this I looked, and behold, a door was opened in heaven: and the first voice which I heard, was as it were of a trumpet talking with me, which said, Come up hither, and I will shew thee things which must be hereafter.

2 And 2 immediately I was in the 3 spirit: 3 and behold, a throne was set in heaven, and one sat on the throne,

3 4 And he that sat, was to look upon like a jasper, and a sardin stone: and there was a rain-bow round about the throne, in sight like unto an emerald.

4 5 And round about the throne were four and twenty seats, and upon the seats I saw four and twenty elders sitting, clothed in white raiment, and they had on their heads crowns of gold.

5 6 And out of the throne proceeded lightnings, and thundrings, and voices: and there were seven lamps of fire burning before the throne, which are the seven spirits of God.

6 - And before the throne there was a sea of glass like unto crystal: and in the midst of the throne, and round about the throne, were four beasts full of eyes before and behind.

7 And the first beast was like a lion, and the second beast like a calf, and the third beast had a face as a man, and the fourth beast was like a flying eagle.

8 And the b four beasts had each of them six wings about him, and they were full of eyes within, and † they rest not 8 day and night, saying, * Holy, holy, holy, Lord God Almighty, which was, and is, and is to come.

9 And when those beasts give c glory, and honour, and thanks to him that sat on the throne, who liveth for ever, and ever,

10 9 The four and twenty elders fall down before him that sat on the throne, and worship him that liveth for ever and ever, and cast their crowns before the throne, saying,

11 10 * Thou art worthy, O Lord, to 11 receive glory, and honour, and power: for thou hast created all things, and for thy pleasure they are and were created.

1 Hereafter followeth the second part of this book, altogether prophetical, foretelling those things which were to come, as was said before, chap. 1. 19. This is divided into two histories: one common unto the whole world, unto the 9 chapter: and another singular of the church of God thence unto the 22 chap. and these histories are said to be described in severall books, chap. 5. 1. & 10. vers. 2. Now this first vers. is as it were a passage from the former part unto the second: where it is said, that the heaven was opened, that is, that heavenly things were unlocked, and that a voice of a trumpet sounded in heaven, to stir up the apostle, and call him to the understanding of things to come. The first history hath two parts: one of the causes of things don, and of this whole Revelation, in this and the next chapter. Another of the acts don in the next four chapters. The principall causes according to the distinction of persons in the unity of the divine essence, and according to the œconomie or dispensation thereof, are two: one the beginning which none shall approach unto, that is, God the father, of whom is spoken in this chapter. The other, the Son, who is the meanes cause, easy to be approached unto, in respect that he is God and man in person, of whom, Chap. 5. 2 The manner of Revelation, as before, 1. 10. a Look chap. 1. 10. 3 A description of God the father, and of his glory in the heavens, framed unto the manner of men by his office, nature, company attendance, effect instruments, and events that follow afterwards. In this vers he is presented in office a Judge, as Abraham said, Gen. 18. which is declared by his throne, as an ensign of judgment, and his sitting thereupon. 4 By his nature, in that he is the father, most glorious in his own person, and with his glory overshining all other things. 5 By the company attending about him. in that, as that most high Judge, he is accompanied with the most honorable attendance of prophets and apostles, both of the old & new church, when Christ hath made to be priests and kings, Chap. 1. 6. & 5. 10. 6 By effects, in that most mightily he maketh all things by his voice, and word, as Psal 29. 3. and with the light of his spirit and prudence perusseth and passeth through all. 7 By instruments used, in that he both hath a most ready treasury, and as it were a work-house excellently furnished with all things, unto the executing of his will, which things flow from his commandment, as is repeated, Chap. 15. 2. and hath also the angels most ready administers of his counsels and pleasure, unto all parts of the world, continually watching (in this vers) working by reason, otherwise than the instruments without life last mentioned, courageous as lions, mighty as buls, wise as men, swift as eagles, vers. 7 most apt unto all purposes, as furnished with wings on every part, most piercing of sight, and finally, pure and holy spirits always in continual motion, vers. 8. b Every beast had six wings † Or, they have no rest. 8 By events, in that for all the causes before mentioned, God is glorified, both of angels, as holy, Judge, omnipotent, eternall, and immutable vers. 8. and also after their example, he is glorified of holy men, vers. 9. in sign and in speech, vers. 10. 11. * Isa 6. 3. c God is said to have glory, honour kingdom, and such like given unto him, when we godly and reverently set forth that which is properly and onely his. 9 Three signs of divine honour given unto God: prostration or falling down, adoration and casting their crowns before God: in which the godly, though made kings by Christ, do willingly empty themselves of all glory, moved with a religious respect of the majesty of God.

10 The sum of their speech: that all glory must be given unto God: the reason, because he is the eternall beginning of things, from whose onely will they have their being, and are governed: and finally, in all respect are that which they are. * Chap. 5. 12. 11 That is, that thou shouldst challenge the same of thy self alone, But as for us we are unworthy, that even by thy goodness we should be made partakers of this glory. And hitherto hath been handled the principall cause unapproachable, which is God.

CHAP. V.

1 The book sealed with seven seals: 5, 6, 7 which onely the Lamb that was slain is worthy to open. 8 Therefore the elders praise him, 9 and confess that he redeemed them with his bloud.

AND 1 I saw in the 2 right hand of him that sat on the throne, a 3 book written within, and on the backside sealed with seven seals.

2 And I saw a strong angel proclaiming with a loud voice, Who is worthy to open the book and to loose the seals thereof?

3 4 And no man in heaven, nor in earth, neither under the earth, was able to open the book, neither to look thereon.

4 And I wept much because no man was found worthy to open, and to read the book, neither to look thereon.

5 5 And one of the elders saith unto me, Weep not: behold, * the 6 lion of the tribe of Judah, the root of David, hath prevailed to open the book, and to loose the seven seals thereof.

6 And I beheld, and lo, in the 7 midst of the throne, and of the four beasts, and in the midst of the elders stood a Lamb as it had been slain, having seven horns, and seven eyes, which are the seven spirits of God sent forth into all the earth.

7 8 And he came and took the book out of the right hand of him that sat upon the throne.

8 9 And when he had taken the book, the four beasts, and four and twenty elders fell down before the Lamb, having every one of them 10 harps, and golden vials full of ‡ odours, which are the a prayers of saints.

9 And they sung a b new 11 song, saying, 12 Thou art worthy to take the book, and to open the seals thereof: for thou wast slain, and hast redeemed

1 A passing unto the second principall cause, which is the Son of God, God and man, the mediator of all, as the eternall word of God the Father, manifested in the flesh. This chapter hath two parts: one that prepareth the way unto the Revelation, by rehearsal of the occasions that did occur in the first 4 verses. Another the History of the Revelation of Christ, thence unto the end of the chapter. 2 That is, in the very right hand of God. 3 Here are shewed the occasions for which the principall cause, and this Revelation was also necessary: the same are three, the first a present vision of the book of the counsels of GOD, concerning the government of this whole world, which book is said to be laid up with the Father as it were in his hand: but shut and unknown to all creatures, in this vers. The second is a religious desire of the angels of God to understand the mysteries of this book, vers. 2, whereof see 1 Pet. 1. 12. The third is a lamentation of S. John and all the godly, moved by the same desire, vers. 4. when they saw that it was a thing unpossible for any creature to effect: which is declared in vers. 5. 4 Thus neither of them that are in heaven, nor of them which are in the earth, &c. And this I like better. Now this enumeration of parts is sufficient to the denying of the whole: For of the creatures, one sort is in heaven, above the earth: another in the earth, and another under the earth in the sea, as is afterward declared, Vers. 13. 5 The second part of this chapter, in which is set down the Revelation of the Son, as before was said. This part containeth first an history, of the manner how God prepared S. John to understand this Revelation, in this vers Secondly, the Revelation of the Son himself, unto the 7 vers. Thirdly, the accidents of this Revelation, in the rest of the chapter. The manner how, is here described in two sorts: one from without him, by speech, in this vers: another within, by opening the eyes of S. John (which before were held) that he might see, in the vers following. * Gen. 49. 9. 6 That is, the most mighty and most approved prince: according to the use of the Hebrew speech. 7 The sum of this Revelation, Christ the mediator taketh and openeth the book, vers. 6. 7. Therefore in this Revelation is described the person of Christ, in this vers. His fact in the next vers. The person is thus described: Christ the mediator between God, angels, and men, as the eternall word of God, and our redeemer; as the Lamb of God, standing as slain, and making intercession for us by the vertue and merit of his everlasting sacrifice, as armed with the spirit of God in his own person, that is, with the power and wisdom of God effectually unto the government of this whole world. 8 The fact of Christ the Mediator: that he cometh unto the throne of the father, of which chap. 4. and taketh the book out of his hand to open it. For that he opened it, it is first expressed, chap. 6 1. &c 9 Now follow in the end the accidents of the Revelation last spoken of: that all the holy angels and men did sing unto him: both the chief, vers. 9, 10. and the common order of angels, vers 11, 12. and of all things created, vers. 13. the princes of both sorts agreeing thereunto, vers. 14. 10 The symbol, or signs of praise, sweet in savour and acceptable unto God, see chap. 8 3. ‡ Or, incense. a Look chap. 8. 3. b No common song. 11 That is, composed according to the present matter, the Lamb having received the book as it were with his feet, and opened it with his horns, as it is said in the Canticle. 12 The song of the nobles or princes standing by the throne, consisting of a publication of the praise of Christ, and confirmation of the same from his benefits, both which we have received of himself (as are the sufferings of his death, our redemption upon the cross by his bloud, in this vers: and our communion with him in kingdom and priesthood, which long ago he hath granted unto us with himself) and which we hereafter hope to obtain, as our kingdom to come in Christ, in the vers following.

deemed deemed us to God by thy bloud, out of every kindred, and tongue, and people, and nation:

* 1 Pet. 2. 9.

10 * And hast made us unto our God kings and priests, and we shall reign on the earth.

11 ¶ [13] And I beheld, and I heard the voice of many angels round about the throne, and the beasts, and the elders, [14] and the number of them was [c] ten thousand times ten thousand, and thousands of thousands,

12 Saying with a loud voice, Worthy is the Lamb that was slain, to [d] receive power, and riches, and wisdom, and strength, and honour, and glory, and blessing.

13 [15] And every creature which is in heaven, and on the earth, and under the earth, and such as are in the sea, and all that are in them, heard I, saying, Blessing, honour, glory, and power be unto him that sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb for ever and ever.

14 [16] And the four beasts said, Amen. And the four and twenty elders fell down and worshipped him that liveth for ever and ever.

13 The consent of the common order of angels, answering in melody unto their princes that stood by the throne.
14 A number finite, but almost infinite, or one infinite indeed, as Dan. 7. 10.
c By this is meant a great number.
d To have all praise given to him as to the mightiest and wisest, &c.
15 The consent of all the common multitude of the creatures.
16 A confirmation of the praise before going, from the contestation of the nobles, expressed in word and signs, as once or twice before this.

Chap. VI.

The opening of the seals in order, and what followed thereupon, containing a prophesy to the end of the world.

1 This is the second part of this first history (which I said was common, and of the whole world) of the works of God in the government of all things. Of this there are generally 3 members: the fore-signifying, the caution, and the execution of all the evils, which God poureth out upon this world, which hath most hardly deserved of him. The fore-signifying is set down in this chapter, the caution for preserving the church is in the next chapter, and the execution is described, chap. 8. 9. In every part of the foresignifying, there are three branches: the severall and expres calling of Saint John, to prepare himself to take knowledge of the things that were to be shewed unto him in the opening of the seals: the sign, and the word expounding the sign: And albeit the expres calling of S. John, be used onely in four of the signs, yet the same is also to be understood in the rest that follow. The author of the fore signifyings, is the lamb, as that word of the father made the Mediator, opening the seals of the book. The instruments are the angels in most of the visions, who expound the sign and the words thereof. Now this first vers containeth an expres calling of S. John to mark the opening of the first seal. 2 The first sign joyned with declaration is that God for the sins and horrible rebellion of the world, will invade the same: and first of all, will, as afar off, with his dart of pestilence most suddenly, mightily, and gloriously, beat down the same as Judge, and triumph over it as conquerour. 3 The second sign joyned with words of declaration (after the expres calling of S. John as before) is, that God being provoked unto wrath by the obstinacy and hard-heartednes of the world, not repenting for the former plague; as setting upon the same at hand, will kindle the fire of deare amongst men, and will destroy the inhabitants of this world, one by the sword of another. 4 The third sign with declaration, is, that God will destroy the world with famin, withdrawing all provision: which is by the figure synecdoche comprehended in wheat, barley, wine, and oil. ‡ The word chœnix signifieth a measure containing one wine quart, and the twelfth part of a quart. a Hereby is signified what great scarcity of corn there was, for the word here used, is a kind of measure of dry things, which is in quantity but the eight part of a bushel, which was an ordinary portion used to be given to servants for their stint of meat one day. 5 I had rather distinguish and read the words thus, and the wine and the oil: thou shalt not deal unjustly. In this sense likewise the oil and the wine shall be sold a very little for a peny. Thou shalt not deal unjustly, namely, when thou shalt measure out a very little for a great price: so is the place evident: otherwise that is most true, which the wise man saith, That who withholdeth the corn, shall be cursed of the people, Prov. 11. 26. 6 The fourth sign joyned with words of declaration is, that God will addict the fourth part of the world indifferently, unto death and hell, or the grave, by all those means at once, by which before severally and in order he had recalled their minds unto amendment. Unto these are also added the wild and cruel beasts of the earth, out of Lev. 26. 22. Thus doth God according to, his wisdom, dispense the treasures of his power, justly towards all, mercifully toward the good and with patience or long sufferance toward his enemies.

1 And I saw when the Lamb opened one of the seals, and I heard, as it were the noise of thunder, one of the four beasts, saying, Come, and see.

2 And I saw, and [2] behold, a white horse, and he that sat on him had a bow: and a crown was given unto him, and he went forth conquering, and to conquer.

3 [3] And when he had opened the second seal, I heard the second beast say, Come, and see.

4 And there went out another horse that was red: and power was given to him that sat thereon, to take peace from the earth, and that they should kill one another: and there was given unto him a great sword.

5 [4] And when he had opened the third seal, I heard the third beast say, Come, and see. And I beheld, and lo, a black horse, and he that sat on him had a pair of balances in his hand.

6 And I heard a voice in the midst of the four beasts say, ‡ [a] A measure of wheat for a peny, and three measures of barley for a peny, and see thou hurt not the [5] oyl and the wine.

7 [6] And when he had opened the fourth seal, I heard the voice of the fourth beast say, Come, and see.

8 And I looked, and behold, a pale horse, and his name that sat on him was Death, and hell followed with him: and power was given ‡ unto them over the fourth part of the earth to kill with sword, and with hunger, and with death, and with the beasts of the earth.

9 [7] And when he had opened the fifth seal, I saw under the altar the souls of them that were slain for the word of God, and for the testimony which they held.

10 And they cried with a loud voice, saying, How long, O Lord, holy and true, dost thou not judge and avenge our bloud on them that dwell on the earth?

11 And [8] white robes were given unto every one of them, and it was said unto them, that they should rest yet for a little season, untill their fellow-servants also, and their brethren that should be killed as they were, should be [b] fulfilled.

12 [9] And I beheld when he had opened the sixth seal, and lo, there was a great earthquake, and the sun became black as [c] sackcloth of hair, and the moon became as bloud:

13 And the stars of heaven fell unto the earth, even as a fig-tree casteth her ‡ untimely figs when she is shaken of a mighty wind.

14 * And the heaven departed as a scroll when it is rolled together, and every mountain and island were moved out of their places:

15 [10] And the kings of the earth, and the great men, and the rich men, and the chief captains, and the mighty men, and every bondman, and every freeman, hid themselvs in the dens, and in the rocks of the mountains,

16 And said to the mountains and rocks, [11] Fall on us, and hide us from the face of him that sitteth on the throne, and from the wrath of the Lamb:

17 For the great day of his wrath is come: and who shall be able to stand?

† Or, to him
7 The fifth sign is, that the holy martyrs which are under the altar, whereby they are sanctified, that is, received into the trust and tuition of Christ (into whose hands they are committed) shall cry out for the justice of God, in an holy zeal to advance his kingdom, and not of any private perturbation of the mind, in this and the next vers, and that God will in deep sign, and work comfort in them, vers. 11.
8 As before 3, 4.
b Untill their number be fulfilled.
9 The sixth sign, and the event. The sign is, that the earth, heaven, and the things that are in them, for horrour of the sins of the world upon these most heavy foretellings of God, and complaint of the Saints shall be shaken most vehemently, trembling in horrible manner, and losing their light, in this vers: falling from on high, vers 13. withdrawing themselvs, and flying away for the greatness of the trouble, vs. 14. So holily do all creatures depend upon the will of God, and content themselvs in his glory.
c So they called in old time those woven works that were of hair.
‡ Or, green figs
* Isa. 34. 4.
10 The event of the sign aforegoing: that there is no man that shall not be astonished at that generall commotion, flee away for fear, and hide himself, in this vers, and wish unto himself most bitter death, for exceeding horror of the wrath of God, and of the Lamb, at which before he was astonished. Now this perplexity is not of the godly, but of the wicked, whose portion is in this life, as the psalmist speaketh, Psal. 17. 14. Not that sorrow which is according unto God, which worketh repentance, unto salvation, whereof a man shall never repent him, but that worldly sorrow that bringeth death, 2 Cor. 7. 9. as their wishings do declare: for this history of the whole world, is severed from the history of the church, as I have shewed before, Chap. 4. 1, 11 These are words of such as despair of their escape: of which despair there are two arguments; the presence of God, and of the lamb provoked to wrath against the world, in this vers: and the conscience of their own weakness, whereby men feel that they are no way able to stand in the day of the wrath of God, vers. 17. as it is said, Esay 14. 27. Luke 23. 30.

Chap. VII.

3 An angel sealeth the servants of God in their foreheads. 4 The number of them that were sealed: of the tribes of Israel a certain number, 9 of all other nations an innumerable multitude, which stand before the throne, clad in white robes, and palms in their hands. 14 Their robes were washed in the bloud of the Lamb.

1 The second member of this part, is a preventing of danger, as we distinguished the same before, Chap. 6. 1. that is, of the caution whereby God took care before hand and provided for his, that after the example of the Israelites of old, Exod. 8. 23. the faithful might be exempted from that plague of this wicked world. This whole place is a certain interlocution and bringing in for this whole chapter by occasion of the prediction and argument of the sixt seal. For first, that evil is prevented in the elect, unto the 9 vers. Then, thanks are given by the elect for that, vers 10, 11, 12. Lastly, the accomplishment of the things is set forth unto the end of the chapter. The first vers is a transition, speaking of the angels which keep the inferiour parts from all evil, untill God do command. For (as it is excellently figured by Ezek. 1. vers. 11, 12.) their faces and their wings are reached upwards, continually waiting upon, and beholding the countenance of God for their direction, and every of them goeth not out of the way, that is, they depart not so much as a foot breadth from that path commanded them of God. a On the four quarters or coasts of the earth

1 And [1] after these things, I saw four angels standing on the [a] four corners of the earth, holding the four winds of the earth, that the wind should not blow on the earth, nor on the sea = nor on any tree.

2 [3] And I saw [4] another angel ascending from the east, having the seal of the living God: and he cried with a loud voice to the four angels, to whom it was given to hurt the earth and the sea,

3 Saying, Hurt not the earth, neither the sea, nor the trees, till we have sealed the servants of our God in their foreheads.

4 And I heard the number of them which were sealed: and there were sealed, [5] an hundred and forty and four thousand, of all the tribes of the children of Israel.

5 Of the tribe of Juda were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Reuben were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Gad were sealed twelve thousand.

6 Of the tribe of Aser were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Nephthalim were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Manasses were sealed twelve thousand.

7 Of the tribe of Simeon were sealed twelve thousand. [6] Of the tribe of [b] Levi were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Issachar were sealed twelve thousand.

8 Of the tribe of Zabulon were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of [c] Joseph were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Benjamin were sealed twelve thousand.

9 ¶ After this I beheld, and lo, a great multitude, which [7] no man could number, of all nations, and kindreds, and people, and tongues, [8] stood before the throne, and before the Lamb, clothed with white robes, and palms in their hands:

10 [9] And cryed with a loud voice, saying, Salvation to our God which sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb.

11 And all the angels stood round about the throne, and about the elders, and the four beasts, and fell before the throne on their faces, and worshipped God, 12 Saying, Amen: Blessing, and glory, and wisdom, and thanksgiving, and honour, and power, and might be unto our God for ever and ever. Amen.

13 [10] And one of the elders answered, saying unto me, What are these which are arayed in white robes? and whence came they?

14 And I said unto him, Sir, thou knowest. And he said to me, [11] These are they which came out of great tribulation, and have washed their robes, and made them white in the bloud of the Lamb.

15 Therefore are they before the throne of God, and serve him [d] day and night in his temple: and he that sitteth on the throne shall * dwell [e] among them.

16 * They shall hunger no more, neither thirst any more, neither shall the sun light on them, nor any heat.

17 For the Lamb which is in the midst of the throne, shall feed them, and shall lead them unto living fountains of waters: * and God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes.

Chap. VIII.

1 At the opening of the seventh seal, 2 seven angels had seven trumpets given them. 6 Four of them sound their trumpets, and great plagues follow. 3 Another angel putteth incense to the prayers of the saints on the golden altar.

And [1] when he had opened the seventh seal, there was silence in heaven about the space of half an hour.

2 [2] And I saw the seven angels which [a] stood before God, and to them were given seven trumpets.

3 [3] And another angel came and stood at the altar, having a golden censer, and there was given unto him much incense, that he should ‡ offer it with the prayers of all saints upon the golden altar, which was before the throne.

4 And the smoke of the incense which came with the prayers of the saints, [b] ascended up before God, out of the angels hand.

5 And the angel took the censer, and filled it with fire of the altar, and cast it into the earth: and there were voices, and thundrings, and lightnings, and an earthquake.

6 [4] And the seven angels which had the seven trumpets, prepared themselvs to sound.

7 [5] The first angel sounded, & there followed hail, and fire mingled with bloud, and they were cast upon the earth, and the third part

3 Now God provideth against the danger of his elect, by his commandment, vers. 2, & 3. and by sign or figure, both for those of the nation of the Jews, thence unto the 8 vers, and also of the Gentiles, vers. 9.

4 Not onely another, or differing in number from the common angels of God, but also in essence, office and operation exceeding all angels, that is, Christ Jesus the eternall angel or word of God, and mediator of the covenant. So hereafter chap. 8. 3. & 10. 5.

5 That is, of the Jews, a number certain in it self before God, and such as may be numbred of us: for which cause also the same is here set down as certain. But of the elect, which are of the Gentiles, the number indeed is in it self certain with God, but of us not possibly to be numbered, as God, Gen. 15. 5. and often elsewhere, and Esay figured most excellently, chap. 49. & 60. This therefore is spoken with respect, when a certain number is put for an uncertain. Confer this with vers. 9.

6 Here the tribe of Levi is reckoned up in common with the rest, because all the Israelites were equally made priests with them in Christ by his priest-hood, Chap. 1. 6. & 5. 10. Rom. 12. 1. & 1 Petr. 2. 9. The name of Dan is not mentioned, because the Danites long before forsaking the worship of God, were fallen away from the fellowship of Gods people, unto the part of the Gentiles: which evil many ages before Jacob foresaw, Gen. 49. vers. 18. for which cause also there is no mention made of this tribe in the first book of the Chronicles.

b He skipped Dan, and reckoneth Levi.

c Of Ephraim who was Josephs other son, and had the birthright given him, whereof he is called Joseph.

7 See before upon the 4 vers.

8 As priests, kings, and glorious conquerours by martyrdom: which things are noted by their proper signs in this vers.

9 The praise of God, celebrated first by the holy men in this vers, then by the heavenly angels, in the two verses following.

10 A passage over unto the expounding of the vision, of which the angel enquireth of S. John to stir him up withall, in this vers, and John in the form of speech, both acknowledgeth his own ignorance, attributing knowledge unto the angel, and also in most modest manner requesteth the expounding of the vision.

11 The exposition of the vision, wherein the angel telleth first the Acts of the Saints, that is, their sufferings and work of faith in Christ Jesus, in this vers. Secondly, their glory, both present, which consisteth in two things, that they minister unto God, and that God protecteth them, vers. 15. and to come in their perfect deliverance from all annoyances, vers. 16 and in participation of all good things, which even the memory of former evils shall never be able to diminish, vers. 17. The cause efficient, and which containeth all these things, is onely one, even the Lamb of God, the Lord, the Mediator, and the Saviour Jesus Christ.

d He alludeth to the Levites, which served day and night, for else there is no night in heaven.

* Chap. 21 3.

e Or, upon them, whereby is meant Gods defence and protection, as it were, toward them, who are as safe, as men in the Lords tents.

* Isa. 49. 10.

* Isa. 25. 8. Chap. 21. 4.

1 He returneth to the history of the seals of the book, which the Lamb opened. The seventh seal is the next foresignification, and a precise commandment of the execution of the most heavy judgements of God upon this wicked world, which foresignification being understood by the seal, all things in heaven are silent, and in horrour through, admination, untill commandment of execution be severally given of God unto the ministers of his wrath. So he passeth unto the third member, of which I spake before in Chap. 6. vers. 1. which is of the execution of those evils wherewith God most justly determined to afflict the world.

2 Now followeth the third branch of the common history, as even now I said: which is the execution of the judgements of God upon the world. This is the first, generally prepared unto the 6 vers: then by severall parts expounded according to the order of those that administred the same unto the end of the chapter following. Unto the preparation, of this execution, are declared these things: first, who are the administers and instruments thereof in this vers. Secondly, what is the work both of the prince and angels, giving order for this execution, thence unto the 5 vers, and of his administers in the 6 vers. The administers of the execution are said to be seven angels: their instruments, trumpets, whereby they should, as it were, sound the alarm at the commandment of God. They are propounded seven in number, because it pleased God not at once to pour out his wrath upon the rebellious world, but at divers times, and by piece-meal, and in slow order, and as with an unwilling mind to exercise his judgments upon his creatures so long called upon both by word and figures, if happily they had learned to repent.

a which appeareth before him as his ministers

3 This is that great Emperour the Lord Jesus Christ, our King and Saviour, who both maketh intercession to God the father for the Saints, filling the heavenly sanctuary with most sweet odour, and offering up their prayers, as the calvs and burnt sacrifices of their lips, in this vers: in such sort as every one of them (so powerful is that sweet savour of Christ, and the efficacy of his sacrifice) are held in reconcilement with God and themselvs, made most acceptable unto him, vers 4. And then also out of his treasury, and from the same sanctuary poureth forth upon the world the fire of his wrath, adding also divine tokens thereunto: and by that means (as of old the heralds of Rome were wont to do) he proclaimeth war against the rebellious world.

‡ Or, add it to the prayers

b Our prayers are nothing worth unless that true and sweet savour of that onely oblation be especially and before all things with them, that is to say, unless we being first of all justified through faith in his Son be acceptable unto him.

4 This is the work of the administers. The angels the administers of Christ, onely by sounding trumpet and voyce (for they are onely as heralds) do effectually call forth the instruments of the wrath of God, through his power. Hitherto have been things general Now followeth the narration of things particular, which the angels fix in number wrought in their order, set out in the 10 vers of the next chapter, and is concluded with the declaration of the event which followed upon these things don in the worlds end, in the 10 and 11 chapters.

5 The first execution at the sound of the first angel, upon the earth, that is, the inhabitants of the earth (by metonymy) and upon all the fruits thereof: as the comparing of this vers with the second member of the 9 vers doth not obscurely declare.

of trees was burnt up, and all green grass was burnt up.

6 The second execution upon the sea, in this vers, and all things that are therein, in the next vers.

8 6 And the second angel sounded, and as it were a great mountain burning with fire was cast into the sea, and the third part of the sea became bloud:

9 And the third part of the creatures which were in the sea, and had life, died, and the third part of the ships were destroyed.

7 The third execution upon the flouds and fountains, that is, upon all fresh waters, in this vers: the effect whereof is, that many are destroyed with the bitterness of waters, in the vers following.

10 7 And the third angel sounded, & there fell a great star from heaven, burning as it were a lamp, and it fell upon the third part of the rivers, and upon the fountains of waters.

11 And the name of the star is called 8 Wormwood, and the third part of the waters became wormwood, and many men died of the waters, because they were made bitter.

8 This is spoken by a metaphor, of the name of a most bitter herb, and commonly known: unless perhaps a man following those that note the derivation of words had rather expound it adjectively, for that which by reason of bitterness cannot be drunk, or which maketh the liquor into which it is powred more bitter, than that any man can drink the same.

12 9 And the fourth angel sounded, and the third part of the sun was smitten, and the third part of the moon, and the third part of the stars, so as the third part of them was darkened: and the day shone not for a third part of it, and the night likewise.

9 The fourth execution upon these lightsom bodies of heaven, which minister unto this inferiour world.

13 And I beheld, and heard an angel flying through the midst of heaven, saying with a loud voice, 10 Wo, wo, wo to the inhabiters of the earth, by reason of the other voices of the trumpet of the three angels which are yet to sound.

10 A lamentable prediction or foretelling of those parts of the divine execution which yet are behind, which also is a passage unto the argument of the next chapter. Of all these things in a manner, Christ himself expressly foretold in the 21 chapter of S. Luke, vers. 24, &c. and they are common plagues generally denounced, without particular note of time.

Chap. IX.

1 At the sounding of the fifth angel, a star falleth from heaven, to whom is given the key of the bottomless pit. 2 He openeth the pit, and there come forth locusts like scorpions. 12 The first wo past. 13 The sixth trumpet soundeth. 14 Four angels are let loose, that were bound.

1 The fift execution upon the wicked men inhabiting the earth (as a little before the angel said) wrought by the infernal powers, is declared in this place unto vers. 11. and after the sixt executing thence unto vers. 19. And lastly, is shewed the common event that followed the former in the two last verses.

AND 1 the fifth angel sounded, and I saw a 2 star fall from heaven unto the earth: and 3 to him was given the key of the 4 bottomless pit.

2 4 And he opened the bottomless pit, and there arose a smoke out of the pit, as the smoke of a great furnace, and the sun and the air were darkened, by reason of the smoke of the pit.

2 That is, that the angel of God glittering with glory, as a star fell down from heaven. whether thou takest him for Christ, who hath the keys of hell of himself, and by princely authority, Chap. 1. vers. 18. or whether for some inferiour angel, who hath the same key permitted unto him, and occupieth it ministerially, or by office of his ministery here, and chap. 21. so the word, falling is taken, Gen. 14. 10. & 24. vers. 46. & Hebr. 6. 6.

3 The key was given to this star. For those powers of wickedness are thrust down into hell, and bound with chains of darkness; and are there kept unto damnation, unless God for a time do let them loose, 2 Pet. 2. 4. Jude 6. and of this book, Chap. 21. 20. the history of which chapters hath agreement of time with this present chapter.

4 By the bottomless pit, he meaneth the deepest darkness of hell. 4 Unto this is added, the smoke of the hellish and infernal spirits, all dark, and darkening all things in heaven and in earth, the spiritual darknesses are the causes of all disorder and confusion. For the devil at a certain time (whereof vers the fift) sent these darknesses into his kingdom, that he might at once and with one impression overthrow all things, and pervert, if it were possible, the elect themselvs. By this darkness, all spiritual light, both active as of the sun, and passive, as of the air which is lightened by the sun, is taken away: and this is that which goeth before the spirits: it followeth of the spirits themselvs.

3 5 And there came out of the smoke locusts upon the earth, and unto them was given power, as the scorpions of the earth have power.

4 6 And it was commanded them that they should not hurt the grass of the earth, neither any green thing, neither any tree, but onely those men which have not the seal of God in their foreheads.

5 And to them it was given that they should not kill them, but that they should be tormented five moneths: and their torment was as the torment of a scorpion, when he striketh a man.

6 And in those days shall men seek death, and shall not find it, and shall desire to die, and death shall flee from them.

7 7 And the shapes of the locusts were like unto horses prepared unto battel, and on their heads were as it were crowns like gold, and their faces were as the faces of men.

8 And they had hair as the hair of women, and their teeth were as the teeth of lions.

9 And they had breast-plates, as it were breast-plates of iron, and the sound of their wings was as the sound of chariots of many horses running to battel.

10 And they had tails like unto scorpions, and there were stings in their tails, and their power was to hurt men five moneths.

11 8 And they had a king over them, which is the angel of the bottomless pit, whose name in the Hebrew tongue is Abaddon, but in the Greek tongue hath his name ‡ Appollyon.

5 A description of the malignant spirits invading the world, taken from their nature, power, form, and order. From their nature, for that they are like unto certain locusts, in quickness, subtilty, hurtfulness, number, and such like, in this vers. From their power, for that they are as the scorpions of the earth of secret force to do hurt: for our battel is not here with flesh and bloud, but with powers, &c. Ephes. 6. 12. This place of the power of the devils generally noted in this vers, is particularly declared afterwards in the three next verses.

6 Here that power of the devils is particularly described according to their actions and the effects of the same. Their actions are said to be bounded by the counsel of God: both because they hurt not all men, but onely the reprobate (for the godly and elect in whom their part is any of a better life, God guardeth by his decree) whom Christ shall not have sealed, in this vers: and also because they neither had all power, nor at all times, no not over those that are their own, but limited in manner and time, by the prescript of God, vers. 5. So their power to afflict the godly is none, and for the wicked it is limited in act and in effect by the will of God: for the manner was prescribed unto them, that they should not slay, but torment the wretched world. The time is for five moneths, or for a hundred and fifty days, that is, for so many years, in which the devils have indeed mightily perverted all things in the world: and yet without that publick and unpunished licence of killing, which afterwards they usurped, when the sixt angel had blown his trumpet, as shall be said upon vers. 13. Now this space is to be accounted from the end of the thousand years, mentioned Chap. 20. 3. and that is from the popedom of that Gregory the 7. a most monstrous necromancer, who before was called Hildebrandus Senensis: for this man being made altogether of impiety and wickedness, as a slave of the devil, whom he served, was the most wicked firebrand of the world: he excommunicated the emperour Henry the fourth: went about by all manner of treachery to set up and put down empires and kindoms as liked himself, and doubted not to set Rodolph the Sweden over the empire in stead of Henry before named, sending unto him a crown, with this verse annexed unto it: Petra dedit Petro, Petrus diadema Rodolpho: That is, the rock to Peter gave the crown, and Peter Rodolph doth renown. Finally, he so finally, bestirred himself in his affairs, as he miserably set all Christendom on fire, and conveyed over unto his successors the burning brand of the same: who enraged with like ambition, never ceased to nourish that flame, and to enkindle it more and more: whereby cities, common-weals, and whole kingdoms set together by the ears amongst themselvs by most expert cut-throats, came to ruin, whiles they miserably wounded one another. This term of an hundred and fifty years, taketh end in the time of Gregory the 9. or Hugolinus Anagnitensis (as he was before called) who caused to be compiled by one Raimond his chaplain and confessour, the body of decretals, and by sufferance of the kings and princes, to be published in the Christian world, and established for a law: for by this slight at length the popes arrogated unto themselvs licence to kill whom they would, whiles others were unwares: and without fear established a butchery out of many of the wicked canons of decretals, which the trumpet of the fift angel had expressly forbidden, and had hindered until this time. The effects of these bloudy actions are declared upon he sixt vers: that the miserable world languishing in so great calamities, should willingly run together unto death, and prefer the same before life, by reason of the grievousness of the miseries that oppressed them. 7 The form of these hellish spirits and administers is shadowed out by signs and visible figures in this sort: that they are very expert and swift: that whersoever they are in the world, the kingdom is theirs: that they manage all their affairs with cunning and skil in this vers: that making shew of mildness and tender affection to draw on men withall, they most impudently rage in all mischief: that they are most mighty to do hurt, vers. 8 that they are freed from being hurt of any man, as armed with the colour of religion and sacred authority or priviledge: that they fill all things with horrour, vers the 9. that they are fraudulent: that they are venemous and extremely noysom, though their power be limited, vers. 10. All which things are properly in the infernal powers, and communicated by them unto their ministers and vassals. 8 The order of the powers of maliciousness: that they are subject to one infernal king, whom thou mayest call in English, The destroyer: who driveth that whole world both Jews and Gentiles into the destruction that belongeth unto himself. And I cannot tell whether this name have respect unto the Etymologicall interpretation of Hildebrand, by a figure often used in the holy scripture: which albeit it may otherwise be turned of the Germans (as the sence of compound words is commonly ambiguous) yet in very deed it signifieth as much as if thou shouldest call, The firebrand, that is, he that setteth on fire those that be faithful unto him. ‡ That is to say, a destroyer:

12 [9] One wo is paſt, and behold there come two wo's more hereafter.

13 [10] And the ſixth angel ſounded, and I [11] heard a voice from the [b] four horns of the golden altar, which is before God,

14 Saying to the ſixth angel which had the trumpet, [12] Looſe the four angels which are bound in the great river Euphrates.

15 [13] And the four angels were looſed, which were prepared ‡ for an hour, and a day, and a moneth, and a year, for to ſlay the third part of men.

16 And the number of the army of the horſmen were two hundred thouſand thouſand: and I heard the number of them.

17 And thus I ſaw the horſes in the viſion, and them that ſat on them, having breaſt-plates of fire, and of jacinct, and brimſtone, and the heads of the horſes were as the heads of lions, and out of their mouths iſſued fire, and ſmoke, and brimſtone.

18 By theſe three was the third part of men killed, by the fire, and by the ſmoke, and by the brimſtone, which iſſued out of their mouths.

19 For their power is in their mouth, and in their tails, [14] for their tails were like unto ſerpents, and had heads, and with them they do hurt.

20 [15] And the reſt of the men which were not killed by theſe plagues, yet repented not of the works of their hands, that they ſhould not worſhip devils, * and idols of gold and ſilver, and braſs, and ſtone, and of wood, which neither can ſee, nor hear, nor walk:

21 Neither repented they of their murders, nor of their ſorceries, nor of their fornication, nor of their thefts.

9 A paſſage unto the next point and the hiſtory of the time following.

10 The ſixt execution don upon the world by the tyranical powers thereof, working in the four parts of the earth, that is, in moſt cruel manner executing their tyrannous dominionthrough the whole world: and killing the miſerable people without punihment, which before was not lawful for them to do in that ſort, as I ſhewed upon the fourth vers. This narration hath two parts: a commandment from God, in the 14 vers, and an execution of the commandment, in the vers following.

11 The commandment given by Chriſt himſelf, who is governour over all b He alludeth to the altar of incenſe, which ſtood in the court which the prieſts were in over againſt the ark of the covenant, having a vail betwixt them.

12 As if he ſhould have ſaid, theſe hitherto have been ſo bound by the power of God, that they ſhould not freely run upon all men as themſelvs luſted, but were ſtayed and reſtrained at that great floud of Euphrates, that is, in their ſpiritual Babylon (for this is a periphraſis of the ſpiritual Babylon, by the limits of the viſible Babylon long ſince overthrown) that they might not commit thoſe horrible ſlaughters, which they long breathed after. Now, go to, let looſe thoſe four angels, that is, adminiſters of the wrath of God, in that number that is convenient for the ſlaughtering of the four quarters of the world: ſtir them up, and give them the bridle, that rushing out of that Babylon of theirs, which is the ſeat of the wicked ones, they may flee upon all the world: therein to rage, and moſt licentiouſly to practiſe their tyranny, as God hath ordained. This was don when Gregory the ninth by publique authority ſtabliſhed for law, his own decretals, by which he might freely lay trains for the life of ſimple men. For who is that that ſeeth not the laws decretals, moſt of them as ſnares to catch ſouls withal? Since that time (O good God) how great ſlaughters have been? how great maſſacres? All hiſtories are full of them: and this our age aboundeth with moſt horrible and monſtrous examples of the ſame. 13 The execution of the commandment is in two points: one, that thoſe butchers are let looſe, that out of their tower of the ſpiritual Babylon they might with fury run abroad through all the world, as well the chief of that crew which are moſt prompt unto all aſſays, in this vers, as their multitudes both moſt copious of which a number certain is named for a number infinite, verſ. 16. and in themſelvs by all means fully furniſhed to hide and to hurt, vers the 17. as being armed with fire, ſmoke and brimſtone, as appeareth in the colour of this armour, which dazleth the eyes of all men, and have the ſtrength of lyons to hurt withal, from which (as out of their mouth) the fiery, ſmoky, and ſtinking darts of the pope are ſhot out, verſ 18. The other point is, that theſe butchers have effected the commandment of God by fraud and violence, in the two verſes following. ‡ Or, as 14 That is, they are harmful every way: on what part ſoever thou putſt thine hand unto them, or they touch thee, they do hurt. So the former are called ſcorpions, verſ 3. 15 Now remaineth the event (as I ſaid upon the firſt vers) which followed of ſo many and ſo grievous judgements in the moſt wicked world, namely, an impenitent obſtirmation of the ungodly in their impiety and unrighteouſneſs, though they feel themſelvs moſt vehemently preſſed with the hand of God, for their obſtinate ungodlineſs is ſhewed in this vers: and their unrighteouſneſs in the vers following. Hitherto hath been the general hiſtory of things to be don univerſally in the whole world which becauſe it doth not ſo much belong to the church of Chriſt, is therefore not ſo expreſſly diſtinguiſhed by certainty of, time, and other circumſtances, but is woven, as they ſay, with a ſlight hand. Alſo there is none other cauſe why the hiſtory of the ſeventh angel is paſſed over in this place, than for that the ſame more properly appertaineth unto the hiſtory of the church. But this is more diligently ſet out according to the time thereof, chap. 11. & 16. as ſhall appear upon thoſe places. * Pſal. 115. 4. & 135. 15.

CHAP. X.

1 A mighty ſtrong angel appeareth with a book open in his hand. 6 He ſweareth by him that liveth for ever, that there ſhall be no more time. 9 John is commanded to take and eat the book.

AND [1] I ſaw [2] another mighty angel come down from heaven, clothed with a cloud, and a rainbow was upon his head, and his face was as it were the ſun, and his feet as pillars of fire.

2 And he had in his hand [3] a little book open: and he ſet his right foot upon the ſea, and his left foot on the earth,

3 And cried with a loud voice, as when a lion roareth: and when he had cried, ſeven thunders uttered their voices.

4 [4] And when the ſeven thunders had uttered their voices, I was about to write: and I heard a voice from heaven, ſaying unto me, [a] Seal up thoſe things which the ſeven thunders uttered, and write them not.

5 And the angel which I ſaw ſtand upon the ſea, and upon the earth, [b] lifted up his hand to heaven,

6 And ſware by him that liveth for ever and ever, who created heaven and the things that therein are, and the earth and the things that therein are, and the ſea and the things which are therein, [5] that there ſhould be [c] time no longer:

7 But in the days of the [6] voice of the ſeventh angel, when he ſhall begin to ſound, the myſtery of God ſhould be finiſhed, as he hath declared to his ſervants the prophets.

8 ¶ [7] And the voice which I heard from heaven ſpake unto me again, and ſaid, Go, and take the little book which is open in the hand of the angel which ſtandeth upon the ſea, and upon the earth.

9 And I went unto the angel, and ſaid unto him, Give me the little book. And he ſaid unto me, * Take it, and eat it up, and it ſhall make thy belly bitter, but it ſhall be in thy mouth ſweet as honey.

10 And I took the little book out of the angels hand, and ate it up, & it was in my mouth ſweet as honey, and aſſoon as I had eaten it, my belly was bitter.

11 [8] And he ſaid unto me, Thou muſt propheſy again before many peoples, and nations, and tongues, and kings.

1 Now S. John paſſeth unto the other propheticall hiſtory which is of the church of God, as I ſhewed that this book ſhould be diſtinguiſhed, chap. 4. verſ. 1. This ſtory reacheth hence, unto the two and twentieth chapter. And this whole chapter is but a tranſition from the common hiſtory of the world unto that which is particular of the church. There are in this tranſition or paſſage, two preparatives, as it were, unto the church-ſtory compriſed in this whole chapter. One is the authority of Chriſt, revealing his myſteries, and calling his ſervant, unto the ſeventh vers. The other is, S. John his calling proper unto this place, and repeated from before unto the end of this chapter. Authority is given unto this Revelation, by theſe things: firſt, by the appearing from heaven in this habit and countenance, ſtrong, ready, glorious, ſurveying all things by his providence, and governing them by his omnipotency, verſ. 1. Secondly, that he brought not by chance, but out of a book, this open Revelation, ſet forth unto the eye, to ſignify the ſame unto the ſea, and land, as the Lord over all, verſ. 2. Thirdly, that he offered the ſame not whiſpering or muttering in a corner (as falſe prophets do) but crying out with a loud voice unto them which ſleep, and with a lioniſh & terrible noiſe rouzed up the ſecure: the very thunders themſelvs giving teſtimony thereunto, verſ. 3. Laſtly, for that he confirmed all by an oath, verſ. 5. 6, 7. 2 Chriſt Jeſus, ſee chapter 7. verſ. 2. 3 Namely, a ſpecial book of the affairs of Gods church: For the book that containeth things belonging unto the whole world, is ſaid to be kept with the Creator, chapter 5. verſ. 1. but the book of the church, with the Redeemer: and out of this book is taken the reſt of the hiſtory of this Apocalyps. 4 A godly care is laudable, but muſt be joyned with knowledge: Therefore nothing is to be taken in hand but by calling, which muſt be expected and waited for of the godly. a Keep them cloſe. b This was a geſture uſed of one that ſweareth, which men do now a days uſe. 5 Neither time it ſelf, nor the things that are in time: but that the world to come is at hand which is altogether of eternity, and beyond all times. c There ſhall never be any more time 6 whereof chap. 11. 15. & 16 17. 7 The other part of this chapter, concerning the particular calling of S. John to the receiving of the propheſy following, which is enjoyned him, firſt by ſign, in three verſes, then in plain words in the laſt vers. Unto the ſetting down of the ſign belong theſe things: That S. John is taught from heaven to demand the book of the prophecy in this vers, for theſe motions and deſires God doth inſpire, that demanding the book, he is charged to take it in a figurative manner, the uſe whereof is expounded vers the ninth, (as in the ſecond chapter of Ezekiel, and the ninth vers) whence this ſimilitude is borrowed: laſtly, for that S. John at the commandment of Chriſt took the book, and found by experience, that the ſame, as proceeding from Chriſt, was moſt ſweet, but in that it foretelleth the afflictions of the church, it was moſt bitter unto his ſpirit. * Ezek. 2. 8 & 3. 3. 8 A ſimple and plain declaration of the ſign before-going, witneſſing the divine calling of S. John, and laying upon him the neceſſity thereof.

CHAP. XI.

3 The two witnesses prophesy: 6 they have power to shut heaven, that it rain not. 7 The beast shall fight against them, and kill them. 8 They lie unburied, 11 and after three days and an half rise again. 14 The second woe is past. 15 The seventh trumpet soundeth.

AND [1] there was given me a reed like unto a rod, and the angel stood, saying, Rise, and [2] measure the temple of God, and the altar, and them that worship therein.

2 [3] But the [a] court which is without the temple † [b] leave out, and measure it not: for it is given unto the [4] Gentiles, and the holy city shall they tread under foot forty and [5] two moneths.

3 [6] And ‡ I will give power unto my two witnesses, and they shall [7] prophesy a thousand two hundred and threescore days clothed in sackcloth.

4 * [8] These are the two olive-trees, and the two candlesticks standing before the God of the earth.

5 [9] And if any man will hurt them, fire proceedeth out of their mouth, and devoureth their enemies: and if any man will hurt them, he must in this manner be killed.

6 These have power to shut heaven, that it rain not in the days of their prophesy: and have power over waters to turn them to bloud, and to smite the earth with all plagues, as often as they will.

7 [10] And when they shall have [c] finished their testimony, [11] the beast that ascendeth out of the bottomless pit, shall make war against them, and shall [12] overcome them, and kill them.

8 And their dead bodies shall lie in the [13] street of the great city, which [d] spiritually is called Sodom and Egypt, [14] where also our Lord was crucified.

9 And they of the people, and kindreds, and tongues, and nations, shall see their dead bodies [15] three days and an half, and shall not suffer their dead bodies to be put in graves.

10 And they that dwell upon the earth shall [16] rejoyce over them, and make merry, and shall send gifts one to another, because these two prophets [17] tormented them that dwell on the earth.

11 [18] And after [19] three days and an half, the [20] Spirit of life from God entred into them: and [21] they stood upon their feet, and great fear fell upon them which saw them.

12 And they heard a great voice from heaven, saying unto them, [22] Come up hither. And

1 The authority of the intended revelation being declared, together with the necessity of that calling which was particularly imposed upon S. John: hereafter followeth the history of the estate of Christ his church, both conflicting or warfaring, and overcoming in Christ. For both the true church of Christ is said to fight against that which is falsly so called, over the which antichrist ruleth, Christ Jesus overthrowing antichrist by the spirit of his mouth: and Christ is said to overcome most gloriously, until he shall slay the antichrist by the appearance of his coming, as the apostle excellently teacheth, 2 Thess. 2 8. So this history hath two parts: one of the church conflicting with the temptations, unto the 16 chap. the other of the state of the same church obtaining victory, thence unto the 20 chap. The first part hath two members most conveniently distributed into their times, whereof the first containeth an history of the Christian church for 1260 years, what time the Gospel of Christ was as it were taken up from amongst men into heaven: the second containeth an history of the same church unto the victory perfected. And these two members are briefly, though distinctly, propounded in this chapter, but are both of them more at large discoursed after in due order. For we understand the state of the church conflicting, out of chapters 12 & 13. and of the same growing out of afflictions, out of the 14. 15. and 16 chapters. Neither did S. John at unawares joyn together the history of these two times in this chapter, because here is spoken of prophesy, which all confess to be but one just and immutable in the church, and which Christ commanded to be continual. The history of the former time reacheth unto the 14 vers: the latter is set down in the rest of this chapter. In the former are shewed these things, the calling of the servants of God in 4 verses: the conflicts which the faithful must undergo in their calling for Christ and his church, thence unto the 10 vers, and their resurrection, & receiving up into heaven, unto the fourteenth vers. In the calling of the servants of God are mentioned two things: the begetting and seeling of the church in two verses, and the eduction thereof in two verses. The begetting of the church is here commended unto S. John by sign, and by speech: the sign is a measuring rod, and the speech a commandment to measure the temple of God, that is, to reduce the same unto a new form: because the Gentiles are already entred into the temple of Jerusalem, and shall shortly defile and overthrow the same utterly.

2 Either that of Jerusalem, which was a figure of the church of Christ, or that heavenly exemplar whereof vers. 19. but the first liketh me better and the things following do all agree thereunto. The sense thereof is, Thou seest all things in Gods house, almost from the passion of Christ, to be disordered: and that not onely the city of Jerusalem, but also the court of the temple is trampled under foot of the nations, and of profane men whether Jews or strangers, and that onely the temple, that is, the body of the temple, with the altar, and a small company of good men which truly worship God, do now remain, whom God doth sanctify and confirm by his presence. Measure therefore this, even this true church, or rather the true type of the true church, omitting the rest, and so describe all things from me, that true church of Christ may be as it were a very little center, and the church of antichrist as the circle of the center, every way in length & breath compassing about the same, that by way of prophesy thou mayest so declare openly, that the state of the temple of God, and the faithful which worship him, that is, of the church, is much more straight than the church of antichrist. 3 As if he should say, It belongeth nothing unto thee, to judge those which are without, 1 Cor 5. 12. which are innumerable: look unto those of the houshold onely, or unto the house of the living God. 2 He speaketh of the outer court which was called the peoples court, because all might come into that.

‡ Gr. cast out, b That is, counted to be cast out, which in measuring is refused as profane. 4 To profane persons, wicked and unbelievers, adversaries unto the church. 5 Or a thousand two hundred and threescore days, as is said in the next vers, that is, a thousand two hundred and threescore years, a day for a year, often in Ezechiel and Daniel, which things are noted before 2. 10. The beginning of these thousand two hundred and threescore years, we account from the passion of Christ, whereby (the partition wall being broken down) we were made, of two, one, Ephes. 2. 14. I say, one flock, under one shepherd, John 10. 16. and the end of these years precisely falleth into the popedom of Boniface the eight, who a little before the end of the year of Christ, a thousand two hundred ninety four, entred the popedom of Rome in the feast of Saint Lucy (as Bergomensis saith) having put in prison his predecessor Celestinus, whom by fraud under colour of oracle he deceived: for which cause that was well said of him, Intravit ut vulpes, regnavit ut leo, mortuus est ut canis: That is, He entred like a fox, reigned like a lion, and died like a dog. For if from a thousand two hundred ninety four years, thou shalt take the age of Christ, which he lived on the earth, thou shalt find there remaineth just one thousand two hundred and threescore years, which are mentioned in this place and many others. 6 I had rather translate it illud than illam, the temple, than the city: for God saith, I will give that temple, and commit it unto my two witnesses, that is, unto the ministers of word, who are few in deed, weak and contemptible: but yet two, that is, of such a number as one of them may help another, and one confirm the testimony of another unto all men, that from the mouth of two or three witnesses every word may be made good amongst men, 2 Corinth. 13. 1. ‡ Or, I will give unto my two witnesses that they may prophesy 7 They shall exercise their office enjoyned by me, by the space of those thousand two hundred and sixty years, in the midst of afflictions though never so lamentable, which is figuratively shewed by the mourning garment. * Zech. 4. 3, 11, 14 8 That is, the ordinary and perpetual instruments of spiritual grace, peace, and light in my church, which God by his onely power preserved in this temple. 9 The power and efficacy of the holy ministery, and which is truly evangelical, is declared both in earth and in heaven, protecting the administers thereof, and destroying the enemies, in this vers, vertue indeed divine, most mightily shewing it self forth in heaven, earth, and the sea, vers. 6. as it is described, 2 Corinth. 10 4 according to the promise of Christ, Mark 16. 17. And this is the second place (as I said before) of the combats which the servants of God must needs undergo in the executing of their calling, and of the things that follow the same combats. In the combats or conflicts are these things, to overcome, in these two verses: to be overcome and killed, vers. 7. After the slaughter, follow these things, that the carcases of the godly are laid abroad, vers. 8. being unburied, are made a matter of scorn, together of cursing and bitter execration, vers. 9. and that therefore gratulations are publickly and privately made, vers. 10.

10 That is, when they have spent those thousand two hundred and sixty years, mentioned vers 2. & 3. in publishing their testimony according to their office. c when they have don their message. 11 Of which, after, chap 13. &c. That beast is the Roman empire, made long ago of civil, ecclesiastical: the chief head whereof was then Boniface the eight, as I said before: who lifted up himself in so great arrogancy, (saith the authour of Fasciculus temporum) that he called himself, Lord of the whole world, as well in temporal causes, as in spiritual. There is an extract of that matter, written by the same Boniface most arrogantly, shall I say, or most wickedly, Cap. Unam sanctam extra de majoritate & obedientia. And in the sixt of the Decretals (which is from the same author) many things are found of the same argument. 12 He shall persecute most cruelly the holy men, & put them to death, and shall wound and pierce though with cursings, both their name and writings. And that this was don to very many godly men, by Boniface, and others, the histories do declare, especially, since the time that the odious, and condemned name amongst the multitude, first, of the brethren Waldenses or Lugdunenses, then also of the Fraticels, was pretended, that good men might with more approbation be massacred 13 That is, openly at Rome where at that time was a most great concourse of people, the year of jubile being then first ordained by Boniface unto the same end, in the year of Christ 1300. example whereof is read Chap. 1. Extra, de penitentiis & remissionibus: So by one act he committed double injury against Christ, both abolishing his truth, by the restoring of the type of the jubile, and triumphing over his members by most wicked superstition. O religious heart: Now that we should understand the things of Rome, S. John himself is the authour, both after in the 17 chapter almost throughout, and also in the circumscription now next following, when he saith, it is that great city (as chap. 17. 18. he calleth it) and is spiritually termed Sodom and Egypt: and that spiritually (for that must here again be repeated from before) Christ was there crucified. For the two first appellations signify spiritual wickedness: the latter signifieth the shew and pretence of good, that is, of Christian and sound religion. Sodom signifieth most licentious impiety and injustice: Egypt, most cruell persecution of the people of God: and Jerusalem signifieth the most confident glorying of that city as it were in true religion, being yet full of falshood and ungodliness Now who is ignorant that these things do rather and more agree unto Rome, than unto any other city? The commendations, of the city of Rome for many years past, are publickly notorious, which are not for me to gather together. This onely I will say, that he long since did very well see what Rome is, who taking his leave thereof, used these verses:

Roma vale, vidi, satis est vidisse: revertar
Quum luna, mercurius, sumra, venusque erit.

Now farewell Rome, I have thee seen, it was enough to see:
I will return when as I mean, bawd, harlot, knave to be.

d After a more secret kind of meaning and understanding. 14 Namely, in his members, as also he said unto Saul, Acts 9. 5. 15 That is, for three years and a half: for so many years Boniface lived after his jubile, as Bergomensis witnesseth. 16 So much the more shall they by this occasion exercise the jollity of their jubile. 17 The gospel of Christ is the affliction of the world, and the ministery thereof, the savour of death unto death, to those that perish, 2 Cor. 2. vers 16. 18 The third place, as I noted before, is of the rising again of the prophets from the dead, and their carrying up into heaven For their resurrection is shewed in this vers: their calling and lifting up into heaven, in the vers following. 19 That is, what time God shall destroy that wicked Boniface. 20 That is, the prophets of God shall in a sort rise again, not the same in person (as they say) but in spirit: that is, in the power and efficacy of their ministery, which S John expressed before, vers. 5. and 6. And so the prophesy that is spoken of Elias, is interpreted by the angel to be understood of John Baptist, Luke 1. 17. For the same Boniface himself, who sought to kill and destroy them, was by the fire of Gods mouth (which the holy ministery sheweth and exhibiteth) devoured, and died miserably in prison, by the endeavour of Sarra Columnensis and Nogaretus a French knight, whom Philip the fair king of France sent into Italy, but with a very small power. 21 That is, the most grievous heat of afflictions and persecutions shall stay for a while, for the great amaze that shall arise upon the sudden and unlooked for judgement of God. 22 They were called by God into heaven, and taken out of this malignant world, into the heavenly church, which also lyeth hidden here in the earth, to exercise their calling secretly: as of whom this wretched world was unworthy, Heb. 11. 38. For the church of the wicked is by comparison called the earth, or the world, and the church of the godly, heaven. So in ancient time amongst the godly Israelites: so amongst the Jews in the days of Manasses, and other kings, when the earth refused theirs of heaven we read that they lay hidden as heaven in the earth.

they

they aſcended up to heaven in a cloud, [23] and their enemies beheld them.

13 [24] And the ſame hour was there a great earth-quake, and the tenth part of the city fell, & in the earth-quake were ſlain † of men ſeven thouſand: and the remnant were affrighted, [25] and [e] gave glory to the God of heaven.

14 [26] The ſecond wo is paſt, and behold, the third wo cometh quickly.

15 ¶ [27] And the ſeventh angel ſounded, and there were great voices in heaven, ſaying, The kingdoms of this world are become [28] the kingdoms of our Lord, and of his Chriſt, and he ſhall reign for ever and ever.

16 [29] And the four and twenty elders which ſat before God on their ſeats, fell upon their faces, and worſhipped God, 17 Saying, We give thee thanks, O Lord God Almighty, which art, and waſt, and art to come; becauſe thou haſt taken to thee thy great power, and haſt reigned..

18 [30] And the nations were angry, and thy wrath is come, and the time of the dead that they ſhould be judged, and that thou ſhouldeſt give reward unto thy ſervants the prophets, and to the ſaints, and them that fear thy name, ſmall and great, and ſhouldeſt deſtroy them which ‡ deſtroy the earth.

19 And the temple of God was [31] opened in heaven, and there was ſeen in his temple the ark of his teſtament, and there were lightnings, and voices, and thunderings, and an earth-quake, and great hail.

23 Yet could they not hinder the ſecret ones of the Lord (as the Pſalmiſt called them, Pſal. 83. 3) but that they went on forward in his work.

24 Bergomenſis ſaith, in the yeat of our Lord, 1201. this year a blazing ſtar foretelling great calamity to come, appeared in heaven: in which year upon the feaſt of S. Andrew, ſo great an earthquake aroſe, as never before: which alſo continuing by times, for many days, overthrew many ſtately houſes. This ſaith he of the yeat next following the Jubile, which S. John ſo many ages before, expreſſed word for word.

† Or, names of men

e Glorified God by confeſſing his name.

26 He paſſeth unto the ſecond hiſtory, which is the ſecond part of this chapter. S. John calleth theſe the ſecond and third wo's, having reſpect unto chap. 9. verſ. 22.

27 Of whoſe ſounding the trumpet, Chriſt expreſly foretold, chap. 10. 7. and this is the ſecond part of this chapter, containing a general hiſtory of the Chriſtian church, from the time of Boniface 8. unto the conſummation of the victory declared by voice from heaven. In this hiſtory there are three branches, a preparation by the ſound of the angels trumpet: a narration by the voices of heavenly angels and elders, and a confirmation by ſign. 28 The narration hath two parts, an acclamation of the heavenly creatures in this vers, and both an adoration by all the elders, verſ. 16. and alſo a moſt ample thankſgiving, verſ. 17. 18. The ſence of the acclamation is: Now the Lord is entred on his kingdom, and hath reſtored his church, in which moſt mightily recovered from the profanation of the Gentiles, he may glorify himſelf, namely, that, which the Lord ordained, when firſt he ordained his church, that the faith of the Saints doth now behold as accompliſhed 29 As before, 7. 11. This giving of thanks is altogether of the ſame content with the words going before. 30 A ſpeech of the Hebrew language, as much to ſay, as the Gentiles being angry, thine inflamed wrath came upon them, and ſhewed it ſelf from heaven, occaſioned by their anger and fury ‡ Or, corrupt 31 This is the confirmation of the next prophecy before going, by ſigns exhibited in heaven, and that of two ſorts, whereof ſome are viſible, as the paſſing away of the heaven, the opening of the temple, the ark of the covenant appearing in the temple, and teſtifying the glorious preſence of God, and the lightnings, others apprehended by ear and ſuch dull ſence, which bear witneſs in heaven and earth to the truth of the judgements of God.

Chap. XII.

1 A woman clothed with the ſun travaileth. 4 The great red dragon ſtandeth before her, ready to devour her child: 6 when ſhe was delivered ſhe fleeth into the wilderneſs. 7 Michael and his angels fight with the dragon, and prevail. 13 The dragon being caſt down unto the earth, perſecuteth the woman.

AND [1] there appeared a great ‡ wonder in heaven, [2] a woman clothed with the ſun, and the moon under her feet, and upon her head a crown of twelve ſtars:

2 And [3] ſhe being with child, cried, travailing in birth, and pained to be delivered.

3 And there appeared another ‡ wonder in heaven, [4] and behold, a great red dragon: having [5] ſeven heads, and ten [6] horns, and ſeven crowns upon his heads.

4 [7] And his tail drew the third part of the ſtars of heaven, and did caſt them to the earth: and the dragon [8] ſtood before the woman which was ready to be delivered, for [9] to devour her child aſſoon as it was born.

5 [10] And ſhe brought forth a [11] man-child, who was to rule all nations with a rod of iron: and her child was caught up unto God, and to his throne.

6 [12] And the woman fled into the wilderneſs where ſhe hath a place prepared of God, that [13] they ſhould feed her there a thouſand two hundred and treeſcore days.

7 And there was war in heaven, [14] Michael and his angels fought againſt the dragon, and the dragon fought and his angels:

8 [15] And prevailed not, neither was their [a] place found any more in heaven.

9 And the great dragon was caſt out, that old ſerpent, called the devil and Satan, which deceiveth the whole world: he was caſt out into the earth, and his angels were caſt out with him.

10 And I heard a loud voice, ſaying [16] in heaven, Now is come ſalvation, and ſtrength, and the kingdom of our God, and the power of his Chriſt: for the accuſer of our brethren is caſt down, which accuſed them before our God day and night.

11 And they overcame him by the bloud of the Lamb, and by the word of their teſtimony, and they [b] loved not their lives unto the death.

1 Hitherto hath been the general prophecy, comprehended in two parts, as I ſhewed upon chap. 11. Now ſhall be declared the firſt part of this prophecy, in this and the next chapter, and the latter part in the 14. 15. & 16 chap. Unto the firſt part, which is of the conflicting or militant church, belong two things. The beginning and the progreſs of the ſame in conflicts and Chriſtian combats. Of which two, the beginning or up-ſpring of the church is deſcribed in this chapter, and the progreſs thereof in the chapter following. The beginning of the Chriſtian church we define to be from the firſt moment of the conception of Chriſt, until that time wherein this church was as it were weaned and taken away from the breaſt or milk of her mother: which is the time when the church of the Jews with their city and temple was overthrown by the judgement of God. So we have in this chapter the ſtory of 60 years and upwards. The parts of this chapter are three. The firſt, is the hiſtory of the conception and bearing in womb, in 4 verſes. The ſecond, an hiſtory of the birth from the 5 verſ unto the 12. The third is, of the woman that had brought forth, unto the end of the chap. And theſe ſeveral parts have every one their conflicts. Therefore in that firſt part are two things contained, one, the conception and bearing in womb in two verſes: and another of the laying in wait of the dragon againſt that ſhould be brought forth, in the next two verſes. In the firſt point are theſe things, the deſcription of the mother, verſ. 1. and the dolours of childbirth, verſ 2. all ſhewed unto John from heaven. ‡ Or, ſign 2 A type of the true holy church which then was in the nation of the Jews. This church (as is the ſtate of the holy church Catholique) did in it ſelf ſhine about with glory given of God, trod under feet, mutablity and changeableneſs, and poſſeſſed the kingdom of heaven as the heir thereof.

3 For this is that barren woman that brought not forth, of the which Eſa. 54. 1. and Gal 4. 27. ſhe cried out for good cauſe, and was tormented at that time, when in the judgement of all ſhe ſeemed near unto death, and in manner ready to give up the ghoſt, by reaſon of her weakneſs and poverty.

‡ Or, ſign.

4 That is, the devil or Satan (as is declared, verſ. 9) mighty, angry, and ful of wrath.

5 Thereby to withſtand thoſe ſeven churches ſpoken of, that is, the Catholick church, and that with kingly furniture and tyrannical magnificence: ſignified by the crowns ſet upon his heads, as if the ſame without controverſy belonged unto him by the proper right: as alſo he boaſted unto Chriſt, Matt. 4. 9. ſee after upon Chap. 13. 1.

6 More than are the horns of the Lamb, or than the churches are: ſo well furniſhed, doth the tyrant brag himſelf to be unto all manner of miſchief.

7 After the deſcription of Satan, followeth this action, that is, his battel offered unto the church, partly, to that which is viſible, wherein the wheat is mingled with the chaff, and the good fiſh with that which is evil: a good part thereof though in appearance it ſhined as the ſtars ſhine in heaven, he is ſaid to be thruſt down out of heaven, and to pervert: for if it were poſſible he would pervert even the elect, Matt. 24. 24. and partly, to the elect members of the holy Catholike church in the ſecond part of this vers. Many therefore of the members of this viſible church (ſaith S. John) he overthrew and triumphed upon them. 8 He withſtood that elect church of the Jews which was now ready to bring forth the Chriſtian church, and watched for that ſhe ſhould bring forth For the whole church, and whole body is compared unto a woman: and a part of the church unto that which is brought forth, as we have noted at large upon Can. 7. 6.

9 Chriſt myſtical (as they call him) that is, the whole church, conſiſteth of the perſon of Chriſt as the head, and of the holy united thereunto by the ſpirit, ſo is the name of Chriſt taken, 1 Corinth 12. 12. 10 The ſecond hiſtory of this church delivered of child: in which firſt the conſideration of the child born, and of the mother is deſcribed in two verſes: ſecondly, the battel of the dragon againſt the young child, and the victory obtained againſt him in 3 verſes following: laſt of all, is ſung a ſong of victory, into the 12 vers. Now S. John in conſideration of the child born, noteth two things: for he deſcribeth him, and his ſtation or place in this vers. 11 That is, Chriſt the head of the church joyned with his church (the beginning, root, and foundation whereof is the ſame Chriſt) endowed with kingly power, and taken up into the heaven out of the jaws of Satan (who as a ſerpent did bite him upon the croſs) that ſitting upon the celeſtical throne, he might reign over all. 12 The church of Chriſt which was of the Jews, after his aſſumption into heaven, hid it ſelf in the world as in a wilderneſs, truſting in the onely defence of God, as witneſſeth S. Luke in the Acts of the apoſtles. 13 Namely, the apoſtles and ſervants of God ordained to feed with the word of life, the church collected both of the Jews and Gentiles, unleſs that any man will take the word alerent imperſonally, after the uſe of the Hebrews, in ſtead of alerentur: but I like the firſt better. For he hath reſpect unto thoſe two prophets, of whom chap. 11. 3. as for the meaning of the 1260 days, look the ſame place. 14 Chriſt is the prince of angels, and the head of the church, who beareth that iron rod, vers. 5. See the notes upon Daniel, chap. 12. 1. In this vers a deſcription of the battel, and of the victory in the 2 verſes following. The Pſalmiſt had reſpect unto this battel, Pſal. 68. 19. and Paul, Epheſ. 4. 8. & Col. 2. 15. 15 The deſcription of the victory, by denying of one thing in this vers, and by affirming the contrary in the next verſes. As that Satan gained nothing in heaven, but was by the power of God thrown down in the world whereof he is prince, Chriſt himſelf and his elect members ſtanding ſtill by the throne of God. a They were caſt out ſo, that they were never ſeen any more in heaven. 16 The ſong of victory or triumph, containing, firſt a propoſition of the glory of God and of Chriſt ſhewed in that victory: Secondly, it containeth a reaſon of the ſame propoſition, taken from the effects, as that the enemy is overcome in battel, in this vers, and that the godly are made conquerors (and more than conquerors, Rom. 8. 37) verſ. 11. Thirdly, a concluſion wherein is an exhortation unto the angels, and to the ſaints, and unto the world, a propheſy of great miſery, and of deſtruction procured by the devil againſt mankind, leaſt himſelf ſhould ſhortly be miſerable alone, verſ. 12. b He is ſaid in the Hebrew tongue, to love his life, that eſteemeth nothing more precious than his life: and on the other ſide, he is ſaid not to love his life, who doubteth not to hazard it, whereſoever need requireth.

12 There-

12 Therefore rejoyce, ye heavens, and ye that dwell in them: wo to the inhabiters of the earth, and of the ſea: for the devil is come down unto you, having great wrath, becauſe he knoweth that he hath but a ſhort time.

13 And when [17] the dragon ſaw that he was caſt unto the earth, he perſecured the woman which brought forth the man-child.

14 [18] And to the woman were given two wings of a great eagle, that ſhe might fly into the wilderneſs, into her [c] place: where ſhe is nouriſhed for [19] a time, and times, and half a time, from the face of the ſerpent.

15 [20] And the ſerpent caſt out of his mouth water as a floud, after the woman: that he might cauſe her to be carried away of the floud.

16 [21] And the earth helped the woman, and the earth opened her mouth, and ſwallowed up the floud which the dragon caſt out of his mouth.

17 [22] And the dragon was wroth with the woman, and went to make war with the remnant of her ſeed, which keep the commandments of God, and have the teſtimony of Jeſus Chriſt.

17 The third part: an hiſtory of the woman delivered, conſiſting of two members, the preſent battel of Satan, againſt the church of the Jewiſh nation, in four verſes: and the battel intended againſt the ſeed thereof, that is, againſt the church of the gentiles, which is called holy, by reaſon of the goſpel of Chriſt, in the two laſt verſes.

18 That is, being ſtrengthened with divine power: and taught by oracle, hee fled ſwiftly from the aſſault of the devil, and from the common deſtruction of Jeruſalem, and went into a ſolitary city beyond Jordan called Pella, as Euſebius telleth in the 5 chap. of the 4 book of his eccleſiaſticall hiſtory: which place God had commanded her by revelation. c Into that place which God had appointed for her.

19 That is, for three years and an half: ſo the ſame ſpeech is taken, Dan. 7. 25. This ſpace of time is rekoned in manner from that laſt and moſt grievous rebellion of the Jews, unto the deſtruction of the city and temple: for their defection or falling away began to the twelfth year of Nero, before the beginning whereof, many ſore ſigns and predictions were ſhewed from heaven, as Joſephus writeth, lib. 7. cap. 12. and Hegeſippus, lib. 5. cap. 44. amongſt which this is very memorable, then in the feaſt of pentecoſt not onely a great ſound and noiſe was heard in the temple, but alſo a great voice was heard of many out of the ſanctuary, which cried out unto all, Let us depart hence. Now three years and a half after this defection was begun of the Jews, and thoſe wonders happened, the city was taken by force, the temple overthrown, and the place forſaken of God: and this compaſs of time S. John noted in this place. 20 That is, he inflamed the Romans and nations, that they perſecuting the Jewiſh people with cruell armies, might by the ſame occaſion invade the church of Chriſt, now departed from Jeruſalem, and out of Juda. For it is an uſuall thing in ſcripture, that the raging tumults, of the nations ſhould be compared unto waters. 21 That is, there was offered in their place other Jews, unto the Romans and nations raging againſt that people, and it came to paſs thereby, that the church of God was ſaved whole from that violence, that moſt raging floud of perſecution, which the dragon vomited out, being altogether ſpent in the deſtruction of thoſe other Jews. 22 Being ſet on fire by this means, he began to be more mad, and becauſe he perceived that his purpoſe againſt the Chriſtian church of the Jewiſh remnant was come to nought, he reſolved to fall upon her ſeed, that is, the church gathered alſo by God of the Gentiles, and the holy members of the ſame. And this is that other branch, as I ſaid upon the thirteenth verſe, in which the purpoſe of Satan is ſhewed, verſ. 17. and his attempt, verſ. 18.

CHAP. XIII.

1 A beaſt riſeth out of the ſea with ſeven heads and ten horns, to whom the dragon giveth his power. 11 Another beaſt cometh up out of the earth, 14 cauſeth an image to be made of the former beaſt, 15 and that men ſhould worſhip it, 16 and receive his mark.

23 That is, a moſt mighty tempeſt that he ruſhed upon the whole world (whoſe prince he is) to raiſe the flouds, and provoke the nations, that they might with their furious bellows toſs up and down, drive here and there, and finally, deſtroy the church of Chriſt with the holy members of the ſame. But the providence of God reſiſted his attempt, that he might favour the church of the Gentiles, yet tender, and as it were green. The reſt of this ſtory of the dragon is excellently proſecuted by the apoſtle S. John here after in the 20 chapter. For here the dragon endevouring to do miſchief, was by God caſt into priſon. 1 The apoſtle having declared the ſpringing up of the Chriſtian church, and the eſtate of the church from which ours taketh her beginning, doth now paſs unto the ſtory of the progreſs thereof, as I ſhewed in the entrance of the former chapter. And this hiſtory of the progreſs of the church and the battels thereof, is ſet down in this chapter, but diſtinctly in two parts, one is of the civil Roman empire, unto verſ. 10. Another of the body eccleſiaſticall or prophetical, thence unto the end of the chapter. In the former part are ſhewed theſe things. Firſt, the ſtate of that empire, in 4 verſes: then the acts thereof in 3 verſes: after the effect, which is exceeding great glory, verſ. 8. And laſt of all, is commended the uſe, and the inſtruction of the godly againſt the evils that ſhall come from the ſame, verſ 9, 10. The hiſtory of the ſtate containeth a moſt ample deſcription of the beaſts firſt entry, verſ. 1, 2. and then reſtored after hurt, verſ. 3, 4. 2 On the land whereon ſtood the devil practiſing new tempeſts againſt the church, in the vers next before going: what time the empire of Rome was endangered by domeſticall diſſenſions, and was mightily toſſed, having ever and anon new heads, and new emperours. See in the 17 chap and verſ. 8. 3 Having the ſame inſtruments of power, providence, and moſt expert government which the dragon is ſaid to have had, in the 12 chapter and the third verſe. 4 We read in the twelfth chapter and 3 verſe, that the dragon had 7 crowns ſet upon 7 heads, becauſe the chief avoucheth himſelf to be proper lord and prince of the world, but this beaſt is ſaid to have ten crowns ſet upon ſeverall, not heads but horns: becauſe the beaſt is beholden for all unto the dragon, verſ. 2. and doth not otherwiſe reign, than by law of ſubjection given by him, namely that he employ his horns againſt the church of God. The ſpeech is taken from the ancient cuſtom and form of dealing in ſuch caſe: by which they that were abſolute kings did wear the diadem upon their heads: but their vaſſals, and ſuch as reigned by grace from them, wore the ſame upon their hoods: for ſo they might commodiouſly lay down their diadems when they came into the preſence of their ſoveraigns: as alſo their elders are ſaid when they adored God which ſat upon the throne, to have caſt down their crowns before him, chap. 4. verſ. 10.

23 And I ſtood upon the ſand of the ſea, and [1] ſaw a beaſt riſe [2] up out of the ſea, having ſeven heads, and ten [3] horns, and upon his horns ten crowns, [4] and upon his heads the ‡ [5] name of blaſphemy.

2 And the beaſt which I ſaw was [6] like unto a leopard, and his feet were as the feet of a bear, and his mouth as the mouth of a lion: [7] and the dragon gave him his power, and his ſeat, and great authority.

3 [8] And I ſaw one of his heads, as it were † wounded to death, and his deadly wound was healed: & all the world wondred after the beaſt.

4 And they worſhipped the dragon which gave power unto the beaſt, and they worſhipped the beaſt, ſaying, Who is like unto the beaſt? who is able to make war with him?

5 [9] And there was given unto him a mouth ſpeaking great things, and blaſphemies; and power was given unto him [10] ‡ to continue forty and two moneths.

6 And he opened his mouth in blaſphemy againſt God, to blaſpheme his name, [11] and his tabernacle, [12] and them that dwell in heaven.

7 And it was given unto him to make war with the ſaints, and to overcome them: and power was given him over all kindreds, and tongues, and nations.

8 And all that dwell upon the earth ſhall worſhip him, [13] whoſe names are not written in the book of life of the Lamb ſlain from the foundation of the world.

9 [14] If any man have an ear, let him hear.

10 He that leadeth into captivity, ſhall go into captivity: * He that killeth with the ſword,

‡ Or, names

5 Contrary to that which God of old commanded ſhould be written in the head-piece of the high prieſt, that is, Sanctitas Jehova, Holineſs unto the Lord. The name of blaſphemy impoſed by the dragon, is (as I think) that which S. Paul ſaith in the ſecond chapter of his 2 epiſtle to the Theſſalonians, the fourth vers: He ſitteth as God, and boaſteth himſelf to be God. For this name of blaſphemy both the Roman emperours did then challenge unto themſelvs, as Suetonius and Dion do report of Caligula and Domitian: and after them the popes of Rome did with full mouth profeſs the ſame of themſelvs, when they challenged unto themſelvs ſoveraigny in holy things: of which kind of ſayings the ſixt book of the decretals, as Clementines and the extravagants, are very full. For theſe men were not content with that which Angelus wrote in his Poetria, the beginning whereof is, Papa dupor mundi. The pope is the wonder of the world, Nec Deus es, nec homo, ſed neuter es inter utrumque: Thou art not God, neither art thou man, but neuter twixt of both: as the gloſs witneſſeth upon the ſixt book: But they were bold to take unto themſelvs the very name of God: and to accept it given of others: according as almoſt an hundred and twenty years ſince, there was made for Sixtus the fourth, when he ſhould firſt enter into Rome in his dignity papal, a pageant of triumph, and cunningly fixed upon the gate of the city he ſhould enter at, having writen upon it this blaſphemous verſ:

Oraculo vocis mundi moderaris habenas,
Et merito in terris crederis eſſe Deus.

That is,

By oracle of thine own voice, the world thou governeſt all,
And worthily a god on earth men think and do thee call.

These and ſix hundred the like, who can impute unto that modeſty whereby good men of old would have themſelvs called, the ſervants of the ſervants of God? Verily either this is a name of blaſphemy, or there is none at all. 6 Saith as the leopard, eaſily claiping all things, as the bear doth with his foot, and tearing and devouring all things with the mouth as doth the lion. 7 That is, he lent the ſame unto the beaſt to uſe, when he perceived that himſelf could not eſcape, but muſt needs be taken by the hand of the angel, and caſt into the bottomleſs pit, Chap. 20. yet did not he abandon the ſame utterly from himſelf, but that he might uſe it as long as he could. 8 This is the other place that appertaineth to the deſcription of the beaſt of Rome: that, beſides that natural dignity, and amplitude of the Romane empire, which was ſhadowed in the two former verſes, there was added this alſo as miraculous, that one head was wounded, as it were, unto death, and was healed again, as from heaven in the ſight of all men. This head was Nero the emperour, in whom the race of the Cæſars fell from the imperial dignity, and the government of the common-weal was tranſlated unto others: in whoſe hands the empire was ſo cruel and recovered unto health, as it ſeemed unto all ſo much the more deeply rooted and grounded faſt, than ever before: and hence followed thoſe effects, which are next ſpoken of: Firſt: an admiration of certain power, as it were, ſacred and divine, ſuſtaining the empire and governing it: ſecondly, the obedience and ſubmiſſion of the whole earth, in this vers. Thirdly, the adoration of the dragon, and moſt wicked worſhipping of devils, confirmed by the Roman emperours: Laſtly, the adoration of the beaſt himſelf, which grew into ſo great eſtimation, as that both the name and worſhip of a god was given unto him, vers the fourth. Now there were two cauſes which brought in the minds of men to this religion: the ſhew of excellency, which bringeth with it reverence: and the ſhew of power invincible, which bringeth fear: who is like (ſay they) unto the beaſt? who ſhall be able to fight with him? Or, ſlain. 9 The ſecond member containing an hiſtory of the acts of the beaſt, as I ſaid verſ. 1. The hiſtory of them is concluded in two points; the beginning, and the manner of them. The beginning as the gift of the dragon, who put and inſpired into the beaſt both his impiety againſt God, and his inhumanity and injuſtice againſt all men, eſpecially againſt the godly, and thoſe that were of the houſhold of faith, vers the fift. The manner of the actions don, is of two ſorts, both impious in mind, and blaſphemous in ſpeech againſt God, his church, and the godly, vers the ſixt: and alſo moſt cruel and injurious in deeds, even ſuch as were don of moſt raging enemies, and of moſt inſolent and proud conquerours, vers the ſeventh. 10 Namely, his actions, and manner of dealing. As concerning thoſe two and forty moneths, I have ſpoken of them before in the 12 chapter, and ſecond vers. † Or, to make war. 11 That is, the holy church, the true houſe of the living God. 12 That is, the godly in ſeveral who hid themſelvs from his cruelty. For this bloudy beaſt ſurcharged thoſe holy ſouls moſt falſly with innumerable accuſations for the name of Chriſt, as we read in Juſtin martyr, Tertullianus, Arnobius, Minutius, Euſebius, Auguſtin, and others: which examples the latter times followed moſt diligently, in deſtroying the flock of Chriſt: and we in our own memory have found by experience, to our incredible grief. Concerning heaven, See in the 11 chapter and in the 12 ver. 13 That is, ſuch as were not from everlaſting, elected in Chriſt Jeſus. For this is that Lamb ſlain, of which chap. 5. vers 6. Theſe words I do with Arias diſtinguiſh in this manner: whoſe names are not written from the laying of the foundation of the world, in the book of life of the Lamb ſlain. And this diſtinction is confirmed by a like place hereafter, chap 17. 8. 14 The concluſion of this ſpeech of the firſt beaſt, conſiſting of two parts: An exhortation to attentive audience, in this vers: and a foretelling, which partly contayneth threatnings againſt the wicked, and partly comforts for thoſe which in patience and faith ſhall wait for that glorious coming of our Lord and Saviour Chriſt, vers the tenth. * Matt. 26. 52.

sword, must be killed with the sword. Here is the patience and the faith of the saints.

11 ¶ [15] And I beheld another beast coming up out of the earth, [16] and he had two horns like a lamb, and he spake as a dragon.

12 [17] And he exerciseth all the power of the first beast before him, and causeth the earth, and them which dwell therein, [18] to worship the first beast, whose deadly wound was healed.

13 [19] And he doth great wonders, so that he maketh fire come down from heaven on the earth, in the sight of men,

14 And deceiveth them that dwell on the earth, by the means of those miracles which he had power to do in the sight of the beast, saying to them that dwell on the earth, that they should make an [20] image to the [21] beast which had the wound by a sword, and did live.

15 [22] And he had power to give †[a] life unto the image of the beast, that the image of the beast should both speak, and cause that as many as would not worship the image of the beast, should be killed.

16 [23] And he causeth all both small and great, rich and poor, free and bond, ‡ to receive [24] a [b] mark in their right hand, or in their foreheads.

17 And that no man might [25] buy or sell save he that had the [26] mark, or the name of the beast, or the number of his name.

18 [27] Here is wisdom. Let him that hath understanding count the number of the beast: for it is the [28] number of a man, and his number is six hundred threescore and six.

15 The second member of the vision, concerning the ecclesiasticall dominion, which in Rome succeeded that which was politick, and is in the power of the corporation of false prophets, and of the forgers of false doctrin. wherefore the same beast, and the same body, or corporation is called by S. John by the name of false prophet, Chap. 16. vers. 13. & 19. vers. 20. The form of this beast is first described in this vers, then his acts in the verses following: and the whole speech is concluded in the last vers. This beast is by his breed, a son of the earth (as they say) obscurely born, and by little and little creeping up out of his abject state.

16 That is, in shew he resembled the Lamb (for what is more mild or more humble, than to be the servant of the servants of God?) but indeed he played the part of the dragon, and of the wolf, Matt 10. 16. For even Satan changeth himself into an angel of light, 2 Cor. 11. 14 & what should his honest disciples and servants do? 17 The history of the acts of this beast containeth in sum, three things, hypocrisy, the witness of miracles, and tyranny: of which the first is noted in this vers, the second in the 3 verses following, the third in the sixteenth and seventeenth verses. His hypocrisy is most full of leasing, whereby he abuseth both the former beast and the whole world: in that, albeit he hath by his cunning, and as it were by little, made of the former beast a most miserable skeleton or anatomy, usurped all his authority unto himself, and most impudently exerciseth the same in the sight and view of him: yet he carrieth himself so, as if he honoured him with most high honour, and in very good truth caused him to be reverenced of all men. 18 For unto this beast of Rome, which of a civil empire is made an ecclesiasticall hierarchy, are given divine honours, & divine authority so far, as he is believed to be above the scriptures, which the glosi upon the decretals declareth by this devilish vers?

Articulos solvit, synodumque facit generalem.
That is:
He changeth the articles of faith, and giveth authority to general councels.

which is spoken of the papall power. So the beast is by birth, foundation, seat, and finally substance, one: onely the pope hath altered the form and manner thereof, being himself the head both of that tyrannical empire, and also of the false prophets: for the empire hath he taken unto himself, and thereunto hath added this cunning device. Now these words, Whose deadly wound was cured, are put here for distinction sake as also sometimes afterward: that even at that time the godly readers of this prophecy, might by this sign be brought to see the things as present: as if it were said, that they might adore this very empire that now is, whose head we have seen in our own memory to have been cut off, and to be cured again. 19 The second point of the things don by the beast, is the credit of great wonders or miracles, and pertaining to the strengthening of this impiety: of which signs some were given from above, as it is said, that fire was sent down from heaven by false sorcery, in this vers. Others were shewed here below in the sight of the beast, to establish idolatry, and deceive souls: which part Saint John setteth forth beginning (as they say) at that which is last, in this manner: First, the effect is declared in the words: He deceiveth the inhabitants of the earth. Secondly, the common manner of working, in two sorts, one of miracles: For the signs which were given him to do in the presence of the beast: the other of the words added to the signs, and teaching the idolatry by those signs, Saying unto the inhabitants of the earth, that they should make an image unto the beast, which, &c. Thirdly, a special manner is declared. That it is given unto him to put life unto the image of the beast: and that such a kind of quickening, that the same both speaketh by answer unto those that ask consel of it, and also pronounceth death against all those that do not obey nor worship it: all which things oftentimes by false miracles through the procurement & inspiration of the devil, have been effected and wrought in images. The histories of the papists are full of examples of such miracles, the most of them fained, many also don by the devil in images, as of old in the Serpent, Genesis the third chapter, and the first vers. By which examples is confirmed not the authority of the beast, but the truth of God and these prophets. 20 That is, images, by enallage or change of the number: for the worship of them ever since the second counsel of Nice, hath been ordained in the church by publik credite and authority, contrary to the law of God. 21 In the Greek, the word is of the Dative case, as much to say, as unto the worship, honour and obeying of the beast, for by this maintenance of images, this pseudoprophetical beast doth mightily profit the beast of Rome, of whom long ago he received them wherefore the same is hereafter very filly called the image of the beast, for that images have their beginning from the beast, and have their form or manner from the will of the beast, and have their end and use fixed in the profit and commodity of the beast. 22 And of the images of the beast, (that is, which the beast hath ordained to establish idolatry) which miraculously speak, and give judgement, or rather marvellously, by the fraud of the false prophets, the papists books are ful fraughted.

23 The third place, is a most wicked and most insolent tyranny, as was said before, usurped over the persons of men, in this vers: and over their goods and actions, in the next vers. For he is said both to bring upon all persons a tyrannous servitude, so that as bondslaves they might serve the beast: and also to exercise over all their goods and actions, a pedler-like abuse of indulgences and dispensations (as they term them) amongst their friends, and against others, to use most violent interdictions, and to shoot out cursings, even in natural and civil private and publick contracts, wherein all good faith ought to have place.

‡ Or, to give 24 That is, their crism, by which in the Sacrament (as they call it) of confirmation, they make servile unto themselvs, the persons and doings of men, signing them in their forehead and hands, and as for the sign left by Christ. (Of which chapter 7. 3.) and the holy sacrament of baptism they make as void. For whom Christ hath joyned unto himself by baptism, this beast maketh challenge unto them by his greasy crism, which he doubteth not to prefer before baptism, both in authority and in efficacy. b The mark of the name of the beast.

25 That is, have any traffique or entercourse with men, but they onely which have this anointing and consecrating of clerkly tonsure, as they call it, Read Gratian, De consecrationi, distinctione tertia c. omnes spiritus sanctus, &c. of these matters. 26 Here the false prophets do require three things, which are set down in the order of their greatness, a character, a name, and the number of the name. The meaning is, that man that hath not their first anointing, and clericall tonsure or shaving: secondly, holy orders, by receiving whereof is communicated the name of the beast: or finally, hath not attained that high degree of pontificall knowledge, and of the law (as they call it) Canonicall, and hath not as it were made up in account and cast the number of the mysteries thereof: for in these things consisteth the number of that name of the beast. And this is excellently set forth in the next vers. 27 That is, in the number of the beast consisteth that popish wisdom, which unto them seemeth the greatest of all others. In these words Saint John expoundeth that saying, which went before of the number of the beast, what it hath above his mark or cognisance and his name. These things, saith Saint John, the mark and the name of the beast do easily happen unto any man, but to have the number of the beast, is wisdom: that is, onely the wise and such as have understanding, can come by that number: for they must be most illuminate doctors that attain thereunto, as the words following do declare 28 How great and of what denomination this number of the beast is, by the which the beast accounteth his wisdom, Saint John declareth in these words. Dost thou demand how great it is? it is so great that it occupieth the whole man: he is alway learning, and never cometh to the knowledge thereof: he must be a man indeed that doeth attain unto it. Asked thou of what denomination it is? verily it standeth of six throughout, and perfectly riseth of all the parts thereof in their severall denominations (as they term them:) in standeth of six by unities, tens, hundreds, &c. so as there is no one part in learning and order pontificall, which is not either referred unto the head, and, at is were, the top thereof, or contained in the same: so fitly do all things in this hierarchy agree one with another, and with their head, Therefore that cruel beast Bonifface the eight, doth commend by the number of those six decretals which he perfected, in the proeme of the sixt book. which book (saith he) being to be added to five other books of the same volum of decretals, we thought good to name Sextum, the sixt: that the same volum by addition thereof containing a senary, or the number of six books (which is a number perfect) may yeeld a perfect form of managing all things, and perfect disciplin of behaviour. Here therefore is the number of the beast, who poureth from himself all his parts, and bringeth them all back again unto himself by his disciplin in most wise and cunning manner. If any man desire more of this, let him reade the gloss upon that place. I am not ignorant that other interpretations are brought upon this place: But I thought it my duty, with the good favour of all, and without the offence of any, to propound mine opinion in this point. And for this cause especially, for that it seemed unto me neither profitable, nor like to be true, that the number of the beast, or of the name of the beast should be taken, as the common sort of interpreters do take it. For this number of the beast teacheth, giveth out, imprinteth, as a publick mark of such as be his, and esteemeth that mark above all others, as the mark of those whom he loveth best. Now those other expositions seem rather to be far removed from this property and condition of that number: whether you respect the name Latinus, or Titan, or any other For these the beast doth not teach, nor give forth, nor imprint, but most diligently forbiddeth to be taught, and audaciously denieth: he approveth not these, but reproveth them: and hateth them that think so of this number, with an hatred greater than that of Vatinius.

Chap. XIV.

1 The Lamb standing on mount Sion with his company: 6 an angel preacheth the gospel. 8 The fall of Babylon. 15 The harvest of the world, and putting in of the sickle. 20 The vintage and wine-press of the wrath of God.

AND I looked, & lo, a Lamb [1] stood on the mount Sion, and with him [2] an hundred forty and four thousand, having his Fathers [3] name written in their foreheads.

2 And I heard a voice from heaven, as the voice of many waters, and as the voice of a great thunder: and I heard the voice of harpers harping with their harps:

3 And they sung as it were a new song before the throne, and before the four beasts, and the elders; and no man could learn that song, but the hundred and forty and four thousand, which were redeemed from the earth.

4 These are they which were not defiled with women: for they are virgins: these are they which follow the Lamb whithersoever

1 The history of the church of Christ being finished for more than a thousand and three hundred years, at which time Bonifface the eight lived, as before hath been said: there remaineth the rest of the history of the conflicting or militant church, from thence unto the time of the last victory in three chapters. For first of all, as the foundation of the whole history is described, the standing of the lamb with his army and retinue in five verses, after his worthy acts which he hath don, and yet doth, in most mighty manner, whilest he overthroweth Antichrist with the spirit of his mouth, in the rest of this chapter, and in the two following. Unto the description of the Lamb, are propounded three things, his situation, place and attendance: for the rest are expounded in the former visions, especially upon the first chapter. 2 As ready girt to do his office (Acts 7. 56.) in the midst of the church, which aforetime mount Sion did prefigure. 3 This retinue of the Lamb is described first by divine mark (as before 7. 2.) in this vers. Then by divine occupation, in that all and every one in his retinue most vehemently and sweetly (vers 2.) do glorify the Lamb with a speciall song before God and his elect angels: which song flesh and bloud cannot hear, nor understand, vers. 3. Lastly, by their deeds don before, and their sanctification in that they were virgins pure from spirituall and bodily fornication, that is, from impiety and unrighteousness, that they followed the Lamb as a guid unto all goodness, and cleaved unto him: that they are holy unto him, as of grace redeemed by him: that in truth and simplicity of Christ they have exercised all these things, sanctimony of life, the direction of the Lamb, a thankfull remembrance of redemption by him; finally, (to conclude in a word) that they are blameless before the Lord, vers. 4, 5.

he

he goeth: these † were redeemed from among men, being the first-fruits unto God, and to the Lamb.

† Gr. were bought

5 And in their mouth was found no guil: for they are without fault before the throne of God.

6 [4] And I saw [5] another angel flie in the midst of heaven, having the everlasting gospel to preach unto them that dwell on the earth, and to every nation, and kindred, and tongue, and people,

7 [6] Saying with a loud voice, Fear God, and give glory to him, for the hour of his judgement is come: * and worship him that made heaven and earth, and the sea and the fountains of waters.

8 And there followed another angel, saying, * Babylon is fallen, is fallen, that great city, because she made all nations drink of the wine of the [a] wrath of her fornication.

9 And the third angel followed them, saying with a loud voice, [7] If any man worship the beast and his image, and receive his mark in his forehead, or in his hand,

10 The same shall drink of the wine of the wrath of God, which is poured out without mixture into the cup of his indignation, and he shall be tormented with fire and brimstone, in the presence of the holy angels, and in the presence of the Lamb.

11 And the smoke of their torment ascendeth up for ever and ever. And they have no rest day nor night, who worship the beast and his image, and whosoever receiveth the mark of his name.

12 [8] Here is the patience of the saints: here are they that keep the commandments of God, and the faith of Jesus.

13 And I heard a voice from heaven saying unto me, Write, Blessed are the dead which die [b] in the Lord, ‡ from henceforth, yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labours, and their [c] works do follow them.

14 [9] And I looked, and behold, a [10] white cloud, and upon the cloud one sat like unto the Son of man, [11] having on his head a golden crown, and in his hand a [12] sharp sickle.

15 [13] And another angel came out of the temple, crying with a loud voice to him that sat on the cloud, * Thrust in thy sickle and reap, for the time is come for thee to reap, for the harvest of the earth is ‡ ripe.

16 And he that sat on the cloud, thrust in his sickle on the earth, and the earth was reaped.

17 [14] And another angel came out of the temple which is in heaven, he also having a sharp sickle.

18 And another angel came out from the altar, which had power over fire, and cried with a loud cry to him that had the sharp sickle, saying, Thrust in thy sharp sickle, and gather the clusters of the vine of the earth; for her grapes are fully ripe.

19 And the angel thrust in his sickle into the earth, and gathered the vine of the earth, and cast it into the great wine-press of the wrath of God.

20 And the wine-press was trodden without the city, [15] and bloud came out of the wine-press, even unto the horse-bridles, by the space of a thousand and six hundred furlongs.

4 The other part (as I said on the first vers.) is of the acts of the Lamb, the manner whereof is delivered in two sorts, of his speech and of his facts. His speeches are set forth unto the 13 vers of this chapter, and his facts unto the 16 chap. In the speech of the Lamb, which is the word of the gospel, are taught in this place these things: The service of the godly consisting inwardly of reverence towards God, and outwardly of the glorifying of him: the visible sign of which is adoration, vers. 7. The overthrowing of wicked Babylon, vers. 8. and the fall of every one of the ungodly which worship the beast, vers. 9. 10, 11. Finally, the state of the holy servants of God, both present, vers. 12. and to come, most blessed, according to the promise of God, vers. 13.

5 This angel is a type or figure of the good and faithfull servants of God, whom God especially from that time of Boniface the 8 hath raised up to the publishing of the gospel of Christ, both by preaching and by writing. So God first, near unto the time of the same Boniface, used Peter Cassiodorus an Italian; after, Arnold de villla nova, a Frenchman, then Occam, Dante, Petrarch, after that, Johannes de rupe cæsa, a Franciscan: after again, John wickliff an Englishman, and so continually one or another unto the restoring of the truth, and enlarging of his church.

6 That is, Babylon is destroyed by the sentence and judgement of God: the execution whereof S. John describeth, chap. 18. And this voice of the ministers of Christ hath continued since the time that Babylon (which is Rome) hath by deliberate counsel and manifest malice oppugned the light of the gospel offered from God. * Psal. 146. 5, 6. Acts. 14. 15. * Isa. 21. 9. Jer 51. 8. Chap. 18. 2. 2 Of her fornication, whereby God was provoked to wrath.

7 That is, Shall not worship God alone, but shall transfer his divine honour unto this beast, whether he do it with his heart, or counterfeiting in shew: For he (saith Christ) that denieth me before men, him will I deny before my Father and his angels, Matt. 10. 33. And this is that voice of the holy ministerie, which at this time is very much used of the holy and faithfull servants of God. For having now sufficiently found out the publick obstinacie of Babylon, they labour not any longer to thunder out against the same: but to save some particular members by terrour (as S. Jude speaketh) and to pluck them out of the publick flame: or els by vehement commiseration of their estate to lead them away, they set before them eternall death, into which they rush unawares, unless in good time they return unto God: but the godly which are of their own flock, they exhort unto patience, obedience, and faith in the Lord Jesus, and charge them to give light by their good example, of good life unto others.

8 The patience, sanctification, and justification by faith: the consequence whereof are, rest, felicitie, and glory eternall in the heavenly fellowship of God and his angels. b That is, for the Lord. ‡ Or, from henceforth saith the Spirit, yea. c By works, is meant the reward which followeth good works.

9 The second part of this chapter, as I said vers. 1. of the acts and doings of Christ, in overthrowing of Antichrist and his church by the Spirit of his divine mouth: seeing that having been called back by word both publickly and privatly unto his duty, and admonished of his most certain ruin; he yet ceaseth not to maintain and protect his own adherents, that they may do him service; and to afflict the godly with most barbarous persecutions. Of those things which Christ doth, there are 2 kinds: one common or generall in the rest of this chap. another particular against that savage and rebellious beast and his worshippers, chap. 15. 16. That common kind is the calamity of wars spread abroad through the whole earth, and filling all things with bloud, and that without respect of any person. This is figured or shadowed out in 2 types, of the harvest and vintage. Since the time that the light of the gospel began to shine out, and since prophecie or preaching by the grace of God was raised up again, how horrible wars have been kindled in the world! how much human flesh hath been thrown to the earth by this divine reaping? how much bloud (alas for wo) hath overflown for these 100 years? all histories do cry out, and this our age (if ever before) is now in horror by reason of the rage of that sickle which Antichrist calleth for. In this place is the first type, That is, Of the harvest.

10 Declaring his fiercenes by his colour, like unto that which is in the white or milk-circle of heaven.

11 As one that shall reign from God, and occupie the place of Christ in this miserable execution.

12 That is, A most fit and commodious instrument of execution, destroying all by hewing & thrusting through: for who may stand against God?

13 Christ giveth a commandment in this vers, and the angel executeth it in the next vers.

* Joel. 3. 13.

14 The other type (as I said vers. 14.) is the vintage: the manner whereof is one with that which went before, if thou except this, that the grape-gathering is more exact in seeking out every thing than is the harvest-labour. This is therefore a more grievous judgement, both because it succeedeth the other, and because it is understood to be executed with great diligence.

15 That is, It overflowed very deep, and very far and wide the speech is hyperbolicall or excessive, to signifie the greatnes of the slaughter. And these be those pleasant fruits forsooth, of the contempt of Christ, and desiring of Antichrist rather than him, which the miserable, mad, and blind world doth at this time reap.

Chap. XV.

1 The seven angels with the seven last plagues. 3 The song of them that overcome the beast. 7 The seven vials full of the wrath of God.

And [1] I saw another sign in heaven, great and marvellous, seven [2] angels having the seven last plagues, for in them is filled up the wrath of God.

2 [3] And I saw [4] as it were a sea of glass, mingled with fire, and [5] them that had gotten the victory over the beast, and over his image, and over his mark, and over the number of his name, [6] stand on the sea of glass, having the harps of God.

3 And they sing [7] the song of Moses the [a] servant of God, and the song of the Lamb, saying, [8] Great and marvellous are thy works, Lord God Almighty, * just and true are thy [b] ways, thou King of saints.

4 * Who shall not fear thee, O Lord, and glorifie thy name? for thou onely art holy: for all nations shall come and worship before thee, for thy judgements are made manifest.

1 This is that other place of the acts of Christ, as I noted before on 14. 14. Now therefore is shewed a singular work of the judgement of God belonging to the overthrow of Antichrist and his forces, of which divine work the preparation is described in this chapter: and the execution in the next. The preparation is first set down generally, and in type in this vers: and is after particularly set forth in the rest of the chapter.

2 Of which chap. 8. 9. in pouring forth the plagues of the world: for even these plagues do for the most part agree with those.

3 There are two parts of the narration: one, the confession of the Saints, glorifying God, when they saw the preparation of the judgements of God, unto the 4 vers: another the vocation, instruction, and confirmation of those instruments which God hath ordained for the execution of his judgements, in four other verses. 4 This part of the vision alludeth unto that sea, or large vessel of brass, in which the priests washed themselvs in the entrance of the temple: for in the entrance of the heavenly temple (as it is called vers. 5.) is said to have been a sea of glass, most lightsom and clear, unto the commoditie of those mixt with fire, that is, As containing the treasury of the judgements of God, which he bringeth forth and dispenseth according to his own pleasure: for out of the former, the priests were cleansed of old and out of this the ungodly are destroyed now, chap. 4. 6. 5 That is, The godly martyrs of Christ, who shall not give place even in miracles unto that beast: of these see before, chap. 13. 17. & 14 9, 10. 6 Glorifying God, from the particular observation of the weapons and instruments of Gods wrath, floating in the sea of glass. 7 That song of triumph, which is Exod. 15. 1, &c. a So is Moses called for honours sake, at it is set forth, Deut. 34. 10. 8 This song hath two parts: one a confession, both particular, in this vers, and generall, in the beginning of the next vers: another, a narration of causes belonging to the confession, whereof one kind is eternall in it self, and most present unto the godly, in that God is both holy, and alone God: another kind is future, and to come, in that the elect taken out of the Gentiles (that is, Out of the wicked ones and unbeleeving: as chap. 11. 2.) were to be brought unto the same state of happines by the magnificencie of the judgements of God in the next vers. * Psal. 145. 17. b Thy doings. * Jer. 10. 7.

5 [9] And after that I looked, and behold, the temple of the tabernacle of the testimony in heaven was opened:

6 And the seven angels came out of the temple, having the [10] seven plagues, clothed in [11] pure and white linen, and having their breasts [12] girded with golden girdles.

7 And one of the [13] four beasts gave unto the seven angels, seven golden vials full of the wrath of God, who liveth for ever and ever.

8 And the temple was filled with smoke from the glory of God, and from his power, [14] and no man was able to enter into the temple, till the seven plagues of the seven angels were fulfilled.

9 The second part of the narration (as was noted vers. 2.) wherein first, the authoritie of the whole argument and matter thereof is figured, by a forerunning type of a temple opened in heaven, as Ch. 11. 19 namely, that all those things are divine and of God, that proceed from thence, in this vers. Secondly, the administers or executers come forth out of the temple, vers. 6. Thirdly, they are furnished with instruments of the judgements of God, and weapons fit for the manner of the same judgements, ver. 7 Finally, they are confirmed by testimony of the visible glorie of God, in the last vers. A like testimony whereunto was exhibited of old in the law, Exod. 40. 34. 10 That is, commandments to inflict those seven plagues. Here is the figure called Metonymia. 11 which was in old time a sign of the kingly or princely dignitie 12 This girding was a sign of diligence, and the girdle of gold was a sign of sinceritie, and trustines in taking in charge the commandments of God 13 of these before, Chap. 4. 7 14 None of those 7 Angels might return, till he had performed fully the charge committed unto him, according to the decree of God.

CHAP. XVI.

2 The angels pour out their vials full of wrath. 6 The plagues that follow thereupon. 15 Christ cometh as a thief. Blessed are they that watch.

1 [1] And I heard a great voice out of the temple, saying to the seven angels, Go your ways and pour out the vials of the wrath of God upon the earth.

2 [2] And the first went, and poured out his vial upon the earth, and there fell a noisom and grievous sore upon the men which had the mark [3] of the beast, and upon them which worshipped his image.

3 [4] And the second angel poured out his vial upon the sea, and it [a] became as the bloud of a dead man: and every living soul died in the sea.

4 [5] And the third angel poured out his vial upon the rivers and fountains of waters, and they became bloud.

5 And I heard the angel of the waters say, Thou art righteous, O Lord, which art, & wast, and shalt be, because thou hast judged thus:

6 For they have shed the bloud of the saints and prophets, and thou hast given them bloud to drink, for they are worthy.

7 [6] And I heard another out of the altar say, Even so, Lord God Almighty, true and righteous are thy judgements.

8 [7] And the fourth angel poured out his vial upon the sun, and power was given unto him to scorch men with fire.

9 And men were ‡ scorched with great heat, and blasphemed the name of God, which hath power over these plagues: and they repented not, to give him glory.

10 [8] And the fifth angel poured out his vial upon the seat of the beast, and his kingdom was full of darkness, and they gnawed their tongues for pain:

11 And blasphemed the God of heaven because of their pains and their sores, and repented not of their deeds.

12 [9] And the sixth angel poured out his vial upon the great river [10] Euphrates, and [11] the water thereof was dryed up, [12] that the way of the kings of the east might be prepared.

13 And I saw [13] three unclean spirits [14] like frogs come out of the mouth of the [15] dragon, and out of the mouth of the [16] beast, and out of the mouth of the [17] false prophet.

14 For they are the spirits of devils, working miracles, which go forth unto the kings of the earth, and of the whole world, to gather them to the battel of that great day of God Almighty.

15 * [18] Behold, I come as a thief. Blessed is he that watcheth, and keepeth his garments, least he walk naked, and they see his shame.

16 [19] And he gathered them together into a place called in the Hebrew tongue, [20] Armageddon.

17 [21] And the seventh angel poured out his vial into the [22] air, and there came a great voice out of the temple of heaven, from [23] the throne, saying, [24] it is don.

18 [25] And there were voices, and thunders, & lightnings: & there was a great earthquake, such as was not since men were upon the earth, so mighty an earthquake and so great.

19 [26] And the great city was divided into three parts, and the cities [27] of the nations fell: and great [28] Babylon came in remembrance before God, * to give unto her the cup of the wine of the fiercenes of his wrath.

20 And every iland fled away, and the mountains [29] were not [b] found.

1 In the former chapter was set down the preparation unto the work of God: here is delivered the execution thereof. And in this discours of the execution, is a generall commandment in this vers, then a particular recitall in order of the execution don by every of the seven angels, in the rest of the chapter. This speciall execution against antichrist and his crew, doth in manner agree unto that which was generally don upon the whole world, chap. 8, and 9. and belongeth (if my conjecture fail me not) unto the same time Yet herein they do differ one from another, that this was particularly effected upon the princes and ringleaders of the wickednes of the world, the other generally against the whole world being wicked. And therefore these judgements are figured more grievous than those.

2 The history of the first angel, whose plague upon the earth is described almost in the same words with that sixth plague of the Egyptians, Exod. 9. 9. But it doth signifie a spirituall ulcer, and that torture or lutchery of conscience, feared with an hot Iron, which accuseth the ungodly within, and both by truth of the word (the light whereof God hath now so long shined forth) and by bitternes stirreth up and forceth out the sword of Gods wrath. 3 See chap. 13. 16. 4 The history of the second angel, who troubleth and molesteth the seas, that he may stir up the consciences of men sleeping in their wickednes. See chap. 8. 8 a It was turned into rotten and filthy bloud, such as is in dead bodies. 5 The story of the third angel striking the rivers in this vers, who proclaiming the justice of God, commendeth the same by a most grave comparison of the sins of men, with the punishment of God which is common to this place, and that which went before. wherefore also this praising is attributed to the angel of the waters, a name common to the second and third angels; according as both of them are said to be sent against the waters, albeit the one of the sea, the other of the rivers, in two verses. 6 A confirmation of the praise before going, out of the sanctuary of God, whether immediately by Christ, or by some one of his angels, for Christ also is called another angel, chap. 7. 2, 3. and 10. 1. 7 The story of the fourth angel, who throweth the plague upon the heaven and upon the sun, of which, Luk. 21. 26. the effects whereof are noted two. The one peculiar, that it shall scorch men with heat in this vers. The other proceeding accidentally from the former, that their fury shall so much the more be enraged against God, in the next vers: when yet (O wonderfull mercie and patience of God) all other creatures are first stricken often and grievously by the hand of God before mankind, by whom he is provoked; as the things before going do declare. ‡ Or, burned

8 The story of the fifth angel, who striketh the kingdom of the beast with two plague, abroad with darknes, within with biles and dolours most grievous, throughout his whole kingdom, that thereby he might wound the conscience of the wicked, and punish that most perverse obstinacie of the idolaters: whereof arose perturbation, and thence a furious indignation and desperate madnes, raging against God, and hurtfull unto it self.

9 The story of the sixth angel, divided into his act, and the event thereof. The act is, that the angel did cast out of his mouth the plague of a most glowing heat, wherewith even the greatest floods, and which most were wont to swell and overflow (as Euphrates) were dried up, by the counsel of God in this vers. The event is, the meer madnes wherewith the wicked are inraged that they may scorn the judgements of God, and abuse them furiously to serve their own turn, and to the executing of their own wicked outrage.

10 The bound of the spirituall Babylon, and to the fortresses of the same, Chap. 9 19.

11 So the church of the ungodly, and kingdom of the beast, is said to be left naked, all the defences thereof in which they put their trust, being taken away from it

12 That is, That even they which dwell further off, may with more commoditie make haste unto that sacrifice which the Lord hath appointed. That is, Every of them bent their whole force, and conspired that by wonders, word and work, they might bring into the same destruction, all kings, princes and potentates of the world, cursedly bewitched of them by their spirits, and teachers of the vanity and impurity of the beast that committed fornication with the kings of the earth. And this is a right description of our times. 14 Croking with all importunity, and continually day and night provoking and calling forth to arms, as the trumpets and furies of wars, as is declared in the next vers. 7. 15 That is, The devil, as chap. 11. 5. 16 whereof chap. 13. 1. 17 That is, Of that other beast, of which chap. 13. 11 for so is he called also, chap. 19. 20. & 20. 10. * Matth. 24. 43. 18 A parenthesis for admonition, in which God warneth his holy servants, who rest in the expectation of Christ, always to address their minds unto his coming, and to look unto themselvs, that they be not shamefully made naked and circumvented of these unclean spirits, and so they be miserably unprepared at the coming of the Lord, so Matth. 24 29. & 25. 13. 19 Namely, The angel, who holily according to the commandment of God, was to do sacrifice: notwithstanding that those impure spirits do the same wickedly, as servants, not unto God, but unto the beast that hath seven heads. 20 That is, (to say nothing of other expositions) the mountain it self, or mountain places of Megiddon. Now it is certain by the holy scriptures, that Megiddon is a citie and territorie in the tribe of Manasses, bordering upon Issachar and Asher, and was made famous by that lamentable overthrow of king Josias, whereof 2 Reg 23. 30. & 2 Coron 35. 22. & Zach. 12. 11. In this mountain-countrey God saith by figure, or type, that the kings of the peoples which serve the beast, shall meet together: because the Gentiles did always cast that lamentable overthrow in the teeth of the church of the Jews, unto their great reproach: and therefore were perswaded that that place should be most fortunate unto them (as they speak) and unfortunate unto the godly. But God here pronounceth, that that reproach of the church, and confidence of the ungodly, shall by himself be taken away, in the self-same place where the nations perswaded themselvs they should mightily exult and triumph against God and his church. 21 The story of the seventh angel unto the end of the chapter, in which first is shewed by sign and speech, the argument of this plague, in this vers, and then is declared the execution thereof in the verses following. 22 From whence he might move the heaven above, and the earth beneath. 23 That is, from him that sitteth on the throne, by the figure called Metonymia. 24 That is, Babylon is undon, as is shewed vers. 19. and in the chapters following. For the first onset (as I might say) of this denunciation, is described in this chapter: and the last containing a perfect victory, is described in those that follow. 25 Now is declared the execution (as is said in vers. 17) and the things that shall last come to pass in heaven and in earth before the overthrow of the beast of Babylon: both generally, vers. 18. and particularly in the cursed city, and such as have any familiaritie therewith, in the tree last verses. 26 The seat or standing place of antichrist. 27 Of all such as cleave unto antichrist, and fight against Christ. 28 That harlot, of whom in the next chapter following. Now this phrase, to come into remembrance, is after the common use of the Hebrew speech, borrowed from men, and attributed unto God. * Jer. 25. 15. 29 That is, were seen no more, or were no more extant. A borrowed Hebraism. b Appeared not, which the Hebrews utter after this sort, were not, Gen. 5. 24.

21 [30] And there fell upon men a great hail out of heaven, every ſtone about the weight of a [c] talent: and men blaſphemed God becauſe of the plague of the hail; for the plague thereof was exceeding great.

30 The manner of the particular execution, moſt evidently teſtifying the wrath of God by the originall and greatneſs thereof: the levent thereof is the ſame with that which is Chap 9. 13. and that which hath been mentioned in this chapter, from the execution of the fourth angel hitherto, that is to ſay, An incorrigible pertinacie of the world in their rebellion, and an heart that cannot repent, verſ. 9 & 11. c As it were, about the weight of a talent, and a talent was threeſcore pound, that is, ſix hundred groats, whereby is ſignified a marvellous and ſtrange weight.

Chap. XVII.

3, 4 A woman arayed in purple and ſcarlet, with a golden cup in her hand, ſitteth upon the beaſt, 5 Which is great Babylon the mother of all abominations. 9 The interpretation of the ſeven heads, 12 and the ten horns. 14 The victory of the Lamb. 16 The puniſhment of the whore.

1 The ſtate of the church militant being declared, now followeth the ſtate of the church, overcoming and getting victory: as I ſhewed before in the beginning of the tenth chapter. This ſtate is ſet forth in four chapters. As in the place before-going I noted, that in that hiſtory the order of time was not always exactly obſerved, ſo the ſame is to be underſtood in this hiſtory, that it is diſtinguiſhed according to the perſons of which it treateth, and that in the ſeverall ſtories of the perſons is ſeverally obſerved in the time thereof. For firſt, is delivered the ſtory of Babylon deſtroyed in this and the next chapter, (for this Babylon, out of all doubt, ſhall periſh before the two beaſts and the dragon) Secondly, is delivered the deſtruction of both the two beaſts, chap. 19. And laſtly, of the dragon, chap. 20. In the ſtory of the ſpirituall Babylon, are diſtinctly ſet forth the ſtate thereof in this chapter, and the overthrow thereof from God, chap. 18. In this vers and that which followeth, is a tranſition or paſſage unto the firſt argument, conſiſting of the particular calling of the prophet (as often heretofore) and a generall propoſition. 2 That is, that damnable harlot, by a figure called hypallagie. For ſaint John as yet had not ſeen her. Although another interpretation may be born, yet I like this better. 3 The ſentence that is pronounced againſt this harlot. 3 Henceforth is propounded the type of Babylon and the ſtate thereof, in four verſes. After, a declaration of the type, in the reſt of this chapter. In the type are deſcribed two things, the beaſt (of whom chapter 13) in the 3 verſ. and the woman that ſitteth upon the beaſt, verſ. 4, 5, 6. The beaſt in proceſs of time hath gotten ſomwhat more than was expreſſed in the former viſion. Firſt, in that it is not read before, that he was apparelled in ſcarlet, a robe imperiall and of triumph. Secondly, in that this is full of names of blaſphemy: the other carried the name of blaſphemy onely in his heads. So God did teach that this beaſt is much increaſed in impietie and injuſtice, and doth in this laſt age, triumph in both theſe more inſolently and proudly than ever before. b A ſcarlet colour, that is, with a red and purple garment: and ſurely it was not without cauſe that the Romiſh clergie were ſo much delighted with this colour. 4 That harlot, the ſpirituall Babylon which is Rome. She is deſcribed by her attire, profeſſion and deeds. 5 In attire moſt glorious, triumphant, moſt rich, and moſt gorgeous ‡ Gr. gilded 6 In profeſſion, the nouriſher of all, in this vers, and teaching her myſteries unto all, verſ. 5. ſetting forth all things moſt magnificently: but indeed moſt perniciouſly beſotting miſerable men with her cup, and bringing upon them a deadly giddineſs. 7 Deceiving with the title of religion, and publick inſcription of myſtery: which the beaſt in times paſt did not bear. 8 An expoſition in which S. John declareth what manner of woman this is. ‡ Or, fornications, 9 In manner of deeds: She is red with bloud, and ſhedderh it moſt licentiouſly, and therefore is coloured with the bloud of the ſaints; as on the contrary part, Chriſt is ſet forth imbrewed with the bloud of his enemies, Eſai 63. 1. 10 A paſſage unto the ſecond part of this chapter, by occaſion given of S. John, as the words of the angel do ſhew in the next vers. 11 The ſecond part of this place, as I ſaid vers 1. The ennarration of the viſion promiſed in the vers following. Now there is delivered firſt an enarration of the beaſt and his ſtory, unto the 14 vers. After, of the harlot, unto the end of the chapter.

1 And there came one of the ſeven angels which had the ſeven vials, and talked with me, ſaying unto me, Come hither, I will ſhew [2] unto thee the [a] judgement of the great whore, that ſitteth upon many waters:

2 With whom the kings of the earth have committed fornication, and the inhabiters of the earth have been made drunk with the wine of her fornication.

3 [3] So he carried me away in the ſpirit into the wilderneſs: and I ſaw a woman ſit upon a [b] ſcarlet-coloured beaſt, full of names of blaſphemy, having ſeven heads, and ten horns.

4 And the [4] woman was arayed [5] in purple, and ſcarlet colour, and † decked with gold and precious ſtone and pearls, having [6] a golden cup in her hand, full of abominations and filthineſs of her fornication.

5 [7] And upon her forehead was a name written, MYSTERY, [8] BABYLON THE GREAT, THE MOTHER OF ‡ HARLOTS, AND ABOMINATIONS OF THE EARTH.

6 [9] And I ſaw the woman drunken with the bloud of the ſaints, and with the bloud of the martyrs of Jeſus: [10] and when I ſaw her, I wondred with great admiration.

7 [11] And the angel ſaid unto me, Wherefore didſt thou marvel? I will tell thee the myſtery of the woman, and of the beaſt that carrieth her, which hath the ſeven heads and ten horns.

8 [12] The beaſt that thou ſaweſt, was, [13] and is not, & [14] ſhall aſcend out of the bottomleſs pit, and go into perdition, and they that dwell on the earth ſhall wonder, (whoſe names were not written in the book of life from the foundation of the world) [15] when they behold the beaſt that was, and is not, and yet is.

9 [16] And here is the mind which hath wiſdom. The [c] ſeven heads [17] are ſeven mountains, on which the woman ſitteth.

10 [18] And there are ſeven kings, [19] five are fallen, [20] and one is, [21] and the other is not yet come; and when he cometh, he muſt continue a ſhort ſpace.

11 [22] And the beaſt that was, and is not, even he is [23] the eighth, and is [24] of the ſeven, [25] and goeth into perdition.

12 [26] And the ten horns which thou ſaweſt, are [27] ten kings, which have received no

12 The ſtory of the beaſt hath a triple deſcription of him. The firſt is a diſtinction of this beaſt from all that ever have been at any time: which diſtinction is contained in this vers. The ſecond is a delineation or a painting out of the beaſt by things preſent, by which he might even at that time be known of the godly: and this delineation is according to his heads, verſ. 12, 13, 14. This beaſt is that empire of Rome, of which I ſpake chap. 13. 11. according to the mutations and changes whereof, which then had already happened, the Holy Ghoſt hath diſtinguiſhed and ſet out the ſame. The apoſtle diſtinguiſheth this beaſt from all others in theſe words: The beaſt which thou ſaweſt, was, and is not. For ſo I expound the words of the apoſtle for the evidencie ſake, as I will further declare in the notes following. 13 The meaning is, That beaſt which thou ſaweſt before (chap. 13. 1.) and which yet thou haſt now ſeen, was, (was I ſay) even from Julius Cæſar in reſpect of beginning, riſing up, ſtation, glory, dominion, manner and ſtock, from the houſe of Julius: and yet is not now the ſame, if thou look'ſt unto the houſe and ſtock: for the dominion of this family was tranſlated unto another, after the death of Nero from that other unto a third, from a third unto a fourth, and ſo forth, was varied and altered by innumerable changes. Finally, the empire is one, as it were one beaſt: but exceedingly varied by kinreds, families, and perſons. It was therefore (ſaith S. John) in the kinred or houſe of Julius and now it is not in that kinred, but tranſlated unto another. 14 As if he ſhould ſay, Alſo this ſame that is, ſhall ſhortly not be: but ſhall aſcend out of the depth, or out of the ſea (as was ſaid, chap. 13. 1.) that is, ſhall be a new ſtock from amongſt the nations without difference, and ſhall in the ſame ſtate go unto deſtruction, or run and periſh: and ſo ſhall ſucceſſivly new princes or emperours come and go, ariſe and fall, the body of the beaſt remaining ſtill, but toſſed with ſo many and often alterations as no man can but marvell that this beaſt was able to ſtand and hold it out, in ſo many mutations: verily no empire that ever was toſſed with ſo many changes, and, as it were, with ſo many tempeſts of the ſea, ever continued ſo long. 15 That is, as many as have not learned the providence of God, according to the faith of the ſaints, ſhall marvell at theſe grievous and often changes: when they ſhall conſider the ſelf-ſame beaſt, which is the Roman empire, to have been, and not to be, and to be, and ſtill moleſted with perpetuall mutation, and yet in the ſame to ſtand and continue. This in mine opinion, is the moſt ſimple expoſition of this place, confirmed by the event of the things themſelvs. Although the laſt change alſo, by which the empire, that before was civill, became eccleſiaſticall, is obſcurely ſignified in theſe words, of which two, the firſt exerciſed cruelty upon the bodies of the ſaints: the other alſo upon their ſouls: the firſt by human order and policy, the other under the colour of the law of God, and of religion, raged and imbrewed it ſelf with the bloud of the godly. 16 An exhortation, preparing unto audience by the ſame argument with that of Chriſt: He that hath eares to hear, let him hear. wherefore for mine own part, I had rather read in this place, Let there be here a mind, &c. So the angel paſſeth fully unto the ſecond place of this deſcription. c Very children know what the ſeven hilled citie is, which is ſo much ſpoken of, and whereof Virgil thus reporteth, And compaſſeth ſeven towers in one wall: that citie it is, that when John wrote theſe things, had rule over the kings of the earth. It was, and is not, and yet it remaineth to this day, but it is declining unto deſtruction. 17 This is the painting out of the beaſt by things preſent (as I ſaid before) whereby S. John endeavoured to deſcribe the ſame, that he might be both known of the godly in that age, and be further obſerved and marked of the poſterity afterwards. This delineation hath one type, that is, His heads, but a double deſcription or application of the type: one permanent, from the nature it ſelf, the other changeable, by the working of men. The deſcription permanent, is by the ſeven hils, in this vers; the other that fleeteth, is from the ſeven kings, verſ. 10, 11. And here it is worthy to be obſerved, that one type hath ſomtime two or more applications, as ſeemeth good to the Holy Ghoſt to expreſs, either one thing by divers types, or divers things by one type. So I noted before of the ſeven ſpirits, chap. 1. 4. Now this woman that ſitteth upon ſeven hills, is the city of Rome, called in times paſt of the Grecians, heptalophos, that is, Of ſeven tops or creſts; and of Varro, ſepticeps, that is, Of her ſeven heads (as here) or ſeven heads, and of others, ſeptemcollis, that is, Standing upon ſeven hills. 18 The beginning of theſe kings or emperours, is almoſt the ſame with the beginning of the church of Chriſt, which I ſhewed before, chap. 11. 1. Namely, From the year 25, after the paſſion of Chriſt, what time the temple and church of the Jews was overthrown. In which year it came to paſs by the providence of God, that that ſaying, The beaſt was, and is not, was fulfilled before the deſtruction of the Jews, immediatly following, came to paſs. That was the year from the building of the citie of Rome, 809. from which year S. John both numbreth the emperours which hitherto had been, when he wrote theſe things, and foretelleth of two others next to come: and that with this purpoſe, that when this particular prediction or foretelling of things to come, ſhould take effect, the truth of all other predictions in the church, might be the more confirmed. which ſign God of old mentioned in the law, Deut. 18. and Jeremie confirmeth, chap. 28. 8. 19 whoſe names are theſe: the firſt, Servius Sulpitius Galba, who was the ſeventh emperour of the people of Rome, the ſecond, Marcus Salvius Otho, the third, Aulus Vitellius, the fourth, Titus Flavius Veſpaſianus, the fifth, Titus Veſpaſianus his ſon, of his own name. 20 Flavius Domitian, ſon of the firſt Veſpaſian. For in the latter end of his days, S. John wrote theſe things, as witneſſeth Irenæus, Lib 5. adverſus hæreſes. 21 Nerva, the empire being now tranſlated from the family of Flavius. This man reigned onely one year, four moneths, and nine days, as the hiſtory-writers do tell. 22 This is ſpoken by the figure ſynecdoche, as much to ſay as, that head of the beaſt which was and is not, becauſe it is cut off, and Nerva in ſo ſhort time extinguiſhed. How many heads there were, ſo many beaſts there ſeemed to be in one. See the like ſpeech in the third vers of the thirteenth chapter. 23 Nerva Trajanus, who himſelf in divers reſpects is called here the ſeventh and the eighth. 24 Though in number and order of ſucceſſion he be the eighth, yet he is reckoned together with one of theſe heads, becauſe Nerva and he were one head: For this man obtained authority together with Nerva, and was conſul with him, when Nerva left his life. 25 Namely, To moleſt with perſecutions the churches of Chriſt, as the hiſtories do accord, and I have briefly noted, chap. 2. 10. 26 The third place of this deſcription, as I ſaid verſ. 8. is a propheticall prediction of things to come, which the beaſt ſhould do, as in the words following ſaint John doth not obſcurely ſignifie, ſaying, Which have not yet received the kingdom, &c For there is an antitheſis or oppoſition between theſe kings, and thoſe that went before. And firſt the perſons are deſcribed in this vers, then their deeds in the two verſes following. 27 That is, Ariſing with their kingdoms out of the Roman beaſts: at ſuch times as that political empire began, by the craft of the pope, greatly to fall.

13 [29] These have one mind, and shall give their power and strength unto the beast.

14 These shall make war with the [30] Lamb, and the Lamb shall overcome them: * for he is Lord of lords, and King of kings, and they that are with him, are called, and chosen, and faithfull.

15 [31] And he saith unto me, The waters which thou sawest, where the whore sitteth, [32] are peoples, and multitudes, and nations, and tongues.

16 And the ten [33] horns which thou sawest upon the beast, these shall hate the whore, and shall make her desolate, and naked, and shall eat her flesh, and burn her with fire.

17 [34] For God hath put in their hearts to fulfill his will, and to agree, and give their kingdom unto the beast, untill the words of God shall be fulfilled.

18 And the woman which thou sawest, is that [35] great city which reigneth over the kings of the earth.

28 Namely, with that second beast, whom we called before a false prophet, which beast ascending out of the earth, got unto himself all the authority and power of the first beast, and exerciseth the same before his face, as was said, chap. 13. 11, 12. For when the politicall empire of the west began to bow downwards, there both arose those ten kings, and the second beast took the opportunitie offered, to usurp unto himself all the power of the former beast. These kings long ago, many have numbered and determined to be ten, and a great part of the events plainly testifieth the same in this our age.

29 That is, by consent and agreement, that they may conspire with the beast, and depend upon his beck. Their storie is divided into three parts, counsels, acts, and events. The counsels, some of them consist in communicating of judgements and affections: and some in communicating of power, which they are said to have given unto this beast, in this vers. 30 with Christ and his church, as the reason following doth declare, and here are mentioned the facts and events, which followed for Christ his sake, and for the grace of God the Father towards those that are called, elected, and are his faithfull ones in Christ. * 1 Tim. 6 15. Chap. 19. 6.

31 This is the other member of the narration, as I said vers. 7. belonging unto the harlot, shewed in the vision, vers. 3. In this history of the harlot, these three things are distinctly propounded, what is her magnificency, in this vers, what is her fall, and by whom it shall happen unto her in the 2 verses following: and lastly, who that harlot is, in the last vers. This place, which by order of nature should have been the first, is therefore made the last, because it was more fit to be joyned with the next chapter. 32 That is, as unconstant and variable as are the waters. Upon this foundation sitteth this harlot as queen, a vain person, upon that which is vain.

33 The ten kings, as vers. 12. The accomplishment of this fact and event is daily increased in this our age, by the singular providence and most mighty government of God. wherefore the facts are propounded in this vers, and the cause of them in the vers following. 34 A reason rendred from the chief efficient cause, which is the providence of God, by which alone Saint John by inversion of order affirmeth to have come to pass both that the kings should execute upon the harlot that which pleased God, and which he declared in the vers next before going: and also that by one consent and counsel, they should give their kingdom unto the beast, &c. vers. 13. 14. for as these being blinded have before depended upon the beck of the beast that lifteth up the harlot, so it is said, that afterward it shall come to pass, that they shall turn back, and shall fall away from her, when their hearts shall be turned into better state by the grace and mercy of God. 35 That is, Rome, that great city, or onely city (as Justinian calleth it) the king and head whereof was then the emperour, but now the pope, since that the condition of the beast was changed.

Chap. XVIII.

1 Babylon is fallen. 5 The people of God commanded to depart out of her. 9 The kings of the earth, 11 with the merchants and mariners, lament over her. 20 The saints rejoyce for the judgements of God upon her.

And [1] after these things, I saw another [2] angel come down from heaven, having great power, and the earth was lightned with his glory.

2 And he cried mightily with a strong voice, [3] saying, * Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen, and is become the habitation of devils, and the hold of every foul spirit, and a cage of every unclean and hatefull bird.

3 For all nations have drunk of the wine of the wrath of her fornication, and the kings of the earth have committed fornication with her, and the merchants of the earth are waxed rich through the ‡ abundance of her delicacies.

1 The second place (as I said before chap. 17. 1.) of the historie of Babylon is, of the woefull fall and ruin of that whore of Babylon. This historicall prediction concerning her, is threefold. The first a plain and simple foretelling of her ruin, in 3 verses. The second a figurative prediction by the circumstances, thence unto the 20 vers. The third, a confirmation of the same by sign or wonder, unto the end of the chapter.

2 Either Christ the eternall word of God the Father (as often elsewhere) or a created Angel, and one deputed unto this service, but throughly furnished with greatness of power, and with light of glory, as the ensign of power. 3 The prediction or foreshewing of her ruin, containing both the fall of Babylon, in this vers, and the cause thereof uttered by way of allegorie concerning her spiritual and carnall wickedness, that is, her most great impiety and injustice, in the next vers: her fall is first simply declared of the angel, and then the greatness thereof is shewed here, by the events, where he saith it shall be the seat and habitation of devils, of wild beasts, and of cursed fowls, as of old, Isa. 13. 21. and often elsewhere. * Chap. 14. 8. ‡ Or, power.

4 [4] And I heard another voice from heaven, saying, [5] Come out of her, my people, that ye [6] be not partakers of her sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues:

5 For her sins have [a] reached unto heaven, and God hath remembred her iniquities.

6 [7] Reward her even as she rewarded you, and double unto her double, according to her works: in the cup which she hath filled, fill to her double.

7 How much she hath glorified her self, and lived deliciously, so much torment and sorrow give her: for she saith [b] in her heart, I sit a * queen, and am [c] no widow, and shall [d] see no sorrow.

8 Therefore shall her plagues come in [e] one day, death, and mourning, and famin; and she shall be utterly burnt with fire: for strong is the Lord God who judgeth her.

9 And [8] the kings of the earth, who have committed fornication, and lived deliciously with her, shall bewail her, and lament for her, when they shall see the smoke of her burning:

10 Standing afar off for the fear of her torment, saying, Alas, alas, that great city Babylon, that mighty city; for in one hour is thy judgement come.

11 [9] And the merchants of the earth shall weep and mourn over her, for no man buyeth her merchandise any more:

12 The merchandise of gold and silver, and precious stones, and of pearls, and fine linen, and purple, and silk, and scarlet, and all ‡ thyne-wood, and all manner vessels of ivory, and all manner vessels of most precious wood, and of brass, and iron, and marble,

13 And cinnamon, and odours, and ointments, and frankincense, and wine, and oyl, and fine flour, and wheat, and beasts, and sheep, and horses, and chariots, and ‡ slaves, and souls of men.

14 [10] And the [f] fruits that thy soul lusted after, are departed from thee, and all things which were dainty and goodly, are departed from thee, and thou shalt find them no more at all.

15 The merchants of these things which were made rich by her, shall stand afar off, for the fear of her torment, weeping and wailing,

16 And saying, Alas, alas, that great city, that was clothed in fine linen, and purple, and scarlet, and decked with gold, and precious stones, and pearls:

17 [11] For in one hour so great riches is come

4 The second prediction, which is of the circumstances of the ruin of Babylon. of these there are two kinds: one going before it, as that, betorchand the godly are delivered, unto the ninth vers: the other following upon her ruin, namely, the lamentation of the wicked, and rejoycing of the godly, unto the twentieth vers.

5 Two circumstances going before the ruin, are commanded in this place: one is, that the godly depart out of Babylon: as I mentioned chap. 12. 10 have been don in time past, before the destruction of Jerusalem: this charge is given here, and in the next vers. The other is, that every one of them occupie themselves in their own place in executing the judgement of God, as it was commanded the Levites of old, Exod. 32. 27. and that they sanctifie their hands unto the Lord, 1 Sam. 29.

6 Of this commandment there are two causes; to avoid the contagion of sin, and to shun the participation of those punishments that belong thereunto.

a He useth a word which signifieth the following of sins one after another, and piling one upon another in such sort that they grew at length to such an heap, that they came up even to heaven.

7 The prosecution of the godly, & the commandment of executing the judgements of God, stand upon three causes which are here expressed, the unjust wickedness of the whore of Babylon, in this vers, her cursed pride, opposing it self against God, which is the fountain of all evil actions, vers. 7. & her most just damnation by the sentence of God vers. 8.

b with her self.

* Isa. 47. 8.

c I am full of people & riches.

d I shall take of none.

e Shortly, and at one instant.

8 The circumstances following the fall of Babylon, or the consequents thereof (as I distinguished them, vers. 4.) are two: Namely, The lamentation of the wicked, unto the 19 vers., and the rejoycing of the godly, vers. 20. This most sorrowfull lamentation, according to the person of them that lament, hath three members: the first whereof is, the mournings of the kings and mighty men of the earth, in two verses: The second is, the lamentation of the merchants that traffick by land, thence unto the 16 vers. The third is, the wailing of those that merchandise by sea, vers. 16, 17, 18. In every of those the cause and manner of their mourning is described in order, according to the condition of those that mourn, with observation of that which best agreeth unto them. 9 The lamentation of those that trade by land, as I distinguished immediatly before. ‡ Or, sweet ‡ Or, bodies. 10 An apostrophe, or turning of the speech in imitation: used for more vehemencie, as if those merchants, after the manner of mourners should in passionate speech speak unto Babylon, though now utterly fallen and overthrown. So Esay 21. 9. and in many other places. f By this is meant that season which is next before the fall of the leaf, at what season fruits ripen, and the word signifieth such fruits as are longed for.

11 The manner of mourning used by them that trade by sea.

to

to nought. And every ſhip-maſter, and all the company in ſhips, and ſailers, and as many as trade by ſea, ſtood afar off, 18 And cryed, when they ſaw the ſmoke of her burning, ſaying, What city is like unto this great city?

19 And they caſt duſt on their heads, and cryed, weeping and wailing, ſaying, Alas, alas, that great city, wherein were made rich all that had ſhips in the ſea, by reaſon of her coſtlineſs, for in one hour is ſhe made deſolate.

20 [12] Rejoyce over her, thou heaven, and ye holy apoſtles and prophets, for God hath avenged you on her.

21 [13] And a mighty angel took up a ſtone like a great milſtone, and caſt it into the ſea, ſaying, Thus with violence ſhall that great city Babylon be thrown down, and ſhall be found no more at all.

22 [14] And the voice of harpers, and muſicians, and of pipers, and trumpeters, ſhall be heard no more at all in thee: and no craftſman, of whatſoever craft he be, ſhall be found any more in thee: and the ſound of a milſtone ſhall be heard no more at all in thee.

23 And the light of a candle ſhall ſhine no more at all in thee: and the voice of the bridegroom and of the bride ſhall be heard no more at all in thee: for thy merchans were the great men of the earth; for by thy ſorceries were all nations deceived.

24 And in her was found the [15] bloud of prophets, [16] and of ſaints, and of all that were ſlain upon the earth.

12 The other conſequent upon the other ruin of Babylon is the exultation or rejoycing of the godly in heaven and in earth, as was noted verſ. 9.
13 The third prediction, as I ſaid verſ. 1. ſtanding of a ſign, and the interpretation thereof: the interpretation thereof is in two ſorts, firſt by a ſimple propounding of the thing it ſelf, in this vers, and then by declaration of the events, in the verſes following.
14 The events are two, the one of them oppoſite unto the other, for amplification ſake, There ſhall be, ſaith he, in Babylon no mirth nor joy at all, in this and the next vers, but all heavy and lamentable things from the bloudy ſlaughters of the righteous, and the vengeance of God coming upon it for the ſame. 15 That is, Shed by bloudy maſſacres, and calling for vengeance. 16 That is, proved and found out, as if God had appointed a juſt inquiſition concerning the impiety, unnaturalneſs, and iniuſtice of theſe men.

CHAP. XIX.

1 God is praiſed in heaven for judging the great whore, and avenging the bloud of his ſaints. 7 The marriage of the Lamb. 10 The angel will not be worſhipped. 17 The fowls called to the great ſlaughter.

AND [1] after theſe things I heard a great voice of much people in heaven, ſaying, [a 2] Alleluja, ſalvation, and glory, and honour, and power unto the Lord our God:

2 For true and righteous are his judgements, for he hath judged the great whore, which did corrupt the earth with her fornication, and hath avenged the bloud of his ſervants at her hand.

3 And again they ſaid, [3] Alleluja: and her ſmoke roſe up for ever and ever.

4 And the four and twenty elders, and the four beaſts fell down and worſhipped God that ſat on the throne, ſaying, Amen, Alleluja.

5 [4] And a voice came out of the [5] throne, ſaying, Praiſe our God, all ye his ſervants, and ye that fear him, both ſmall and great.

1 This chapter hath in ſum, two parts, one tranſitory, or of paſſage unto the things that follow, unto the tenth vers: another hiſtoricall of the victory of Chriſt gotten againſt both the beaſts, unto the end of the chapter: which I ſaid was the ſecond hiſtory of this argument, chap. 17.
1. The tranſition hath two places, one of praiſing God for the overthrow don unto Babylon in 4 verſes: and another likewiſe of praiſe, and prophetical, for the coming of Chriſt unto his kingdom, and his moſt royall marriage with his church thence unto the 10 verſ. The former praiſe hath three branches, diſtinguiſhed after the ancient manner of thoſe that ſing, proſphoneſis, that is, an invitation, or provokement in two verſes: antiphonia, a reſponſe or anſwer in the third vers: and ſunodia, cloſe or joyning together in harmony: all which I thought good of purpoſe to diſtinguiſh in this place, leaſt any man ſhould, with Porphyrius, or other like dogs, object unto Saint John or the heavenly church, a childiſh and idle repetition of ſpeech. a Praiſe the Lord. 2 The propoſition of praiſe with exhortation in this vers, and the cauſe thereof, in the next vers. 3 The ſong of the antiphonie or reſponſe, containing an amplification of the praiſe of God, from the perpetuall and moſt certain teſtimony of his divine judgement, as was don at Sodom and Gomorrha, Gen. 19. 4 The ſecond place of praiſe, as I ſaid verſ. 1. which firſt is commanded from God in this vers: and then is in moſt ample manner pronounced of the creatures, both becauſe they ſee that kingdom of Chriſt to come, which moſt they deſire, verſ 6. & alſo becauſe they ſee that the church is called forth to be brought home into the houſe of her husband by holy marriage, unto the fellowſhip of this kingdom, verſ. 7, 8. wherefore Saint John is commanded to write in a book the epiphonema or acclamation joyned with a divine teſtimony, verſ. 9. 5 Out of the temple from God, as 11, 19.

6 And I heard [6] as it were the voice of a great multitude, and as the voice of many waters, and as the voice of mighty thundrings, ſaying, Alleluja: for the Lord God omnipotent reigneth.

7 Let us be glad and rejoyce, and give honour to him: for the marriage of the Lamb is come, and his wife hath [7] made her ſelf ready.

8 And to her was granted, that ſhe ſhould be arayed in [8] fine linen, clean and white: for the fine [9] linen is the [b] righteouſneſs of ſaints.

9 [10] And he ſaith unto me, Write, * Bleſſed are they which are called unto the marriage-ſupper of the Lamb. And he ſaith unto me, Theſe are the true ſayings of God.

10 [11] And I fell at his feet to worſhip him: and he ſaid unto me, See thou do it not: I am thy fellow-ſervant, and of thy brethren that have the [c] teſtimonie of Jeſus, worſhip God: for the teſtimonie of [d] Jeſus is the ſpirit of propheſie.

11 [12] And I ſaw [13] heaven opened, and behold a white horſe, and he that ſat upon him was called faithfull and true, and in righteouſneſs he doth judge and make war.

12 His eyes were as a flame of fire, and on his head were many crowns, and he had a name written that no man knew but he himſelf.

13 * And he was clothed with a veſture dipt in bloud, and his name is called, The word of God.

14 [14] And the armies which were in heaven followed him upon white horſes, clothed in fine linen, white and clean.

15 [15] And out of his mouth goeth a ſharp ſword, that with it he ſhould ſmite the nations: and he ſhall rule them with a rod of iron: and he treadeth the wine-preſs of the fierceneſs and wrath of Almighty God.

16 [16] And he hath on his veſture, and on his thigh a name written, * KING OF KINGS, AND LORD OF LORDS.

17 [17] And I ſaw an angel ſtanding in the [18] ſun, and he cried with a loud voice, ſaying to all the fowls that flie in [19] the midſt of heaven, Come and gather your ſelvs together unto the ſupper of the great God:

18 That ye may eat the fleſh of kings, and the fleſh of captains, and the fleſh of mighty men, and the fleſh of horſes, and of them that ſit on them, and the fleſh of all men, both free and bond, both ſmall and great.

19 [20] And I ſaw the beaſt, & the kings of the earth, and their armies gathered together to 6 without the temple in heaven.

7 Namely, unto the holy marriage, both her ſelf in perſon, in this vers, and alſo furniſhed of her ſpouſe with marriage gifts princely and divine, is adorned and prepared, in the next verſ.
8 As an enſign of kingly and prieſtly dignitie: which dignitie Chriſt beſtoweth upon us, Chap. 1. 6.
9 This is a gift given by the husband for marriage ſake, and a moſt choice ornament which Chriſt beſtoweth upon us, as upon his ſpouſe.
b Good works which are lively teſtimonies of faith.
* Matth. 22. 2.
10 Namely, the angel, as appeareth by the next vers.
11 The particular hiſtorie of this vers is brought in by occaſion, & as it were beſides the purpoſe, that Saint John might make a publick example of his own infirmity, and of the modeſt diſcretion of the angel, who both renounced for himſelf the divine honours, and recalled all the ſervants of God unto the worſhip of himalone, as alſo 22. 8, 9.
c which are commanded to bear witneſs of Jeſus.
d For Jeſus is the mark that all the propheties ſhoot at.
12 The ſecond place of this chapter (as I ſaid verſ. 1.) is of the victory gotten by Chriſt againſt both the beaſts: in which, firſt, Chriſt is deſcribed, as one ready to fight, unto the 16. verſ. then is ſhewed the battell to be begun, thence unto the 18 verſ. Laſt, is ſet forth the victory, unto the end of the chapter. In this place do ſhine forth moſt excellent properties of Chriſt, as our heavenly judge and revenger, according to his perſon, company, effects and names. 13 Properties belonging to his perſon, that he is heavenly, judge, faithfull, true, juſt, in this vers, ſearching out all things, ruling over all, to be ſcratched out of none, verſ. 12. the triumpher, and the very eſſentiall word of God, verſ. 13. Iſa. 63. 2.
14 The company or retinue of Chriſt, holy, innumerable, heavenly, judiciall, terrible, and pure. 15 The effect of Chriſt prepared unto battel, that with his mouth he ſtriketh the gentiles, ruleth and deſtroyeth. 16 The name agreeing unto Chriſt, according to the former properties, expreſſed after the manner of the Hebrews. * Chap 17. 14. 17 The ſecond member, as I ſaid verſ. 11. A reproachfull calling forth of his enemies unto battel: in which not themſelvs (for why ſhould they be called forth of the King of the world, or provoked being his ſubjects? for that were not comly) but in their hearing the birds of the air are called to eat their carcaſes. 18 That is, Openly, and in ſight of all, as Num. 25. 4. and 2 Sam. 12. 11.
19 That is, through this inferiour heaven, and which is neerer unto us: an Hebrew phraſe.
20 The third member (as was ſaid verſ. 11.) of the victorie obtained by Chriſt. Unto this appertaineth two things: his buckling with the beaſt and his forces, in this vers: and the event moſt magnificent, deſcribed after the manner of men, in the verſes following. All theſe things are plain.

make war againſt him that ſat on the horſe, and againſt his army.

20 And the beaſt [21] was taken, and with him the falſe prophet that wrought miracles before him, with which he deceived them that had received the [22] mark of the beaſt, and them that worſhipped his image. Theſe both were caſt alive into a lake of fire burning with brimſtone.

21 And the remnant were ſlain with the ſword of him that ſat upon the horſe, which ſword proceeded out of his mouth: and all the fowls were filled with their fleſh.

21 Namely, that beaſt with ſeven heads, of which before chap. 13. 1. and 17. 2.

22 That is, That beaſt with two heads, of which 13. 11. Look more, chap. 16. 14.

CHAP. XX.

2 Satan bound for a thouſand years. 6 The firſt reſurrection: they bleſſed that have part therein. 7 Satan let looſe again. 8 Gog and Magog. 10 The devil caſt into the lake of fire and brimſtone. 12 The laſt and generall reſurrection.

1 Now followeth the third place of the prophetical history, which is of the victory whereby Chriſt overcame the dragon, as I noted, chap. 7. 1. This place muſt neceſſarily be joyned with the end of the 12 chapter, and be applied unto the juſt underſtanding thereof. This chapter hath two parts, one of the dragon overcome unto the 10 verſ. the other of the reſurrection and laſt judgement, unto the end of the chapter. The ſtory of the dragon is doubled: Firſt, of the firſt victory, after which he was bound by Chriſt, unto the 6 verſ. The ſecond is of the laſt victory, whereby he was thrown down into everlaſting puniſhment, thence unto the 16 verſ. This firſt hiſtory hapned in the firſt time of the Chriſtian church, when the dragon thrown down from heaven by Chriſt, went about to moleſt the new birth of the church in the earth, chap. 12.

AND [1] I ſaw an angel come down from heaven, having the key [2] of the bottomleſs pit, and a great chain in his hand.

2 And he laid hold on the dragon that old ſerpent, which is the devil and Satan, and bound him [3] a thouſand years,

3 And caſt him into the bottomleſs pit, and ſhut him up, and ſet a ſeal upon him, that he ſhould deceive the nations [4] no more, till the thouſand years ſhould be fulfilled: and after that, he muſt be looſed [5] a little ſeaſon.

4 [6] And I ſaw [a] thrones, and they ſat upon them, and [7] judgement was given unto them; and I ſaw the ſouls of them that were [8] beheaded for the witneſs of Jeſus, and for the word of God, and which [9] had not worſhipped the beaſt, neither his image, neither had received his mark upon their foreheads, or in their hands; and they lived and reigned with Chriſt a thouſand years.

5 [10] But the reſt of the dead [11] lived not again untill the thouſand years were finiſhed. This is the firſt reſurrection.

6 Bleſſed and holy is he that hath part in the firſt reſurrection: on ſuch the [12] ſecond death hath no power, but they ſhall be prieſts of God, and of Chriſt, [13] and ſhall reign with him a thouſand years.

7 [14] And when the [15] thouſand years are expired, Satan ſhall be looſed out of his priſon,

8 [16] And ſhall go out to deceive the nations, which are in the four quarters of the earth, * Gog and Magog, to gather them together to battel: the number of whom is as the ſand of the ſea.

9 And they went up on the [b] breadth of the earth, and compaſſed the camp of the ſaints about, and the beloved citie: and [17] fire came down from God out of heaven, and devoured them.

10 [18] And the devil that deceived them, was caſt into the lake of fire and brimſtone, where the beaſt and the falſe prophet are, and ſhall be tormented day and night, for ever and ever.

11 [19] And I ſaw a great [20] white throne, and him that ſat on it, [21] from whoſe face the earth and the heaven fled away, and there was found no place for them.

12 And I ſaw the dead, ſmall and great, ſtand before [22] God: and the [23] books were opened: and another * book was opened, which is the book [24] of life: and the dead were judged out of thoſe things which were written in the books, according to their works.

13 [25] And the ſea gave up the dead which were in it: and death and ‡ hell delivered up the dead which were in them: and they were judged every man according to their works.

14 [26] And death and hell were caſt into the lake of fire: this is the ſecond death.

15 And whoſoever was not found written in the book of life, was caſt into the lake of fire.

16 The work, or act of Satan (which is the firſt member, as I diſtinguiſhed in the verſ. before-going) to deceive the whole world, even unto the uttermoſt nations thereof; to arm them againſt the people of God in this vers, and to beſiege and oppreſs the church with his whole ſtrength, in the verſ. following.

* Ezek. 38. 2. and 39. 1.

b As if he ſaid, in ſo much that the whole face of the earth, how great ſo ever it is, was filled.

17 The wrath of God conſuming the adverſaries, and overthrowing all their enterpriſes, Heb. 10. 27. And this is the ſecond member mentioned, verſ. 7. the overthrow of Satan.

18 The third member, eternall deſtruction againſt thoſe that are overcome: as I noted in the ſame place.

19 The ſecond part of this chapter, in which is deſcribed the judge, in this vers, and the laſt judgement in the verſ. following.

20 That is, A tribunal-ſeat moſt princelike and glorious: for ſo doth the Greek word alſo ſignifie.

21 That is, Chriſt, before whom when he cometh unto judgement, heaven and earth ſhall periſh for the greatneſs of his majeſty, 2 Pet. 3. 7, 10 &c. 22 That is, Chriſt the Judge, 2 Cor. 5. 10. Dan 7. 10. 23 As it were his books of reckoning or accompts, That is, the teſtimony of our conſcience, and of our works, which by no means can be avoided. This is ſpoken after the manner of men. * Chap. 3. 5. 24 The book of the eternall decree of God, in which God the Father hath elected in Chriſt, according to the good pleaſure of his will, thoſe that ſhall be heirs of life. This alſo is ſpoken according to the manner of men. 25 This is a prevention or an anſwer to an objection; for happily ſome man will ſay, but they are dead, whom the ſea, death and the grave hath conſumed, how ſhall they appear before the Judge? S. John anſwereth, By reſurrection from death whereunto all things (howſoever repugnant) ſhall miniſter and ſerve at the commandment of God, as Dan. 12. Or, grave 26 The laſt enemie which is death ſhall be aboliſhed by Chriſt (that he may no more make any attempt againſt us) 1 Cor. 15. 26. and death ſhall feed upon the reprobate in hell for evermore, according to the righteous judgement of God, in the next vers.

17, 18. For which cauſe I gave warning, that this ſtory of the dragon muſt be annexed unto that place. 2 That is, of hell whither God threw down the angels which had ſinned, and bound them in chains of darkneſs to be kept unto damnation, 2 Pet 2. 4. Jude 6. 3 The firſt whereof (continuing this hiſtory with the end of the 12 chapter) was in the 36 year from the paſſion of Chriſt, when the church of the Jews being overthrown, Satan aſſayed to invade the Chriſtian church gathered of the Gentiles, and to deſtroy part of her ſeed, chap. 12. 17. The thouſandth year falleth preciſely upon the times of that wicked Hildebrand, who was called Gregorie the ſeventh, a moſt damnable necromancer and ſorcerer, whom Satan uſed as an inſtrument when he was looſed out of bonds, thenceforth to annoy the Saints of God with moſt cruel perſecutions, and the whole world with diſſentions and moſt bloudy wars: as Benno the Cardinal reporteth at large. And this is the firſt victory gotten over the dragon in the earth. 4 Namely, with that publick and violent deceit which he attempted before, chap. 12 and which after a thouſand years (alack for wo) he moſt mightily procured in the Chriſtian world. 5 which being once expired, the ſecond battel and victory ſhall be, of which verſ. 7, 8. 6 A deſcription of the common ſtate of the church of Chriſt in the earth, in that ſpace of a thouſand years, for which the devil was in bonds: in which, firſt, the authoritie, life, and common honour of the godly is declared, verſ. 4. Secondly, newneſs of life is preached unto others by the goſpel, after that ſpace, verſ. 5. Finally, he concludeth with promiſe, verſ. 6. a For judgement was committed to them, as to members joyned to the head: not that Chriſts office was given over to them. 7 This was a type of the authority of the good and faithfull ſervants of God in the church, taken from the manner of men. 8 Of the martyrs which ſuffred in thoſe firſt times. 9 Of the martyrs which ſuffered after that both the beaſts were now riſen up, chap. 15. for there theſe things are expounded 10 whoſoever ſhall lie dead in ſin, and not know the truth of God. 11 They ſhall not be renewed with that newneſs of life by the enlightning of the goſpel of the glory of Chriſt. For this is the firſt reſurrection, by which the ſouls of the dead do riſe from their death, in the ſecond reſurrection their bodies ſhall riſe again. 12 That whereby both body and ſoul, that is, the whole man is addicted and delivered unto eternall death, See chap. 2. 11. 13 A return unto the intended hiſtory, by reſuming the words which are in the end of the fourth verſ 14 The ſecond hiſtorie, of the latter victory of Chriſt, as was ſaid verſ. 1. In which are ſummarily deſcribed the work, overthrow, and eternall puniſhment of Satan. 15 Of which I ſpake, verſ. 2 Then therefore ſhall be given unto him liberty to rage againſt the church, and to moleſt the Saints for the ſins of men: unto whom the faithfull ſhall have aſſociated themſelves more than was meet, taſting with them of their impuritie of doctrin and life.

CHAP. XXI.

1 A new heaven and a new earth. 16 The heavenly Jeruſalem, with a full deſcription thereof. 23 She needeth no ſun, the glory of God is her light. 24 The kings of the earth bring their riches unto her.

AND * [1] I ſaw a new heaven, and a new earth: for the firſt heaven and the firſt earth were paſſed away, and there was no more ſea.

2 [2] And I John ſaw the holy citie, new Jeruſalem coming down from God out of heaven, prepared as a bride adorned for her husband.

* Iſa. 65. 17. 2 Pet. 3. 13.

1 Now followeth the ſecond part of the hiſtorie propheticall (as I ſaid chap. 1. and 11. 1.) of the future eſtate of the church in heaven after the laſt judgement, unto the fift vers of the next chapter. In this are two things briefly declared: The ſtation, ſeat, or place thereof, verſ. 1. Then her ſtate and condition, in the verſes following: before the ſtate of the church deſcribed, is ſet down the ſtate of the whole world, that there ſhall be a new heaven, and a new earth, as Eſa. 65. 17. and 66. 22. and 2 Pet. 3. 13. and this is the ſeat or place of the church, in which righteouſneſs ſhall dwell. 2 The ſtate of this glorious church, is firſt deſcribed generally, unto the 8 verſ. and then ſpecially, and by parts, in the verſes following. The generall deſcription conſiſteth in a viſion, ſhewed afar off, verſ. 2. and in ſpeech ſpoken from heaven. In the generall, theſe things are common, that the church is holy, new, the workmanſhip of God, heavenly, moſt glorious, the ſpouſe of Chriſt, and partaker of his glory, in this vers.

3 The church is deſcribed by ſpeech, firſt of an angel, in two verſes, then of God himſelf, in four verſes. The angels ſpeech deſcribeth the glorie of the church by a moſt familiar cohabitation of God therewith, by communication of all manner good things according to the covenant, in this vers: and by removing or putting far away of all evil things, in the vers following.

3 [3] And I heard a great voice out of heaven, ſaying, Behold, the tabernacle of God is with men, and he will dwell with them, and they ſhall be his people, and God himſelf ſhall be with them, and be their God.

4 * And God ſhall wipe away all tears from their eyes: and there ſhall be no more death, neither ſorrow, nor crying, neither ſhall there be any more pain: for the former things are paſſed away.

5 [4] And he that ſat upon the throne, ſaid, * Behold, I make all things new. And he ſaid unto me, Write: for theſe words are true and faithfull.

6 And he ſaid unto me, [5] It is don: * I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end, * I will give unto him that is athirſt, of the fountain of the water of life freely.

7 He that overcometh ſhall inherit all things, and I will be his God, and he ſhall be my ſon.

8 But the fearfull, and unbeleeving, and the abominable, and murderers, and whoremongers, and ſorcerers, and idolaters, and all liars, ſhall have their [a] part in the lake which burneth with fire and brimſtone: which is the the ſecond death.

9 [6] And there came unto me one of the ſeven angels, which had the ſeven vials full of the ſeven laſt plagues, and talked with me, ſaying, Come hither, I will ſhew thee the bride, the Lambs wife.

10 And he carried me away in the ſpirit to a great and [7] high mountain, and ſhewed me [8] that great citie, the holy Jeruſalem, deſcending out of heaven from God,

11 Having the glorie of God: And her light was like unto a ſtone moſt precious, even like a jaſper ſtone, clear as cryſtall;

12 [9] And had a wall great and high, and had [10] twelve gates, and at the gates [11] twelve angels, and names written thereon, which are the names of the twelve tribes of the children of Iſrael.

13 On the eaſt three gates, on the north three gates, on the ſouth three gates, and on the weſt three gates.

14 And the wall of the citie had [12] twelve foundations, and in them the names of the twelve apoſtles of the Lamb.

15 [13] And he that talked with me, had a golden reed to meaſure the citie, and the gates thereof, and the wall thereof.

16 [14] And the citie lieth [b] four-ſquare, and the length is as large as the breadth: and he meaſured the citie with the reed, twelve thouſand furlongs: the length, and the breadth, and the height of it are equall.

17 And he meaſured the wall thereof, an hundred and fourtie and four cubits, according to the meaſure of a man, that is, of the [c] angel.

18 [15] And the building of the wall of it was of Jaſper, and the citie was pure gold, like unto clear glaſs.

19 And the foundations of the wall of the citie were garniſhed with all manner of precious ſtones. The firſt foundation was jaſper, the ſecond ſaphire, the third a chalcedonie, the fourth an emerald, 20 The fifth ſardonix, the ſixth ſardius, the ſeventh chryſolite, the eighth beryl, the ninth a topaz, the tenth a chryſophraſus, the eleventh a jacinct, the twelfth an amethyſt.

21 And the twelve gates were twelve pearls, every ſeverall gate was of one pearl, and the [d] ſtreet of the citie was pure gold, as it were tranſparent glaſs.

22 And I ſaw no temple therein: for the Lord God Almighty, and the Lamb are the temple of it.

23 * [16] And the city had no need of the ſun, neither of the moon to ſhine in it: for the glory of God did lighten it, and the Lamb is the light thereof.

24 * And the nations of them which are ſaved, ſhall walk in the light of it: and the kings of the earth do bring their glory and honour into it.

25 * And the gates of it ſhall not be ſhut at all by day: for there ſhall be no night there.

26 And they ſhall bring the glory and honour of the nations into it.

27 And there ſhall in no wiſe enter into it any thing that defileth, neither whatſoever worketh abomination, or maketh a lie: but they which are written in the Lambs * book of life.

4 In the ſpeech of God himſelf deſcribing the church, is firſt a certain exordium, or entrance, vers 5. Then followeth a magnificent deſcription of the church by the preſent and future good things of the ſame, in three verſes following. In the exordium God challengeth unto himſelf the reſtoring of all the creatures, of which vers 1. and witneſſeth the calling of Saint John unto the writing of theſe things, in this vers.

* 2 Cor. 5. 17.

5 The deſcription of the church is of three ſorts, by abolifhing of old things, by the being of preſent things in God, that is, Of things eternall: and by the communication of good things with the godly, vers 6. If ſo be they ſhall ſtrive manfully, vers 7. But the reprobate are excluded from thence, vers 8.

a Their lot, and inheritance as it were.

6 A tranſition unto the particular deſcribing of the heavenly church, by the expreſs calling of S. John in this vers, and his rapting up by the Spirit, in confimation of the truth of God in the vers following.

7 He meaneth the place and ſtately ſeat of the church, ſhadowed out in a mountain.

8 A type of that church which is one, ample, or Catholick, holy, celeſtiall, built of God, in this vers: and glorious, in the vers following. This type propounded generally, is after particularly declared, verſ. 12, &c. 9 A particular deſcription (as I noted verſ. 2.) of the celeſtiall church. Firſt, by the eſſentiall parts of the ſame, under the ſimilitude of a citie, unto verſ. 22. Secondly, by the forrain accidents, unto the end of the chapter. Thirdly, by the effects, in the beginning of the next chapter. the eſſentiall parts are noted, the matter and the form in the whole work: of theſe the ſuperficies and foundation of the wall are entire parts (as they uſe to be called) which parts are firſt deſcribed in figure, unto the 14 verſ. afterwards more exactly. 10 According to the number of the tribes, of which chap. 7. For here the outward part is attributed unto the old Teſtament, and the foundation to the new Teſtament. 11 He meaneth the prophets, who are meſſengers of God, and watchmen of the church. 12 That is, Foundation-ſtones, according to the number of the gates, as is ſhewed, verſ. 19. 13 A tranſition unto a more exquiſite deſcription of the parts of the church, by finding out of the meaſure of the ſame, by the angel that meaſured them. 14 The meaſure and form moſt equall, in two verſes. b A four-ſquare figure hath equall ſides, and outright corners, and therefore the Grecians call by this name thoſe things that are ſteady, and of continuance, and perfect.

c He addeth this, becauſe the angel had the ſhape of a man.

15 The matter moſt precious and glittering, which the preſence of God maketh moſt glorious.

d By ſtreet, he meaneth the broadeſt places of the citie.

* Iſa. 60. 19.

16 The ſecond form of particular deſcription (as I ſaid verſ. 12.) from forrain and outward accidents which are theſe: Light from God himſelf in this vers: glory from men, verſ. 24. perfect ſecuritie from all harm, verſ. 25. Finally, ſuch truth and incorruption of glory (verſ. 26.) as can bear and abide with it, but nothing that is inglorious, vers the laſt.

CHAP. XXII.

1 The river of the water of life. 2 The tree of life. 5 The light of the city of God is himſelf. 9 The angel will not be worſhipped. 18 Nothing may be added to the word of God, nor taken therefrom.

1 Here is abſolved and finiſhed the deſcription of the celeſtiall church (as I ſhewed before, chap 21. 12.) by the effects in 5 verſes, and then the book is concluded in the reſt of the chap. The effects proceeding from God, who dwelleth in the church, are theſe: the everlaſting grace of God, in this vers, the eternall living of the godly, as Chap. 2 7. the eternall fruits which the godly bring forth unto God, themſelvs

AND [1] he ſhewed me a pure river of water of life, clear as cryſtall, proceeding out of the throne of God, and of the Lamb.

2 In the midſt of the ſtreet of it, and of either ſide of the river, was there the tree of life, which bare twelve manner of fruits, and yeelded her fruit every moneth: and the leavs of the tree were for the healing of the nations.

3 And there ſhall be no more curſe, but the throne of God and of the Lamb ſhall be in it, and his ſervants ſhall ſerve him.

4 And they ſhall ſee his face, and his name ſhall be in their foreheads.

5 * And there ſhall be no night there, and and others, verſ. 2. freedom and immunitie from evil, God himſelf taking pleaſure in his ſervants, and they likewiſe in their God, verſ. 3. The beholding and ſight of God, and ſealing of the faithfull from all eternitie, verſ. 4. the light of God, and an everlaſting kingdom and glory, verſ. 5. * Chap. 21. 23.

they

they need no candle, neither light of the ſun; for the Lord God giveth them light, and they ſhall reign for ever and ever.

6 [2] And he ſaid unto me, Theſe ſayings are faithfull and true. And the Lord God of the holy prophets ſent his angel to ſhew unto his ſervants the things which muſt ſhortly be don.

7 Behold, I come quickly: bleſſed is he that keepeth the ſayings of the propheſie of this book.

8 And I John ſaw theſe things, and heard them. And when I had heard and ſeen, I fell down to worſhip before the feet of the angel, which ſhewed me theſe things.

9 Then ſaith he unto me, * See thou do it not: for I am thy fellow-ſervant, and of thy brethren the prophets, and of them which keep the ſayings of this book: worſhip God.

10 [3] And he ſaith unto me, [4] Seal not the ſayings of the propheſie of this book: for the time is at hand.

11 [5] He that is unjuſt, let him be unjuſt ſtill, and he which is filthy, let him be filthy ſtill, and he that is righteous, let him be righteous ſtill, and he that is holy, let him be holy ſtill.

12 [6] And behold, I come quickly, and my reward is with me, * to give every man according as his work ſhall be. * Rom. 2. 6.

13 I am Alpha and Omega, * the beginning and the end, the firſt and the laſt. * Iſa 41. 4. & 44. 6.

14 Bleſſed are they that do his commandments, [7] that they may have right to the tree of life, and may enter in through the gates into the city.

15 For without are dogs, and ſorcerers, and whoremongers, and murderers, and idolaters, and whoſoever loveth and maketh a lie.

16 [8] I Jeſus have ſent mine angel to teſtifie unto you theſe things in the churches. I am the root and the off-ſpring of David, and the bright and morning-ſtar.

17 And the Spirit and the bride ſay, Come. And let him that heareth, ſay, Come. * And let him that is athirſt, come. And whoſoever will, let him take the water of life freely.

18 [9] For I teſtifie unto every man that heareth the words of the propheſie of this book, * If any man ſhall add unto theſe things, God ſhall add unto him the plagues that are written in this book:

19 And if any man ſhall take away from the words of the book of this propheſie, God ſhall take away his part out of the book of life, and out of the holy city, and from the things which are written in this book.

20 [10] He which teſtifieth theſe things, ſaith, Surely I come quickly. Amen. Even ſo, Come Lord Jeſus.

21 [11] The grace of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt be with you all. Amen.

7 The bleſſedneſs of the godly ſet down by their title and intereſt thereunto: and their fruit in the ſame.

8 The ſecond place of confirmation (as I ſaid verſ. 6.) is the ſpeech of Chriſt, ratifying the vocation of S. John, and the authority of his calling and teſtimonie, both from the condition of his own perſon, being God and man, in whom all the promiſes of God are Yea and Amen, 2 Cor. 1. 20. and alſo from the teſtification of other perſons, by the acclamation of the Holy Ghoſt, who here is as it were an honourable aſſiſtant of the marriage of the church as the ſpouſe, and of every of the godly as members: and finally, from the thing preſent, that of their own knowledge and accord, they are called forth unto the participation of the good things of God, verſ. 17. * Iſa. 55. 1.

2 This whole book is concluded and made up by a confirmation and a ſalutation. The confirmation hath three places: The words of the angel unto the 15 vers, the words of Chriſt, verſ. 16, 17. and the obteſtation made by Saint John from divine authority, thence unto the 20 vers. By the ſpeech of the angel this propheſie is confirmed, unto the 8 vers, and then he ſpeaketh of the uſe of this book in the verſes following. The propheſie is firſt confirmed by the angel from the nature thereof, that it is faithfull and true: Secondly, from the nature of the efficient cauſe both principall which is God, and inſtrumentall, which is the angel in this vers. Thirdly, from the promiſes of God concerning his coming to effect all theſe things, and concerning our ſalvation, verſ. 7. Fourthly, from the teſtification of Saint John himſelf, verſ. 8. The reſt of the ſpeech of the angel tending to the ſame end Saint John interrupted or brake off by his unadviſed act of worſhipping him in the ſame vers: which the angel forbidding, teacheth him that adoration muſt be given not to him, but onely to God: as for himſelf, that he is of ſuch nature and office, as he may not be adored: which thing alſo was in like manner don, Chap. 19. 10. * Chap 19. 10. 3 The angel returneth unto his former ſpeech: in which he teacheth the uſe of this book both towards our ſelvs, in this and the next vers: and in reſpect of God for declaration of this truth, thence unto the 15 vers. 4 That is, propound this propheſie openly unto all, and conceal no part of it The contrary whereunto is commanded, Eſa. 8. 16. & Dan. 8. 26. 5 An objection prevented, But there will be ſome that will abuſe this occaſion unto evil, and will wreſt this ſcripture unto their own deſtruction, as Peter ſaith: what then? ſaith the angel, the myſteries of God muſt not therefore be concealed, which it hath pleaſed him to communicate unto us. Let them be hurtfull unto others, let ſuch be more and more vile in themſelvs whom this ſcripture doth not pleaſe: yet others ſhall be further confirmed thereby unto righteouſneſs, and true holineſs. The care and reformation of theſe may not be neglected, becauſe of the voluntary and malicious offence of others. 6 The ſecond place belonging unto the uſe of this book, as I ſaid, verſ. 10. Alſo (ſaith God by the angel) though there ſhould be no uſe of this book unto men; yet it ſhall be of this unto me, that it is a witneſs of my truth unto my glory, who will come ſhortly, to give and execute juſt judgement, in this vers: who have taught that all theſe things have their being in me, in the 13 vers, and have denounced bleſſeduеſs unto my ſervants in the church, verſ. 14. and reprobation unto the ungodly, verſ. 15.

9 The obteſtation of S. John (which is the third place of the confirmation, as was noted verſ. 6.) joyned with a curſe of execration, to preſerve the truth of this book intire and uncorrupted in two verſes. * Deut. 4. 2. Prov. 30. 6. 10 A divine confirmation or ſealing of the obteſtation, firſt from Chriſt avouching the ſame, and denouncing his coming againſt all thoſe that ſhall put their ſacrilegious hands hereunto: then from S. John himſelf, who by a moſt holy prayer calleth Chriſt to take vengeance of them. 11 The ſalutation apoſtolicall, which is the other place of the concluſion, as I ſaid verſ. 6. and is the end almoſt of every epiſtle; which we wiſh unto the church, and to all the holy and elect members thereof, in Chriſt Jeſus our Lord, untill his coming to judgement. Come Lord Jeſus, and do it. Amen, again Amen!

they need no candle, neither light of the sun; for the Lord God giveth them light, and they shall reign for ever and ever.

6 [2] And he said unto me, These sayings are faithfull and true. And the Lord God of the holy prophets sent his angel to shew unto his servants the things which must shortly be don.

7 Behold, I come quickly: blessed is he that keepeth the sayings of the prophesie of this book.

8 And I John saw these things, and heard them. And when I had heard and seen, I fell down to worship before the feet of the angel, which shewed me these things.

9 Then saith he unto me, * See thou do it not: for I am thy fellow-servant, and of thy brethren the prophets, and of them which keep the sayings of this book: worship God.

10 [3] And he saith unto me, [4] Seal not the sayings of the prophesie of this book: for the time is at hand.

11 [5] He that is unjust, let him be unjust still, and he which is filthy, let him be filthy still, and he that is righteous, let him be righteous still, and he that is holy, let him be holy still.

12 [6] And behold, I come quickly, and my reward is with me, * to give every man according as his work shall be. * Rom. 2. 6.

13 I am Alpha and Omega, * the beginning and the end, the first and the last. * Isa 41. 4. & 44. 6.

14 Blessed are they that do his commandments, [7] that they may have right to the tree of life, and may enter in through the gates into the city.

15 For without are dogs, and sorcerers, and whoremongers, and murderers, and idolaters, and whosoever loveth and maketh a lie.

16 [8] I Jesus have sent mine angel to testifie unto you these things in the churches. I am the root and the off-spring of David, and the bright and morning-star.

17 And the Spirit and the bride say, Come. And let him that heareth, say, Come. * And let him that is athirst, come. And whosoever will, let him take the water of life freely.

18 [9] For I testifie unto every man that heareth the words of the prophesie of this book, * If any man shall add unto these things, God shall add unto him the plagues that are written in this book:

19 And if any man shall take away from the words of the book of this prophesie, God shall take away his part out of the book of life, and out of the holy city, and from the things which are written in this book.

20 [10] He which testifieth these things, saith, Surely I come quickly. Amen. Even so, Come Lord Jesus.

21 [11] The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all. Amen.

2 This whole book is concluded and made up by a confirmation and a salutation. The confirmation hath three places: The words of the angel unto the 15 vers, the words of Christ, vers. 16, 17. and the obtestation made by Saint John from divine authority, thence unto the 20 vers. By the speech of the angel this prophecie is confirmed, unto the 8 vers, and then he speaketh of the use of this book in the verses following. The prophecie is first confirmed by the angel from the nature thereof, that it is faithfull and true: Secondly, from the nature of the efficient cause both principall which is God, and instrumentall, which is the angel in this vers. Thirdly, from the promises of God concerning his coming to effect all these things, and concerning our salvation, vers. 7. Fourthly, from the testification of Saint John himself, vers. 8. The rest of the speech of the angel tending to the same end Saint John interrupted or brake off by his unadvised act of worshipping him in the same vers: which the angel forbidding, teacheth him that adoration must be given not to him, but onely to God: as for himself, that he is of such nature and office, as he may not be adored: which thing also was in like manner don, Chap. 19. 10. * Chap 19. 10. 3 The angel returneth unto his former speech: in which he teacheth the use of this book both towards our selvs, in this and the next vers: and in respect of God for declaration of this truth, thence unto the 15 vers. 4 That is, propound this prophecie openly unto all, and conceal no part of it The contrary whereunto is commanded, Esa. 8. 16. & Dan. 8. 26. 5 An objection prevented, But there will be some that will abuse this occasion unto evil, and will wrest this scripture unto their own destruction, as Peter saith: what then? saith the angel, the mysteries of God must not therefore be concealed, which it hath pleased him to communicate unto us. Let them be hurtfull unto others, let such be more and more vile in themselvs whom this scripture doth not please: yet others shall be further confirmed thereby unto righteousnes, and true holines. The cure and reformation of these may not be neglected, because of the voluntary and malicious offence of others. 6 The second place belonging unto the use of this book, as I said, vers. 10. Also (saith God by the angel) though there should be no use of this book unto men; yet it shall be of this unto me, that it is a witness of my truth unto my glory, who will come shortly, to give and execute just judgement, in this vers: who have taught that all these things have their being in me, in the 13 vers, and have denounced blessednes unto my servants in the church, vers. 14. and reprobation unto the ungodly, vers. 15.

8 The second place of confirmation (as I said vers. 6.) is the speech of Christ, ratifying the vocation of S. John, and the authority of his calling and testimonie, both from the condition of his own person, being God and man, in whom all the promises of God are Yea and Amen, 2 Cor. 1. 20. and also from the testification of other persons, by the acclamation of the Holy Ghost, who here is as it were an honourable assistant of the marriage of the church as the spouse, and of every of the godly as members: and finally, from the thing present, that of their own knowledge and accord, they are called forth unto the participation of the good things of God, vers. 17. * Isa. 55. 1.

9 The obtestation of S. John (which is the third place of the confirmation, as was noted vers. 6.) joyned with a curse of execration, to preserve the truth of this book intire and uncorrupted in two verses. * Deut. 4. 2. Prov. 30. 6. 10 A divine confirmation or sealing of the obtestation, first from Christ avouching the same, and denouncing his coming against all those that shall put their sacrilegious hands hereunto: then from S. John himself, who by a most holy prayer calleth Christ to take vengeance of them. 11 The salutation apostolicall, which is the other place of the conclusion, as I said vers. 6. and is the end almost of every epistle; which we wish unto the church, and to all the holy and elect members thereof, in Christ Jesus our Lord, untill his coming to judgement. Come Lord Jesus, and do it. Amen, again Amen!

THE PSALMS OF DAVID IN MEETER.

Beatus vir. Psal. j. T. S.

THe man is bleſt that hath not bent,
to wicked read his ear:
Nor led his life as ſinners do, nor ſat in ſcorners chair:
2 But in the Law of God the Lord
doth ſet his whole delight:
And in that law doth exerciſe
himſelf both day and night.

3 He ſhall be like the tree that grows
faſt by the river ſide,
Which bringeth forth moſt pleaſant fruit
in his due time and tide.
Whoſe leaf ſhall never fade nor fall,
but flouriſh ſtill and ſtand:
Even ſo all things ſhall proſper well,
that this man takes in hand.

4 So ſhall not the ungodly men,
they ſhall be nothing ſo:
But as the duſt which from the earth
the wind drives to and fro.
5 Therefore ſhall not the wicked men
in judgment ſtand upright:
Nor yet the ſinners with the juſt ſhall come in place or ſight.

6 For why? the way of godly men unto the Lord is known:
And eke the way of wicked men
ſhall quite be overthrown.

Quare fremuerunt? Pſal. ij. T. S.

WHy did the Gentiles tumults raiſe?
what rage was in their brain?
Why did the Jewiſh people muſe, ſeing all is but vain?
2 The kings and rulers of the earth
conſpire and are all bent Againſt the Lord and Chriſt his ſon, which he among us ſent.

3 Shall we be bound to them, ſay they?
let all their bonds be broke:
And of their doctrine and their law
let us reject the yoke.
4 But he that in the heaven dwels,
their doings will deride:
And make them all as mocking-ſtocks,
throughout the world ſo wide.

5 For in his wrath the Lord will ſay to them upon a day:
And in his fury trouble them,
and then the Lord will ſay, 6 I have anointed him my king upon my holy hill:
I will therefore, Lord, preach thy law,
and eke declare thy will.

7 For in this wiſe the Lord himſelf did ſay to me I wot,
Thou art my dear and onely Son,
to day I thee begot.
8 All people I will give to thee,
as heirs at thy requeſt:
The ends and coaſts of all the earth
by thee ſhall be poſſeſt.

9 Thou ſhalt them bruiſe even with a mace,
as men under foot trod:
And as the potters ſherds, ſhalt break them with an iron-rod.
10 Now ye, O kings, and rulers all,
be wiſe therefore and learn'd,
By whom the matters of the world
be judged and diſcern'd.

11 See that ye ſerve the Lord above
in trembling and in fear:
See that with reverence ye rejoyce to him in like manner.
12 See that ye kiſs and eke embrace his bleſſed Son, I ſay; Leſt in his wrath ye ſuddenly periſh in the mid-way.

13 If once his wrath never ſo ſmall
ſhall kindle in his breaſt:
O then all they that truſt in Chriſt
ſhall happy be and bleſt.

Domine, Quid? Pſal. iij. T. S.

OLord how are my foes increas'd, which vex me more and more?
2 They kill my heart when as they ſay,
God can him not reſtore.
3 But thou, O Lord, art my defence,
when I am hard beſtead:
My worſhip and mine honour both,
and thou hold'ſt up my head.

4 Then with my voice upon the Lord
I did both call and cry:
And he out of his holy hill did hear me by and by.
5 I laid me down, and quietly
I ſlept and roſe again:
For why? I know aſſuredly
the Lord will me ſuſtain.

6 If ten thouſand had hem'd me in,
I could not be afraid:
For thou art ſtill my Lord and God,
my Saviour and mine aid.
Riſe up therefore, ſave me, my God,
for now to thee I call:
7 For thou haſt broke the cheeks and teeth of theſe wicked men all.

8 Salvation onely doth belong to thee, O Lord above:
Thou doſt beſtow upon thy folk thy bleſſing and thy love.

Cum invocarem. Pſal. iv. T. S.

OGod that art my righteouſneſs,
Lord, hear me when I call:
Thou haſt ſet me at liberty
when I was bound and thrall.
2 Have mercy, Lord, therefore on me,
and grant me my requeſt:
For unto thee unceſſantly to cry I will not reſt.

3 O mortal men, how low long will ye my glory thus deſpiſe?
Why wander ye in vanity,
and follow after lies?

4 Know ye that good and godly men
the Lord doth take and chuſe:
And when to him I make my plaint,
he doth me not refuſe.

5 Sin not, but ſtand in aw therefore,
examine well your heart:
And in your chamber quietly
ſee you your ſelves convert.
6 Offer to God the ſacrifice of righteouſneſs, I ſay:
And look that in the living Lord
you put your truſt alway.

7 The greater ſort crave worldly goods,
and riches do embrace:
But, Lord, grant us thy countenance,
thy favour and thy grace.
8 For thou thereby ſhalt make my heart more joyful and more glad,
Then they that of their corn and wine full great increaſe have had.

9 In peace therefore lie down will I,
taking my reſt and ſleep:
For thou onely wilt me, O Lord, alone in ſafety keep.

Verba mea auribus. Pſal. v. T. S.

INcline thine ears unto my words,
O Lord, my plaint conſider:
2 And hear my voice, my King, my God,
to thee I make my prayer.
3 Hear me betime, Lord, tarry not,
for I will have reſpect,
My prayer early in the morn to thee for to direct.

4 And I will truſt through patience in thee my God alone:
Thou art not pleas'd with wickedneſs,
and ill with thee dwells none.
5 And in thy ſight ſhall never ſtand
theſe furious fools, O Lord:
Vain workers of iniquity
thou haſt always abhor'd.

6 The liars and the flatterers thou ſhalt deſtroy them then:
And God will hate the blood-thirſty,
and the deceitful man.
7 Therefore will I come to thine houſe, truſting upon thy grace:
And reverently will worſhip thee toward thine holy place.

8 Lord, lead me in thy righteouſneſs, for to confound my foes:
And eke the way that I ſhall walk before my face diſcloſe.
9 For in their mouths there is no truth,
their heart is foul and vain:
Their throat an open ſepulchre,
their tongues do gloze and fain.

10 Deſtroy their falſe conſpiracies, that they may come to nought:
Subvert them in their heaps of ſin,
which have rebellion wrought.
11 But thoſe that put their truſt in thee,
let them be glad always:
And render thanks for thy defence,
and give thy name the praiſe.

12 For thou with favour wilt increaſe
the juſt and righteous ſtill:
And with thy grace, as with a ſhield, defend him from all ill.

Domine, ne in furore. Pſal. vj. T. S.

LOrd, in thy wrath reprove me not,
though I deſerve thine ire:
Ne yet correct me in thy rage,
O Lord, I thee deſire.
2 For I am weak, therefore, O Lord,
of mercy me forbear,
And heal me, Lord, for why? thou know'ſt
my bones do quake for fear.

3 My ſoul is troubled very ſore,
and vexed vehemently:
But, Lord, how long wilt thou delay to cure my miſery!
4 Lord, turn thee to thy wonted grace,
my ſilly ſoul up take:
O ſave me, not for my deſerts,
but for thy mercies ſake.

5 For why? no man among the dead
remembreth thee one whit:
Or who ſhall worſhip thee, O Lord,
in the infernal pit?
6 So grievous is my plaint and moan,
that I wax wondrous faint:
All the night long I waſh my bed with tears of my complaint.

7 My ſight is dim and waxeth old with anguiſh of my heart,
For fear of thoſe that be my foes,
and would my ſoul ſubvert.
8 But now away from me all ye that work iniquity:
For why? the Lord hath heard the voyce of my complaint and cry.

9 He heard not onely the requeſt and prayer of my heart;
But it received at my hands,
and took it in good part.
10 And now my foes that vexed me
the Lord will ſoon defame:
And ſuddenly confound them all,
to their rebuke and ſhame.

Domine, Deus meus. Pſal. vij. T. S.

O Lord my God, I putt my truſt and confidence in thee:
Save me from them that me purſue,
and eke deliver me.
2 Leſt like a lion he me tear and rend in pieces ſmall, While there is none to ſuccour me,
and rid me out of thrall.

3 O Lord my God, if I have done
the thing that is not right,
Or elſe if I be found in fault,
or guilty in thy ſight:
4 Or to my friend rewarded ill, or left him in diſtreſs
Which me purſu'd moſt cruelly,
and hated me cauſleſs:

5 Then let my foes purſue my ſoul, and eke my life down thruſt Unto the earth, and alſo lay mine honour in the duſt.
6 Start up, O Lord, now in thy wrath,
and put my foes to pain:
Perform the kingdom promiſed to me which wrong ſuſtain.

7 Then ſhall great nations come to thee,
and know thee by this thing,
If thou declare for love of them,
thy ſelf as Lord and King.
8 And as thou art of all men Judge,
O Lord, now judge thou me
According to my righteouſneſs, and mine integrity.

The Second part.

9 Lord, ceaſe the hate of wicked men,
and be the juſt mans guide:
By whom the ſecrets of all hearts are ſearched and deſcri'd.
10 I take my help to come of God,
in all my pain and ſmart,
That doth preſerve all thoſe that be of pure and perfect heart.

11 The juſt man and the wicked both
God judgeth by his power:
So that he feels his mighty hand
even every day and hour.
12 Except he change his mind, I die;
for even as he ſhould ſmite,
He whets his ſword, his bow he bends,
aiming where he may hit:

13 And doth prepare his mortal darts,
his arrows keen and ſharp,
For them that do me perſecute, whiles he doth miſchief warp.
14 But lo, though he in travail be of his dev'liſh forecaſt
And of his miſchief once conceiv'd, yet brings forth nought at laſt.

15 He digs a ditch, and delvs it deep,
in hope to hurt his brother:
But he ſhall fall into the pit that he dig'd up for other.
16 Thus wrong returneth to the hurt of him in whom it bred,
And all the miſchief that he wrought
ſhall fall upon his head.

17 I will give thanks to God therefore that judgeth righteouſly,
And with my ſong will praiſe the name of him that is moſt high.

Domine, Deus noſter. Pſal. viij. T. S.

O God our Lord, how wonderful are thy works every where, Whoſe fame ſurmounts in dignity above the heavens clear!
2 Even by the mouth of ſucking babes thou wilt confound thy foes:
For in thoſe babes thy might is ſeen,
thy graces they diſcloſe.

3 And when I ſee the heavens high,
the works of thine own hand;
The Sun, the Moon, and all the Stars,
in order as they ſtand:
4 What thing is man, Lord, think I then,
that thou doſt him remember?
Or what is mans poſterity, that thou doſt it conſider?

5 For thou haſt made him little leſs
then angels in degree:
And thou haſt crowned him alſo
with glory and dignity.
6 Thou haſt preferr'd him to be lord of all thy works of wonder:
And at his feet haſt ſet all things,
that he ſhould keep them under.

7 As ſheep, and neat, and all beaſts elſe,
that in the fields do feed:
8 Fowls of the air, fiſh in the ſea,
and all that therein breed.
9 Therefore muſt I ſay once again,
O God that art our Lord,
How famous and how wonderful are thy works through the world!

Confitebor tibi, Domine. Pſal. ix. T. S.

WIth heart and mouth unto the Lord will I ſing laud and praiſe:
And ſpeak of all thy wondrous works,
And them declare always.
2 I will be glad and much rejoyce in thee, O God moſt high:
And make my ſongs extol thy name above the ſtary ſky.

3 For that my foes are driven back and turned unto flight:
They fall down flat and are deſtroy'd by thy great power and might.
4 Thou haſt revenged all my wrong,
my grief and all my grudge:
Thou doſt with juſtice hear my cauſe,
moſt like a righteous judge.

5 Thou doſt rebuke the heathen folk,
and wicked ſo confound,
That afterward the memory
of them cannot be found.
6 My foes thou haſt made good diſpatch, and all their towns deſtroi'd:
Thou haſt their fame with them defac'd, through all the world ſo wide.

7 Know thou, that he which is above for evermore ſhall reign,
And in the ſeat of equity
true judgment will maintain.
8 With juſtice he will keep and guide
the world and every wight:
And ſo will yeild with equity to every man his right.

9 He is protector of the poor
what time they be oppreſt:
He is in all adverſity their refuge and their reſt.
10 And they that know thy holy name,
therefore ſhall truſt in thee:
For thou forſakeſt not their ſuit
in their neceſſity.

The Second part.

11 Sing Pſalms therefore unto the Lord that dwells in Zion hill:
Publiſh among all nations
his noble acts and will.
12 For he is mindful of the blood of thoſe that be oppreſt:
Forgetting not th'afflicted heart that ſeeks to him for reſt.

13 Have mercy, Lord, on me poor wretch
whoſe enemies ſtill remain,
Which from the gates of death art wont to raiſe me up again.
14 In Zion that I might ſet forth thy praiſe with heart and voice,
And that in thy ſalvation, Lord,
my ſoul might ſtill rejoyce.

15 The heathen ſtick faſt in the pit that they themſelvs prepar'd,
And in the net that they did ſet their own feet faſt are ſnar'd.

16 God ſhews his judgments, which were for every man to mark; (good When as ye ſee the wicked man lie trapt in his own wark.

17 The wicked and deceitful men go down to hell for ever,
And all the people of the world,
that will not God remember.
18 But ſure the Lord will not forget the poor mans grief and pain:
The patient people never look for help of God in vain.

19 O Lord ariſe, leſt men prevail that be of worldly might;
And let the heathen folk receive their judgment in thy ſight.
20 Lord, ſtrike ſuch terrour, fear, and dread into the hearts of them,
That they may know aſſuredly
they be but mortal men.

Ut quid, Domine. Pſal. x. T. S.

WHat is the cauſe that thou, O Lord,
art now ſo far from thine;
And keepeſt cloſe thy countenance from us this troublous time?
2 The poor do periſh by the proud and wicked mens deſire:
Let them be taken in the craft that they themſelvs conſpire.

3 For in the luſt of his own heart
th'ungodly doth delight:
So doth the wicked praiſe himſelf,
and doth the Lord deſpight.
4 He is ſo proud that right and wrong he ſetteth all apart:
Nay, nay, There is no God, ſaith he,
for thus he thinks in heart.

5 Becauſe his ways do proſper ſtill,
he doth thy laws neglect;
And with a blaſt doth puff againſt
ſuch as would him correct.
6 Tuſh, tuſh, ſaith he, I have no dread, leſt mine eſtate ſhould change:
And why? for all adverſity to him is very ſtrange.

7 His mouth is full of curſedneſs, of fraud, deceit, and guile:
Under his tongue doth miſchief ſit,
and travel all the while.
8 He lieth hid in ways and holes to ſlay the innocent:
Againſt the poor that paſs him by his cruel eyes are bent.

9 And like a lion privily lies lurking in his den,
If he may ſnare them in his net,
to ſpoil poor ſimple men.
10 And for the nonce full craftly
he croucheth down, I ſay:
So are great heaps of poor men made,
by his ſtrong power, his prey.

The Second part.

11 Tuſh, God forgetteth this, ſaith he,
therefore I may be bold:
His countenance is caſt aſide,
he doth it not behold.
12 Ariſe, O Lord, O God, in whom,
the poor mans hope doth reſt:
Lift up thy hand, forget not, Lord,
the poor that be oppreſt.

13 What blaſphemy is this to thee,
Lord, doſt thou not abhor it,
To hear the wicked in their heart
ſay, Tuſh, thou car'ſt not for it?
14 But thou ſeeſt all their wickedneſs, and well doſt underſtand
That friendleſs and poor fatherleſs are left into thy hand.

15 Of wicked and malicious men then break the power for ever,
That they with their iniquity may periſh altogether.
16 The Lord ſhall reign for evermore
as King and God alone,
And he will chaſe the heathen folk out of the land each one.

17 Thou hear'ſt, O Lord, the poor mens their prayers and requeſt: (plaint, Their hearts thou wilt confirm, until thine ears to hear be preſt:
18 To judge the poor and fatherleſs, and help them to their right;
That they may be no more oppreſt
by men of worldly might.

In Domino confido. Pſal. xj. T. S.

ITruſt in God, how dare ye then ſay thus my ſoul until,
Flie hence as faſt as any fowl,
and hide you in your hill?
2 Behold, the wicked bend their bows,
and make their arrows preſt
To ſhoot in ſecret, and to hurt the ſound and harmleſs breaſt.

3 Of worldly hope all ſtays were ſhrunk, and clearly brought to nought:
Alas, the juſt and righteous man,
what evil hath he wrought?
4 But he that in his Temple is moſt holy and moſt high,
And in the heavens hath his ſeat of royal Majeſty.

The poor and ſimple mans eſtate
conſidereth in his mind,
And ſearcheth out full narrowly the manner of mankind.
5 And with a chearful countenance
the righteous man will uſe:
But in his heart he doth abhor
all ſuch as miſchief muſe:

6 And on the ſinners caſteth ſnares
as thick as any rain,
Fire and brimſtone, and whirlwinds thick,
appointed for their pain.
7 Ye ſee then how a righteous God
doth righteouſneſs embrace,
And to the juſt and upright men
ſhews forth his pleaſant face.

Salvum me fac. Pſal. xij. T. S.

HElp, Lord, for good and godly men do periſh and decay:
And faith and truth from worldly men
is parted clean away.
2 Who ſo doth with his neighbour talk,
his talk is all but vain:
For every man bethinketh how to flatter, ly, and fain.

3 But flattering and deceitful lips, and tongues that be ſo ſtout
To ſpeak proud words, & make great brags,
the Lord ſoon cuts them out.

4 For they ſay ſtill, We will prevail,
our tongues ſhall us extol:
Our tongues are ours, we ought to ſpeak;
what lord ſhall us control?

5 But for the great complaint and cry.
of poor and men oppreſt,
Ariſe will I now ſaith the Lord,
and them reſtore to reſt.
6 Gods word is like to ſilver pure,
that from the earth is tri'd,
And hath no leſs then ſeven times
in fire been purifi'd.

7 Now ſith thy promiſe is to help,
Lord, keep thy promiſe then:
And ſave us now and evermore
from this ill kind of men.
8 For now the wicked world is full of miſchiefs manifold,
When vanity with worldly men
ſo highly is extol'd.

Uſquequo, Domine? Pſal. xiij. T. S.

HOw long wilt thou forget me, Lord?
ſhall I ne'r be remembred?
How long wilt thou thy viſage hide,
as though thou wert offended?
2 In heart and mind how long ſhall I with care tormented be?
How long eke ſhall my deadly foes
thus triumph over me?

3 Behold me now, my Lord, my God,
and hear me ſore oppreſt:
Lighten mine eyes, leſt that I ſleep
as one by death poſſeſt:
4 Leſt that mine enemy ſay to me,
Behold I do prevail:
Leſt they alſo that hate my ſoul, rejoyce to ſee me quail.

5 But from thy mercy and goodneſs
my hope ſhall never ſtart:
In thy relief and ſaving health right glad ſhall be my heart.
6 I will give thanks unto the Lord,
and praiſes to him ſing:
Becauſe he hath heard my requeſt,
and granted my wiſhing.

Dixit inſipiens. Pſal. xiv. T. S.

THere is no God, as fooliſh men affirm in their mad mood:
Their drifts are all corrupt and vain,
not one of them doth good.
2 The Lord beheld from heaven high the whole race of mankind,
And ſaw not one that ſought indeed
the living God to find.

3 They went all wide and were corrupt, and truly there was none
That in the world did any good:
I ſay there was not one.
4 Is all their judgment ſo far loſt,
that all work miſchief ſtill, Eating my people, even as bread,
not one to ſeek Gods will?

5 When they thus rage, then ſuddenly great fear on them ſhall fall:
For God doth love the righteous men,
and will maintain them all.
6 Ye mock the doings of the poor,
to their reproach and ſhame:
Becauſe they put their truſt in God,
and call upon his name.

7 But who ſhall give thy people health?
and when wilt thou fulfil Thy promiſe made to Iſrael
from out of Zion hill?
8 Even when thou ſhalt reſtore again
ſuch as were captive led:
Then Jacob ſhall therein rejoyce,
and Iſrael ſhall be glad.

Domine, Quis? Pſal. xv. T. S.

O Lord, within thy tabernacle who ſhall inhabit ſtill?
2 Or whom wilt thou receive to dwell in thy moſt holy hill?
The man whoſe life is uncorrupt,
whoſe works are juſt and ſtreight:
Whoſe heart doth think the very truth,
whoſe tongue ſpeaks no deceit.

3 Nor to his neighbour doth none ill
in body, goods, or name,
Nor willingly doth move falſe tales,
which might empair the ſame.
4 That in his heart regardeth not malicious wicked men:
But thoſe that love and fear the Lord
he maketh much of them.

5 His oath and all his promiſes that keepeth faithfully,
Although he make his covenant ſo,
that he doth loſe thereby.
6 That putteth not to uſury
his mony and his coyn, Ne for to hurt the innocent
doth bribe or elſe purloin.

7 Who ſo doth all things as you ſee that here is to be done,
Shall never periſh in this world,
nor in the world to come.

Conſerva me. Pſal. xvj. T. S.

LOrd, keep me, for I truſt in thee,
and do confeſs indeed
Thou art my God, and of my goods,
O Lord, thou haſt no need.
2 I give my goods unto the Saints that in the world do dwel,
And namely to the faithful flock
in virtue that excel.

3 They ſhall heap ſorrows on their heads which run as they were mad,
To offer to the idol gods:
alaſs, it is too bad.
4 As for their bloudy ſacrifice and offerings of that ſort,
I will not touch, nor yet thereof
my lips ſhall make report.

5 For why? the Lord the portion is of mine inheritance:
And thou art he that doſt maintain my rent, my lot, my chance.
6 The place wherein my lot did fall in beauty did excel:
Mine heritage aſſign'd to me
doth pleaſe me wondrous well.

7 I thank the Lord that cauſed me
to underſtand the right:
For by his means my ſecret thoughts
do teach me every night.
8 I ſet the Lord ſtill in my ſight, and truſt him over all:
For he doth ſtand on my right hand,
therefore I ſhall not fall.

9 Wherefore my heart and tongue alſo do both rejoyce together:
My fleſh and body reſt in hope,
when I this thing conſider.
10 Thou wilt not leave my ſoul in grave,
for, Lord, thou loveſt me:
Nor yet wilt give thy Holy One corruption for to ſee.

11 But wilt me teach the way to life;
for all treaſure and ſtore
Of perfect joy are in thy face, and power for evermore.

Exaudi, Domine. Pſal. xvij. T. S.

O Lord, give ear to my juſt cauſe, attend when I complain:
And hear the prayer that I put forth with lips that do not feign.
2 And let the judgment of my cauſe proceed always from thee:
And let thine eyes behold and clear this my ſimplicity.

3 Thou haſt well tri'd me in the night, and yet could'ſt nothing find
That I have ſpoken with my tongue that was not in my mind.
4 As for the works of wicked men and paths perverſe and ill,
For love of thy moſt holy name,
I have refrained ſtill.

5 Then in thy paths that be moſt pure ſtay me, Lord, and preſerve:
That from the way wherein I walk
my ſteps may never ſwerve.
6 For I do call to thee, O Lord, ſurely thou wilt me aid:
Then hear my prayer, and weigh right wel
the words that I have ſaid.

7 O thou the Saviour of all them
that put their truſt in thee, Declare thy ſtrength on them that ſpurn
againſt thy Majeſty.
8 O keep me as thou wouldeſt keep the apple of thine eye:
And under covert of thy wings defend me ſecretly.

The ſecond part.

9 From wicked men that trouble me,
and daily me annoy;
And from my foes that go about my ſoul for to deſtroy:
10 Which wallow in their worldly wealth,
ſo full and eke ſo fat,
That in their pride they do not ſpare to ſpeak they care not what.

11 They lie in wait where I ſhould paſs, with craft me to confound:
And muſing miſchief in their minds,
to caſt me to the ground.
12 Much like a lion greedily that would his prey embrace:
Or lurking like a lion's whelp within ſome ſecret place.

13 Up Lord in haſte, prevent my fo,
and caſt him at thy feet:
Save thou my ſoul from the ill man,
and with the ſword him ſmite.
14 Deliver me, Lord, by thy power, out of theſe tyrants hands:
Which now ſo long time reigned have,
and kept us in their bands.

15 I mean from worldly men to whom all worldy goods are rife,
That have no hope nor part of joy
but in this preſent life.
16 Thou of thy ſtore their bellies fill'ſt with pleaſure to their mind:
Their children have enough, and leave to theirs the reſt behind.

17 But I ſhall with pure conſcience behold thy gracious face:
So when I wake I ſhall be full of thine image and grace.

Diligam te, Domine. Pſal. xviij. T.S.

O God my ſtrength and fortitude,
of force I muſt love thee:
Thou art my caſtle and defence
in my neceſſity.
2 My God, my rock in whom I truſt,
the worker of my wealth:
My refuge, buckler, and my ſhield,
the horn of all my health.

3 When I ſing laud unto the Lord
moſt worthy to be ſerv'd,
Then from my foes I am right ſure that I ſhall be preſerv'd.
4 The pangs of death did compaſs me,
and bound me every where:
The flowing waves of wickedneſs
did put me in great fear.

5 The ſly and ſubtil ſnares of hell were round about me ſet:
And for my death there was prepar'd
a deadly trapping net.
6 I thus beſet with pain and grief,
did pray to God for grace:
And he forthwith did hear my plaint
out of his holy place.

7 Such is his power, that in his wrath
he made the earth to quake:
Yea, the foundation of the mount of Baſan for to ſhake.
8 And from his noſtrils came a ſmoke
when kindled was his ire:
And from his mouth came kindled coals of hot conſuming fire.

9 The Lord deſcended from above, and bow'd the heavens high:
And underneath his feet he caſt
the darkneſs of the ſky.
10 On cherubs and on cherubims full royally he rode:
And on the wings of all the winds came flying all abroad.

The ſecond part.

11 And like a den moſt dark he made his hid and ſecret place:
With waters black and airy clouds environed he was.
12 But when the preſence of his face in brightneſs ſhall appear, Then clouds conſume, and in their ſtead come hail and coals of fire.

13 The fiery darts and thunder-bolts diſperſe them here and there:
And with his often lightenings
he puts them in great fear.
14 Lord, at thy wrath and threatnings, and at thy chiding chear,
The ſprings and the foundations of all the world appear.

15 And from above the Lord ſent down to fetch me from below,
And pluckt me out of waters great that would me overflow.
16 And me delivered from my foes that would have made me thrall:
Yea, from ſuch foes as were to ſtrong for me to deal withall.

17 They did prevent me to oppreſs in time of my great grief;
But yet the Lord was my defence,
my ſuccour and relief.
18 He brought me forth in open place,
whereas I might be free;
And kept me ſafe becauſe he had a favour unto me.

19 And as I was an innocent,
So did he me regard,
And to the cleanneſs of my hands
he gave me my reward.
20 For that I walked in his ways,
and in his paths have trod,
And have not ſinned wickedly againſt my Lord and God.

The Third part.

21 But evermore I have reſpect to his law and decree:
His ſtatutes and commandments
I caſt not out from me.
22 But pure and clean, and uncorrupt
appear'd before his face,
And did refrain from wickedneſs and ſin in any caſe.

23 The Lord therefore will me reward,
as I have done aright:
And to the cleanneſs of my hands
appearing in his ſight.
24 For, Lord, with him that holy is wilt thou be holy too,
And with the good and virtuous men right virtuouſly wilt do.

25 And to the loving and elect thy love thou wilt reſerve:
And thou wilt uſe the wicked men,
as wicked men deſerve.
26 For thou doſt ſave the ſimple folk in trouble when they lie,
And doſt bring down the countenance of them that look full high.

27 The Lord will light my candle ſo that it ſhall ſhine full bright:
The Lord my God will make alſo
my darkneſs to be light.
28 For by thy help an hoſt of men
diſcomfit, Lord, I ſhall:
By thee I ſcale and overleap
the ſtrength of any wall.

29 Unſpotted are the ways of God,
his word is purely tri'd:
He is a ſure defence to ſuch
as in his faith abide.
30 For who is God except the Lord?
for other there is none;
Or elſe who is omnipotent, ſaving our God alone?

The Fourth part.

31 The God that girdeth me with ſtrength, is he that I do mean,
That all the ways wherein I walk
did evermore keep clean.
32 That made my feet like to the harts
in ſwiftneſs of my pace,
And for my ſurety brought me forth into an open place.

33 He did in order put my hands to battel and to fight:
To break in ſunder bars of braſs
he gave mine arms the might.
34 Thou teacheſt me thy ſaving health,
thy right hand is my tower:
Thy love and familiarity
doth ſtill increaſe my power.

35 And under me thou makeſt plain the way where I ſhould walk,
So that my feet ſhall never ſlip,
nor ſtumble at a balk.
36 And fiercely I purſue and take my foes that me annoy'd:
And from the field do not return till they be all deſtroy'd.

37 So I ſuppreſs and wound my foes, that they can riſe no more:
For at my feet they fall down flat,
I ſtrike them all ſo ſore.
38 For thou doſt gird me with thy ſtrength to war in ſuch a wiſe,
That they be all ſcattered abroad
that up againſt me riſe.

39 Lord thou haſt put into my hands
my mortal enemies yoke:
And all my foes thou doſt divide in ſunder with thy ſtroke.
40 They call'd for help but none gave ear,
nor holp them with relief:
Yea, to the Lord they call'd for help,
yet heard he not their grief.

The Fifth part.

41 And ſtill like duſt before the wind
I drive them under feet,
And ſweep them out like filthy clay that ſticketh in the ſtreet.
42 Thou keep'ſt me from ſeditious folk that ſtill in ſtrife are led:
And thou doſt of the heathen folk appoint me to be head.

43 A people ſtrange to me unknown,
and yet they ſhall me ſerve:
And at the firſt obey my word,
whereas mine own will ſwerv.
44 I ſhall be irkſom to mine own,
they will not ſee my light:
But wander wide out of the way,
and hide them out of ſight.

45 But bleſſed be the living Lord,
moſt worthy of all praiſe;
That is my rock and ſaving health, praiſed be he always.
46 For God it is that gave me power revenged for to be;
And with his holy word ſubdu'd
the people unto me.

47 And from my foes deliver'd me,
and ſet me above thoſe
That cruel and ungodly were,
and up againſt me roſe.
48 And for this cauſe, O Lord, my God,
to thee give thanks I ſhall,
And ſing out praiſes to thy name
among the Gentiles all.

49 That gaveſt great proſperity unto the king, I ſay,
To David thine anointed king,
and to his ſeed for ay.

Cæli enarrant. Pſal. xix. T. S.

THe heavens and the firmament
do wondrouſly declare
The glory of God omnipotent,
his works, and what they are.
2 The wondrous works of God appear by every day's ſucceſs:
The nights likewiſe which their race run,
the ſelfſame thing expreſs.

3 There is no language, tongue, or ſpeech, where their ſound is not heard:
In all the earth and coaſts thereof.
their knowledge is confer'd.
4 In them the Lord made for the ſun
a place of great renown,
Who like a bridegroom ready trim'd doth from his chamber come.

5 And as a valiant champion,
who for to get a prize,
With joy doth haſte to take in hand
ſome noble enterprize.
6 And all the ſky from end to end he compaſſeth about:
Nothing can hide it from his heat,
but he will find it out.

7 How perfect is the Law of God,
how is his covenant ſure, Converting ſouls and making wiſe
the ſimple and obſcure!
8 Juſt are the Lords commandments, and glad both heart and mind;
His precepts pure, and do give light to eyes that be full blind.

9 The fear of God is excellent, and doth endure for ever:
The judgments of the Lord are true and righteous altogether:
10 And more to be embrac'd alway
then fined gold, I ſay:
The hony and the hony-comb are not ſo ſweet as they.

11 By them thy ſervant is forewarn'd to have God in regard:
And in performance of the ſame
there ſhall be great reward 12 But, Lord, what earthly man doth know
the errors of his life?
Then cleanſe me from my ſecret ſins which are in me moſt rife.

13 And keep me that preſumptuous ſins prevail not over me:
And ſo ſhall I be innocent,
and great offences flee.
14 Accept my mouth and eke my heart,
my words and thoughts each one:
For my redeemer and my ſtrength,
O Lord, thou art alone.

Exaudiat te Dom. Pſal. xx. T. S.

IN trouble and adverſity
the Lord God hear thee ſtill,
The Majeſty of Jacobs God defend thee from all ill:

2 And ſend thee from his holy place his help at every need,
And ſo in Zion ſtabliſh thee,
and make thee ſtrong indeed.

3 Remembring well the ſacrifice that now to him is done,
And ſo receive right thankfully thy burnt-offerings each one.
4 According to thy hearts deſire
the Lord grant unto thee,
And all thy counſel and device full well perform may he.

5 We ſhall rejoyce when thou us ſav'ſt, and our banners diſplay Unto the Lord, which thy requeſts fulfilled hath alway.
6 The Lord will his Anointed ſave,
I know well by his grace,
And ſend him help by his right hand
out of his holy place.

7 In chariots ſome put confidence, and ſome in horſes truſt:
But we remember God our Lord,
that keepeth promiſe juſt.
8 They fall down flat but we do riſe,
and ſtand up ſtedfaſtly:
9 Now ſave and help us, Lord and King,
on thee when we do cry.

Domine in virtute. Pſal. xxj. T. S.

O Lord, how joyful is the King in thy ſtrength and thy power!
How vehemently doth he rejoyce in thee his Saviour!
2 For thou haſt given unto him
his godly hearts deſire:
To him nothing thou haſt deni'd of that he did require.

3 Thou didſt prevent him with thy gifts and bleſſings manifold,
And thou haſt ſet upon his head
a crown of perfect gold.
4 And when he asked life of thee, thereof thou mad'ſt him ſure,
To have long life, yea ſuch a life
as ever ſhall endure.

5 Great is his glory by thy help,
thy benefit, and aid:
Great worſhip and great honour both thou haſt upon him laid.
6 Thou wilt give him felicity that never ſhall decay,
And with thy chearful countenance
wilt comfort him alway.

7 For why? the King doth ſtrongly truſt
in God for to prevail:
Wherefore his goodneſs and his grace will not that he ſhall quail.
8 But let thine enemies feel thy force,
and thoſe that thee withſtand:
Find out thy foes and let them feel the power of thy right hand.

9 And like an oven burn them, Lord,
in firy flame and fume:
Thine anger ſhall deſtroy them all,
and fire ſhall them conſume.
10 And thou ſhalt root out of the earth their fruit that ſhould increaſe:
And from the number of thy folk their ſeed ſhall end and ceaſe.

11 For why? much miſchief did they muſe
againſt thy holy name:
Yet did they fail and had no power
for to perform the ſame.
12 But as a mark thou ſhalt them ſet
in a moſt open place,
And charge thy bow-ſtrings readily againſt thine enemies face.

3 Be thou exalted, Lord, therefore in thy ſtrength every hour:
So ſhall we ſing right ſolemnly, praiſing thy might and power.

Deus, Deus meus. Pſal. xxij. T. S.

O God, my God, wherefore doſt thou forſake me utterly,
And helpeſt not when I do make my great complaint and cry?
2 To thee my God even all day long
I do both cry and call:
I ceaſe not all the night, and yet thou heareſt not at all.

3 Even thou that in thy ſanctuary and holy place doſt dwell, Thou art the comfort and the joy,
and glory of Iſrael.
4 And he in whom our fathers old had all their hope for ever:
And when they put their truſt in thee,
thou didſt them ay deliver.

5 They were delivered ever when they called on thy name:
And for the faith they had in thee
they were not put to ſhame.
6 But I am now become a worm
more like then any man:
An outcaſt whom the people ſcorn with all the ſpite they can.

7 All men deſpiſe as they behold me walking on the way:
They grin, they mow, they nod their heads,
and on this wiſe they ſay, 8 This man did glory in the Lord,
his favour and his love, Let him redeem and help him now,
his power if he will prove.

9 But, Lord, out of my mothers womb
I came by thy requeſt:
Thou didſt preſerve me ſtill in hope while I did ſuck her breaſt.
10 I was committed from my birth with thee to have abode:
Since I was in my mothers womb
thou haſt been e'r my God.

The Second part.

11 Then, Lord, depart not now from me
in this my preſent grief,
Since I have none to be my help,
my ſuccour and relief.
12 So many bulls do compaſs me that be full ſtrong of head:
Yea bulls ſo fat, as though they had in Baſan field been fed.

13 They gape upon me greedily,
as though they would me ſlay:
Much like a lion roaring out,
and ramping for his prey.
14 But I drop down like water ſhed,
my joynts in ſunder break,
My heart doth in my body melt like wax againſt the heat.

15 And like a potſherd drieth my ſtrength, my tongue it cleaveth faſt Unto my jaws, and I am brought to duſt of death at laſt.
16 And many dogs do compaſs me;
and wicked counſel eke Conſpire againſt me curſedly, they pierce my hands and feet.

17 I was tormented, ſo that I might all my bones have told;
Yet ſtill upon me they do look,
and ſtill they me behold.
18 My garments they divided eke
in parts among them all:
And for my coat they did caſt lots to whom it might befall.

19 Therefore I pray thee be not far from me at my great need:
But rather ſith thou art my ſtrength,
to help me, Lord, make ſpeed.
20 And from the ſword, Lord, ſave my ſoul
by thy might and thy power;
And keep my ſoul thy darling dear,
from dogs that would devour.

21 And from the lions mouth that would me all in ſunder ſhiver,
And from the horns of unicorns,
Lord ſafely me deliver.
22 Then ſhall I to my brethren all thy Majeſty record:
And in thy church ſhall praiſe the name of thee the living Lord.

The Third part.

23 All ye that fear him praiſe the Lord,
thou Jacob honour him:
And all ye ſeed of Iſrael
with reverence worſhip him.
24 For he deſpiſeth not the poor,
he turneth not awry
His countenance when they do call,
but granteth to their cry.

25 Among the folk that fear the Lord
I will therefore proclaim Thy praiſe, and keep my promiſe made for ſetting forth thy name.
26 The poor ſhall eat and be ſuffic'd, and thoſe that do endeavour
To know the Lord, ſhall praiſe his name, their hearts ſhall live for ever.

27 All coaſts of th'earth ſhall praiſe the Lord,
and turn to him for grace:
The heathen folk ſhall worſhip him before his bleſſed face.
28 The kingdom of the heathen folk the Lord ſhall have therefore:
And he ſhall be their governour and king for evermore.

29 The rich men of his goodly gifts
ſhall feed and taſte alſo:
And in his preſence worſhip him
and bow their knees full low.
30 And all that ſhall go down to duſt,
of life by him ſhall taſte:
My ſeed ſhall ſerve and praiſe the Lord
while any world ſhall laſt.

31 My ſeed ſhall plainly ſhew to them that ſhall be born hereafter,
His juſtice and his righteouſneſs,
and all his works of wonder.

Dominus

Dominus regit me. Pſal. xxiij. W.W.

THe Lord is onely my ſupport,
and he that doth me feed:
How can I then lack any thing
whereof I ſtand in need?
2 He doth me fold in coats moſt ſafe
the tender graſs faſt by:
And after drives me to the ſtreams which run moſt pleaſantly.

3 And when I feel my ſelf near loſt, then doth he me home take,
Conducting me in his right paths
even for his own names ſake.
4 And though I were even at deaths door,
yet would I fear none ill:
For with thy rod and ſhepherds crook
I am comforted ſtill.

5 Thou haſt my table richly deckt
in deſpite of my fo:
Thou haſt my head with balm refreſht,
my cup doth overflow.
6 And finally while breath doth laſt thy grace ſhall me defend:
And in the houſe of God will I my life for ever ſpend.

Another of the ſame, by T. S.

MY ſhepherd is the living Lord,
nothing therefore I need.
2 In paſtures fair with waters calm
he ſets me for to feed.
3 He did convert and glad my ſoul, and brought my mind in frame
To walk in paths of righteouſneſs, for his moſt holy name.

4 Yea though I walk in vale of death,
yet will I fear none ill:
Thy rod, thy ſtaff doth comfort me,
and thou art with me ſtill.
5 And in the preſence of my foes
my table thou ſhalt ſpread:
Thou ſhalt, O Lord, fill full my cup,
and eke anoint my head.

6 Through all my life thy favour is ſo frankly ſhew'd to me:
That in thy houſe for evermore
my dwelling place ſhall be.

Domini eſt terra. Pſal. xxiv. I. H.

THe earth is all the Lords, with all her ſtore and furniture:
Yea His is all the world, and all that therein doth endure.
2 For he hath faſtly founded it above the ſeas to ſtand,
And laid alow the liquid flouds,
to flow beneath the land.

3 For who is he, O Lord, that ſhall aſcend into thy hill,
Or paſs into thy holy place,
there to continue ſtill?
4 Whoſe hands are harmleſs, and whoſe heart
no ſpot there doth defile:
His ſoul not ſet on vanity,
who hath not ſworn to guil.

5 Him that is ſuch an one, the Lord
ſhall place in bliſful plight,
And God his God and Saviour ſhall yield to him his right.
6 This is the brood of travellers,
ſeeking of his grace:
As Jacob did the Iſraelite,
in that time of his race.

7 Ye Princes, ope your gates, ſtand ope,
the everlaſting gate:
For there ſhall enter in thereby
the King of glorious ſtate.
8 Who is the King of glorious ſtate?
the Strong and Mighty Lord,
The Mighty Lord in battel ſtout and trial of the ſword.

9 Ye Princes, ope your gates, ſtand ope,
the everlaſting gate:
For there ſhall enter in thereby
the King of glorious ſtate.
10 Who is the King of glorious ſtate?
the Lord of hoſts it is:
The kingdom and the royalty of glorious ſtate is His.

Ad te Domine. Pſal. xxv. T. S.

I Lift my heart to thee,
my God and guide moſt juſt:
Now ſuffer me to take no ſhame,
for in thee do I truſt.
2 Let not my foes rejoyce,
nor make a ſcorn of me:
And let them not be overthrown
that put their truſt in thee.

3 But ſhame ſhall them befal which harm them wrongfully:
Therefore thy paths, and thy right ways unto me, Lord, deſcry.
4 Direct me in thy truth,
and teach me, I thee pray:
Thou art my God and Saviour,
on thee I wait alway.

5 Thy mercies manifold,
I pray thee, Lord, remember;
And eke thy pity plentiful,
for they have been for ever.
6 Remember not the faults
and frailty of my youth:
Remember not how ignorant
I have been of thy truth.

Nor after my deſerts
let me thy mercy find:
But of thine own benignity,
Lord, have me in thy mind.
7 His mercy is full ſweet,
his truth a perfect guide:
Therefore the Lord will ſinners teach,
and ſuch as go aſide.

8 The humble he will teach his precepts for to keep:
He will direct in all his ways
the lowly and the meek.
9 For all the ways of God are truth and mercy both,
To them that keep his teſtament,
the witneſs of his troth.

The Second part.

10 Now for thy holy name,
O Lord I thee intreat
To grant me pardon for my ſin,
for it is wondrous great.
11 Who ſo doth fear the Lord,
the Lord will him direct To lead his life in ſuch a way as he doth beſt accept.

12 His ſoul ſhall evermore in goodneſs dwell and ſtand:
His ſeed and his poſterity inherit ſhall the land.
13 All thoſe that fear the Lord know his ſecret intent:
And unto them he doth declare his will and teſtament.

14 Mine eyes and eke my heart to him I will advance,
That pluck'd my feet out of the ſnare of ſin and ignorance.
15 With mercy me behold,
to thee I make my moan:
For I am poor and deſolate, and comfortleſs alone

16 The troubles of my heart are multipli'd indeed: Bring me out of this miſery, neceſſity and need.
17 Behold my poverty,
mine anguiſh and my pain:
Remit my ſin and mine offence,
and make me clean again.

18 O Lord, behold my foes,
how they do ſtill increaſe, Purſuing me with deadly hate,
that fain would live in peace.
19 Preſerve and keep my ſoul,
and eke deliver me:
And let me not be overthrown,
becauſe I truſt in thee.

20 Let my ſimple pureneſs me from mine enemies ſhend:
Becauſe I look as one of thine, that thou ſhould'ſt me defend.
21 Deliver, Lord, thy folk,
and ſend them ſome relief,
I mean thy choſen Iſrael,
from all their pain and grief.

Judica me Domine. Pſal. xxvj. T. S.

LOrd, be my judge, and thou ſhalt ſee
my paths be right and plain:
I truſt in God, and hope that he will ſtrength me to remain.
2 Prove me, my God, I thee deſire my ways to ſearch and try:
As men do prove their gold with fire,
my reins and heart eſpy.

3 Thy goodneſs laid before my face
I durſt behold always:
For of thy truth I tread the trace,
and will do all my days.
4 I do not liſt to haunt or uſe with men whoſe deeds are vain:
To come in houſe I do refuſe with the deceitful train.

5 I much abhor the wicked ſort,
their deeds I do deſpiſe:
I do not once to them reſort that hurtful things deviſe.
6 My hands I waſh, and do proceed in works to walk upright:
Then to thine altar I make ſpeed,
to offer there in ſight.

7 That I may ſpeak and preach the praiſe that doth belong to thee:
And ſo declare how wondrous ways
thou haſt been good to me.
8 O God, thy houſe I love moſt dear,
to me it doth excel:
I have delight and would be near whereas thy grace doth dwell.

9 O ſhut not up my ſoul with them in ſin that take their fill;
Nor yet my life among thoſe men that ſeek much blood to ſpill.
10 Whoſe hands are heapt with craft & guil, their lives thereof are full:
And their right hand with wrench and wile for bribes doth pluck and pull.

11 But I in righteouſneſs intend my time and days to ſerve:
Have mercy, Lord, and me defend,
ſo that I do not ſwerve.
12 My foot is ſtay'd for all aſſays,
it ſtandeth well and right:
Wherefore to God will I give praiſe in all the peoples ſight.

Dominus illuminatio. Pſal. xxvij. I. H.

THe Lord is both my health and light;
ſhall man make me diſmaid?
Sith God doth give me ſtrength and might,
why ſhould I be afraid?
2 While that my foes with all their ſtrength begin with me to brawl,
And think to eat me up, at length
themſelvs have caught the fall.

3 Though they in camp againſt me lie,
my heart is not afraid:
In battel pight if they will try,
I truſt in God for aid.
4 One thing of God I do require, that he will not deny:
For which I pray and will deſire
till he to me apply:

5 That I within his holy place
my life throughout may dwell,
To ſee the beauty of His face,
and view his temple well.
6 In time of dread he ſhall me hide within His place moſt pure;
And keep me ſecret by his ſide,
as on a rock moſt ſure.

7 At length I know the Lords good grace
ſhall make me ſtrong and ſtout,
My foes to foil and clean deface,
that compaſs me about.
8 Therefore within His houſe will I give ſacrifice of praiſe:
With pſalms and ſongs I will apply to laud the Lord always.

The Second part.

9 Lord, hear the voice of my requeſt, for which to thee I call:
Have mercy, Lord, on me oppreſt,
and ſend me help withall.
10 My heart doth knowledge unto thee,
I ſue to have thy grace:
Then ſeek my face, ſaidſt thou to me;
Lord, I will ſeek thy face.

11 In wrath turn not thy face away,
nor ſuffer me to ſlide:
Thou art my help ſtill to this day,
be ſtill my God and guide.
12 My parents both their ſon forſook, and caſt me off at large:
And then the Lord himſelf yet took of me the care and charge.

13 Teach me, O Lord, the way to thee,
and lead me on forth right,
For fear of ſuch as watch for me,
to trap me if they might.

14 Do not betake me to the will of them that be my foes:
For they ſurmiſe againſt me ſtill
falſe witneſs to depoſe.

15 My heart would faint, but that in me
this hope is fixed faſt,
The Lord God's good grace ſhall I ſee
in life that ay ſhall laſt.
16 Truſt ſtill in God whoſe whole thou art,
his will abide thou muſt;
And he ſhall eaſe and ſtrength thy heart,
if thou in him do truſt.

Ad te Dom. clamabo. Pſal. xxviij. T. S.

THou art, O Lord, my ſtrength and ſtay,
the ſuccour which I crave:
Neglect me not, leſt I be like to them that go to grave.
2 The voice of thy ſuppliant hear,
that unto thee doth cry:
When I lift up my hands unto thy holy ark moſt high.

3 Repute me not among the ſort of wicked and pervert,
That ſpeak right fair unto their friends,
and think full ill in heart.
4 According to their handy-work,
as they deſerve indeed,
And after their inventions
let them receive their meed.

5 For they regard nothing Gods works,
his law ne yet his lore:
Therefore will he them and their ſeed
deſtroy for evermore.
6 To render thanks unto the Lord
how great a cauſe have I,
My voyce, my prayer, and my complaint that heard ſo willingly!

7 He is my ſhield and fortitude,
my buckler in diſtreſs:
My hope, my help, my hearts relief,
my ſong ſhall him confeſs.
8 He is our ſtrength and our defence,
our enemies to reſiſt:
The health and the ſalvation of his elect by Chriſt.

9 Thy people and thine heritage,
Lord, bleſs, guide, and preſerve:
Increaſe them, Lord, and rule their hearts,
that they may never ſwerve.

Afferte Domino. Pſal. xxix. T. S.

GIve to the Lord, ye potentates,
ye rulers of the world,
Give ye all praiſe, honour and ſtrength unto the living Lord.
2 Give glory to his holy Name,
and honour Him alone:
Worſhip Him in his Majeſty, within His holy throne.

3 His voice doth rule the waters all,
even as himſelf doth pleaſe:
He doth prepare the thunder-claps,
and governs all the ſeas.
4 The voyce of God is of great force,
and wondrous excellent:
It is moſt mighty in effect,
and moſt magnificent.

5 The voyce of God doth rend and break
the cedar-trees ſo long:
The cedar-trees of Lebanon,
which are moſt high and ſtrong.
6 And makes them leap like as a calf,
or elſe the unicorn:
Not onely trees but mountains great,
whereon the trees are born.

7 His voyce divides the flames of fire,
and ſhakes the wilderneſs:
8 It makes the deſart quake for fear, that called is Cades.
9 It makes the hinds for fear to calve, and makes the coverts plain:
Then in his temple every man his glory doth proclaim.

10 The Lord was ſet above the flouds, ruling the raging ſea:
So ſhall He reign as Lord and King for ever and for ay.
11 The Lord will give his people power in virtue to increaſe:
The Lord will bleſs His choſen flock with everlaſting peace.

Exaltabo te Domine. Pſal. xxx. I. H.

ALl laud and praiſe with heart and voice,
O Lord, I give to thee,
Which didſt not make my foes rejoyce,
but haſt exalted me.
2 O Lord my God, to thee I cri'd
in all my pain and grief:
Thou gav'ſt an ear, and did'ſt provide to eaſe me with relief.

3 Of thy good will thou haſt call'd back my ſoul from hell to ſave, Thou didſt revive when ſtrength did lack,
and kept'ſt me from the grave.
4 Sing praiſe, ye Saints, that prove and ſee
the goodneſs of the Lord:
In memory of his Majeſty
rejoyce with one accord.

5 For why? his anger but a ſpace doth laſt, and ſlack again:
But in his favour and his grace always doth life remain.
Though gripes of grief and pangs full ſore
ſhall lodge with us all night,
The Lord to joy ſhall us reſtore before the day be light.

6 When I enjoy'd the world at will,
thus would I boaſt and ſay, Tuſh, I am ſure to feel none ill,
this wealth ſhall not decay.
7 For thou, O Lord, of thy good grace
had'ſt ſent me ſtrength and aid:
But when thou turn'dſt away thy face,
my mind was ſore diſmaid.

8 Wherefore again yet did I cry to thee, O Lord of might:
My God with plaints I did apply,
and pray'd both day and night, 9 What gain is in my bloud, ſaid I,
if death deſtroy my days?
Doth duſt declare thy Majeſty, or yet thy truth doth praiſe?

10 Wherefore, my God, ſome pity take,
O Lord, I thee deſire:
Do not this ſimple ſoul forſake,
of help I thee require.
11 Then didſt thou turn my grief and wo into a chearful voice:

The mourning weed thou took'ſt me fro,
and mad'ſt me to rejoyce.

12 Wherefore, my ſoul unceſſantly
ſhall ſing unto thy praiſe:
My Lord, my God, to thee will I give laud and thanks always.

In te, Domine. Pſal. xxxj. I. H.

O Lord, I put my truſt in thee,
let nothing work me ſhame:
As thou art juſt deliver me
and ſet me quite from blame.
2 Hear me, O Lord, and that anon, to help me make good ſpeed:
Be thou my rock and houſe of ſtone,
my fence in time of need.

3 For why? as ſtones thy ſtrength is tri'd, thou art my fort and tower:
For thy names ſake be thou my guide,
and lead me in thy power.
4 Pluck thou my feet out of the ſnare which they for me have laid:
Thou art my ſtrength, and all my care is for thy might and aid.

5 Into thy hands, Lord, I commit my ſpirit which is thy due:
For why thou haſt redeemed it,
O Lord, my God moſt true.
6 I hate ſuch folk as will not part from things to be abhor'd,
When they on trifles ſet their heart,
my truſt is in the Lord.

7 For I will in thy mercy joy,
I ſee it doth excel:
Thou ſeeſt when ought would me annoy,
and know'ſt my ſoul full well.
8 Thou haſt not left me in their hand that would me overcharge:
But thou haſt ſet me out of band,
to walk abroad at large.

The Second part.

9 Great grief, O Lord, doth me aſſail, ſome pity on me take:
Mine eyes wax dim, my ſight doth fail,
my womb for wo doth ake.
10 My life is worn with grief and pain,
my years in wo are paſt,
My ſtrength is gone, and through diſdain
my bones corrupt and waſte.

11 Among my foes I am a ſcorn,
my friends are all diſmaid:
My neighbours and my kinſmen-born to ſee me are afraid.
12 As men once dead are out of mind,
ſo am I quite forgot:
As ſmall effect in me they find as in a broken pot.

13 I heard the brags of all the rout, their threats my mind did fray;
How they conſpir'd and went about
to take my life away.
14 But, Lord, I truſt in thee for aid,
not to be over-trod:
For I confeſs and ſtill have ſaid,
Thou art my Lord and God.

15 The length of all my life and age
O Lord, is in thy hand:
Defend me from the wrath and rage
of them that me withſtand.
16 To me thy ſervant, Lord, expreſs and ſhew thy joyful face:
And ſave me, Lord, for thy goodneſs, thy mercy, and thy grace.

The Third part.

17 Lord, let me not be put to blame,
for that on thee I call:
But let the wicked bear the ſhame,
and in the grave to fall.
18 O Lord, make dumb their lips outright, which are addict to lies,
And cruelly with pride and ſpight againſt the juſt deviſe.

19 O how great good haſt thou in ſtore laid up full ſafe for them That fear and truſt in thee therefore,
before the ſons of men!
20 Thy preſence ſhall them fence and guide from all proud brags and wrongs:
Within thy place thou ſhalt them hide from all the ſtrife of tongues.

21 Thanks to the Lord that hath declar'd on me his grace ſo far,
Me to defend with watch and ward,
as in a town of war.
22 Thus did I ſay both day and night,
when I was ſore oppreſt;
Lo, I was clean caſt out of ſight,
yet heard'ſt thou my requeſt.

23 Ye ſaints, love ye the Lord, I ſay,
the faithful he doth guide:
And to the proud he doth repay
according to their pride.
24 Be ſtrong, and God ſhall ſtay your heart,
be bold and have a luſt:
For ſure the Lord will take your part,
ſith ye on him do truſt.

Beati quorum. Pſal. xxxij. T. S.

THe man is bleſt whoſe wickedneſs
the Lord hath clean remitted:
And he whoſe ſin and wickedneſs is hid and alſo covered.
2 And bleſt is he to whom the Lord
imputeth not his ſin:
Which in his heart hath hid no guile,
nor fraud is found therein.

3 For whil'ſt that I kept cloſe my ſin
in ſilence and conſtraint,
My bones did wear and waſte away with daily moan and plaint.
4 For night and day thy hand on me
ſo grievous was and ſmart,
That all my bloud and humours moiſt to drineſs did convert.

5 I did therefore confeſs my fault and all my ſins diſcover:
Then Thou, O Lord, didſt me forgive, and all my ſins paſs over.
6 The humble man ſhall pray therefore,
and ſeek thee in due time:
So that the flouds of waters great ſhall have no power on him.

7 When trouble and adverſity do compaſs me about,
Thou art my refuge and my joy,
and thou doſt rid me out.
8 Come hither and I will thee teach how thou ſhalt walk aright:
I will thee guide as I my ſelf have learn'd by proof and ſight.

9 Be not ſo rude and ignorant
as is the horſe and mule, Whoſe mouth without a rein or bit from harm thou canſt not rule.
10 The wicked man ſhall manifold ſorrows and griefs ſuſtain:
But unto him that truſts in God his goodneſs ſhall remain.

11 Be merry therefore in the Lord,
ye juſt lift up your voice:
And ye of pure and perfect heart,
be glad and eke rejoyce.

Exultate, juſti. Pſal. xxxiij. I. H.

YE righteous in the Lord rejoyce;
it is a ſeemly ſight,
That upright men with thankful voyce ſhould praiſe the Lord of might.
2 Praiſe ye the Lord with harp and ſong, in Pſalms and pleaſant things:
With lute and inſtrument among that ſoundeth with ten ſtrings.

3 Sing to the Lord a ſong moſt new,
with courage give him praiſe:
4 For why his word is ever true,
his works and all his ways.
5 To judgment, equity and right
he hath a great good will:
And with his gifts he doth delight the earth throughout to fill.

6 For by the word of God alone
the heavens all were wrought:
Their hoſts and powers every one his breath to paſs hath brought.
7 The waters great gathered hath he on heaps within the ſhore:
And hid them in the depth to be,
as in an houſe of ſtore.

8 All men on earth both leaſt and moſt, fear God and keep his law:
Ye that inhabit in each coaſt,
dread him and ſtand in aw.
9 What he commanded wrought it was,
at once with preſent ſpeed:
What he doth will is brought to paſs with full effect indeed.

10 The counſels of the nations rude
the Lord doth bring to nought:
He doth defeat the multitude of their device and thought.
11 But his decrees continue ſtill,
they never ſlack nor ſwage:
The motions of his mind and will take place in every age.

The Second part.

12 And bleſt are they to whom the Lord
as God and guide is known:
Whom he doth chuſe of meer accord to take them as his own.
13 The Lord from heaven caſt his ſight on men mortal by birth:
14 Conſidring from his ſeat of might the dwellers of the earth.

15 The Lord, I ſay, whoſe hand hath wrought mans heart, and doth it frame,
For he alone doth know the thought and working of the ſame.
16 A king that truſteth in his hoſt, ſhall nought prevail at length:
The man that of his might doth boaſt,
ſhall fall for all his ſtrength.

17 The troops of horſmen eke ſhall fall, their ſturdy ſteeds ſhall ſtarve:
The ſtrength of horſe ſhall not prevail
the rider to preſerve.
18 But lo the eyes of God intend and watch to aid the juſt:
With ſuch as fear him to offend,
and on his goodneſs truſt:

19 That he of death and great diſtreſs may ſet their ſouls from dread:
And if that dearth their land oppreſs,
in hunger them to feed.
20 Wherefore our ſoul doth whole depend on God our ſtrength and ſtay:
He is our ſhield us to defend,
and drive all darts away.

21 Our ſoul in God hath joy and game, rejoyceing in his might:
For why? in his moſt holy name
we hope and much delight.
22 Therefore let thy goodneſs, O Lord, ſtill preſent with us be:
As we always with one accord do onely truſt in thee.

Benedicam, Dom. Pſal. xxxiv. T. S.

I Will give laud and honour both unto the Lord always,
And eke my mouth for evermore
ſhall ſpeak unto his praiſe.
2 I do delight to laud the Lord
in ſoul and eke in voice:
That humble men and mortifi'd may hear and ſo rejoyce.

3 Therefore ſee that ye magnify with me the living Lord;
And let us now exalt his name together with one accord.
4 For I my ſelf beſought the Lord;
he anſwered me again,
And me deliver'd incontinent
from all my fear and pain.

5 Whoſo they be that him behold, ſhall ſee his light moſt clear:
Their countenance ſhall not be daſht,
they need it not to fear.
6 This ſilly wretch for ſome relief unto the Lord did call;
Who did him hear without delay,
and rid him out of thrall.

7 The angel of the Lord doth pitch his tents in every place,
To ſave all ſuch as fear the Lord,
that nothing them deface.
8 Taſt and conſider well therefore that God is good and juſt:
O happy man that maketh him
his onely ſtay and truſt!

9 Fear ye the Lord, ye holy ones, above all earthly thing:
For they that fear the living Lord are ſure to lack nothing.

10 The lions ſhall be hunger-bit, and pin'd with famine much:
But as for them that fear the Lord,
no lack ſhall be to ſuch.

The Second part.

11 Come near therefore my children dear,
and to my words give ear:
I ſhall you teach the perfect way,
how ye the Lord ſhould fear.
12 Who is the man that would live long,
and lead a bleſſed life?
13 See thou refrain thy tongue and lips from all deceit and ſtrife:

14 Turn back thy face from doing ill,
and do the godly deed:
Inquire for peace and quietneſs,
and follow it with ſpeed.
15 For why? the eyes of God above upon the juſt are bent:
His ears likewiſe, to hear the plaint of the poor innocent.

16 But he doth frown and bend his brows upon the wicked train:
And cuts away the memory
that ſhould of them remain.
17 But when the juſt do call and cry,
the Lord doth hear them ſo,
That out of pain and miſery forthwith he lets them go.

18 The Lord is kind and ſtraight at hand to ſuch as be contrite:
He ſaves alſo the ſorowful,
the poor and meek in ſp'rit.
19 Full many be the miſeries that righteous men do ſuffer:
But out of all adverſities
the Lord doth them deliver.

20 The Lord doth ſo preſerve and keep his very bones alway,
That not ſo much as one of them
doth periſh or decay.
21 The ſin ſhall ſlay the wicked man,
which he himſelf hath wrought:
And ſuch as hate the righteous man
ſhall ſoon be brought to nought.

22 But they that fear the living Lord,
the Lord doth ſave them ſound:
And who that put their truſt in him,
nothing ſhall them confound.

Judica me Domine. Pſal. xxxv. I. H.

LOrd plead my cauſe againſt my foes, confound their force and might:
Fight on my part againſt all thoſe that ſeek with me to fight.
2 Lay hand upon the ſpear and ſhield,
thy ſelf in armour dreſs:
Stand up for me, and fight the field,
to help me from diſtreſs.

3 Gird on thy ſword, and ſtop the way,
mine enemies to withſtand:
That thou unto my ſoul may'ſt ſay,
Lo I thy help at hand.
4 Confound them with rebuke and blame,
that ſeek my ſoul to ſpill:
Let them turn back and flee with ſhame,
that think to work me ill.

5 Let them diſperſe and flee abroad,
as wind doth drive the duſt:
And that the angel of our God their might away may thruſt.
6 Let all their ways be void of light,
and ſlippery like to fall:
And ſend thine angel with thy might,
to perſecute them all.

7 For why? without my fault they have in ſecret ſet their grin:
And for no cauſe have dig'd a cave
to take my ſoul therein.
8 When they think leaſt and have no care,
O Lord, deſtroy them all:
Let them be trapt in their own ſnare,
and in their miſchief fall.

9 And let my ſoul with heart and voice,
in God have joy and wealth:
That in the Lord I may rejoyce,
and in his ſaving health.
10 And then my bones ſhall ſpeak and ſay,
my parts ſhall all agree:
O Lord, though they do ſeem full gay,
what one is like to thee?

The Second part.

11 Thou doſt defend the weak from them that are both ſtout and ſtrong:
And rid the poor from wicked men,
that ſpoil and do them wrong.
12 My cruel foes againſt me riſe,
to witneſs things untrue:
And to accuſe me they deviſe of things I never knew.

13 Where I to them did ow good will;
they quit me with diſdain.
That they ſhould pay my good with ill,
my ſoul doth ſore complain.
14 When they were ſick I mourn'd there-and clad my ſelf in ſack: (fore,
With faſting I did faint ful ſore,
to pray I was not ſlack:

15 As they had been my brethren dear,
I did my ſelf behave:
As one that maketh woful chear about his mothers grave.
16 But they at my diſeaſe did joy,
and gather on a rout:
Yea, abject ſlaves at me did toy,
with mocks and checks full ſtout.

17 The belly-gods and flattering train, that all good things deride,
At me do grin with great diſdain, and pluck their mouths aſide.
18 Lord, why wilt thou ſo long forbear?
why do'ſt thou ſtay and pauſe?
O rid my ſoul, mine onely dear,
out of theſe lions claws.

19 And then will I give thanks to thee before the church always:
And where moſt of the people be,
there will I ſhew thy praiſe.
20 Let not my foes prevail on me,
which hate me for no fault:
Nor yet them wink, or turn their eye,
that cauſleſs me aſſault.

The Third part.

21 Of peace no word they think or ſay,
their talk is all untrue:
They ſtill conſult and would betray all thoſe that peace enſue.
22 With open mouth they run at me, they gape, they laugh, they ſneer:

Well,

Well, well, ſay they, our eye doth ſee
the thing that we deſire.

23 But, Lord, thou ſeeſt what ways they take,
ceaſe not this gear to mend:
Be not far off, nor me forſake,
as men that fail their friend.
24 Awake, ariſe, and ſtir abroad, defend me in my right:
Revenge my cauſe, my Lord, my God,
and aid me with thy might.

25 According to thy righteouſneſs,
my Lord God, ſet me free:
And let them not their pride expreſs,
nor triumph over me.
26 Let not their hearts rejoyce and cry,
There, there, this gear go's trim:
Nor give them cauſe to ſay on high,
we have our will on him.

27 Confound them with rebuke and ſhame,
that joy when I do mourn:
And pay them home with ſpight and blame,
that brag at me with ſcorn.
28 Let them be glad and eke rejoyce which love mine upright way,
And they all times with heart and voice
ſhall praiſe the Lord, and ſay,

29 Great is the Lord, and doth excell, for why? he doth delight
To ſee his ſervants proſper well, that is his pleaſant ſight.
30 Wherefore my tongue I will apply thy righteouſneſs to praiſe:
Unto the Lord my God will I ſing laud and praiſe always.

Dixit injuſtus. Pſal. xxxvj. I. H.

THe wicked with his works unjuſt doth thus perſwade his heart,
That of the Lord he hath no truſt;
his fear is ſet apart.
2 Yet doth he joy in his eſtate, to walk as he began,
So long till he deſerve the hate of God and eke of man.

3 His words are wicked vile and naught, his tongue no truth doth tell:
Yet at no hand will he be taught which way he may do well.
4 When he ſhould ſleep, then doth he muſe his miſchiefs to fulfil:
No wicked ways doth he refuſe,
nor nothing that is ill.

5 But, Lord, thy goodneſs doth aſcend
above the heavens high:
So doth thy truth it ſelf extend unto the cloudy ſky.
6 Much more then hills ſo high and ſteep,
thy juſtice is expreſt:
Thy judgments like to ſeas moſt deep;
thou ſav'ſt both man and beaſt.

7 Thy mercy is above all things,
O God, it doth excell:
In truſt whereof, as in thy wings,
the ſons of men ſhall dwell.
8 Within thy houſe they ſhall be fed with plenty at their will:
Of all delights they ſhall be ſped,
and take thereof their fill.

9 For why, the well of life ſo pure doth ever flow from thee;
And in thy light we are full ſure
the laſting light to ſee.
10 From ſuch as thee deſire to know
let not thy grace depart:
Thy righteouſneſs declare and ſhow to men of upright heart.

11 Let not the proud on me prevail,
O Lord, of thy good grace:
Nor let the wicked me aſſail,
to throw me out of place.
12 But they in their device ſhall fall that wicked works maintain:
They ſhall be overthrown withall, and never riſe again.

Noli æmulari. Pſal. xxxvij. W. W.

GRudge not to ſee the wicked men
in wealth to flouriſh ſtill:
Nor yet envy ſuch as to ill have bent and ſet their will.
2 For as green graſs and flouriſhing herbs are cut and wither away:
So ſhall their great proſperity
ſoon paſs, fade, and decay.

3 Truſt thou therefore in God alone,
to do well give thy mind:
So ſhalt thou have the Land as thine,
and there ſure food ſhalt find.
4 In God ſet all thy hearts delight, and look what thou would'ſt have,
Or elſe can'ſt wiſh in all the world,
thou need'ſt it not to crave.

5 Caſt both thy ſelf and thine affairs on God with perfect truſt,
And thou ſhalt ſee with patience
th'effect both ſure and juſt.
6 Thy perfect life and godly name
he will clear as the light:
So that the ſun even at noon-day
ſhall not ſhine half ſo bright.

7 Be ſtill therefore, and ſtedfaſtly on God ſee thou wait then,
Not ſhrinking for the proſperous ſtate of lewd & wicked men.
8 Shake off deſpight, envy, and hate,
at leaſt in any wiſe:
Their wicked ſteps avoid and flee,
and follow not their guiſe.

9 For every wicked man will God
deſtroy both more and leſs:
But ſuch as truſt in him are ſure
the land for to poſſeſs.
10 Watch but a while, and thou ſhalt ſee
no more the wicked train,
No not ſo much as houſe or place where once he did remain.

The Second part.

11 But merciful and humble men
enjoy ſhall ſea and land:
In reſt and peace they ſhall rejoyce, for nought ſhall them withſtand.
12 The lewd men and malicious
againſt the juſt conſpire:
They gnaſh their teeth at him, as men which do his bane deſire.

13 But while that lewd men thus do think,
the Lord laughs them to ſcorn:
For why? he ſees their term approach
when they ſhall ſigh and mourn.

14 The wicked have their ſword outdrawn, their bow eke have they bent,
To overthrow and kill the poor,
as he the right way went.

15 But the ſame ſword ſhall pierce their heart which was to kill the juſt:
Likewiſe the bow ſhall break to ſhivers, wherein they put their truſt.
16 Doubtleſs the juſt mans poor eſtate is better a great deal more Then all theſe lewd and wicked mens rich pomp and heaped ſtore.

17 For be their power never ſo ſtrong,
God will it overthrow:
Where contrary he doth preſerve
the humble men and low.
18 He ſees by his great providence
the good mens trade and way:
And will give them inheritance which never ſhall decay.

19 They ſhall not be diſcouraged,
when ſome are hard beſtead:
When others ſhall be hunger-bit,
they ſhall be clad and fed.
20 For whoſoever wicked is and enemy to the Lord, Shall quail, yea melt, even as lambs greaſe,
or ſmoke that flies abroad.

The Third part.

21 Behold the wicked borrows much,
and never pay's again:
Whereas the juſt by liberal gifts makes many glad and fain.
22 For they whom God doth bleſs, ſhall have the land for heritage,
And they whom he doth curſe, likewiſe
ſhall periſh in his rage.

23 The Lord the juſt mans ways doth guide, and gives him good ſucceſs:
To every thing he takes in hand
he ſendeth good addreſs.
24 Though that he fall, yet is he ſure not utterly to quail:
Becauſe the Lord puts out his hand at need, and doth not fail.

25 I have been young and now am old,
yet did I never ſee
The juſt man left, nor yet his ſeed to beg for miſery:
26 But gives always moſt liberally,
and lends whereas is need:
His children and poſterity receive of God their meed.

27 Flee vice therefore and wickedneſs, and virtue do embrace:
So God ſhall grant thee long to have on earth a dwelling place.
28 For God ſo loveth equity, and ſhews to his ſuch grace,
That he preſerveth them alway, but'ſtroys the wicked race.

29 Whereas the good and godly men
inherit ſhall the land:
Having as lords all things therein
in their own power and hand.
30 The juſt mans mouth ſhall ever ſpeak of matters wiſe and high:
His tongue doth talk to edify with truth and equity.

31 For in his heart the Law of God
his Lord doth ſtill abide:
So that wherever he goes or walks,
his foot can never ſlide.
32 The wicked like a ravening wolf
the juſt man doth beſet,
By all means ſeeking him to kill,
if he fall in his net.

The Fourth part.

33 Though he ſhould fall into his hands,
yet God would ſuccour ſend:
Though men againſt him ſentence give,
God would him yet defend.
34 Wait thou on God and keep his way, he ſhall preſerve thee then
The earth to rule, and thou ſhalt ſee deſtroy'd theſe wicked men.

35 The wicked have I ſeen moſt ſtrong, and plac'd in high degree.
Flouriſhing in all wealth and ſtore,
as doth the laurel-tree.
36 But ſuddenly he paſt away,
and lo he was quite gone:
Then I him ſought but could not find the place where dwelt ſuch one.

37 Mark and behold the perfect man,
how God doth him increaſe:
For the juſt man ſhall have at length great joy with reſt and peace.
38 As for tranſgreſſours wo to them, deſtroy'd they ſhall all be:
God ſhall cut off their buding race,
and rich poſterity.

39 But the ſalvation of the juſt
doth come from God above,
Who in their trouble ſends them aid,
of his meer grace and love.
40 God doth them help, ſave, and deliver from lewd men and unjuſt:
And ſtill will ſave them whilſt that they in him do put their truſt.

Domine, ne. Pſal. xxxviij. I. H.

PUt me not to rebuke, O Lord,
in thy provoking ire:
Ne in thy heavy wrath, O Lord, correct me I deſire.
2 Thine arrows do ſtick faſt in me,
thy hand doth preſs me ſore:
And in my fleſh no health at all appeareth any more.

3 And all this is by reaſon of thy wrath that I am in:
Nor any reſt is in my bones
by reaſon of my ſin.
4 For lo, my wicked doings, Lord,
above my head are gone:
A greater load then I can bear,
they lie me ſore upon.

5 My wounds ſtink and are feſtred ſo,
as loathſom is to ſee:
Which all through mine own fooliſhneſs
betideth unto me.
6 And I in careful wiſe am brought in trouble and diſtreſs:
That I go wailing all the day in doleful heavineſs.

7 My loyns are fil'd with ſore diſeaſe, my fleſh hath no whole part:
8 I feeble am and broken ſore,
I roar for grief of heart.

9 Thou know'ſt, Lord, my deſires; my groans are open in thy ſight:
10 My heart doth pant, my ſtrength doth fail, mine eyes have loſt their light.

11 My lovers and my wonted friends
ſtand looking on my wo:
And eke my kinſmen far away
are me departed fro.
12 They that did ſeek my life laid ſnares, and they that ſought the way To do me hurt, ſpeak lies, and thought on miſchief all the day.

The Second part.

13 But as a deaf man I became,
that cannot hear at all:
14 And as one dumb, that opens not his mouth to ſpeak withall.
15 For all my confidence, O Lord, is wholly ſet on thee:
O Lord, thou Lord that art my God,
thou ſhalt give ear to me.

16 This did I crave, that they my foes triumph not over me:
For when my foot did ſlip, then they did joy my fall to ſee.
17 And truly I poor wretch am ſet
in place, a woful wight:
And eke my grievous heavineſs is ever in my ſight.

18 For while that I my wickedneſs in humble wiſe confeſs;
And while I for my ſinful deeds
my ſorrows do expreſs:
19 My foes do ſtill remain alive,
and mighty are alſo:
And they that hate me wrongfully,
in number hugely grow.

20 They ſtand againſt me that my good with evil do repay:
Becauſe that good and honeſt things
I do enſue alway.
21 Forſake me not, O Lord, my God, be thou not far away:
22 Haſte me to help, my Lord, my God,
my ſafety and my ſtay.

Dixi, Cuſtodiam. Pſal. xxxix. I. H.

ISaid, I will look to my ways,
for fear I ſhould go wrong:
I will take heed all times that I offend not with my tongue.
2 As with a bit I will keep faſt my mouth with force and might.
Not once to whiſper all the while the wicked are in ſight.

3 I held my tongue and ſpake no word,
but kept me cloſe and ſtill:
Yea, from good talk I did refrain,
but ſore againſt my will.
4 My heart waxt hot within my breaſt, with muſing thought and doubt;
Which did increaſe and ſtir the fire:
at laſt theſe words burſt out;

5 Lord number out my life and days which yet I have not paſt;
So that I may be certifi'd
how long my life ſhall laſt.
6 Lord, thou haſt pointed out my life
in length much like a ſpan:
Mine age is nothing unto thee,
ſo vain is every man.

7 Man walketh like a ſhade, and doth in vain himſelf annoy
In getting goods, and cannot tell who ſhall the ſame enjoy.
8 Now, Lord, ſith things this wiſe do frame,
what help do I deſire?
Of truth my help doth hang on thee,
I nothing elſe require.

The Second part.

9 From all the ſins that I have done,
Lord, quit me out of hand:
And make me not a ſcorn to fools
that nothing underſtand.
10 I was as dumb, and to complain
no trouble might me move:
Becauſe I knew it was thy work,
my patience for to prove.

11 Lord, take from me thy ſcourge & plague,
I can them not withſtand:
I faint and pine away for fear of thy moſt heavy hand.
12 When thou for ſin doſt man rebuke,
he waxeth wo and wan,
As doth a cloth that moths have fret:
ſo vain a thing is man.

13 Lord, hear my ſuit, and give good heed, regard my tears that fall:
I ſojourn like a ſtranger here,
as did my fathers all.
14 O ſpare a little, give me ſpace
my ſtrength for to reſtore,
Before I go away from hence,
and ſhall be ſeen no more.

Expectans expectavi. Pſal. xl. I. H.

IWaited long and ſought the Lord,
and patiently did bear:
At length to me he did accord,
my voice and cry to hear.
2 He pluckt me from the lake ſo deep,
out of the mire and clay:
And on a rock he ſet my feet,
and he did guide my way.

3 To me he taught a Pſalm of praiſe, which I muſt ſhew abroad,
And ſing new ſongs of thanks always unto the Lord our God.
4 When all the folk theſe things ſhall ſee,
as people much afraid,
Then they unto the Lord will flee,
and truſt upon his aid.

5 O bleſt is he whoſe hope and heart
doth in the Lord remain:
That with the proud doth take no part,
nor ſuch as lie and feign.
6 For, Lord my God, thy wondrous deeds in greatneſs far do paſs:
Thy favour towards us exceeds all things that ever was.

7 When I intend and do deviſe
thy works abroad to ſhow,
To ſuch a reckoning they do riſe, thereof no end I know.
8 Burnt off'rings thou delight'ſt not in,
I know thy whole deſire:
With ſacrifice to purge his ſin thou doſt no man require.

9 Meat-offerings and ſacrifice thou would'ſt not have at all:
But thou, O Lord, haſt open made mine ears to hear withall.

10 But then ſaid I, behold and look,
I come a mean to be:
For in the volumn of thy book
thus is it ſaid of me,

11 That I, O God, ſhould do thy mind, which thing doth like me well:
For in my heart thy law I find faſt placed there to dwell.
12 Thy juſtice and thy righteouſneſs in great reſorts I tell:
Behold, my tongue no time doth ceaſe,
O Lord, Thou knowſt full well.

The Second part.

13 I have not hid within my breaſt thy goodneſs as by ſtealth:
But I declare and have expreſt thy truth and ſaving health.
14 I kept not cloſe thy loving mind,
that no man ſhould it know:
The truſt that in thy truth I find,
to all the Church I ſhow.

15 Thy tender mercy, Lord, from me withdraw thou not away:
But let thy love and verity preſerve me ſtill for ay.
16 For I with miſchiefs many a one am ſore beſet about:
My ſins increaſe, and ſo come on,
I cannot ſpy them out.

17 For why? in number they exceed the hairs upon my head:
My heart doth faint for very dread,
that I am almoſt dead.
18 With ſpeed ſend help, and ſet me free,
O Lord, I Thee require:
Make haſte with aid to ſuccour me,
O Lord, at my deſire.

19 Let them ſuſtain rebuke and ſhame
that ſeek my ſoul to ſpill:
Drive back my foes and them defame,
that wiſh and would me ill.
20 For their ill feats do them deſcry, that would deface my name:
Always at me they rail and cry,
fie on him, fie for ſhame.

21 Let them in thee have joy and wealth that ſeek to thee always:
That thoſe that love thy ſaving health
may ſay, To God be praiſe.
22 But as for me, I am but poor, oppreſt and brought full low:
Yet thou, O Lord, wilt me reſtore to health full well I know.

23 For why? Thou art my hope and truſt, my refuge help and ſtay:
Wherefore my God, as Thou art juſt, with me no time delay.

Beatus qui intelligit. Pſal. xlj. T. S.

THe man is bleſt that careful is the needy to conſider:
For in the ſeaſon perillous
the Lord will him deliver.
2 The Lord will make him ſafe and ſound,
and happy in the land:
And he will not deliver him
into his enemies hand.

3 And in his bed when he lies ſick,
the Lord will him reſtore:
And Thou, O lord, wilt turn to health his ſickneſs and his ſore.
4 Then in my ſickneſs thus ſaid I,
have mercy, Lord, on me,
And heal my ſoul which is full wo that I offended Thee.

5 Mine enemies wiſht me ill in heart,
and thus of me did ſay,
When ſhall he die, that all his name
may vaniſh quite away?
6 And when they come to viſit me,
they ask if I do well:
But in their hearts miſchief they hatch,
and to their mates it tell.

7 They bite their lips and whiſper ſo,
as though they would me charm:
And caſt their fetches how to trap me with ſome mortal harm.
8 Some grievous ſin hath brought him to this ſickneſs, ſay they plain:
He is ſo low that without doubt riſe can he not again

9 The man alſo that I did truſt, with me did uſe deceit:
Who at my table ate my bread,
the ſame for me laid wait.
10 Have mercy, Lord, on me therefore,
and let me be preſerv'd:
That I may render unto them
the things they have deſerv'd.

11 But this I know aſſuredly to be belov'd of thee,
When that mine enemies have no cauſe to triumph over me.
12 But in my right thou haſt me kept,
and maintained alway:
And in thy preſence place aſſign'd where I ſhall dwell for ay.

13 The Lord the God of Iſrael
be praiſed evermore:
Even ſo be it, Lord, will I ſay, even ſo be it therefore.

Quemadmodum. Pſal. xlij. I. H.

LIke as the hart doth breath and bray
the well-ſprings to obtain;
So doth my ſoul deſire alway with Thee, Lord, to remain.
2 My ſoul doth thirſt, and would draw near the living God of might:
Oh when ſhall I come and appear in preſence of His ſight!

3 The tears all times are my repaſt, which from mine eyes do ſlide:
When wicked men cry out ſo faſt,
Where now is God thy guide?
4 Alas, what grief is it to think what freedom once I had!
Therefore my ſoul as at pits brink
moſt heavy is and ſad.

When I did march in good aray,
furniſhed with my train,
Unto the Temple was our way,
with ſongs and hearts moſt fain.
5 My ſoul why art thou ſad always,
and fret'ſt thus in my breaſt?
Truſt ſtill in God; for him to praiſe
I hold it ever beſt.

By him I have ſuccour at need
againſt all pain and grief:
He is my God, which with all ſpeed will haſte to ſend relief.
6 And thus my ſoul within me, Lord, doth faint to think upon
The land of Jordan, and record
the little hill Hermon.

The Second part.

7 One grief another in doth call,
as clouds burſt out their voice:
The flouds of evil that do fall run over me with noiſe.
8 Yet I by day felt his goodneſs and help at all aſſays:
Likewiſe by night I did not ceaſe
the living God to praiſe.

9 I am perſwaded thus to ſay to him with pure pretence,
O Lord, Thou art my guide and ſtay,
my rock and ſure defence.
Why do I then in penſiveneſs hanging the head thus walk,
While that mine enemies me oppreſs,
and vex me with their talk?

10 For why? they pierce my inward parts with pangs to be abhor'd,
When they cry out with ſtubborn hearts,
where is thy God, thy Lord?
11 So ſoon why do'ſt thou faint and quail,
my ſoul with pain oppreſt?
With thoughts why doſt thy ſelf aſſail
ſo ſore within my breaſt?

12 Truſt in the Lord thy God always,
and thou the time ſhalt ſee
To give him thanks with laud and praiſe, for health reſtor'd to thee.

Judica me Dom. Pſal. xliij. T. S.

JUdge and revenge my cauſe, O Lord,
from them that evil be:
From wicked and deceitful men,
O Lord, deliver me.
2 For of my ſtrength thou art the God;
why put'ſt thou me thee fro?
And why walk I ſo heavily oppreſſed with my fo?

3 Send out thy light, and eke thy truth and lead me with thy grace,
Which may conduct me to thy hill,
and to thy dwelling place.
4 Then ſhall I to the altar go of God my joy and chear:
And on my harp give thanks to thee,
O God, my God moſt dear.

5 Why art thou then ſo ſad my ſoul,
and fret'ſt thus in my breaſt?
Still truſt in God, for him to praiſe
I hold it always beſt.
6 By him I have deliverance
againſt all pain and grief:
He is my God which doth alway
at need ſend me relief.

Deus auribus. Pſal. xliv. T. S.

OUr ears have heard our fathers tell,
and reverently record
The wondrous works that thou haſt done in older time, O Lord.
2 How thou didſt caſt the Gentiles out,
and ſtroid'ſt them with ſtrong hand:
Planting our fathers in their place,
and gav'ſt to them their land.

3 They

3 They conquered not by ſword nor ſtrength
the land of thy beheſt:
But by thy hand, thy arm and grace;
becauſe thou lov'dſt them beſt.
4 Thou art my king, O God that holp
Jacob in ſundry wiſe.
5 Led with thy power, we threw down ſuch
as did againſt us riſe.

6 I truſted not in bow nor ſword,
they could not ſave me ſound:
7 Thou keptſt us from our enemies rage, thou did'ſt our foes confound.
8 And ſtill we boaſt of thee our God,
and praiſe thy holy name:
9 Yet now thou go'ſt not with our hoſt,
but leaveſt us to ſhame.

10 Thou mad'ſt us flee before our foes,
and ſo were over-trod:
Our enemies rob'd and ſpoil'd our goods,
when we were ſperſt abroad.
11 Thou haſt us given to our foes,
as ſheep for to be ſlain:
Amongſt the heathen every where ſcatt'red we do remain.

12 Thy people thou haſt ſold like ſlaves,
and as a thing of nought:
For profit none thou hadſt thereby,
no gain at all was ſought.
13 And to our neighbours thou haſt made of us a laughing ſtock:
And thoſe that round about us dwell,
at us do grin and mock.

The Second part.

14 Thus we ſerve for none other uſe,
but for a common talk:
They mock, they ſcorn, they nod their heads
where ere they go or walk.
15 I am aſham'd continually, to hear theſe wicked men:
Yea, ſo I bluſh that all my face with red is covered then.

16 For why, we hear ſuch ſlandrous words, ſuch falſe reports and lies:
That death it is to ſee their wrongs,
their threatnings and their cries.
17 For all this we forgot not thee,
nor yet thy covenant brake:
18 We turn not back our hearts from thee,
nor yet thy paths forſake.

19 Yet thou haſt trod us down to duſt, where dens of dragons be,
And covered us with ſhade of death,
and great adverſity.
20 If we had our Gods name forgot,
and help of idols ſought,
21 Would not God then have tri'd this out?
for he doth know our thought.

22 Nay, nay, for thy names ſake, O Lord, always are we ſlain thus:
As ſheep unto the ſhambles ſent, right ſo they deal with us.
23 Up, Lord, why ſleepeſt thou? awake, and leave us not for all:
24 Why hideſt thou thy countenance, and doſt forget our thrall?

25 For down to duſt our ſoul is brought,
and we now at laſt caſt:
Our belly, like as it were glu'd, unto the ground cleaves faſt.
26 Riſe up therefore for our defence,
and help us, Lord, at need:
We thee beſeech for thy goodneſs, to reſcue us with ſpeed.

Eructavit. Pſal. xlv. I. H.

MY heart doth take in hand
ſome godly ſong to ſing:
The praiſe that I ſhall ſhew therein pertaineth to the king.
2 My tongue ſhall be as quick his honour to indite,
As is the pen of any ſcribe,
that uſeth faſt to write.

3 O faireſt of all men,
thy ſpeech is pleaſant pure:
For God hath bleſſed thee with gifts
for ever to indure.
4 About thee gird thy ſword,
O Prince of might elect:
With honour, glory, and renown
thy perſon pure is deckt.

5 Go forth with godly ſpeed, with meekneſs, truth, and right:
And thy right hand ſhall thee inſtruct in works of dreadful might.
6 Thine arrows ſharp and keen their hearts ſo ſore ſhall ſting:
That folk ſhall fall and kneel to thee,
yea all thy foes, O king.

7 Thy royal ſeat, O Lord,
for ever ſhall remain:
Becauſe the ſcepter of thy realm doth righteouſneſs maintain.
8 Becauſe thou lov'ſt the right,
and doſt the ill deteſt,
God, even thy God, hath'nointed thee with joy above the reſt.

9 With myrrh and ſavours ſweet thy clothes are all beſpread:
When thou doſt from thy palace paſs, therein to make thee glad.
10 Kings daughters do attend
in fine and rich array:
At thy right hand the queen doth ſtand in gold and garments gay.

The Second part.

11 O daughter take good heed,
incline and give good ear:
Thou muſt forget thy kindred all,
and fathers houſe moſt dear.
12 Then ſhall the king deſire
thy beauty fair and trim:
For why? he is the Lord thy God,
and thou muſt worſhip him.

13 The daughters then of Tyre, with gifts full rich to ſee,
And all the wealthy of the Land
ſhall make their ſuit to thee.
14 The daughter of the king is glorious to behold:
Within her cloſet ſhe doth ſit
all deckt in beaten gold.

15 In robes well wrought with needle,
and many a pleaſant thing:
With virgins fair on her to wait,
ſhe cometh to the king.
16 Thus are they brought with joy and mirth on every ſide,
Into the palace of the king,
and there they do abide.

17 In ſtead of parents left,
(O queen the caſe ſo ſtands)
Thou ſhalt have ſons whom thou may'ſt ſet
as princes in all lands.
18 Wherefore thy holy name
all ages ſhall record:
The people ſhall give thanks to thee for evermore, O Lord.

Deus noſter. Pſal. xlvj. I. H.

THe Lord is our defence and aid
the ſtrength whereby we ſtand:
When we with wo are much diſmai'd,
he is our help at hand.
2 Though th'earth remove, we will not fear, though hills ſo high and ſteep
Be thruſt and hurled here and there, within the ſea ſo deep.

3 No, though the waves do rage ſo ſore that all the banks it ſpills:
And though it overflow the ſhore,
and beat down mighty hills.
4 For one fair floud doth ſend abroad
his pleaſant ſtreams apace,
To freſh the City of our God,
and waſh his holy place.

5 In midſt of her the Lord doth dwell,
ſhe can no whit decay:
All things againſt her that rebell
the Lord will truly ſlay.
6 The heathen folk the kingdoms fear,
the people make a noiſe:
The earth doth melt and not appear,
when God puts forth his voice.

7 The Lord of hoſts doth take our part,
to us he hath an eye:
Our hope of health with all our heart
on Jacobs God doth lie.
8 Come hear and ſee with mind and thought the working of our God:
What wonders he himſelf hath wrought
in all the world abroad.

9 By him all wars are huſht and gone, which countrys did conſpire:
Their bows he brake and ſpears each one,
their chariots burnt with fire.
10 Leave off therefore (ſaith he) and know
I am a God moſt ſtout,
Among the heathen high and low,
and all the earth throughout.

11 The Lord of hoſts doth us defend,
he is our ſtrength and tower:
On Jacobs God we do depend,
and on his might and power.

Omnes gentes. Pſal. xlvij. I. H.

YE people all with one accord
clap hands and eke rejoyce:
Be glad and ſing unto the Lord
with ſweet and pleaſant voice.
2 For High the Lord and Dreadfull is,
with wonders manifold:
A mighty King he is truly,
in all the earth extol'd.

3 The people ſhall he make to be unto our bondage thrall:
And underneath our feet he ſhall
the nations make to fall.

4 For us the heritage he choſe which we poſſeſs alone,
The flouriſhing worſhip of Jacob his welbeloved one.

5 Our God aſcended up on high with joy and pleaſant noiſe:
The Lord goes up above the ſky with trumpets royal voice.
6 Sing praiſes to our God, ſing praiſe, ſing praiſes to our King:
7 For God is King of all the earth,
all skilful praiſes ſing.

8 God on the heathen reigns, and ſits upon his holy throne:
The Princes of the people have them joyned every one 9 To Abrahams people: for our God, which is exalted high,
As with a buckler doth defend the earth continually

Magnus Dominus. Pſal. xlviij. I. H.

GReat is the Lord, and with great praiſe to be advanced ſtill, Within the City of our God,
upon his holy hill.
2 Mount Zion is a pleaſant place,
it gladdeth all the land:
The City of the mighty King on her north-ſide doth ſtand.

3 Within the palaces thereof
God is a refuge known:
For lo, the kings are gathered, and together they are gone.
4 But when they did behold it ſo, they wondred, and they were Aſtonied much, and ſuddenly were driven back with fear.

5 Great terrour there on them did fall,
for very wo they cry,
As doth a woman when ſhe ſhall go travel by and by.
6 As thou with eaſtern wind the ſhips
upon the ſea doſt break,
So they were ſtroy'd: and even as we heard our fathers ſpeak.

7 So in the City of the Lord
we ſaw as it was told:
Yea, in the City which our God
for ever will uphold.
8 O Lord, we wait and do attend on thy good help and grace:
For which we do all times attend
within thy holy place.

9 O Lord, according to thy Name for ever is thy praiſe:
And thy right hand, O Lord, is full of righteouſneſs always.
10 Let, for thy judgments, Zion mount fulfilled be with joys:
And eke of Judah, grant, O Lord,
the daughters to rejoyce.

11 Go walk about all Zion hill,
yea, round about her go:
And tell the towers that thereupon are builded on a row.
12 And mark ye well her bulwarks all,
behold her towers there:
That ye may tell thereof to them that after ſhall be here.

13 For this God is our God, our God for evermore is he:
Yea, and unto the death alſo
our guider ſhall he be.

Audite hæc omnes. Pſal. xlix. I. H.

ALl people hearken and give ear to that that I ſhall tell:
2 Both high and low, both rich and poor that in the world do dwell.
3 For why? my mouth ſhall make diſcourſe of many things right wiſe:
In underſtanding ſhall mine heart his ſtudy exerciſe.

4 I will incline mine ear to know
the parable ſo dark:
And open all my doubtful ſpeech
in meeter on my harp.
5 Why ſhould I fear affliction,
or any careful toyl;
Or elſe my foes which at my heels are preſt my life to ſpoil?

6 For as for ſuch as riches have,
wherein their truſt is moſt;
And they which of their treaſures great themſelves do brag and boaſt;
7 There is not one of them that can his brothers death redeem:
Or that can give a price to God
ſufficient for him.

8 It is too great a price to pay,
none can thereto attain:
Or that he might his life prolong,
or not in grave remain.
9 They ſee wiſe men as well as fools
ſubject unto deaths bands:
And being dead, ſtrangers poſſeſs their goods, their rents, their lands.

10 Their care is to build houſes fair, and ſo determine ſure
To make their name right great on earth
for ever to indure.
11 Yet ſhall no man always enjoy high honour, wealth, and reſt;
12 But ſhall at length taſt of deaths cup,
as well as the bruit beaſt.

The Second part.

13 And though they try their fooliſh thoughts to be moſt lewd and vain:
Their children yet approve their talk,
and in like ſin remain.
14 As ſheep into the fold are brought,
ſo ſhall they into grave:
Death ſhall them eat, and in that day
the juſt ſhall lordſhip have.

15 Their image and their royal port ſhall fade and quite decay:
When as from houſe to pit they paſs with wo and wel-away.
16 But God will ſurely preſerve me from death and endleſs pain:
Becauſe he will of his good grace
my ſoul receive again.

17 If any man wax wondrous rich, fear not I ſay therefore:
Although the glory of his houſe increaſeth more and more.
18 For when he dies, of all theſe things nothing ſhall he receive:
His glory will not follow him,
his pomp will take her leave.

19 Yet in this life he takes himſelf
the happieſt under ſun:
And others likewiſe flatter him,
ſaying, all is well done.
20 And preſuppoſe he live as long as did his fathers old;
Yet muſt he needs at length give place,
and be brought to deaths fold.

21 Thus man to honour God had brought,
yet doth he not conſider:
But like brute beaſts ſo doth he live,
which turn to duſt and powder.

Deus Deorum. Pſal. L. W. W.

THe mighty God,
th'eternal hath thus ſpoke,
And all the world
he will call and provoke:
Even from the eaſt,
and ſo forth to the weſt.
2 From toward Zion,
which place he liketh beſt.
God will appear in beauty moſt excellent:
Our God will come before that long time be ſpent.

3 Devouring fire
ſhall go before his face;
A great tempeſt
ſhall round about him trace.
4 Then ſhall he call the earth and heavens bright,
To judge his folk
with equity and right:
5 Saying, Go to,
and now my ſaints aſſemble:
My pact they keep,
their gifts do not diſſemble.

6 The heavens ſhall declare his righteouſneſs:
For God is judge
of all things more and leſs.
7 Hear, my people,
for I will now reveil;
Liſt Iſrael,
I will thee nought conceil.
Thy God, thy God am I, and will not blame thee 8 For giving not all manner offerings to me.

9 I have no need to take of thee at all Goats of thy fold,
or calf out of thy ſtall:
10 For all the beaſts
are mine within the woods:
On thouſand hills
cattel are mine own goods.
11 I know for mine
all birds that are on mountains:
All beaſts are mine
which haunt the fields and fountains.

12 Hungry if I were,
I would not thee it tell:
For all is mine
that in the world doth dwell.
13 Eat I the fleſh
of great bulls or bullocks?

Or drink the bloud
of goats, or of the flocks?
14 Offer to God
praiſe and hearty thanksgiving,
And pay thy vows
unto God everliving.

15 Call upon me.
when troubled thou ſhalt be:
Then will I help,
and thou ſhalt honour me, 16 To the wicked
thus ſaith th'eternal God, Why doſt thou preach
my laws and heſts abroad:
17 Seeing thou haſt
them with thy mouth abuſed,
And hateſt to be
by diſcipline reformed?
My words, I ſay,
thou doſt reject and hate:

18 If that thou ſee
a thief, as with thy mate, Thou run'ſt with him,
and ſo your prey do ſeek,
And art all one
with bauds and ruffians eke.
19 Thou giv'ſt thy ſelf
to backbite and to ſlander:
And how thy tongue
deceives it is a wonder.
20 Thou ſit'ſt muſing
thy brother how to blame,
And how to put
thy mothers ſon to ſhame.

21 Theſe things thou did'ſt, and whil'ſt I held my tongue,
Thou didſt me judge,
becauſe I ſtaid ſo long,
Like to thy ſelf:
yet though I keep long ſilence, Once ſhalt thou feel of thy wrongs juſt recompenſe.
22 Conſider this,
ye that forget the Lord,
And fear not when he threatneth with his word:
Leſt without help
I ſpoil you as a prey.

23 But he that thanks
offereth, praiſeth me ay, Saith the Lord God:
and he that walks this trace,
I will him teach
Gods ſaving health t'embrace.

Another of the ſame, by I. H.

THe God of Gods, the Lord, hath call'd the earth by name:
From whence the ſun doth riſe, unto the ſetting of the ſame.
2 From Zion his fair place,
his glory bright and clear,
The perfect beauty of his grace,
from thence it did appear.

3 Our God ſhall come in haſte, to ſpeak he ſhall not doubt:
Before him ſhall the fire waſte,
and tempeſt round about.
4 The heavens from on high,
the earth below likewiſe
He will call forth, to judge and try his folk he doth deviſe.

5 Bring forth my ſaints, ſaith he,
my faithful flock ſo dear:
Which are in band and league with me,
my law to love and fear.
6 And when theſe things are tri'd,
the heavens ſhall record
That God is juſt, and all muſt bide
the judgment of the Lord.

7 My people, O give heed,
Iſrael to thee I cry:
I am thy God, thy help at need,
thou canſt it not deny.
8 I do not ſay to thee;
thy ſacrifice is ſlack:
Thou offer'ſt daily unto me much more then I do lack.

9 Think'ſt thou that I do need thy cattel young or old?
Or elſe ſo much deſire to feed
on goats out of thy fold?
10 Nay; all the beaſts are mine,
in woods that eat their fils:
And thouſands more of neat and kine that run wild on the hills.

The Second part.

11 The birds that build on high,
in hills and out of ſight;
And beaſts that in the fields do lie are ſubject to my might.
12 Then though I hungred ſore,
what need I ought of thine, Sith that the earth with her great ſtore,
and all therein is mine?

13 To buls fleſh have I mind to eat it, doſt thou think?
Or ſuch a ſweetneſs do I find the bloud of goats to drink?
14 Give to the Lord his praiſe,
with thanks to him apply:
And ſee thou pay thy vows always unto the God Moſt High.

15 Then ſeek and call to me, when ought would work thee blame:
And I will ſure deliver thee,
that thou mayſt praiſe my name.
16 But to the wicked train, which talk of God each day,
And yet their works are foul and vain,
to them the Lord will ſay,

17 With what a face dar'ſt thou my word once ſpeak or name?
Why doth thy talk my law allow,
thy deeds deny the ſame?
18 Whereas for to amend thy life thou art ſo ſlack:
My word the which thou doſt pretend,
is caſt behind thy back.

The Third part.

19 When thou a thief doſt ſee
by theft to live in wealth,
With him thou run'ſt and doſt agree likewiſe to thrive by ſtealth.
20 When thou doſt them behold that wives and maids defile.
Thou lik'ſt it well, and waxeſt bold to uſe that life moſt vile.

21 Thy lips thou doſt apply to ſlander and defame:
Thy tongue is taught to craft and ly,
and ſtill doth uſe the ſame.
22 Thou ſtudieſt to revile thy friends to thee ſo near:
With ſlander thou wouldſt needs defile thy mothers ſon moſt dear.

23 Hereat while I do wink,
as though I did not ſee, Thou goeſt on ſtill, and ſo doſt think that I am like to thee.
24 But ſure I will not let to ſtrike, when I begin:
Thy faults in order I will ſet, and open all thy ſin.

25 Mark this I you require,
that have not God in mind:
Leſt when I plague you in mine ire,
your help be far to find.
26 He that doth give to me
the ſacrifice of praiſe, Doth pleaſe me well, and he ſhall ſee to walk in godly ways.

Miſerere mei. Pſal. lj. W.W.

O Lord, conſider my diſtreſs, and now with ſpeed ſome pity take:
My ſins deface, my faults redreſs,
good Lord, for thy great mercies ſake.
2 Waſh me, O Lord, and make me clean from this unjuſt and ſinful act,
And purify yet once again
my hainous crime and bloudy fact.

3 Remorſe and ſorrow do conſtrain me to acknowledge mine exceſs:
My ſin, alaſs, doth ſtill remain before my face without releaſe.
4 For thee alone I have offended, commiting evil in thy ſight:
And if I were therefore condemned,
yet were thy judgments juſt and right.

5 It is too manifeſt, alaſs, that firſt I was conceiv'd in ſin:
Yea, of my mother ſo born was,
and yet vile wretch remain therein.
6 Alſo behold, Lord, thou doſt love
the inward truth of a pure heart:
Therefore thy wiſdom from above thou haſt reveil'd me to convert.

7 If thou with hyſſop purge this blot,
I ſhall be cleaner then the glaſs:
And if thou waſh away my ſpot,
the ſnow in whiteneſs ſhall I paſs.
8 Therefore, O Lord, ſuch joy me ſend, that inwardly I may find grace,
And that my ſtrength may now amend,
which thou haſt ſwag'd for my treſpaſs.

9 Turn back thy face and frowning ire,
for I have felt enough thy hand:
And purge my ſins, I thee deſire, which do in number paſs the ſand.
10 Make new my heart within my breaſt, and frame it to thy holy will:
Thy conſtant ſpirit in me let reſt, which may theſe raging enemies kill.

The Second part.

11 Caſt me not, Lord, out from thy face,
but ſpeedily my torments end:
Take not from me thy ſpirit of grace,
which may from dangers me defend.
12 Reſtore me to thoſe joys again which I was wont in thee to find:

And

And let me thy free ſpirit retain,
which unto thee may ſtir my mind.

13 Thus when I ſhall thy mercies know,
I ſhall inſtruct others therein:
And men that are likewiſe brought low by mine example ſhall flee ſin.
14 O God, that of my health art Lord, forgive me this my bloudy vice:
My heart and tongue ſhall then accord to ſing thy mercies and juſtice.

15 Touch thou my lips, my tongue unty,
O Lord, which art the onely key:
And then my mouth ſhall teſtify thy wondrous works and praiſe alway.
16 And as for outward ſacrifice,
I would have offer'd many a one:
But thou eſteem'ſt them of no price,
and therein pleaſure tak'ſt thou none.

17 The heavy heart, the mind oppreſt,
O Lord, thou never doſt reject:
And, to ſpeak truth, it is the beſt,
and of all ſacrifice th'effect.
18 Lord, unto Zion turn thy face, pour out thy mercies on thy hill:
And on Jeruſalem thy grace;
build up the wals, and love it ſtill.

19 Thou ſhalt accept then our off'rings of peace and righteouſneſs, I ſay:
Yea, calves and many other things upon thine altar will we lay.

Another of the ſame, by I. H.

HAve mercy on me, Lord, after thy great abounding grace:
After thy mercies multitude,
do thou my ſins deface.
2 Yea, waſh me more from mine offence,
and cleanſe me from my ſin:
For I do know my fault; and ſtill
my ſin is in mine eyn.

3 Againſt thee, thee alone I have offended in this caſe:
And evil have I done before
the preſence of thy face:
4 That in the things that thou haſt done upright thou maiſt be tri'd:
And eke in judging, that the doom
may paſs upon thy ſide.

5 Behold, in wickedneſs my kind and ſhape I did receive:
And lo, my ſinful mother eke
in ſin did me conceive.
6 But lo, the truth in inward parts is pleaſant unto thee:
And ſecrets of thy wiſdom thou reveiled haſt to me.

7 With hyſſop, Lord; beſprinkle me,
I ſhall be cleanſed ſo:
Yea, waſh Thou me, and ſo I ſhall be whiter then the ſnow.
8 Of joy and gladneſs make Thou me
to hear the pleaſant voice:
That ſo the bruiſed bones which thou haſt broken may rejoyce.

9 From the beholding of my ſins
Lord, turn away thy face:
And all my deeds of wickedneſs
do utterly deface.
10 O God create in me a heart
unſpotted in thy ſight:
And eke within my bowels, Lord,
renew a ſtable ſpirit.

11 Ne caſt me from thy ſight, nor take thy holy Spirit away:
The comfort of thy ſaving health give me again, I pray.
12 With thy free Spirit eſtabliſh me, and I will teach therefore Sinners thy ways, and wicked ſhall be turned to thy lore.

The Second part.

13 O God, that art God of my health,
from bloud deliver me:
That praiſes of thy righteouſneſs
my tongue may ſing to thee.
14 My lips that yet faſt cloſed be,
do thou, O Lord, unlooſe:
The praiſes of thy Majeſty
my mouth ſhall ſo diſcloſe.

15 I would have offered ſacrifice,
if that had pleaſed thee:
But pleaſed with burnt-offerings
I know thou wilt not be.
16 A troubled ſpirit is ſacrifice delightful in Gods eyes:
A broken and an humble heart,
God, Thou wilt not deſpiſe.

17 In thy good will deal gently, Lord, to Zion, and withall Grant that of thy Jeruſalem uprear'd may be the wall.
18 Burnt-offerings, gifts, and ſacrifice of juſtice in that day
Thou ſhalt accept, and calves they ſhall upon thine altar lay.

Quid gloriaris. Pſal. lij. I. H.

WHy doſt thou, tyrant, boaſt abroad,
thy wicked works to praiſe?
Doſt thou not know there is a God,
whoſe mercies laſt always?
2 Why doth thy mind yet ſtill deviſe
ſuch wicked wiles to warp?
Thy tongue untrue in forging lies,
is like a raſour ſharp.

3 On miſchief why ſet'ſt thou thy mind,
and wilt not walk upright?
Thou haſt more luſt falſe tales to find,
then bring the truth to light.
4 Thou doſt delight in fraud and guile,
in miſchief, bloud, and wrong:
Thy lips have learn'd the flattering ſtile,
O falſe deceitful tongue.

5 Therefore ſhall God for ay confound and pluck thee from thy place, Thy ſeed root out from off the ground,
and ſo ſhall thee deface.
6 The juſt when they behold thy fall,
with fear will praiſe the Lord,
And in reproach of thee withall cry out with one accord.

7 Behold the man that would not take the Lord for his defence:
But of his goods his God did make,
and truſt his corrupt ſenſe.
8 But I as olive freſh and green
ſhall ſpring and ſpread abroad:
For why, my truſt hath all times been upon the living God.

9 For this therefore will I give praiſe to thee with heart and voice:
I will ſet forth thy name always,
wherein thy ſaints rejoyce.

Dixit inſipiens. Pſal. liij. T. S.

THe fooliſh man in that which he within his heart hath ſaid,
That there is any God at all hath utterly denied.
2 They are corrupt, and they alſo
a heinous work have wrought:
Among them all there is not one of good that worketh ought.

3 The Lord look'd down on ſons of men,
from heaven all abroad:
To ſee if any were that would be wiſe and ſeek for God.
4 They are all gone out of the way,
they are corrupted all;
There is not one doth any good,
there is not one at all.

5 Do not all wicked workers know that they do feed upon My people, as they feed on bread?
the Lord they call not on.
6 Even there they were afraid, and ſtood with trembling all diſmai'd.
Whereas there was no cauſe at all why they ſhould be afraid.

7 For God his bones that thee beſieg'd hath ſcattered all abroad:
Thou haſt confounded them, for they rejected are of God.
8 O Lord, give thou thy people health,
and Thou, O Lord, fulfil
Thy promiſe made to Iſrael,
from out of Zion hill.

9 When God his people ſhall reſtore that erſt was captive led,
Then Jacob ſhall therein rejoyce,
and Iſrael ſhall be glad.

Deus, in nomine. Pſal. liv. I. H.

GOd, ſave me for thy holy Name,
and for thy goodneſs ſake:
Unto the ſtrength, Lord, of the ſame
I do my cauſe betake.
2 Regard, O Lord, and give an ear to me when I do pray:
Bowe down thy ſelf to me and hear the words that I do ſay.

3 For ſtrangers up againſt me riſe,
and tyrants vex me ſtill:
Which have not God before their eyes,
they ſeek my ſoul to ſpill.
4 But lo, my God doth give me aid,
the Lord is ſtreight at hand:
With them by whom my ſoul is ſtaid
the Lord doth ever ſtand.

5 With plagues repay again all thoſe for me that lie in wait:
And in thy truth deſtroy my foes,
with their own ſnare and bait.
6 An offering of free heart and will then I to thee ſhall make,
And praiſe thy Name, for therein ſtill great comfort I do take.

7 O Lord, at length do ſet me free from them that craft conſpire:
And now mine eye with joy doth ſee on them my hearts deſire.

Exaudi, Deus. Pſal. lv. I. H.

O God, give ear, and do apply to hear me when I pray:
And when to thee I call and cry,
hide not thy ſelf away.
2 Take heed to me, grant my requeſt,
and anſwer me again:
With plaints I pray full ſore oppreſt, great grief doth me conſtrain.

3 Becauſe my foes with threats and cries
oppreſs me through deſpight:
And ſo the wicked ſort likewiſe to vex me have delight.
4 For they in counſel do conſpire to charge me with ſome ill:
So in their haſty wrath and ire
they do purſue me ſtill.

5 My heart doth faint for want of breath,
it panteth in my breaſt:
The terrours and the dread of death
do work me much unreſt.
6 Such dreadful fear on me doth fall,
that I therewith do quake:
Such horrour whelmeth me withall, that I no ſhift can make.

7 But I did ſay, Who will give me
the ſwift and pleaſant wings
Of ſome fair dove, that I may flee, and reſt me from theſe things?
8 Lo, then I would go far away,
to flee I would not ceaſe:
And I would hide my ſelf, and ſtay
in ſome dark wilderneſs.

9 I would be gone in all the haſte,
and not abide behind:
That I were quit and overpaſt
theſe blaſts of boiſtrous wind.
10 Divide them, Lord, and from them pull their deviliſh double tongue:
For I have ſpi'd their city full of rapine, ſtrife, and wrong.

11 Which things both night & day through-do cloſe her as a wall: (out In midſt of her is miſchief ſtout, and ſorrow eke withall.
12 Her inward parts are wicked plain,
her deeds are much too vile:
And in her ſtreets there doth remain
all crafty fraud and guile.

The Second part.

13 If that my foes did ſeek my ſhame,
I might it well abide;
From open enemies check and blame
ſomewhere I could me hide:
14 But thou it was my fellow dear, which friendſhip didſt pretend,
And didſt my ſecret counſel hear,
as my familiar friend:

15 With whom I had delight to talk in ſecret and abroad:
And we together oft did walk
within the houſe of God.
16 Let death in haſte upon them fall,
and ſend them quick to hell:
For miſchief reigneth in the hall and parlour where they dwell.

17 But I unto my God will cry,
to him for help I flee:
The Lord will help me by and by,
and he will ſuccour me.
18 At morning, noon, and evening tide,
unto the Lord I pray:
When I ſo inſtantly have cri'd,
he doth not ſay me nay.

19 To peace he ſhall reſtore me yet,
though war be now at hand:
Although the number be full great that would againſt me ſtand.
20 The Lord that firſt and laſt doth reign
both now and evermore:
Will hear when I to him complain,
and puniſh them full ſore.

21 For ſure there is no hope that they
to turn will once accord:
For why? they will not God obey,
nor yet do fear the Lord.
22 Upon their friends they lay their hands which were in covenant knit:
Of friendſhip to neglect the bands
they paſs or care no whit.

23 While they have war within their hearts,
as butter are their words:
Although their words were ſmooth as oyl,
they cut as ſharp as ſwords.
24 Caſt thou thy care upon the Lord,
and he ſhall nouriſh thee:
For in no wiſe will he accord
the juſt in thrall to ſee.

25 But God ſhall caſt them deep in pit that thirſt for bloud always:
He will no guilful man permit to live out half his days.
26 Though ſuch be quite deſtroy'd and gone,
in thee, O Lord, I truſt:
I ſhall depend thy grace upon,
with all my heart and luſt.

Miſerere mei. Pſal. lvj. I. H.

HAve mercy, Lord, on me, I pray,
for man would me devour:
He fighteth with me day by day,
and troubleth me each hour.
2 Mine enemies daily enterpriſe to ſwallow me outright:
To fight againſt me many riſe,
O thou Moſt High of might.

3 When they would make me moſt afraid with boaſts and brags of pride:
I truſt in thee alone for aid,
by thee I will abide.
4 Gods promiſe I do mind and praiſe,
O Lord, I ſtick to thee:
I do not care at all aſſays
what fleſh can do to me.

5 What things I either did or ſpake, they wreſt them at their will:
And all the counſel that they take is how to work me ill.
6 They all conſent themſelvs to hide,
cloſe watch for me to lay:
They ſpy my paths, and ſnares have tide
to take my life away.

7 Shall they thus ſcape on miſchief ſet?
thou God on them wilt frown:
For in his wrath he doth not let to throw whole kingdoms down.
8 Thou ſeeſt how oft they made me flee, and on my tears doſt look:
Reſerve them in a glaſs by thee,
and write them in thy book.

9 When I do call upon thy name,
my foes away do ſtart:
I well perceive it by the ſame,
that God doth take my part.
10 I glory in the word of God,
to praiſe it I accord:
With joy I will declare abroad
the promiſe of the Lord.

11 I truſt in God, and yet I ſay,
as I before began,
The Lord he is my help and ſtay,
I do not care for man.
12 I will perform with heart ſo free,
to God my vows always:
And I, O Lord, all times to thee will offer thanks and praiſe.

13 My ſoul from death thou doſt defend,
and keep'ſt my feet upright:
That I before thee may aſcend with ſuch as live in light.

Miſerere mei. Pſal. lvij. I. H.

TAke pity for thy promiſe ſake,
have mercy, Lord, on me:
For why? my ſoul doth her betake unto the help of thee.
2 Within the ſhadow of thy wings
I ſet my ſelf full faſt,
Till miſchief, malice, and like things be gone and overpaſt.

3 I call upon the God Moſt High,
to whom I ſtick and ſtand:
I mean the God that will ſtand by the cauſe I have in hand.
4 From heaven he hath ſent his aid,
to ſave me from their ſpight,
That to devour me have aſſai'd;
his mercy, truth, and might.

5 I lead my life with lions fell,
all ſet on wrath and ire:
And with ſuch wicked men I dwell,
that fret like flames of fire.
6 Their teeth are ſpears and arrows long as ſharp as I have ſeen:
They wound and cut with their quick tongue like ſwords and weapons keen.

7 Set up, and ſhew thy ſelf, O God,
above the heavens bright:
Exalt thy praiſe on earth abroad,
thy Majeſty and Might.
8 They lay their net and do prepare a privy cave and pit:
Wherein they think my ſoul to ſnare,
but they are fal'n in it.

9 My heart is ſet to laud the Lord,
in him to joy always:
My heart, I ſay, doth well accord to ſing his laud and praiſe.
10 Awake, my joy, awake, I ſay,
my lute, my harp, and ſtring:
For I my ſelf before the day will riſe, rejoyce, and ſing.

11 Among the people I will tell the goodneſs of my God.

And ſhew his praiſe that doth excel,
in heathen lands abroad.
12 His mercy doth extend as far as heavens all are high:
His truth as high as any ſtar that ſhineth in the sky.

13 Set forth and ſhew thy ſelf, O God,
above the heavens bright:
Extol thy praiſe on earth abroad,
thy Majeſty and Might.

Si vere utique. Pſal. lviij. I. H.

YE rulers that are put in truſt to judge of wrong and right,
Be all your judgments true and juſt, not knowing meed or might?
2 Nay, in your hearts ye mark and muſe
in miſchief to conſent,
And where ye ſhould true juſtice uſe,
your hands to bribes are bent.

3 The wicked ſort from their birth-day have erred on this wiſe:
And from their mothers womb alway have uſed craft and lies.
4 In them the poiſon and the breath of ſerpents do appear:
Yea, like the adder that is deaf,
and faſt doth ſtop her ear:

5 Becauſe ſhe will not hear the voyce of one that charmeth well:
No, though he were the chief of choice,
and did therein excell.
6 O God, break thou their teeth at once within their mouths thoughout:
The tusks that in their great jaw-bones like lions whelps hang out.

7 Let them conſume away and waſte,
as water runs forth right;
The ſhafts that they do ſhoot in haſte,
let them be broke in flight.
8 As ſnails do waſte within the ſhell,
and unto ſlime do run:
As one before his time that fell,
and never ſaw the ſun.

9 Before the thorns that now are young,
to buſhes big ſhall grow:
The ſtorms of anger waxing ſtrong ſhall take them ere they know.
10 The juſt ſhall joy, it doth them good that God doth vengeance take:
And they ſhall waſh their feet in blood of them that him forſake.

11 Then ſhall the world ſhew forth and tell,
that good men have reward:
And that a God on earth doth dwell,
that juſtice doth regard.

Eripe me. Pſal. lix. I. H.

SEnd aid, and ſave me from my foes,
O Lord, I pray to thee:
Defend and keep me from all thoſe that riſe and ſtrive with me.
2 O Lord, preſerve me from thoſe men, whoſe doings are not good:
And ſet me ſure and ſafe from them that thirſt ſtill after bloud.

3 For lo, they wait my ſoul to take,
they rage againſt me ſtill:
Yea, for no fault that I did make,
I never did them ill.

4 They run and do themſelvs prepare,
when I no whit offend:
Ariſe and ſave me from their ſnare,
and ſee what they intend.

5 O Lord of hoſts of Iſrael, ariſe and ſtrike all lands:
And pity none that do rebel,
and in their miſchief ſtands.
6 At night they ſtir and ſeek about,
as hounds they houl and grin:
And all the city clean throughout from place to place they run.

7 They ſpeak of me with mouth alway,
but in their lips are ſwords:
They'greed my death, and then would ſay,
what? none doth hear our words.
8 But, Lord, thou haſt their ways eſpi'd,
and laught thereat apace:
The heathen folk thou doſt deride,
and mock them to their face.

9 The ſtrength that doth our foes withſtand,
O Lord, doth come from thee:
My God he is my help at hand,
a fort of fence to me.
10 The Lord to me doth ſhew his grace
in great abundance ſtill:
That I may ſee my foes in caſe ſuch as my heart doth will.

The Second part.

11 Deſtroy them not at once, O Lord,
leſt it from mind do fall:
But with thy ſtrength drive them abroad,
and ſo conſume them all.
12 For their ill words and truthleſs tongue confound them in their pride:
Their wicked oaths with lies and wrong
let all the world deride.

13 Conſume them in thy wrath, O Lord, that nought of them remain:
That men may know throughout the world that Jacobs Gods doth reign.
14 At evening they return apace,
as dogs they grin and cry:
Throughout the ſtreets in every place
they run about and ſpy.

15 They ſeek about for meat, I ſay,
but let them not be fed:
Nor find a houſe wherein they may be bold to put their head.
16 But I will ſhew thy ſtrength abroad,
thy goodneſs I will praiſe:
For thou art my defence and God
at need in all aſſays.

17 Thou art my ſtrength, thou haſt me ſtaid,
O Lord, I ſing to thee:
Thou art my fort, my ſtrength, and aid,
a loving God to me.

Deus repuliſti. Pſal. lx. I. H.

O Lord, thou didſt us clean forſake, and ſcatteredſt us abroad:
Such great diſpleaſure thou didſt take;
return to us, O God.
2 Thy might did move the land ſo ſore,
that it in ſunder brake:
The hurt thereof, O Lord reſtore, for it doth bowe and quake.

3 With heavy chance thou plagueſt thus the people that are thine:
And thou haſt given unto us.
a drink of deadly wine.
4 But yet to ſuch as fear thy name
a banner thou didſt ſhew:
That they may triumph in the ſame,
becauſe thy word is true.

5 So that thy might may keep and ſave thy folk that favour thee,
That they thy help at hand may have,
O Lord, grant this to me.
6 The Lord did ſpeak from his own place,
this was his joyfull tale,
I will divide Sechem by pace,
and meet out Succoths vale.

7 Gilead is given to my hand,
Manaſſeh mine beſide:
Ephraim the ſtrength of all my land,
my law doth Judah guide.
8 In Moab I will waſh my feet,
over Edom throw my ſhoe:
And thou Paleſtine ought'ſt to ſeek for favour me unto.

9 But who will bring me at this tide into the city ſtrong?
Or who to Edom will me guide,
ſo that I go not wrong?
10 Wilt thou not, God, which didſt forſake thy folk, their land, and coaſts?
Our wars in hand thou wouldſt not take,
nor walk among our hoſts.

11 Give aid, O Lord, and us relieve from them that us diſdain:
The help that hoſts of men can give,
it is but all in vain.
12 But through our God we ſhall have might to take great things in hand:
He will tread down and put to flight
all thoſe that us withſtand.

Exaudi Deus. Pſal. lxj. I. H.

REgard, O Lord, for I complain, and make my ſuit to thee:
Let not my words return in vain,
but give an ear to me.
2 From out the coaſts and utmoſt parts
of all the earth abroad,
In grief and anguiſh of my heart
I cry to thee O God.

3 Upon the rock of thy great power
my woful mind repoſe:
Thou art my hope, my fort and tower,
my fence againſt my foes.
4 Within thy tent I luſt to dwell,
for ever to indure:
Under thy wings I know right well
I ſhall be faſe and ſure.

5 The Lord doth my deſire regard,
and doth fulfil the ſame:
With godly gifts will he reward
all thoſe that fear his name.
6 The King ſhall he in health maintain,
and ſo prolong his days:
That he from age to age ſhall reign,
for evermore always.

7 That he may have a dwelling place
before the Lord for ay;
O let thy mercy, truth, and grace defend him from decay.
8 Then ſhall I ſing for ever ſtill with praiſe unto thy name:

That all my vows I may fulfil,
and daily pay the ſame.

Nonne Deo. Pſal. lxij. I. H.

MY ſoul to God ſhall give good heed,
and him alone attend:
For why? my health and hope to ſpeed doth whole on him depend.
2 For he alone is my defence,
my rock, my health, and aid:
He is my ſtay, that no pretence
ſhall make me much diſmaid.

3 O wicked folk, how long will ye uſe craft? ſure ye muſt fall:
For as a rotten hedge ye be.
and like a tottering wall.
4 Whom God doth love, ye ſeek always to put him to the worſe:
Ye love to lie, with mouth ye praiſe,
and yet your heart doth curſe.

5 Yet ſtill my ſoul doth whole depend on God my chief deſire:
From all ill feats me to defend none but him I require.
6 He is my rock, my fort and tower,
my health is of his grace:
He doth ſupport me, that no power can move me out of place.

7 God is my glory and my health,
my ſouls deſire and luſt:
My fort, my ſtrength, my ſtay, my wealth,
God is my onely truſt.
8 Oh, have your truſt in him alway,
ye folk, with one accord:
Pour out your hearts to him, and ſay,
our truſt is in the Lord.

9 The ſons of men deceitful are,
on balance but a ſleight:
With things moſt vain do them compare,
for they can keep no weight.
10 Truſt not in wrong, robbery, nor ſtealth,
let vain delights be gone:
Though goods well got flow in with wealth,
ſet not your hearts thereon.

11 The Lord long ſince one thing did tell, which here to mind I call:
He ſpake it oft, I heard it well,
that God alone doth all.
12 And that thou, Lord, art good and kind, thy mercy doth exceed;
So that all ſorts with thee ſhall find according to their deed.

Deus, Deus meus. Pſal. lxiij. T. S.

O God, my God, I watch betime to come to thee in haſte:
For why? my ſoul and body both do thirſt of thee to taſte.
And in this barren wilderneſs
where waters there are none,
My fleſh is parcht for thought of thee,
for thee I wiſh alone.

2 That I might ſee yet once again thy glory, ſtrength, and might,
As I was wont it to behold within thy temple bright.
3 For why? thy mercies far ſurmount
this life and wretched days:
My lips therefore ſhall give to thee
due honour, laud and praiſe.
4 And whil'ſt I live, I will not fail to worſhip thee alway:
And in thy name I ſhall lift up my hands when I do pray.
5 My ſoul is fil'd as with marrow,
which is both fat and ſweet:
My mouth therefore ſhall ſing ſuch ſongs
as are for thee moſt meet.

6 When as in bed I think on thee,
and eke all the night-tide:
7 For under covert of thy wings,
thou art my joyful guide.
8 My ſoul doth ſurely ſtick to thee,
thy right hand is my power:
9 And thoſe that ſeek my ſoul to 'ſtroy, them death ſhall ſoon devour.

10 The ſword ſhall them devour each one,
their carcaſes ſhall feed
The hungry foxes which do run their prey to ſeek at need.
11 The king and all men ſhall rejoyce, that do profeſs Gods word:
For liars mouths ſhall then be ſtopt,
which have the truth diſturb'd.

Exaudi, Deus. Pſal. lxiv. I. H.

O Lord, unto my voice give ear,
with plaint when I do pray:
And rid my life and ſoul from fear of foes that threat to ſlay.
2 Defend me from that ſort of men which in deceit do lurk:
And from the frowning face of them that all ill feats do work.

3 Who whet their tongues, as we have ſeen men whet and ſharp their ſwords:
They ſhoot abroad their arrows keen,
I mean moſt bitter words.
4 With privy ſlights ſhoot they their ſhaft,
the upright man to hit:
The juſt unwares to ſtrike by craft,
they care or fear no whit.

5 A wicked work they have decreed,
in counſel thus they cry,
To uſe deceit let us not dread,
what? who can it eſpy?
6 What way to hurt they talk and muſe
all times within their heart:
They all conſult what feats to uſe,
each doth invent his part.

7 But yet all this ſhall not prevail;
when they think leaſt upon,
God with his dart ſhall ſure aſſail and wound them every one.
8 Their crafts and their ill tongues withall ſhall work themſelvs ſuch blame,
That they which then behold their fall
ſhall wonder at the ſame.

9 Then all that ſee ſhall know right well that God the thing hath wrought,
And praiſe his witty works, and tell what he to paſs hath brought.
10 Yet ſhall the juſt in God rejoyce, ſtill truſting in his might:
So ſhall they joy with mind and voice,
whoſe hearts are pure and right.

Te decet hymnus. Pſal. lxv. I. H.

THy praiſe alone, O Lord, doth reign
in Zion thine own hill:
Their vows to thee they do maintain,
and their beheſts fulfil.
2 For that thou do'ſt their prayers hear,
and do'ſt thereto agree:
The people all both far and near with truſt ſhall come to thee.

3 Our wicked life ſo far exceeds,
that we ſhall fall therein:
But, Lord, forgive our great miſdeeds, and purge us from our ſin.
4 The man is bleſt whom thou doſt chooſe within thy courts to dwell:
Thy houſe and Temple he ſhall uſe, with pleaſures that excel.

5 Of thy great juſtice hear us, God,
our health of thee doth riſe:
The hope of all the earth abroad,
and the ſea-coaſts likewiſe.
6 With ſtrength thou art beſet about,
and compaſs'd with thy power:
Thou mak'ſt the mountains ſtrong and ſtout to ſtand in every ſhower.

7 The ſwelling ſeas thou doſt aſſwage, and make their ſtreams full ſtill:
Thou doſt reſtrain the peoples rage,
and rule them at thy will.
8 The folk that dwell full far on earth
ſhall dread thy ſigns to ſee,
Which morn and even in great mirth do paſs with praiſe to thee.

9 When that the earth is chapt and dry, and thirſteth more and more,
Then with thy drops thou doſt apply,
and much increaſe her ſtore.
10 The floud of God doth overflow, and ſo doth cauſe to ſpring
The ſeed and corn which men do ſow, for he doth guide the thing.

11 With wet thou doſt her furrows fill,
whereby her clods do fall:
Thy drops on her thou doſt diſtil,
and bleſs her fruit withall.
12 Thou deck'ſt the earth of thy good grace with fair and pleaſant crop:
Thy clouds diſtil their dew apace, great plenty they do drop.

13 Whereby the deſart ſhall begin full great increaſe to bring:
The little hills ſhall joy therein,
much fruit in them ſhall ſpring.
14 In places plain the flocks ſhall feed,
and cover all the earth:
The vales with corn ſhall ſo exceed,
that men ſhall ſing for mirth.

Jubilate Deo. Pſal. lxvj. T. S.

YE men on earth, in God rejoyce, with praiſe ſet forth his name:
Extol his might with heart and voice,
give glory to the ſame.
2 How wonderful, O Lord, ſay ye,
in all thy works thou art!
Thy foes for fear ſhall ſeek to thee full ſore againſt their heart.

3 All men that dwell the earth throughout ſhall praiſe the name of God:
The laud thereof the world about is ſhew'd and ſet abroad.
4 All folk come forth, behold and ſee
what things the Lord hath wrought:

Mark

Mark well the wondrous works that he for man to paſs hath brought.

5 He laid the ſea like heaps on high, therein a way they had,
On foot to paſs both fair and dry, whereof their hearts were glad.
6 His might doth rule the world alway,
his eyes all things behold:
All ſuch as would him diſobey
by him ſhall be control'd.

7 Ye people, give unto our God due laud and thanks always:
With joyful voyce declare abroad,
and ſing unto his praiſe:
8 Which doth endue our ſoul with life,
and it preſerve withall:
He ſtays our feet ſo that no ſtrife can make us ſlip or fall.

9 The Lord doth prove our deeds with fire,
if that they will abide:
As workmen do when they deſire to have their metals tri'd.
10 Although thou ſuffer us ſo long in priſon to be caſt,
And there with chains and fetters ſtrong to lie in bondage faſt.

The Second part.

11 Although, I ſay, thou ſuffer men on us to ride and reign:
Though we through fire and water run,
of very grief and pain:
12 Yet ſure thou doſt of thy good grace
diſpoſe it to the beſt:
And bring us out into a place,
to live in wealth and reſt.

13 Unto thy houſe reſort will I to offer and to pray:
And there I will my ſelf apply
my vows to thee to pay.
14 The vows that with my mouth I ſpake,
in all my grief and ſmart:
The vows, I ſay, which I did make in dolour of my heart.

15 Burnt-offerings I will give to thee,
of oxen fat, and rams:
Yea, this my ſacrifice ſhall be,
of bullocks, goats, and lambs.
16 Come forth and hearken, hear full ſoon,
all ye that fear the Lord:
What he for my poor ſoul hath done to you I will record.

17 Full oft I call to mind his grace,
this mouth to him doth cry:
And thou my tongue make ſpeed apace,
to praiſe him by and by.
18 But if I feel my heart within,
in wicked works rejoyce:
Or if I have delight to ſin,
God will not hear my voyce.

19 But ſurely God my voyce hath heard, and what I do require:
My prayer he doth well regard,
and granteth my deſire.
20 All praiſe to him that hath not put nor caſt me out of mind:
Nor yet his mercy from me ſhut, which I do ever find.

Deus miſereatur. Pſal. lxvij. I. H.

HAve mercy on us, Lord,
and grant to us thy grace:
To ſhew to us do thou accord
the brightneſs of thy face;
2 That all the earth may know
the way to godly wealth:
And all the nations on a row
may ſee thy ſaving health.

3 Let all the world, O God,
give praiſe unto thy Name;
O let the people all abroad,
extol and laud the ſame.
4 Throughout the world ſo wide
let all rejoyce with mirth:
For thou with truth and right doſt guide
the nations of the earth.

5 Let all the world, O God,
give praiſe unto thy Name:
O let the people all abroad
extol and laud the ſame.
6 Then ſhall the earth increaſe, great ſtore of fruit ſhall fall,
And then our God the God of peace
ſhall bleſs us eke withall.

7 God ſhall us bleſs, I ſay, and then both far and near,
The folk throughout the earth alway of him ſhall ſtand in fear.

Exurgat Deus. Pſal. lxviij. T. S.

LEt God ariſe, and then his foes will turn themſelvs to flight:
His enemies then will run abroad,
and ſcatter out of ſight.
2 And as the fire doth melt the wax,
and wind blows ſmoke away:
So in the preſence of the Lord,
the wicked ſhall decay.

3 But righteous men before the Lord
ſhall heartily rejoyce:
They ſhall be glad and merry all,
and chearful in their voyce.
4 Sing praiſe, ſing praiſe unto the Lord,
who rideth on the ſky:
Extol the Name of Jah our God,
and him do magnify.

5 The ſame is he that is above
within his holy place,
That father is of fatherleſs,
and judge of widows caſe.
6 Houſes he gives and iſſue both unto the comfortleſs:
He bringeth bondmen out of thrall, and rebels to diſtreſs.

7 When thou didſt march before thy folk th'Egyptians from among,
And brought'ſt them through the wilderneſs which was both wide and long:
8 The earth did quake, the rain pour'd down, heard were great claps of thunder;
The mount Sinai ſhook in ſuch ſort,
as it would break in ſunder.

9 Thine heritage with drops of rain abundantly was waſht:
And if ſo be it barren waxt,
by thee it was refreſht.
10 Thy choſen flock doth there remain,
thou haſt prepar'd that place:
And for the poor thou doſt provide of thine eſpecial grace.

The Second part.

11 God will give women cauſes juſt to magnify his name,
When as his people triumphs make,
and purchaſe bruit and fame.
12 For puiſſant kings for all their power,
ſhall flee and take the foil;
And women which remain at home
ſhall help to part the ſpoil.

13 And though ye were as black as pots,
your hue ſhall paſs the dove, Whoſe wings and feathers ſeem to have ſilver and gold above.
14 When in this land God ſhall triumph
o'r kings both high and low:
Then ſhall it be like Salmon hill,
as white as any ſnow.

15 Though Baſan be a fruitful hill,
and in height others paſs:
Yet Zion Gods moſt holy hill doth far excel in grace.
16 Why brag ye thus, ye hills moſt high,
and leap for pride together?
The hill of Zion God doth love,
and there will dwell for ever.

17 Gods army is two millions of warriours good and ſtrong:
The Lord alſo in Sinai is preſent them among.
18 Thou did'ſt, O Lord, aſcend on high,
and captives led'ſt them all,
Which in times paſt thy choſen flock
in bondage kept and thrall.

Thou mad'ſt them tribute for to pay;
and ſuch as did repine
Thou didſt ſubdue, that they might dwell in thy Temple divine.
19 Now praiſed be the Lord, for that he pours on us ſuch grace:
From day to day he is the God of our health and ſolace.

The Third part.

20 He is the God from whom alone
ſalvation cometh plain:
He is the God by whom we ſcape
all dangers, death, and pain.
21 Thus God will wound his enemies head,
and break the hairy ſcalp
Of thoſe that in their wickedneſs continually do walk.

22 From Baſan will I bring, ſaid he,
my people and my ſheep:
And all mine own as I have done,
from dangers of the deep.
23 And make them dip their feet in bloud of thoſe that hate my name:
And dogs ſhall have their tongues embrew'd with licking of the ſame.

24 All men may ſee how thou, O God, thine enemies doſt deface:
And how thou goeſt as God and King into thine holy place.
25 The ſingers go before with joy,
the minſtrels follow after:
And in the midſt the damſels play with timbrel and with taber.

26 Now in the congregation,
O Iſrael, praiſe the Lord:
And Jacobs whole poſterity, give thanks with one accord.
27 Their chief was little Benjamin,
but Judah made their hoſt,
With Zabulon and Nephtalim, which dwelt about their coaſt.

28 As God hath given power to thee, ſo, Lord, make firm and ſure
The thing that thou haſt wrought in us,
for ever to endure.
29 And in thy Temple gifts will we give unto thee, O Lord,
For thine unto Jeruſalem ſure promiſe made by word.

The Fourth part.

Yea, and ſtrange kings to us ſubdu'd ſhall do like in thoſe days:
I mean to thee they ſhall preſent their gifts of laud and praiſe.
30 He ſhall deſtroy the ſpear-mens ranks,
the calvs and bulls of might:
And cauſe them tribute pay, and daunt
all ſuch as love to fight.

31 Then ſhall the lords of Egypt come,
and preſents with them bring:
The Moors moſt black ſhall ſtretch their (hands unto their Lord and King.
32 Therefore, ye kingdoms of the earth,
give praiſe unto the Lord:
Sing pſalms to God with one conſent;
thereto let all accord.

33 Who though he ride and ever hath
above the heavens bright:
Yet by the fearful thunder-claps men may well know his might.
34 Therefore the ſtrength of Iſrael aſcribe to God on high.
Whoſe might and power doth far extend above the cloudy sky.

35 O God, thy holineſs and power is dread for evermore:
The God of Iſrael gives us ſtrength, praiſed be God therefore.

Salvum me fac. Pſal. lxix. I. H.

SAve me, O God, and that with ſpeed,
the waters flow full faſt:
So nigh my ſoul do they proceed,
that I am ſore agaſt.
2 I ſtick full deep in mire and clay,
whereas I feel no ground:
I fall into ſuch flouds, I ſay, that I am like be drown'd.

3 With crying oft I faint and quail,
my throat is hoars and dry:
With looking up my ſight doth fail,
for help to God on high.
4 My foes, that guiltleſs do oppreſs my ſoul, with hate are led:
In number ſure they are no leſs
then hairs are on my head.

5 Though for no cauſe they vex me ſore, they proſper and are glad:
They do compel me to reſtore
the things I never had.
6 What I have done for want of wit, thou, Lord, all times canſt tell:
And all the faults that I commit to thee are known full well.

7 O God of hoſts defend and ſtay
all thoſe that truſt in thee:
Let no man doubt or ſhrink away
for ought that chanceth me.
8 It is for thee and for thy ſake that I do bear this blame:
In ſpite of thee they would me make to hide my face for ſhame.

9 My mothers ſons, my brethren all forſake me on a row:
And as a ſtranger they me call,
my face they will not know.
10 Unto thy houſe ſuch zeal I bear, that it doth pine me much:
Their checks and taunts at thee to hear my very heart doth grutch.

The Second part.

11 Though I do faſt, my fleſh to chaſt,
Yea, if I weep and moan:
Yet in my teeth this gear is caſt,
they paſs not thereupon.
12 If I for grief and pain of heart
in ſackcloth uſe to walk,
Then they anon will it pervert, thereof they jeſt and talk.

13 Both high and low and all the throng that ſit within the gate;
They have me ever in their tongue,
of me they talk and prate.
14 The drunkards which in wine delight,
it is their chief paſtime
To ſeek which way to work me ſpight;
of me they ſing and rhime.

15 But thee the while, O Lord, I pray, that when it pleaſeth thee,
For thy great truth thou wilt alway
ſend down thine aid to me.
16 Pluck thou my feet out of the mire, from drowning do me keep:
From ſuch as owe me wrath and ire,
and from the waters deep.

17 Leſt with the waves I ſhould be drown'd, and depth my ſoul devour,
And that the pit ſhould me confound,
and ſhut me in her power.
18 O Lord of hoſts, to me give ear,
as thou art good and kind:
And as thy mercy is moſt dear,
Lord, have me in thy mind.

19 And do not from thy ſervant hide
nor turn thy face away:
I am oppreſt on every ſide,
in haſte give ear, I ſay.
20 O Lord, unto my ſoul draw nigh,
the ſame with aid repoſe:
Becauſe of their great tyranny,
acquit me from my foes.

The Third part.

21 That I abide rebuke and ſhame thou know'ſt and thou canſt tell:
For thoſe that ſeek and work the ſame, thou ſeeſt them all full well.
22 When they with brags do break my heart,
I ſeek for help anon: (heart,
But find no friends to eaſe my ſmart,
to comfort me not one.
23 But in my meat they gave me gall, too cruel for to think:
And gave me in my thirſt withall
ſtrong vineger to drink.
24 Lord, turn their table to a ſnare,
to take themſelvs therein:
And when they think full well to fare,
then trap them in the gin.

25 And let their eyes be dark and blind,
that they may nothing ſee:
Bowe down their backs, and do them bind,
in thraldom for to be.
26 Pour out thy wrath as hot as fire,
that it on them may fall:
Let thy diſpleaſure in thine ire take hold upon them all.

27 As deſarts dry their houſe diſgrace, their off-ſpring eke expel:
That none thereof poſſeſs their place,
nor in their tents do dwell.
28 If thou doſt ſtrike the man to tame,
on him they lay full ſore:
And if that thou do wound the ſame,
they ſeek to hurt him more.

29 Then let them heap up miſchief ſtill,
(ſith they are all pervert)
That of thy favour and good will they never have a part.
30 And raſe them clean out of thy book of life, of hope, of truſt:
That for their names they never look in number of the juſt.

The Fourth part.

31 Though I, O Lord, with wo and grief have been full ſore oppreſt:
Thy help ſhall give me ſuch relief,
that all ſhall be redreſt.
32 That I may give thy name the praiſe,
and ſhew it with a ſong:
I will extol the ſame always with hearty thanks among:

33 Which is more pleaſant unto thee,
(ſuch mind thy grace hath born)
Then either ox or calf can be,
that hath both hoof and horn.
34 When ſimple folk do this behold,
it ſhall rejoyce them ſure:
All ye that ſeek the Lord, behold,
your life for ay ſhall dure.

35 For why? the Lord of hoſts doth hear the poor when they complain:
His priſoners are to him full dear,
he doth them not diſdain.
36 Wherefore the sky and earth below,
the ſea, with floud and ſtream
His praiſe they ſhall declare and ſhow, with all that live in them.

37 For ſure our God will Zion ſave, and Judahs cities build:
Much folk poſſeſſion there ſhall have,
her ſtreets ſhall all be fill'd.
38 His ſervants ſeed ſhall keep the ſame
all ages out of mind:
39 And there all they that love his name
a dwelling-place ſhall find.

Deus in adjutorium. Pſal. lxx. I. H.

O God, to me take heed,
of help I thee require:
O Lord of hoſts, with haſte and ſpeed help, help, I thee deſire.

2 With ſhame confound them all
that ſeek my ſoul to ſpill:
Rebuke them back with blame to fall that think and wiſh me ill.

3 Confound them that apply and ſeek to work me ſhame:
And at my harm do laugh, and cry,
ſo, ſo, there goes the game.
4 But let them joyful be in thee with joy and wealth,
Which onely truſt and ſeek to thee,
and to thy ſaving health.

5 That they may ſay always in mirth and one accord,
All glory, honour, laud and praiſe be given to thee, O Lord.
6 But I am weak and poor;
come, Lord, thine aid I lack:
Thou art my ſtay and help, therefore make ſpeed and be not ſlack.

In te, Domine. Pſal. lxxj. I. H.

MY Lord my God, in all diſtreſs
My hope is whole in thee:
Then let no ſhame my ſoul oppreſs,
nor once take hold on me,
2 As thou art juſt, defend me, Lord,
and rid me out of dread:
Give ear, and to my ſuit accord,
and ſend me help at need.

3 Be thou my rock, to whom I may for aid all times reſort:
Thy promiſe is to help alway,
thou art my fence and fort.
4 Save me, my God, from wicked men,
and from their ſtrength and power:
From folk unjuſt, and eke from them that cruelly devour.

5 Thou art the ſtay wherein I truſt, thou, Lord of hoſts, art he:
Yea, from my youth I had a luſt
ſtil to depend on thee.
6 Thou haſt me kept ev'n from my birth,
and I through thee was born:
Wherefore I will thee praiſe with mirth,
both evening and at morn.

7 As to a monſter ſeldom ſeen, much folk about me throng:
But thou art now, and ſtil haſt been my fence and aid ſo ſtrong.
8 Wherefore my mouth no time ſhall lack thy glory and thy praiſe:
And eke my tongue ſhall not be ſlack to honour thee always.

9 Refuſe me not, O Lord, I ſay, when age my limbs doth take:
And when my ſtrength doth waſte away,
do not my ſoul forſake.
10 Among themſelves my foes inquire to take me through deceit:
And they againſt me do conſpire, that for my ſoul laid wait.

The Second part.

11 Lay hand and take him now, they ſaid,
for God from him is gone:
Diſpatch him quite, for to his aid,
I wis, there cometh none.
12 Do not abſent thy ſelf away,
O Lord, when need ſhall be:
But that in time of grief thou may in haſte give help to me.

13 With ſhame confound and overthrow all thoſe that ſeek my life:
Oppreſs them with rebuke alſo that fain would work me ſtrife.
14 But I will patiently abide thy help at all aſſays:
Stil more and more, each time and tide,
I will ſet forth thy praiſe.

15 My mouth thy juſtice ſhall record,
that daily help doth ſend;
But of thy benefits, O Lord,
I know no count nor end.
16 Yet will I go and ſeek forth one,
with thy good help, O God:
The ſaving health of thee alone to ſhew and ſet abroad.

17 For of my youth thou took'ſt the care,
and doſt inſtruct me ſtill:
Therefore thy wonders to declare
I have great mind and will.
18 And as in youth from wanton rage thou didſt me keep and ſtay:
Forſake me not unto mine age,
and till my head be gray.

The Third part.

19 That I thy ſtrength and might may ſhow to them that now be here:
And that our ſeed thy power may know hereafter many a year.
20 O Lord, thy juſtice doth exceed thy doings all may ſee:
Thy works are wonderful indeed,
oh who is like to thee!

21 Thou mad'ſt me feel affliction ſore, and yet thou did'ſt me ſave;
Yea, thou did'ſt help and me reſtore and took'ſt me from the grave.
22 And thou mine honour do'ſt increaſe, my dignity maintain:
Yea, thou do'ſt make all grief to ceaſe,
and comfort'ſt me again.

23 Therefore thy faithfulneſs to praiſe
I will with viol ſing:
My harp ſhall ſound thy praiſe always,
O Iſraels Holy King.
24 My mouth will joy with pleaſant voice
when I ſhall ſing to thee:
And eke my ſoul will much rejoyce for thou haſt made me free.

25 My tongue thy uprightneſs ſhall ſound,
and ſpeak it daily ſtill:
For grief and ſhame do them confound that ſeek to work me ill.

Deus, judicium. Pſal. lxxij. I. H.

LOrd give thy judgments to the king,
therein inſtruct him well:
And with his ſon that princely thing,
Lord, let thy juſtice dwell,
2 That he may govern uprightly,
and rule thy folk aright:
And ſo defend through equity
the poor that have no might.

3 And let the mountains that are high unto thy folk give peace:
And eke let little hills apply,
in juſtice to increaſe.
4 That he may help the weak, and poor, with aid, and make them ſtrong:
And eke deſtroy for evermore
all thoſe that do them wrong.

5 And then from age to age ſhall they regard and fear thy might:
So long as ſun doth ſhine by day,
or elſe the moon by night.
6 Lord, make the king unto the juſt like rain to fields new mown:
And like to drops that lay the duſt,
and freſh the land new ſown.

7 The juſt ſhall flouriſh in his time,
and all ſhall be at peace,
Until the moon ſhall leave to prime,
waſte, change, and to increaſe.
8 He ſhall be Lord of ſea and land, from ſhore to ſhore throughout:
And from the flouds within the land,
through all the earth about.

9 The people that in deſarts dwell
ſhall kneel to him ſtill thick:
And all his enemies that rebel
the earth and duſt ſhall lick.
10 The lords of all the iſles thereby great gifts to him ſhall bring:
The kings of Saba, and Araby give many a coſtly thing.

The Second part.

11 All kings ſhall ſeek with one accord
in his good grace to ſtand:
And all the people of the world
ſhall ſerve him at his hand.
12 For he the needy ſort doth ſave that unto him do call:
And eke the ſimple folk that have no help of man at all.

13 He taketh pity on the poor that are with need oppreſt:
He doth preſerve them evermore,
and bring their ſouls to reſt.
14 He ſhall redeem their lives from dread, from fraud, from wrong, from might:
And eke the bloud that they ſhall bleed is precious in his ſight.

15 But he ſhall live, and they ſhall bring to him of Saba's gold:
He ſhall he honoured as a king,
and daily be extol'd.
16 The mighty mountains of his land of corn ſhall bear ſuch throng,
That it like cedar-trees ſhall ſtand
in Lebanus full long.

17 Their cities eke full well ſhall ſpeed,
the fruits thereof ſhall paſs:
In plenty it ſhall far exceed,
and ſpring as green as graſs, 18 For ever they ſhall praiſe his name
while that the ſun is light:
And think them happy through the ſame,
all folk ſhall bleſs his might.

19 Praiſe ye the Lord of hoſts, and ſing to Iſraels God each one:
For he doth every wondrous thing,
yea, he himſelf alone.
20 And bleſſed be his holy name
all times eternally:
That all the earth may praiſe the ſame.
Amen, Amen, ſay I.

Quam bonus Deus. Pſal. lxxiij. T. S.

HOw ever it be, yet God is good and kind to Iſrael:
And to all ſuch as ſafely keep their conſcience pure and well.
2 Yet like a fool I almoſt ſlipt,
my feet began to ſlide:
And ere I wiſt, even at a pinch,
my ſteps awry gan glide.

3 For when I ſaw ſuch fooliſh men,
I grudg'd, and did diſdain
That wicked men all things ſhould have without turmoil or pain.
4 They never ſuffer pangs nor grief,
as if death ſhould them ſmite:
Their bodies are both ſtout and ſtrong,
and ever in good plight.

5 And free from all adverſity
when other men be ſhent:
And with the reſt they take no part of plague or puniſhment.
6 Therefore preſumption doth embrace their necks as doth a chain;
And are even rapt as in a robe,
with rapine and diſdain.

7 They are ſo fed that even for fat their eyes oft-times out-ſtart:
And as for worldly goods, they have more then can wiſh their heart.
8 Their life is moſt licentious, boaſting much of the wrong
Which they have done to ſimple men,
and ever pride among.

9 The heavens and the living Lord
they ſpare not to blaſpheme:
And prate they do of worldly things,
no wight they do eſteem.
10 The people of God oft-times turn back to ſee their proſperous ſtate:
And almoſt drink the ſelf-ſame cup,
and follow the ſame rate.

The Second part.

11 How can it be that God, ſay they,
ſhould know or underſtand Theſe worldly things, ſith wicked men be lords of ſea and land?
12 For we may ſee how wicked men
in riches ſtill increaſe, Rewarded well with worldly goods,
and live in reſt and peace.

13 Then why do I from wickedneſs my fantacy refrain?
And waſh my hands with innocents,
and cleanſe my heart in vain?
14 And ſuffer ſcourges every day,
as ſubject to all blame:
And every morning from my youth
ſuſtain rebuke and ſhame?

15 And I had almoſt ſaid as they,
miſliking mine eſtate:
But that I ſhould thy children judge
as folk unfortunate.
16 Then I bethought me how I might this matter underſtand:
But yet the labour was to great for me to take in hand:

17 Until the time I went into thine holy place, and then I underſtood right perfectly the end of all theſe men.
18 And namely, how thow ſetteſt them upon a ſlippery place:
And at thy pleaſure and thy will thou doſt them all deface.

19 Then all men muſe at that ſtrange ſight, to ſee how ſuddenly
They are deſtroy'd, diſpatcht, conſum'd, and dead ſo horribly.
20 Much like a dream when one awakes,
ſo ſhall their wealth decay:
Their famous names in all mens ſight
ſhall ebb and paſs away.

The Third part.

21 Yet thus my heart was grieved then,
my mind was much oppreſt:
22 So fond was I and ignorant, and in this point a beaſt.
23 Yet ne'ertheleſs, by my right hand thou hold'ſt me always faſt:
24 And with thy counſel doſt me guide to glory at the laſt.

25 What thing is there that I can wiſh,
but thee in heaven above?
And in the earth there is nothing like thee that I can love.
26 My fleſh and eke my heart doth fail,
but God doth fail me never:
For of my health God is the ſtrength,
my portion eke for ever.

27 And lo, all ſuch as thee forſake:
thou ſhalt deſtroy each one:
And thoſe that truſt in any thing,
ſaving in thee alone.
28 Therefore I will draw near to God,
and ever with him dwell:
In God alone I put my truſt,
thy wonders I will tell.

Ut quid Deus. Pſal. lxxiv. I. H.

WHy art thou, Lord, ſo long from us
in all this danger deep?
Why doth thine anger kindle thus,
at thine own paſture-ſheep?
2 Lord, call thy people to thy thought,
which have been thine ſo long:
The which thou haſt redeem'd and brought from bondage ſore and ſtrong.

3 Have mind therefore, and think upon,
remember it full well,
Thy pleaſant place, thy mount Zion,
where thou waſt wont to dwell.
4 Lift up thy feet and come in haſte,
and all thy foes deface:
Which now at pleaſure rob and waſte
within thy holy place.

5 Amid thy congregations all,
thine enemies roar, O God:
They ſet as ſign's on every wall their banners' ſplaid abroad.
6 As men with axes hew down trees that on the hills do grow:
So ſhine the bils, and ſwords of theſe within thy temple now.

7 The cieling ſaw'd, the carved boards,
the goodly graven ſtones,
With axes, hammers, bils, and ſwords
they beat them down at once.
8 Thy places they conſume with flame,
and eke in all this toil,
The houſe appointed to thy name,
they raze down to the ſoil.

9 And thus they ſay within their heart,
diſpatch them out of hand:
Then burnt they up in every part
Gods houſes through the land.
10 Yet thou no ſign of help doſt ſend,
our prophets all are gone:
To tell when this our plague ſhall end
among us there is none.

11 When wilt thou, Lord, once end this ſhame, and ceaſe thine enemies ſtrong?
Shall they always blaſpheme thy name,
and rail on thee ſo long?
12 Why doſt thou draw thy hand aback,
and hide it in thy lap?
Oh pluck it out, and be not ſlack to give thy foes a rap.

The Second part.

13 O God, thou art our King and Lord, and evermore haſt been:
Yea, thy good grace throughout the world for our good help hath ſeen.
14 The ſeas that are ſo deep and dead:
thy might did make them dry:
And thou did'ſt break the ſerpents head,
that he therein did die.

15 Yea, thou did'ſt break the heads ſo great of whales that are ſo fell:
And gav'ſt them to the folk to eat that in the deſart dwell.
16 Thou mad'ſt a ſpring with ſtreams to riſe from rock both hard and high:
And eke thy hand hath made likewiſe deep rivers to be dry.

17 Both day and eke the night are thine,
by thee they were begun:
Thou ſet'ſt to ſerve us with their ſhine,
the light and eke the ſun.
18 Thou did'ſt appoint the ends and coaſts of all the earth about:
Both ſummer-heats, and winter-froſts,
thy hand hath found them out.

19 Think on, O Lord, no time forget thy foes that thee defame:
And how the fooliſh folk are ſet to rail upon thy name.
20 O let no cruel beaſts devour thy turtle that is true:
Forget not always in thy power
the poor that much do rue.

21 Regard thy covenant, and behold,
thy foes poſſeſs the land:
All ſad and dark, forworn and old our realm as now doth ſtand.
22 Let not the ſimple go away,
nor yet return with ſhame:
But let the poor and needy ay
give praiſe unto thy name.

23 Riſe, Lord, let be by thee maintain'd the cauſe that is thine own:
Remember how that thou blaſphem'd art by the fooliſh one.
24 The voice forget not of thy foes,
for the preſumption high.
Is more and more increaſt of thoſe that hate thee ſpightfully.

Con-

Confitebimur tibi. Pſal. lxxv. I. H.

UNto thee, God, will we give thanks,
we will give thanks to thee:
Sith thy name is ſo near, declare thy wondrous works will we.
2 I will uprightly judge, when get convenient time I may:
The earth is weak, and all therein,
but I her pillars ſtay.

3 I did to the mad people ſay, deal not ſo furiouſly:
And unto the ungodly ones,
ſet not your horns on high.
4 I ſaid unto them, Set not up your raiſed horns on high:
And ſee that you do with ſtiff-neck not ſpeak preſumptouſly.

5 For neither from the eaſtern-parts,
nor from the weſtern-ſide,
Nor from forſaken wilderneſs, promotion doth proceed.
6 For why? the Lord our God he is the righteous judge alone:
He putteth down the one, and ſets another in the throne.

7 For why? a cup of mighty wine is in the hand of God:
And all the mighty wine therein
himſelf doth pour abroad.
8 As for the lees and filthy dregs that do remain of it,
The wicked of the earth ſhall drink and ſuck them every whit.

9 But I will talk of God, I ſay, of Jacobs God therefore:
And will not ceaſe to celebrate his praiſe for evermore.
10 In ſunder break the horns of all ungodly men will I:
But then the horns of righteous men ſhall be exalted high.

Gloria patri.

To Father, Son, and Holy Ghoſt,
all glory be therefore:
As in beginning was, is now,
and ſhall be evermore.

In Judæa. Pſal. lxxvj. I. H.

TO all that now in Jury dwell
the Lord is clearly known:
His name is great in Iſrael:
a people of his own.
2 At Salem he his tents hath pight,
to tarry there a ſpace:
In Zion eke he hath delight to make his dwelling-place.

3 And there he brake both ſhaft and bow,
the ſword, the ſpear, and ſhield:
And brake the ray to overthrow in battel on the field.
4 Thou art more worthy honour, Lord,
more might in thee doth lie,
Then in the ſtrongeſt of the world,
that rob on mountains high.

5 But now the proud are ſpoil'd through thee,
and they are fal'n on ſleep:
Through men of war no help can be,
themſelves they could not keep.
6 At thy rebuke, O Jacobs God,
when thou didſt them reprove:
As half on ſleep their chariots ſtood,
no hors-men once did move.

7 For thou art dreadful, Lord, indeed, what man the courage hath To 'bide thy ſight, and doth not dread when thou art in thy wrath? (heard 8 When thou doſt make thy judgments from heaven through the ground:
Then all the earth full ſore afraid,
in ſilence ſhall be found.

9 And that when thou, O God, doſt ſtand in judgment for to ſpeak,
To ſave th'afflicted of the land,
on earth that are full weak.
10 The fury that in man doth reign
ſhall turn unto thy praiſe:
Hereafter, Lord, do thou reſtrain their wrath and threats always.

11 Make vows and pay them to our God, ye folk that nigh him be:
Bring gifts all ye that dwell abroad,
for dreadful ſure is he.
12 For he doth take both life and might from princes great of birth:
And full of terrour is his ſight
to all the kings on earth.

Voce mea. Pſal. lxxvij. I. H.

I With my voice to God do cry,
with heart and hearty chear:
My voice to God I lift on high,
and he my ſuit doth hear.
2 In time of grief I ſought to God,
by night no reſt I took:
But ſtretcht my hands to him abroad,
my ſoul comfort forſook.

3 When I to think on God intend,
my trouble then is more:
I ſpake, but could not make an end,
my breath was ſtopt ſo ſore.
4 Thou hold'ſt mine eyes always from reſt,
that I always awake:
With fear I am ſo ſore oppreſt,
my ſpeech doth me forſake.

5 The days of old in mind I caſt, and oft did think upon
The times and ages that are paſt full many years agon.
6 By night my ſongs I call to mind,
once made thy praiſe to ſhow:
And with my heart much talk I find,
my ſpirits do ſearch to know.

7 Will God, ſaid I, at once for all caſt off his people thus,
So that henceforth no time he ſhall be friendly unto us?
8 What? is his goodneſs clean decay'd, for ever and a day?
Or is his promiſe now delay'd,
and doth his truth decay?

9 And will the Lord our God forget his mercies manifold?
Or ſhall his wrath increaſe ſo hot,
his mercies to withhold?
10 At laſt I ſaid, My weakneſs is the cauſe of this miſtruſt:
Gods mighty hand can help all this,
and change it when he luſt.

The Second part.

11 I will regard and think upon the working of the Lord:
Of all his wonders paſt and gone
I gladly will record.

12 Yea, all his works I will declare,
and what he did deviſe:
To tell his facts I will not ſpare,
and eke his counſel wiſe.

13 Thy works, O Lord, are all upright, and holy all abroad:
What one hath ſtrength to match the might
of thee, O Lord our God?
14 Thou art a God that doſt forth ſhow thy wonders every hour:
And ſo doſt make the people know thy virtue and thy power.

15 And thine own folk thou doſt defend with ſtrength and ſtretched-arm:
The ſons of Jacob that deſcend, and Joſephs ſeed from harm.
16 The waters, Lord, preceived thee,
the waters ſaw thee well:
And they for fear away did flee,
the depths on trembling fell.

17 The clouds that were both thick and black did rain full plenteouſly:
The thunder in the air did crack,
thy ſhafts abroad did fly.
18 Thy thunder in the air was heard,
thy lightnings from above
With flaſhes great made men afraid, the earth did quake and move.

19 Thy ways within the ſea do lie,
thy paths in waters deep:
Yet none can there thy ſteps eſpy,
nor know thy paths to keep.
20 Thou ledſt thy folk upon the land
as ſheep on every ſide;
Through Moſes and through Aarons hand thou didſt them ſafely guide.

Attendite populi. Pſal. lxxviij. I. H.

ATtend my people to my law,
and to my words incline:
2 My mouth ſhall ſpeak ſtrange parables,
and ſentences divine:
3 Which we our ſelves have heard and learn'd even of our fathers old:
And which for our inſtruction
our fathers have us told.

4 Becauſe we ſhould not keep it cloſe from them that ſhould come after:
Who ſhould Gods power to their race praiſe,
and all his works of wonder.
5 To Jacob he commandment gave how Iſrael ſhould live, Willing our fathers ſhould the ſame unto their children give.

6 That they and their poſterity that were not ſprung up tho Should have the knowledge of the law,
and teach their ſeed alſo.
7 That they might have the better hope in God that is above:
And not forget to keep his laws
and his precepts in love.

8 Not being as their fathers were,
rebelling in Gods ſight:
And would not frame their wicked hearts
to know their God aright.
9 How went the people of Ephraim their neighbours for to ſpoil:
Shooting their darts in day of war,
and yet they took the foil?

10 For why? they did not keep with God
the covenant that was made,
Nor yet would walk or lead their lives
according to his trade;

11 But put into oblivion
his counſel and his will,
And all his works moſt magnifick,
which he declared ſtill.

The Second part.

12 What wonders to our fore-fathers did he himſelf diſcloſe
In Egypt land, within the field that call'd is Thaneos?
13 He did divide and cut the ſea, that they might paſs at once:
And made the waters ſtand as ſtill
as doth an heap of ſtones.

14 He led them ſecret in a cloud
by day when it was bright:
And in the night when dark it was,
with fire he gave them light.
15 He brake the rocks in wilderneſs, and gave the people drink:
As plentiful as when the deeps
do flow up to the brink.

16 He drew out rivers out of rocks that were both dry and hard,
Of ſuch abundance, that no flouds
to them may be compar'd.
17 Yet for all this againſt the Lord their ſin they did increaſe:
And ſtirred him that is Moſt High to wrath in wilderneſs.

18 They tempted God within their hearts,
like people of miſtruſt:
Requiring ſuch a kind of meat
as ſerved to their luſt:
19 Saying with murmuration in their unfaithfulneſs,
What? can this God prepare for us a feaſt in wilderneſs?

20 Behold he ſtrake the ſtony rock,
and flouds forthwith did flow:
But can he now give to his folk both bread and fleſh alſo?
21 When God heard this, he waxed wroth with Jacob and his ſeed:
So did his indignation
on Iſrael proceed.

The Third part.

22 Becauſe they did not faithfully believe and hope that he Could always help and ſuccour them
in their neceſſity.
23 Wherefore he did command the clouds, forthwith they brake in ſunder.
24 And rain'd down manna for them to eat,
a food of mickle wonder.

25 When earthly men with angels food were fed at their requeſt:
26 He bade the eaſt-wind blow away,
and brought in the ſouth-weſt.
27 He rain'd down fleſh as thick as duſt,
and fowl as thick as ſand:
28 Which he did caſt amid the place where all their tents did ſtand.

29 Then did they eat exceedingly, and all men had their fills:
Yet more and more they did deſire to ſerve their luſts and wills.
30 But as their meat was in their mouths
his wrath upon them fell, 31 And ſlew the flower of all their youth,
and choice of Iſrael.

32 Yet fell they to their wonted ſin,
and ſtill they did him grieve:
For all the wonders that he wrought,
they would him not believe.
33 Their days therefore he ſhortened, and made their honour vain:
Their years did waſte and paſs away with terrour and with pain.

34 But ever when he plagued them, they ſought him by and by,
35 Remembring that he was their ſtrength, their help and God Moſt High.
36 Though in their mouths they did but and flatter with the Lord: (gloſe
And with their tongues and in their hearts diſſembled every word.

The Fourth part.

37 For why? their hearts were nothing bent to him nor to his trade:
Nor yet to keep or to perform
the covenant that was made.
38 Yet was he ſtill ſo merciful,
when they deſerv'd to die,
That he forgave them their miſdeeds,
and would not them deſtroy.

Yea, many a time he turn'd his wrath,
and did himſelf adviſe:
And would not ſuffer all his whole diſpleaſure to ariſe.
39 Conſidering that they were but fleſh,
and even as a wind.
Paſſing away, and cannot well return by his own kind.

40 How oftentimes in wilderneſs did they the Lord provoke!
How did they move and ſtir the Lord to plague them with his ſtroke!
41 Yet did they turn again to ſin,
and tempted God eftſoon;
Preſcribing to the holy Lord
what things they would have done.

42 Not thinking of his hand and power, nor of the day when he Delivered them out of the hands of the fierce enemy.
43 Nor how he wrought his miracles
(as they themſelvs beheld)
In Egypt, and the wonders that he did in Zoan field.

44 Nor how he turned by his power their waters into bloud:
That no man might receive his drink
at river, nor at floud.
45 Nor how he ſent them ſwarms of flies,
which did them ſore annoy:
And fil'd their country full of frogs,
which did their land deſtroy.

The Fifth part.

46 Nor how he did commit their fruits unto the caterpillar:
And all the labour of their hands
he gave to the graſhopper.
47 With hailſtones he deſtroy'd their vines,
ſo that they were all loſt:
And not ſo much as wild fig-trees,
but he conſum'd with froſt.

48 And yet with hailſtones once again
the Lord their cattel ſmote:
And all their flocks and herds likewiſe with thunder-bolts full hot.

49 He caſt upon them in his ire and in his fury ſtrong Diſpleaſure, wrath, and evil ſpirits, to trouble them among.

50 Then to his wrath he made a way,
and ſpared not the leaſt:
But gave unto the peſtilence
the man and eke the beaſt.
51 He ſtrake alſo the firſt-born all that up in Egypt came:
And all the chief of men and beaſts
within the tents of Ham.

52 But as for all his own dear folk,
he did preſerve and keep:
And carried them through wilderneſs,
even like a flock of ſheep.
53 Without all fear both ſafe and ſound
he brought them out of thrall:
Whereas their foes with rage of ſeas were overwhelmed all.

54 And brought them out into the coaſts of his own holy land, Even to the mount which he had got
by his ſtrong arm and hand:
55 And there caſt out the heathen folk,
and did their land divide:
And in their tents he ſet the tribes of Iſrael to abide.

56 Yet for all this, their God Moſt High they ſtir'd and tempted ſtill.
And would not keep his teſtament, nor yet obey his will.
57 But as their fathers turned back,
even ſo they went aſtray,
Much like a bow that would not bend,
but ſlip and ſtart away.

The Sixth part.

58 And griev'd him with their hill-altars, with offerings and with fire:
And with their Idols vehemently provoked him to ire.
59 Therewith his wrath began again to kindle in his breaſt:
The naughtineſs of Iſrael
he did ſo much deteſt.

60 Then he forſook the tabernacle of Shiloh, where he was Right converſant with earthly men, even as his dwelling-place.
61 Then ſuffered he his might and power
in bondage for to ſtand,
And gave the honour of his ark.
into his enemies hand.

62 And did commit them to the ſword,
wroth with his heritage:
63 Their young men were devour'd with fire, maids had no marriage.
64 And with the ſword the prieſts alſo did periſh every one:
And not a widow left alive
their death for to bemoan.

65 And then the Lord began to wake like one that ſlept a time,
And like a valiant man of war
refreſhed after wine.
66 With emrods in the hinder parts
he ſtrake his enemies all:
And put them then unto a ſhame that was perpetuall.

67 Then

67 Then He the tent and tabernacle of Joſeph did refuſe:
As for the tribe of Ephraim,
he would in no wiſe chuſe:
68 But choſe the tribe of Jehudah, whereas he thought to dwell:
Even the noble mount Zion;
which he did love ſo well.

69 Whereas he did his temple build both ſumptuouſly and ſure,
Like as the earth which he hath made
for ever to endure.
70 Then choſe he David him to ſerve, his people for to keep;
Whom he took up and brought away
even from the folds of ſheep.

71 As he did follow th'ews with young,
the Lord did him advance:
To feed his people Iſrael,
and his inheritance.
72 Thus David with a faithful heart his flock and charge did feed,
And prudently with all his power
did govern them indeed.

Deus, venerunt. Pſal. lxxix. I. H.

O God, the Gentiles do invade thine heritage to ſpoil:
Jeruſalem an heap is made,
thy temple they defile.
2 The bodies of thy ſaints moſt dear abroad to birds they caſt:
The fleſh of them that do thee fear
the beaſts devour and waſte.

3 Their bloud throughout Jeruſalem as water ſpilt they have:
So that there is not one of them to lay their dead in grave.
4 Thus are we made a laughing-ſtock almoſt the world throughout:
The enemies at us jeſt and mock which dwell our coaſts about.

5 Wilt thou, O Lord, thus in thine ire againſt us ever fume,
And ſhew thy wrath as hot as fire,
thy flock for to conſume?
6 Upon thoſe people pour the ſame which did thee never know;
All realms which call not on thy name conſume and overthrow.

7 For they have got the upper hand,
and Jacobs ſeed deſtroy'd:
His habitation and his land
they have left waſte and void.
8 Bear not in mind our former faults,
with ſpeed ſome pity ſhow:
And aid us, Lord, in all aſſaults, for we are weak and low.

The Second part.

9 O God, that giv'ſt all health and grace,
on us declare the ſame:
Weigh not our works, our ſins deface for honour of thy name.
10 Why ſhall the wicked ſtill alway,
to us as people dumb,
In thy reproach rejoyce, and ſay,
where is their God become?

Require, O Lord, as thou ſeeſt good,
before our eyes in ſight,
Of all theſe folk thy ſervants bloud which they ſpilt in deſpight.

11 Receive into thy ſight in haſte
the clamours, grief, and wrong
Of ſuch as are in priſon caſt, ſuſtaining irons ſtrong.

Thy force and ſtrength to celebrate,
Lord, ſet them out of band
Which unto death are deſtinate, and in their enemies hand.
12 The nations which have been ſo bold
as to blaſpheme thy name,
Into their laps with ſeven-fold repay again the ſame.

13 So we thy flock and paſture-ſheep will praiſe thee evermore.
And teach all ages for to keep for thee like praiſe in ſtore.

Qui regis Iſrael. Pſal. lxxx. I. H.

THou Herd that Iſrael doſt keep,
give ear and take good heed:
Which leadeſt Joſeph like a ſheep,
and do'ſt him watch and feed:
2 Thou Lord, I ſay, whoſe ſeat is ſet on cherubims moſt bright, Shew forth thy ſelf, and do not let,
ſend down thy beams of light.

3 Before Ephraim and Benjamin,
Manaſſeh eke likewiſe:
To ſhew thy power do thou begin;
come help us, Lord, ariſe.
4 Direct our hearts unto thy grace,
convert us, Lord, to thee:
Shew us the brightneſs of thy face,
and then full ſafe are we.

5 Lord God of hoſts of Iſrael,
how long wilt thou, I ſay, Againſt thy folk in anger ſwell,
and wilt not hear them pray?
6 Thou doſt them feed with ſorrows deep,
their bread with tears they eat,
And drink the tears that they do weep,
in meaſure full and great.

7 Thou haſt us made a very ſtrife to thoſe that dwell about:
And that our foes do love alife,
they laugh and jeſt it out.
8 O take us, Lord, unto thy grace, convert our hearts to thee:
Shew forth to us thy joyful face,
and we full ſafe ſhall be.

9 From Egypt where it grew not well thou brought'ſt a vine full dear:
The heathen folk thou didſt expel,
and thou did'ſt plant it there.
10 Thou didſt prepare for it a place,
and ſet her roots full faſt:
That it did grow and ſpring apace,
and fill'd the land at laſt.

The Second part.

11 The hils were covered round about with ſhade, that from it came,
And eke the cedars ſtrong and ſtout,
with branches of the ſame.
12 Why then didſt thou her walls deſtroy?
her hedge pluckt up thou haſt:
That all the folk that paſs thereby thy vine may ſpoil and waſte.

13 The boar out of the wood ſo wild doth dig and root it out:
The furious beaſts out of the field devour it all about.
14 O Lord of hoſts, return again,
from heaven look betime:
Behold, and with thy help ſuſtain
this poor vineyard of thine.

15 Thy plant, I ſay, thine Iſrael, whom thy right hand hath ſet:
The ſame which thou didſt love ſo well,
O Lord, do not forget.
16 They lop and cut it down apace,
they burn it eke with fire:
And through the frowning of thy face,
we periſh in thine ire.

17 Let thy right hand be with them now whom thou haſt kept ſo long:
And with the ſon of man whom thou to thee haſt made ſo ſtrong.
18 And ſo when thou haſt ſet us free,
and ſaved us from ſhame:
Then will we never fall from thee,
but call upon thy name.

19 O Lord of hoſts, through thy good grace convert us unto thee:
Behold us with a pleaſant face,
and then full ſafe are we.

Deo exultate. Pſal. lxxxj. I. H.

BE light and glad, in God rejoyce,
which is our ſtrength and ſtay:
Be joyful, and lift up your voice to Jacobs God, I ſay.
2 Prepare your inſtruments moſt meet,
ſome joyful Pſalm to ſing:
Strike up with harp and lute ſo ſweet,
on every pleaſant ſtring.

3 Blow as it were in the new-moon,
with trumpets of the beſt:
As it is uſed to be done
at any ſolemn feaſt.
4 For this is unto Iſrael
a ſtatute and a trade:
A law that muſt be kept full well,
which Jacobs God hath made.

5 This clauſe with Joſeph was decreed when he from Egypt came,
That as a witneſs all his ſeed ſhould ſtill obſerve the ſame.
6 When God, I ſay, had ſo prepar'd to bring him from that land:
Whereas the ſpeech which he had heard
he did not underſtand.

7 I from his ſhoulders took, ſaith he,
the burden clean away:
And from the furnace quit him free,
from burning brick of clay.
8 When thou in grief didſt cry and call,
I holp thee by and by:
And I did anſwer thee withall
in thunder ſecretly.

9 Yea, at the waters of diſcord
I did thee tempt and prove:
Whereas the goodneſs of the Lord with muttering thou didſt move.
10 Hear, O my folk, O Iſrael, and I aſſure it thee:
Regard, and mark my words full well,
if thou wilt cleave to me.

The Second part.

11 Thou ſhalt no god in thee reſerve of any land abroad:
Nor in no wiſe to bowe or ſerve
a ſtrange or forreign god.
12 I am the Lord thy God, and I from Egypt ſet thee free:
Then ask of me abundantly,
and I will give it thee.

13 And yet my people would not hear my voice, when that I ſpake:
Nor Iſrael would not obey,
but did me quite forſake.
14 Then did I leave them to their will in hardneſs of their heart:
To walk in their own counſels ſtil, themſelves they might pervert.

15 O that my people would have heard the words that I did ſay:
And eke that Iſrael would regard to walk within my way!
16 How ſoon would I confound their foes and bring them down ful low:
And turn my hand upon all thoſe that would them overthrow!

17 And they that at the Lord do rage, as ſlaves ſhould ſeek him till:
But of his folk the time and age
ſhould flouriſh ever ſtill.
18 I would have fed them with the crop and fineſt of the wheat:
And made the rock with hony drop,
that they their fills ſhould eat.

Deus ſtetit. Pſal. lxxxij. I. H.

AMid the preſs with men of might the Lord himſelf doth ſtand;
To plead the cauſe of truth and right with judges of the land.
2 How long, ſaid he, will you proceed
falſe judgment to award,
And have reſpect for love of meed
the wicked to regard?

3 Whereas of due you ſhould defend the fatherleſs and weak:
And when the poor man doth contend,
in judgment juſtly ſpeak.
4 If ye be wiſe defend the cauſe of poor men in their right:
And rid the needy from the claws of tyrants force and might.

5 But nothing will they know or learn,
in vain to them I talk:
They will not ſee or ought diſcern,
but ſtill in darkneſs walk.
6 For lo, even now the time is come that all things fall to nought:
And likewiſe laws both all and ſome for gain are ſold and bought.

I had decreed it in my ſight
as gods to take you all:
And children to the Moſt of Might for love I did you call.
7 But notwithſtanding ye ſhall die
as men, and ſo decay:
O tyrants, I ſhall you deſtroy,
and pluck you quite away.

8 Up, Lord, and let thy ſtrength be known, and judge the world with might:
For why? all nations are thine own,
to take them as thy right.

Deus, quid. Pſal. lxxxiij. I. H.

DO not, O God, refrain thy tongue,
in ſilence do not ſtay:
Withhold not, Lord, thy ſelf ſo long,
and make no more delay.
2 For why? behold my foes, and ſee
how they do rage and cry:
And thoſe that bear an hate to thee hold up their heads on high.

3 Againſt thy folk they uſe deceit,
and craftily they inquire:
For thine elect to lie in wait their counſel doth conſpire.
4 Come on, ſay they, let us expel and pluck theſe folk away:
So that the name of Iſrael may utterly decay.

5 They all conſpire within their heart
how they may thee withſtand:
Againſt the Lord to take a part they are in league and band.
6 The tents of all the Edomites,
the Iſmaelites alſo:
The Hagarens and Moabites, with divers other mo.

7 Gebal with Ammon, and likewiſe
doth Amalek conſpire:
The Philiſtines againſt thee riſe, with them that dwell at Tyre.
8 And Aſſur eke is well apaid
with them in league to be:
And doth become a fence and aid to Lots poſterity.

9 As thou did'ſt to the Midianites;
ſo ſerve them, Lord, each one:
As to Siſer, and to Jabin,
beſide the brook Kiſon.
10 Whom thou in Endor did'ſt deſtroy, and waſte them through thy might:
That they like dung on earth did lie,
and that in open ſight.

The Second part.

11 Make them now and their lords appear like Zeb and Oreb than:
As Zeba and Zalmunna were,
the kings of Midian.
12 Which ſaid, Let us throughout the land
in all the coaſts abroad, Poſſeſs, and take into our hand
the fair houſes of God.

13 Turn them, O God, with ſtorms as faſt
as wheels that have no ſtay:
Or like the chaff, which men do caſt with winds to flie away.
14 Like as the fire with rage and fume
the mighty foreſts ſpils:
And as the flame doth quite conſume
the mountains and the hils:

15 So let the tempeſt of thy wrath upon their necks be laid:
And of thy ſtormy wind and ſhower,
Lord, make them all afraid.
16 Lord, bring them all, I thee deſire, to ſuch rebuke and ſhame,
That it may cauſe them to inquire,
and learn to ſeek thy name.

17 And let them evermore daily to ſhame and ſlander fall:
And in rebuke and obloquy to periſh eke withall.

18 That they may know, and feel full well that thou art called Lord:
And that alone thou doſt excel,
and reign throughout the world.

Quam dilecta! Pſal. lxxxiv. I. H.

HOw pleaſant is thy dwelling-place,
O Lord of hoſts to me!
The tabernacles of thy grace
how pleaſant Lord, they be!
2 My ſoul doth long full ſore to go into thy courts abroad:
My heart doth luſt, my fleſh alſo,
in thee the living God.

3 The ſparrows find a room to reſt,
and ſave themſelves from wrong,
And eke the ſwallow hath a neſt wherein to keep her young.
4 Theſe birds full nigh thine altar may have place to ſit and ſing:
O Lord of hoſts, thou art I ſay,
my God and eke my King.

5 O they be bleſſed that may dwell within thy houſe always:
For they all times thy facts do tell,
and ever give thee praiſe.
6 Yea, happy ſure likewiſe are they whoſe ſtay and ſtrength thou art:
Which to thy houſe do mind the way,
and ſeek it in their heart.

As they go through the vale of tears,
they dig up fountains ſtill:
That as a ſpring it all appears,
and thou their pits doſt fill.
7 From ſtrength to ſtrength they walk full faſt, no faintneſs there ſhall be:
And ſo the God of gods at laſt
in Zion they do ſee.

8 O Lord of hoſts, to me give heed,
and hear when I do pray:
And let it through thine ears proceed,
O Jacobs God, I ſay.
9 O Lord, our ſhield, of thy good grace regard, and ſo draw near:
Regard, I ſay, behold the face of thine anointed dear.

10 For why? within thy courts one day is better to abide,
Then other where to keep or ſtay
a thouſand days beſide.
Much rather would I keep a door
within the houſe of God,
Then in the tents of wickedneſs to ſettle mine abode.

11 For God the Lord, light and defence, will grace and worſhip give:
And no good thing will he withhold from them that purely live.
12 O Lord of hoſts, that man is bleſt, and happy ſure is he,
That is perſwaded in his breaſt to truſt all times in thee.

Benedixiſti. Pſal. lxxxv. I. H.

THou haſt been merciful indeed,
O Lord; unto thy land:
For thou reſtoredſt Jacobs ſeed
from thraldom out of band.
2 The wicked ways that they were in,
thou didſt them clean remit:
And thou didſt hide thy peoples ſin, full cloſe thou coveredſt it.

3 Thine

3 Thine anger eke thou did'ſt aſſwage, that all thy wrath was gone:
And ſo did'ſt turn thee from thy rage,
with them to be at one.
4 O God our health, do now convert thy people unto thee:
Put all thy wrath from us apart,
and angry ceaſe to be.

5 Why, ſhall thine anger never end,
but ſtill proceed on us?
And ſhall thy wrath it ſelf extend upon all ages thus?
6 Wilt thou not rather turn therefore and quicken us, that we
And all thy folk may evermore be glad and joy in thee?

7 O Lord, on us do thou declare thy goodneſs to our wealth:
Shew forth to us, and do not ſpare,
thine aid and ſaving health.
8 I will heark what God ſaith, for he ſpeaks to his people peace,
And to his Saints, that never they return to fooliſhneſs.

9 For why? his help is ſtill at hand to ſuch as do him fear:
Whereby great glory in our land
ſhall dwell and flouriſh there.
10 For truth and mercy there ſhall meet,
in one to take their place:
And peace ſhall juſtice with kiſs greet,
and there they ſhall embrace.

11 As truth from earth ſhall ſpring apace,
and flouriſh pleaſantly:
So righteouſneſs ſhall ſhew her face,
and look from heaven high.
12 Yea, God himſelf doth take in hand to give us each good thing:
And through the coaſts of all the land
the earth her fruit ſhall bring.

13 Before his face ſhall juſtice go.
much like a guide or ſtay:
He ſhall direct his ſteps alſo,
and keep them in the way.

Inclina, Domine. Pſal. lxxxvj. I. H.

LOrd bowe thine ear to my requeſt, and hear me by and by:
With grievous pain and grief oppreſt,
full poor and weak am I.
2 Preſerve my ſoul, becauſe my ways and doings holy be:
And ſave thy ſervant, O my Lord,
that puts his truſt in thee.

3 Thy mercy, Lord, on me expreſs, defend me eke withall:
For through the day I do not ceaſe,
on thee to cry and call.
4 Comfort, O Lord, thy ſervants ſoul that now with pain is pin'd:
For unto thee, Lord, I extol and lift my ſoul and mind.

5 For thou art good and bountiful, thy gifts of grace are free:
And eke thy mercy plentiful to all that call on thee.
6 O Lord, likewiſe when I do pray, regard and give an ear:
Mark well the words that I do ſay,
and all my prayers hear.

7 In time when trouble doth me move,
to thee I do complain:
Fo why? I know and well do prove thou anſwereſt me again.
8 Among the gods, O Lord, is none with thee to be compar'd:
And none can do as thou alone,
the like hath not been heard.

The Second part.

9 The Gentiles and the people all which thou didſt make and frame, Before thy face on knees ſhall fall and glorify thy name.
10 For why? thou art ſo much of might,
all power is thine own:
Thou workeſt wonders ſtill in ſight,
for thou art God alone.

11 O teach me, Lord, thy way, and I ſhall in thy truth proceed:
O joyn my heart to thee ſo nigh that I thy name may dread.
12 To thee, my God, will I give praiſe with all my heart, O Lord:
And glorify thy name always for ever through the world.

13 For why? thy mercy ſhew'd to me is great, and doth excel:
Thou ſet'ſt my ſoul at liberty out from the lower hell.
14 O Lord, the proud againſt me riſe, and heaps of men of might:
They ſeek my ſoul, and in no wiſe will have thee in their ſight.

15 Thou, Lord, art merciful and meek, full ſlack, and ſlow to wrath:
Thy goodneſs is full great, and eke thy truth no meaſure hath.
16 O turn to me, and mercy grant,
thy ſtrength to me apply:
O help and ſave thine own ſervant,
thy hand-maids ſon am I.

17 On me ſome ſign of favour ſhow, that all my foes may ſee
And be aſham'd, becauſe, Lord, thou doſt help and comfort me.

Fundamenta. Pſal. lxxxvij. I. H.

THat city ſhall full well endure, her ground-work ſtill doth ſtay
Upon the holy hills full ſure,
it can no time decay.
2 God loves the gates of Zion beſt, his grace doth there abide:
He loves them more then all the reſt of Jacobs tents beſide.

3 Full glorious things reported be in Zion, and abroad:
Great things, I ſay, are ſaid of thee,
thou city of our God.
4 On Rahab I will caſt an eye,
and bear in mind the ſame:
And Babylon ſhall eke apply and learn to know my name.

5 Lo, Paleſtine and Tyre alſo, with Ethiop likewiſe,
A people old, full long ago
were born and there did riſe.
6 Of Zion they ſhall ſay abroad, that divers men of fame
Have there ſprung up, and the High God hath founded faſt the ſame.

7 In their records to them it ſhall through Gods device appear,
Of Zion, that the chief of all had his beginning there.
8 The trumpeters with ſuch as ſing, there in great plenty be:
My fountains and my pleaſant ſprings are compaſt all in thee.

Domine Deus. Pſal. lxxxviij. I. H.

LOrd God of health, the hope and ſtay
thou art alone to me:
I call and cry thoughout the day
and all the night to thee.
2 O let my prayer ſoon aſcend unto thy ſight on high:
Incline thine ear, O Lord, attend, and hearken to my cry.

3 For why? with wo my heart is fill'd,
and doth in trouble dwell:
My life and breath almoſt doth yeild,
and draweth nigh to hell.
4 I am eſteem'd as one of them that in the pit do fall:
And made as one among thoſe men that have no ſtrength at all.

5 As one among the dead, and free from things that here remain:
It were more eaſe for me to be with them the which are ſlain:
6 As thoſe that lie in grave, I ſay, whom thou haſt clean forgot:
The which thy hand hath cut away,
and thou regard'ſt them not.

7 Yea, like to one ſhut up full ſure within the lower pit,
In places dark and all obſcure,
and in the depth of it.
8 Thine anger and thy wrath likewiſe full ſore on me doth lie:
And all thy ſtorms againſt me riſe,
my ſoul to vex and try.

9 Thou put'ſt my friends far off from me,
and mak'ſt them hate me ſore:
I am ſhut up in priſon faſt,
and can come forth no more.
10 My ſight doth fail through grief & wo,
I call to thee, O God:
Throughout the day my hands alſo to thee I ſtretch abroad.

The Second part.

11 Do'ſt thou unto the dead declare thy wondrous works of fame?
Shall dead to life again repair,
and praiſe thee for the ſame?
12 Or ſhall thy loving kindneſs, Lord, be preached in the grave?
Or ſhall with them that are deſtroy'd thy truth her honour have?

13 Shall they that lie in dark full low of all thy wonders wot?
Or there ſhall they thy juſtice know where all things are forgot?
14 But I, O Lord, to thee always do cry and call apace:
My prayer eke ere it be day
ſhall come before thy face.

15 Why do'ſt thou, Lord, abhor my ſoul, in grief that ſeeketh thee?

And

And now, O Lord, why do'ſt thou hide
thy face away from me?
16 I am afflict, as dying ſtill from youth this many a year:
The terrours which do vex me ill with troubled mind I bear.

17 The furies of thy wrathfull rage
full ſore upon me fall:
Thy terrors eke do not aſſwage,
but me oppreſs withall.
18 All day they compaſs me about,
as water at the tide:
And all at once with ſtreams full ſtout
beſet me on each ſide.

19 Thou ſetteſt far from me my friends and lovers every one:
Yea, and mine old acquaintance all out of my ſight are gone.

Miſericordias. Pſal. lxxxix. I. H.

TO ſing the mercies of the Lord
my tongue ſhall never ſpare:
And with my mouth from age to age
thy truth I will declare.
2 For I have ſaid that mercy ſhall for evermore remain:
In that thou do'ſt the heavens ſtay,
thy truth appeareth plain.

3 To mine elect; ſaith God, I made a covenant and beheſt:
My ſervant David to perſwade,
I ſwore and did proteſt:
4 Thy ſeed for ever I will ſtay,
and ſtabliſh it full faſt:
And ſtill uphold thy throne alway from age to age to laſt.

5 The heavens ſhew with joy and mirth thy wondrous works, O Lord:
Thy ſaints within thy church on earth thy faith and truth record.
6 Who with the Lord is equal then in all the clouds abroad?
Among the ſons of all the gods,
what one is like our God?

7 God in aſſembly of the ſaints is greatly to be dread:
And over all that dwell about in terror to be had.
8 Lord God of hoſts, in all the world
what one is like to thee?
On every ſide Moſt Mighty Lord, thy truth is ſeen to be.

9 The raging ſea by thine advice thou ruleſt at thy will:
And when the waves thereof ariſe,
thou mak'ſt them calm and ſtill.
10 And Egypt, Lord, thou haſt ſubdu'd, and thou haſt it deſtroy'd:
Yea, thou thy foes with mighty arm
haſt ſcatter'd all abroad.

The Second part.

11 The heavens are thine and ſtill have been,
likewiſe the earth and land:
The world and all that is therein
thou foundedſt with thy hand.
12 Both north and ſouth, with eaſt and weſt thy ſelf didſt make and frame:
Both Tabor mount, and eke Hermon, rejoyce and praiſe thy name.

13 Thine arm is ſtrong and full of power,
all might therein doth lie:
The ſtrength of thy right hand each hour
thou lifteſt up on high.
14 In righteouſneſs and equity thou haſt thy ſeat and place:
Mercy and truth are ſtill with thee,
and go before thy face.

15 That folk is bleſt that knows aright
thy preſent power, O God:
For in the favour of thy ſight
they walk full ſafe abroad.
16 For in thy Name throughout the day
they joy and much rejoyce:
And through thy righteouſneſs have they
a pleaſant fame and noiſe.

17 For why? their glory, ſtrength, and aid,
in thee alone doth lie:
Thy goodneſs eke that hath us ſtaid, ſhall lift our horn on high.
18 Our ſtrength that doth defend us well
the Lord to us doth bring:
The Holy One of Iſrael
he is our Guide and King.

19 Somtimes thy will unto thy ſaints in viſions thou did'ſt ſhow:
And thus then did'ſt thou ſay to them,
thy mind to make them know:
20 A man of might I have erect your king and guide to be:
And ſet him up whom I elect,
among the folk to me.

The Third part.

21 My ſervant David I appoint, whom I have ſearched out:
And with my holy oyl anoint him king of all the rout.
22 For why? my hand is ready ſtill with him for to remain:
And with mine arm alſo I will him ſtrengthen and ſuſtain.

23 The enemies ſhall not him oppreſs,
they ſhall him not devour:
Ne yet the ſons of wickedneſs on him have any power.
24 His foes likewiſe I will deſtroy before his face in ſight:
And thoſe that hate him I will plague,
and ſtrike them with my might.

25 My truth and mercy eke withall
ſhall ſtill upon him lie:
And in my name his horn eke ſhall be lifted up on high.
26 His kingdom I will ſet to be upon the ſea and land:
And eke the running flouds ſhall he embrace with his right hand.

27 He ſhall depend with all his heart on me, and thus ſhall ſay,
My father and my God thou art,
my rock of health and ſtay.
28 As my firſt-born I will him take,
of all on earth that ſprings:
His might and honour I will make above all earthly kings.

29 My mercy ſhall be with him ſtil,
as I my ſelf have told:
My faithful covenant to fulfil my mercy I will hold.

30 And eke his ſeed I will ſuſtain for ever ſtrong and ſure:
So that his ſeat ſhall ſtill remain
while heaven doth indure.

The Fourth part.

31 If that his ſons forſake my law,
and ſo begin to ſwerve:
And of my judgments have none aw,
nor will not them obſerve:
32 Or if they do not uſe aright
my ſtatutes to them made,
And ſet all my commandments light,
and will not keep my trade.

33 Then with the rod will I begin their doings to amend:
And ſo will ſcourge them for their ſin,
if that they do offend.
34 My mercy yet and my goodneſs
I will not take him fro:
Nor handle him with craftineſs,
and ſo my truth forgo.

35 But ſure my covenant I will hold,
with all that I have ſpoke:
No word the which my lips have told ſhall alter or be broke.
36 Once ſware I by my holineſs, and that perform will I:
With David I ſhall keep promiſe, to him I will not lie.

37 His ſeed for evermore ſhall reign, and eke his throne of might:
As doth the ſun, it ſhall remain for ever in my ſight.
38 And as the moon within the ſky for ever ſtandeth faſt
A faithful witneſs from on high,
ſo ſhall his kingdom laſt.

39 But now, O Lord, thou do'ſt reject, and now thou changeſt chear:
Yea, thou art wroth with thine elect, thy own anointed dear.
40 The covenant with thy ſervant made,
Lord, thou haſt quite undone:
And down upon the ground alſo haſt caſt his royal crown.

The Fifth part.

41 Thou pluck'ſt his hedges up with might,
his walls thou doſt confound:
Thou beateſt eke his bulwarks down,
and break'ſt them to the ground.
42 That he is ſo deſtroy'd and torn of comers by throughout:
And ſo is made a mock and ſcorn to all that dwell about.

43 Thou their right hand haſt lifted up that him ſo ſore annoy:
And all his foes that him devour
lo thou haſt made to joy.
44 His ſwords edge thou do'ſt take away,
that ſhould his foes withſtand:
To him in war no victory
thou giv'ſt, nor upper hand.

45 His glory thou do'ſt alſo waſte, his throne, his joy, his mirth
By thee is overthrown, and caſt full low upon the earth.
46 Thou haſt cut off and made full ſhort his youth and luſty days:
And rais'd of him an ill report with ſhame and great diſpraiſe.

47 How

47 How long away from me, O Lord, for ever wilt thou turn?
And ſhall thine anger ſtill alway
as fire conſume and burn?
48 O call to mind, remember then,
my time conſumeth faſt:
Why haſt thou made the ſons of men
as things in vain to waſte?

49 What man is he that liveth here,
and death ſhall never ſee?
Or from the hand of hell his ſoul ſhall he deliver free?
50 Where is, O Lord, thine old goodneſs ſo oft declar'd before,
Which by thy truth and uprightneſs to David thou haſt ſwore?

51 The great rebukes to mind I call that on thy ſervants lie:
The railings of the people all born in my breaſt have I.
52 Wherewith, O Lord, thine enemies
blaſphemed have thy name:
The ſteps of thine anointed one they ceaſe not to defame.

53 All praiſe to thee, O Lord of hoſts,
both now and eke for ay:
Through sky and earth, and all the coaſts.
Amen, Amen, I ſay.

Domine, refugium. Pſal. xc. I. H.

THou, Lord, haſt been our ſure defence,
our place of eaſe and reſt
In all times paſt, yea, ſo long ſince as cannot be expreſt.
2 Ere there was made mountain or hill,
the earth and world abroad:
From age to age, and always ſtill for ever thou art God.

3 Thou grindeſt man through grief & pain to duſt or clay, and then,
And then thou ſay'ſt again, Return again ye ſons of men.
4 The laſting of a thouſand years
what is it in thy ſight?
As yeſterday it doth appear,
or as a watch by night.

5 So ſoon as thou doſt ſcatter them, then is their life and trade
All as a ſleep, and like the graſs whoſe beauty ſoon doth fade:
6 Which in the morning ſhines full bright,
but fadeth by and by:
And is cut down ere it be night,
all withered, dead, and dry.

7 For through thine anger we conſume,
our might is much decai'd:
And of thy fervent wrath and fume
we are full ſore afraid.
8 The wicked works that we have wrought thou ſet'ſt before thine eye:
Our privy faults, yea, eke our thoughts thy countenance doth ſpy.

9 For through thy wrath our days do waſte, thereof doth nought remain:
Our years conſume as words or blaſts,
and are not call'd again.
10 Our time is threeſcore years and ten that we do live on mold:
If one ſee fourſcore, ſurely then we count him wondrous old.

The Second part.

11 Yet of this time the ſtrength and chief the which we count upon,
Is nothing elſe but painful grief,
and we as blaſts are gone.
12 Who once doth know what ſtrength is there,
what might thine anger hath?
Or in his heart who doth thee fear
according to thy wrath?

13 Inſtruct us, Lord, to know and try how long our days remain:
That then we may our hearts apply true wiſdom to attain.
14 Return, O Lord, how long wilt thou forth on in wrath proceed?
Shew favour to thy ſervants now,
and help them at their need.

15 Refreſh us with thy mercy ſoon, and then our joy ſhall be,
All time ſo long as life doth laſt,
in heart rejoyce will we.
16 As thou haſt plagued us before,
now alſo make us glad:
And for the years wherein full ſore affliction we have had.

17 O let thy work and power appear,
and on thy ſervants light:
And ſhew unto thy children dear thy glory and thy might.
18 Lord, let thy grace and glory ſtand on us thy ſervants thus:
Confirm the works we take in hand,
Lord, proſper them to us.

Qui habitat. Pſal. xcj. I. H.

HE that within the ſecret place of God Moſt High doth dwell,
In ſhadow of the mightieſt grace
at reſt ſhall keep him well.
2 Thou art my hope and my ſtrong-hold,
I to the Lord will ſay,
My God is he, in him will I my whole affiance ſtay.

3 He ſhall defend thee from the ſnare
the which the hunter laid:
And from the deadly plague and care whereof thou are afraid.
4 And with his wings ſhall cover thee and keep thee ſafely there:
His faith and truth thy fence ſhall be,
as ſure as ſhield and ſpear.

5 So that thou ſhalt not need, I ſay, to fear or be affright
Of all the ſhafts that flie by day,
nor terrours of the night:
6 Nor of the plague that privily
doth walk in dark ſo faſt;
Nor yet of that which doth deſtroy,
and at noon-day doth waſt.

7 Yea, at thy ſide as thou do'ſt ſtand a thouſand dead ſhall be:
Ten thouſand eke at thy right hand,
and yet ſhalt thou be free.
8 But thou ſhalt ſee it for thy part,
thine eyes ſhall well regard,
That even like to their deſerts
the wicked have reward.

9 For why? O Lord, I onely luſt to ſtay my hope on thee:
And in the high'ſt I put my truſt,
my ſure defence is he.
10 Thou ſhalt not need none ill to fear,
with thee it ſhall be well:
Nor yet the plague ſhall once come near the houſe where thou do'ſt dwell.

11 For why? unto his angels all with charge commanded he,
That ſtill in all thy ways they ſhall
preſerve and proſper thee.
12 And in their hands ſhall bear thee up,
ſtill waiting thee upon:
So that thy foot ſhall never chance to ſpurn at any ſtone.

13 Upon the lions thou ſhalt go,
the adder fell and long:
And tread upon the lions young,
with dragons ſtout and ſtrong.
14 For he that truſteth unto me,
I will acquit him quite;
And him defend, becauſe that he doth know my name aright.

15 When he for help on me doth cry,
an anſwer I will give:
And from his grief take him will I in glory for to live.
16 With length of years and days of wealth
I will fulfil his time:
The goodneſs of my ſaving health
I will declare to him.

Bonum eſt. Pſal. xcij. I. H.

IT is a thing both good and meet to praiſe the Higheſt Lord;
And to thy name, O thou Moſt High,
to ſing with one accord:
2 To ſhew the kindneſs of the Lord;
betime, ere day be light:
And eke declare his truth abroad
when it doth draw to night.

3 Upon ten-ſtringed inſtruments,
on lute and harp ſo ſweet:
With all the mirth you can invent of inſtruments moſt meet.
4 For thou haſt made me to rejoyce in things ſo wrought by thee:
And I have joy in heart and voice thy handy-works to ſee.

5 O Lord, how glorious and how great are all thy works ſo ſtout!
So deeply are thy counſels ſet that none can try them out.
6 The man unwiſe hath not the wit theſe things to paſs to bring;
And all ſuch fools are nothing fit to underſtand this thing.

7 When ſo the wicked at their will as graſs do ſpring full faſt,
They when they flouriſh in their ill,
for ever ſhall be waſte.
8 But thou art mighty, Lord Moſt High, yea, thou do'ſt reign therefore In every time eternally
both now and evermore.

9 For why? O Lord, behold and ſee, behold thy foes, I ſay,
How all that work iniquity ſhalt periſh and decay.
10 But thou, like as an unicorn, ſhall lift mine horn on high:
With freſh and new prepared oyl thine oynted King am I.

11 And of my foes before mine eyes
ſhall ſee the fall and ſhame
Of all that up againſt me riſe, mine ears ſhall hear the ſame.
12 The juſt ſhall flouriſh up on high,
as date-trees bud and blow;
And as the cedars multiply in Lebanus that grow.

13 For they are planted in the place and dwelling of our God:
Within his courts they ſpring apace,
and flouriſh all abroad:
14 And in their age much fruit ſhall bring,
both fat and well beſeen;
And pleaſantly both bud and ſpring with boughs and branches green.

15 To ſhew that God is good and juſt, and upright in his will:
He is my rock, my hope, and truſt,
in him there is none ill.

Dominus regnavit. Pſal. xciij. I. H.

THe Lord as king aloft doth reign with glory goodly dight:
And he to ſhew his ſtrength moſt main,
hath girt himſelf with might.
2 The Lord likewiſe the earth hath made and ſhaped it ſo ſure,
No might can make it move or fade,
at ſtay it doth endure.

3 Ere that the world was made or wrought,
thy ſeat was ſet before:
Beyond all time that can be thought:
thou haſt been evermore.
4 The flouds, O Lord, the flouds do riſe,
they roar and make a noiſe:
The flouds, I ſay, did enterpriſe, and lifted up their voice.

5 Yea, though the ſtorms ariſe in ſight, though ſeas do rage and ſwell:
The Lord is ſtrong and more of might,
for he on high doth dwell.
6 And look what promiſe he doth make his houſhold to defend:
For juſt and true they ſhall it take all times without an end.

Deus ultionum. Pſal. xciv. I. H.

O Lord, thou do'ſt revenge all wrong,
that office' longs to thee:
Sith vengeance doth to thee belong,
declare that all may ſee.
2 Set forth thy ſelf, for thou of right
the earth do'ſt judge and guide:
Reward the proud and men of might
according to their pride.

3 How long ſhall wicked men bear ſway with lifting up their voice?
How long ſhall wicked men, I ſay, thus triumph and rejoyce?
4 How long ſhall they with brags burſt out and proudly prate their fill?
Shall they rejoyce that be ſo ſtout,
whoſe works are ever ill?

5 Thy flock, O Lord, thine heritage they ſpoil and vex full ſore:
Againſt thy people they do rage
ſtill daily more and more.
6 The widows which are comfortleſs, and ſtrangers they deſtroy:
They ſlay the children fatherleſs, and none doth put them by.

7 And when they take theſe things in hand,
this talk they have of thee,
Can Jacobs God this underſtand?
tuſh no, he cannot ſee.
8 O folk unwiſe and people rude,
ſome knowledge now diſcern:
Ye fools among the multitude,
at length begin to learn.

9 The Lord which made the ear of man,
he needs of right muſt hear:
He made the eye, all things muſt then before his ſight appear.
10 The Lord doth all the world correct,
and make them underſtand:
Shall he not then your deeds detect?
how can ye ſcape his hand?

The Second part.

11 The Lord doth know the thoughts of man, his heart he ſeeth full plain:
The Lord, I ſay, mans thoughts doth ſcan, and findeth them but vain.
12 But, Lord, that man is happy ſure whom thou do'ſt keep in aw,
And through correction do'ſt procure to teach him in thy law.

13 Whereby he ſhall in quiet reſt
in time of trouble ſit:
When wicked men ſhall be ſuppreſt,
and fall into the pit.
14 For ſure the Lord will not refuſe his people for to take:
His heritage whom he did chooſe
he will no time forſake.

15 Until that judgment be decreed to juſtice to convert:
That all may follow her with ſpeed that are of upright heart.
16 But who upon my part ſhall ſtand
againſt the curſed train?
Or who ſhall rid me from their hand
that wicked works maintain?

17 Except the Lord had been mine aid, mine enemies to repel:
My ſoul and life had now been laid almoſt as low as hell.
18 When I did ſay my foot did ſlide,
I now am like to fall:
Thy goodneſs, Lord, did ſo provide to ſtay me up withall.

19 When with my ſelf I muſed much,
and could no comfort find:
Then, Lord, thy goodneſs did me touch,
and that did eaſe my mind.
20 Wilt thou inhaunt thy ſelf and draw with wicked men to ſit:
Which with pretence in ſtead of Law much miſchief do commit?

21 For they conſult againſt the life of righteous men and good:
And in their counſels they are rife to ſhed the guiltleſs bloud.
22 But yet the Lord he is to me
a ſtrong defence or lock:
He is my God, to him I flee,
he is my ſtrength and rock.

23 And he ſhall cauſe their miſchiefs all themſelves for to annoy:
And in their malice they ſhall fall,
our God ſhall them deſtroy.

Venite, exultemus. Pſal. xcv. I. H.

O Come let us lift up our voice,
and ſing unto the Lord:
In him our rock of health rejoyce
let us with one accord.
2 Yea, let us come before his face to give him thanks and praiſe:
In ſinging Pſalms unto his grace
let us be glad always.

3 For why? the Lord he is no doubt
a great and mighty God,
A King above all Gods throughout,
in all the world abroad:
4 The ſecrets of the earth ſo deep and corners of the land,
The tops of hills that are ſo ſteep,
he hath them in his hand.

5 The ſea and waters all are his,
for he the ſame hath wrought:
The earth and all that therein is his hand hath made of nought.
6 Come let us bowe, and praiſe the Lord,
before him let us fall:
And kneel to him with one accord,
the which hath made us all.

7 For why? he is the Lord our God,
for us he doth provide:
We are his flock, he doth us feed:
his ſheep, and he our guide.
8 To day if ye his voice will hear,
then harden not your heart:
As ye with grudging many a year
provok'd me in deſart.

9 Whereas your fathers tempted me,
my power for to prove:
My wondrous works when they did ſee,
yet ſtill they would me move.
10 Twice twenty years they did me grieve,
and I to them did ſay,
They err in heart, and not believe,
they have not known my way.

11 Wherefore I ſware, when that my wrath was kindled in my breaſt,
That they ſhould never tread the path to enter in my reſt.

Cantate Dom. Pſal. xcvj. I. H.

SIng ye with praiſe unto the Lord
new ſongs with joy and mirth:
Sing unto him with one accord,
all people on the earth.

2 Yea,

2 Yea, ſing unto the Lord, I ſay,
praiſe ye his Holy Name:
Declare and ſhew from day to day
ſalvation by the ſame.

3 Among the heathen eke declare his honour round about:
To ſhew his wonders do not ſpare
in all the world throughout.
4 For why? the Lord is much of might,
and worthy praiſe alway:
And he is to be dread of right above all gods, I ſay.

5 For all the gods of heathen folk are Idols that will fade:
But yet our God he is the Lord that hath the heavens made.
6 All praiſe and honour eke do dwell for ay before his face:
Both power and might likewiſe excel
within his holy place.

7 Aſcribe unto the Lord alway,
ye people of the world,
All might and worſhip eke, I ſay, aſcribe unto the Lord.
8 Aſcribe unto the Lord alſo
the glory of his name:
And eke into his courts do go with gifts unto the ſame.

The Second part.

9 Fall down and worſhip ye the Lord
within his temple bright:
Let all the people of the world
be fearful at his ſight.
10 Tell all the world, be not agaſt,
the Lord doth reign above:
Yea, he hath ſet the earth ſo faſt,
that it can never move:

11 And that it is the Lord alone that rules with princely might,
To judge the nations every one
with equity and right:
12 The heavens ſhall great joy begin,
the earth eke ſhall rejoyce:
The ſea with all that is therein
ſhall ſhout and make a noiſe.

13 The field ſhall joy, and every thing that ſpringeth on the earth:
The wood and every tree ſhall ſing with gladneſs and with mirth:
14 Before the preſence of the Lord,
and coming of his might:
When he ſhall juſtly judge the world,
and rule his folk with right.

Dominus regnavit. Pſal. xcvij. I. H.

THe Lord doth reign, whereat the earth may joy with pleaſant voice:
And eke the iſles with joyful mirth
may triumph and rejoyce.
2 Both clouds and darkneſs eke do ſwell,
and round about him beat:
Yea, right and juſtice ever dwell,
and bide about his ſeat.

3 Yea, fire and heat at once do run,
and go before his face:
Which ſhall his foes and enemies burn abroad in every place.

4 His lightnings eke full bright did blaze,
and to the world appear:
Whereat the earth did look and gaze with dread and deadly fear.

5 The hills like wax did melt in ſight and preſence of the Lord:
They fled before that rulers might,
which guideth all the world.
6 The heavens eke declare and ſhow his juſtice forth abroad,
That all the world may ſee and know
the glory of our God.

7 Confuſion ſure ſhall come to ſuch
as worſhip Idols vain:
And eke to thoſe that glory much dumb pictures to maintain.
8 For all the idols of the world, which they as gods do call,
Shall feel the power of the Lord:
and down to him ſhall fall.

9 With joy ſhall Zion hear this thing,
and Judah ſhall rejoyce:
For at thy judgments they ſhall ſing,
and make a pleaſant noiſe.
10 That thou, O Lord, art ſet on High in all the earth abroad:
And art exalted wondrouſly above each other God.

11 All ye that love the Lord do this,
hate all things that are ill:
For he doth keep the ſouls of his from ſuch as would them ſpill.
12 And light doth ſpring up to the juſt with pleaſure for his part:
Great joy with gladneſs, mirth and luſt,
to them of upright heart.

13 Ye righteous in the Lord rejoyce,
his holineſs proclaim:
Be thankful eke with heart and voice and mindful of the ſame.

Cantate Domino. Pſal. xcviij. I. H.

O Sing ye now unto the Lord
a new and pleaſant ſong:
For he hath wrought throughout the world his wonders great and ſtrong.
2 With his right hand full worthily
he doth his foes devour,
And get himſelf the victory with his own arm and power.

3 The Lord doth make his people know his ſaving health and might:
The Lord doth eke his juſtice ſhow,
in all the heathens ſight.
4 His grace and truth to Iſrael
in mind he doth record:
That all the earth hath ſeen right well
the goodneſs of the Lord.

5 Be glad in him with joyful voyce,
all people of the earth:
Give thanks to God, ſing and rejoyce to him with joy and mirth.
6 Upon the harp unto him ſing, give thanks to him with pſalms:
Rejoyce before the Lord our King with trumpets and with ſhalms.

7 Yea, let the ſea with all therein for joy both roar and ſwell:
The earth likewiſe let it begin,
with all that therein dwell.

8 And let the ſtouds rejoyce their fills,
and clap their hands apace:
And eke the mountains and the hills,
before the Lord his face.

9 For he ſhall come to judge and try
the world and every wight:
And rule the people mightily with juſtice and with right.

Dominus regnavit. Pſal. xcix. I. H.

THe Lord doth reign, although at it
the people rage full ſore:
Yea, he on cherubims doth ſit,
though all the world doth roar.
2 The Lord that doth in Zion dwell is high and wondrous great:
Above all folk he doth excel,
and he aloft is ſet.

3 Let all men praiſe thy mighty name, for it is fearful ſure:
And let them magnify the ſame,
that holy is and pure.
4 The princely power of our King doth love judgment and right:
Thou rightly ruleſt every thing in Jacob, through thy might.

5 To praiſe the Lord our God deviſe, all honour to him do:
Before his foot-ſtool worſhip him,
for he is holy too.
6 Moſes, Aaron, and Samuel,
as Prieſts on him did call,
When they did pray he heard them well,
and gave them anſwer all.

7 Within the cloud to them he ſpake, then did they labour ſtill
To keep ſuch laws as he did make,
and pointed them until.
8 O Lord our God, thou did'ſt them hear,
and anſwered'ſt them again:
Thy mercy did on them appear,
their deeds did'ſt not maintain.

9 O laud and praiſe our God and Lord within his holy hill:
For why? our God throughout the world is holy ever ſtill.

Jubilate Deo. Pſal. c. I. H.

ALl people that on earth do dwell,
ſing to the Lord with chearful voice.
2 Him ſerve with fear, his praiſe forth-tell,
come ye before him and rejoyce.

3 The Lord, ye know, is God indeed, without our aid he did us make:
We are his flock, he doth us feed;
and for his ſheep he doth us take.

4 O enter then his gates with praiſe, approach with joy his courts unto:
Praiſe, laud and bleſs his name always,
for it is ſeemly ſo to do.

5 For why? the Lord our God is good,
his mercy is for ever ſure:
His truth at all times firmly ſtood,
and ſhall from age to age indure.

Another of the ſame, by I. H.

IN God the Lord be glad and light, praiſe him throughout the earth:
2 Serve him, and come before his ſight with ſinging and with mirth.
3 Know that the Lord our God he is,
he did us make and keep,
Not we our ſelves: for we are his own flock, and paſture ſheep.

4 O go into his gates always,
give thanks within the ſame:
Within his courts ſet forth his praiſe,
and laud his holy name.
5 For why? the goodneſs of the Lord for evermore doth reign:
From age to age throughout the world his truth doth ſtill remain.

Miſericordiam. Pſal. cj. N.

I Mercy will and judgment ſing,
O Lord God, unto thee:
2 And wiſely do in perfect way,
until thou come to me.
And in the mid'ſt of my houſe walk
in pureneſs of my ſp'rit:
3 And I no kind of wicked thing will ſet before my ſight.

I hate their works that fall away,
it ſhall not cleave to me:
4 From me ſhall part the froward heart,
none evil will I ſee.
4 Him will I 'ſtroy that ſlandereth his neighbour privily:
The lofty heart I cannot bear,
nor him that looketh high.

6 Mine eyes ſhall be on them, within the land that faithful be:
In perfect way who walketh, ſhall be ſervant unto me.
7 I will no guilful perſon have within my houſe to dwell:
And in my preſence he ſhall not remain that lies doth tell.

8 Betimes I will deſtroy even all the wicked of the land:
That I may from Gods city cut the wicked workers hand.

Domine, exaudi. Pſal. cij. N.

O Hear my prayer, Lord, and let my cry come unto thee:
2 In time of trouble do not hide
thy face away from me.
3 Incline thine ear to me, make haſt to hear me when I call:
For as the ſmoke doth fade, ſo do my days conſume and fall.

4 And as an hearth my bones are burnt,
my heart is ſmitten dead,
And withers like the graſs, that I forget to eat my bread.
5 By reaſon of my groaning voice
my bones cleave to my ſkin:
6 As pelican in wilderneſs, ſuch caſe now am I in.

7 And as an owl in deſart is,
lo, I am ſuch an one:
I watch, and as a ſparrow on the houſe top am alone.
8 Lo, daily in reproachful wiſe
mine enemies do me ſcorn:
And they that do againſt me rage,
againſt me they have ſworn.

9 Surely with aſhes as with bread,
my hunger I have fill'd:
And mingled have my drink with tears that from mine eyes have ſtill'd.
10 Becauſe of thy diſpleaſure, Lord,
thy wrath and thy diſdain:
For thou haſt lifted me aloft,
and caſt me down again.

11 The days wherein I paſs my life,
are like the fleeting ſhade:
And I am withered like the graſs,
that ſoon away doth fade.
12 But thou, O Lord, for ever do'ſt remain in ſteady place:
And thy remembrance ever doth abide from race to race.

The Second part

13 Thou wilt ariſe, and mercy thou to Zion wilt extend:
The time of mercy, now the time
foreſet is come to end.
14 For even in the ſtones thereof
thy ſervants do delight:
And on the duſt thereof they have compaſſion in their ſp'rit.

15 Then ſhall the heathen people fear
the Lords Moſt Holy Name:
And all the kings on earth ſhall dread thy glory and thy fame.
16 Then when the Lord the Mighty God again ſhall Zion rear:
And then when he moſt nobly in his glory ſhall appear.

17 To prayer of the deſolate
when he himſelf ſhall bend:
When he ſhall not diſdain unto their prayers to attend.
18 This ſhall be written for the age
that after ſhall ſucceed:
The people yet uncreated
the Lords renown ſhall ſpread.

19 For he from his high ſanctuary hath looked down below:
And out of heaven hath the Lord beheld the earth alſo.
20 That of the mourning captive he might hear the woful cry:
And that he might deliver thoſe that damned are to die.

21 That they in Zion may declare
the Lords Moſt Holy Name:
And in Jeruſalem ſet forth
the praiſes of the ſame:
22 Then when the people of the land and kingdoms with accord Shall be aſſembled for to do.
their ſervice to the Lord.

The Third part.

23 My former force of ſtrength he hath abated in the way:
And ſhorter he hath cut my days;
thus I therefore did ſay, 24 My God, in midſt of all my days
now take me not away:
Thy years indure eternally,
from age to age for ay.

25 Thou the foundations of the earth before all times haſt laid:
And, Lord, the heavens are the work which thine own hands have made.
26 Yea, they ſhall periſh and decay,
but thou ſhalt tarry ſtill:
And they ſhall all in time wax old even as a garment will.

27 Thou as a garment ſhalt them change, and changed ſhall they be:
But thou do'ſt ſtill abide the ſame,
thy years do never flee.
28 The children of thy ſervants ſhall continually indure:
And in thy ſight their happy ſeed for ever ſhall ſtand ſure.

Benedic, anima. Pſal. ciij. T. S.

MY ſoul give land unto the Lord,
my ſpirit ſhall do the ſame:
And all the ſecrets of my heart,
praiſe ye his Holy Name.
2 Give thanks to God for all his gifts,
ſhew not thy ſelf unkind:
And ſuffer not his benefits to ſlip out of thy mind.

3 That gave thee pardon for thy faults,
and thee reſtor'd again,
For all thy weak and frail diſeaſe,
and heal'd thee of thy pain.
4 That did redeem thy life from death,
from which thou could'ſt not flee:
His mercy and compaſſion both he did extend to thee.

5 That fill'd with goodneſs thy deſire,
and did prolong thy youth:
Like as the eagle caſts her bill,
whereby her age renew'th.
6 The Lord with juſtice doth repay
all ſuch as be oppreſt:
So that their ſufferings and their wrongs,
are turned to the beſt.

7 His ways and his commandments to Moſes he did ſhow:
His counſels and his valiant acts
the Iſraelites did know.
8 The Lord is kind and merciful
when ſinners do him grieve:
The ſloweſt to conceive a wrath,
and readieſt to forgive.

9 He chides not us continually,
though we be full of ſtrife:
Nor keeps our faults in memory,
for all our ſinful life.
10 Nor yet according to our ſins
the Lord doth us regard:
Nor after our iniquities
he doth us not reward.

11 But as the ſpace is wondrous great
'twixt earth and heaven above:
So is his goodneſs much more large to them that do him love.
12 God doth remove our ſins from us,
and our offences all,
As far as is the ſun-riſing full diſtant from his fall.

The Second part.

13 And look what pity parents dear unto their children bear:

Like

Like pity beareth God to ſuch
as worſhip him in fear.
14 The Lord that made us know's our ſhape,
our mould, and faſhion juſt:
How weak and frail our nature is,
and how we be but duſt.

15 And how the time of mortal men is like the withering hay:
Or like the flower right fair in field,
that fades full ſoon away.
16 Whoſe gloſs and beauty ſtormy winds do utterly diſgrace:
And make that after their aſſaults
ſuch bloſſoms have no place.

17 But yet the goodneſs of the Lord with his ſhall ever ſtand:
Their childrens children ſhall receive his righteouſneſs at hand:
18 I mean, which keep his covenant with all their whole deſire:
And not forget to do the thing that he doth them require.

19 The heavens high are made the ſeat and foot-ſtool of the Lord:
And by his power imperial he governs all the world.
20 Ye angels which are great in power,
praiſe ye and bleſs the Lord:
Which to obey and do his will immediately accord.

21 Ye noble hoſts and miniſters, ceaſe not to laud him ſtill:
Which ready are to execute his pleaſure and his will.
22 Yea, all his works in every place,
praiſe ye his Holy Name:
My heart, my mind, and eke my ſoul,
praiſe ye alſo the ſame.

Benedic, anima mea. Pſal. civ. W. K.

MY ſoul praiſe the Lord,
ſpeak good of his name:
O Lord, our great God,
how do'ſt thou appear?
So paſſing in glory,
that great is thy fame!
Honour and majeſty
in thee ſhine moſt clear.

2 With light as a robe,
thou haſt thee beclad, Whereby all the earth
thy greatneſs may ſee:
The heavens in ſuch ſort
thou alſo haſt ſpread,
That it to a curtain compared may be.

3 His chamber-beams lie
in the clouds full ſure,
Which as his chariot,
are made him to bear:
And there with much ſwiftneſs
his courſe doth endure,
Upon the wings riding of winds in the air.

4 He maketh his ſpirits
as heraulds to go:
And lightnings to ſerve
we ſee alſo preſt:
His will to accompliſh
they run to and fro,
To ſave or conſume things,
as ſeemeth him beſt.

5 He groundeth the earth
ſo firmly and faſt,
That it once to move
none ſhall have ſuch power.
6 The deep a fair covering for it made thou haſt:
Which by his own nature
the hills would devour.

7 But at thy rebuke
the waters do flee:
And ſo give due place
thy word to obey.
At thy voice of thunder
ſo fearful they be,
That in their great raging
they haſte ſoon away.

8 The mountains full high they then up aſcend:
If thou do'ſt but ſpeak,
thy word they fulfil.
So likewiſe the valleys
moſt quickly deſcend,
Where thou them appointeſt remain they do ſtill.

9 Their bounds thou haſt ſet
how far they ſhall run:
So that in their rage
not that paſs they can:
For God hath appointed they ſhall not return
The earth to deſtroy more,
which made was for man.

The Second part.

10 He ſendeth the ſprings to ſtrong ſtreams or lakes, Which run do full ſwift
among the huge hills:
11 Where both the wild aſſes their thirſt oft-times ſlakes,
And beaſts of the mountains thereof drink their fills.

12 By theſe pleaſant ſprings of fountains full fair,
The fowls of the air
abide ſhall and dwell:
Who moved by nature
to hop here and there,
Among the green branches
their ſongs ſhall excel.

13 The mountains to moiſt
the clouds he doth uſe:
The earth with his works
is wholly repleat.
14 So as the brute cattel
he doth not refuſe:
But graſs doth provide them,
and herb for mans meat.

15 Yea, bread, wine, and oyl
he made for mans ſake,
His face to refreſh
and heart to make ſtrong.
16 The cedars of Leban
this great Lord did make:
Which trees he doth nouriſh that grow up ſo long:

17 In theſe may birds build and make there their neſts:
In fir-trees the ſtorks remain and abide.
18 The high hils are ſuccours for wild goats to reſt:
And eke the rocks ſtony
for conies to hide.

19 The moon then is ſet
her ſeaſons to run:
The days from the nights
thereby to diſcern.
And by the deſcending
alſo of the ſun,
The cold from heat alway thereby we do learn.

20 When darkneſs doth come by Gods will and power,
Then creep forth do all the beaſts of the wood.
21 The lions range roaring their prey to devour:
But yet it is thou, Lord,
which giveſt them food.

22 As ſoon as the ſun is up, they retire:
To couch in their dens
then are they full fain:
23 That man to his work may,
as right doth require,
Till night come and call him to take reſt again.

The Third part.

24 How ſundry, O Lord, are all thy works found!
With wiſdom full great
they are indeed wrought:
So that the whole world
of thy praiſe doth ſound:
And as for thy riches,
they paſs all mens thought.

25 So is the great ſea,
which large is and broad,
Where things that creep ſwarm,
and beaſts of each ſort.
26 There both mighty ſhips ſail,
and ſome lie at road:
The whale huge and monſtrous
there alſo doth ſport.

27 All things on thee wait, thou do'ſt them relieve:
And thou in due time
full well do'ſt them feed.
28 Now when it doth pleaſe thee
the ſame for to give,
They gather full gladly thoſe things which they need.

Thou openeſt thy hand,
and they find ſuch grace,
That they with good things are filled we ſee.
29 But ſore are they troubled
if thou turn thy face:
For if thou their breath take,
vile duſt then they be.

30 Again, when thy Spirit from thee doth proceed
All things to appoint,
and what ſhall enſue:
Then are they created
as thou haſt decreed:

And

And do'ſt by thy goodneſs
the dry earth renew.

31 The praiſe of the Lord
for ever ſhall laſt,
Who may in his works
by right well rejoyce.
32 His look can the earth make to tremble full faſt,
And likewiſe the mountains to ſmoke at his voice.

33 To this Lord and God
ſing will I always:
So long as I live,
my God praiſe will I.
34 Then am I moſt certain my words ſhall him pleaſe:
I will rejoyce in him,
to him will I cry.

35 The ſinners, O Lord, conſume in thine ire:
And eke the preverſe,
them root out with ſhame:
But as for my ſoul now,
let it ſtill deſire,
And ſay with the faithful,
praiſe ye the Lords name.

Confitemini Dom. Pſal. cv. N.

GIve praiſes unto God the Lord,
and call upon his name:
Among the people eke declare his works to ſpread his fame.
2 Sing ye unto the Lord, I ſay, and ſing unto him praiſe:
And talk of all his wondrous works that he hath wrought always.

3 In honour of his Holy Name
rejoyce with one accord:
And let the heart alſo rejoyce
of them that ſeek the Lord.
4 Seek ye the Lord, and ſeek the ſtrength of his eternal might:
And ſeek his face continually,
and preſence of his ſight.

5 The wondrous works that he hath done keep ſtill in mindful heart:
Ne let the judgments of his mouth out of your mind depart.
6 Ye that of faithful Abraham
his ſervant are the ſeed:
Ye his elect, the children that of Jacob do procced.

7 For he, he onely is, I ſay,
the mighty Lord our God:
And his moſt rightful judgments are through all the earth abroad.
8 His promiſe and his covenant which he hath made to his,
He hath remembred evermore to thouſands of degrees.

The Second part.

9 The covenant which he hath made with Abraham long ago,
And faithful oath which he hath ſworn to Iſaac alſo.
10 And did confirm the ſame for law,
that Jacob ſhould obey:
And for eternal covenant to Iſrael for ay.

11 When thus he ſaid, Lo, I to you all Canaan land will give,
The lot of your inheritance,
Wherein your ſeed ſhall live.
12 Although the number at that time did very ſmall appear:
Yea, very ſmall, and in the land
they then but ſtrangers were.

13 While yet they walkt from land to land without a ſure abode:
And while from ſundry kingdoms they did wander all abroad.
14 And wrong at no oppreſſours hands
he ſuffered them to take:
But even the great and mighty kings
reproved for their ſake.

15 And thus he ſaid, Touch ye not thoſe that mine anointed be:
Ne do the prophets any harm
that do pertain to me.
16 He call'd a dearth upon the land,
of bread he 'ſtroy'd the ſtore:
But he againſt the time of need had ſent a man before.

The Third part.

17 Even Joſeph which had once been ſold to live a ſlave in wo:
Whoſe feet they hurt in ſtocks, whoſe ſoul
the irons pierc'd alſo:
18 Until the time came when his cauſe was known apparently:
The mighty word of God the Lord
his faultleſs truth did try.

19 The king ſent and delivered him from priſon where he was:
20 The ruler of the people then did freely let him paſs:
21 And over all his houſe he made him lord to bear the ſway:
And of his ſubſtance made him have the rule and all the ſtay.

22 That he might to his will inſtruct
the princes of the land,
And wiſdoms lore his ancient men might cauſe to underſtand.
23 Then into the Egyptian land came Iſrael alſo:
And Jacob in the land of Ham
did live a ſtranger tho.

24 His people he exceedingly in number made to flow:
And over all their enemies
in ſtrength he made them grow.
25 Whoſe heart he turn'd, that they with hate his people did entreat:
And did his ſervants wrongfully abuſe with falſe deceit.

The Fourth part.

26 His faithful ſervant Moſes then,
and Aaron whom he choſe,
He did command to go to them,
his meſſage to diſcloſe.
27 The wondrous meſſage of his ſigns
among them he did ſhow:
And wonders in the land of Ham
then did they work alſo.

28 Darkneſs he ſent and made it dark in ſtead of brighter day:
And unto his commiſſion
they did not diſobey.

29 He turn'd their waters into blood,
he did their fiſhes ſlay:
30 Their land brought frogs even in the place where their king Pharaoh lay.

31 He ſpake, and at his voice there came great ſwarms of noiſom flies:
And all the quarters of the land were fill'd with crawling lice.
32 He gave them cold and ſtony-hail in ſtead of milder rain:
And fiery flames within their land
he ſent unto their pain.

33 He ſmote their vines and all their trees whereon their figs did grow:
And all the trees within their coaſts down did he overthrow.
34 He ſpake, then caterpillars did and graſhoppers abound:
35 Which ate the graſs in all their land,
and fruit of all their ground.

The Fifth part.

36 The firſt-begotten in their land
eke deadly did he ſmite:
Yea, the beginning and firſt-fruit of all their ſtrength and might.
37 With gold and ſilver he them brought from Egypt land to paſs:
And in the number of their tribes
no feeble one there was.

38 Egypt was glad and joyful then when they did thence depart:
For terrour and the fear of them was fall'n upon their heart.
39 To ſhroud them from the parching heat
a cloud he did diſplay:
And fire he ſent to give them light,
when night had hid the day.

40 They asked, and he cauſed quails to rain at their requeſt:
And fully with the bread of heaven their hunger he repreſt.
41 He opened the ſtony-rock,
and waters guſhed out:
And eke the dry and parched ground like rivers ran about.

42 For of his holy Covenant
ay mindful was he tho:
Which to his ſervant Abraham
he plighted long ago.
43 He brought his people forth with mirth,
and his elect with joy,
Out of the cruel land where they had liv'd in great annoy.

44 And of the heathen-men he gave to them the fruitful lands:
The labours of the people eke
they took into their hands.
45 That they his holy ſtatutes might obſerve for evermore,
And faithfully obey his Laws,
praiſe ye the Lord therefore.

Confitemini, Domino. Pſal. cvj. N.

PRaiſe ye the Lord, for he is good,
his mercy dures for ay:
2 Who can expreſs his noble acts, or all his praiſe diſplay?
3 They bleſſed are that judgment keep,
and juſtly do alway:
With favour of thy people, Lord,
remember me, I pray:

4 And

And with thy ſaving health, O Lord, vouchſafe to viſit me:
5 That I the great felicity of thine elect may ſee:
And with thy peoples joy I may a joyful mind poſſeſs:
And may with thine inheritance
a glorying heart expreſs.

6 Both we and eke our fathers all have ſinned every one:
We have committed wickedneſs,
and lewdly we have done.
7 The wonders great which thou, O Lord,
haſt done in Ægypt land,
Our fathers though they ſaw them all,
yet did not underſtand.

Nor they thy mercies multitude did keep in thankful mind:
But at the ſea, yea, the Red-ſea, rebelled moſt unkind.
8 Nevertheleſs he ſaved them
for honour of his name:
That he might make his power known,
and ſpread abroad his fame.

9 The Red-ſea he did then rebuke, and forthwith it was dri'd:
And as in wilderneſs, ſo through the deep he did them guide.
10 He ſav'd them from the cruel hand of their deſpightful fo,
And from the enemies hand he did deliver them alſo.

The Second part.

11 The waters their oppreſſors whelm'd, not one was left alive:
12 Then they believ'd his word, and praiſe in ſong they did him give.
13 But by and by unthankfully his works they clean forgat:
And for his counſel and his will,
they did neglect to wait:

14 But luſted in the wilderneſs with fond and greedy luſt:
And in the deſart tempted God,
the ſtay of all their truſt.
15 And then their wanton minds deſire
he ſuffered them to have:
But waſting leanneſs therewithal into their ſouls he gave.

16 Then when they lodged in their tents,
at Moſes they did grutch:
Aaron the holy of the Lord
ſo did they envy much.
17 Therefore the earth did open wide,
and Dathan did devour:
And all Abirams company
did cover in that hour.

18 In their aſſembly kindled was the hot conſuming fire:
And waſting flame did then burn up
the wicked in his ire.
19 Upon the hill of Horeb they an idol-calf did frame:
And there the molten image they did worſhip of the ſame.

20 Into the likeneſs of a calf which feedeth on the graſs:
Thus they their glory turn'd, and all their honour did deface.

21 And God their onely Saviour unkindly they forgot?
Which many great and mighty things in Ægypt land had wrought.

The Third part.

22 And in the land of Ham for them
moſt wondrous works had done:
And by the Red-ſea dreadful things performed long agone.
23 Therefore for their ſo ſhewing them
forgetful and unkind,
To bring deſtruction on them all
he purpos'd in his mind:

Had not his choſen Moſes ſtood
before him in the break,
To turn his wrath, leſt he on them with ſlaughter ſhould him wreak.
24 They did deſpiſe the pleaſant land that he behight to give:
Yea, and the words that he had ſpoke
they did no whit believe.

25 But in their tents with grudging heart
they wickedly repin'd,
Nor to the voice of God the Lord
they gave an hearkning mind.
26 Therefore againſt them lifted he his ſtrong revenging hand,
Them to deſtroy in wilderneſs
ere they ſhould ſee the land:

27 And to deſtroy their ſeed among the nations with his rod:
And through the countries of the world to ſcatter them abroad.
28 To Baal-peor then they did adjoyn themſelves alſo:
And ate the off'rings of the dead,
ſo they forſook him tho.

29 Thus with their own inventions his wrath they did provoke:
And in his ſore enkindled wrath
the plague upon them broke.
30 But Phineas ſtood up with zeal
the ſinners vile to ſlay:
And judgment he did execute,
and then the plague did ſtay.

The Fourth part.

31 It was imputed unto him
for righteouſneſs that day:
And from henceforth ſo counted is from race to race, I ſay.
32 At waters eke of Meribah
they did him angry make:
Yea, ſo far forth, that Moſes was then puniſht for their ſake:

33 Becauſe they vext his ſpirit ſo ſore, that in impatient heat
His lips ſpake unadviſedly, his fervour was ſo great.
34 Nor as the Lord commanded them,
they ſlew the people tho, 35 But were among the heathen mixt, and learn'd their works alſo.

36 And did their idols ſerve, which were their ruine and decay:
37 To fiends their ſons & daughters they did offer up and ſlay.
38 Yea, with unkindly murthring knife
the guiltleſs bloud they ſpilt:
Yea, their own ſons and daughters bloud without all cauſe of guilt.
Whom they to Canaan-idols then offered with wicked hand:
And ſo with bloud of innocents defiled was the land.
39 Thus were they ſtained with the works of their own filthy way:
And with their own inventions
a whoring they did ſtray.

40 Therefore againſt his people was the Lords wrath kindled ſore:
And ev'n his own inheritance
therefore he did abhor.
41 Into the hands of heathen men
he gave them for a prey,
And made their foes their Lords, whom they where forced to obey.

The Fifth part.

42 Yea, and their hateful enemies
oppreſt them in the land:
And they were humbly made to ſtoop
as ſubjects to their hand.
43 Full oftentime from thrall had he delivered them before:
But with their counſels they to wrath
provok'd him evermore.

Therefore they by their wickedneſs were brought full low to lie: 44 Yet when he ſaw them in diſtreſs,
he hearkened to their cry.
45 He call'd to mind his Covenant which he to them had ſwore:
And by his mercies multitude repented him therefore.

46 And favour he them made to find before the ſight of thoſe
That led them captive from their land, when erſt they were their foes.
47 Save us, O Lord, that art our God,
ſave us, O Lord, we pray:
And from among the heathen folk,
Lord, gather us away.

48 That we may ſpread the noble praiſe of thy moſt Holy Name:
That we may glory in thy praiſe,
and ſounding of thy fame.
49 The Lord the God of Iſrael
be bleſt for evermore:
Let all the people ſay, Amen.
Praiſe ye the Lord therefore.

Confitemini Dom. Pſal. cvij. W. K.

GIve thanks unto the Lord our God,
for gracious is he:
And that his mercy hath no end
all mortal men may ſee.
2 Such as the Lord redeemed hath with thanks ſhall praiſe his name:
And ſhew how they from foes were freed,
and how he wrought the ſame.

3 He gathered them forth of the lands that lay ſo far about:
From eaſt to weſt, from north to ſouth
his hand did find them out.
4 They wandred in the wilderneſs, and ſtrayed from the way,
And found no city where to dwell,
that ſerve might for their ſtay.

5 Whoſe thirſt and hunger was ſo great in theſe deſarts ſo void:
That faintneſs did them ſore aſſault,
and eke their ſouls annoy'd.

6 Then did they cry in their diſtreſs
unto the Lord for aid:
Who did remove their troublous ſtate,
according as they pray'd.

7 And by that way which was moſt right
he led them like a guide:
That they might to a city go,
and there alſo abide.
8 Let men therefore before the Lord
confeſs his goodneſs then:
And ſhew the wonders that he doth
before the ſons of men.

9 For he the empty ſoul ſuſtain'd, whom thirſt had made to faint:
The hungry ſoul with goodneſs fed,
and did them eke acquaint.
10 Such as do dwell in darkneſs deep,
where they on death do wait:
Faſt bound to taſt ſuch troublous ſtorms
as iron-chains do threat:

The Second part.

11 For that againſt the Lords own words
they ſought ſo to rebel:
Eſteeming light his counſels high,
which do ſo far excel.
12 But when he humbled them full low,
they then fell down with grief:
And none was found ſo much to help, whereby to get relief.

13 Then did they cry in their diſtreſs
unto the Lord for aid:
Who did remove their troublous ſtate,
according as they pray'd.
14 For he from darkneſs out them brought,
and from deaths dreadful ſhade:
Burſting with force the iron-bands which them before did lade:

15 Let men therefore before the Lord
confeſs his kindneſs then:
And ſhew the wonders that he doth
before the ſons of men.
16 For he threw down the gates of braſs,
and brake them with ſtrong hand;
The iron-bars he ſmote in two,
nothing could him withſtand.

17 The fooliſh folk great plagues do feel,
and cannot from them wend:
But heap on more to thoſe they have,
becauſe they do offend.
18 Their ſouls ſo much did loath all meat, that none they could abide:
Whereby death had them almoſt caught,
as they full truly tri'd.

19 Then did they cry in their diſtreſs
unto the Lord for aid:
Who did remove their troublous ſtate,
according as they pray'd.
20 For then he ſent to them his word, which health did ſoon reſtore:
And brought them from thoſe dangers deep wherein they were before.

The Third part.

21 Let men therefore before the Lord
confeſs his kindneſs then:
And ſhew the wonders that he doth
before the ſons of men.
22 And let them offer ſacrifice with thanks, and alſo fear:
And ſpeak of all his wondrous works with glad and joyful chear.

23 Such as in ſhips and brittle barks into the ſeas deſcend,
Their merchandiſe through fearful flouds
to compaſs and to end:
24 Thoſe men are forced to behold
the Lords works what they be:
And in the dangerous deep the ſame
moſt marvellous they ſee.

25 For at his word the ſtormy-wind
ariſeth in a rage,
And ſtirreth up the ſurges ſo,
that nought can them aſſwage.
26 Then are they lifted up ſo high,
the clouds they ſeem to gain:
And plunging down the depth until their ſouls conſume with pain.

27 And like a drunkard to and fro,
now here, now there they reel,
As men with fear of wit bereft,
or had of ſenſe no feel.
28 Then did they cry in their diſtreſs
unto the Lord for aid;
Who did remove their troublous ſtate,
according as they pray'd.

29 For with his word the Lord doth make the ſturdy ſtorms to ceaſe:
So that the great waves from their rage are brought to reſt and peace.
30 Then are men glad when reſt is come,
which they ſo much did crave:
And are by him to haven brought,
which they ſo fain would have.

The Fourth part.

31 Let men therefore before the Lord
confeſs his kindneſs then:
And ſhew the wonders that he doth
before the ſons of men.
32 Let them in preſence of the folk,
with praiſe extol his name:
And where the elders do convent,
there let them do the ſame.

33 For running flouds to dry deſarts
he doth oft change and turn:
And drieth up as it were duſt
the ſpringing well and bourn.
34 A fruitful land with pleaſures deckt full barren doth he make:
When on their ſins that dwell therein
he doth juſt vengeance take.

35 Again the wilderneſs full rude
he maketh fruit to bear:
With pleaſant ſprings of waters clear,
though none before were there:
36 Wherein ſuch hungry ſouls are ſet
as he doth freely chuſe:
That they a city may them build to dwell in for their uſe.

37 That they may ſow their pleaſant land,
and vineyards alſo plant,
To yield them fruits of ſuch increaſe,
as none may ſeem to want.
38 They multiply exceedingly,
the Lord doth bleſs them ſo:
Who doth alſo the bruit beaſts make by numbers great to grow.

39 But when the faithful are low brought by the oppreſſours ſtout,
And miniſh do through many plagues that compaſs them about:
40 Then doth he princes bring to ſhame which did them ſore oppreſs:
And likewiſe cauſed them to err within the wilderneſs.

41 But yet the poor he raiſeth up out of his troubles deep:
And oft-times doth their train augment,
much like a flock of ſheep.
42 The righteous ſhall behold this ſight,
and alſo much rejoyce:
Whereas the wicked and preverſe with grief ſhall ſtop their voice.

43 But who is wiſe that now full well
he may theſe things record?
For certainly ſuch ſhall perceive the kindneſs of the Lord.

Paratum cor. Pſal. cviij. I. H.

O God my heart prepared is,
and eke my tongue is ſo:
I will advance my voyce in ſong,
and giving thanks alſo.
2 Awake my viol and my harp ſweet melody to make:
And in the morning I my ſelf right early will awake.

3 By me among the people, Lord, ſtill praiſed ſhalt thou be:
And I among the heathen folk will ſing, O Lord, to thee.
4 Becauſe thy Mercy, Lord, is great
above the heavens high:
And eke thy Truth doth reach the clouds within the lofty ſky.

5 Above the ſtarry heavens high exalt thy ſelf, O God:
And, Lord, diſplay upon the earth thy glory all abroad.
6 That thy dearly beloved may be ſet at liberty:
Help, O my God, with thy right-hand,
and hearken unto me.

7 God in his holineſs hath ſpoke
wherefore my joys abound:
Shechem I will divide, and mete
the vale of Succoth-ground.
8 And Gilead ſhall be mine own Manaſſeh mine ſhall be:
My head-ſtrength, Ephraim; and law
ſhall Judah give for me.

9 Moab my waſh-pot, and my ſhoe on Edom will I throw:
Upon the land of Paleſtine
in triumph will I go.
10 Who ſhall into the City ſtrong be guide to conduct me?
Or how? by whom to Edom-land conveyed ſhall I be?

11 Is it not thou, O Lord, which late hadſt us forſaken quite?
And thou, O Lord, which with our hoſts did'ſt not go forth to fight?
12 Give us, O Lord, thy ſaving-aid
when troubles do aſſail:
For all the help of man is vain,
and can no whit avail.

13 Through God we ſhall do valiant acts,
and worthy of renown:

He

He ſhall ſubdue our enemies,
yea, he ſhall tread them down.

Deus, laudem tuam. Pſal. cix. N.

IN ſpeechleſs ſilence do not hold O God thy tongue always:
O God, even thou I ſay, that art
the God of all my praiſe.
2 The wicked and the guilful mouth on me diſcloſed be:
And they with falſe and lying tongues have ſpoken unto me.

3 They did beſet me round about with words of hateful ſpight:
Without all cauſe of my deſert
againſt me they did fight.
4 For my good will they were my foes:
but then gan I to pray:
5 My good with ill, my friendlineſs with hate they did repay.

6 Set thou the wicked over him,
to have the upper-hand:
At his right-hand eke ſuffer thou his hateful ſo to ſtand.
7 When he is judged, let him then condemned be therein:
And let the prayer that he makes be turned into ſin.

8 Few be his days, his charge alſo let thou another take:
9 His children let be fatherleſs, his wife a widow make.
10 Let his off-ſpring be vagabonds to beg and ſeek their bread:
Wandring out of the waſted place where erſt they have been fed.

11 Let covetous extortioners catch all his goods and ſtore:
And let the ſtranger ſpoil the fruit of all his toil before.
12 Let there be none to pity him, let there be none at all That on his children fatherleſs will let their mercy fall.

The Second part.

13 And ſo let his poſterity for ever be deſtroy'd:
Their name out-blotted in the age
that after ſhall ſucceed.
14 Let not his fathers wickedneſs from Gods remembrance fall:
And let not thou his mothers ſin be done away at all.

15 But in the preſence of the Lord
let them remain for ay:
That from the earth their memory
he may cut clean away.
16 Sith mercy he forgot to ſhew,
but did purſue with ſpite
The troubled man, and ſought to ſlay
the woful-hearted wight.

17 As he did curſing love, it ſhall
betide unto him ſo:
And as he did not bleſſing love,
it ſhall be far him fro.
18 As he with curſing clad himſelf, ſo it like water ſhall
Into his bowels, and like oyl into his bones befall.

19 As garment let it be to him
to cover him for ay:
And as a girdle wherewith he may girded be alway.
20 Lo, let the ſame be from the Lord
the guerdon of my ſo:
Yea, and of thoſe that evill ſpeak
againſt my ſoul alſo.

21 But thou, O Lord, which art my God, deal thou, I ſay, with me
After thy name, deliver me;
for good thy mercies be.
22 Becauſe in depth of great diſtreſs
I needy am and poor:
And eke within my pained breaſt
my heart is wounded ſore.

The Third part.

23 Even ſo do I depart away,
as doth declining ſhade:
And as the graſhopper, ſo I am ſhaken off and fade.
24 With faſting long from needful food
enfeebled are my knees:
And all her fatneſs hath my fleſh enforced been to leeſe.

25 And I alſo a vile reproach to them am made to be:
And they that did upon me look did ſhake their heads at me.
26 But thou, O Lord, that art my God, mine aid and ſuccour be:
According to thy mercy, Lord,
ſave and deliver me.

27 And they ſhall know thereby, that this Lord, is thy mighty hand:
And that Thou, Thou haſt done it, Lord,
ſo ſhall they underſtand.
28 Although they curſe with ſpite, yet thou ſhalt bleſs with loving voice:
They ſhall ariſe, and come to ſhame,
thy ſervant ſhall rejoyce.

29 Let them be clothed all with ſhame,
that enemies are to me:
And with confuſion as a cloke
eke covered let them be.
30 But greatly I will with my mouth give thanks unto the Lord:
And I among the multitude his praiſes will record.

31 For he with help at his right-hand will ſtand the poor man by,
To ſave him from the man that would condemn his ſoul to die.

Dixit Dominus. Pſal. cx. N.

THe Lord did ſay unto my Lord,
ſit thou on my right hand,
Till I have made thy foes a ſtool whereon thy feet ſhall ſtand.
2 The Lord ſhall out of Zion ſend
the ſcepter of thy might:
Amid thy mortal foes be thou
the ruler in their ſight.

3 And in the day on which thy reign and power they ſhall ſee:
Then hereby free-will-offerings ſhall
the people offer thee.
Yea, with an holy worſhipping
then ſhall they offer all:
Thy births-dew is the dew that doth from womb of morning fall.

4 The Lord hath ſworn, and never will repent what he doth ſay:
By th'order of Melchizedek
thou art a prieſt for ay.
5 The Lord thy God on thy right-hand that ſtandeth for thy ſtay, Shall wound for thee the ſtately kings upon his wrathful day.

6 The heathen he ſhall judge, and fill the place with bodies dead:
And over divers countrys ſhall
in ſunder ſmite the head.
7 And he ſhall drink out of the brook that runneth in the way:
Wherefore he ſhall lift up on high his royal head that day.

Confitebor tibi. Pſal. cxj. N.

WIth heart I do accord
To praiſe and laud the Lord,
In preſence of the juſt.
2 For great his works are found,
To ſearch them ſuch are bound
As do him love and truſt.
3 His works are glorious,
Alſo his righteouſneſs
It doth endure for ever.
4 His wondrous works he would
We ſtill remember ſhould,
His mercy faileth never.

5 Such as to him love bear,
A portion full fair
He hath up for them laid:
For this they ſhall well find,
He will them have in mind,
And keep them as he ſaid.
6 For he did not diſdain
His works to ſhew them plain,
By lightnings and by thunders:
When he the heathens land
Did give into their hand,
Where they beheld his wonders.

7 Of all his works enſu'th
Both judgment, right, and truth,
Whereto his ſtatutes tend;
8 They are decreed ſure
For ever to endure,
Which equity doth end.
Redemption he gave
His people for to ſave:
9 And hath alſo required,
His promiſe not to fail,
But always to prevail:
His Holy Name be feared.

10 Whoſo with heart full fain
True wiſdom would attain,
The Lord fear and obey:
Such as his Laws do keep Shall knowledge have full deep,
His praiſe ſhall laſt for ay.

Beatus vir. Pſal. cxij. W. K.

THe man is bleſt that God doth fear,
And that his Law doth love indeed:
2 His ſeed on earth God will uprear,
And bleſs ſuch as from him proceed:
3 His houſe with good he will fulfil,
His righteouſneſs indure ſhall ſtill.

4 Unto the righteous doth ariſe
In trouble joy, in darkneſs light:
Compaſſion is in his eyes,
And mercy always in his ſight:
5 Yea, pity moveth ſuch to lend,
He doth by judgment things expend.

6 And ſurely ſuch ſhall never fail,
For in remembrance had is he:
7 No tidings ill can make him quail,
Who in the Lord ſure hope doth ſee:
8 His heart is firm, his fear is paſt,
For he ſhall ſee his foes down-caſt.

9 He did well for the poor provide,
His righteouſneſs ſhall ſtill remain:
And his eſtate with praiſe abide,
Though that the wicked man diſdain;
10 Yea, gnaſh his teeth thereat ſhall he,
And ſo conſume his ſtate to ſee.

Laudate pueri. Pſal. cxiij. W. K.

YE children which do ſerve the Lord,
praiſe ye his name with one accord:
2 Yea, bleſſed be always his name,
3 Who from the riſing of the ſun,
Till it return where it begun,
is to be praiſed with great fame.
4 The Lord all people doth ſurmount,
As for his glory we may count,
Above the heavens high to be.
5 With God the Lord who may compare,
Whoſe dwellings in the heavens are?
Of ſuch great power and force is he.
6 He doth abaſe himſelf, we know,
Things to behold both here below,
And alſo in heaven above.
7 The needy out of duſt to draw,
And eke the poor which help none ſaw,
His onely mercy did him move.
8 And ſo him ſet in high degree
With princes of great dignity,
That rule his people with great fame.
9 The barren he doth make to bear,
And with great joy her fruit to rear:
Therefore praiſe ye his holy name.

In exitu Iſrael. Pſal. cxiv. W. W.

WHen Iſrael by Gods addreſs, from Pharaohs land was bent;
And Jacobs houſe the ſtrangers left,
and in the ſame train went:
2 In Judah God his glory ſhew'd,
his holineſs moſt bright:
So did the Iſraelites declare his kingdom, power and might.

3 The ſea it ſaw, and ſuddenly
as all amaz'd did flie:
The roaring ſtreams of Jordans-floud recoyled backwardly.
4 As rams afraid the mountains skipt, their ſtrength did them forſake;
And as the ſilly trembling lambs,
their tops did beat and ſhake.

5 What ail'd thee ſea, as all amaz'd, ſo ſuddenly to flie?
Ye rolling waves of Jordans floud,
why ran ye backwardly?
6 Why ſhook ye hills as rams afraid?
why did your ſtrength ſo ſhake?
Why did your tops, as trembling lambs,
for fear quiver and quake?

7 O earth, confeſs thy Sovereign Lord, and dread his mighty hand:
Before the face of Jacobs God, fear ye both ſea and land.
8 I mean the God, which from hard rocks doth cauſe main flouds appear:
And from the ſtony-flint doth cauſe
guſh out the fountains clear.

Non nobis, Domine. Pſal. cxv. N.

NOt unto us, Lord, not to us,
but to thy name give praiſe:
Both for thy mercy and thy truth that are in thee always.
2 Why ſhall the heathen ſcorners ſay,
where is their God become?
3 Our God in heaven is, and what he will, that hath he done.

4 Their idols ſilver are and gold, works of mens hands they be:
5 They have a mouth, and do not ſpeak,
and eyes, and do not ſee:
6 And they have ears joyn'd to their heads, and do not hear at all:
And noſes eke they formed have,
and do not ſmell withall:

7 And hands they have, and handle not;
and feet, and do not go:
A throat they have, yet through the ſame
they make no ſound to blow.
8 Thoſe that make them are like to them,
and thoſe whoſe truſt they be.
9 O Iſrael truſt in the Lord,
their help and ſhield is he.

10 O Aarons houſe truſt in the Lord,
their help and ſhield is he.
11 Truſt ye the Lord that fear the Lord,
their help and ſhield is he.
12 The Lord hath mindful been of us,
and will us bleſs alſo:
On Iſrael and on Aarons houſe
his bleſſings he will ſhow.

13 Them that be fearers of the Lord
the Lord will bleſs them all;
Even he will bleſs them every one,
the great and eke the ſmall.
14 To you, I ſay, the living Lord will multiply his grace,
To you, and to the children that ſhall follow of your race.

15 Ye are the bleſſed of the Lord,
even of the Lord, I ſay,
Which both the heavens and the earth hath made and ſet in ſtay.
16 The heavens, yea, the heavens high belong unto the Lord:
The earth unto the ſons of men
he gave of free-accord.

17 They that be dead do not with praiſe
ſet forth the Lords renown:
Nor any that into the place of ſilence do go down.
18 But we will praiſe the Lord our God from henceforth and for ay:
Sound ye the praiſes of the Lord,
praiſe ye the Lord I ſay.

Dilexi quoniam. Pſal. cxvj. N.

I Love the Lord, becauſe my voice,
and prayer heard hath he:
2 When in my days I call'd on him,
he bow'd his ear to me.
3 Even when the ſnares of cruel death about beſet me round:
When pains of hell me caught, and when I wo and ſorrow found.
4 Upon the name of God my Lord
then did I call, and ſay, Deliver thou my ſoul, O Lord,
I do thee humbly pray.
5 The Lord is very merciful, and juſt he is alſo:
And in our God compaſſion
doth plentifully flow.

6 The Lord in ſafety doth preſerve all thoſe that ſimple be;
I was in woful miſery,
and he delivered me.
7 And now my ſoul ſith thou art ſafe, return unto thy reſt:
For largely, lo, the Lord to thee
his bounty hath expreſt.

8 Becauſe thou haſt delivered my ſoul from deadly thrall:
My moiſtned eyes from mournful tears,
my ſliding feet from fall.
9 Before the Lord I in the land of life will walk therefore:
10 I did believe, therefore I ſpake, for I was troubled ſore.

The Second part.

11 I ſaid in my diſtreſs and fear, that all men liars be:
12 What ſhall I pay the Lord for all his benefits to me?
13 The wholeſom cup of ſaving health
I thankfully will take:
And on the Lords name I will call when I my prayer make.

14 I to the Lord will pay the vows
that I to him behight:
Yea, even at this preſent time
in all his peoples ſight.
15 Right dear and precious in his ſight
the Lord doth ay eſteem
The death of all his holy ones, what ever men do deem.

16 Thy ſervant, Lord, thy ſervant, lo,
I do my ſelf confeſs,
Son of thy hand-maid: thou haſt broke the bonds of my diſtreſs.
17 And I will offer up to thee
a ſacrifice of praiſe:
And I will call upon the name of God the Lord always.

18 I to the Lord will pay the vows
that I have him behight:
Yea, even at this preſent time
in all his peoples ſight.
19 Yea, in the courts of Gods own houſe, and in the mid'ſt of thee,
O thou Jeruſalem, I ſay, wherefore the Lord praiſe ye.

Laudate Dominum. Pſal. cxvij. N.

OAll ye nations of the world,
praiſe ye the Lord always:
And all ye people every where ſet forth his noble praiſe.
2 For great his kindneſs is to us,
his truth indures for ay:
Wherefore praiſe ye the Lord our God,
praiſe ye the Lord, I ſay.

Confitemini. Pſal. cxviij. N.

OGive ye thanks unto the Lord,
for gracious is he:

Becauſe

Becauſe his mercy doth indure for ever towards thee.
2 Let Iſrael confeſs and ſay,
his mercy dures for ay:
3 Now let the houſe of Aaron ſay,
his mercy dures for ay.

4 Let all that fear the Lord our God
even now confeſs and ſay,
The mercy of the Lord our God
indureth ſtill for ay.
5 In trouble and in heavineſs unto the Lord I cri'd:
Which lovingly heard me at large,
my ſuit is not deni'd.

6 The Lord himſelf is on my ſide,
I will not ſtand in doubt:
Nor fear what man can do to me,
when God ſtands me about.
7 The Lord doth take my part with them that help to ſuccour me:
Therefore I ſhall ſee my deſire upon mine enemy.

8 Better it is to truſt in God,
then in mans mortal ſeed:
9 Or to put confidence in kings,
or Princes in our need.
10 All nations have incloſed me,
and compaſſed me round:
But in the name of God ſhall I mine enemies confound.

11 They kept me in on every ſide,
they kept me in, I ſay:
But in the Lords moſt mighty name
I ſhall work their decay.
12 They came about me all like bees;
but yet in the Lords name
I quencht their thorns that were on fire, and will deſtroy the ſame.

The Second part

13 Thou haſt with force thruſt ſore at me that I indeed might fall:
But through the Lord I found ſuch help that they were vanquiſht all.
14 The Lord is my defence and ſtrength, my joy, my mirth, my ſong:
He is become for me indeed a Saviour moſt ſtrong.

15 The right hand of the Lord our God doth bring to paſs great things:
He cauſeth voyce of joy and health in righteous mens dwellings.
16 The right hand of the Lord doth bring moſt mighty things to paſs:
His hand hath the preheminence,
his force is as it was.

17 I ſhall not die, but ever live to utter and declare
The Lord his might & wondrous power,
his works and what they are.
18 The Lord himſelf hath chaſtened, and hath corrected me:
But hath not given me over yet to death as ye may ſee.

19 Set open unto me the gates of truth and righteouſneſs:
That I may enter into them
the Lords praiſe to expreſs.
20 This is the gate even of the Lord,
which ſhall not ſo be ſhut,
But good and righteous men alway ſhall enter into it.

The Third part.

21 I will give thanks to thee, O Lord,
becauſe thou haſt heard me:
And art become moſt lovingly
a Saviour unto me.
22 The ſtone which ere this time among the builders was refuſed,
Is now become the corner-ſtone,
and chiefly to be uſed.

23 This was the mighty work of God,
this was the Lords own fact:
And it is marvellous to behold with eyes that noble act.
24 This is the joyful day indeed which God himſelf hath wrought:
Let us be glad and joy therein in heart, in mind, in thought.

25 Now help us, Lord, and proſper us
we wiſh with one accord.
26 Bleſſed is he that comes to us in the name of the Lord.
27 God is the Lord that ſhews us light, bind ye therefore with cord
Your ſacrifice to the altar, and give thanks to the Lord.

28 Thou art my God, I will confeſs, and render thanks to thee:
Thou art my God, and I will praiſe thy mercy towards me.
29 O give ye thanks unto the Lord,
for gracious is he:
Becauſe his mercy doth indure
for ever towards me.

Beati immaculati. Pſal. cxix. W. W.

ALEPH.

BLeſſed are they that perfect are,
and pure in mind and heart:
Whoſe lives and converſations from Gods laws never ſtart.
2 Bleſſed are they that give themſelves his ſtatutes to obſerve:
Seeking the Lord with all their heart,
and never from him ſwerve.

3 Doubtleſs ſuch men go not aſtray,
nor do no wicked thing:
Which ſtedfaſtly walk in his way without any wandring.
4 It is thy will and commandment, that with attentive heed
Thy noble and divine precepts
we learn and keep indeed.

5 O would to God it might thee pleaſe
my ways ſo to addreſs,
That I might both in heart and voyce
thy laws keep and confeſs!
6 So ſhould no ſhame my life attaint, whil'ſt I thus ſet mine eyes,
And bend my mind always to muſe
on thy ſacred decrees.

7 Then will I praiſe with upright heart,
and magnify thy name,
When I ſhall learn thy judgments juſt,
and likewiſe prove the ſame.
8 And wholly will I give my ſelf to keep thy laws moſt right:
Forſake me not for ever, Lord,
but ſhew thy grace and might.

BETH. The Second part.

9 By what means may a young man beſt his life learn to amend?
If that he mark and keep thy word,
and therein his time ſpend.
10 Unfeignedly I have thee ſought, and thus ſeeking abide:
O never ſuffer me, O Lord,
from thy precepts to ſlide.

11 Within my heart & ſecret thoughts
thy words I have hid ſtill:
That I might not at any time offend thy godly will.
12 We magnify thy name, O Lord,
and praiſe thee evermore:
Thy ſtatutes of moſt worthy fame,
O Lord, teach me therefore.

13 My lips have never cea'ſt to preach and publiſh day and night,
The judgments all which did proceed from thy mouth full of might.
14 Thy teſtimonies and thy ways
pleaſe me no leſs indeed,
Then all the treaſures of the earth,
which worldings make their meed.

15 Of thy precepts I will ſtill muſe, and thereto frame my talk:
As at a mark, ſo will I aim thy ways how I may walk.
16 My onely joy ſhall be ſo fixt,
and on thy laws ſo ſet:
That nothing can me ſo far blind,
that I thy words forget.

GIMEL. The Third part.

17 Grant to thy ſervant now ſuch grace
as may my life prolong:
Thy holy word then will I keep both in my heart and tongue.
18 Mine eyes which were dim and ſhut up,
ſo open and make bright:
That of thy law and marvellous works
I may have the clear ſight:

19 I am a ſtranger in this earth,
wandring now here, now there:
Thy word therefore to me diſcloſe
my foot-ſteps for to clear.
20 My ſoul is raviſh't with deſire,
and never is at reſt:
But ſeeks to know thy judgments high,
and what may pleaſe thee beſt.

21 The proud men and malicious thou haſt deſtroy'd each one:
And curſed are ſuch as do not thy heſts attend upon.
22 Lord, turn from me rebuke and ſhame which wicked men conſpire:
For I have kept thy covenants with zeal as hot as fire.

23 The princes great in council ſat,
and did againſt me ſpeak:
But then thy ſervant thought how he thy ſtatutes might not break.
24 For why? thy cov'nants are my joy,
and my hearts great ſolace:
They ſerve in ſtead of counſellours,
my matters for to paſs.

DALETH. The Fourth part.

25 I am, alaſs, as brought to grave,
and almoſt turn'd to duſt:

Reſtore

Reſtore therefore my life again,
as thy promiſe is juſt.
26 My ways when I acknowledged, with mercy thou did'ſt hear:
Hear now eftſoon, and me inſtruct thy laws to love and fear.

27 Teach me once throughly for to know thy precepts and thy lore:
Thy works then will I meditate,
and lay them up in ſtore.
28 My ſoul I feel ſo ſore oppreſt, that it melteth for grief:
According to thy word therefore haſte, Lord, to ſend relief.

29 From lying and deceitful lips
let thy grace me defend:
And that I may learn thee to love,
thy holy law me ſend.
30 The way of truth both ſtreight and ſure
I have choſen and found:
I ſet thy judgments me before,
which keep me ſafe and ſound.

31 Since then, O Lord, I forc'd my ſelf thy covenants to imbrace:
Let me therefore have no rebuke,
nor check in any caſe:
32 Then will I run with joyful chear where thy word doth me call:
When thou haſt ſet my heart at large,
and rid me out of thrall.

HE. The Fifth part.

33 Inſtruct me, Lord, in the right trade of thy ſtatutes divine:
And it to keep even to the end
my heart will I incline.
34 Grant me the knowledge of thy law,
and I ſhall it obey:
With heart and mind and all my might
I will it keep, I ſay.

35 In the right paths of thy precepts guide me, Lord, I require:
None other pleaſure do I wiſh,
nor greater thing deſire.
36 Incline my heart thy laws to keep,
and covenants to embrace:
And from all filthy avarice,
Lord, ſhield me with thy grace.

37 From vain deſires and worldly luſts turn back mine eyes and ſight:
Give me the ſpirit of life and power
to walk thy ways aright.
38 Confirm thy gracious promiſe, Lord, which thou haſt made to me,
Which am thy ſervant, and do love and fear nothing but thee.

39 Reproach and ſhame which I ſo fear,
from me, O Lord, expel:
For thou do'ſt judge with equity,
and therein do'ſt excel.
40 Behold, my hearts deſire is bent thy laws to keep for ay:
Lord, ſtrengthen me ſo with thy grace that it perform I may.

VAU. The Sixth part.

41 Thy mercies great and manifold let me obtain, O Lord:
Thy ſaving health let me enjoy
according to thy word.
42 So ſhall I ſtop the ſlandrous mouths of lewd men and unjuſt:
For in thy faithful promiſes ſtands my comfort and truſt.

43 The word of truth within my mouth
let ever ſtill be preſt:
For in thy judgments wonderful my hope doth ſtand and reſt.
44 And whil'ſt that breath within my breaſt doth natural life preſerve:
Yea, till this world ſhall be diſſolv'd,
thy law will I obſerve.

45 So walk will I as ſet at large,
and made free from all dread:
Becauſe I ſought how for to keep thy precepts and thy read.
46 Thy noble acts I will deſcribe, as things of moſt great fame:
Even before kings I will them blaze,
and ſhrink no whit for ſhame.

47 I will rejoyce them to obey thy worthy heſts and will:
Which evermore I have lov'd beſt,
and ſo will love them ſtill.
48 My hands I will lift to thy laws which I have dearly ſought:
And practice thy commandments in will, in deed, in thought.

ZAIN. The Seventh part.

49 Thy promiſe which thou mad'ſt to me
thy ſervant, Lord, remember:
For therein do I put my truſt and confidence for ever.
50 It is my comfort and my joy
when troubles me aſſail:
For were my life not by thy word,
my life would ſoon me fail.

51 The proud and ſuch as God contemn
ſtill made of me a ſcorn:
Yet would I not thy law forſake,
as he that were forlorn:
52 But call'd to mind, Lord, thy great work ſhew'd to our fathers old:
Whereby I felt the joy ſurmount
my grief an hundred-fold.

53 But yet, alaſs, for fear I quake, ſeeing how wicked men
Thy law forſook, and did procure thy judgments upon them.
54 And as for me, I fram'd my ſongs thy ſtatutes to exalt,
When I among the ſtrangers dwelt,
and thoughts 'gan me aſſault.

55 I thought upon thy name, O Lord,
by night when others ſleep:
As for thy law I alſo kept,
and ever will it keep.
56 This grace I did obtain, becauſe thy covenants ſweet and dear
I did embrace, and alſo keep with reverence and with fear.

HETH. The Eighth part.

57 O God, which art my part and lot,
my comfort and my ſtay,
I have decreed and promiſed
thy laws to keep alway.
58 Mine earneſt heart did humbly ſue
in preſence of thy face:
As thou therefore haſt promiſed,
Lord, grant me of thy grace.

59 My life I have examined, and tri'd my ſecret heart:
Which to thy ſtatutes cauſed me
my feet ſtreight to convert.
60 I did not ſtay nor linger long,
as they that ſlothful are:
But haſtily thy laws to keep
I did my ſelf prepare.

61 The cruel bands of wicked men have made of me their prey:
Yet would I not thy law forget,
nor from thee go aſtray.
62 Thy righteous judgments towards me
ſo great are and ſo high:
That even at midnight will I riſe
thy name to magnify.

63 Companion am I to all them which fear thee in their heart:
And never will for love nor dread from thy commandments ſtart.
64 Thy mercies, Lord, moſt plenteouſly do all the world fulfil:
O teach me how I may obey thy ſtatutes and thy will.

TETH. The Ninth part.

65 According to thy promiſe, Lord, ſo haſt thou with me dealt:
For of thy grace in ſundry ſorts have I thy ſervant felt.
66 Teach me to judge always aright,
and give me knowledge ſure:
For certainly believe I do that thy precepts are pure.

67 Ere thou did'ſt touch me with thy rod,
I er'd and went aſtray:
But now I keep thy holy word,
and make it all my ſtay.
68 Thou art both good and gracious,
and giv'ſt moſt liberally:
Thine ordinances how to keep,
therefore, O Lord, teach me.

69 The proud and wicked men have forg'd
againſt me many a lie:
Yet thy commandments ſtill obſerve with all my heart will I.
70 Their hearts are ſwoln with worldly wealth,
as greaſe ſo are they fat:
But in thy law do I delight,
and nothing ſeek but that.

71 O happy time, may I well ſay,
when thou did'ſt me correct:
For as a guide to learn thy laws thy rod did me direct.
72 So that to me thy word and law is dearer manifold
Then thouſands great of ſilver and gold, or ought that can be told.

JOD. The Tenth part.

73 Seeing thy hands have made me, Lord,
to be thy creature:
Grant knowledge likewiſe how to learn to put thy laws in ure.
74 So they that fear thee ſhall rejoyce
when ever they me ſee:
Becauſe I have learn'd by thy word to put my truſt in thee.

75 When with thy rods the world is plagu'd
I know the cauſe is juſt:

So when thou do'ſt correct me, Lord,
the cauſe juſt needs be muſt.
76 Now of thy goodneſs I thee pray
ſome confort to me ſend:
As thou to me haſt promiſed,
ſo from all ill me ſhend.

77 Thy tender mercies pour on me,
and I ſhall ſurely live:
For joy and conſolation both thy law to me doth give.
78 Confound the proud, whoſe falſe pretence is me for to deſtroy:
But as for me thy heſts to know
I will my ſelf employ.

79 Whoſo with reverence do thee fear,
to me let them retire:
And ſuch as do thy covenants know,
and them alone deſire.
80 My heart without all wavering
let on thy laws be bent:
That no confuſion come to me
whereby I ſhould be ſhent.

CAPH. The xj. part.

81 My ſoul doth faint, and ceaſeth not thy ſaving health to crave:
And for thy words-ſake ſtill I truſt
my hearts deſire to have.
82 Mine eyes do fail with looking for thy word, and thus I ſay, Oh when wilt thou me comfort, Lord?
why do'ſt thou thus delay?

83 As a skin-bottle in the ſmoke,
ſo am I parcht and dri'd:
Yet will I not out of my heart let thy commandments ſlide.
84 Alaſs, how long ſhall I yet live
before I ſee the hour,
That on my foes which me torment thy vengeance thou wilt pour?

85 Preſumptuous men have digged pits, thinking to make me ſure:
Thus contrary againſt thy law,
my hurt they do procure.
86 But thy commandments are all true,
and cauſleſs they me grieve:
To thee therefore I do complain, that thou might'ſt me relieve.

87 Almoſt they had me clean deſtroy'd, and brought me quite to ground:
Yet by thy ſtatutes I abode,
and therein ſuccour found.
88 Reſtore me, Lord, again to life,
for thy mercies excel:
And ſo ſhall I thy covenants keep till death my life expel.

LAMED. The xij. part.

89 In heaven, Lord, where do'ſt thou dwell, thy word is ſtabliſht ſure:
And ſhall for all eternity
faſt graven there indure.
90 From age to age thy truth abides,
as doth the earth witneſs:
Whoſe ground-work thou haſt laid ſo ſure
as no tongue can expreſs.

91 Even to this day we may well ſee
how all things perſevere
According to thine ordinance, for all things thee do fear.

92 Had it not been that in thy law
my ſoul had comfort ſought,
Long time ere now in my diſtreſs
I had been brought to nought.

93 Therefore will I thy precepts ay
in memory keep faſt:
By them thou haſt my life reſtor'd
when I was at laſt caſt.
94 No wight to me can title make for I am onely thine:
Save me therefore, for to thy laws mine ears and heart incline.

95 The wicked men do ſeek my bane, and thereto lie in wait?
But I the while conſidered thy noble works and great.
96 I ſee nothing in this wide world at length which hath not end:
But thy commandments and thy word beyond all end extend.

MEM. The xiij. part.

97 What great deſire and fervent love do I bear to thy law!
All the day long I meditate on it with reverent aw.
98 Thy word hath taught me far to paſs
my foes in policy:
For ſtill I hold it as a thing of moſt excellency.

99 My teachers which did me inſtruct,
in knowledge I excel:
Becauſe I do thy covenants keep,
and them to others tell.
100 In wiſdom I do paſs alſo
the ancient men indeed:
And all becauſe to keep thy laws
I held it ay beſt reed.

101 My feet I have refrained eke from every evil way:
Becauſe that I continually thy word might keep, I ſay.
102 I have not ſwerv'd from thy judgments,
nor yet ſhrunk any dell:
For why? Thou haſt me taught thereby to live godly and well.

103 O Lord, how ſweet unto my taſt find I thy words alway?
Doubtleſs no hony in my mouth feel ought ſo ſweet I may.
104 Thy laws have me ſuch wiſdom learn'd, that utterly I hate
All wicked and ungodly ways, in every kind or rate.

NUN. The xiv. part.

105 Even as a lantern to my feet,
ſo doth thy word ſhine bright:
And to my paths where ere I go,
it is a flaming light.
106 I have both ſworn, and will perform
moſt certainly doubtleſs,
That I will keep thy judgments juſt,
and them in life expreſs.

107 Affliction hath me ſore oppreſt, and brought me to deaths door:
O Lord, as thou haſt promiſed,
ſo me to life reſtore.
108 The offerings which with heart & voice moſt frankly I thee give Accept, and teach me how I may after thy judgments live.

109 My ſoul is ay ſo in my hand,
that dangers me aſſail:
Yet do I not thy law forget,
nor it to keep will fail.
110 Although the wicked laid their nets to catch me at a bay,
Yet did I not from thy precepts
once ſwerve or go aſtray.

111 Thy Law I have ſo claim'd alway
as mine own heritage:
And why? for therein I delight,
and ſet my whole courage.
112 For evermore I have been bent thy ſtatutes to fulfil:
Even ſo likewiſe unto the end
I will continue ſtill.

SAMECH. The xv. part.

113 The crafty thoughts & double hearts
I do always deteſt:
But as for thy Law and Precepts,
I love them ever beſt.
114 Thou art my hid and ſecret place;
my ſhield of ſtrong defence:
Therefore have I thy promiſes look'd for with patience.

115 Go to therefore, ye wicked men, depart from me anon:
For the commandments will I keep
Of God my Lord alone.
116 As thou haſt promis'd, ſo perform, that death me not aſſail:
Nor let my hope abuſe me ſo,
that through diſtruſt I quail.

117 Uphold me, and I ſhall be ſafe,
for ought they do or ſay:
And in thy ſtatutes pleaſure take will I both night and day.
118 Thou haſt trod ſuch under thy feet
as do thy ſtatutes break:
For nought avails their ſubtilty,
their counſel is but weak.

119 Like droſs thou caſt'ſt the wicked out where ere they go or dwell:
Therefore can I as thy ſtatutes love nothing half ſo well.
120 My fleſh, alaſs, is taken with fear,
as though it were benum'd:
For when I ſee thy judgments ſtreight,
I am as one aſton'd.

AIN. The xvj. part.

121 I do the thing that lawful is,
and give to all men right:
Reſign me not to them that would oppreſs me with their might.
122 But for thy ſervant ſurety be in that thing that is good:
That proud men give me not the foil,
which rage as they were wood.

123 Mine eyes with waiting are now blind,
thy health ſo much I crave:
And eke thy righteous promiſe, Lord, whereby thou wilt me ſave.
124 Entreat thy ſervant lovingly, and favour to him ſhow:
Thy ſtatutes of moſt excellency teach me alſo to know.

125 Thy humble ſervant, Lord, I am,
grant me to underſtand,
How by thy ſtatutes I may know
beſt what to take in hand.
126 It is now time, Lord, to begin,
for truth is quite decai'd:
Thy law likewiſe they have tranſgreſt, and none againſt them ſaid.

127 This is the cauſe wherefore I love thy laws better then gold,
Or jewels fine which are eſteem'd moſt coſtly to be ſold.
128 I thought thy precepts all moſt juſt,
and ſo them laid in ſtore:
All crafty and malicious ways
I do abhor therefore.

PE. The xvij. part.

129 Thy covenants are moſt wonderful, and full of things profound:
My ſoul therefore doth keep them ſure,
when they are tri'd and found.
130 When men firſt enter into thy word
they find a light moſt clear:
And very idiots underſtand
when they it read or hear.

131 For joy I have both gap'd and breath'd to know thy commandment:
That I might guide my ſelf thereby,
I fought what thing it meant.
132 With mercy and compaſſion, Lord, behold me from above,
As thou art wont to behold ſuch
as thy name fear and love.

133 Direct my foot-ſteps by thy word,
that I thy will may know:
And never let iniquity
thy ſervant overthrow.
134 From ſlandrous tongues and deadly harms
preſerve and keep me ſure:
Thy precepts then will I obſerve, and put them eke in ure.

135 Thy countenance which doth ſurmount
the ſun in his bright hue, Let ſhine on me, and by thy law teach me what to eſchew.
136 Out of mine eyes great flouds guſh out of dreary tears that fall,
When I behold how wicked men thy laws keep not at all.

TZADI. The xviij. part.

137 In every point, Lord, thou art juſt,
the wicked though they grudge:
And when thou do'ſt ſentence pronounce,
thou art a righteous judge.
138 To render right, and flee from guile, are two chief points moſt high:
And ſuch as thou haſt in thy law commanded us ſtraitly.

139 With zeal and wrath I am conſum'd, and even pin'd away,
To ſee my foes thy word forget,
for ought that I do may.
140 So pure and perfect is thy word,
as any heart can deem:
And I thy ſevant nothing more do love or yet eſteem.

141 And though I be nothing ſet by,
as one of baſe degree:
Yet do I not thy laws forget,
nor ſhrink away from thee.

142 Thy righteouſneſs, Lord, is moſt juſt,
for ever to indure:
Alſo thy law is truth it ſelf,
moſt conſtant and moſt pure.

143 Trouble and grief hath ſeiz'd on me,
and brought me wondrous low:
Yet do I ſtill of thy precepts delight to hear and know.
144 The righteouſneſs of thy judgments
doth laſt for evermore:
Then teach them me, for even in them
my life lies up in ſtore.

KOPH. The xix. part.

145 With fervent heart I call'd and cry'd,
now anſwer me, O Lord:
That thy commandments to obſerve
I may fully accord.
146 To thee, my God, I make my ſuit with moſt humble requeſts:
Save me therefore, and I will keep thy precepts and thy heſts.

147 To thee I cry even in the morn before the day wax light:
Becauſe that I have in thy word
my confidence whole plight.
148 Mine eyes prevent the watch by night,
and ere they call I wake:
That by deviſing on thy word
I might ſome comfort take.

149 Incline thine ears to hear my voice, and pity on me take:
As thou waſt wont ſo judge me, Lord,
leſt life ſhould me forſake.
150 My foes draw near, and do procure my death maliciouſly,
Which from thy law are far gone back,
and ſtray'd from it lewdly.

151 Therefore, O Lord, approach thou near,
for need doth ſo require:
For all thy precepts true they are,
then help I thee deſire.
152 But thy commandments have I learn'd not now, but long ago,
That they remain for evermore,
thou haſt them grounded ſo.

RESH. The xx. part.

153 My trouble and affliction
conſider and behold,
Deliver me, for of thy law
I ever take faſt hold.
154 Defend my good and righteous cauſe, with ſpeed ſome ſuccour ſend:
From death as thou haſt promiſed,
Lord keep me and defend.

155 As for the wicked, far they are from having health and grace:
Whereby they might thy ſtatutes know they enter not the trace.
156 Great are thy mercies, Lord, I grant, what tongue can them attain?
And as thou haſt me judg'd ere now,
ſo let me life obtain.

157 Though many men did trouble me,
and perſecute me ſore:
Yet from thy laws I never ſhrunk, nor went awry therefore.
158 And truth it is, for grief I die
when I theſe traitours ſee; Becauſe they keep no whit thy word,
nor yet ſeek to know thee.

159 Behold, for I do love thy laws with heart moſt glad and fain:
As thou art good and gracious, Lord,
reſtore my life again.
160 What thy word doth decree muſt be,
and ſo it hath been ever:
Thy righteous judgments are alſo moſt true and decay never.

SCHIN. The xxj. part.

161 Princes have ſought by cruelty
cauſleſs to make me crouch:
But all in vain, for of thy word
the fear did my heart touch:
162 And certainly even of thy word
I was more merry and glad,
Then he that of rich ſpoils and prey great ſtore and plenty had.

163 As for all lies and falſities,
I hate moſt and deteſt:
For why? thy holy law do I above all things love beſt.
164 Seven times a day I praiſe the Lord, ſinging with heart and voice:
Thy righteous acts and wonderful
ſo cauſe me to rejoyce.

165 Great peace & reſt ſhall all ſuch have as do thy ſtatutes love:
No danger ſhall their quiet ſtate empair or once remove.
166 My onely health and comfort, Lord,
I look for at thy hand:
And therefore have I done thoſe things which thou did'ſt me command.

167 Thy laws have been mine exerciſe, which my ſoul moſt deſir'd:
So much to them my love was bent,
that nought elſe I requir'd.
168 Thy ſtatutes and commandments
I kept, thou know'ſt, aright:
For all the things that I have done are preſent in thy ſight.

TAU. The xxij. part.

169 O Lord, let my complaint and cry before thy face appear:
And as thou haſt me promiſe made,
ſo teach me thee to fear.
170 Mine humble ſupplication toward thee let find acceſs:
And grant me, Lord, deliverance,
for ſo is thy promiſe.

171 Then ſhall my lips thy praiſes ſpeak
after moſt ample ſort:
When thou thy ſtatutes haſt me taught,
wherein ſtands my comfort.
172 My tongue ſhall ſing & preach thy word,
and on this wiſe ſay ſhall, Gods famous acts and noble laws are juſt and perfect all.

173 Stretch out thy hand, I thee beſeech, and ſpeedily me ſave:
For thy commandments to obſerve
choſen, O Lord, I have.
174 Of thee alone, Lord, I crave health,
for other I know none:
And in thy law and nothing elſe
I do delight alone.

175 Grant me therefore long days to live
thy name to magnify:
And of thy judgments merciful let me the favour try.

176 For

176 For I was loſt and went aſtray much like a wandring ſheep:
Oh ſeek me, for I have not fail'd thy commandments to keep.

Ad Dominum. Pſal. cxx. T. S.

IN trouble and in thrall Unto the Lord I call,
and he doth me comfort.
2 Deliver me, I ſay,
From lyars lips alway,
And tongues of falſe report.

3 What vantage, or what thing
Get'ſt thou thus for to ſting,
Thou falſe and flattering liar?
4 Thy tongue doth hurt I ween,
No leſs then arrows keen,
Or hot conſuming fire.

5 Alaſs, too long I ſlack
Within theſe tents ſo black,
Which Kedars are by name,
By whom the flock elect
And all of Iſaac's ſect
Are put to open ſhame.

6 With them that peace did hate
I came a peace to make
And ſet a quiet life:
But when my tale was told,
Cauſleſs I was control'd
By them that would have ſtrife.

I Lift mine eyes to Zion hill,
From whence I do attend
That ſuccour God me ſend.
2 The mighty God me ſuccour will,
Which heaven and earth framed
And all things therein named.

3 Thy foot from ſlip he will preſerve,
And will thee ſafely keep,
For he will never ſleep.
4 Lo he that doth Iſrael conſerve
No ſleep at all can him catch,
But his eyes ſhall ever watch.

5 The Lord is thy warrant alway,
The Lord eke doth thee cover
As at thy right hand ever:
6 The ſun ſhall not thee parch by day,
Nor the moon not half ſo bright ſhall with cold thee hurt by night

7 The Lord will keep thee from diſtreſs,
And will thy life ſure ſave:
And thou ſhalt alſo have 8 In all thy buſineſs good ſucceſs:
Whereever thou goeſt in or out,
God will thy things bring about.

I Did in heart rejoyce
To hear the peoples voice,
In offering ſo willingly:
For let us up, ſay they,
And in the Lords houſe pray:
Thus ſpake the folk full lovingly.

2 Our feet that wandred wide
Shall in thy gates abide,
O thou Jeruſalem full fair:
3 Which art ſo ſeemly ſet,
Much like a city neat,
the like whereof is not elſewhere.

4 The tribes with one accord,
The tribes of God the Lord
Are thither bent their way to take:
So God before did tell
That there his Iſrael
Their prayers ſhould together make.

5 For there are thrones erect,
And that for this reſpect,
To ſet forth juſtice orderly:
Which thrones right to maintain
To Davids houſe pertain,
His folk to judge accordingly.

6 To pray let us not ceaſe for Jeruſalems peace.
Thy friends God proſper mightily:
7 Peace be thy walls about,
And proſper thee throughout Thy palaces continually.

8 I wiſh thy proſperous ſtate
For my poor brethrens ſake,
That comfort have by means of thee.
9 Gods houſe doth me allure
Thy wealth for to procure
So much always as lies in me.

O Lord, that heaven do'ſt poſſeſs,
I lift mine eyes to thee:
Even as the ſervant lifteth his,
his maſters hand to ſee.
2 As handmaids watch their miſtreſs hand
ſome grace for to atcheive:
So we behold the Lord our God,
till he do us forgive.

3 Lord, grant us thy compaſſion, and mercy in thy ſight:
For we are fill'd and overcome with hatred and deſpight.
4 Our minds be ſtuft with great rebuke,
the rich and worldly wiſe
Do make of us their mocking-ſtocks, the proud do us deſpiſe.

NOw Iſrael
may ſay, and that truly,
If that the Lord
had not our cauſe maintain'd,
2 If that the Lord
had not our right ſuſtain'd,
When all the world
againſt us furiouſly
Made their uproars,
and ſaid we ſhould all die:

3 Now long ago
they had devour'd us all;
And ſwalow'd quick,
for ought that we could deem:
Such was their rage,
as we might well eſteem.
4 And as the flouds
with mighty force do fall:
So had they now
our lives even brought to thrall

5 The raging ſtreams, moſt proud in roaring noiſe,
Had long ago
o'rwhelm'd us in the deep:
6 But lov'd be God which doth us ſafely keep From bloudy teeth,
and their moſt cruel voice,
Which as a prey,
to eat us would rejoyce.

7 Even as a bird out of the fowlers grin Eſcapes away,
right ſo it fares with us:
Broke are their nets,
and we have ſcaped thus.
8 God that made heaven and earth, is our help then:
His name hath ſav'd
us from theſe wicked men.

SUch as in God the Lord do truſt,
As mount Zion ſhall firmly ſtand,
And be removed at no hand:
The Lord will count them right and juſt;
So that they ſhall be ſure
For ever to indure.

2 As mighty mountains huge and great Jeruſalem about do cloſe:
So will the Lord do unto thoſe
Who on his godly will do wait:
Such are to him ſo dear,
They never need to fear.

3 For though the righteous try doth he
By making wicked men his rod,
Leſt they through grief forſake their God,
It ſhall not as their lot ſtill be.
4 Give, Lord, to us thy light,
Whoſe hearts are true and right.

5 But as for ſuch as turn aſide
By crooked ways which they out-ſought,
The Lord will ſurely bring to nought:
With workers vile they ſhall abide:
But peace with Iſrael
For evermore ſhall dwell.

THoſe that do put their confidence
Upon the Lord our God onely,
And flee to him for their defence
In all their need and miſery:
Their faith is ſure ſtill to indure,
Grounded on Chriſt the Corner-ſtone,
Mov'd with none ill, but ſtandeth ſtill
Stedfaſt like to the mount Zion.

And as about Jeruſalem
The mighty hills do it compaſs,
So that no enemies come to them
To hurt that town in any caſe:
So God indeed in every need
His faithful people doth defend,
Standing them by aſſuredly
From this time forth world without end.

Right wiſe and good is our Lord God,
And will not ſuffer certainly
The ſinners and ungodlie's rod
To tarry upon his family:
Leſt they alſo from God ſhould go,
Falling to ſin and wickedneſs.
O Lord, defend world without end
Thy Chriſtian flock through thy goodneſs.

O Lord do good to Chriſtians all
That ſtedfaſt in thy word abide:
Such as willingly from God fall,
And to falſe doctrine daily ſlide,

Such

Such will the Lord ſcatter abroad
With hypocrites thrown down to hell,
God will them ſend pains without end:
But Lord grant peace to Iſrael.

Glory to God the Father of might,
And to the Son our Saviour,
And to the Holy Ghoſt, whoſe light
Shine in our hearts, and us ſuccour:
That the right way from day to day
We may walk, and him glorify:
With hearts deſire all that are here
Worſhip the Lord, and Amen cry.

WHen that the Lord
again his Zion had forth brought:
From bondage great,
and alſo ſervitude extream:
His work was ſuch
as did ſurmount mans heart & thought:
So that we were much like to them that uſe to dream.

2 Our mouths they were with laughter filled then,
And eke our tongues
did ſhew us joyful men.
The heathen folk.
were forced then this to confeſs,
How that the Lord
for them alſo great things had done.

3 But much more we,
and therefore can confeſs no leſs:
Wherefore to joy
we have good cauſe as we begun.
4 O Lord, go forth,
thou canſt our bondage end:
As to deſarts
the flowing rivers ſend.

5 Full true it is that they which ſow in tears indeed
A time will come when they ſhall reap in joy.
6 They went and wept
in bearing of their precious ſeed,
For that their foes
full often-times did them annoy:

But their return
with joy they ſhall ſure ſee Their ſheaves home bring,
and not empaired be.

Niſi Dom. Pſal. cxxvij. W. W.

EXcept the Lord the houſe doth make,
And thereunto doth ſet his hand:
What men do build it cannot ſtand.
Likewiſe in vain men undertake
Cities and holds to watch and ward,
Except the Lord be their ſafeguard.

2 Though ye riſe early in the morn,
And ſo at night go late to bed,
Feeding full hardly with brown bread,
Yet were your labour loſt and worn:
But they whom God doth love and keep Receive all things with quiet ſleep.

3 Therefore mark well whenever ye ſee
That men have heirs to enjoy their land,
It is the gift of Gods own hand:
For God himſelf doth multiply
Of his great liberality
The bleſſing of poſterity.

4 And when the children come to age
They grow in ſtrength and activeneſs,
In perſon and in comlineſs,
So that a ſhaft ſhot with courage
Of one that hath a moſt ſtrong arm,
Flies not ſo ſwift, nor doth like harm.

5 O well is he that hath his quiver
Furniſht with ſuch artillery:
For when in peril he ſhall be,
Such one ſhall never ſhake nor ſhiver,
When that he pleads before the judge
Againſt his foes that bear him grudge.

Thy children ſtand like olive-plants thy table round about.

4 Thus art thou bleſt that feareſt God, and he ſhall let thee ſee
5 The promiſed Jeruſalem

And let thine ears ay be preſt

3 O Lord our God, if thou weigh

Who ſhall then eſcape, and ſay,

4 But, Lord, thou art merciful,

7 Let Iſrael then boldly
In the Lord put his truſt:

REmember Davids troubles, Lord,
how to the Lord he ſwore,
2 And vow'd a vow to Jacobs God,
to keep for evermore:
3 I will not come within my houſe,
nor climb up to my bed:
4 Nor let my temples take their reſt,
Nor the eyes in my head,

5 Till I have found out for the Lord
a place to ſit thereon:
An houſe for Jacobs God to be an habitation.
6 We heard of it at Ephratah, there did we hear this ſound:
And in the fields and foreſts there theſe voyces firſt were found.

7 We will aſſay, and go in now
his tabernacle there,
Before his foot-ſtool to fall down,
and worſhip him in fear.
8 Ariſe, O Lord, ariſe I ſay, into thy reſting-place:
Both thou and the ark of thy ſtrength,
the preſence of thy grace.

9 Let all thy prieſts be clothed, Lord, with truth and righteouſneſs:
Let all thy ſaints and holy men
ſing all with joyfulneſs.
10 And for thy ſervant Davids ſake, refuſe not, Lord, I ſay,
The face of thine anointed, Lord,
nor turn thy face away.

The Second part.

11 The Lord to David ſwore in truth, and will not ſhrink from it, Saying, The fruit of thy body upon thy ſeat ſhall ſit.

12 And

12 And if thy ſons my covenant keep that I will learn each one:
Then ſhall their ſons for ever ſit upon thy princely throne.

13 The Lord himſelf hath choſe Zion, and loves therein to dwell:
14 Saying, This is my reſting-place,
I love and like it well.
15 And I will bleſs with great increaſe her victuals everywhere:
And I will ſatisfy with bread
the needy that be there.

16 Yea, I will deck and clothe her prieſts with my ſalvation:
And all her ſaints ſhall ſing for joy of my protection.
17 There will I ſurely make the horn of David for to bud:
For there I have ordain'd for mine
a lantern bright and good.

18 As for his enemies, I will clothe with ſhame for evermore:
But I will cauſe his crown to ſhine more freſh then heretofore.

O How happy a thing it is and joyful for to ſee, Brethren together faſt to hold the band of amity!
2 It calls to mind that ſweet perfume, and that coſtly ointment Which on the ſacrificers head
by Gods precept was ſpent.

It wet not Aarons head alone, but drencht his beard throughout:
And finally it did run down his rich attire about.
3 And as the lower ground doth drink
the dew of Hermon-hill,
And Zion with her ſilver drops
the fields with fruit doth fill:

4 Even ſo the Lord doth pour on them
his bleſſings manifold, Whoſe hearts and minds without all guil
this knot do keep and hold.

Ecce nunc. Pſal. cxxxiv. W. W.

B Ehold and have regard,
ye ſervants of the Lord:
Which in his houſe by night do watch,
praiſe him with one accord.
2 Lift up your hands on high unto his holy-place,
And give the Lord his praiſes due,
his benefits embrace.

3 For why? The Lord who did both earth and heaven frame, Doth Zion bleſs, and will conſerve for evermore the ſame.

Laudate, Nomen. Pſal. cxxxv. N.

O Praiſe the Lord, praiſe him, praiſe him,
praiſe him with one accord:
O praiſe him ſtill all ye that be the ſervants of the Lord.

2 O praiſe him ye that ſtand and be in the houſe of the Lord:
Ye of his court, and of his houſe,
praiſe him with one accord.

3 Praiſe ye the Lord, for he is good,
ſing praiſes to his name:
It is a comely and good thing always to do the ſame.
4 For why? The Lord hath choſe Jacob his very own ye ſee:
So hath he choſen Iſrael
his treaſure for to be.

5 For this I know and am right ſure
the Lord is very great:
He is indeed above all gods,
moſt eaſy to intreat.
6 For whatſoever pleaſed him,
all that full well he wrought:
In heaven, in earth, and in the ſea,
which he hath made of nought.

7 He lifts up clouds ev'n from the earth,
He makes lightnings, and rain,
He bringeth forth the winds alſo,
he made nothing in vain.
8 He ſmote the firſt-born of each thing
in Egypt great and leaſt:
He ſpared there no living thing,
the man, nor yet the beaſt.

9 He hath in thee ſhew'd wonders great,
O Ægypt void of vaunts,
On Pharaoh thy curſed king,
and his ſevere ſervants.
10 He ſmote then many nations, and did great acts and things:
He ſlew the great and mightieſt, and chieſeſt of their kings.

11 Sihon king of the Amorites, and Og king of Baſhan:
He ſlew alſo the kingdoms all that were of Canaan:
12 And gave their land to Iſrael,
an heritage we ſee:
To Iſrael, his own people,
an heritage to be.

The Second part

13 Thy name, O Lord, ſhall ſtill indure, and thy memorial,
Throughout all generations
that are or ere be ſhall.
14 The Lord will ſurely now avenge his people all indeed;
And to his ſervants he will ſhew favour in time of need.

15 The idols of the heathen are made in all the coaſts and lands,
Of ſilver and of gold they be,
the work even of mens hands.
16 They have their mouths, & cannot ſpeak,
and eyes that have no ſight:
17 They have eke ears, and hear nothing, their mouths be breathleſs quite.

18 Wherefore all they are like to them,
that ſo do ſet them forth:
And likewiſe thoſe that truſt in them,
or think they be ought worth.
19 O all ye houſe of Iſrael, ſee that ye praiſe the Lord:
And ye that be of Aarons houſe,
praiſe him with one accord.

20 And ye that be of Levi's houſe, praiſe ye likewiſe the Lord:
And ye that ſtand in aw of him,
praiſe him with one accord.
21 And out of Zion ſound his praiſe,
the great praiſe of the Lord
Which dwelleth in Jeruſalem:
praiſe him with one accord.

for his mercy, &c.
15 And drowned Pharaoh and his hoſt,
for his mercy, &c.
16 Through wilderneſs his people led,
for his mercy, &c.

17 He which did ſmite great noble kings,

for his mercy, &c.
22 Even to his ſervant Iſrael,
for his mercy, &c.
23 Remembring us in baſe eſtate,
for his mercy, &c.
24 And from oppreſſours reſcued us,
for his mercy, &c.

25 Which giveth food unto all fleſh,

His Iſrael forth brought:
12 Which he with mighty hand
And ſtreched-arm hath wrought.
For certainly, &c.

13 The ſea he cut in two,
Which ſtood up like a wall:
14 And made through it to go
His choſen children all.
For certainly, &c.

15 But there he whelmed then
The proud king Pharaoh:
With his huge hoſt of men,
And chariots eke alſo.
For certainly, &c.

16 Who led through wilderneſs
His people ſafe and ſound:
17 And for his love endleſs
Great kings he brought to ground.
For certainly, &c.

18 And ſlew with puiſſant hand
Kings mighty and of fame:
19 As of Amorites land,
Sihon the king by name.
For certainly, &c.

20 And Og, the giant large,
Of Baſhan king alſo:
21 Whoſe land for heritage
He gave his people tho.
For certainly, &c.

22 Even unto Iſrael
His ſervant dear, I ſay,

WHen as we ſat in Babylon,
the rivers round about,
And in remembrance of Zion
the tears for grief burſt out:
2 We hang'd our harps and inſtruments
the willow-trees upon:
For in that place men for their uſe had planted many a one.

3 Then they to whom we priſoners were,
ſaid to us tauntingly,
Now let us hear your Hebrew ſongs,
and pleaſant melody.
4 Alaſs! Said we, Who can once frame his ſorrowful heart to ſing
The praiſes of our living God,
thus under a ſtrange king?

5 But yet if I Jeruſalem out of my heart let ſlide:
Then let my fingers quite forget the warbling harp to guide.
6 And let my tongue within my mouth be ti'd for ever faſt,
If that I joy before I ſee thy full deliverance paſt.

7 Therefore, O Lord, remember now
the curſed noiſe and cry
That Edoms ſons againſt us made,
when they raz'd our city.
Remember, Lord, their cruel words,
when as with one accord
They cri'd, On, ſack, and raze their walls, in deſpite of the Lord.

8 Even ſo ſhalt thou, O Babylon, at length to duſt be brought:
And happy ſhall that man be call'd,
that our revenge hath wrought.

And praiſed in my thankful mouth thy Holy Name ſhall be.

Even for thy loving kindneſs ſake,

For thou thy name haſt by thy word

3 When I did call thou heardeſt me, and thou haſt made alſo

6 Too wonderful above my reach,

Thy works are marvellous, right well my ſoul doth know the ſame.

15 My bones they are not hid from thee,
although in ſecret place
I have been made, and in the earth beneath I ſhaped was.
16 When I was formleſs, then thine eye
ſaw me: for in thy book
Were written all, nought was before that after faſhion took.

17 The thoughts therefore of thee, O God,
how dear are they to me!
And of them all how paſſing great the endleſs number be!
18 If I ſhould count them, lo, their ſum
more then the ſand I ſee:
And whenſoever I awake,
yet am I ſtill with thee.

19 The wicked and the bloudy men
O that thou wouldeſt ſlay!
Even thoſe, O God, to whom, depart, depart from me, I ſay.
20 Even thoſe of thee, O Lord my God,
that ſpeak full wickedly:
Thoſe that are lifted up in vain,
being enemies to thee.

21 Hate I not them that hate thee, Lord,
and that in earneſt wiſe?
Contend I not againſt them all againſt thee that ariſe?
22 I hate them with unfained hate,
even as my utter foes.
23 Try me, O God, and know my heart,
my thoughts prove and diſcloſe.

24 Conſider, Lord, if wickedneſs in me there any be:
And in thy way, O God my guide,
for ever lead thou me.

Eripe me. Pſal. cxl. N.

LOrd ſave me from the evil man,
and from the cruel wight:
2 And from all thoſe which evil do imagine in their ſp'rit.
Which make on me continual war,
their tongues lo, they have whet 3 Like ſerpents; underneath their lips is adders-poiſon ſet.

4 Keep me, O Lord, from wicked hands, preſerve me to abide Free from the cruel man, that means to cauſe my ſteps to ſlide.
5 The proud have laid a ſnare for me,
and they have ſpread a net
With cords in my path-way, and grins for me eke have they ſet.

6 Therefore I ſaid unto the Lord,
thou art my God alone:
Hear me, O Lord, O hear the voice
wherewith I pray and moan.
7 O Lord my God, thou onely art
the ſtrength that ſaveth me;
My head in day of battel hath been covered ſtill by thee.

8 Let not, O Lord, the wicked have the end of his deſire:
Perform not his ill thoughts, leſt he with pride be ſet on fire.
9 Of them that compaſs me about the chiefeſt of them all, Lord, let the miſchief of their lips upon themſelves befall.

10 Let coals fall on them, let him caſt them in conſuming flame,
And in deep pits, ſo as they may not riſe out of the ſame.
11 For no backbiter ſhall on earth be ſet in ſtable plight:
And evil to deſtruction ſtill
ſhall hunt the cruel wight.

12 I know the Lord th'afflicted will revenge, and judge the poor:
13 The juſt ſhall praiſe thy name: juſt ſhall dwell with thee evermore.

Domine, clamavi. Pſal. cxlj. N.

OLord, upon thee do I call,
Lord, haſte thee unto me:
And hearken, Lord, unto my voice
when I do cry to thee.
2 As incenſe, let my prayers be directed in thine eyes:
And the up-lifting of my hands
as evening ſacrifice.

3 My Lord, for guiding of my mouth
ſet thou a watch before:
And alſo of my moving lips,
O Lord, keep thou the door.
4 That I ſhould wicked works commit incline thou not my heart:
With ill-men of their delicates,
Lord, let me eat no part.

5 But let the righteous ſmite me, Lord,
for that is good for me:
Let him reprove me, and the ſame
a precious oyl ſhall be.
Such ſmiting ſhall not break my head,
the time ſhall ſhortly fall.
When I ſhall in their miſery make prayers for them all.

6 Then when in-ſtony places down their judges ſhall be caſt:
Then ſhall they hear my words, for then they have a pleaſant taſt.
7 Our bones about the graves mouth lo, ſcattered are they found;
As he that heweth wood, or he that diggeth up the ground.

8 But, O my Lord, my God, mine eyes do look up unto thee:
In thee is all my truſt, let not my ſoul forſaken be.
9 Which they have laid to catch me in,
Lord, keep me from the ſnare;
And from the ſubtil grins of them that wicked workers are.

10 The wicked into their own nets together let them fall:
While I do by thy help eſcape
the danger of them all.

Voce mea. Pſal. clxij. N.

BEfore the Lord God with my voice
I did ſend out my cry:
And with my ſtrained voice unto the Lord God prayed I.
2 My meditation in his ſight
to pour I did not ſpare:
And in the preſence of the Lord
my trouble did declare.

3 Although perplexed was my ſpirit,
my path was known to thee:
In way where I did walk a ſnare
they ſlily laid for me.
4 I look'd and view'd on my right-hand,
but none there would me know:
All refuge failed me, and for my ſoul none cared tho.

5 Then cri'd I, Lord to thee, and ſaid,
my hope thou onely art:
Thou in the land of living art
my portion and my part.
6 Heark to my cry, for I am brought full low: deliver me
From them that do me perſecute, for me too ſtrong they be.

7 That I may praiſe thy name, my ſoul from priſon, Lord, bring out:
When thou art good to me, the juſt ſhall preſs me round about.

Domine, exaudi. Pſal. cxliij. N.

LOrd hear my prayer, heark the plaint
that I do make to thee:
Lord, in thy native truth, and in thy juſtice anſwer me.
2 In judgment with thy ſervant, Lord,
O enter not at all:
For juſtifi'd be in thy ſight not one that liveth ſhall.

3 The enemy hath purſu'd my ſoul my life to ground hath thrown:
And laid me in the dark, like them that dead are long agone.
4 Within me in perplexity was mine accumbred ſp'rit:
And in me was my troubled heart amazed and affright.

5 Yet I record time paſt, in all thy works I meditate:
Yea, in thy works I meditate that thy hands have create.
6 To thee, O Lord my God, lo I do ſtretch my craving hands:
My ſoul deſireth after thee,
as do the thirſtly lands.

7 Hear me with ſpeed, my ſpirit doth fail, hide not thy face me fro:
Elſe ſhall I be like them that down into the pit do go

8 Let me thy loving kindneſs in the morning hear and know:
For in thee is my truſt, ſhew me
the way where I ſhall go.

9 For I lift up my ſoul to thee,
O Lord, deliver me
From all mine enemies: for I have hidden me with thee.
10 Teach me to do thy will, for thou,
thou art my God, I ſay:
Let thy good ſpirit into the land of mercy me convey.

11 For thy names ſake with quickning grace alive do thou me make:
And out of trouble bring my ſoul
even for thy juſtice ſake.
12 And for thy mercy ſlay my foes,
O Lord, deſtroy them all
That do oppreſs my ſoul, for I thy ſervant am and ſhall.

Benedictus Dom. Pſal. cxliv. N.

BLeſt be the Lord my ſtrength, that doth inſtruct my hands to fight:
The Lord that doth my fingers frame to battel by his might,
2 He is my goodneſs, fort, and tower,
deliverer and ſhield:
In him I truſt; my people he ſubdues to me to yield.

3 O Lord, what thing is man, that him
thou holdeſt ſo in price?
Or ſon of man, that upon him
thou thinkeſt in ſuch wiſe?
4 Man is but like to vanity,
ſo paſs his days to end
5 As fleeting ſhade. Bowe down, O Lord, the heavens and deſcend.

6 The mountains touch, & they ſhall ſmoke, caſt forth thy lightning flame
And ſcatter them: thine arrows ſhoot, conſume them with the ſame.
7 Send down thine hand even from above,
O Lord, deliver me:
Take me from waters great, from hand of ſtrangers make me free.

8 Whoſe ſubtil mouth of vanity and fondneſs doth intreat:
And their right-hand is a right-hand
of falſhood and deceit.
9 A new ſong will I ſing, O God, and ſinging will I be On viol and on inſtrument
ten-ſtringed unto thee.

10 Even he it is that onely gives deliverance to kings:
Unto his ſervant David help from hurtful ſword he brings.
11 From ſtrangers hands me ſave & ſhield whoſe mouth talks vanity:
And their right-hand is a right-hand
of guil and ſubtilty.

12 That our ſons may be as the plants whom growing youth doth rear:
Our daughters as carv'd corner-ſtones
like to a palace fair:
13 Our garners full, and plenty may with ſundry ſorts be found:
Our ſheep bring thouſands, in our ſtreets
ten thouſands may abound.

14 Our oxen be to labour ſtrong,
that none do us invade:
There be no goings out, nor cries within our ſtreets be made.
15 The people bleſſed are that with ſuch bleſſings are ſo ſtor'd:
Yea, bleſſed all the people are whoſe God is God the Lord.

Exaltabo te. Pſal. cxlv. N.

THee will I laud, my God and king,
and bleſs thy name for ay:
2 For ever will I praiſe thy name,
and bleſs thee day by day.
3 Great is the Lord, moſt worthy praiſe;
his greatneſs none can reach:
4 From race to race they ſhall thy works
praiſe, and thy power preach.

5 I of thy glorious majeſty
the beauty will record:
And meditate upon thy works
moſt wonderful, O Lord.
6 And they ſhall of thy power, and of thy fearful acts declare:
And I to publiſh all abroad thy greatneſs will not ſpare.

7 And they into the mention ſhall break of thy goodneſs great:
And I aloud thy righteouſneſs in ſinging ſhall repeat.
8 The Lord our God is gracious, and merciful alſo:
Of great abounding mercy, and
to anger he is ſlow.

9 Yea, good to all, and all his works his mercy doth exceed:
10 Lo, all thy works do praiſe thee, Lord,
and do thy honour ſpread.
11 Thy Saints do bleſs thee, and they do thy Kingdoms glory ſhow:
12 And blaze thy power, to cauſe the ſons of men thy power to know.

The Second part.

And of his mighty Kingdom eke to ſpread the glorious praiſe:
13 Thy Kingdom, Lord, a Kingdom is that doth indure always:
And thy dominion through each age
indures without decay.
14 The Lord upholdeth them that fall, their ſliding he doth ſtay.

15 The eyes of all do wait on thee, thou do'ſt them all relieve:
And thou to each ſufficing food
in ſeaſon due do'ſt give.
16 Thou openeſt thy plenteous hand, and bounteouſly do'ſt fill
All things whatſoever do live with gifts of thy good will.

17 The Lord is juſt in all his ways,
his works are holy all;
18 Near all he is that call on him,
in truth that on him call.
19 He the deſires which they require that fear him will fulfil:
And he will hear them when they cry,
and ſave them all he will.

20 The Lord preſerves all thoſe, to him that bear a loving heart:
But he them all that wicked are will utterly ſubvert.
21 My thankful mouth ſhall gladly ſpeak
the praiſes of the Lord:
All fleſh to praiſe his holy name for ever ſhall accord.

Lauda, anima. Pſal. cxlvj. I. H.

MY ſoul, praiſe thou the Lord always,
my God I will confeſs:
2 While breath and life prolong my days,
my tongue no time ſhall ceaſe.
3 Truſt not in worldly princes then,
though they abound in wealth:
Nor in the ſons of mortal men,
in whom there is no health.

4 For why? Their breath doth ſoon depart to earth anon they fall:
And then the counſels of their heart
decay and periſh all.
5 O happy is that man, I ſay,
whom Jacobs God doth aid:
And he whoſe hope doth not decay,
but on the Lord is ſtai'd:

6 Which made the earth and waters deep,
the heavens high withall:
Which doth his word and promiſe keep in truth and ever ſhall.
7 With right always doth he proceed for ſuch as ſuffer wrong:
The poor and hungry he doth feed,
and looſe the fetters ſtrong.

8 The Lord doth ſend the blind their ſight,
the lame to limbs reſtore:
The Lord, I ſay, doth love the right and juſt man evermore.
9 He doth defend the fatherleſs,
and ſtranger ſad in heart:
And quit the widow from diſtreſs,
and ill mens ways ſubvert.

10 Thy Lord and God eternally,
O Zion, ſtill ſhall reign,
In time of all poſterity for ever to remain.

Laudate Dominum. Pſal cxlvij. N.

PRaiſe ye the Lord, for it is good unto our God to ſing:
For it is pleaſant, and to praiſe
it is a comely thing.
2 The Lord his own Jeruſalem
he buildeth up alone:
And the diſpreſt of Iſrael doth gather into one.

3 He heals the broken in their heart,
their ſores up doth he bind:
4 He counts the number of the ſtars, and names them in their kind.
5 Great is the Lord, great is his power, his wiſdom infinite.
6 The Lord relieves the meek and throws to ground the wicked wight.

7 Sing unto God the Lord with praiſe, unto the Lord rejoyce:
And to our God upon the harp advance your ſinging voyce.
8 He covers heaven with clouds, and for the earth prepareth rain:
And on the mountains he doth make the graſs to grow again.

9 He

9 He gives to beaſts their food, and to young ravens when they cry.
10 His pleaſure not in ſtrength of hors
nor in mans legs doth lie:
11 But in all thoſe that fear the Lord,
the Lord hath his delight:
And ſuch as do attend upon his mercies ſhining light.

The Second part.

12 O praiſe the Lord Jeruſalem,
thy God, O Zion, praiſe:
13 For he the bars hath forged ſtrong, wherewith thy gates he ſtays.
14 Thy children he hath bleſt in thee, and in thy borders he Doth ſettle peace, and with the flour of wheat he filleth thee.

15 And his commandment upon the earth he ſendeth out:
And eke his word with ſpeedy courſe doth ſwiftly run about.
16 He giveth ſnow like wooll, hoar-froſt like aſhes he doth ſpread:
17 Like morſels caſts his ice, thereof
the cold who can abide?

18 He ſendeth forth his mighty word,
and melteth them again:
His wind he makes to blow, and then the waters flow amain.
19 The doctrine of his holy word to Jacob he doth ſhow:
His ſtatutes and his judgments he gives Iſrael to know.

20 With every nation hath he not ſo dealt, nor have they known His ſecret judgments, ye therefore, praiſe ye the Lord alone.

Laudate Dominum. Pſal. cxlviij. I. H.

GIve laud unto the Lord,
From heaven that is ſo high:
Praiſe him in deed and word,
Above the ſtarry ſky.
2 And alſo ye,
His angels all,
Armies royal,
Praiſe him with glee.

3 Praiſe him both moon and ſun,
Which are ſo clear and bright:
The ſame of you be done,
Ye gliſtering ſtars of light:
4 And eke no leſs
Ye heavens fair,
5 And clouds of th' air,
His laud expreſs.

6 For at his word they were
All formed as we ſee,
At his voice did appear
All things in their degree,
Which he ſet faſt:
To them he made
A law and trade
For ay to laſt.

7 Extol and praiſe Gods name
On earth ye dragons fell:
All deeps do ye the ſame,
For it becomes you well.
8 Him magnify
Fire, hail, ice, ſnow,
And ſtorms that blow
At his decree.

9 The hils and mountains all,
And trees that fruitful are,
The cedars great and tall
His worthy praiſe declare.
10 Beaſts and cattel,
Yea birds flying,
And worms creeping,
That on earth dwell.

11 All kings both more and leſs
With all their pompous train,
Princes and all judges
That in the world remain,
Exalt his name.
12 Young men and maids,
Old men and babes,
Do ye the ſame.

13 For his name ſhall we prove
To be moſt excellent,
Whoſe praiſe is far above
The earth and firmament.
14 For ſure he ſhall
Exalt with bliſs
The horn of his,
And help them all.

15 His ſaints all ſhall forth-tell,
His praiſe and worthineſs:
The children of Iſrael,
Each one both more and leſs:
16 And alſo they,
That with good will:
His words fulfil,
and him obey.

Cantate Domino. Pſal. cxlix. N.

SIng ye unto the Lord our God,
a new rejoycing ſong:
And let the praiſe of him be heard his holy ſaints among.
2 Let Iſrael rejoyce in him,
that made him of nothing:
And let the ſeed of Zion eke,
be joyful in their King.

3 Let them ſound praiſe with voyce of flute unto his Holy Name:
And with the timbrel and the harp
ſing praiſes of the ſame.
4 For why? The Lord his pleaſure all hath in his people ſet:
And by deliverance he will raiſe
the meek to glory great.

5 With glory and with honour now, let all his ſaints rejoyce:
And now aloud upon their beds advance their ſinging voyce.
6 And in their mouths let be the acts of God the mighty Lord:
And in their hand eke let them bear
a double-edged ſword.

7 To plague the heathen, and correct
the people with their hands:
8 To bind their ſtately kings in chains, their lords in iron-bands.
9 To execute on them the doom that written is before:
This honour all his ſaints ſhall have;
praiſe ye the Lord therefore.

Laudate Dominum. Pſal. cl. N.

YEild unto God the mighty Lord
praiſe in his ſanctuary:
And praiſe him in the firmament,
that ſhews his power on high.
2 Advance his name, and praiſe him in his mighty acts always:
According to his excellency of greatneſs give him praiſe.

3 His praiſes with the princely noiſe of ſounding trumpets blow:
Praiſe him upon the viol, and upon the harp alſo.
4 Praiſe him with trimbrel and with flute, organs and virginals:
5 With ſounding cymbals praiſe ye him,
praiſe him with loud cymbals.

6 What ever hath the benefit of breathing, praiſe the Lord:
To praiſe the name of God the Lord agree with one accord.

The End of the PSALMS of DAVID in Meeter.

VENI CREATOR, &c.

Veni Creator.

COme Holy Ghoſt, Eternal God proceeding from above:
Both from the Father & the Son,
the God of peace and love.
Viſit our minds, and into us
thy heavenly grace inſpire:
That in all truth and godlineſs
we may have true deſire.

Thou art the very Comforter
in all wo and diſtreſs:
The heavenly gift of God Moſt High,
which no tongue can expreſs:
The fountain and the lively ſpring of joy celeſtial:
The fire ſo bright, the love ſo clear,
and unction ſpiritual.

Thou in thy gifts art manifold,
whereby Chriſts church doth ſtand:
In faithful hearts writing thy law,
the finger of Gods hand.
According to thy promiſe made,
thou giveſt ſpeech of grace:
That through thy help the praiſe of God
may ſtand in every place.

O Holy Ghoſt, into our wits
ſend down thy heavenly light:
Kindle our hearts with fervent love,
to ſerve God day and night.
Strengthen and ſtabliſh all our weakneſs,
ſo feeble and ſo frail:
That neither fleſh, the world, nor devil
againſt us do prevail.

Put back our enemies far from us,
and grant us to obtain Peace in our hearts with God and man, without grudge or diſdain.
And grant, O Lord, that thou being our leader and our guide:
We may eſchew the ſnares of ſin,
and from thee never ſlide.

To us ſuch plenty of thy grace,
good Lord, grant we thee pray,
That thou may'ſt be our comforter
at the laſt dreadful day.
Of all ſtrife and diſſention
O Lord, diſſolve the bands:
And make the knots of peace and love throughout all Chriſtian lands.

Grant us, O Lord, through thee to know,
the Father moſt of might:
That of his dear beloved Son
we may attain the ſight:
And that with perfect faith alſo
we may acknowledge thee
The ſpirit of them both alway, one God in perſons three.

Laud and praiſe be to the Father,
and to the Son equal,
And to the Holy Spirit alſo
one God Co-eternal.
And pray we that the Onely Son vouchſafe his Spirit to ſend
To all that do profeſs his name unto the worlds laſt end.

The humble ſuit of a ſinner. M.

O Lord on whom I do depend,
behold my careful heart:
And when thy will and pleaſure is,
releaſe me of my ſmart.
Thou ſeeſt my ſorrows what they are,
my grief is known to thee;
And there is none that can remove or take the ſame from me;

But onely thou whoſe aid I crave,
whoſe mercy ſtill is preſt,
To eaſe all thoſe that come to thee
for ſuccour and for reſt.
And ſith thou ſeeſt my reſtleſs eyes,
my tears and grievous groan;
Attend unto my ſuit, O Lord, mark well my plaint and moan.

For ſin hath ſo encloſed me,
and compaſt me about:
That I am now remedileſs,
if mercy help not out:
For mortal man cannot releaſe,
or mitigate this pain:
But even thy Chriſt, my Lord and God,
who for my ſins was ſlain.

Whoſe bloudy wounds are yet to ſee,
though not with mortal eye;
Yet do thy ſaints behold them all,
and ſo I truſt ſhall I.
Though ſin doth hinder me a while,
when thou ſhalt ſee it good,
I ſhall enjoy the ſight of him,
and ſee his wounds & bloud.

And as thine angels and thy ſaints
do now behold the ſame:
So truſt I to poſſeſs that place,
with them to praiſe thy name.
But whil'ſt I live here in this vale where ſinners do frequent:
Aſſiſt me ever with thy grace
my ſins ſtill to lament.

Leſt that I tread the ſinners trace,
and give them my conſent,
To dwell with them in wickedneſs, whereto nature is bent.
Onely thy grace muſt be my ſtay,
leſt that I fall down flat:
And being down, then of my ſelf cannot recover that.

Wherefore this is yet once again
my ſuit and my requeſt,
To grant me pardon for my ſin,
that I in thee may reſt.
Then ſhall my heart and tongue alſo be inſtruments of praiſe:
And in thy church and houſe of ſaints ſing Pſalms to thee always.

Venite exultemus.

O Come and let us now rejoyce,
And ſing unto the Lord:
And to our onely Saviour
Alſo with one accord.
O let us come before his face
With inward reverence,
Confeſſing all our former ſins,
And that with diligence.

To thank him for his benefits
Always diſtributing:
Wherefore to him right joyfully
In Pſalms now let us ſing.
And that becauſe that God alone
Is Lord magnificent,
And eke above all other gods
A King omnipotent.

His people doth not he forſake
At any time or tide:
And in his hand are all the coaſts
Of all the world ſo wide.
And with his loving countenance
He looketh everywhere,
And doth behold the tops of all
The mountains far and near.

The ſea and all that is therein
Are his, for he them made:
And eke his hand hath faſhioned
The earth which doth not fade.
O come therefore and worſhip him,
And down before him fall:
And let us kneel before the Lord,
The which hath made us all.

He is our God, our Lord and King,
And we his people are:
His flock and ſheep of his paſture;
Of whom he taketh care.
This day if ye will hear His voyce,
Then harden not your heart:
As in the bitter murmuring,
When ye were in deſart.

Which thing was of their negligence
Committed in the time
Of trouble in the wilderneſs,
A great and grievous crime.
Whereas your fathers tempted me
And tri'd me every way:
They proved me, and ſaw my works,
what I could do or ſay.

Theſe fourty years I have been griev'd
With this generation:
And evermore I ſaid, they err'd
In their imagination:
Wherewith their heart was ſore cumbred
Long time and many days:
Wherefore I ſaid aſſuredly,
They have not known my ways.

To whom I in my anger ſwore,
That they ſhould not be bleſt,
Nor ſee my joy celeſtial,
Nor enter in my reſt.

Gloria patri.

All laud and praiſe be to the Lord,
O that of might art moſt:
To God the father and the Son,
and to the Holy Ghoſt.
As it in the beginning was
for ever heretofore,
And is now at this preſent time,
and ſhall be evermore.

The ſong of Saint Ambroſe, called,
Te Deum.

WE praiſe thee, God, we knowledge (thee
The onely Lord to be;
And as eternal Father, all the earth doth worſhip thee.
To thee all angels cry, the heavens and all the powers therein:
To thee cherub and ſeraphin
to cry they do not lin,

O holy, holy, holy Lord,
of Sabaoth Lord the God;
Through heaven & earth thy praiſe is ſpread,
and glory all abroad.
Th'apoſtles glorious company
yield praiſes unto thee:
The prophets goodly fellowſhip praiſe thee continually.

The noble and victorious hoſt of Martyrs ſound thy praiſe:
The holy church throughout the world
doth knowledge thee always:
Father of endleſs majeſty
they do acknowledge thee:
Thy Chriſt thine honourable, true, and Onely Son to be.

The Holy Ghoſt the comforter;
of glory thou art King,
O Chriſt, and of the Father art
the Son everlaſting.
When ſinful mans decay in hand
thou tookeſt to reſtore,
To be inclos'd in virgins-womb
thou diddeſt not abhor.

When thou hadſt overcome of death
the ſharp and cruel might,
Thou heavens kingdom didſt ſet ope to each believing wight.
In glory of the Father-thou do'ſt ſit on Gods right hand:
We truſt that thou ſhalt come our Judge
our cauſe to underſtand.
Lord, help thy ſervants whom thou haſt bought with thy precious bloud;
And in eternal glory ſet
them with thy ſaints ſo good.
O Lord, do thou thy people ſave,
bleſs thine inheritance:
Lord, govern them, and Lord do thou for ever them advance.

We magnify thee day by day,
and world without an end Adore thy Holy Name: O Lord, vouchſafe us to defend
From ſin this day: have mercy, Lord, have mercy on us all:
And on us, as we truſt in thee,
Lord, let thy mercy fall.

O Lord, I have repoſed all my confidence in thee:
Put to confounding ſhame therefore,
Lord, let me never be.

The ſong of Zacharias, called,
Benedictus.

THe onely Lord of Iſrael
Be praiſed evermore:
For through his viſitation,
And mercy kept in ſtore,
His people now he hath redeem'd,
That long have been in thrall,
And ſpread abroad his ſaving health
Upon his ſervants all.

In Davids houſe his ſervant true,
According to his mind:
And alſo his anointed king,
As we in ſcripture find.
As by his holy prophets all
Oft-times he did declare,
The which were ſince the world began,
His ways for to prepare.

That we might be delivered
From thoſe that make debate,
Our enemies, and from the hands
Of all that do us hate.
The mercy which he promiſed
Our fathers to fulfil:
And think upon his covenant made
According to his will.

And alſo to perform the oath
Which he before had ſworn
To Abraham our father dear,
For us that were forlorn:
That he would give himſelf for us,
And us from bondage bring
Out of the hands of all our foes,
To ſerve our heavenly King.

And that without all manner fear,
And eke in righteouſneſs:
And alſo for to lead our lives
In ſted faſt holineſs.
And thou, O child, which now art born,
And of the Lord elect,
Shalt be the propher of the High'ſt,
His ways for to direct.

For thou ſhalt go before his face
For to prepare his ways,
And alſo for to teach his will
And pleaſure all thy days.
To give them knowledge how that their Salvation is near:
And that remiſſion of their ſins
Is through his mercy meer.

Whereby the day-ſpring from on high
Is come us for to viſit;
And thoſe for to illuminate
Which do in darkneſs ſit.
To lighten thoſe that ſhadowed be
With death, and eke oppreſt:
And alſo for to guide our feet
The way to peace and reſt.

The

The Song of bleſſed Mary called, Magnificat.

MY ſoul doth magnify the Lord,
My ſpirit eke evermore
Rejoyceth in the Lord my God,
Which is my Saviour.
And why? Becauſe he did regard,
And gave reſpect unto
So baſe eſtate of his hand-maid,
And let the mighty go.

For now behold all nations,
And generations all,
From this time forth for evermore
Shall me right bleſſed call:
Becauſe he hath me magnified
Which is the Lord of might;
Whoſe name be ever ſanctified,
And praiſed day and night.

For with his mercy and his grace
All men he doth inflame:
Throughout all generations,
To ſuch as fear his name.
He ſhewed ſtrength with his great arm,
And made the proud to ſtart,
With all imaginations
That they have in their heart.

He hath put down the mighty ones
From their ſupernal ſeat:
And did exalt the meek in heart,
As he hath thought it meet.
The hungry he repleniſhed
With all things that were good,
And through his power he made the rich
Oft-times to want their food.

And calling to remembrance
His mercy every deal,
Hath holpen up aſſiſtantly
His ſervant Iſrael.
According to his promiſe made
To Abraham before:
And to his ſeed ſucceſſively,
To ſtand for evermore.

The Song of Simeon called, Nunc dimittis.

O Lord, becauſe my hearts deſire
Hath wiſhed long to ſee
My onely Lord and Saviour,
Thy ſon before I die:
The joy and health of all mankind,
Deſired long before,
Which now is come into the world,
Of mercy bringing ſtore.

Thou ſuffereſt thy ſervant now
In peace for to depart,
According to thy holy word,
Which lighteneth my heart.
Becauſe mine eyes which thou haſt made
To give my body light,
Have now beheld thy ſaving health,
Which is the Lord of might,

Whom thou mercifully haſt ſet,
Of thine abundant grace,
In open ſight and viſible
Before all peoples face:
The Gentiles to illuminate,
And Satan overquel,
And eke to be the glory of Thy people Iſrael.

The Symbol, or Creed of Athanaſius called, Quicunque vult.

WHat man ſoever he be that ſalvation would attain,
The catholick belief he muſt before all things retain,
Which faith unleſs he holy keep,
and undefiledly;
Without all doubt eternally
he ſhall be ſure to die.

The catholick belief is this,
That God we worſhip One In Trinity, and Trinity in vnity alone.

So as we neither do confound
the Perſons of the Three:
Nor yet the ſubſtance whole of one in ſunder parted be.

One perſon of the Father is,
another of the Son,
Another perſon proper of the Holy Ghoſt alone.
Of Father, Son, and Holy Ghoſt
but one the God-head is:
Like glory, co-eternal eke
the majeſty likewiſe.

Such as the Father is, ſuch is the Son in each degree:
And ſuch alſo we do believe the Holy Ghoſt to be.
Uncreate is the Father, and uncreate is the Son,
The Holy Ghoſt uncreate, ſo uncreate is each one.

Incomprehenſible Father is,
incomprehenſible Son,
And comprehenſible alſo is the Holy Ghoſt of none.
The Father is eternal, and the Son eternal ſo,
And in like ſort eternal is
the Holy Ghoſt alſo.

And yet though we believe that each of theſe eternal be:
Yet there but one eternal is and not eternals Three.
As ne incomprehenſible we,
ne yet uncreate Three,
But one incomprehenſible, one uncreate hold to be.

Almighty ſo the Father is,
The Son almighty ſo,
And in like ſort almighty is
the Holy Ghoſt alſo.
And albeit that every one of theſe almighty be:
Yet there but one almighty is,
and not almighties three.

The Father God is, God the Son,
the Holy Ghoſt alſo:
Yet are there not Three Gods at all,
but One God, and no mo.
So likewiſe Lord the Father is,
and Lord alſo the Son,
And Lord the Holy Ghoſt: yet are there not Three Lords, but One.

For as we are compell'd to grant
by Chriſtian verity,
Each of the perſons by himſelf both God and Lord to be:
So catholick religion
forbiddeth us alway,
That either Gods be Three, or that there Lords be Three, to ſay.

Of none the Father is, ne made,
ne create, or begot:
The Son is of the Father, not create, ne made, but got:
The Holy Ghoſt is of them both the Father and the Son;
Ne made, ne create, nor begot,
but doth proceed alone.

So we one Father hold, not three,
one Son alſo, not three,
One Holy Ghoſt alone, and not three Holy Ghoſts to be.
None in this Trinity before nor after other is:
Ne greater any then the reſt,
ne leſſer be likewiſe.

But every one among themſelves of all the perſons Three,
Together co-eternal all,
and all co-equal be.
So Unity in Trinity,
as ſaid it is before,
And Trinity in Unity
in all things we adore.

Therefore what man ſoever that ſalvation will attain,
This faith touching the Trinity of force he muſt retain.
And needful to eternal life
it is that every wight
Of the incarnating of Chriſt
our Lord believe aright.

For this the right faith is, that we believe and eke do know, That Chriſt our Lord the Son of God is God and man alſo:
God of his Fathers ſubſtance, got before the world began:
And of his mothers ſubſtance born in world a very man.

Both perfect God, and perfect man
in one, one Jeſus Chriſt:
That doth of reaſonable ſoul and human fleſh ſubſiſt.
Touching his God-head, equal with his Father God is he:
Touching his man-hood, lower then his Father in degree.

Who though he be both very God,
and very man alſo:
Yet is he but one Chriſt alone,
and is not perſons two.
One, not by turning of God-head into the fleſh of man;
But by taking Man-hood to God,
this Being one began.

All one, not by confounding of the ſubſtance into one:
But onely by the Unity
that is of one Perſon.
For as the reaſonable ſoul and fleſh but one man is:
So in one perſon God and man is but one Chriſt likewiſe.

Who ſuffered for to ſave us all,
to hell he did deſcend:
The Third day roſe again from death,
to heaven he did aſcend.
He ſits at the right-hand of God,
th'almighty Father there:
From thence to judge the quick and dead again he ſhall appear.

At whoſe return all men ſhall riſe with bodies new reſtor'd,
And of their own works they ſhall give account unto the Lord.
And they into eternal life
ſhall go that have done well:
Who have done ill, ſhall go into eternal fire to dwell.

This is the catholick belief:
who doth not faithfully Believe the ſame, without all doubt he ſaved cannot be.
To Father, Son, and Holy Ghoſt
all glory be therefore:
As in beginning was, is now,
and ſhall be evermore.

The lamentation of a ſinner.

O Lord, turn not away thy face
From him that lies proſtrate,
Lamenting ſore his ſinful life
Before thy mercy-gate.
Which gate thou openeſt wide to thoſe
That do lament their ſin:
Shut not that gate againſt me, Lord,
But let me enter in.

And call me not to my account,
How I have lived here:
For then I know right well, O Lord,
How vile I ſhall appear.
I need not to confeſs my life,
I am ſure, thou canſt tell
What I have been, and what I am,
I know thou know'ſt it well.

O Lord, thou know'ſt what things be paſt,
And eke the things that be:
Thou know'ſt alſo what is to come,
Nothing is hid from thee.
Before the heavens and earth were made,
Thou know'ſt what things were then;
As all things elſe that have been ſince
Among the ſons of men.

And can the things that I have done
Be hidden from thee then?
Nay, nay, thou know'ſt them all, O
Lord,
Where they were done and when.
Wherefore with tears I come to thee
To beg and to intreat,
Even as the child that hath done ill,
And feareth to be beat:

So come I to thy mercy-gate
Where mercy doth abound,
Requiring mercy for my ſin,
To heal my deadly wound.
O Lord, I need not to repeat
What I do beg or crave:
Thou know'ſt, O Lord, before I aſk,
The thing that I would have.

Mercy, good Lord, mercy I aſk,
This is the total ſum:
For mercy, Lord, is all my ſuit,
Lord, let thy mercy come.

The Lords prayer, or Pater noſter.

OUr Father which in heaven art,
Lord, hallowed be thy name,
Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done in earth, even as the ſame
In heaven is. Give us, O Lord, our daily bread this day.
As we forgive our debtors, ſo forgive our debts we pray.
Into temptation lead us not,
from evil make us free:
For kingdom, power, and glory thine both now and ever be.

The X. Commandments. Audi, Iſrael.

HEark Iſrael and what I ſay,
give heed to underſtand:
I am the Lord thy God that brought thee out of Egypt-land, Even from the houſe wherein thou did'ſt
in thraldom live a ſlave.
None other gods at all before my preſence ſhalt thou have.

No manner graven image ſhalt
thou make at all to thee:
Nor any figure like by thee
ſhall counterfeited be,
Of any thing in heaven above
nor in the earth below:
Nor in the waters beneath the earth;
to them thou ſhalt not bowe.

Nor ſhalt them ſerve: the Lord thy God
a jealous God am I,
That puniſh parents faults unto the third and fourth degree,
Upon their children that me hate:
and mercy do diſplay
To thouſands of ſuch as me love,
and my precepts obey.

The name thou of the Lord thy God
in vain ſhalt never uſe:
For him that takes his name in vain
the Lord will not excuſe.
Remember that thou holy keep the ſacred ſabbath-day:
Six days thou labour ſhalt, and do thy needful works alway.

The ſeventh day the Lord thy God hath ſet to reſt upon;
No work then ſhalt thou do in it,
ne thou, nor yet thy ſon,
Thy daughter, ſervant, nor thy maid,
thine ox, nor yet thine aſs,
Nor ſtranger that within thy gates hath his abiding place:

For in ſix days God heaven and earth,
and all therein did make:

And

And after those his rest he did upon the seventh day take:
Wherefore he blest the day that he
for resting did ordain:
And sacred to himself alone appointed to remain.

Yeild honour to thy parents, that prolong'd thy days may be Upon the land the which the Lord thy God hath given thee.
Thou shalt not murder. Thou shalt not commit adultery.
Thou shalt not steal. Nor witness false against thy neighbour be.

Thou shalt not covet house that to thy neighbour doth belong:
Ne covet shalt in having of his wife to do him wrong:
Nor his man-servant, nor his maid,
nor ox, nor ass of his:
Nor any other thing that to thy neighbour proper is.

The complaint of a sinner.

WHere righteousness doth say,
Lord, for my sinful part,
In wrath thou should'st me pay Vengeance for my desert;
I can it not deny,
But needs I must confess
How that continually
Thy laws I do transgress.

But if it be thy will
With sinners to contend:
Then all thy flock shall spill,
And be lost without end.
For who lives here so right,
That rightly he can say,
He Sins not in thy sight
Full oft and every day?

The scripture plain tells me,
The righteous man offendeth
Seven times a day against thee,
Whereon thy wrath dependeth:
So that the righteous man
Doth walk in no such path,
But he falls now and then
In danger of thy wrath.

Then sith the case so stands,
That even the man right wise
Falls oft in sinful bands,
Whereby thy wrath may rise:
Lord, I that am unjust,
And righteousness none have:
Whereto then shall I trust
My sinful soul to save?

But truly to that post
Whereto I cleave and shall,
Which is thy mercy most,
Lord, let thy mercy fall:
And mitigate thy mood,
Or else we perish all:
The price of this thy blood,
Wherein mercy I call.

The scripture doth declare
No drop of blood in thee,
But that thou did'st not spare
To shed each drop for me:
Now let those drops most sweet
So moist my heart so dry,
That I with sin repleat
May live, and sin may dy.

That being mortified
This sin of mine in me,
I may be sanctified
By grace of thine in thee:
So that I never fall
Into such mortal sin,
That my foes infernal
Rejoyce my death therein.

But vouchsafe me to keep
From those infernal foes,
And from that lake so deep,
Whereas no mercy grows,
And I shall sing the songs Confirmed with the just,
That unto thee belongs,
Which art mine onely trust.

The ten commandments of God. Exod. xx. W. W.

ATtend my people and give ear,
Offerly things I will thee tell:
See that my words in mind thou bear,
And to my precepts listen well.

1 I am thy sovereign Lord and God,
Which have thee brought from careful thrall,
And eke, reclaim'd from Pharaohs rod:
Make thee no gods on them to call:

2 Nor fashioned form of any thing
In heaven or earth to worship it:
For I thy God by revenging
With grievous plagues this sin will smite.

3 Take not in vain His Holy Name, Abuse it not after thy will:
For so thou might'st soon purchase blame,
And in his wrath he would thee spill.

4 The Lord from work the seventh day
ceast,
And brought all things to perfect end:
So thou and thine that day take rest,
That to Gods hests ye may attend.

5 Unto thy parents honour give,
As Gods commandments do intend:
That thou long days and good may'st live
In earth, where God a place doth lend.

6 Beware of murder and cruel hate.
7 All filthy fornication fear.
8 See thou steal not in any rate.
9 False witness against to man bear.

10 Thy neighbours house wish not to have,
His wife, or ought that he calls mine:
His field, his ox, his ass, his slave,
Or any thing which is not thine.

A prayer.

The spirit of grace grant us, O Lord,
To keep these laws our hearts restore:
And cause us all which one accord
To magnify thy name therefore.

For of our selves no strength we have
To keep these laws after thy will:
Thy might therefore, O Christ, we crave,
That we in thee may them fulfil.

Lord, for thy names sake grant us this,
Thou art our strength, O Saviour Christ:
Of thee to speed how should we miss,
In whom our treasure doth consist?

To thee for evermore be praise,
With the Father in each respect,
And with the Holy Spirit alway's,
The comforter of thine elect.

The Lords Prayer. D. Cox.

OUr Father which in heaven art,
And mak'st us all one brotherhood,
To call upon thee with one heart,
Our heavenly Father and our God:
Grant we pray not with lips alone,
But with our hearts deep sigh and grone:

Thy blessed name be sanctifi'd,
Thy holy word might us inflame,
In holy life for to abide
To magnify thy holy name.
From all errors defend and keep
The litle flock of thy poor sheep.

Thy kingdom come even at this hour,
And henceforth everlastingly:
Thine Holy Ghost into us pour,
With all his gifts most plenteously.
From Satans rage and filthy band
Defend us with thy mighty hand.

Thy will be done with diligence,
Like as in heaven, in earth also:
In trouble grant us patience,
Thee to obey in wealth and wo.
Let not flesh, bloud or any ill
Prevail against thy holy will.

Give us this day our daily bread,
And all other good gifts of thine:
Keep us from war, and from bloud-shed,
Also from sickness, dearth, and pine:
That we may live in quietness,
Without all greedy carefulness.

Forgive us our offences all,
Relieve our careful conscience:
As we forgive both great and small
Which unto us have done offence.
Prepare us, Lord, for to serve thee
In perfect love and unity.

O Lord, into temptation
Lead us not, when the fiend doth rage:
To withstand his invasion
Give power and strength to every age.
Arm and make strong thy feeble host with faith and with the Holy Ghost.

O Lord, from evil deliver us,
The days and times are dangerous:
From everlasting death save us,
And in our last need comfort us.
A blessed end to us bequeath,
Into thy hands our souls receive.

For thou, O Lord, art King of kings,
And thou hast power over all:
Thy glory shineth in all things,
In the wide world universal.
Amen, let it be done, O Lord,
That we have prayed with one accord.

The twelve articles of the Christian faith.

ALl my belief and confidence is in the Lord of might;
The Father which all things hath made,
the day and eke the night:
The heavens and the firmament,
and also every star:
The earth and all that is therein,
which pass mans reason far.

And in like manner I believe in Christ our Lord his Son, Co-equal with the Deity,
and man in ever and bone.
Conceived by the Holy Ghost,
his word doth me assure:
And of his mother Mary born,
yet she a virgin pure.

Because man-kind to Satan was for sin in bond and thrall:
He came and offered up himself to death to save us all.
And suffering most grivous pain.
then Pilate being judge,
Was crucified on the cross,
and there at did not grudge.

And so he died in the flesh,
but quickened in the sp'rit:
His body then was buried,
as is our use and rite.
His soul did after this descend into the lower parts:
A dread unto the wicked sprites,
but joy to faithful hearts.

And in the third day of his death
he rose to life again,
To th'end he might be glorifi'd,
out of all grief and pain.
Ascending to the heavens high,
to sit in glory still
On Gods right-hand his Father dear,
according to his will;

Until the day of judgment come,
when he shall come again With angels power (yet of that day we all be uncertain)
To judge all people righteously, whom he hath dearly bought:
The living and the dead also
which he hath made of nought.

And in the Holy Spirit of God
my faith to satisfy,
The Third person in Trinity believe I stedfastly.
The holy and catholick Church that Gods word doth maintain,
And holy scipture doth allow,
which Satan doth disdain.

And also I do trust to have by Jesus Christ his death, Release and pardon of my sins,
and that onely by faith:
What time all flesh shall rise again
before the Lord of might;
And see him with their bodily eyes,
which now do give them light.

And then shall Christ our Saviour
the sheep and goats divide,
And give life everlastingly to those whom he hath tri'd:
Within his realm celestial in glory for to rest,
With all his holy company
of saints and angels blest:

Which serve the Lord omnipotent obediently each hour:
To whom be all dominion and praise for evermore.

A prayer to the Holy Ghost, to be sung before the sermon.

COme Holy Spirit the God of might comforter of us all:
Teach us to know thy word aright,
that we do never fall.
O Holy Ghost, visit our coast, defend us with thy shield:
Against all sin and wickedness,
Lord, help us win the field.

Lord, keep our state, and governours, and give them will and might
To persever in thy gospel, which can put sin to flight.
O Lord, that giv'st thy holy word,
send preachers plenteously:
That in the same we may accord,
and therein live and die.

O Holy Spirit, direct aright
the preachers of thy word,
That thou by them may'st cut down sin
as it were with a sword.
Depart not from thy pastors pure,
but aid them at their need:
Which break to us the bread of life,
whereon our souls do feed.

O blessed Spirit of truth keep us,
in peace and unity:
Keep us from sects and errours all,
and from all papistry.
Convert all those that are our foes,
and bring them to thy light:
That they and we may well agree,
and praise thee day and night.

O Lord, increase our faith in us,
and love so to abound:
That man and wife be void of strife,
and neighbours' bout us round.
In our time give thy peace, O Lord,
to nations far and nigh:
And teach them all thy holy word,
that we may sing to thee.

All glory to the Trinity that is of mighties most:
The living Father and the Son,
and eke the Holy Ghost.
As it hath been in all the time that hath been heretofore:
As it is now, and so shall be henceforth for evermore.

The Lamentation.

O Lord in thee is all my trust,
give ear unto my woful cry:
Refuse me not that am unjust:
but bowing down thy heavenly eye,

Behold

Behold how I do ſtill lament
my ſins wherein I do offend:
O Lord, for them ſhall I be ſhent, ſith thee to pleaſe I do intend?

No, no; not ſo, thy will is bent to deal with ſinners in thine ire:
But when in heart they ſhall repent,
thou grant'ſt with ſpeed their juſt deſire.
To thee therefore ſtill ſhall I cry to waſh away my ſinful crime:
Thy bloud, O Lord, is not yet dry,
but that it may help me in time.

Haſte thee, O Lord, haſte thee, I ſay, to pour on me thy gifts of grace:
That when this life ſhall flit away,
in heaven with thee I may have place:
Where thou do'ſt reign eternally with God which once did down thee ſend,
Where angels ſing continually;
to thee be praiſe world without end.

A Thanſgiving after the receiving of the Lord ſupper.

THe Lord be thanked for his gifts and mercies evermore,
That he doth ſhew unto his ſaints:
to him be laud therefore.
Our tongue cannot ſo praiſe the Lord,
as he of right deſerves:
Our hearts cannot of him ſo think as he us all preſerves.

His benefits they be ſo great to us that be but ſin:
That at our hands for recompence,
there is no hope to win.

O ſinful fleſh, that thou ſhould'ſt have ſuch mercies of the Lord!
Thou do'ſt deſerve more worthily of him to be abhor'd.

Nought elſe but ſin and wretchedneſs doth reſt within our hearts:
And ſtubbornly againſt the Lord
we daily play our parts.
The ſun above in firmament that is to us a light, Doth ſhew it ſelf more clear and pure
then we be in his ſight.

The heavens above and all therein more holy are then we:
They ſerve the Lord in their ſtate,
each one in his degree.
They do not ſtrive for maſterſhip,
nor ſlack their office ſet:
But ſerve the Lord and do his will;
hate is to them no let.

Alſo the earth and all therein of God it is in aw:
It doth obſerve the Formers will,
by skilful natures law.
The ſea and all that is therein
doth bend when God doth beck:
The ſpirits beneath do tremble all,
and fear his wrathful check.

But we, alaſs, for whom all theſe,
were made them for to rule,
Do not ſo know or love the Lord
as doth the ox or mule.
A law he gave for us to know what was his holy will:
He would us good, but we would not avoid the thing is ill.

Not one of us that ſeeketh out
the Lord of life to pleaſe:
Nor doth the thing that might us lead to Chriſt and quiet eaſe.
Thus are we all his enemies,
we can it not deny:
And he again of his good will would not that we ſhould die.

Therefore when remedy was none
to bring us unto life,
The Son of God our fleſh he took to end our mortal ſtrife.
And all the law of God the Lord
he did it full obey:
And for our ſins upon the croſs
his bloud our debts did pay.

And that we ſhould not yet forget what good he to us wrought,
A ſign he left our eyes to tell,
that he our bodies bought,
In bread and wine here viſible unto thine eyes and taſt,
His mercies great thou may'ſt record
if that his Spirit thou haſt.

As once the corn did live and grow,
and was cut down with ſithe,
And threſhed out with many ſtripes.
out from his huſk to drive:
And as the mill with violence
did tear it out ſo ſmall,
And made it like to earthly duſt,
not ſparing it all:

And as the oven with fire hot
did cloſe it up with heat:
And all this done that I have ſaid,
that it ſhould be our meat:
So was the Lord in his ripe age
cut down by cruel death;
His ſoul he gave in torments great,
and yeilded up his breath.

Becauſe that he to us might be an everlaſting bread;
With much reproach and troubles great on earth his life he led.
And as the grapes in pleaſant time
are preſſed very ſore,
And plucked down when they be ripe,
and let to grow no more:

Becauſe the juyce that in them is as comfortable drink
We might receive, and joyful be when ſorrows make us ſhrink:
So Chriſt his bloud out-preſſed was with nails and eke with ſpear:
The juyce thereof doth ſave all thoſe that rightly do him fear.

And as the corn's by unity into one loaf are knit:
So is the Lord and his whole church,
though he in heaven ſit.
As many grapes make but one wine,
ſo ſhould we be but one In faith and love in Chriſt above, and unto Chriſt alone.

Leading a life without all ſtrife
in quiet reſt and peace:
From envy and from malice both our hearts and tongues to ceaſe.
Which if we do, then ſhall we ſhew that we his choſen be:
By faith in him to lead a life
as always willed he.

And that we may ſo do indeed,
God ſend us all his grace:
Then after death we ſhall be ſure with him to have a place.

FINIS.

A Form of prayer to be uſed in private houſes every Morning & Evening.

Morning Prayer.

ALmighty God, and moſt merciful Father, we do not preſent our ſelves here before thy Majeſty, truſting in our own merits or worthineſs, but in thy manifold mercies, which haſt promiſed to hear our prayers, and grant our requeſts which we ſhall make to thee in the name of thy beloved Son Jeſus Chriſt our Lord: who alſo hath commanded us to aſſemble our ſelves together in his Name, with full aſſurance that he will not onely be amongſt us, but alſo be our Mediatour & Advocate toward thy Majeſty, that we may obtain all things, which ſhall ſeem expedient to thy bleſſed will, for our neceſſities. Therefore we beſeech thee, moſt merriful Father, to turn thy loving countenance towards us, and impute not unto us our manifold ſins and offences, whereby we juſtly deſerve thy wrath and ſharp puniſhment: but rather receive us to thy mercy, for Jeſus Chriſts ſake, accepting his death and paſſion as a juſt recompence for all our offences, in whom onely thou art pleaſed, and through whom thou canſt not be offended with us. And ſeeing that of thy great mercies we have quietly paſſed this night; grant, O heavenly Father, that we may beſtow this day wholly in thy ſervice, ſo that all our thoughts, words, and deeds may redound to the glory of thy Name, and good enſample to all men, who ſeeing our good works, may glorify thee our heavenly Father. And foraſmuch as of thy meer favour and love, thou haſt not onely created us to thine own ſimilitude and likeneſs, but alſo haſt choſen us to be heirs with thy dear Son Jeſus Chriſt of that immortal kingdom, which thou preparedſt for us before the beginning of the world: we beſeech thee to encreaſe our faith and knowledge, and to lighten our hearts with thy Holy Spirit, that we may in the mean time live in godly converſation and integrity of life, knowing that idolaters, adulterers, covetous men, contentious perſons, drunkards, gluttons, and ſuch like, ſhall not inherit the kingdom of God. And becauſe thou haſt commanded us to pray one for another, we do not onely make requeſt, O Lord, for our ſelves, and them that thou haſt already called to the true underſtanding of thine heavenly will; but for all people and nations of the world, who as they know by thy wonderful works, that thou art God over all, ſo they may be inſtructed by thine Holy Spirit, to believe in thee, their onely Saviour & Redeemer. But foraſmuch as they cannot believe, except they hear, nor cannot hear but by preaching, and none can preach except they be ſent; therefore, O Lord, raiſe up faithful diſtributers of thy myſteries, who ſetting apart all worldly reſpects, may both in their life and doctrine onely ſeek thy glory. Contrarily confound Satan, & Antichriſt, with all Hirelings, & Papiſts, whom thou haſt already caſt off into a reprobate ſenſe, that they may not by ſects, ſchiſms, hereſies and errours, diſquiet thy little flock. And becauſe, O Lord, we be fallen into the latter days and dangerous times, wherein ignorance hath gotten the upper hand, and Satan by his miniſters ſeeks by all means to quench the light of thy Goſpel; we beſeech thee to maintain thy cauſe againſt theſe ravening wolves, and ſtrengthen all thy ſervants, whom they keep in priſon and bondage. Let not thy long-ſuffering be an occaſion, either to increaſe their tyranny, or to diſcourage thy children: neither yet let our ſins and wickedneſs be an hindrance to thy mercies; but with ſpeed, O Lord, conſider their great miſeries. For thy people Iſrael many times by their ſins provoked thine anger, and thou puniſhedſt them by thy juſt judgments; yet though their ſins were never ſo grievous, if they once returned from their iniquity, thou receivedſt them to mercy. We therefore moſt wretched ſinners bewail our manifold ſins, and earneſtly repent us for our former wickedneſs, and ungodly behaviour towards thee: and whereas we cannot of our ſelves purchaſe thy pardon, yet we humbly beſeech thee, for Jeſus Chriſts ſake, to ſhew thy mercies upon us, and receive us again to thy favour. Grant us, dear Father, theſe our requeſts, and all other things neceſſary for us, and thy whole Church, according to thy promiſe in Jeſus Chriſt our Lord. In whoſe name we beſeech thee, as he hath taught us, ſaying,

Our Father which art in heaven, &c.

Evening Prayer.

O Lord God, Father everlaſting and full of pity, we acknowledge and confeſs that we be not worthy to lift up our eyes to heaven, much leſs to preſent our ſelves before thy Majeſty, with confidence that thou wilt hear our prayers, and grant our requeſts, if we conſider our own deſervings. For our conſciences do accuſe us, and our ſins do witneſs againſt us, and we know that thou art an upright Judge, which doſt not juſtify the ſinners and wicked men, but puniſheſt the faults of all ſuch as tranſgreſs thy commandments. Yet moſt merciful Father, ſince it hath pleaſed thee to command us to call on thee in all our troubles and adverſities, promiſing even then to help us, when we feel our ſelves, as it were, ſwallowed up of death and deſperation, we utterly renounce all worldly confidence, and fly to thy ſovereign bounty as our onely ſtay and refuge: beſeeching thee not to call to remembrance our manifold ſins and wickedneſs, whereby we continually provoke thy wrath and indignation againſt us: neither our negligence and unkindneſs, which have neither worthily eſteemed, nor in our lives ſufficiently expreſſed the ſweet comfort of thy Goſpel reveiled unto us; but rather to accept the obedience and death of thy Son Jeſus Chriſt, who by offering up his body in ſacrifice once for all, hath made a ſufficient recompence for all our ſins. Have mercy therefore upon us, O Lord, and forgive us our offences. Teach us by thine Holy Spirit, that we may rightly weigh them, and earneſtly repent for the ſame. And ſo much the rather, O Lord, becauſe that the reprobate, and ſuch as thou haſt forſaken, cannot praiſe thee, nor call upon thy Name, but the repenting heart, the ſorrowful mind, the conſcience oppreſſed hungring and thirſting for thy grace, ſhall ever ſet forth thy praiſe and glory.

And albeit we be but worms and duſt, yet thou art our Creator, and we be the work of thine hands: yea, thou art our Father, and we thy children: Thou art our Shepherd, and we thy flock: Thou art our Redeemer, and we thy people whom thou haſt bought: Thou art our God, and we thine inheritance. Correct us not therefore in thine anger, O Lord, neither according to our deſerts puniſh us, but mercifully chaſtiſe us with a fatherly affection, that all the world may know, That at what time ſoever a ſinner doth repent him of his ſins, from the bottom of his heart, thou wilt put away his wickedneſs out of thy remembrance, as thou haſt promiſed by thine holy Prophets. Finally for as much as it hath pleas'd thee to make the night for man to reſt in, as thou haſt ordained him the day to travel in; grant, dear Father, that we may ſo take our bodily reſt, that our ſouls may continually watch for the time that our Lord Jeſus Chriſt ſhall appear for our deliverance out of this mortal life: & in the mean ſeaſon, that we being not overcome by any fantaſies, dreams, or other temptations, may fully ſet our minds upon thee, love thee, fear thee, and reſt in thee. Furthermore, that our ſleep be not exceſſive, or overmuch, after the unſatiable deſires of our fleſh, but onely ſufficient to content our weak nature, that we may be the better diſpoſed to live in all godly converſation, to the glory of thy Holy Name, and profit of our brethren. So be it.

A godly prayer to be ſaid at all times.

HOnour and praiſe be given to thee, O Lord God Almighty, moſt dear Father of heaven, for all thy mercies and loving kindneſſes ſhewed unto us, in that it hath pleaſed thy gracious goodneſs, freely and of thine own accord to elect and chuſe us to ſalvation before the beginning of the world. And even like continual thanks be given to thee, for creating us after thine own image, for redeeming us with the precious bloud of thy dear Son, when we were utterly loſt; for ſanctifying us with thy Holy Spirit, in the revelation and knowledge of thy word; for helping and ſuccouring us in all our needs and neceſſities, for ſaving us from all dangers of body and ſoul, for comforting us ſo fatherly in all our tribulations and perſecutions, for ſparing us ſo long, and giving us ſo large a time of repentance.

Theſe benefits, O moſt merciful Father, like as we acknowledge to have received them of thine onely goodneſs, even ſo we beſeech thee for thy dear Son Jeſus Chriſts ſake to grant us always thy H. Spirit, whereby we may continually grow in thankfulneſs towards thee, to be led into all truth, and comforted in all adverſities. O Lord ſtrengthen our faith, kindle it more in ſerventneſs and love towards thee, and our neighbours for thy ſake. Suffer us not, moſt dear Father, to receive thy words any more in vain: but grant us always the aſſiſtance of thy grace and Holy Spirit, that in heart, word and deed, we may ſanctify and do worſhip to thy Name; help to amplify & increaſe thy kingdom, & whatſoever thou ſendeſt, we may be heartily well content with thy good pleaſure and will. Let us not lack the thing, O Father, without the which we cannot ſerve thee: but bleſs thou ſo all the works of our hands, that we may have ſufficient, and not be chargeable, but rather helpful unto others. Be merciful, O Lord, to our offences: and ſeeing our debt is great, which thou haſt forgiven us in Jeſus Chriſt, make us to love thee and our neighbours ſo much the more. Be thou our Father, Captain, and Defender in all temptations: hold thou us by thy merciful hand, that we may be delivered from all inconveniences, and end our lives in the ſanctifying and honouring of thine Holy Name, through Jeſus Chriſt our Lord and onely Saviour.

Let thy mighty hand and out-ſtretched arm, O Lord, be ſtill our defence, thy mercy and loving kindneſs in Jeſus Chriſt thy dear Son our ſalvation, thy true and holy word our inſtruction, thy grace and Holy Spirit our comfort and conſolation, unto the end and in the end. So be it.

Lord increaſe our faith.

A confeſſion for all eſtates and times.

OEternal God and moſt merciful Father, we confeſs and acknowledge here before thy divine Majeſty, that we are miſerable ſinners, conceived and born in ſin and iniquity, ſo that in us there is no goodneſs: for the fleſh evermore rebelleth againſt the ſpirit, whereby we continually tranſgreſs thy holy precepts and commandments, and ſo purchaſe to our ſelves through thy juſt judgment, death and damnation. Notwithſtanding, O heavenly Father, for as much as we are diſpleaſed with our ſelves, for the ſins that we have committed againſt thee, & do unfeignedly repent us of the ſame, we moſt humbly beſeech thee for Jeſus Chriſts ſake, to ſhew thy mercy upon us, to forgive us all our ſins, and increaſe thy Holy Spirit in us, that we acknowledging from the bottom of our hearts our own unrighteouſneſs, may from henceforth not onely mortify our ſinful luſts and affections, but alſo bring forth ſuch fruits as may be agreable to thy moſt bleſſed will; not for the worthineſs thereof, but for the merits of thy dearly beloved Son Jeſus Chriſt our onely Saviour, whom thou haſt already given an oblation and offering for our ſins, and for whoſe ſake we are certainly perſwaded that thou wilt deny us nothing that we ſhall ask in his Name, according to thy will. For thy Spirit doth aſſure our conſciences that thou art our merciful Father, and ſo loveſt us thy children through him, that nothing is able to remove thy heavenly grace & favour from us. To thee therefore, O Father, with thy Son, and the Holy Ghoſt, be all honour and glory world without end. Amen.

A prayer to be ſaid before a man begin his work.

O Lord God, moſt merciful Father and Saviour, ſeeing it hath pleaſed thee to command us to travel, that we may relieve our need, we beſeech thee of thy grace to bleſs our labour, that thy bleſſing may extend unto us, without the which we are not able to continue; & that this great favour may be a witneſs unto us of thy bountifulneſs and aſſiſtance, ſo that thereby we may know the fatherly care that thou haſt over us.

Moreover, O Lord, we beſeech thee that thou wouldſt ſtrengthen us with thy Holy Spirit, that we may faithfully travel in our ſtate and vocation, without fraud or deceit, and that we may endeavour our ſelves to follow thine holy ordinance, rather then to ſeek to ſatisfy our greedy affections, or deſire to gain. And if it pleaſe thee, O Lord, to proſper our labour, give us a mind alſo to help them that need, according to that ability that thou of thy mercy ſhalt give us: and knowing that all good things come of thee, grant that we may humble our ſelves to our neighbours, and not by any means lift our ſelves above them which have not received ſo large a portion of thy mercies as thou haſt given us. Et if it pleaſe thee, O Lord, to try & excerciſe us by greater poverty & neceſſity, then our fleſh would deſire, that thou wouldeſt yet, O Lord, grant us grace to know that thou wilt nouriſh us continually through thy bountiful liberality, that we be not ſo tempted that we fall into diſtruſt, but that we may patiently wait till thou fill us not onely with corporal graces and benefits, but chiefly with thine heavenly and ſpiritual treaſures; to the intent that we may always have more ample occaſion to give thee thanks, and wholly to reſt upon thy mercies. Hear us, O Lord of mercy, through Jeſus Chriſt thy Son our Lord. Amen.
